PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs Rich Waldon and Thos. Barrasford; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harry M'Kelsie.—Houdini, the handcuff king, is again mystifying the Glasgow public with his marvellous facility at escaping from all sorts of handcuffs, manacles, and leg-irons. The Arleys give a cleverly worked trick cyclist turn, with a lot of novel features. Maud Caswell's barrel jumping evokes hearty applause. Burton Joyce is a clever vocalist, and Lily Flexmore a dainty dancer, her contortionist feats being marvellous. The Vaudeville Trio of singers and musicians, Keen and Waller in an eccentric acrobatic act, Charles R. Whittle and Frank Hutchings as comedians, and the animated pictures all prove enjoyable items.

BRITANNIA.—Lessee, Mr James Anderson; Manager, Mr Geo. Saphrini; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harry Hemfrey.—A grand complimentary benefit was given the popular lessee, Mr James Anderson, on Monday, when the following well-known artistes gave their services:—Sheila Barrett, vocalist; Alice Golding, ballad vocalist; Bonnetti and Corrie, comedy jugglers; Brindall and Coller, comedians; Arthur Bright, vocalist; G. W. Fyvie, Irish comedian; Rob Sloan, Scotch comedian; Johnnie Boyle and Jack Dysart, boxers; Dora Lindsay, vocalist; J. H. Harris, Scotch comedian; Minnie Osborne, vocalist and dancer; Valadones, hand-balancers; Maggie Campbell, ballad vocalist; Warner and Wilson, comedians; Ryder Dane, comedian; Jack Elliott, comedian; M'Farlane, dancing marvel; Norman Bros., acrobats; Sims, Daly, and Sims, boxers and Indian club performers; and the Britannia Bioscope, with new and up-to-date pictures.

HARMONIC CONCERTS.—Musical Secretary, Mr Wm. Biggam.—W. F. Frame, "the man you know," is the big draw here, and that clever couple, Allis and Cassati, also prove popular. Ted Curtis and his pleasantries; the Bransbys, comedy artists; Frank Rogerson and Ella Millar, vocalists; the Gilbeys, instrumentalists; Tom Berrick; Mitzi, the juggler; and Will Hunter, ventriloquist, also provide attractive turns.

GOOLE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John E. Tomlinson.—Mr Stanley S. Gordon's company, in the drama For the Woman He Loves, is here this week. The play abounds in striking scenes. Miss Mary Vernon is pathetically played by Miss Nina Vaughton, and the part of Silas Bradley, the villain, is equally ably filled by Mr Wilfred Prothero. Mr Stanley S. Gordon is a distinct success as Philip Meredith. Mr Dacre Baldie and Mr Walter Manfree are also good as Charles Dean and Hannibal Muggleton. Mr Harry C. Momber is highly amusing as James Stilton, and is ably seconded by Miss Ida Bell as Tilda. Virginie, an adventuress, has a capable exponent in Miss Eva Lyndhurst. Miss M. De La Hay is a clever Evie, and Miss Sallie Adelstones does well as Bessie Bramble. The Slave Girl is billed for the latter part of the week.

GLOUCESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Owners, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr W. H. Weller.—Mr John Restall's pantomime Cinderella is here for a fortnight. Miss Ada Lindley is an accomplished Cinderella, her singing and dancing finding favour; and Miss Annie Craig makes an attractive and dashing Prince Charming. Dandini is smartly rendered by Miss Mona Macdonald; and Mr Charles Clark is lively as the Page, Billy Buttons. The ugly sisters are in the hands of two capital comedians, Mr Clem Myers and Mr Dan Idle. Mr Harry Rose as the Baron proves very droll; and Messrs Stern and Stern as Sloshem and Biffem cause a great deal of fun. Miss Muriel Lochner is noticeable as Phyllis; and Miss Madeline Stone-Humphries looks well as the Fairy Queen Sunshine. The specialities are Master Rochester, a wonderfully clever juvenile pianist; Messrs Stern and Stern, in a statuesque act; the Sinclair troupe of dancers; and an electric ballet arranged by Miss Madge Stanley.

GREAT YARMOUTH.

ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. W. Nightingale.—Mr Edward Marris's company is here this week with the sensational drama As Midnight Chimes. The piece is well staged and capitally played. Mr Melville Bickford enacts with success the leading rôle of Luke Dezzard; Dave Stannard is depicted in manly earnest style by Mr Frank E. Petley; Miss Gertrude Price gives a sympathetic rendition of the rôle of Mary Stannard; and Mr James Salter as Tat Spavvin and Miss Nita Imeson as Suzette supply the comedy. Other parts are well filled.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr Geo. Gilbert.—For the concluding week of the season Mr Gilbert has supplied a capital programme. Henderson and Williams do wonderful tricks as comic cyclists; the Eltenos supply a clever triple bar act; Tata and Tata contribute a novel comedy acrobatic turn; Togo juggles expertly; the riding goat, Peter the Great, shows what training can accomplish; the Bellonys astonish with their feats as sensational bicycle equilibrists; Miss Russell sings charmingly; Dick Turpin's Ride to York, with Mr Tom Cullen in the leading rôle, gains plenty of applause; and Little Bishop and the favourite Rabbit keep the house in roars of laughter with their comicalities.

GREENOCK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, the Executors of the late Mr Alex. Wright; Managers, Messrs A. B. Wright and J. J. Wright.—This week The New Barmaid is being played here under the direction of Mr Alexander Loftus. Mr Joseph B. Montague is a genuine and versatile humourist, and enacts Bertie White in an irresistibly comic way. Mr Alexander Loftus is particularly good as William White, and his songs are well rendered and loudly applauded. Mr Frank Melroyd is amusing as Mons. Bonsor, and is an expert dancer; Mr Leslie Austin makes a capital Captain Lovebury, and the numbers allotted to him are tastefully rendered; Mr Arthur Rodney ably fills the rôle of Colonel Claymore, and Mr Norman Bowyer does well as Braddy. Miss Violet Osmond is charming in the part of Dora Heather, singing and dancing nicely; Miss Nance O'Neil is an attractive Ethel Joy, and vocalises sweetly; and Miss Jean Gilmour makes the most of her opportunities as Lady Moulton. The efficient chorus and orchestra are under the direction of Mr Otto Cantor, and the play is very well mounted.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. L. Skivington.—The company at this popular house includes Preston and Balmaine, with illustrated songs and duets, who do an excellent "turn"; La Belle Tosca performs gracefully on the silver wire; Fred Collins is a clever character comedian; W. E. Hilton is an expert and amusing ventriloquist; Yanda supplies some smart juggling on the rolling globe; Grey and Walford are amusing comedians and dancers; Eleonora, lady gymnast, is charming; and Haig and Novel do a good turn.

GRIMSBY.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr S. Tolfree.—The drama The Mockery of Marriage has been played here this week. Miss Olga Audre deserves praise for some excellent acting as Alva Kenyon, wife of Dick Kenyon, a swindling gold-digger, which character is vividly portrayed by Mr Arthur Winperny. Dick's companion in villainy, Seth Pearce, is ably impersonated by Mr James Dalton. Mr Chas. Boult successfully plays the highly contrasting character of Jack Stanley, whilst Miss F. Zillwood makes an excellent Rose Vernham. The comedy parts are well looked after by Mr Will Skelton as Toby Wright and Mrs Sidney Halling as Mary Ann Barnicoate.

NEW PALACE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Steuart Cecil.—For the first time since the house was opened a break in the run of variety programmes has been made at the Palace this week, when Mr Macnaghten staged a pantomime. The two houses nightly system was, however, adhered to. Aladdin was the subject dealt with, and a most amusing burlesque of the well-known story from "The Arabian Nights' Entertainments" was given. Miss Meg Hamilton as Aladdin made an attractive principal boy, infusing plenty of dash into her work, whilst as Princess Badroulbadour Miss Polly sang, acted, and danced with equal charm. A wealth of comedy was introduced, the knockabout work of Messrs Bishop and Vale as Ping and Pong being particularly laughable. Much fun was also caused by Mr Fred Lawrence as the dame, Widow Twankey, and Mr T. W. Vaughan as the magician, Abanazar. Others worthy of mention were Mr Gilbert Rogers, who represented the Emperor, and Mr Jack Heath, the impersonator of Gin Sling, the Grand Vizier. A number of well-trained children added to the effectiveness of the pantomime, and a pretty spectacle was provided in "A-Ba-Bee's Picture Post-card Album."

HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwardes; General Manager, Mr H. F. Millar; Assistant-Manager, Mr H. H. Watson. — A representation of life in its primitive state has been given here by the Abadaroff Troupe, who describe themselves as prehistoric mountebanks. Dressed in appropriate costume, they combine a lot of laughter-provoking business with smart acrobatic work. Jean Seul has considerably mystified the audiences with his wonderful illusions. He materialises a large variety of articles, seemingly out of nothing. Texas Hattie has accomplished a remarkable performance on the tight rope, turning somersaults on her slender perch. Salmon has greatly pleased those who have witnessed his clever cycling feats. Others contributing to the programme have been Will Bacchus, actor-vocalist; Carr and Rose, vocalists; Eismanr, juggler; and Charles Rose, comedian and clog dancer.

HARTLEPOOL.

EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Messrs Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr Harry Burns.—Miss Nellie Wallace heads the bill here this week, and wins hearty encores. Grant and Allen are old favourites whose popularity is marked; Mephisto, contortionist, has a good reception; the drolleries of Billy Richardson evoke unbounded laughter and applause; the Three Henriques, with a clever acrobatic performance, are well received; Florry Cooper, juvenile artist, sings some good songs in pleasing style; Fanny Robina gains an enthusiastic encore; and Burns's amusing pictures complete the entertainment.

HULL.

EMPIRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Jno. Sylvester Sage.—The Empire Sketch Company, in My Lord of Avondale, do a successful turn here. Bessie Travis is a smart girl ventriloquist; the illustrated songs of Donald Grant meet with much favour; Gaertner and Weston, musical comedians; Fred J. Hudson, Long Amos, and the Bioscope complete the list of attractions.

HALIFAX.

GRAND THEATRE. — Managing Director, Mr William Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—Messrs Dottridge and Longden's pantomime of Aladdin is proving popular here. It is in all respects an admirable production, and the untiring efforts of the principals make it go with a celerity and a swing which is fully appreciated. Mr Fred Cary, a smart, unconventional, and active comedian, does justice to the part of Abanazar; Mr Fred Graham gives a clever and humorous exposition of the old dame; Mr John Donald sings well; Keith and Merson do some laughable work; and the Bros. Brooks are a comical pair and cause much hilarity. Aladdin has a bright and active exponent in Miss Mimi Fisher, who gets through a lot of work with much credit to herself; Miss Harriet Fawn is admirable as the Princess; Miss Cassie Walmer enjoys deserved popularity for her singing and clever dancing; and praise is well earned by Misses Phyllis Grey, Lilian Maude, Lena Vere, Connie Barlow, and Lilly Griffiths. The scenery is good, the pantomime is well dressed, and suitable specialities are introduced.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—The great attraction here is the Magic Kettle, with some wonderful experiments with liquid air. The company includes the Gothams in a musical absurdity; Harry Cotton, comedian; the Wynford Brothers, barrel jumpers; Orpheus, in a musical speciality act; the Wartenburg Brothers, foot equilibrists; Zarmo, comic juggler; and the Loma Trio, gymnasts.

HARROGATE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Smith.—Another week of pantomime commenced here on Monday, Mr John Walter's company presenting Robinson Crusoe. The pantomime furnishes a good all-round entertainment. Miss Rose Harvey is very graceful as the principal boy; Miss Fanny Adamson, Miss Bertha Cousins, and Miss Kittie Major are responsible for good work; the Bros. Cho provide plenty of amusement; and Mr Shaun Glenville as Widow Crusoe is very successful. The eccentricities of Mr Fred Alberts and the Dusky Princess, Miss Nancy Renshaw, are in great demand. The remaining members of the cast ably sustain their parts.

HASTINGS.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Geo. H. Gazo.—A return visit is being paid this week by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's principal company with the pleasing comedy Cousin Kate. Miss Edith Walker is bright, cheery, and natural as Kate Curtis; in Miss Nina Cressy's portrayal of Mrs Spencer there is a captivating homeliness that delights her audience; the impulsively impressionable Amy Spencer is ably suggested by Miss Hilda Honis; and contagious hilarity is caused by the manner Miss Bessie Castle plays as the giggling family help, Jane. Mr Donald Maclean as the Rev. James Bartlett is ideally smug and unctuous; Bobby is finely played by Master Vyvian Thomas; and Mr Walter Ringham ably adapts himself to the rôle of Heath Desmond. A Case for Eviction precedes the principal piece.

PIER PAVILION.—Pier-Master, Mr R. Turner; Entertainment Manager, Mr J. D. Hunter.—Mr Arthur St. John and a strong company are appearing here in Black-eyed Susan. Mr Arthur St. John as William is a fine type the British seaman; his love passages with Susan are particularly natural and effective. Miss Patsy Trounsell as Susan acts in a very pleasing manner. The part of Captain Crosstree is well sustained by Mr E. Furgusson Miss Ida St. John makes a very attractive midshipman; Dolly Mayflower is prettily personified by Miss Lilian Burns; Mr Walters is appropriately keen and resolute as the Admiral and President of Court-martial; Mr J. Ferne gives a realistic portrait of a lieutenant; and an able impersonation of Gnatbrain is contributed by Mr Aveline Grant.

ST. LEONARDS KURSAAL.—Pier Master, Mr Elvey Thomas; Entertainment Manager, Mr Drew Mackintosh.—The Kursaal Orchestra, under the able directorship of Mr Val Marriott, is augmented on one occasion, at the latter part of the week, by some artists of high repute. The programme comprises the names of Miss Alys Bateman (soprano), Miss Gertrude Lonsdale (contralto), Mr Gregory Hast (tenor), and Mr Watkin Mills (baritone). The pianists are Mons. Eduard Partovitz and Mr Ardny Rosenthal, Miss Nadia Sylva being solo violinist.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Harold Penny.—A great favourite here is that versatile comedian Mr Fred Henderson. The Sisters Mayo introduce some pleasing Irish songs. Mr Frank Purcell's comedy company is highly amusing in a farcical sketch. An attractive vocalist is found in Miss Marie Pownall. A marvellous imitator of sounds is Mons. Leo Tell. The Ashers (Agnes and Mike) win great applause by their novel act, and the effusions of Mr Henry Crook, comedian, are much enjoyed. The Eugene Family give a pleasing and refined aerial performance.

HORWICH.

NEW PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Sandiford.—Messrs Collins and Stevenson's Sinbad the Sailor company is the attraction here. The scenery and dresses are very handsome, and the company is a good all-round one. Miss Gertie Rowan in the title-part is full of dash, her singing and dancing being thoroughly up to the mark. Miss Annie G. Brevitt as Haidie is very effective; Miss Florence Goldstone's Princess Zara is capital; Miss Emmie Westcroft makes an ideal Fairy Queen; Mr Geo. Casey revels in the rôle of Mrs Sinbad; Mr Billy Moore as Captain Scuttleum is funny, and his lightning gun and mace show is very clever; Mr Fred Lake as Tinbad scores with his topical verses; Percy Victor's dog minstrels give a marvellous show; the Zara Girls' dancing is excellent; Wee Johnnie and Edna contribute some smart cake-walking, their efforts winning tumultuous applause; Dan Harley's acrobatic clog dancing is highly appreciated. The whole production, under the stage management of Mr Harry Collins, goes with a swing. Mr J. H. Stevenson and Mrs Redmond look well after the business portion of the arrangements.

HOYLAND.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Owner, Mr Arthur Carlton; Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Geo. S. King.—Messrs Armadale and Warren's company is here in The Face at the Window. Mr T. W. Dunscombe in the rôle of Paul Gouffet gains a large share of the applause; Mr A. Knight exhibits ability in the character of Le Loup; Lucien Cortier has a capable exponent in Mr A. Warne; Mr George Pythian ably portrays De Brisson; and as the English tourist Mr C. A. Hineson keeps the house in roars of laughter. Mr G. Hall gives a good representation of the Mad Doctor. The part of Mary De Brisson is entrusted to Miss Mary Barrett, who is successful. Miss Jennie Dempster as La Pinau and Miss Gwynne Warren as Babette are both well suited.

HUDDERSFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy G. Arthur.—In Winnie Brooke, Widow, Miss Ada Reeve has an excellent medium for the presentation of her special gifts. Dowered with a beautiful voice, trained to the highest perfection in method, every line and every note of song and speech receives from Miss Reeve full appreciation. The company engaged in support is thoroughly capable. The fine experience of Mr Charles Weir is used to the full in his cleverly played part of Dudley Mayne. Mr Edgar Stevens uses his fine voice with great skill and satisfactory effect as Reginald Frampton. Mr Leon Ashton-Jarry depicts with subtle irony the lovelorn sham woman-hater Croft. Mr Frederick Tyrrell and Miss Alice Lawrence are amusing as the Rev. and Mrs Elihu Garside. Miss Cecile Beresford as Gracie Frampton and Miss Ruth Hazlewood as Nora Caswell make the most of their few opportunities. Mr Harry Halley is breezy as Brent, solicitor. Three clever character sketches are contributed by Miss Drusilla Wills as Honoria Brown, Mr Alick Burke as Toby Blossom, and Mr Donald Price Evans as Hercules Grant, the amorous odd boy at Mayne's. There is an efficient chorus and an augmented orchestra, under the direction of the composer of the music, Mr J. A. Robertson.

HYDE.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Joseph W. Maloney.—Mr Charles Harrington's company, in Uncle Tom's Cabin, is here this week. The rôle of Uncle Tom is impressively enacted by Mr J. Carr; Mr Charles Harrington makes a capital Phineas Fletcher; Mr Alfred Richards is well cast as Mr St. Clair; Mr Guy P. Ellis is a forcible and convincing exponent of George Harris; Mr John Henry Rogers makes Legree a sufficiently repulsive character; and Mr Fred Charles extracts a considerable amount of humour out of the part of Marks. Eliza Harris is intelligently embodied by Miss Hettie Johnson; Miss Sylvia Stella is successful as Topsy, acting, dancing, and singing in a highly pleasing manner; Aunt Ophelia is well impersonated by Miss Ida Fane; and Little Minnie displays histrionic ability as Little Eva. Others deserving of praise are Miss Hero Hathaway as Mrs St. Clair, Mrs Carr as Aunt Chloe, and Miss Zerlina Zerbini (Mrs Harrington) as Cassy.

ILKESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr L. F. A. Rogers.—A Wrecker of Men is here. Mr Percy Horton as Guise Strange acts effectively, and Miss Victoria May wins good opinions as Doris Melville. Mr Mill is seen to advantage as Jim Murley. Mr George Harvey as Railton and Mr Chas. Yorke as Pharosaphus acquit themselves well. Miss Rosalind Tate depicts Risca Mallison with success. The remaining rôles are in capable hands.

IPSWICH.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. G. Fisk.—A Soldier and a Man has been played here by a company under the direction of Mr A. Clifton Alderson, who, as Harry Sinclair, has received able support from Mr P. Beckett as the villain. Other characters were in the competent hands of Messrs K. Ayliff, A. Norma, Harry F. Wright, Miss Hilda Leslie, and Miss B. Doyle.

IPSWICH HIPPODROME.—The new turns here include a historical sketch by Ronald Rayne and Evelyn Hope, entitled An Emperor's Divorce; M'Cann's dogs, a clever troupe of Irish terriers; the Blue Coat Boys, a quartet of clever vocalists; Newham and Latimer, comedians; Gracie Logan, a graceful dancer; and others.

JERSEY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. Robert Perkins.—Mr Frederick Mouillot's pantomime The Sleeping Beauty opened here on Tuesday night, and is the prettiest pantomime which has been seen in Jersey. The opening performance was given in the presence of H.E. Major Ernest Hugh Gough, Lieutenant-Governor, and Mrs Gough. Miss May Davis is a captivating Beauty; Miss Florence Vie sings well as Prince Charming; Mr Charles Penrose is an amusing Peter Piper; and Mr Alf Sandoe causes much fun as Selina Quizbereena. The pantomime, which was produced at Southampton on Boxing night, is a credit to Mr Mouillot, and goes with vim from start to finish.

KETTERING.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Payne.—Mr A. E. Smith's pantomime of Aladdin is the attraction here. Miss Rita Resdan in the title-part quickly makes herself a prime favourite, and Miss Elsie Douglas is a charming Princess, her dancing being keenly appreciated. Miss Fanny Douglas sings admirably as Peko, and Miss Maud Bettisor, the Genie of the Lamp, is a pleasing vocalist. Mr Teddy Lennon plays the Vizier in good style, introducing some clever dancing, and Mr Fred Arnold as the Emperor gives a smart exhibition of legerdemain. The Brothers Taylor work hard and successfully as Chinese Policemen and the Four Snowdrops contribute some capital dances. Mr Fred Ramsdale as the Widow Twankey supplies a humorous and refined performance, and Mr J. H. Maxwell as Abanazar sends the audience into roars of laughter.

KIDDERMINSTER.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr R. C. Gudgeon, jun.—Mr Chas. Macdona's company is here this week with A Chinese Honeymoon. Mr Steane Louch does remarkably well as Hong Chow; Mr Louis Ashmeade is a good Chippie Chop; Mr Maxwell Stewart is very funny as Hi Lung; Mr Sidney Burt as Mr Pineapple causes plenty of fun; Mrs Pineapple is vivaciously played by Miss Alicia Norton; Mrs Brown is well embodied by Miss Dulcie Garland; Miss Florence Haliom is a charming Soo-Soo; and Miss Ethie Cinders as Fi-Fi is a comedienne of much ability.

KILMARNOCK.

KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr A. Hales.—On Monday, for three nights, Mr Leigh Lovel's company, in The Duke of Killicrankie, played to good houses here. In the title rôle Mr Herbert J. Bentley was seen to advantage; Mr Lovel was a great success as Mr Pitt Welby, M.P.; Miss Naomi Neilson was very good as Mrs Mulholland; and Miss Octavia Kenmore's Lady Henrietta Addison was pleasing. The curtain-raiser was Jerry and a Sunbeam. On Thursday Mr C. P. Levilly's company, in the new comic opera Amorelle, has been playing to good houses.

KING'S LYNN.

NEW ROYAL THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Bannister Howard; Business Manager, Mr Herbert Leonard.—Mr Norman V. Norman and company have been appearing here. On Monday Under the Red Robe was presented. Mr Norman V. Norman gives a powerful and finished performance of Gil De Berault; Mr Robert Hilton supplies a good rendering Cardinal Richelieu; Mr Norman Leslie as Lieut. Manet is excellent; Captain Laroile is amusingly played by Mr Percy H. Vernon; Mr L. Cory Thomas contributes a clever character sketch as Clon; Miss M. Frame as Madame De Cocheforêt is commendable; and Miss Beatrice Wilson is a meritorious Renée De Cocheforêt. Great praise is due to the excellent dresses and staging of the piece.

LEAMINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL — Lessees, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr Henry Eaden.—Three Little Maids is here this week and Mr Charles Macdona's company is one of all-round excellence. Misses Mabel Lavelle, Nelly Grover, and Vera Vallis all sang and acted in an artistic manner. Mr Arthur Longley is a very funny Lord Cheyne, and Mr Gus Oxley fills the rôle of Cupid capitally.

LEIGH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE —Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Dewhurst —Messrs Fred J. Little and Fred Darcy's pantomime company, Robinson Crusoe, is here this week. Miss Vere Mayne makes a dashing hero; Miss Nellie Moore is a capital exponent of Polly Hopkins; Miss Rosie Volberque a refined and pleasing Princess Flumeza; Miss Daisy Volberque a satisfactory Captain Billy Taylor; and Mr Will Fredo an amusing Mrs Sarah Crusoe, his dancing being admired. Messrs Bass and Guinness as Billy and Johnny Crusoe keep the house in roars of laughter; Mr T. Johnson makes a capital King

LANCASTER.

ATHENÆUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Hy. Wilkinson.—Driven from Home, after an absence of several years, is again being presented by Messrs J. K. Murray and J. M. Dawson's capable company. Miss Ella Sennett is interesting and pathetic as the unfortunate Laura Raybrook, and wins unstinted applause Mr Jack Dawson plays well the part of Walter Hatherleigh; Mr Cyril Harrison is successful as Geoffrey Waring, and the same may be said of Mr Fred Hadskis as Anthony Raybrook. There is a vein of humour in the piece which is successfully supplied by Mr Wilson as Peter Pettifer, and the other characters are well embodied by Miss Hilda M'Collougb, Miss Gladys Murray, Miss Emilie Dawson, Mr A. J. Williams, and Mr Clifford Spencer, who sings well.

PALACE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs W. J. Fergusson and John Porter.—The bill here includes Kalan and Kalan, in a comedy acrobatic act; Miss Jenny Love, contralto; Marbach, card manipulator; Curtis Leo, in "Fun in a Drawing room;" Geo. W. Foster, comedian; Will Dalton, comedian; and Jack and Evelyn, in their "Act of the Period," which is very clever.

LEEDS.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Richardson.—Mr Hart's pantomime, The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe, has increased in attractiveness, and crowded and delighted audiences nightly applaud the clever work of a brilliant company of principals and admire the picturesque gorgeous spectacular show provided.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr R. Ernest Liston.—There has been another busy week here, for Cinderella is being played to huge business at every performance. The show goes with a remarkable swing, and is full of fun from start to finish, thanks to the spirited efforts of the numerous principals.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Dottridge and Longden; General Manager, Mr C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Bush.—Considerable crowds are again the rule here, the attraction being the ever-green farce Charley's Aunt, capitally played by Mr Brandon Thomas's company. Mr Geo. Desmond in the name part gives a thoroughly satisfactory rendition; Spettigue is well done by Mr Guy Lane; Mr A. Molyneux makes an effective Colonel Chesney; Mr Allan Pollock and Mr J. W. Daverell make the most of their respective opportunities as Jack Chesney and Charlie Wykeham; Miss L. Subley gives a correct portrayal of Donna Lucia; a charming Amy Spettigue goes to the credit of Miss Lydia Wantage; and Miss L. Northern and Miss Agnes Gun are seen to advantage in other parts. The playlet, Fourchette and Co., is the curtain-raiser.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr T. G. Mooney.—That very versatile musician, Vasco, leads the way here with a varied and novel turn, displaying considerable ability on a bewildering succession of instruments. A clever and artistic little sketch is presented with distinction by Miss Winona Winter, assisted by Mr W. H. Banks. Lilian Lowe, an accomplished vocalist, finds great favour; George Newburn again displays high abilities as mimic of leading variety artistes; Walter Munroe, the clever Irish comedian, is in song and dance just as successful as ever; the Five Olracs do great things in the acrobatic line; a pair of remarkably expert aerial gymnasts appear in Alexander and Bertie; Japanese drill is a capital speciality; and Katie Butler, comedienne, and Will Newman, comedian, are also in the bill.

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr T. Barrasford; Managers, Messrs Chas. Weldon and Edgar O. Waller.—The top-of-the-bill attraction here is T. Nelson Downs, aptly termed the king of coins, who gives a novel and interesting show. Leo Dryden, the favourite actor-vocalist, is again doing a hugely successful turn, and the clever and daring exhibition of Brinn finds great favour. Alfred Barker makes his comic circus a most amusing turn; Mdlle. Marvelle presents her performing birds with success; and Henry Abdy submits a troupe of wonderfully well-trained dogs. The Carina Sisters do well in an accomplished musical mélange; a burlesque act by the O'Learys is well received; and further capital entertainment is subscribed by Dan Llewellyn, tenor vocalist.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr F. W. Wood; General Manager, Mr J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr S. Jones.—George D'Albert, the popular actor-vocalist, is a strong feature of this present week's bill, and Fred Lloyd and company have an amusing sketch. An entertaining turn by Musical Silvo is thoroughly enjoyed, as also is the clever song and dance work done by Gladys Mavius. Expert contributions in the acrobatic line are done by the Three Sherrys and the Trio Goldini, and Max Sterling, a smart illusionist, and Collin and Croft, song illustrators, are also most successful.

LIMERICK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Robert Fogerty.—The Osmund Tearle company is with us this week in a series of Shakespearian and classical dramas. Virginius was put on the boards on Monday, when Mr Alexander Marsh sustained the title-rôle with marked success. Mr John Burton was a realistic Appius Claudius, as Caius Mr R. S. Innes was exceedingly good, Mr Cyril Grier was capable as Icilius, and Mr William Lowe looked the part of Dentatus. As Numitorius Mr Julian Gallier was very satisfactory, and Mr Wilson acted the rôle of Lucius with earnestness and ability. Mr George Tearle was a very good Titus, and as Servius Mr L. Evans was very effective. Mr Malcome Tearle was a delightful Marcus, and in the rôle of Servia Miss Fannie Chamberlain's ability was at once recognised. Miss Reynolds was a most graceful Slave, and as Virginia we had the extreme pleasure of witnessing Miss Carrie Baillie, whose acting was classically refined. Othello was given on Tuesday.

LINCOLN.

ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr Frank King.—Charley's Aunt is paying a return visit under the direction of the author. Mr Edmund Baker, who is new to Lincoln, as Lord Fancourt Babberley scores a great success; Mr T. S. M'Causland Stewart is excellent as Col. Chesney; Mr H. Nelson is good as Spettigue; and Mr E. Bonfield as Chesney and Mr W. Thompson as Wykeham invest the characters with plausibility. Mr Henry Braeme is capital as the much-perturbed college scout; Miss Gertrude Le Sage is satisfactory as the real Donna Lucia; Miss Marion Fitzgerald wins high favour as Ela Delahay; and Miss Marie Scharning and Miss Ethel Baker ably fill the parts of Spettigue's ward and niece respectively.

PALACE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Sydney Arthur; Assistant-Manager, Mr Brandon Blake.—Those remarkably clever cornettists, the Sisters Maginel Mullini, are the star turn this week, and their ability wins them long and loud applause. Mr and Mrs Clifford Bronte present a sketch very amusingly, and the Ross Clyde company give another with completely satisfactory results. Cordite, lassoist; Walter Emerson, comedian; Mdlle. Lorette and her statue dog; Clara Victor, vocalist; and Leslie Murray, magician, also contribute.

LOWESTOFT.

MARINA.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Ernest A. Smith.—This week we have Mr W. H. Hallatt's company in Two Little Sailor Boys. Miss Blanche Steele is powerfully cast as Lola Grey, and the two little sailor boys are made the most of by the Misses May Day and Ethel Francee. The cast also includes Messrs Wm. H. Sams, Leonard Booker, W. H. Hallatt, Geo. Murray, Oscar Power, Tom E. Sinclair, and the Misses Mabel Scudamore, Lizzie Chambers, and Dorothy Lennox. The piece is well mounted and dressed.

LEICESTER.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; Acting-Manager, Mr C. D. Leigh.—Although Colonel Winstanley has not this Christmas produced a pantomime of his own, he has done the next best thing by engaging a couple of first-class touring pantomimes, the first of which, entitled The Sleeping Beauty and the Mystic Yellow Dwarf, presented by Mr J. F. Elliston's clever and versatile company, opened a fortnight's engagement here on Monday. The pantomime has been written and invented by Mr William Walton, who has done his work in a manner which adds greatly to the attractiveness of the show, the story being explicit and thoroughly intelligible. The pretty and tuneful vocal and incidental music has been composed and arranged by Carlile Vernon and William Close, the former gentlemen being the able musical director of the company. The ballets and incidental dances have been arranged by Miss Lottie Stone, whose Royal Alexander Troupe of dancers (eight in number) add to the general success. The scenery, designed and painted by Messrs T. E. Ryan, Selby Hall, Barry Parker, Prescott Hall, &c., is attractive. The pretty and tasteful costumes, designed by Howell Russell, have been executed by Messrs Alias and Co., Limited, and Mrs M'Kelvie. There are altogether thirteen scenes, and the pantomime, which is divided into two parts, is under the stage-management of Mr Lonnen Meadows. The grand illuminated spectacle and ballet by Alma and Abdullah in Electra's Bower, and La Superbe, the miniature dancing marvel, are features that are sure to delight all and sundry. Miss Esme Gordon as Prince Faithful, the principal boy, looks and acts the part to perfection, and at once wins the affection of the audience. Miss Daisy Stratton in the title-rôle is responsible for a dainty and charming impersonation. Miss Kempton is excellent as Silver Star (the Fairy Godmother) and Miss Ada Tilley as the Grand Chief is also a success. The comedians work hard and well together, and are the cause of great merriment, Mr W. J. Churchill as Count Incognito being especially well to the front with an embodiment that keeps the audience in a continual roar. Both Mr Alf Bishop as King Half-a-Crown and Mr James Chippendale as Queen Half-a-Crown also bring to bear on their parts some quaint humour. The Morton Trio also appear as Chump, Log, and Bog, and create their usual good impression. Mr Lonnon Meadows, besides fulfilling the duties of stage-management in a successful manner, also takes the part of the Yellow Dwarf.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General Manager, Mr John H. Clarke.—Miss Frances Delaval's company, presenting the sensational melodrama The Biggest Scamp on Earth, is the attraction here this week. The play, which is on a first visit, is well suited to the tastes of the patrons of this drama house. In the title-rôle Mr Percy Carne Waram is very successful, and Miss Frances Delaval as Naomi Belvedere, "the music hall star," is also responsible for a clever portrayal.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Leonard Vidal.—The principal attraction in this week's varied and excellent programme is Miss Tilly Bébé, with her troupe of twelve magnificent performing lions. Miss Bébé, who is said to be the youngest trainer in the world, can certainly claim to be one of the most daring. At the other end of the bill is Ginnett's Rejected Remounts, a most mirth-provoking sketch, the horses which take part therein showing the perfection of the art of training. The Selbinis are exceptionally clever trick cyclists; Theo. Hardeen is astounding the "natives" by the ease with which he escapes from handcuffs and leg-irons. He concludes his turn with the box trick. Miss Lily Marney, characteristic comedienne, is scoring a success with her song "The Spanish-Irish Girl." Virto, with his daughter Irene, is very popular in his refined drawing-room musical act. Auto and Mobil, the original comedy motorists, arouse hearty laughter. Morton and Elliott are clever harmonican players, and as paper tearers they stand in the front rank. Wilson Hallett, in mimicry and story, is good.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Lapworth.—Tom Grave, the sensational cyclist, who was starred here, did not appear in consequence of indisposition; but an excellent deputy was put on by the management in the person of Miss Effie White, whose beautiful and well-worked kaleidoscopic dances are always so popular in Leicester. The M'Kays, with their dry humour and wet paint, are very good. Other artists contributing to the programme are Marco, boy illusionist; Mabel Sinclair, lady ventriloquist; Read and Wright, top-boot dancers; Wat Tyler, character vocalist; Chas. Bowker, the singing cobbler; and Jimmie James, banjo and bone soloist.

LIVERPOOL.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Actiog-Manager, Mr Fred Coles.—A very entertaining programme is billed this week, and good business has resulted. Bonny Goodwin and her Apollo Piccaninnies are hosts in themselves; their singing and dancing are loudly applauded. Juno Salmo, described as the Golden Mephisto, keenly interests the house with his original act. The Musical Palmers are duly applauded for a fine musical performance. Weston and May, Daisy Almer, Tom and Neil, Tiny Reiff, Geo. Neno, and Calvo are all good turns.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr H. Fineberg; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Simmons.—This week melodrama, for which the Star is noted, has been laid aside, the Craggs occupying the boards with Laughter Land. The three acts of pantomimical absurdity, interspersed with musical numbers, proved very amusing on Monday, when a blizzard was raging, and the wonderful acrobatic work of the Craggs was watched with breathless interest. The dresses and scenery were of a high order.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Manager, Mr Fred Granville; Business-Manager, Mr F. L. Arthur.—The production this week of The Heart of a Hero was especially interesting to the patrons of the popular Queen's by reason of the fact that the author of the clever work, Mr Lingford Carson, and his business partner, Mr Fred Granville, played their original parts, being supported by their own company. The production, the scenic effects of which were elaborate, gave great satisfaction. Both gentlemen named are, in addition to being sound business men, a couple of able actors. Mr Carson's portrayal of the persecuted hero was a fine piece of work, and Mr Granville presented a villain with dramatic reserve.

EMPIRE, LIMITED.—Managing Superintendent, Mr T. A. Cook; Acting-Manager, Mr George Stratton.—So popular has the engagement of Karno's company of comedians proved that they have been kept on again this week, their Saturday to Monday sketch being as attractive as when it was first presented on Boxing Night. A turn which has been cordially received is that given by the Sarnthaler Troupe of national singers and dancers; the O'Brien Brothers perform cleverly on the bars; and the Burnellys are responsible for much laughter with their acrobatics on stilts. Some exceedingly smart facial mimicry is shown by Vosper; Miss Mabel Hind, a sparkling comedienne, supplies a neat sketch entitled A Little Japanese; the Loro Quartet of musical comedians remain another week, as do also the Three Donals, Continental athletes; Sinclair and Parr are a couple of smart actor-vocalists; and Griff, the clown juggler, creates much amusement.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—At the head of the bill here this week are the Six Brothers Luck with their laughable pantomime, The Hermit, which has proved a great success. Much amusement has also been derived from the work of Mr and Mrs Gene Hughes, in A Matrimonial Substitute. Charles Baron presents a pleasing turn with his burlesque menagerie; the pantomime trifle, Early Morning in the Kitchen, given by the Densmores, provokes laughter; an interesting item is provided by the Schutzenliesserl'n Quartet of singers and dancers; and also in the programme are the Sandor Trio of strong gymnasts; the Donatos, one-legged acrobats; the Pichel Troupe of acrobats; Reddick Anderson, character comedian; and Melaine on the corde elastique.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr F. O'Toole.—This week a good bill-of-fare is presented, the principal item being the Werner's Troupe of cyclists in a clever performance on the inside of a "teacup" track. A welcome return visit is being paid by Wallace Whitney, a comedian of ability; Duncan and Morton, a pair of smart comedy artistes and dancers, give a pleasant trifle entitled Stage Chums; Miss Edie Tunstall is a young comedienne and dancer of merit; Campkin, the tramp cyclist, provides a clever turn; and others on the bill are Roland Barrett, baritone; and Miss Beatie Foster, comedienne. The cyclists' competition arranged by the Werners has proved of great interest.

NEW PARTHENON.—Proprietor, Mr Edwin W. Smith.—At the head of a diversified programme here this week are Atlas and Miss Vulcana, a couple of smart athletes who perform some neat feats. Miss Bertha Duckett is a charming child vocalist and dancer; Charles Santon possesses a remarkable soprano voice; La Modele presents some pretty classic poses; Clemart goes through a clever ventriloquial turn; and Young Igo is a neat clog dancer. The Bioscope continues to prove a good feature.

PADDINGTON PALACE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr J. Kiernan.—Miss Madeline Clifford and company are foremost here this week with the musical sketch, Wife and Fortune, which has proved acceptable. The Bioscope pictures, "To the Sun and Back in Twenty Minutes," are an interesting item; and the long list of variety artistes includes Harry Tresham, actor-vocalist; Louis Harrison, vocalist; Rosa Lenmann, burlesque actress; H. Wilkinson, elocutionist; Raymond Thomas; H. Fawcett, comedian; J. Brearley, coon singer; Percy Boucher, comedian; Dalton J. Bosher; and Florrie Hall, elocutionist.

WESTMINSTER.—Proprietor, Mr M. Montgomery.—The Majiltons, who remain a second week, are presenting their absurdity The Plumber; or, She Would be a Widow, which has provoked screams of laughter. A turn much appreciated is that of the O'Malleys, exceedingly funny comedians; Little Marie Dane is a pleasing vocalist and dancer; Arthur Patmore is a humorous female impersonator; and Lizzie R. Lawrie is a pleasing contralto.

PARK PALACE.—Director, Mr James Kiernan.—A numerous array of artistes is presented here this week, among them being Currie and Rice, able comedians and dancers; Raphael, a smart modeller in clay; Speeks and Thorne, with their quaint dances and funny songs; Cohen and Page, a refined pair of society entertainers; Ivy Graham, coon artiste; Madge Roberts, comedienne and dancer; Nora Floyd, contralto; Mabel Comely, vocalist; Harry Craven, comedian; and Lizzie Chase, comedienne.

LLANELLY.

ROYALTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr John Tully.—The two companies-a-week system still flourishes here. This week we have Mr Sanderson Moffat's company, in A Woman Adrift, and Miss Bonwin Carlton's company, in The Plucky Nipper. In the former play Mr Sanderson Moffat sustains the dual part of the Brothers Castro in a very able manner. Miss Phyllis Hamilton gives a good representation of Cora Leigh. Mr Bonhote Wilson as Sir John Ingleby is also excellent.

LONG EATON.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr T. Meakin.—A Great Sensation is being presented by Miss Beatrice Isaacson's company. That lady plays well the prominent part of the flower girl; Miss Madge Devereux does well as Sidonie; the young engineer has a good exponent in Mr Sydney M. Hallows; Mr A. L. Isaacson figures as the Millionaire; and the funny business is well presented by Mr Cecil Morand and Miss Marian Mayne.

LONGTON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. S. Howard.—Mr Bert Coote's The Fatal Wedding company is here this week. Mr Ernest Owttrim presents the character Howard Wilson satisfactorily; as Robert Curtis Mr Cecil A. Collins plays well; and Miss Beatrice Whitney as Cora Williams is decidedly effective. Miss Theresa Osborne sustains the emotional part of Mabel Wilson successfully. The lighter vein is in the capable keeping of Miss Carrie Fenton as Bridget and Mr J. Carl Lyle as Toto. Quite the feature of the presentation is Miss Gladys Rose Jones as Jessie, "the little mother," a juvenile from whom great things may be expected.

LUTON.

GRAND.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr Louis J. Beard.—Mr Graham Falcon is here with a capable company, in Little Bo-Peep. The part of Bo-Peep is charmingly played by Miss Lily Rouletta, whose numbers are sweetly rendered. Miss Kenna Russell makes a dashing Boy Blue, and her singing and dancing win unstinted applause. Mr Jack Waller is a mirth provoking Baron, and is ably supported by Mr Mark Stuart as Dame Durden. Mr Medley Barrett works hard and well as Simon, and praise is due to him for his able stage-management. The M'Nallies are amusing as Bash and Crash. Prince Pastorelle has a pleasing exponent in Miss Blanche Albini. Miss Mazy Osmunde is a delightful Margery Daw, and Miss Ellen Martin is a sprightly Lord Lollipop. Miss Alice Mantell in the part of Sylvania sings well, and Mr Henry Maynard's baritone voice is heard to advantage in the numbers allotted to him as Lemuel Lee. The specialities include the Villons, who contribute some remarkably clever trick cycling; Miss Ruby Carter and Miss Haidee Fitch, toe dancers of great ability; Rouletta, on the rolling globe; and Miss Mayzy Osmunde, clog-dancer.

MAIDENHEAD.

NEW PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr G. Gude.—This week's programme includes a very smart duologue, entitled The Lady Guide, by the Camerons; Marie De Vol deserves praise for her dancing, and Jim Fitzroy does exceeding well as an eccentric character singer. Stephen Mason causes great fun with his sketches, and is responsible for several good baritone solos; Alf Shaw as comedian is well received; Kitty Neville does a good turn as a dainty comedienne, her singing of "Bluebell" being particularly good; and Chris. Baker makes much merriment with funny songs and sayings.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Will Smithson; Assistant-Manager, Mr Albert J. Lewis.—Mr J. D. Hunter's pantomime of Aladdin is here. Miss M. Sadie gives a spirited performance as Aladdin; Miss Elsa Brull makes a bright and charming Princess; Miss Vera Dudley is an attractive Pekoe; and Nicey Piccy has a pleasing representative in Miss Ivy Bolton. Mr J. D. Hunter as Widow Twankey works assiduously and creates an abundance of fun; Mr Victor Vernon is full of rich humour as Abanazar; Mr Fred Boulton is particularly good as the Emperor; Mr Dick Tubb is very diverting as the Vizier; and Mr George Mayer and Mr Ben Boden provide ample amusement as Wishee and Washee. Specialities are introduced by Mdlle. Bartenelli, a clever contortionist; the Verona Jap Quartet of lady dancers; the Four Sisters M'Queen, vocalists; and the Eccentric Boultons, musicians.

MACCLESFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr W. K. Gatley.—The boards this week are occupied by Mr Edward Neville and company in The Sorrows of Satan. Mr Edward Neville is very good as Prince Lucio Rimanez; as Geoffrey Tempest Mr C. T. E. O'Connor makes the most of his opportunities; Mr J. Nelson Turner gives a realistic impersonation of the Earl of Elton; Mr Harry Rose as Morris and Mr Harry Dowling as Amiel make a good impression; and Mr Gus Bowerman is capable as Lord Lynton. Miss Annie Brunette is charming as Lady Sybil Elton; Miss Cecile Bryne as Mrs Grumbles is a favourite; Miss Violet Hammersley as Mavis Clare presents a clever impersonation; and Miss Lois Esmond as Diana Chesney throws all her energies into her part.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Bendon.—The company engaged here is excellent. First and foremost comes Pulo, the clever young juggler, whose turn is one of the neatest and cleverest seen here. The Princellas are very amusing in a sketch entitled A Country Flirtation; Harry Burker makes his reappearance with some good and up-to-date songs; the Percys, duettists are a good turn; Miss Lily Martell, comedienne and dancer, is taking well; and Carl Osmund, with some lightning cartoons, gets well applauded. Also included in the bill are Dan Kennedy, comedian, and Mr and Mrs Paul Knox, entertainers.

MANCHESTER.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr W. H. Broadhead; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Mr Walter Melville's company, in A Girl's Cross Roads, occupies the stage here this week, and is a potent attraction. The play is full of interest, which is well brought out by the various members of the cast. Mr Chas. Franmore is seen in the strong part of John Meadows, and Miss Hilda Beverley makes quite a success of her rôle of Barbara Wade. Good also are Mr Cecil A. Melton as Jack Livingstone, Mr John Brooks as Luke Ramsden, and Miss Nell Oliver as Nellie Meadows, while Mr Fred Ingram and Miss Lilla Norden contribute acceptable humour. The scenery and effects are good.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—The big item in this week's programme is Otto the Outcast, in which Mr Harry Starr appears with great success. Other good turns are Kellino and Pape, in a circus comedy act; Percy Handel, boy instrumentalist; Ted Fields and Fred Acres, comedians; Will Haslam, speciality dancer; and the Ettenas, speciality artistes.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Mr James Willard's drama In the Shadow of Night is the attraction here this week, after a week at the Royal Osborne Theatre. Mr Fred Rivers has assumed the rôle of Clifford Yorke, in place of Mr James Willard, and plays it with distinction.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Potasch.—Messrs John A. Atkin and Walter Howe's company present here this week Mr Howe's effective drama, A Victim of Villainy, which is capitally staged and very well played. Leading parts are in the accomplished hands of Mr Walter Howe and Miss Rosa Lehmann; Mr Chas. E. Wilton and Miss Muriel Dean do well in sinister rôles, others who figure successfully being Miss Cissy Beszant, Mr T. Prescott, Mr J. Russell Bogue, and Miss Jessie Glenn. The play contains ample humorous relief, and provides a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—A special notice of Mr Flanagan's revival of Romeo and Juliet appears in another column.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Manager Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Katie Lawrence, comedienne, tops the bill here this week, and sings in good style. Alfred Seigel, wrestler, challenges anyone to oppose him in the Græco-Roman style. This turn proves very popular. The Sisters Marion are high-class vocalists with good voices; Deakin and Rankin are successful in song, burlesque, and dance; and very quaint is Little Dando, eccentric comedian. Other items of interest are supplied by Veno, female impersonator; Jack Horsley, bag puncher; Wirson, head and hand equilibrist; Evelyn Taylor, male impersonator; Culpitt, comedy conjuror; and the Hippodrome pictures.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Gus Garrick, a versatile comedian, who is frequently recalled by delighted audiences, heads the bill here this week. Bell, Pearl, and company present a very amusing sketch, entitled A Bit of String; Wragg and Wragg do some skilful feats of swordmanship; and the Eight Lancashire Lads sing and dance in pleasing fashion. Owing to the indisposition of one of the performers, the advertised sketch A Water Nymph could not be given, but in its place a monologue, entitled "Firelight Fancies," was satisfactorily rendered by a deputy. The singing of Fred Horsfall, a double-voiced mimic, is much appreciated; Sadie Simpson renders coon and other songs in a vivacious way; Mill May is a quick-change artiste of ability; Les Laurens pose in a series of good tableaux vivants; and Beattie Kendal sings character songs admirably.

TIVOLI.—Managing Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr Arthur B. Wilkes.—Florence Baines, a clever laughing comedienne, is the bright particular star here this week, and makes a big hit with her song "The Principal Boy." Much cleverness is displayed by the Dayton Family of Risley acrobats; John Callan, American comedian, and the Wiltons, triple bar performers, are vastly amusing. Some smart dancing is done by the Garden Troupe, and enjoyable items are contributed by Dan Arline, eccentric comedian; Harry Desmond, comedian; the Sisters Lylle, duettists and dancers; and the Two Zampas, who are excellent dancers. Mamie Brickwell, comedienne, did not appear on the night of our visit.

EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Will Collins.—Grais's Baboon prodigies, including Diavoleno, the loop-cycling baboon, are here this week, and provide a novel turn. Nellie Coleman, the well-known comedian impersonator, gains much applause; the Lumars present a clever acrobatic act aided by electricity; the Three Pattersons, on the triple bars and trampolin, are highly successful; Dome, the original comedy clay modeller, is deservedly well received; Charles Gardiner, eccentric comedian, makes a hit with his song "I'm a lady;" Alice Maydue is a capital burlesque character comedienne; the Sisters Devona appear in an elegant aerial act on the electrical lyre; and the Howards (Ralph and Nellie) contribute some good bugle playing. Amusing pictures are shown by the Bioscope.

GRAND.—Lessees, Messrs Thomas Barrasford and Will Sley; Manager, Mr H. C. Arnold, jun.—Harry Ford, the famous comedian, is here this week, and meets with a flattering reception, his eccentric methods and highly amusing songs being much appreciated. Considerable laughter follows the efforts of Stanley and Vandyke in their comedy act; the Toreadors, in their screaming burlesque The Spanish Bull-Fight; and Farley, Rennie, and Farley, in Fun at a Railway Station. Other good turns are by the Two Falcons, clever and amusing acrobatic hand-to-hand balancers; Harry Conder, with speciality characters from the works of the late Charles Dickens; Dan Thomas, the Welsh tenor; and Sid Bandon, actor-vocalist. A deputy sang two songs in a pleasing manner in place of Annie Cohen, comedienne, who did not appear.

PALACE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr P. Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr J. H. Stringer.—The Babes in the Wood enters on its last week here, and for the present we must bid goodbye to the capable artistes who have carried it through with such success. Prominent among them are Mabel Thorne, a dashing Robin Hood; Hylda Dugdale, a dainty Maid Marian; Ray Hartley, a pleasing Dolly Dimple, who dances very cleverly; and Messrs Ernest, Oscar, Philip, and Fred Luck, Herbert Rule, and Charles Dillon, who have supplied much humour. The excellent dancing of the Four Milano Girls, the elaborate scenery, and the pretty dresses have also contributed greatly to the success. Remaining also from last week is the excellent turn of Charles R. Sweet, the "original musical burglar," who is very popular. The newcomers include Sybil St. Elmo, ballad vocalist, who sings well; Reilly and Taylor, American-Dutch comedians, who create much fun; and Clark and Argyle, international dancers and pipers. A series of animated pictures conclude.

MARCH.

PUBLIC HALL THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr Joseph Collingwood.—Mr Frank Wilson's company appeared here on Wednesday in that popular comedy The Marriage of Kitty. The company includes such well-known artistes as Mr Frank Wilson himself, Mr Leslie Tyler, Mr J. F. Leighton, Mr Royston Keith, jun., Miss Vera Fordyce, Miss Kate Harwood, and Miss Elsie Saville, with Mr Whalley Shields as general manager.

MARGATE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr F. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr C. F. Bawtree.—Mr Peter Davey has paid Margate a visit this week for the second consecutive season with his pantomime Goody Two Shoes. Miss Maude Nichols is well placed as Crispin, and Miss Lily Lingard is entirely satisfactory as Goody, a little beggar maid. Mr J. G. Taylor as the wicked Earl of Godiva is very droll, Mr T. C. Havarley renders good aid as Peeping Tom, and Mr Harry Calden is mirth provoking as Dame Durden. Miss Ethel Beech as the Chevalier Hurley makes a dashing boy, and others whose assistance contributes to the success of the production include Miss Gertrude Morrow as Margot, Mr Graham Morrison as Marcodison (an inventor), Mr T. Martindill, Mr Will Homer, Mr P. Wilson, and Miss Madge Christopher. The chorus works thoroughly well together, and the fun is well sustained from start to finish. Speciality turns are contributed by Clown Leo's dog troupe in their miniature burlesque circus, the Thurban Trio, and the Calden Troupe.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr E. Macknight; Business-Manager, Mr C. E. Hardy.—Miss Rose Faith and her company have been playing this week the Georgian costume play, No Cross No Crown, in which she has sustained the rôle of Clare, the second Lady Luttrell, charmingly. Mr J. P. M'Bride has appeared to advantage as Sir Francis Luttrell, and Mr Harrison Chapman has been good as Professor Neb. Mr Logan Darra as Austin Blake, Mr F. C. Hudspeth as Doctor Ashley, and Mr C. George as Rawson Haines have been capital in their respective parts. Miss Kate Carnegie has been satisfactory as Annabel Sylvester; Miss Nellie De Lacy has effectively portrayed the part of Dame Priscilla; and her factotum, Plato, has been much in evidence as played by Miss Dolly Turner. Miss Olive Webb as Lettie Crayle, Miss May Yorke as Doris Luttrell, and Miss Maggie White as Agatha all do good service. Miss Gwen Stewart plays well in the dual rôle of Lady Margaret Luttrell and Mistress Gray.

MEXBOROUGH.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. H. Melton.—Mr and Mrs Wm. Giffard and company are playing here this week in The World's Desire. Mr Wm. Giffard gives an admirable portrayal of the unscrupulous lawyer, Ellis Tridley; as Nathaniel Mutley Mr Geo. Child is excellent; Mr Clifford Rean does well in the dual-rôle of Robert and Henry Selkirk; Mr Robt. Light is satisfactory as Godstone Clair; Mrs Wm. Giffard gives a powerful dramatic portraiture of Dora Mutley; the Helen Berkshaw of Miss Ella Seton is a capable study; the Justerina Hook of Miss Frances Bruce is a quaint and enjoyable conception.

MIDDLESBROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Theatres, Limited; Managing-Directors, Messrs Geo. and Chas. Imeson.—Mr Frederick Melville's company is here in the drama The Ugliest Woman on Earth. Miss Beatrice Homer in the title-rôle gives a powerful performance; Mr Stanley Bedwell is successful as Jack Merriman; and Mr Leyton Cancellor appears successfully as Hubert Gold; Mr Renovo Lockwood and Mr Walter Hardwick do well in their respective parts; and Mr Tubby Edlin as Toby Herrick keeps the house in good humour with sayings and antics. Miss Margaret Watson, Miss Nellie Jackson, and Miss Rosabel Wood also do well in their respective rôles. The scenery and other effects are excellent. On Wednesday and Thursday two matinées were given of Alice in Wonderland. Miss Ida Thompson as Alice gave a most delightful impersonation; as the "Mad Hatter" Mr E. St. Alban kept the audiences in continual roars of laughter; and the antics of Mr J. W. Hooper, Tweedledum, and Mr Sidney Benson, Tweedledee, added much to the success. The pantomime was presented under the direction of Mr E. St. Alban.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Grand Opera House Company, Ltd.; Licensee, Mr T. Hopcutt.—A Wife's Triumph, from the pen of Sutton Vane, is being presented here this week by Mr Ernest R. Abbott's company. Mr Abbott is a chivalrous Robert Dewhurst; and Mrs Abbott appears to advantage as Bessie Dewhurst. Mr George C. Doughty makes a capital Frank Wilton, and Mr Joe Ransford is a favourite as Augustus Harrison. Mr A. R. Ernest makes a typical bookmaker; Mr D. Pentland appears with success as Stubbs; and Ellis Jordan is ably portrayed by Mr W. H. Garbois. Miss Constance Medwyn makes a good impression as Alice Wilton, and much praise is due to Miss Elsie Jones.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Brill; Manager, Mr J. W. Thornborrow.—Sinclair and Whiteford head the bill here in a comedy duo, and create much amusement. The Tom Davies Trio in "Whirling the Whirl in Mid-Air" are again successful; and the Great Marconis, electric wonders, submit a novel turn, which is well received. Charles Unthan, the armless wonder, makes a good impression; La Tostis, with her mandoline playing, is most popular; Ena Beryl sings some good songs; the patter of Walker and Lake pleases; and James Brady sings some capital nonsense songs. The films on the Bio. complete the programme.

OXFORD.—Lessee, Mr Wm. Peacock; Manager, Mr Wm. Ainsworth.—The Royal Tokio Troupe of Japanese, the chief attraction here this week, do some remarkable feats; Mr Albert Voyce's company in a vocal scena, Jack Sheppard, makes a great hit; David Poole provides a capital ventriloquial turn; Joe Humph pleases with her songs. J. P. Dane, comedian, and Onda and Leon in a bar performance provide fun. Harry Morris is a good mimic; and the Bio. completes the programme.

NEATH.

THEATRE ROYAL (LATE ASSEMBLY ROOMS).—Lessee and Manager, Mr A. W. James.—Mr J. H. Morton's company in The Rajah of Ranjanpore is here this week. Mr Alvin Sawyer is amusing as Horatio Chicks; Mr Harry Cornwall is good as Mr Stubbs; Mr Arthur Reid gives a clever portrayal of Captain Heritage; Mr Charles E. Tinney makes a dashing Ernest Travers; Mr Gus Hall acts with much earnestness the rôle of Ted Perkins; Mr Bert Harrow keeps the house in good humour as Thistles; Miss Nell Ascot is charming as Primrose; Miss Madge Clayton as Marie gives a pleasing rendering; Miss Marion Walker as Eliza plays with much vivacity; and the Rajah Troupe introduce some graceful dances.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr Fred C. Sutcliffe.—Cinderella continues to be a great attraction, and thanks to the efforts of Messrs Mark Sheridan, Josh Dixon, Gus Le Clerq, and Egbert Brothers, there is no lack of fun, while the ladies of the company, notably Misses Bessie Featherstone, Alice Russon, and Lina Verdi are high in popular favour.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Teale Lingham.—Large audiences assemble at each representation to witness The Babes in the Wood. Well deserved favouritism is enjoyed by Miss Maud Prenton and Miss Elsie Cooke, and two charming Babes are Miss Dolly M'Calla and Miss Hanid Alexander. The Sisters Govell give smart performances. Messrs T. E. Dunville, R. H. Douglas, the Polnski Brothers, and the American Comedy Four are all prominent in furthering the humour of the pantomime.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr T. W. Rowe.—The Shadows of a Great City, a drama which has previously been seen here, is again proving a good attraction. Mr Harry Foxwell (whose company it is) is seen to much advantage as Tom Cooper, and another notable performance is that of Miss Sheila Walsh, who doubles the parts of Annie Standish and Nellie Standish with the best results. Prominent in other leading parts are Messrs Charles Vivian, Arthur A. Tomlin, Newton Pearce; Miss Nellie Gray and Miss Mollie Monaghan.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Director, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr E. Leslie Conroy.—Messrs Walthour and Kreamer, a cyclist and jockey respectively, are presenting a novelty act here in the shape of a race between a bicycle and a horse, and plenty of excitement is engendered by the contests. Florrie Gallimore in a budget of songs gains the popular vote, while vocalists and dancers in the Three Sisters Slater are well received. A very amusing and clever acrobatic turn is contributed by Morris and Morris. Comedy business of an enjoyable nature is provided by Cline and Clark, and also by Frazer and Mac. The Vasilescu Troupe in a pantomime act on bars give satisfaction, as also do the Two Butterflies, juvenile gymnasts. Well to the fore also are comediennes in Lily Tiso and Daisy Ray. Brown and Robinson give pleasure by their vocal efforts.

OLYMPIA THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs Bolam and Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Nelson Barry.—The historical drama, The Shadow of the Cross, is being presented here by Miss Adria Hill and Mr Robert Ayrton's company. Mr Robert Ayrton depicts with fine effect the part of Wulfere, King of Mercia, while in the dual rôles of Werebode and Edelgith some admirable acting is provided by Miss Adria Hill. Their efforts are well supported by the other members of the company.

GRAND THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Business Manager, Mr E. W. Bacon.—In the East-end of the city Dick Whittington has "caught on" to an amazing extent. In fact, we understand the total receipts last week constituted a record for the theatre since the opening—truly a most gratifying state of affairs.

PAVILION THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr Will H. Boardman.—Smart eccentric acrobats in the Cattanees are meeting with well-deserved success. In the serpentine dances contributed by Mlle. Flora Lumiere, the human butterfly, some exceedingly pretty light effects are obtained. Laughter is evoked by the performance of the pantomime absurdity, Nicodemus, by Charles Vandyke and company. A burlesque bull-fight as given by Leonard and Francis also occasions amusement. Fred. Curran, with parodies, earns approval, and entertainment is also derived from the turns contributed by the Lasres Troupe of acrobats; Florence Hill, burlesque actress and dancer; Bob Hamilton, Scottish comedian and instrumentalist; and Mountford and Walsh, speciality artists.

NEWPORT.

LYCEUM. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Sidney Cooper.—The pantomime Goody Two Shoes is being played here this week under the direction of Mr Corelli Windeatt. The scenery is beautiful, the dresses are pretty, and the lyrics and concerted pieces have been set to popular airs of the day. Miss Nell Richardson as Crispin and Miss Jessica Deane as Goody are exceedingly attractive, both singing with excellent taste. Mr H. G. Thurstans' Earl of Coventry is humorous, Mr Will Gain as Peeping Tom is successful, and Mr Harry Buss as Dame Durden act with vigour, and execute a very taking eccentric dance. Miss May Hart as Chevalier Hurley gives a bright and taking performance, and Miss Eva Bevington as Margot sings well, while Mr Arthur Learto makes the best of the small part of Marcodison. Special mention should be made of the graceful dancing of Miss Hettie Lane, the principal dancer.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr O. Stoll.—A popular programme is provided here. Dan Burke, Molly Moller, and Alice Teller present a comical sketch, The Professor and His Pupils, that causes roars of laughter. Daring and clever are the acrobatic tricks of the Szarvasi Ferenez Troupe; Mark Melford and his company in the sketch Black and White receive hearty approval; and another sketch, Troubles of a Tourist, acted by John Alexander and company, is distinctly funny. The Three Ronay Sisters (lady clowns) dance admirably, and the musical performance is both amusing and clever. Burke, Andrus, and Frisco are comical with their ten-minute sketch In Trafalgar-square, and the Picquays are responsible for a novel acrobatic display. Princess Pauline sings a pretty song, the Alaskas go through some extraordinary juggling, and Clown Ferreros, with his clever dog musician, provides a most entertaining turn.

NORTHAMPTON.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr W. J. Andrews.—No one is more closely connected with our theatre than Mr Edward Compton, who was the first to play in the house on its opening, and is now part proprietor. His reception here this week therefore at the head of his celebrated comedy company has been most gratifying. The répertoire has been Davy Garrick, The School for Scandal, The Rivals, A Reformed Rake, and To-Morrow, in all of which Mr Compton has distinguished himself by the artistic brilliancy of his acting. Miss Haldee Gunn, by her cleverness and the charm of a fascinating personality, has justified her position as leading lady, and Miss Evelyn Hall, Miss Mackenzie, Miss Marie Hassell, Mr Henry Croker, Mr A. B. Imeson, Mr Chas. R. [illegible], Mr Arnold Lacy, Mr J. W. Johnston, and Mr Meynall, by their thoroughly good interpretation of the parts entrusted to them, have won much favour.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr Robert Barton.—The chief sensation of the programme here is entitled "Kweery," an illusion which is most smartly worked. In a few seconds a good-looking young fellow, strapped and padlocked down to a stretcher, is replaced by a prepossessing lady, apparently secured in the same way. Other attractions include The Lannons, duettists and high pedestal dancers; Edie Anderson, whose dancing is particularly smart; Julian Mack, a high-class comedian; Lue Lord, a lively serio; Eric Graham, with a couple of coster ditties; Warden Reed and Company, in a witty duologue, Married or Photographed; and Millie Harriss, whose singing is highly appreciated.

NORTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Jefferson; General Manager, Mr Horace Lee; Secretary, Mr Gordon Jefferson.—This week Messrs E. Hill-Mitchelson and Harris Fineberg's company is presenting The Traitor, which has had a hearty reception. The title-rôle is in the able hands of Mr Stephen E. Scanlan, who gives a highly satisfactory performance. Mr John C. Carlyle's impersonation of Prince Rudolph is well received; as Captain Ross, R.N., Mr Edwin Jenner is seen to advantage; and Mr Frank Sutherland wins much favour as Jack Bolt. Miss Ruth Shepherd as Zula acts with power; Miss Lily Roselle is clever as Countess Zicka; and Miss Isabella Hunt makes the most of the part of Lieut. Nicholas.

NEW CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Wm. Mould.—Larola, equilibrist and burlesque acrobat, gives a clever performance; Mr Martin Henderson, blind concertina soloist, comes in for a very hearty reception; and the Henderson-Stanley Quartet, vocalists, instrumentalists, and comedy artistes, present an enjoyable turn. Miss Rose Cabini, comedienne and dancer, is clever; Mr Barney Noble, versatile comedian, is much appreciated; and Miss Marie Ollive, serio and dancer; Messrs Renson and Waite, speciality artistes; and Payne's Bio-Photoscope all contribute successfully.

NORTHWICH.

CENTRAL THEATRE. — Proprietress, Mrs S. Golden; Manager, Mr Percy Webb.—Mr Leslie Vyner's company, in The Lightning's Flash, is paying a first visit here. Mr Leonard Robson in the dual rôles of Stephen Merrick and Colonel Mark Merrick works untiringly from start to finish; Mr Sydney Kearns gives a fine reading of the difficult part of Gordon Garville. The comedy is well sustained by Mr Harry M. Vernon as Toby Gander, he being ably supported by Miss Blanche Vernon as Selina Slack. As the heroine Kate Merrick Miss F. Russell-Spiers is all that can be desired, and Miss Eva Reid makes a capital native girl.

NORWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr Fred Morgan.—Mr Frank Curzon's company in the musical comedy, Sergeant Brue, is here this week. Mr Edward Kipling, who was specially sent from the Strand Theatre, London, to play the title-part, is most successful. Mr E. Percy Rogers is equally so as Michael Brue, and Mr George Barrett deserves praise as Crookie Scrubbs. Mr Cecil Burt as Mr Crank, Mr Harold Slade as Captain Bay, and Mr Harold Godwin as Inspector Gorringe are respectively very good. Mr Arthur Stroude as Gerald Treherne, Mr Albert Sealy as Matthew Habishom, Mr Harry Soutar as Mr Lamb, and Mr Chas. Fagan as Erskine Murray ably fill their several rôles. Miss Constance Lait acts and sings well as Aurora Brue; Miss Violet Dene successfully appears as Lady Buckenhall; Miss Eliza Earle is sprightly as Daisy; and Miss Lily Maxwell as Mabel Widgett, Miss Eva Lewis as Vivienne Russell, Miss Connie Ward as Louise Clair, Miss Lena D ne as Eva Graham, and Miss Connie Woodroff as 'Arriet deserve commendation. Mr H. R. Matthews most ably conducts, and the dresses and scenery are particularly effective.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr F. W. Fitt; Musical Director, Capt. Selby.—Fred Karno's comedians in The Dandy Thieves head the bill here, and are the chief attraction. Mr Harry Roxbury is immensely funny as Sergeant Lightning, Mr Frank Morton is good as Lord Essem, and Mr Chas. Usher as Miffin and Miss Leonora Castelle as Dolly are extremely mirth provoking. The famous Ernesto's juggling is very clever; the acrobatic displays of the Bastow Brothers are very interesting; Miss Ida Brophy's dancing is good; and Mr George Verney proves a good turn as a comedian. Mr George Formby, "the man from Lancashire," is a great favourite.

NOTTINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Howard Finney.—Robinson Crusoe still continues a potent attraction, and each member of the company strains every nerve to make the production go with a swing. There are several new numbers, and the performance throughout is voted a great success.

GRAND THEATRE. — Manager, Mr Charles P. Cooke. — Crowded houses nightly testify their pleasure in Goody Two Shoes, and the introduction of fresh novelties has found a ready response in the enthusiasm accorded them, notably the juggling of Duncan and the head-balancing by Oswald.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, A. W. Bull.—A Marriage of Vengeance provides sufficient sensationalism to satisfy patrons of this theatre, and a capital company is organised by Mr and Mrs Fred Benton. Mr A. G. Fry sustains the part of the hero, Paul Earnscliffe, to the satisfaction of his audience, and Mr Charles Coventry works well as Glynne Earnscliffe. Mr Louis Norman's portrayal of the rascally Geoffrey Fannock is powerful in the extreme; he is ably seconded by Mr G. A. De Gray as an accomplice in stage villainy. Miss A. Harrison Tate plays with convincing force as Stella Burgon, and Miss Maud Stuart makes a charming Elsie Dean. There is plenty of fun in the piece, for which Mr Seymour Perry as Bob Shorner and Miss Etta Turner as Amelia are responsible, and other characters are well taken by Messrs Reginald Payne, L. Chaseby, and Sydney Rudge.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr O. H. Bowmaker. — The Boissets are evoking uproarious laughter by their comical antics and humorous knockabout business in the sketch The Bricklayers; the Max Welson Quartet of rope performers submit a marvellous exhibition, their graceful movements and muscular development compelling the highest admiration; another excellent turn is provided by Alburtus and Bartram, whose juggling with clubs forms an interesting and skilful display; the Sisters Llewelyn are accomplished vocalists; and the Jees are always welcome in their Musical Smithy. Milner Verren uses his powerful falsetto with taste, and the Arthur Lloyd Trio are heard in the amusing sketch Little Charlie. Other capital items are given by the Bros. Pueblo, cake-walkers; the Resuas Trio of acrobats and equilibrists; and the American Bioscope.

OLDHAM.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr George Knowles.—The Maskeweys are here with their comic wire act; Mr J. W. Ellison's comic songs secure hearty approval; Ryan and Hall, acrobats and eccentric comedians, are very successful; Miss Addie Dorina, in an original monologue, "How she did it," is decidedly smart; as a comedian and patterer Andy Fagan meets with a cordial approval; the Glenroy Troupe are very entertaining in their specialities, "The Boys of Britannia's Empire" and "The Leaders of the Coonville Brigade;" Walter Curtis, humorous entertainer, is a favourite here, and continues to be as funny as ever; Allis and Cassati are quite well received; and the Stavordale Quintet are unique in their banjo performance, which elicits much applause.

EMPIRE.—Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge.—Mr James Kiddie's pantomime of Dick Whittington is here. Miss Bessie Willow in the title-part finds warm favour with the audience. Her singing of "Blue-Bell" is highly appreciated. Miss Leah Laurie is a fascinating Alice, her rendering of "The Ugly Duckling" being well received. Miss Florence Hilton contributes largely to the success of the pantomime in the rôle of Sir Algernon De Mash. Miss Isabel Taylor, the Captain, has a fine stage presence. Miss Vera Ashton makes an attractive Dorothy Maybloom. Miss Florrie Crompton is very pleasing as the Emperor's daughter. Mr Cyril Dundas as Alderman Fitzwarren, Mr Allen Carruthers as Idle Jack, Mr Harry Albert as Amelia, the cook, and Messrs Clifton and Gibson as Silly Peter and Lazy Lary all do well. Miss Meta Anderson as the Fairy is keenly appreciated. The Saxon Trio, lady dancers, and Messrs Curtis and Vanity, in their great coke walk, are applauded.

GAIETY, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr E. J. Dexter.—Les Barrs, eccentric gymnasts, keep the audience in roars of laughter here. Anthy's marvellous wire performance is heartily appreciated. Miss Georgie Heaton is an up-to-date male impersonator, who wins full favour from the audience. George Bernard, vocal actor, has a flattering reception. Madame Loule gives a very mysterious second-sight performance. Deller and Oxford make a decided "hit." Miss Cissy Sullivan is a clog and top-boot dancer of merit. Bob Stephenson, comedian, wins appreciation for his funny songs; and the Bioscope still maintains its popularity.

OXFORD.

NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr C. C. Dorrill.—For the thirteenth year in succession Mr Milton Bode has this week brought us our Christmas pantomime, and, judging from the applause bestowed on Cinderella by a capital house on Monday night, a well-deserved success is assured for this year's annual. The company is a thoroughly good all-round combination, the dresses new and handsome, and the scenery admirable, while Cinderella's electric fairy coach, drawn by a pair of ponies, successfully appealed to the many youngsters present. In the title-rôle a striking success is achieved by Miss Florence Beech, whose charming singing and dainty dancing are heartily applauded. Miss Hebe Bliss is a dashing and handsome Prince Brilliant, and renders her songs in first-class style. As Dandini Miss Marie Reeves scores heavily, her dancing and singing being far above the ordinary, and Miss Blanche Marion does well as Rosie Romp. The Baron Balmy of Mr Leo Stirling is brimful of humour, and his songs are strikingly successful; Mr J. Nolan and Mr P. Dawsons score as the Ugly Daughters; Mr George Antill's genuinely funny performance of Capers causes laughter throughout; and Messrs Lanton and Lane are an amusing couple as the Prince's servants. Mr Bode's specialities include Miss Maude Dewey, a wonderfully clever whistler; Leo Stirling, in an amusing musical act; Major Sitherland, a marvellous rifle and baton manipulator; and Bert Woodward, whose great cycling act has created a furore in this city.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr H. G. P. Wells.—Madame Willoughby's company is here with the pantomime, Babes in the Wood. Mr B. Gardner sings and acts well as Sir Rowland, and is well supported by Brown and Harker as Smith and Jones respectively. Mr Alf. Fox is quaint as Miss Brown. The Babes are capitally represented by Violet Mottley as Tommy and Daisy Mottley as Sissy, and both dance in excellent style. Miss Beatrice Dudley is a charming Robin Hood, and Miss Winnie Wentworth is graceful as Maid Marion.

TOWN HALL.—Mr Joseph Poole's No. 1 Myriorama and variety combination, under the direction of Mr Fred Mayer, are paying a welcome return visit here. The pictures, especially the latest additions, are excellent, the Bombardment of Port Arthur being very realistic. Some clever artistes appear during the evening:—Mr Felix Somers, in his clever mimetic entertainment; Mr Nat Abatt, a pleasing vocalist and raconteur and guide; Miss May Finch, a capital vocalist; the Veronas, lady dancers and vocalists; the Westwoods, trick cyclists; and Mdlle. Arbassany with her performing cockatoos. A capital orchestra is conducted by Mr John Hilton.

PAISLEY.

PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile.—Aladdin now goes with a briskness and brightness that should make it widely popular until the close of its run here, and also the towns where Mr Savile will tour it. Miss Florence Wilton has established herself a universal favourite as Aladdin. By her archness and vivacity and the point and verve she imparts to her songs and dialogue she is an ideal principal boy. Besides her song "Bluebell," she scores with "Pennies" and "Angeline." Miss Gertrude Branscombe is a daintily neat and graceful Princess. Her numbers, "The Crocodile" and "Goldfish" songs are rapturously applauded. Miss Gladys Warren is particularly engaging as Bohee, and Miss Florrie Somers makes a sweet and pretty Pitti Sing. Mr Willie Garvey is always introducing fresh touches of genuine comedy as the Widow Twankey, and Mr James Grant works hard in the comical rôle of M'Ksarac. Messrs Will Sherlock, Karl Mora, T. W. Kelly, and the Boston Twins are a most diverting quintet and keep the fun well sustained. Miss Kitty Jones is a praiseworthy Spirit of the Lamp, her singing of the "Dreamland" and "The Owl and the Moon" songs being strikingly effective. Miss Isa Stirling makes an ideal Spirit of the Ring. The choruses are particularly well sung, and the dancing of Miss Lottie Stone's Troupe of eight is vigorous and delightful.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr J. H. Savile; Manager, Mr Delno Fritz.—A programme of exceptional merit is being put before Empire patrons this week. The artistes contributing are Angeline, wonderful lady juggler; the Sisters Lorraine, duettists and dancers; Colvil and Tate (Jack and Annie), eccentric comedy performers and dancers; Patty Yole, comedienne and dancer; the Brothers Hampson, comedians and dancers; Ralston and Frances, in a nautical musical scena; the Great Linton, in an acrobatic bounding novelty act; and Amelia Strand, vocalist.

TOWN HALL.—The Joseph Poole Myriorama is in possession here for a fortnight. The display comprises pictures of interesting places in various parts of the globe, and, with the addition of mechanical contrivances and scenic effects, a realistic touch is imparted. The latest additions—from the arena of the great war between Japan and Russia—are intensely interesting. There are also displays of the Joseph Poole Myriograph, and in these are included many amusing and amazing animated pictures. Variety turns by the Poole combination form a most enjoyable part of the entertainment. Contributions are submitted by Harry Sullivan, comedian; Zelda, instrumentalist; Sulli and Saroni, duettists and dancers; Wal Owen, comedian; and Captain Carl Howlett's Royal Marionettes. An amusing sketch concludes the programme, a different one being submitted each evening.

PETERBOROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr A. Darville Vernon.—Mr Mouillot's company in A Message from Mars has had a good reception from large audiences here this week upon its return visit. Mr Rawson Buckley gives a finished portrayal of the character of Horace Parker; powerful and impressive is the Messenger of Mr W. H. Brougham; the Tramp is capitally played by Mr Bruce Lindley; Miss May Saker is a charming Minnie Templer; and Miss Flora Hasting does well as Miss Parker.

PENTRE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Owners, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; Manager, Mr Sam Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr Eugene Hardie. — Mr Wentworth Croke's company, in The Christian, is being welcomed by appreciative audiences this week. Mr Hilliard Vox secures attention in his clever interpretation of the Hon. John Storm, and Miss Grace Chalmers sustains the part of Glory Quayle with grace and charm. Mr Chas. E. Dering is exceedingly good as Archdeacon Wealthy. The parts of Lord Robert Ure, Horatio Drake, the Faro King, and Mr Lorimer are in the hands of Messrs Chas. B. Bedells, Jackson Wilcox, Bert Conway, and Oswald Marshall, who contribute largely to the success achieved. Mr Stanley Radcliffe, in the rôle of Father Lamplugh, leaves little to be desired. Miss Gertrude Homeward gives an admirable delineation of Polly Love, and Miss Clara Nicholls supplies a capital impersonation of the kind-hearted Mrs Callender.

PERTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Aldridge.—The New Sapho Syndicate, Limited, is presenting Sapho here this week. Miss Annie Bell, in the title-rôle, impresses the audience with her decided talent; Mr Frederick Ross enacts young Jean very creditably; Mr W. R. Winning as Paul Dechelette and Mr B. Langford as Caoudal are well placed; Mr George Antley creates considerable amusement as Césaire; Mr Archie Helaby is favourably received as Flamant; Mr F. A. Storey makes an ideal Father Legrande; Little Miss Lottie Ray performs the part of Joseph with confidence; Miss Laura Ray is commendable as Mechaume; and the minor parts are all in capable hands.

PLYMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Langdon Lee.—Dick Whittington is still going strong, matinées and ordinary performances attracting good houses. The Australian Dancers continue to attract and please, some really funny and original business is introduced by those entertaining comedians, Messrs Reed and Lerne.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Williams.—The Girl from Kay's is having a successful run here this week. Mr George Dance's company is winning golden opinions. The title-rôle is in the capable hands of Miss Nancy Hervyn; Miss Rita Leonhardt is pretty and graceful as Nora Chalmers; and successes are also scored by Miss Maisie North and Miss Mabel Champion. In the character of Hoggenheimer Mr H. C. Barry is irresistibly funny; Harry Gordon finds a clever exponent in Mr Garnet Wilson; as the Hon. Percy Fitzthistle Mr Leslie Roy Cathie is capital; and Mr Fred Rolph makes the most of his opportunities as the hall porter.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton.—The pantomime of Sinbad the Sailor has entered on its last week locally, after which it will be staged in other towns.

PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Brothers; Manager, Mr J. Field.—An artistic and sensational turn is provided here this week by Mr Frank Gerald, who, supported by a clever company, appears in a sketch entitled The King's Highway. A comedy act which evokes hearty laughter is that put on by Burns and Evans. A gymnastic display by the Mezzettis deserves warm praise, and Mr Arthur Reece contributes good songs. Madge Mayfield is a dainty dancer and pleasing singer; Sydney James' Strolling Players give an enjoyable turn; and Peter Kelly and Amy Sullivan win unstinted applause with their taking songs.

PONTYPRIDD.

PORTH.

POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE. — Manager, Mr W. Bynoth.—The attraction here is the D'Oyly Carte principal répertoire opera company, which opened on Monday in The Mikado. Mr Albert Kavanagh successfully plays the part of the Mikado; Mr Pasie Ripple as Nanki-Poo is well received; as Ko Ko, Lord High Executioner, Mr C. H. Workman is responsible for some excellent amusement; Mr Fred Billington deserves mention as Pooh-Bah; Mr Leicester Tunks ably sustains the part of Pish-Tush; Go To is capitally played by Mr Fred Drawwater; Miss Norah Maguire looks charming and scores a distinct success as Yum-Yum; she possesses an excellent voice; Miss Theresa Rassam gives an appreciative rendering of Katisha; Pitti-Sing and Peep-Bo are ably represented by Miss Jessie Rose and Miss Alice Lisle. The choruses are well rendered. The following are also in the bill:—The Gondoliers, Yeoman of the Guard, H.M.S. Pinafore, and Pirates of Penzance.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietress, Miss Ada Alexandra; General Director, Mr D. Taylor; Manager, Mr E. Pryce. — A capital programme is again provided here. It is headed by the Cee Mee Troupe of acrobats, who contribute an excellent turn, and are well received; Three St. Clairs, comic and expert cyclists, meet with approval in their clever performance, as also does Alec Aubrey, the Welsh athlete. The Three Novells, society acrobats and tumblers; the Salvannas, Oriental entertainers; Helm and Cozens, in their comedy duologue, The Doctor and the Patient; Syd Hermann, comedian; the smart comedians, Ellis and Watts; and Salavanti. A new ballet d'action is given by Rabbit and Haupin, the two clowns, and is most amusing. Vernon's animated photos. are shown on the Cinématograph.

PORTSMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Bell.—Mr George Dance's company is still here in Veronique. Highly appreciative audiences have been delighted with the charming singing and playing of Miss Ruth Lincoln as Veronique; Miss Maud Boyd as Agatha; Miss Lena Maitland as Ermerance; Mr Scott Rupell as Florestan; and the humorous efforts of Mr Leslie Holland as M. Coquenard; Mr Ivan Berlyn as M. Loustob; and Mr Tom Shelford as Saraphin. Mr Victor Champion has conducted the augmented orchestra with great ability.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr T. E. Agate.—The exciting drama, Under Two Flags, is being presented here by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr Mark Blow's well-selected company. Miss Emelie Polini is charmingly piquant as Cigarette; Miss Hope Mayne is dignified and natural as Princess Venenia Corona; Miss Lucy Carr plays carefully as Lady Beatrice Guinevere; Miss Joan Stean does well as Countess Olga; and Miss Daisy Carlton is clever as Lavinia. Mr Mark Blow's impersonation of Bertie Cecil Royellieu is a well-balanced and powerful one; Mr Reginald Hardy West is successful as Barklie Cecil Royellieu; Mr W. Hook's interpretation of Rake, the valet, is capital; and Mr Chas. D. Pitt is smart and alert as Colonel Chateauroy. The drama is preceded by the amusing farce, Aunt Rebecca.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr W. Pratt.—The Borghetti Troupe, head balancing acrobats, head the bill here, and give a fine exhibition of clever gymnastic work; Leah Arden, operatic ballad vocalist, sings well, and meets with approval; Dora Martini, for her daring and graceful bar act, deserves the applause she receives; Elvo and Evelyn, speciality artists, contribute a humorous turn; Les Sprays, Continental dancers, are appreciated; Leslie Race, refined comedian, is successful with his comic songs; Ford and Hanson, in their musical novelty act, bring down the house; Stave, electrical comedy artist; Alice Maple, soubrette; and Payne's Bio-Photoscope, with new pictures, are also in the bill.

RADCLIFFE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr Jas. Boothman.—Miss Daisy De Roy's pantomime, Dick Whittington and His Cat, is proving a great attraction here. Mdlle. Lucretia does well as Dick Whittington, and her top-boot dancing is remarkably clever. As Alice Miss Daisy De Roy is seen to advantage. Mr Sidney Dooley as Eliza, the cook, is responsible for much laughter, and Mr J. C. Bland as Jack is very funny. The Barrasford Boys appear as the Two Seafarers. Little Jupiter makes a clever Whittington's Cat, and is very good in a trapeze act, assisted by Miss Beatrice Tilley. Miss Poppy Lytton deserves a word of praise as Princess Luleka, as also does Miss Georgie Hall as Fairy Flora. Rose Walmsley's Star Quartet are much appreciated in their Terpsichorean act.

RAWTENSTALL.

GRAND THEATRE.—Co-Proprietors and Lessees, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr J. Ellis Miller.—This week we have a visit from the American-Indian actress, Go-Won-Go Mohawk, and company, in the sensational drama, Wep-Ton-No-Mah. In the title-rôle Go-Won-Go Mohawk gives a powerful portrayal, and is ably assisted by Mr C. W. Charles as Colonel Stockton and Mr Isaac Shawross as Captain Franklin. Miss Minnie Goepel as Nellie Stockton and Miss Jessie Hart as Matilda Sniffles are equally successful in their respective characters.

READING.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr W. E. Garnett; Secretary, Mr Reginald Taylor.—Mr J. Howard Bannister's company is appearing here this week in The Darling of the Gods. Miss Inez Bensusan plays the Princess Yo San very artistically. Mr Alfred Goddard gives a powerful rendering of Kara; Mr Leonard Grey is effective as Sargon, Prince of Tosan; Mr D. Lewin Mannering is excellent as Zakkuri; Mr Alexander Haviland as Tanda Tanji, Mr L. St. George Lowther as Inu, Mr Esmond Hine as Hasebe Soyemon, Miss Mary Mannering as Setsu, Miss Stella Wynne as Ni, the singing girl, and Miss Kate Hamilton as Madame Asani all sustain their parts well; and the remainder of the company is of all-round merit. The play is produced by Mr Sidney C. Sinclair.

ROCHDALE.

SALFORD.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr Harold Goulden.—The new domestic moral drama The Sin of Her Childhood was on Monday beautifully staged and well received by a crowded house. Miss Mary Fulton as Mary Haysel, the heroine, is quite equal to the task; as Stephen Haysel, the villainous brother, Mr A. Milroy cleverly rouses the gods; Mr H. Hargreaves an excellent Rev. Alan Grey; and Mr J. A. Campbell's portrayal of Captain John Thornton is smart. Miss Jennie Hicks as a vicious woman addicted to drink, Maria Haysell, makes a favourable impression; Little Dott Moss as Hannah Spry at once becomes a great favourite with her songs, dances, and banjo solos; Mr Fred Elvin as Barney O'Reilly and Miss Nellie Freeland as Eliza Muggins are much appreciated for their comedy business.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford; Licensee, Mr James M. Hardie; Secretary and Manager, Mr C. Shayler.—A diverting and pleasant entertainment of much variety is attracting this week. Walton and Miss Ella give a marvellous show with dogs; Lottie Lennox, burlesque actress, has some pleasing songs. Some smart acrobatic work is done by the Paxton Trio; Tooh and Tard, comic acrobats, cause much laughter. Other clever turns include Harry Drew, Welsh bass singer; Clarus Brothers, equilibrists on the rolling globes; Larry Lewis, comedian; A. Aldridge, tenor vocalist; and Lily Seville, comedienne and dancer.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr J. B. Taylor.—Mr John F. Preston and company in the dramatic sketch, Streets of Salford, heads this week's programme. Mr Preston is amusing as Badger, and much fun is got out of the character of Dan, a Lancashire lad, by Mr Hardy Macro. The other characters are portrayed by Mr Edward E. Louis as John Hardman, Mr Charles Leach as Captain Fairweather, Mr Ernest R. Allen as Mark Livingstone, Miss Mabelle F. Barlow as Mrs Puffy, and Miss Gertrude Godart as Lucy Fairweather, all excellent studies. A very amusing sketch, One Night Only, is given by Henry Carlton and his comedy team. Brothers Andreassens, novelty acrobats; Will Soule, quaint comedian; Gus Balsiger, Negro comedian, vocalist, and trick instrumentalist; and Three Delaries, in their speciality act, "The Demon Grotto," also add to the amusement.

L. AND N. W. PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietress, Mrs S. A. Higham; Manager, Mr Sam Higham.—An agreeable change in last week's programme brings the following newcomers into the bill:—Mr T. W. Lennen and Miss Florrie Wright.

BRIDGE HOTEL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Tom Bradbury.—Mr Jake Linde, comedian; Mr Joe Hunt, Negro comedian; and Miss Alice Devine, male impersonator, are amongst those engaged this week.

SCARBOROUGH.

LONDESBOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Waddington and Sons; Acting-Manager, Mr J. T. Carpenter.—Miss Lena Stanton's company is fulfilling a week's engagement here in the pantomime Dick Whittington. Miss Lena Stanton puts plenty of life into the part of Dick; Miss Marie Gerrard is a pleasing Alice Fitzwarren; Little Keeno as Captain Spanker evokes laughter; Mr Bruce Green is good as Margarine Mopps; and the same can be said of Mr George James as Fitzwarren, Mr Alf Brooks as Idle Jack, and Mr Harry Jay as the Emperor Kopall. Jay and Ginger are responsible for a good ventriloquial turn; the Cecil Troupe of lady dancers put in some smart work; Le Voli does some new acrobatic tricks; and Joe Paulette, the French cycling clown, gives a neat turn.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietress, Mrs Henry Mayhew; Acting-Manager, Mr F. P. Morgan.—Messrs Edward Marris and W. H Kirby's pantomime company occupy the stage here with Dick Whittington. Miss Mamie Iris is a dainty little Alice, who sings and dances well; Miss Winifred Preece is an excellent Dick; Mr W. H. Kirby creates plenty of amusement as Idle Jack, and is ably supported by Mr H. A. Griffiths as Betsy. Special turns are given by Messrs Ryde and Beeman in their American comedy act; Mamie Iris, sand dancer; the Three Rays, acrobatic dancers; the Two Balzens, top spinners and balancers; Lillian Sivade, trapezist; and the Dunlops, comedy cyclists.

PEOPLE'S PALACE AND AQUARIUM.—Managing Director, Mr Wm. Morgan; Secretary and Manager, Mr Walter Kitchingman.—Mr James Hare's company is occupying the stage here this week with the drama The Guilty Man. As Audrey Priestley Miss Isobel Singleton does well, and the same must be said of Miss Irene Clifford in the rôle of Nell Radford. Miss Jenny Hallworth makes the most of Sukie; Mr James Hare represents the villain, Redmar, admirably; General Seymour is worthily embodied by Mr R. D. Bell; and the George Seymour of Mr H M. King is in capable hands. Mr Bert Atherton causes amusement as Bob Sparrow, and Mr T. Atkinstall as Esau Hebron must not be forgotten.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Quinton Gibson.—Amongst the interesting turns that are billed to appear this week are Darwin, the man monkey; Miss Florrie Claribell, comedienne; Happy Armstrong, in a musical turn; Droll and Dryan, comedians; the Celtics, entertainers; Miss Florrie Bray, sketch artist; Mr Will Ellerslie, comedian; and Fan, an acrobatic comedian. The programme also includes views on the Hippograph.

SEACOMBE.

IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Kiernan.—Messrs Carson and Granville's company is here this week in The Drama of Life. Mr Jerrold Ord deserves praise for an excellent and consistent presentation of Harry Beech; Mr John J. Hooker scores well as Walter Beech; Mr Owen Remonde as Sir Dobson Wilde and Miss Muriel Inglis as Lady Jane Wilde cause fun by their comic interludes; Jack Lawton is effectively played by Mr Bulmer Pitt, and as Richard Brenton Mr Walter Steele does well. Mr Vernon Dalby is effective as Count De Foi, and Miss Marie Murray is intelligent as Master Robert Beech. The scenery and effects are excellent.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr A. C. Harrison.—A London Actress, on the first three nights of the week, and The Guiding Star on the remaining three, form the attractions here this week, the plays being presented by Miss Emma Litchfield and company, under the direction of Mr Stuart Cleveland. In the first-named piece Mr Cleveland portrayed Clive Crawford with much vigour; Lieut. Kingston was played with ability by Mr Louis Lingard; Mr Frank Radcliffe was good as Captain Mannering; Pat Maloney and Moses Mendoza were amusing characters in the hands of Mr Sam Wilford and Mr Geo. Wallace; and Miss Litchfield embodied Hilda Mannering with her customary ability. In the title-rôle Miss Violet Lawson was entirely successful. Other parts were taken by Miss Violet Vivian, Miss Adele Wilford, and Miss Theodora Henrier.

STAFFORD.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Jas. Elphinstone.—A capital pantomime company is here this week in Cinderilla, the title-role being charmingly played by Miss Madge Osmond. As Prince Perfect Miss Dora Denmark is a typical principal boy; Miss Ethel Mohr has a taking part as Dandini; and Miss Dot Beresford is a dainty Fairy Godmother; Mr E Wilson as Baron Pebbly-Beach is excellent; Messrs J. Binns and H. Haines give appropriate delineation of Butterina and Margarina; Mr Fred Pack is quaintly funny as Pimple; and Mr W. Marsh and Mr W. Morris make things lively all-round as Ping and Pong.

SHEFFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr F. W. Purcell; Acting-Manager, Mr T. S. Carter.—Goody Two Shoes is now in the zenith of its success. Miss Minnie Cunningham, Miss Georgina Leonard, Miss Molly Westenholm, Miss Rita Rhylle, Miss Amy French, Miss Tilley, Messrs Downs and Langford, Mr Fred Lincoln, Mr Harry F. M'Clelland, and Mr George French are all on good terms with the Royal habitués.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr C. W. Ramsay.—Aladdin is now going "full steam ahead," and fun and frolic reign supreme. August and September are manufacturers of clean gags, and good comic merchants are Mr Charles Austin, Mr Teddy Denham, Mr Royce, Mr Royston, and Mr O. E. Lennon. Miss Esta Steele, Miss Maude Esmond, Miss Minnie Newman, Misses Conway and Balton, Miss Ida Warsley, Miss Cissy Paris, and the Four Magnets are all charming, attractive, and popular artistes.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. W. Young.—The following performers maintain the prestige of the Empire this week:—The Caledonian Boys' orchestra; Carl and Mary Ohm; Charles Cardow, humorous entertainer; Barney Vox, Celtic ventriloquist; Martin and Quigg, eccentric comedians; Signor and Madama Borelli, in "Musical Tit-Bits;" the Four Royal Welshmen, vocal entertainers; the daring and graceful gymnast Leona Dare; the Three Georges, comic acrobats; and M. Eugen Marrder, the great Continental horse-rider, in his speciality act "The Golden Cavalier."

SHREWSBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Business Manager, Mr W. C. Dornton.—In the Ranks has been admirably staged and powerfully performed here this week by Messrs Arthur Carlton and H. Armitage's talented company. In the part of Ned Drayton Mr Edward Lloyd acted with considerable power and talent; Mr Herbert Cecil worked hard and successfully as Gideon Blake; Mr Arthur Palling as Col. Wynter merited high praise; Mr Archie W. Chappell played very creditably the part of Capt. Holcroft; Mr Lionel Sullivan was a capital Farmer Herrick; Mr Arthur Byron was a clever and amusing countryman as Joe Buzzard; Mr James E. Page sustained the part of Richard Belton in a very artistic and capable fashion, and a number of minor male rôles were all in good hands. Miss Edith Blair-Staples played with expression and feeling the rôle of Ruth Herrick; Miss Daisy Norman was bright and successful as Barbara Herrick; Miss L. Barley-Clarke was entertaining as Mrs Timmins; Miss Flo Ravensheur was good as Polly Timmins; Miss Maud Darley as Mrs O'Flanagan was efficient; and Miss Harriet Russell made a droll and clever Mrs Buzzard.

SMETHWICK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr C. Barnard; Manager, Mr E. Hewitson.—A cordial reception was accorded Mr Howard Hinton's company on Monday in the first of the season's pantomimes, Dick Whittington. There is the usual amount of fun and jollity, and some of the latest songs, with some good dancing, make up a capital show. The company is strong all round. Miss Kitty Phelps makes an attractive principal boy; and Dick's sweetheart is played by Miss Daisy Clements, who was such a popular Red Riding Hood in one of last year's shows. Miss Maud Leonard sings and plays well as Sir Rowland; Miss Gracie Clements makes a capital Fairy Goodwill; the Cat is excellently played by Mr Harry Cardon, a clever contortionist; Alderman Fitzwarren is judiciously presented by Mr Mount Stephens; and the fun is well maintained by Mr Harry Rennior as Idle Jack; Mr Steve Cooke, a diverting Cook; Mr Tom B. Seymour as Captain Bunting, and the Bowery Boys as Shuffle and Shirk. The Emperor of Morocco is satisfactorily represented by Mr H. H. Hastings; Miss Violet Welsh makes a charming Princess; and specialities are given by the Bowery Boys, in a humorous boxing act; the Sisters Clements, in a smart coon song; Stephens and Rennior; Professor Yawta, with his performing dogs; and the grand Pierrot Ballet, by the Empress Quartet of dancers.

SOUTHAMPTON.

GRAND.—Mr George Dance's Duchess of Dantzic company is here. Mr Dance has mounted and dressed the play in a lavish style. Miss Rita Presano as Catherine sings and acts well, and scores a success. Miss Alice Coverick is a dainty Renée, her singing of "The Little Corporal" being loudly applauded. Mr Thomas C. Maxwell makes a favourable impression as Adhemar, and the Napoleon of Mr Frederick Moyes is a capital piece of acting. Mr Colin Mackay is exceedingly funny throughout, and revels in the part of Papillon, in addition to being responsible for some admirable stage management. Mr Mackesay Cullin is a soldierlike Lefebvre, and Miss Lillian Drake makes a distinguished Empress. Other parts are extremely well played, and the augmented orchestra is ably handled by Mr B. J. Paterson.

PRINCE OF WALES.—Mr Henry Eglington's company is appearing here in The Babes in the Wood. Miss Tilly Stewart is delightfully fascinating as Robin Hood, and Miss Florrie Brandon is comely and attractive as principal girl. Mr H. Talbot and Mr St. John Stewart as the villains cause great amusement. The babes are charmingly impersonated by Miss Cissie Williams and Miss Eileen Leoville, and Mr Harry Harcourt as Baron Graball and Mr Henry Eglington as the Dame work hard and successfully. Messrs Harold Perry (the Demon King), Reuben Kitchen (Pompey), and Mr Will Ambo, a wonderful dancer, also render valuable assistance. The specialities are excellent, and the scenery, including a very pretty transformation scene, "A Baby's Dream of Fairyland," is artistic.

PALACE.—The principal attraction here this week is given by Paul Martinetti and company, who score a success in Robert Macaire. Mdlle. Yvette, with her trained horses and dogs, does well, and others who score are Fred Keator, comedian; Muir and Bartlett, in The Lady and the Lunatic; Dollie Denton, juvenile comedienne; Lauri Wylie, mimic; Cavern and Cave, in An Early Morning Dip; and Will Farrell.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr W. Marlow, sen.; Manager, Mr W. Marlow, jun.—The attraction here for Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday was the comic opera entitled La Poupée, presented by Mr J. Bannister Howard for the Ben Greet company. The play from the first gains hearty recognition, whilst the singing is greatly admired. Mr Algernon Lee plays the rôle of Launcelot in a capable manner, his singing being loudly applauded; Mr Joseph A. Brull makes an ideal Father Maxime, whose song "A contented mind is a blessing kind," is creditably rendered; Loremois and Baron Chanterelle are two humorous characters well portrayed by Messrs Harry Bishop and Stanley White respectively; Mr Gus Danby makes a conspicuous Hilarius, and is mirth-provoking; Madame Hilarius is well taken by Miss Alice M Farlane; Miss Eva Ellis as Henri deserves mention; and Miss Cissie Wade is exceptionally good as Alesia. On Thursday and Friday, the farcical comedy, entitled The Saucy Sally, was presented by Mr L. Brough's company.

SOUTHPORT.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, the Opera House and Winter Gardens Company, Limited; General Manager, Mr Alfred Hemming.—Defending His Honour is the attraction here. Mr John Davidson as Douglas Bryce gives a forcible and pleasing representation. Mr Clifton Boyne makes the most of the character of Stephen Graid. Miss F. Melrose-Millett is a very effective heroine, and acts with considerable power. Messrs Charles H. Herbert, William E. Passmore, Thompson Carruthers, and Kenneth Black are also seen to advantage.

SOUTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs J. and F. Coulson.—The romantic military drama, entitled The King's Pardon, played by Mr Frank Macnaghten's company, is occupying the boards this week. Mr Charles A. Leicester is well placed as Spence Broughton. The arduous part of Noel Blake is entrusted to Mr Charles Stirling, whose intense villainy evokes much interest. Mr Charles Whitlock capably presents Clifford Yorke; two diverting portrayals are those of Messrs Harry Belford (Major Dobbs) and Val W. Gully (Ebenezer). The Phyllis of Miss Pollie Denville is bright; and Miss Georgina France is an artistic heroine as Barbara Yorke.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. F. Thompson.—The bill for this week is headed by a clever equilibristic act provided by the Lukushima Troupe, including Otora San Lukushima, Japan's premier lady artist. The Jackson Familar of musical entertainers repeat their former success; Geoffreys and Benson in Spoofed are vastly amusing; and Billy Hobbs is seen to advantage as a dancer and coon artist. The American Bioscope, with fresh films, is always welcome; and Lyane and Geks, novelty contortionists; Sakers, comedy artistes; and Little Uno, boy comedian, are also good.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K. Hall and Mr Jos. Sweeney.—J. H. Milburn, comedian, is figuring successfully here as principal turn, and his admirers are afforded excellent opportunity of witnessing the distinct and pleasing variations of his talent Ben Hur, the ideal athlete, is a striking example of muscular vigour; Bandoni submits a good musical act; and others appearing are Marie Yorke, Dan Noble, Vasey and Ramsey, Percy Farrimond, and Bertha Norwood.

SPENNYMOOR.

CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Harding Thomas; Resident-Manager, Mr Herbert Vere.—Mr Fred J. Kirke's company is appearing here in that gentleman's new dramatic musical comedy, The Naval Detective, in which the author fills the name-part with great effect. Miss Maudie Vincent acts, sings, and dances well, and is altogether a fascinating Phyllis Leslie. Mr Richard Purdie scores as Dr. Schreiner, and the same may be said of Mr Arthur Beaufort as the Hon. Bertie Fairlox. Mr Harry Ray displays marked abilities as an eccentric comedian in the character of Captain Hustle. Miss Edith Claris as Susan Scrubb, Mrs Charles Wood as Rebecca Gentle, and Miss Florry Hayes are a capable trio. The cast is completed by Mr Will Bird, who does justice to the part of Hans Winklepump. The Gaiety Girls in dance, song, and mandoline duet contribute materially to the evening's amusement.

ST. HELENS.

THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr M'Leod Loader.—This week we are again favoured with a visit from Mr W. Kelly's company in the ever-green and perennial drama A Royal Divorce. Prominent members of the company are Miss Edith Cole (Josephine), Mr Frank Lister (Napoleon), Miss Ethyle Murray (Marie Louise), Miss Helen Richmond (Stephanie), and Messrs H. Gray Dolby, A. Grenville, and Dennis Bryan as Talleyrand, De Beaumont, and Grimaud respectively.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford, Will Sley, and F. Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr A. V. Carnell.—Another capital bill this week includes Tom M'Inerney, wrestler; Dot Stanley, comedienne; Fred Melton, Dave M'Niel, and Charles Rentone, a trio of capable and amusing comedians; Hannah and James, clever foot equilibrists; Tennyson and Wallis, diverting comedians; Gilbey, in his fireman act; Primrose, a neat and smart sand dancer; and Willie Walker, ball-puncher.

STOCKPORT.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Wm Revill.—Pantomime still reigns her with Milton Ray's Little Bo-Beep, following the successful Forty Thieves. As Binks Mr Harry Elliston works very hard, and achieves well deserved success; Mr Jack Hylton is amusingly funny as the Baron, and Mr W. G. Wesley makes a capital Dame Trot. Miss Daisy Morrell is remarkably successful as Ferdinand, her style being most pleasing, while her well-chosen songs gain numerous encores; Miss Lily Wright as Boy Blue and Miss Ada Wright as Bo-Peep are both charming young ladies and capable vocalists and dancers; the performance on the horizontal bars of the Two Eltons is exceedingly clever and distinctly amusing; and to the Four Sisters Tree, who take the parts of the Secret Police, must be credited a large share of the success of the pantomime, their songs and dances being much appreciated.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Weldon Watts; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr R. G. Elder.—Mr Macnaghten's company, in Robinson Crusoe, is here. Mr Will Lytton as Will Atkins does good work; Mr Jack Foley's Dame Crusoe is a brisk, funny performance; Sammy Sockless and Dick Drymaath by Messrs Harris and Worth put plenty of go into their work; Mr Charles Cook's Rajah Ram Jampotte is clever; and Mr Harry Morgan's Friday is a very able personation. As Crusoe Miss Louie Hurman plays with much spirit; Miss Daisy Reed's Princess Pearlypet is a great success, and her dancing is smart; Miss Rose Bartlett's Polly Perkins is refined; Miss D. Cherry's Merry and Miss Dolly Langham's Nancy Lee are both good; and Miss Flora Leonard as Fairy Coral merits praise for her sweet singing. Miss Ivy Lane's Troupe of dancers introduce some clever novelties.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. Batty; Manager, Mr W. Batty.—An excellent company is here, headed by those favourites Verno and Voyce, vocalists, &c. Good turns are also done by Hanco, a remarkable handcuff and card performer; Abel and Welch, in their grotesque act; Clarke's Nippers; Alskarno Trio, Risley performers, &c.; Daisy Belfrey, serio; Lilian Rigby, on the sleigh-bells, &c.; Mystery Gauze, Indian female impersonator; Payne's Bio, and the clever and laughable musical show by the Bros. Dixon.

STOURBRIDGE.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Manageress, Miss Maude Lynton.—Mr Arthur Ross and company is here in the domestic drama The Follies of Youth. Mr Arthur Rose as Ralph Murdock sustains this character in a capable manner, and Miss Violet Macaree as the unscrupulous adventuress Gwendoline Murdock gives a meritorious delineation. Mr Walter Bentley is prominent in the character of Captain Ronald Bruce. Miss Laurie A. Pardy acts in a pleasing manner the part of Dorothy Dornton, and Miss Bertha Hanbury as Little Ruth is one of the most accomplished child actresses seen here for some time. Mr David Beattie as Nat Thistle displays plenty of humour, and the same can be said of Mr Bert Wallace as Matthew Merryweather and Miss Ena Russell as Kitty Hawthorne.

SUNDERLAND.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Charles E. Machin; General Manager, Mr Percival Craig.—Mr Machin's latest annual at the premier house in the Wearside borough continues its course with undiminished success. Miss Louie Willis in the title-rôle is an established favourite, and Miss Jessie Merrilees as Alice is the most bewitching of principal girls. Miss Kitty Upton as the Prince of China is a strong rival for favour, and the Princess Nicey-Picey of Miss Marion Scott is a popular success. Mr Edwin Boyde is the life and soul of the pantomime, his Idle Jack being full of fun and go. Mr G. H. Bishop as the Emperor of China is another established favourite, and Mr Arthur Staples is successful as the Prime Minister. The Alderman Fitzwarren of Mr W. Vestor is another excellent performance. The specialities by the Floradors and the Four Mushrooms are both exceedingly meritorious performances that find special favour; whilst the performing seals and sea lions of Captain Woodward provide a most interesting change in a much varied programme.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, the Sunderland Theatres (Limited); Managing Director, Mr Chas. E. Machin; General Manager, Mr Percival Craig.—Mr J. F. Preston's company is this week presenting Lady Godiva, Nell Gwynne, and Jane Shore. The first-mentioned was played on Monday night. The part of Lady Godiva is touchingly represented by Miss Grace Lester; and Miss Marcella Hudson makes the most of her opportunities as Lady Aldyth. Mr James Duncan is adequate as Leofric, and Mr W. Howard Barlow displays considerable power in the rôle of Algar. Mr F. B. Woulfe gives a vivid portrayal of Tom o' Coventry, whilst as Robin Shaklebolt Mr Dan F. Roe leaves little to be desired. Mr Clifford Marle is excellent as Unwolf Unwolfson.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, the People's Palace, Limited; Managing Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Acting Manager, Mr G. V. Wybrow.—A particularly bright programme is provided here this week. Mr and Mrs Neil Litchfield make a great hit in their amusing sketch, Down at Brook Farm; some remarkable feats are performed by Nadji, a contortionist and hand-balancer of no mean order; the Michalinis in their juggling act obtain a flattering reception; Haldyne Duo, in their vocal comedy act; Austin and Cowan, vocal entertainers; Jimson's comedy animal act; J. A. Wilson, Negro comedian; Alexandra Edwin, soprano vocalist; and Vernon's animated pictures also contribute to the enjoyable entertainment.

SWANSEA.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons, Limited; Lessees and Managers, Messrs E. Oswald Brooks and J. W. Woodbridge; Resident Partner, Mr E. Oswald Brooks.—Mr Frederick Mouillot's company on Monday took possession of the boards for the week with the pantomime, Sinbad the Sailor. It is capitally staged and dressed, some of the scenery and effects being very pretty. The principals are Miss Florence Dillon (Sinbad), Miss Ada Brenan (Princess Prettypearl), Miss Laura Humphreys (Zorilda), Mr Stephen Fitzgerald (Mrs Sinbad), Mr John R. Val (Sinbad), Denby and Dent (Captain Bunker and Mate Shirker), Mr Alec Murray (the Bashaw), Mr A. M. Moore (the old man of the sea), and Miss Lovel (the Fairy Diamonda). The performances were well received.

NEW STAR.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell; Acting-Manager, Mr William Coutts.—The attraction at this house during the week has been Sims and Barrett's drama The Golden Ladder, presented by Miss Mary Austin and E. Vivian Edmund's company.

NEW EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Albert Mitchell.—The capital programme provided here this week contains the following:—Wille Brothers, a clever trio of head balancers; Maud Rose, charming comedienne and clever dancer; Will Mitcham, a good vocalist and instrumentalist; La Belle Creole Morcashani, eccentric baritone vocalist; Duncan's Scotch collies, a troupe of wonderfully trained dogs; T'Oile D'Araignee, a pleasing electrical gymnastic novelty: Miss Lily Lena, a dainty comedienne; the M'Gregors, a trio of smart musicians; Newhouse and Ward, trick and comedy cyclists.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. W. Grantham.—The engagements at this house for the current week are as follows:—Signor Pepi, quick change artiste; Lilian Neville, soprano vocalist; Tom Carney, comedian and dancer; Stanley and Greenop, banjoists; Vernon's animated pictures, Harry Nelson and Teonnie Thomas, in their absurdities "On the Ra-Ta" and "Ketchup;" Beattie Lyndon, serio and dancer, and Harry Maynard, actor-vocalist.

SWINDON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Responsible Manager, Mr Alfred Manners; Musical Director, Mr Fred H. Lucas.—Despite the piercing cold and snow on Monday the popular parts of this house were well filled to witness the first performance in this town of the new drama The Female Swindler, staged by Mr Tom H. Taylor's company, under the general management of Mr Luke Forster. The important rôle of Lu Valroy is powerfully and effectively embodied by Miss Violet Elliott. Mr Jerrold Heather maintains his reputation in another strong part—that of Jack Coulson, a detective. Mr Luke Forster cleverly undertakes the part of Billy Binks, causing an abundance of genuine fun. Mr Bernard Mervyn gives an excellent study of the despicable Geoffrey Warden; Mr George Unwin enacts Harold Travers with commendable judgment; and Mr A. Kenyon Gray is seen to considerable advantage as James Oliver. To Miss Florrie Kelsey is safely entrusted the rôle of May Andrews, and Miss Evelyn Marrable is pleasing as the maid, Mary Ann.

TORQUAY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Managing Director, Mr R. Smerdon; Secretary, Mr A. Pearse.—Cinderella concluded a successful four weeks' run this week. Though the weather has been so bitter elsewhere, it has been mild and favourable here. On Tuesday Mr Herbert Barrs's pantomime company took part in the annual charity match with the Torquay Athletic Football Club, by means of which some £20 was raised for the Torquay Hospital. Mr Herbert Barrs's benefit on Wednesday was well attended.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.

OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Charles Carey; Manager, F. Edgar Manaton.—The present week is devoted to pantomime with Mr Mouillot's company in Cinderella. Miss Florrie Saunders is a charming heroine, and Miss Mary Thorne a vivacious principal boy. Mr Lionel Braham as the Baron Hardup, Mr E. Carlton as Buttons, and the Brothers Pollard as the ugly sisters, are responsible for most of the fun. Miss L. Willard is a charming Dandini, and the Nero, acrobats, and the Pansy Quartette, dancers, contribute the specialities. The Neros also take the harlequinade, and the introduction of an electrical car for Cinderella is rapturously received.

WAKEFIELD.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Mr Louis Calvert's company occupies the stage this week in the play Sunday. Miss Jean Stirling Mackinlay acts with considerable ability and power as Sunday; Mr J. Edward Pearce is good as Colonel Brinthorpe; Mr Ernest B. Douglas is excellent as Tom Oxley; and Mr Charles B. Vaughan scores as Arthur Brinthorpe. The parts of Towser, Davy, Lively, and Jacky find clever exponents in Messrs Frederick Powell, John H. Manley, T. Norman Walter, and Whitford Kane. The character of Mrs Naresby is admirably portrayed by Miss Elizabeth Watson, and Miss Helen Macgregor is seen to advantage as the Nun.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wakefield Hippodrome, Limited; Manager, Mr D. G. Mooney.—Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco are a trio of clever wizards; Miss Lydia Dudley is an amusing low comedy artiste; Mr Harry Bent, mimic, scores with his impersonations; and Mr Fred Casburn, eccentric comedian, is well received. Other artists include Miss Belle Sydney, vocalist and dancer; Miss Carlotta Lunn, comedienne; and Stylo, hoop manipulator.

WALLSEND.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Owners, the Wallsend Theatre Company; Manager, Mr Tony Richardson.—A Traitor Prince is the attraction here this week. Mr Alex. Temple is capital as Lieut. Frank Derrick, and Mr G. M. Montanini's depiction of Prince Rac Dalmeirez is one of the outstanding features of interest. Mr Austin Mortimer is exceedingly amusing as the Hon. Bobby Vavasour; Miss Lilian Rosebery is a pleasing Lola Vane; and Miss Beatrice Western is exceptionally smart as Vashti. Miss Lilian Rigno'd capably fills the rôle of Pansy Blossom, and scores with her songs and dances.

WALSALL.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Walsall Theatres Co., Limited; General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—Mr and Mrs Calvert Routledge and company are here this week with The Cricket on the Hearth. Mr Calvert Routledge as John Peerybingle is excellent; Mrs Routledge's Dot is an admirable performance; Miss Sybil Ruskin makes a sympathetic Bertha; Miss Dora Lewis is exceedingly laughable as Tilly Slowboy; and Mr Sydney Sarl as Mr Tackleton and Mr David Curtis as Caleb Plummer are remarkably good. The rôle of Edward Plummer is well sustained by Mr Alexander Wills.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Walsall Theatres Company, Limited; General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—Mr T. Morton Powell's company opened here on Monday with Honour Thy Father. Mr J. W. Evelyn gives a fine interpretation of Gabriel Garth; Mr Douglas B. Watson is successful as Jack Halyard; Mr Juan De Alberti is well cast as Duncan Bly; and Mr Claude Merton is very comical as Job Merry and George Blogg. As Mercy Merry Miss Kitty Russell admirably sustains the part; Miss Maud Grey makes a satisfactory Violet Wilfred; and as Gertrude Garth Miss Kate Newton is capital.

WALTHAMSTOW.

KING'S THEATRE.—On Circumstantial Evidence goes with great spirit here, and Mr and Mrs Charles Clifford's company is to be congratulated on a success. Mr Clifford is a dashing Captain Hamilton, of the "Buffs." Mr A. M. James gives a good account of himself as Colonel Sir Lawrence Kinloch, and Jack Ogilvy is capitally played by Mr Leonard Williams. Mr Hill Cremer makes the most of his small opportunities as Antenia, and scores well; Tim has a pretty and sympathetic exponent in Miss Gladys Clifford; Miss M. Trevelyan acts with considerable power as Olga and Mary Brandoni; and the Violet Ogilvy of Miss Maud Camfield is a performance of exceptional merit. Other parts are efficiently played by Mr J. Sturton, Mr J. Holt, Mr Harry Cooke, Mr Anderson-Dolph, and Mr James Long. Miss Mabel Tremere is amusing as Polly Smithers. The scenery and mounting of the play are excellent.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr G. Adney Payne; Manager, Mr Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr G. F. Slatter.—Miss Ethel Loftus is a charming comedienne and mimic, and is warmly received here. A hearty welcome on Monday was accorded to Mr Will Cornish, whose handbell ringing is loudly applauded. De Vere and Kenwick are very clever in their sketch, and their burlesque pictures of Irish life cause great laughter. Mr Jack Lorimer, Scotch comedian, evokes continuous laughter and enthusiastic applause. Mr Alec Hurley contributes four songs, in two of which pathos is agreeably mingled, and in "The Pick-a-Ninnies" and "The Lambeth Walk" his humour finds plenty of scope. The house would fain have heard more of the artist, notwithstanding the liberal fare he provided. Mr Alec Hurley must be set down as one of the greatest successes of the Palace. Miss Ruby Aston is equally good as singer and dancer. Lidden and Hayward are a couple of excellent vocalists and instrumentalists. Mr Alf Chester is in the best of form, and his song, "I wonder if the Sergeant knows," brings down the house. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope contributes some wonderful pictures of a trip in the clouds, evoking enthusiasm. Mr H. Petersen, with his usual taste, has selected the overture to Auber's Masaniello for performance this week, and the brilliant piece is capitally played by his band.

WARRINGTON.

ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter.—Miss Daisy De Roy's pantomime company, in Sinbad the Sailor, is the attraction here this week. Sparkling music, original business, and exceptionally smart special turns are the chief features. Miss Edna Cragge is a dashing Sinbad and her rich soprano voice is heard to advantage in several popular airs. Miss Marie Western is a charming Fatmah, and Miss Olive Burgess acts delightfully as Haidee. Mr Bert Brooks as Sinbad scores a success, and Miss Dorothy Whyatt as Nimbad is well placed. Mr W. Wallace as Captain O'Scuttle is amusing, and Mr George Asaf as Mrs Sinbad supplies an original conception of the up-to-date matron. Messrs Tunley and Turley are clever comedians as Flippit and Floppit, and Miss Hilda De Gray is a charming fairy. The specialities include the Geisha dancers, Fred Bendo, contortionist; Miss Rosa Walmsley's troupe of ballet dancers; Harry Thornton, musical specialist; Marie Weston, pedestal dancer; Professor Wallace, ventriloquist; Ena Cyprian, in a hat spinning act; and Frank Daleno, Dutch dancer.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr F. Willmot.—The Waldrons are here again this week in new business, and have scored another signal success. The Royal Bioscope, manipulated by Mr Wilsker, depicts some delightful pictures. The Stoll Brothers are a pair of clever eccentric comedy bar performers, and George White's Arabs are as entertaining as ever. Other capital turns are Huges and Elliot, coon vocalists; Arthur Beecham, comedian; and May Milburn, comedienne.

WEST BROMWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. P. Moore.—The attraction here this week is Mr Arthur Gibbons' pantomime, Beauty and the Beast, which is being played to crowded houses. A special item is the marvellous performance of Dartigan, in looping the loop, which causes great excitement. The chief character, Beauty, is in the hands of Miss Linda Keston, who does very well; Miss Marie Beaufort, as Prince Charming, is bright, and sings her songs with effect; Mr Sydney Vereker is very funny as Ko-Hop White-Lie, and the same may be said of Mr Albert E. Mann as Maude Hannah. Mr Will Holland and Mr Tom Banks do their best in their respective parts, Reginald Augustus and Sybil Irene; Miss Janet Lawton shows great spirit and activity as Dandy Viller; Miss Marie Lawrence looks very pretty in the part of Polly Perkins; the good fairy is portrayed by Miss Gertude Wright, who gives an artistic rendering of the song, "There's nothing new to say;" and there is some smart acrobatic dancing by the Four French Idols.

TERRY'S THEATRE.

On Wednesday, Jan. 18th,
the Light Comedy, in Three Acts, by Percy Fendall, entitled
"MRS DERING'S DIVORCE."

Captain Dering	Mr LEONARD BOYNE
Jimmy Foster	Mr FRANK HOLLINS
Lord Grampier	Mr COURTENAY THORPE
Parker	Mr GEORGE MALLETT
Mr Gordon	Mr NOEL M'JUCKIN
Mr Clive	Mr J. KNOX ORDE
Footman	Mr NORMAN WRIGHTON
Lady Grampier	Miss KATHERINE STEWART
Hon. Susannah Verner	Miss BEATRICE FERRAR
Mrs Haydon	Miss JEAN MORRISON
Mrs Gordon	Miss DAISY CORDELL
Mrs Dicky Fowler	Miss KITTIE DAVIS
Duchess of Lawshire	Miss KEITH LYTTON
Mrs Dering	Mrs LANGTRY

Mrs Dering's Divorce is a play that "grows upon" one. It has little or no plot, and, on a first hearing, one is conscious of a feeling of disappointment in this direction. But it is, in its way, a "slice out of life." The life depicted is not certainly very elevated; but it is very real for all that, and Mr Percy Fendall has been particularly successful in giving a sense of the modern up-to-date "atmosphere." The piece is written, too, with admirable self-restraint. The people are just everyday society people, with the easy, indulgent, "nothing-much-matters" morality of fashionable life. The husband and wife are a couple of grown-up children, with their childishness varnished over with trained self-possession, natural good breeding, and habitual composure. We have to observe Mr Fendall's work carefully to catch its meaning to the full. Frivolous dialogue conceals passion and even pathos. For beneath all the frivolity, banter, and gay chatter of the dialogue runs a vein of humanity. Mrs Dering is, all through the play, in love, quand même, with her loose, extravagant, and easily-drifting husband, who, on his side, has simply grown tired of her. Her bad temper and sharp tongue are the results of a revolt against his indifference. Mr Fendall never "forces the note," and he leaves it to the more observant in his audience to perceive his purpose. His comedy is always merciful and sympathetic. Even the gaunt spinster, the conventional caricature of the highly educated modern woman, has a dash of genuine unselfishness; and the shallower personages of the drama are quite good-naturedly drawn. We fear that, to audiences accustomed to "story" in a play, Mrs Dering's Divorce may seem a little slow; but more cultured palates will appreciate the flavour of the work, which is delicate, slightly pungent, and never rough on the tongue.

How Mr and Mrs Dering would have got on together had they either been richer or less extravagant is matter for surmise. When the play begins they are almost insolvent. Repeated infidelities have made the wife hopeless of ever "reforming" her husband; and, as he is tired of her satirical comments on his lâcher, and as they have no money to go on with, their matrimonial experiment is obviously a failure. Mrs Dering's wealthy mother, who was strongly opposed to her daughter's marriage, offers to receive the wife if she will obtain a divorce from her husband; and the couple come to the conclusion that this is the correct solution of their difficulties. The only difference between their feelings is that he is glad to be free, while she regrets her release. All this is very neatly suggested.

In the interval between the first and the second acts a divorce has been obtained—on what grounds is not distinctly stated—and Mrs Dering, who persists in regarding herself as a kind of widow, is living in comparative seclusion pursued by the attentions—honourable, of course—of Jimmy Foster, the son of a wealthy banker. Dering has made up his mind to marry the Hon. Susannah Verner, the plain but rich daughter of Lord Grampier, who calls on Mrs Dering, armed with pencil and note book, to take particulars concerning Dering's character. Irritated and desperate, Mrs Dering—who now only bears the name by courtesy—becomes engaged to Foster. In the last act she meets her ex-husband at a bridge party at Lady Grampier's house; and a renewal of their love takes place. The Hon Susannah, who believes that Mr and Mrs Dering still have a hankering for each other, releases the former from his engagement; and Dering advises Foster to pretend that he is ruined in order to test his fiancée's disinterestedness. The lady, discovering the trick that has been played upon her, turns round upon the innocent Foster, and blames him for the fault which is her ex-husband's, to whom she decides to be promptly reunited.

Mrs Langtry acts better than ever as Mrs Dering. The style and distinction of her performance are admirable, and she handles the part with a light and firm touch which is very effective. The rôle, indeed, fits her like a glove; and she keeps it always on the half-serious plane dictated by the dramatist. It is hardly necessary to state that Mrs Langtry looks extremely handsome, and that her dresses are in the best possible taste. Mr Leonard Boyne's well-modulated voice and neat and subdued method are immensely effective in the character of the careless, easy-going husband, and he developes the humour of the part quite cleverly. Mr Frank Hollins gives an original and absolutely real embodiment of Jimmy Foster, hitting off the personage exactly; and Mr Courtenay Thorpe's Lord Grampier is a very great improvement on his reading at the Camden Theatre, on Nov. 14 last, and causes a great deal of merriment. Mr George Mallet as Parker is a model domestic. Miss Katerine Stewart was very well chosen for the character of Lady Grampier, her fine physique giving her a great advantage. She acts very humorously, and with plenty of weight. A strikingly clever and most diverting impersonation of the Hon. Susannah Verner is given by Miss Beatrice Ferrar, who does not fall into the error of making the Hon. Susannah too ugly. We cannot believe that Mr Fendall intended that the personage should be the conventional old maid of farce, and we are grateful to Miss Ferrar for resisting obvious temptations. The Hon. Susannah is rather a Pioneer Club lady than a mere "guy," safe to extort a laugh on her entry, but afterwards unsatisfying. Miss Jean Morrison is a crisp and dainty Mrs Haydon, and Miss Kittie Davis gives a pleasant and bright embodiment of Mrs Dicky Fowler, the deaf Duchess of Lawshire being quaintly impersonated by Miss Keith Lytton, who, admirably made-up and appropriately costumed, makes great play with her ear-trumpet. It was, indeed, fortunate that Mrs Langtry was able to obtain such a smooth all-round performance of Mrs Dering's Divorce. It certainly would not have borne rough handling.

"EAST LYNNE."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Referring to the note with reference to this matter in your issue of last week, the judgment referred to is not in favour of Mr Pitt Hardacre, against whom judgment was given in my client's favour, but in favour of his co-plaintiff, Mrs Gumley.

The plaintiffs abandoned their original claim "to the sole right of dramatic representation of East Lynne," and claimed only the "Bullock" part in the Bullock version, in respect of which, and certain titles to the acts only, has any order been made.

Mr Armitage's rights, therefore, in the Wilson Barrett version with this exception remain unaffected; and he will continue to produce the play by arrangement with Mr Wilson Barrett's representatives with the omission of this subsidiary character, and strengthened in other respects.

Yours faithfully, J. MOVERLEY SHARP,
Solicitor for Mr Armitage,
23, Gracechurch-street, E.C., Jan. 19.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MISS HELEN HAYE.

MISS HAYE made her first appearance in a stock season at Hastings, playing in Captain Swift, School, The Eider-Down Quilt, &c. Mr David James then engaged her to play Violet, in Our Boys; Mrs Goldfinch, in A Pair of Spectacles; and Esther, in Cas'e—one of Miss Haye's favourite parts. Then followed a season at the Adelphi, under the management of Messrs Gatti, when Miss Haye understudied Miss Julia Neilson in The Gipsy Girl. After a pantomime engagement, when Miss Haye played a dramatic part, she undertook such a succession of parts as Arte O'Neal, in The Shaughraun; Lady Isabel, in East Lynne; the title rôle, in The Octoroon; Mrs Cregan, in The Colleen Bawn; Alida, in The Streets of London; and Hortense in Poor Jo. Mr A. B. Tapping then secured her to play Gwendoline Fairfax in The Importance of Being Earnest, and Marcelle in Duty. A long tour as Hetty Preene, in The Lights o' London, followed under Mr Milton Bode's management. Mr F. H. Macklin and Mr Peter Davey, of Kingston, saw Miss Haye, and engaged her to play Hermia in A Midsummer Night's Dream, with Mr Macklin as Bottom, on tour, a part in which Miss Haye scored a distinct success. A re-engagement with Mr Peter Davey to play the leading part in Mr Boucicault's drama After Dark led to Miss Haye being engaged by Mr Austin Melford to play Nellie Denver in The Silver King with him on a suburban tour, an engagement which was especially happy and successful. Miss Haye then returned to Mr Milton Bode to play Nancy, in Saved from the Sea, and May Edwards, in The Ticket-of-Leave Man. Mr Ben Greet then engaged her to play seconds to Miss Wynne Mathison in the suburbs, where she appeared in such parts as Olivia, in Twelfth Night; Jessica, in The Merchant of Venice; and the Queen, in Hamlet. Next she returned to Mr Milton Bode to act the heavy part in a suburban tour of The Great Millionaire. Then came an engagement with Mr Fred Melville to play the sympathetic part in his drama, In a Woman's Grip, followed by a return to Mr Greet's management, Miss Haye playing Helena, in The Dream; Adriana, in The Comedy of Errors; and the leading parts in Sweethearts and The Parvenue. Mr Walter Melville next engaged Miss Haye to create the juvenile part in A Girl's Cross Roads, produced at the Standard, followed by a revival of Driven from Home. Mr Fred Melville then secured Miss Haye to play the heavy part in a revival of In a Woman's Grip, and later to create a strong heavy part in his play Her Forbidden Marriage. Mr Bannister Howard, who had made Miss Haye several offers, now secured her to create a French part in a farcical comedy, Hobbs' Vendetta, in which part Miss Haye was very successful. Miss Haye next appeared as Zeolich, in The Palace of Truth; Mistress Page, in The Merry Wives of Windsor; and Olivia, in Twelfth Night, under Mr Greet's management. Miss Haye has been engaged by Mr Bannister Howard to star as Roma, in The Eternal City, on a suburban tour in the spring.

MR. NORMAN A. OVERTON.

MR. NORMAN A. OVERTON.

MR NORMAN A. OVERTON made his first appearance on the boards at the age of nine in the year 1884, but was not allowed to continue his stage career. However, having determined to become an actor, he at a later date joined a company which was not successful, and he was left 200 miles from home. His next experience was in the fit-ups, then he obtained another engagement, this time for responsibles, and eventually played Laërtes, Catesby, &c. A stock season followed, the young actor playing juvenile and second heavy parts before he was twenty. Then he joined A Brother's Crime company to play Louis Woodvale, a part he acted over 200 nights. During the last ten years Mr Overton appeared on tour in the following parts:—Harry Cromwell, in The Priest Hunter; and similar rôles in many of the late Hubert O'Grady's plays, Mark Helston, in The Harbour Lights; Gideon Blake, in In the Ranks; Harry Goodwin, in Lost by Drink; Stephen Marler, in The Wages of Sin; Manuel Ramez, in Sins of the Night; Colonel Firebrace, in Wrecked in London; Guy Glendinning, in The Penalty of Crime; Sir Henry Vanborough, in Our Sailor Lad; Fernando Castillo, in In Old Madrid (over 200 nights); Captain Bowyer, in Messrs Howard and Wyndham's production and tour of Kenilworth; Neil Garth, in Shall We Forgive Her? Harry Hood, in Greed of Gold; another tour with The Penalty of Crime, and then Legree, in Uncle Tom's Cabin (thirty weeks). He rejoined Miss Digby to play Phil Burchill, in The Life We Live, and went on tour with Miss Mary Austin, playing Foster Cunningham, in The Cotton Spinner. He next created the juvenile lead, Frank Leslie, in The Silent Foe, another tour following with Mr Fred J. Kirke. Then he played Ralph Blackwater, in The Sins of a City; Frank Fielding, in The Greatest Scoundrel Living (215 nights); and created the gentlemanly heavy part in The King of Thieves. He rejoined Messrs Haddon and Loader's company to play his old part, Ralph Blackwater, in The Sins of a City, and opened with Miss Winifred Maude's company in August last. So far Mr Overton's stage career has been most successful, and in two years he has only been disengaged eight weeks, and then he was holiday-making.

MR. VIVIAN GILBERT.

MR VIVIAN GILBERT was born on March 20, 1881, at Chadwick Manor, Warwickshire. At the age of fourteen and a half he went up for the Royal Navy, but failing to pass the examination he got his parents' permission to join what had always been his favourite profession—the stage. At this time he was living near Exeter, and Mr Ben Greet being then at the Theatre Royal, with his comedy company, Mr Gilbert, at the age of fifteen, and with his first tall collar on, interviewed Mr Greet and insisted on reciting to him from "The Lady of the Lake." This somewhat amused the manager. However, the young actor in embryo got what he wanted, viz., a promise from Mr Greet that if, when he got back to London, he should have a vacancy in his company he would not be forgotten. Mr Greet was as good as his word, for three weeks afterwards he sent a letter engaging Mr Gilbert for small parts and a still smaller salary in his répertoire company. His first part was Hunsdon, in Masks and Faces, followed by Tom Twist, in She Stoops to Conquer; Salarino, in The Merchant of Venice; Careless, in The School for Scandal, and many others. Mr Greet then engaged him to create the part of Snookey Boodle, in Fair Women and Brave Men, which was produced at the Parkhurst Theatre, London, but did not have a long run. Mr Gilbert then played Captain Woodford, in a special production of Held by the Enemy, afterwards joining Mr Greet's Three Musketeers tour to play Mousqueton. Next came a tour as Philodemus, in The Sign of the Cross, followed by two tours of Hearts are Trumps, then first out from Drury-lane, in which Mr Gilbert played Arthur Dyson and was assistant stage manager. Then came a tour as Lieut. Camperdown, in With Flying Colours. By a coincidence this engagement came on the same day on which his brother was appointed as lieutenant to H.M.S. Aboukir for the Mediterranean. Mr Gilbert subsequently joined The Second in Command company, playing Lieut. Barker for two tours. He was under the Ben Greet management for four and a-half years. Mr W. S. Penley then engaged him to play Jack Chesney in his chief company of Charley's Aunt, which part he impersonated for three tours. Next came an engagement to support Mr Bernard Copping in the Copping répertoire company as Captain Hawksley, in Still Waters Run Deep; Beauseant, in The Lady of Lyons; Henri, in The Ladies' Battle; Jem Dalton, in The Ticket-of-Leave Man; and the Hon. Tom Tallibant, in Garrick. Mr Gilbert left Mr Copping's company to open with Mr Stafford's Private Secretary company. He remained with Mr Stafford for two tours, returning to Mr Penley to resume his old part in Charley's Aunt, and then back again to Mr Stafford for The Private Secretary's farewell tour.

MR. HARRY H. RIGNOLD.

MR. HARRY H. RIGNOLD.

MR RIGNOLD'S first appearance on any stage was as little Harry Harris, in Uncle Tom's Cabin, at the Theatre Royal, Wolverhampton, under the management of the late Mr William R Rignold, who was his uncle and the father of William and George Rignold. He believes he was not a success, as he wept like Niobe during the sentimental scenes and howled "like a kicked mongrel" through the exciting ones. He next essayed playing the violin in the orchestra at the Pavilion Theatre, Mile-end; Theatre Royal, Greenwich, &c. Then, bitten by a desire to travel, he tried the Navy, and assisted in an amateur company belonging to H.M.S. Doris. After that he opened at the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, for utility, playing with several stars of that day. His next move was to the Theatre Royal, Portsmouth, for better business and increased salary. Seven months' stock there gave him much valuable knowledge. Then followed seasons with Mr "Gentleman" Rodgers, of Birmingham; Mr William Sidney, Prince of Wales's, Birmingham; Mr Gomersal, Aberdeen; and two years with the late Mr Andrew Ennis. Judging by what is called work nowadays, he marvels how they got through at all. But the experience was valuable. Since those days times have been comparatively easy. Mr Rignold was engaged for a stock season at Greenwich, during which he played comedy and dame in the pantomime. Next he had two years' touring with Mr Chas. Collette, comedy and stage-management; a tour with the Leopolds, in Frivolity; and two years' touring with various companies in America, where he passed a more than usually happy time. He appeared as Idle Jack in the pantomime of Dick Whittington at the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh; and then came tours in which he played Middlewick, in Our Boys; Old Macclesfield, in The Guv'nor, &c. A stock season and pantomime, with his brother, Mr Lionel Rignold, at the Theatre Royal, Ipswich (of which the latter was part-proprietor), followed. In tours, under Messrs G. J. Hale and Milton Bode's management, he played Toronl, in Jack-in-the-Box; Mr Firmin, in Dr. Bill; dame, in the pantomime, &c. Then came a very happy engagement under the late Sir Augustus Harris at Drury-lane, the Olympia, and on tour as Wolf Meikstein, in Cheer, Boys, Cheer, followed by other tours as pleasant under Mr H. Dundas and Mr J. F. Preston. The last-mentioned he rejoined to resume his original part of Solomon Moses, in Rogues of the Turf. Mr Rignold has appeared in all the comedy as well as nearly all other parts, but lead in the principal plays of Shakespeare and his experience in farces he believes to be almost unique. During his career it has been Mr Rignold's good fortune to meet many stage celebrities, including Messrs Henry Neville, Leonard Boyne, Wm. Mackintosh, W. H. Denny, Chas. Collette, Barry Sullivar, the late Osmond Tearle, Frank Cooper, &c. Mr Rignold, besides being an excellent actor, has written and produced farces, sketches, and dramas, all, with one exception, being fairly successful. He is the father of several aspirants to dramatic fame, four sons and one daughter, Lillian Rignold (Mrs J. C. Salter). His own father was a popular nautical actor known as Mr Harry Rignold, and his mother was an actress and singer of repute, so that acting may be said to run in the blood of the son.

COVENT-GARDEN BALL.

The fancy dress ball held at Covent-garden Opera House on the 13th inst. was the first of the New Year, and a highly successful function it proved to be. Much ingenuity was shown in the designs of the dresses. Among the most conspicuous were a "Dresden China" frock, so designed as admirably to bear out the significance of the words, and a "Sports" costume, carrying with it unmistakable suggestions of golf, angling, hunting, shooting, and horse-racing. "The British Flag" was everything that the title expresses; while a "Rose" dress and "In Arcadia" attracted much attention. A cake-walk was introduced about the middle of the programme. A prize of a large cake was presented to the most graceful lady and gentleman competing, and the dance proved the most interesting on the long list. The march past took place at two o'clock in the morning, when the judges awarded the valuable prizes offered, the first being a lady's leather dressing bag with silver fittings. The band was, as usual, conducted by Mr Dan Godfrey.

MR. STEAD ON THE THEATRE.

Mr Carl Hentschel occupied the chair at the Criterion on the 13th inst. when Mr W. T. Stead, who until he was fifty-five never entered a theatre, lectured to a meeting of the O.P. Club on "A Tyro's Impressions of the Theatre."

MR STEAD declared at the opening of his lecture that the theatre was, in his opinion, an abominably neglected institution. He wished it to be a much more useful, appreciated, and honoured institution than it was. The real theatre of the masses to-day was the newspaper. In Shakespeare's time there were no newspapers, but there were two hundred licensed theatres in London, one for each nine hundred of the population; now there was one for ninety thousand people. The Press had not superseded the theatre, but had thrust it from its pride of place. The theatre had not been without its revenge, for the Press of to-day was infected with the vices of the theatre to an extent not adequately realised. The desultory reading of inane newspapers was quite as deplorable as the casual witnessing of idiotic plays. The object of both was to kill time. One of the vices which the newspaper had taken over from the theatre was, to coin a word, that of mere Spectatorism. The reader considered himself too often a mere non-concerned spectator in the boxes, and that was deadly, because he forgot his responsibility. Nor was the evil confined to the Press; it was the curse of sport. The majority of theatre-goers of the present day were theatre-hardened. They had all their lives regarded the theatre so exclusively from the point of view of their own personal gratification that it would almost need a lyddite shell to blast into their brains a conception of their duty to their fellow-men that carried with it the consecration of personal service, personal liberality to the improvement of the theatre. But if things were to be mended they must change all that. By some means or other they must winnow out of the multitude of mere pleasure-loving spectators the saving remnant of elect souls whose love of the theatre, whose faith in the theatre, was not merely for themselves, but for the whole community. When he imagined what the theatre could do, and might do, as an agency of culture and civilisation, and then saw this miserable derelict vessel, which might have been a veritable ark in which religion and morality and art might have found refuge, converted into a mere haunt of selfish folk intent solely on passing the time, his heart burnt hot within him. He had found—with one exception—nothing abominable in the theatre, but it was the good side of it that made him sad. After criticising the present-day custom of elaborate staging he urged that the poor should have a chance of seeing plays from which the high prices of present-day productions excluded them. Rather than put the theatre on the rates and taxes he would appeal to the voluntary principle, and endeavour to persuade the unconverted theatre-goer, who went to the play for his mere amusement, and bring him to the penitent form to join the fellowship of the faithful and to work out with them the salvation of the stage. Was it to be believed that out of our rich, refined, play-loving population there were not to be found those with sufficient of the enthusiasm of self-sacrifice to raise whatever money was necessary to establish at least one ideal experimental theatre—with a sixpenny gallery and a shilling pit, all places booked in advance—with free performances at least once a week, where the best works of the best dramatists of the world could be played by a company whose primary object was not to serve as advertisements for the dressmaker or to be mere incidents in the scenic splendours of the carpenter's art? What was wanted was faith, and after faith organisation. He appealed for assistance to special classes of playgoers, to royalty, the aristocracy, the plutocracy, and the journalists. The King's influence could do much; he could use his exalted position to elevate, redeem, inspire, and encourage the highest form of dramatic art, or to assist those who would make the theatre a means of culture for the million instead of an instrument for amusing rich idlers. As to the aristocracy, it had always been recognised as a reason for tolerating hereditary nobles that they should act as patrons of art, science, and literature. There were many great nobles whose fortunes had been multiplied by the unearned increment created by the great urban populations which are housed on their land. How many of these grandees, with their fabulous rent-rolls, had done anything to provide the people who paid their rents with a decent building in which stage plays could be performed? Nay, how many of them had even given a site on which other men more liberal than themselves might rear a theatre? Then came the plutocracy. Could anyone explain to him why the English plutocrat was the meanest specimen of the species to be found in any English-speaking land? When one found some splendid piece of generosity it was due to a German, a Jew, a South African, a Canadian, a Scotsman, or an Irishman—seldom or never to an Englishman. Should English plutocrats feel the prickings of their conscience he would suggest to them the desirability of easing their plethoric purses by founding a national theatre. Finally he passed to the journalists. Could it be said that the owners of the great journals of London had even attempted to do their duty in this matter of the stage? Had one of them, had all of them put together, ever exerted themselves as much to secure an ideal theatre as all of them had exerted themselves in turns to bring about most unideal wars? Journalists owed a great deal to the theatre, both as purveyors of material for copy and in the more direct way as the contributors of a considerable portion of their advertising revenue. But what had any newspaper done for the theatre beyond making copy out of it and taking money from it? They, too, should come to his penitent form.

AN OCTOGENARIAN MANAGER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—It is with much pain and reluctance that, after sixty years' active and continuous service, I am compelled, at eighty years of age, to appeal to those who have known me in my happy and prosperous days to assist me in my declining years. Since my last engagement at the Comedy Theatre some eight years ago I have had very little employment, and some savings, amounting to between £300 and £400, have been swallowed up during that time. Want of occupation has left me completely stranded, and, but for the Actors' Benevolent Fund, which kindly and generously allows me 10s. a-week, I should be perfectly penniless. I am desirous, with the assistance of some who have known me in the past, to collect a sum which will enable me to clear myself from my liabilities at my present home, where I have resided thirty-five years, so that I may take what few things I can call my own to some small place where I may end my days in comparative comfort. My health, which for years has, by a great blessing, been good, has recently broken up, and I am now suffering a great deal from hernia and pleurisy, but this would not prevent my taking some employment of a character which would need only sedentary action, and a small sum added to the Benevolent Fund allowance, coupled with the kind and generous assistance of one or two friends, would render my existence endurable.

Yours faithfully, EDWARD HASTINGS.

THE Moody-Manners Opera Company is a popular attraction at the Theatre Royal, Preston, this week. Faust was presented on Monday evening; and the repertoire also includes:—La Traviata, Tannhäuser, Carmen, Il Trovatore, Cavalleria Rusticana, Pagliacci, and The Bohemian Girl.

"BABES IN THE WOOD" AT ISLINGTON.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

Messrs Geo. Davey and Oswald Brand are to be congratulated on the success of their endeavours to present to the Islington public a thoroughly spirited, amusing, and picturesque pantomime. The way in which the performance "goes" from beginning to end is due, partly to the clever way in which that experienced librettist Mr Geoffrey Thorn has arranged his "book," and but principally to the admirable manner in which the whole company, down to the youngest "chorus lady," work together. The management at the Grand is evidently popular both before and behind the curtain, and the result is shown in the willing service rendered by all in their employment. The "van" of the fun-making army is led by Miss Julia Kent, a perfect magazine of merriment, whose vivacity and emphatic drollery never flag. She throws herself with obvious enjoyment into the rôle of Robin Hood, which she plays with a gaiety and "go" which carry the audience with her from the first. An excellent example of distinctness of enunciation is set by Miss Kent in the delivery of her songs. Every word is audible, and every point goes home to its mark. Miss Kent is full of physical activity, and her mobile and humorous features, her vivid and appropriate gestures, and her general joviality make her an immense favourite. Mr George Mozart, with his quaint original method and eccentric personality, affords an effective contrast to Miss Kent's happy exuberance. As Peter he is excessively absurd, especially in his caricature of a simpleton at a horse-race—an item that seems to take the fancy of the audience at the Grand Theatre immensely. He is also irresistible as a comic policeman, with a row of buttons down his back; and, altogether, his performance is intensely amusing and laughter-provoking. Mr Tom Craven as Roger gives a quaint and clever reading of the part. Mr Craven has a style of his own, and a very telling one, and this is shown in his impersonation of Roger, which has all the advantages of Mr Craven's experience and cleverness as a comedian. Mr Hal Collier is a genial Friar Tuck, and the Brothers Conquest as Coppem and Cuffem do some extraordinary trap work, their swift and energetic exertions bringing down the house. Mr George Elliston's Patbaby, a "very dry nurse, somewhat addicted to the bottle" is an excellent and effective impersonation; and Master Dick and Miss Dorothy give pleasing and intelligent performances as Bertie and Bella. Mr Jack Collinson is broadly and boldly diverting as the Baron Badasthey makem; and Miss Selina Seaforth emphasises to the utmost the tyrannical authority of the Baroness. Miss Margaret Wilson is a charming Dolly Daydream, and Miss Ray Rosenthal makes a handsome and dashing Little John. Miss Tots Davis as Maid Marian sings with taste and expression and dances with an agreeable combination of ease, activity, and grace. Mr Tom Payne as Allan-a-Dale does not spare himself, and introduces a vast amount of knockabout and other fun. With such a clown as Mr George Elliston the harlequinade was sure to be a good one; and, with the assistance of Mr Fred Regina as Harlequin, Mr Will May as Pantaloon, Miss Annie Hill as Columbine, Mr Charles Wragg as the Policeman, Mr M. Meddling as Mother Gum, this part of the entertainment is kept well up, and is greatly enjoyed. Miss Pauline Rivers is an accomplished principal danseuse, and ably superintends the evolutions of the coryphé s, and the work done by Mr W. T. Gliddon's excellent orchestra must not go unrecognised. The scene-plot is by no means a light one, and Mr Chapman and his assistants deserve great credit for the way in which they had designed and painted the various cloths and "sets." As the Palace and Transformation scene includes a display of no less than three tons of glittering cut glass, the management by its outlay merits part of the praise won by the spectacular portion of the pantomime. It should be noted that this great scene was arranged by Mr Oswald Brand, the ever-energetic manager of the house where so many of his adroit adaptations have been produced.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

The old house in Marylebone has some fine traditions, and its pantomime annals supply an interesting chapter in theatrical history. Some celebrated clowns have worn the motley on its stage, and several of the most brilliant stars of the profession have figured in its Christmas entertainments, which by their mimic splendours won more than a local celebrity. The Messrs Bailey are not unmindful of an interesting past, and, by their latest production, it is quite evident that they have determined to keep up the prestige of the Church-street theatre. It is the modern practice to do without a transformation, but it is always considered a sine qud non at the West London. Just previous to the advent of Mr Merryman and his companions we see unfolded the "realms of dazzling light." Gigantic specimens of the kingdom of Flora grow as thick as leaves in Vallambrosa; and the scene-painter has realised the habitat of fairies with a pretty inventiveness and a vivid imagination that do him immense credit. The real old-fashioned harlequinade is led by Mr Leo Main in the rôle of clown, and he proves a very diverting wielder of hot poker. Mr Eugene Cobra, with his long experience, assumes with ease the responsibilities of pantaloon; Mr Horace Sade is an active and lissome harlequin; and Miss Maggie Kelsey a graceful columbine. The book has been written and the music selected and composed by Mr W. Scott Phipp, who has wisely laid under contribution the most popular numbers sung in the music halls. These are included in the score by the kind permission of Messrs Francis, Day, and Hunter, M. Witmark and Sons, Charles Sheard, B. Feldman and Co, and other well-known firms. The fun is chiefly supplied by the Albert and Edmunds comedy troupe, whose experience in similar productions is of immense advantage. Mr Edmund Edmunds has many happy moments as Sammy Smut, and his dry method of utterance makes his presence in Dame Hubbard's schoolroom responsible for many hearty laughs. The humorous buffoonery of the motor incident, in which Mr Edmunds is funnily made up, is shared by his constant companion Mr James Albert, who plays the part of Augustus Dab with the requisite command of droll tricks and playful antics. The passengers in the fearful and wonderful car are the babes Portia and Arthur, represented respectively by Miss Cecil Clare and Miss Blanche Albert, who are not seemingly burdened by the sad traditions of their story, but generally disport themselves with much light-heartedness in song and dance. Miss Maude Nelson makes a bold forester of Robin Hood, and outfaces the part with a martial air and a genial swagger. Though the "old Bull and Bush" is not known as a hostelry in the neighbourhood of Sherwood Forest, it is quite familiar to West Londoners, who join with the voices of Stentors in the chorus of the well-known song that Miss Florrie Forde made so popular at the music halls. Miss Nita Clavering, a dainty representative of Maid Marion, quite answers the description given on the programme to the fascinating daughter of Dame Hubbard, and gives a most welcome contribution when she introduces her celebrated speciality of National songs, illustrating Wales, Scotland, Ireland, Japan, and England. Another favourite number of Miss Clavering's is her solo "In Dreamland," to which her culture and vocal attainments enable her to do full justice. Miss Marie Ault has a decided gift for low comedy, and quite justifies her selection for the part of Amelia, a slavey of the Louie Freear type. Miss Ault is a great favourite with the West Londoners, and her quaint behaviour in several of the scenes is intensely enjoyed by those in front, many of whom must have applauded her in low comedy scenes in melodrama. Miss Violet Poole makes a dashing representative of Will Scarlet; Miss Vinnie Edmunds is a lively Molly Mayflower; Miss Pollie Albert's behaviour as the mentally deficient Dottie Hubbard is diverting; and Miss Jennie Lucas as Daisy Dimple is duly child-like and bland. Mr Roy Byford is an unctuous representative of the Grand Duke; Mr Leo Main is quietly funny as Dame Hubbard; Mr Horace Sade is well placed as Dandy Dick; Mr Eugene Cobra is an athletic and loose-limbed policeman; Mr Wm. Wright makes effective use of his opportunities as Bill Poster; and Mr Harry Barford is a whimsical Horatio. Mr Percy Kurutz, the musical director, has much to do with the smoothness of the ensemble, and Mr Harry Barford's stage-management secures a smart performance of a very interesting and humorous annual. On the night of our visit the house was packed by an enthusiastic audience, all assisting the excellent work of a local philanthropic fund for supplying the poor with blankets and coal.

"ROBINSON CRUSOE" at the CAMDEN.

(SECOND NOTICE).

On a second visit to the Camden we found Mr Robert Arthur's pantomime going very merrily and delighting a full house; and further "sampling" of this merry show only endorses one's first opinion. Any little hitches that may have been apparent at the opening performances have now long since vanished, and the whole "show" runs with remarkable smoothness. Mr Ernest Shand has worked up his impersonation of Will Atkins, and he is the cause of demonstrative hilarity. He now sings "Short Stories," a most amusing ditty, and scores heavily thereby. He also gives a comical burlesque of a palmist, which sends the audience into roars of laughter, and in this he is ably assisted by the representative of the gaunt female who comes to "have her fortune told." Mr Shand's eccentric conception of the character of Will Atkins is immensely funny. Mr Herbert Darnley as Mrs Crusoe is extremely droll, and depicts that quaint and curious female very cleverly. Mr Darnley and Mr Shand have worked up the raft scene very carefully, and it is now one of the most diverting episodes of the "annual." Miss Nellie Cozens is making a great hit as Crusoe, her dashing style and the spirited manner in which she sings her songs being greatly to the liking of the patrons of this theatre. Another great favourite is Miss Gipsy Woolf, whose singing is particularly pleasing and expressive. Her ballad about an Indian maiden, in which a male vocalist joins with agreeable effect, is warmly applauded, and her dancing is dainty and delightful. Messrs Noel and Nash continue to amuse everyone by their many funny sayings and doings. They are absurdly eccentric, and their extravagant comicality is keenly appreciated. The Cannibal King is depicted by Mr G. H. Snazelle, a comedian with a peculiar vein of humour, with characteristic cleverness. The shouts of laughter that greet the Sisters Sprightly in their "screamingly" droll burlesque "The drama out of date," testifies to the great popularity they have won for themselves. It is really a clever skit, and the manner in which it is played absolutely compels laughter. They also now introduce another absurdity ridiculing the "Lady Sportsman," which is extremely diverting. They throw themselves into their work with admirable energy and animation. As Friday Mr Billy M'Clain, whose facial contortions are really extraordinary, introduces a new song and dance with which he makes a big success. A second view of the scenery endorses our good opinion of it. The Island of the Golden Palms is really a charming set, and the dresses are very gorgeous. The flying ballet, with the electrical effects, is greatly admired, and the tableaux presented are most effective and pleasing. Unstinted praise must be given to the chorus for their labours. They work hard and deserve credit for their efforts. Everyone connected with the production has reason to be proud of the pantomime. It is a very amusing and pretty performance. Robinson Crusoe at the Camden affords indeed, an excellent evening's amusement. It is bright, brisk, and beautiful.

"CINDERELLA" at the ALEXANDRA.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

Those inveterate amusement seekers who make a point of doing a round of the Christmas shows can always depend upon witnessing a first-rate pantomime at the Alexandra, Stoke Newington; and a second visit to Mr F. W. Purcell's theatre enables us to confirm in every particular the favourable notice which we gave of the first performance of Cinderella. A striking feature of the Christmas piece is the little pathetic touches which are occasionally introduced with the most telling effect. The story of "Cinderella" readily lends itself to dramatic treatment, and the author and producer, Mr Walter Summers, is to be congratulated on making the most of his opportunities in this direction. The Kitchen scene, for instance, is specially worthy of mention for some novel and charming features. Cinderella, left alone in the kitchen, is joined by two little children who have left their warm beds to welcome Santa Claus. But the venerable old man for some reason or other passes by the house, and the disappointed children have a good cry. And then a white-robed angelic being with wings descends from above and presents the sobbing little ones with toys, and they are made happy again. Next Cinderella is joined by Pepper, the page, who is in love with her, and Sally, the grimy maid-of-all-work; and the young man treats the company to a succulent beefsteak pudding, the delicious odour from which comes over the footlights. And the love-smitten page helps Cinderella to nearly all the pudding, and goes without himself, even the cat, who takes a prominent part in this version of the fairy tale, getting its share. Excellent judgment has been shown in the selection of the company. Miss Winifred Hare is an ideal principal boy, and as Prince Alexis, the hero of the story, she is unquestionably one of the principal mainstays of the pantomime. She appears in a series of pretty, tasteful costumes which her graceful figure sets off to the best advantage. Miss Hare is an accomplished vocalist, and her admirable rendering of "Anona" assisted by a chorus, is greeted with much applause. She is also successful with "You are a white little girl," in which co-operation comes from little Maudie Francis and another young lady. Miss Godwynne Earle is a dainty and fascinating representative of Cinderella, fulfilling every requirement of the part in the most pleasing manner possible. Indeed, the heroine of the story very quickly wins the favour of the audience. Miss Lilian Lea is an exceedingly brisk exponent of Dandini, the Prince's valet, always playing with spirit and singing "The smartest boy in town" and "If you'll be my posey" with pronounced success. Miss Amy Lorisson as the Duke of Taxes has the advantage of a handsome presence and speaks her lines well. The capital band of comedians engaged is led by Mr Neil Kenyon, a Scotch humorist who has already made a successful appearance at the West-end halls. He represents the hard-up Baron M'Tavish, and his quiet humour and droll manner are greatly enjoyed, Mr Kenyon never forces the fun, and yet while he is on the stage the stream of merriment never ceases to flow. The Baron's eldest daughters, Amorella and Arabella, are most amusingly embodied by Mr Fred Winn and Mr Austin Lenton. The sisters are given to calling each other names, and even on occasion they get to blows. Their business of dressing for the ball in the bedroom scene is uproariously funny. Mr William Gourlay is remarkably good as Pepper, the page, and his services throughout are most valuable. In his topical ditty "Spoiled" he makes some happy hits. Prominent also is Miss Muriel Palmer as Sally Whittle, the Baron's domestic; she plays cleverly the part of the slavey who pines for the love of the page. Messrs Fletch and Palmer score as broker's men; their dancing being extremely neat. Mr Fred Whittaker is well to the fore as the Baron's cat, another feline being nimbly represented by Master Walters. Little Maudie Francis and Little Jennie Hartley as Dolly and Molly, Cinderella's little friends, add considerably to the attractions of the pantomime, the former cleverly singing "Has anybody seen my dolly?" Mr Robert K. Woodville ably portrays the witch, and Miss Ruby Pond, who appears as the fairy Flora, sings a ballad with excellent effect. Mention should also be made of the pleasing singing of the Canadian Comedy Four. The Olive Trio do good work as dancers, Alma Mary distinguishes herself as the premiere danseuse, and dances the pizzicato from Sylvia with much grace. The set scenes are very charming; and the principals are supported by a full chorus and ballet. There still remains to be mentioned the aerial ballet, the audience being taken by surprise when two of the flying figures soar over the stalls to the balcony and then gracefully return to the stage.

DEATH OF MR. J. K. MURRAY.

Mr J. K. Murray (George Edward Sykes), who died on the 12th inst. at Mount Pleasant, Chillcompton, Bath, at the age of sixty-four, was the son of Mr E. G. Sykes, barrister, of Binfield-road, Stockwell. Mr J. K Murray was educated at Kennington and Oxford, where he fell in love with Miss Ada Amelia Ponder, and secretly married her in February, 1861. At this time he was also a lieutenant in the 1st Surrey Rifles and a member of the Surrey Amateur Dramatic Society. His father, on discovering that he was married, packed him off to America with his newly wedded wife. On arriving there they assumed the names of J. K. Murray and Miss Ada Murray. They toured through North and South America during the time of the Civil War, meeting with some strange adventures. After visiting Canada they returned to England some thirty-five years ago, and toured in the old circuit and stock days as heavy leads. They afterwards opened at the Star Theatre, Swansea, under the management of the late George and Andrew Melville.

Mr Murray was next appointed manager, and toured the late Mr Melville's companies, afterwards becoming his own manager, and touring for seventeen years Millions of Money, Driven from Home, The Strike, &c. He was also the author of several well-known plays, his most recent works including A Woman's Error, Luck of Life, and A Son of the Empire. He was acknowledged to be one of the finest broadsword combat fighters on the British stage, and was also a most cultured actor of his time. Amongst other leading parts, he played Mathias, in The Bells; Duboscq, in The Lyons Mail; Macbeth, Othello, Iago, and Richard III. The deceased leaves a widow and three children—the eldest, Miss Kate Murray (now at the Alhambra); George Murray, who lately toured A

"ALADDIN" at BRIXTON.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

Crowded houses testify to the success which Aladdin has met with at this popular theatre, thanks to the great exertions made by the comedians to create the largest possible amount of fun. Messrs Walton and Lester have considerably improved their performances, and their business with the tree in scene three and in The Imperial Bath scene is the cause of hearty laughter. Mr Edwin Brett and Mr Ted Young as Abanazer and Widow Twankey work well together, and their duet in The Widow's House is very funny and is well received. Mr Nat Lewis stands out prominently as the Emperor, and his song "Laugh, and the world laughs with you," is nightly encored. Mr Somers Bellamy as So Long and Mr H. O. Cleary as Wishee Washee receive applause for their efforts, which add to the success of the pantomime. As Aladdin Miss Emmeline Orford is very dainty and winning, singing well and always getting hearty applause for her share of the hard work, and is certainly one of the prettiest principal boys seen for a long time past. Miss Constance Hamilton makes a charming Princess and scores well for her rendering of two coon songs and dainty dances. Miss Marion Macdonald is encored nightly for her two ballads, and Miss May Kent is applauded for her singing of "The Old Bull and Bush." Mention must be made of the two dances of Miss Eva Bayhurst, and also of the work of the ladies of the ballet, who contribute some pleasing items. The whistling solos by Mr Art Rowdrey as Whistlee, a Chinese siffleur, is well received, and a good, old-fashioned harlequinade by the Brothers Phillips brings a very enjoyable entertainment to a close. This is the last week of the run, owing to previous arrangements, and the pantomime goes on tour, and should meet with the success it deserves.

AT the conclusion of the performance on the 12th inst. of the highly successful pantomime, Puss in Boots, at the Theatre Royal, Belfast, Mr James M'Cann appeared on the stage and was the recipient from the members of the staff of a splendid Gladstone bag and case of brushes. Mr Fred W. Warden, managing director, made the presentation on behalf of the staff, and assured Mr M'Cann that he had their best wishes. He (Mr Warden) was happy to see the goodwill and esteem entertained for Mr M'Cann by the staff of the theatre, at which he had been employed since a boy. Mr M'Cann returned sincere thanks to one and all for their kindness, and the proceedings terminated with the hearty singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow."

THE TERRISS.

On Monday, Jan. 16, the Musical Pantomimical Comedy, entitled "THE SWISS EXPRESS."

The progress of The Swiss Express during many long years has been marked by laughter constant and hearty, and no diminution in mirth is to be observed this week at the Terriss, where delighted audiences have nightly shouted with merriment at the droll doings of the Brothers Renad as the footmen, John and James, whose antics in the cause of fun last untiringly throughout four acts. Upon their shoulders rests the weight of comicality, and unhesitatingly do they bear the burden, their clever tricks, their novel diversions, and their resourceful fun growing more and more irresistible as the play proceeds. The clever and versatile brothers receive valuable assistance from the excellent company supporting them, every character of importance being admirably enacted. An impersonation that largely contributes to the hilarity of the evening is the Dr. Gondimar Gull of Mr Wilford Bailey, the bridegroom's many and ludicrous experiences on his very much interrupted honeymoon being provocative of abundant laughter. Especially funny is his acting in the scene in the "Swiss express," where the longed-for privacy of the doctor and his young wife is being continually disturbed by occupants of adjoining compartments. Guards and ticket collectors persist in entering at most inopportune moments; their fellow travellers warble discordantly "Bluebell" and "Bill Bailey," a clarionet player also adding to the annoyance; and when the tired-out and almost frantic husband endeavours to snatch a few minutes' repose a raid is made on the car, which is finally wrecked. An easy and finished representation of Rob Rollingstone, in love with Mrs Gull, is contributed by Mr George Martin, his acting and disguise as a ticket collector being decidedly amusing; and a humorous and neat study of a dude, Dudley Green, is given by Mr Alec Wylie, the impersonation being funnier than the majority of characters of a similar description. Mr Septimus Squeeze, the father of the bride, is amusingly played by Mr H Alexander; entirely satisfactory and frequently funny portrayals of Jack Gadabout and Mons Partout are submitted by Mr Harwood Cooper and Mr Fred Strachan; and the numerous other male characters are all capably portrayed. A natural and pleasing embodiment of the distressed young wife, Virginie, is given by Miss Dolly Doyle; and the portly Mrs Septimus Squeeze is played in exactly the right spirit by Miss Nellie Fern. The Four Brighton Girls, vocalists, dancers, lance and sword experts, also help along the success of the farce, and the numerous songs and dances introduced are all greatly enjoyed. The scenery throughout is admirable, the representation of the "Swiss express" being especially realistic and ingenious.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Jan. 16, the Drama, in Five Acts, by Nita Rae, entitled "THE SINS OF A CITY."

An interested and appreciative audience witnessed the performance of The Sins of a City on the opening night of the week, credit for which must chiefly be given to the members of Miss Winifred Maude's excellent company. The central figure, the village maiden, affectionately known as Seaweed, so cruelly led astray by a specious scoundrel from London, looms largely throughout the piece, and, as impersonated by Miss Winifred Maude, is quite a fascinating heroine. Miss Maude possesses a singularly attractive personality, and in the exacting rôle of Seaweed she sets with such charm, and in such entire sympathy with the part, as to completely win the hearts of the audience. Mr Ivan Gore makes up well and contributes a vigorous embodiment of the rugged old fisherman, Donald M'Ivor, the denunciation of his adopted daughter's betrayer being graphically delivered. Mr Horace E. Herbert as Seaweed's steadfast lover, Sandy M'Donald, plays with virility and buoyancy; and Mr Leslie Beaufort, as the despicable Ralph Blackwater, gives a powerful rendition of the part. Mr Victor Du Cane essays with considerable success the comedy part of Joe Woodleigh, gaining applause for his rendering of R. G. Knowles's "Love, Marriage, and Divorce," and exhibits much versatility in undertaking also the part of Joe's twin brother, the miserly Jasper Woodleigh. Mr Carson Melville is excellent as Isaac Levi, the dry humour with which he imbues Blackwater's Hebrew confederate being most effective. Miss Marie Lyons plays with fluency and artistic self-restraint as the scheming Lebis; and Miss Jennie Hackett, in exaggerated maid-of-all-work attire, contributes a low comedy portraiture as Midge which evokes unbounded mirth. Of minor parts Mr Manton as the defending counsel is especially good, whilst Mr W. E Simpson as P.-C. Johnston, Mr W. G. Dudeney as P.-C. Blyme, and Miss Ellen Gray as Jenny, all render creditable performances.

PRESENTATION.—Towards the end of the performance of the pantomime of Little Red Riding Hood, at the King's Theatre, Walthamstow, last Saturday night, a representative of the management stepped on to the stage and presented Mr Sheridan Gordon, R.A.M., with a testimonial as a token of the excellent manner in which he had selected, arranged, and conducted the pantomime music. The gift took the appropriate form of two gold-mounted ivory bâtons. In a few words Mr Gordon acknowledged the presentation, and was loudly cheered by the crowded audience.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

After a series of elaborate and successful annual revivals of Shakespearian plays, extending over a period of ten years, at the Queen's Theatre, Manchester, Mr Richard Flanagan scored a positive triumph in his production of Romeo and Juliet on Saturday evening last. On a grand scale, the staging on this occasion is not only magnificently picturesque in detail, but it is splendidly harmonised from beginning to end, producing a fine artistic unity which does not anywhere overwhelm the concurrent interest of the story. The Shakespearian student might observe with lively curiosity the taste with which the text of the play has been selected in deference to modern ideas of propriety in expression; the lover of Shakespearian drama cannot but be charmed by the smoothness and coherence of the action; while for that section of the public which is attracted by scenic splendours that occur only in conjunction with productions of this magnitude and kind, a succession of vivid pictures, brilliant, imaginative, and poetical, are supplied. Those scenes which must dwell especially in the memory of a public whom Mr Flanagan has educated to expect much are Capulet's Garden, a Hall in Capulet's House, a Street in Verona, the Piazza Dell'Erbe, Verona, a Street in Mantua, the Balcony and Interior of Juliet's Chamber, a Grove without Verona, the Tomb of the Capulets, and a final tableau of the Church of San Zeno Maggiore, which presents the lying in state of Romeo and Juliet, and the reconciliation of the houses of Montague and Capulet. The latter spectacle provides a brilliant conclusion, and is a worthy climax of the superb efforts of the artistes, Messrs Hugh Freemantle and William Palmer.

The story of Romeo and Juliet is a popular one, and for its interpretation Mr Flanagan has been fortunate in his choice of cast. Miss Margaret Halstan's fitness for the part of Juliet is completely demonstrated. Her sheer ability as an actress is informed with the most delicate insight; she has grace, feeling, and a power of suggestion that could only spring from a perfect understanding of the character she portrays. Especially in the potion scene the depth and reach of her imagination are apparent; while her electrifying acknowledgment of Romeo at the dance—a merely momentary episode—and her charming self-expression in the garden scene of the second act, stand out as typical passages in a performance which must be acknowledged as one of the best interpretations of Juliet that have been seen in Manchester for many years. Much of the success is traceable to Miss Halstan's achievement; much, also to the Romeo of Mr E. Harcourt Williams. Mr Williams has considerable personal grace for the important rôle he sustains. That he has ability also is indisputable, as he shows by his conscious depiction of the varying aspects of Romeo's character. His anger at the death of Mercutio is finely delivered, adding wonderful effect to an episode which in itself is marvellously spirited and natural. He is also conspicuously good in the scene when he is told that he is sentenced to banishment; in his scenes with the apothecary—a capital piece of work—and in his final sorrowful leave-taking of Juliet in the tomb. Mr Arthur Bruce as Mercutio scored an instant success; his poetic dream of Queen Mab was most choicely delivered, among many other passages of merit; and his death thrust, after the treacherous thrust of Tybalt, were remarkably realistic and convincing. Miss Claire Pauncefort played the Nurse with a finish and distinction that would have been even more striking had the part been less curtailed. As Friar Laurence Mr Henry Belding spoke and acted exceedingly well, with a firm and clear enunciation and an easy consciousness of his part. The Capulet of Mr Henry George was distinguished by a good quality of acting and a fine presence; Tybalt was played with plenty of fiery vigour by Mr A. E. Calver; and great praise is due to Mr Rothbury Evans for his very effective acting as the Apothecary. Among other parts Mr J. H. Atkinson's Peter, Mr Cecil Brooking's Escalus, Mr Sidney Arnold's Montague, Mr Templar Powell's Paris, Mr J. H. Warburton's Benvolio, Miss Kitty Carew's Lady Montague, and Miss Barbara Aird's Lady Capulet all contributed something towards the success of the performance. The various brawls and fights are very realistic, that in which Tybalt is killed by Romeo being well worthy of the loud applause it gained on Saturday. Notable embellishment of the theme is found in Mr Yorke Sheffield's suggested incidental music, which is cleverly orchestrated, and contains an especially quaint and pleasing vocal gavotte, heard in the "ball" scenes in the first act. This dance has been arranged by Miss A. Marshall, and is admirable of its kind. This is likely to prove the most popular of Mr Flanagan's revival.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

SIR HENRY IRVING'S friends and admirers—that is to say, the whole of the dramatic profession—will be glad to hear that he is in excellent health and bears himself as bravely as ever. His speech at the meeting of the Actors' Benevolent Fund, at the St. James's Theatre on Thursday, was delivered with all the old emphasis, resolution, and quiet supremacy; and the dry humour which was shown in some of his incidental remarks proved that his vitality and cheerfulness are in no way impaired.

A GOOD many things have happened since a new member, a youth of fifteen, presented himself at the late Henry Thomas's Elocution Institute in Gould-square, Fenchurch-street, and was thus described by one of the class:—"His appearance was such as would make ladies say, 'What a nice boy!' He was rather tall for his age, dressed in a black cloth suit, with what was called a round jacket, and a deep white linen collar turned over it; his face was very handsome, with a mass of black hair, and eyes bright and flashing with intelligence. He was called upon for his first recitation, and fairly electrified the class with an unusual display of elocutionary skill and dramatic intensity. The new member's name was Henry Irving." The face is still "very handsome," but "with a difference." It is the beauty of the storm-beaten cliff, not of the smooth sward. As we looked at the stern yet kindly face of Sir Henry at the Actors' Benevolent Fund meeting on Thursday, we could not help wishing that a portrait-painter could be found capable of putting on canvas the personal essence of the actor at this phase of life. The smooth-flattering brush of the typical R.A. would not serve the purpose. We should want to see something more like Watts's grand portraits of Carlyle and Cardinal Manning in the National Portrait Gallery. If such a painter could be found, he would have a splendid "subject" in Sir Henry Irving.

THE slight quiver in Sir Henry's voice as he alluded to "episodes in our own lives" in his speech must have struck a sympathetic note in the hearts of most of his hearers. To many who have attained desirable positions the remembrance of early sufferings is for years an agony. They put aside such recollections; though now and then they wake from sleep to realise with gratitude that the revival of their old endurances was only a dream. Then comes the riper period, when such things can be spoken of almost with complacency. Sir Henry has now and then, in anecdotes told good-naturedly against himself, given us a glimpse of some of his early sufferings on the "hard stages" of the old provincial theatres. He can sympathise with the actor's struggle for life, because he has known that struggle himself. The Actors' Benevolent Fund has no warmer and no wiser friend; and we hope his remarks on the comparative fewness of the subscribers to the Fund in the profession will be taken to heart by all actors and actresses.

THE case of Fraser v. Edwardes, which is down for hearing in the present law sittings, is likely to prove interesting. It is the old story of the imaginative playwright who sends his MS. to a manager, and subsequently fancies he detects resemblances between his refused work and one accepted and produced. Captain Fraser forwarded to Mr George Edwardes a libretto; and the gallant dramatist claims that some of his ideas have been reproduced in The Cingalee. This Mr Edwardes denies; and a British jury will consequently have to decide the matter.

MR BEERBOHM TREE has promised a donation of £10 towards assisting the octogenarian manager, Mr Edward Hastings, a letter from whom appears in another column; and Mr Cyril Maude has kindly consented to subscribe £5 to the same excellent object. Miss Agnes Ingreville is interesting herself very much in this sad case.

MISS ELLALINE TERRISS'S numerous admirers will be delighted to hear that she presented her husband on Monday with a fine little girl. Mr and Mrs Seymour Hicks, who were married eleven years ago, shortly after their union adopted a little girl, as they had no family, and Miss Terriss is very fond of children. Mother and baby are doing well, and Miss Terriss hopes in a few months to make her reappearance at the Vaudeville Theatre.

MR CHARLES FROHMAN recently travelled from New York to Philadelphia, and had a consultation with Mrs Patrick Campbell respecting her recent accident. Arrangements are being made for the resumption of Mrs Campbell's tour in March, both Mr Frohman and Mrs Campbell being confident that she will be able to appear then. Mrs Campbell has decided to cancel her London season in April and May, and will fulfil engagements in New York and Philadelphia before returning to England. The Sorceress, in which she was appearing at the time of the injury to her knee, will only be played a limited number of times, and in her New York and Philadelphia engagements she will appear in her old repertory, the plays in which demand less heavy work on the part of the leading actress. In order to reimburse the management of the Broad-street Theatre as far as possible for the loss sustained by the closing of the house after Mrs Patrick Campbell's accident, Mr Frohman has induced Sir Charles Wyndham and Miss Mary Moore to postpone their return to England for two weeks, and they will appear in Philadelphia in March.

MISS VIOLA TREE, we are sorry to hear, is suffering—not, as has been generally stated, from an attack of influenza—but from that very troublesome complaint measles—whether "German" or otherwise is unimportant. At Monday morning's rehearsal of Much Ado About Nothing, which will be produced by Mr Tree at His Majesty's on Tuesday, the part of Hero, which had been allotted to Miss Tree, had to be "read" by Miss Dorothy Thomas. We wish Miss Tree a quick recovery from her annoying indisposition.

AMONGST those who travelled a considerable distance to attend the annual general meeting of the Actors' Benevolent Fund, which took place at the St. James's Theatre on Thursday afternoon, was Mr Sydney Paxton, the resident-manager of the Grand Theatre, Southampton. Mr Paxton is the son of that popular and able Nonconformist minister, the late Rev. Paxton Hood, who for many years attracted large congregations to Offord-road Chapel, Islington. Mr Paxton's many London friends were pleased to see him looking in the best of health and spirits, the salubrious air of the southern town evidently suiting him well.

SIR CHARLES WYNDHAM, whose generosity in sending £100 to the West Ham poor has been so widely appreciated, was knocked down by a New York tramcar on Wednesday night, and dislocated his right shoulder. He was going to the Lyceum Theatre to appear in The Case of Rebellious Susan, and on alighting from a tram at the corner of a street he was struck by a second car and was dragged several feet, but fortunately escaped damage from the wheels. Despite his dislocated shoulder, Sir Charles continued his journey to the theatre, but found it impossible to act, and Mrs Gorringe's Necklace was very smartly substituted for The Case of Rebellious Susan, Mr Frank Atherly taking up Sir Charles's character in the former piece.

MR FREDERICK KERR has been engaged by Mr Tree as instructor of the modern comedy class at the Academy of Dramatic Art, the first public performance of which will take place at His Majesty's Theatre on the evening of one of Mr Tree's special Mondays in February.

MR CHARLES WARNER produced and stage-managed an amusing little burlesque, entitled The Finger of Fate, by Capt. Arthur Hill and Mr Brown, on Sunday evening last at the Walsingham Club. The performance was given in aid of the Actors' Benevolent Fund, and the members of the Club and their friends spent a very enjoyable hour and a half witnessing a few actors and actresses presenting, with all the seriousness they could command, a "skit" on the old-fashioned melodrama.

MR BROWN, one of the authors, played the part of the hero, one Jack Mainbrace, a naval officer. His characterisation of the injured innocent, loud in his vows to protect the defenceless maiden, created a good deal of merriment. Miss Connie Ediss appeared as the heroine, a village beauty, and imparted a charm to the part in spite of the fact that, with all her apparent sincerity, her acting was only intended for burlesque. Miss Ethel Irving was the cigarette-making wicked woman of the piece, attired in a magnificent red wig and lurid garments, and Mr Lionel Mackinder appeared as the old father of the wicked woman. Mr Gilbert Porteous as a sort of simple-minded village "honest John," and Mr John Tresahar as an iniquitous intriguer were also exceedingly funny. To-morrow Mr Warner will appear at the Walsingham Club in the Screen scene from The School for Scandal.

MR CYRIL MAUDE was amongst the mourners at the funeral of Earl De Montalt, whose body was brought to London for interment in Kensal-green Cemetery on Saturday. The following was the inscription on the coffin:—"The Right Honble. Cornwallis Maude, 1st Earl de Montalt and 4th Viscount Hawarden, born 4th April, 1817, died 9th January, 1905." In the same grave is buried the body of the late peer's daughter, Lady Clementina Maude, who died in 1901.

MR GEORGE DAVEY, anxious to add to the attractions of his pantomime of Babes in the Wood at the Grand Theatre, Islington, has, it is stated, offered the Marquis of Anglesey £150 a-week to appear as a comic stage millionaire in the annual. Lord Anglesey dances nicely, which is always an advantage to a pantomime artist.

SIR HENRY IRVING has been the victim of an absurd newspaper paragraph, stating that he had received "a handsome offer" to appear in A Story of Waterloo at a music hall, and that in declining it he had said the music hall had "ruined the profession and the stage." Sir Henry has received no offer of the kind, handsome or otherwise, and has never said anything of the sort. He recognises the "place, use, and value" of music halls, and certainly would never, in any case, make the remark attributed to him.

THE directors of the United Theatres Company, Limited, have generously sent a cheque for £100 to the sisters of the late Mr Fred Vincent, who died on Dec. 28 last. It will be remembered that Mr Vincent had produced a very successful pantomime at the Theatre Royal, Manchester. He had been associated for many years with Mr John Hart, of Bradford, and elsewhere.

MR EDWARD TERRY appeared for the first time in America as Dick Phenyl, in Pinero's comedy, Sweet Lavender, at the Princess's Theatre, New York, on the 7th inst., with decided success. Throughout the performance, and after the fall of the curtain, the audience evinced the warmest approval of the play and of Mr Terry's clever embodiment of the eccentric and bibulous but good-hearted barrister. The entire company was recalled at the close of each act and heartily applauded. Mr Terry appeared for a few nights as Sergeant Buzfuz, in the one-act comedy, Bardell v. Pickwick, which was received with roars of laughter.

POPULAR dramatists and poets can do what they like in Paris. The other day, during the Syveton excitement, M. François Coppée behaved somewhat obstreperously, insulting the authorities, and shouting that he was ready to sacrifice his liberty and even his life for his cause. A hand was then laid upon his shoulder, and turning, he faced M. Lépine, the Prefect of Police, who said, "Monsieur Coppée, have no fear whatsoever. Shout whatever you like, and smash windows if the fancy takes you. You can even, if you like, attack the police. My men have strict orders from me never to arrest you, no matter what you may say or do." They manage these things differently in France. We doubt if Mr Stephen Phillips would be allowed to break windows—or even to assault the police.

IT is largely to Sir Squire Bancroft, says a writer in the Liverpool Post, that the actor of to-day owes his improved position. Sir Squire, in his career at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, paid an artist for playing a particular part £18 and £60 a-week within ten years. Another actor who entered upon an engagement with Sir Squire Bancroft concluded it at ten times his original salary, and another, engaged at £9 a-week, was drawing £50 a-week when he finished. When Mrs Stirling played in Caste at the Haymarket she received seven times the salary of the original representative of the character she impersonated. On the other hand, we may remark that if salaries are higher engagements are more uncertain, and an actor who has been enjoying a handsome income may find himself, from no fault of his own, out of work for many months.

MR E. S. WILLARD'S version of "Tatterley," which he has taken with him to America, is an entirely new play in three acts, written by the author of the book, Mr Tom Gallon, assisted by valuable suggestions from Mr Willard, who will double the parts of the old miser Caleb Fry and of the faithful Tatterley.

MR FORBES ROBERTSON opened at the Princess Theatre, Toronto, on the 9th inst. in a five-act play called Love and the Man, by Henry V. Esmond. Mr Robertson, who plays the part of a member of Parliament, had a warm welcome, and all reports state that the piece made a favourable impression.

MR LEWIS WALLER is one of the most active amongst London managers in collecting cash for the Actors' Benevolent Fund by means of "autograph taxes." If all the contributions he has made in this way to the Fund were added up the result would be a goodly sum raised for that valuable institution.

MR CHARLES HARRINGTON, having purchased the rights of Sailors of the King from Mr F. Bateman, will produce the piece at the King's Theatre, Cardiff, on Aug 7, on an elaborate scale. Every scene will be carried, and correct uniforms and properties will be provided. This enterprise will in no way interfere with Mr Harrington's successful tour of Uncle Tom's Cabin, for which he is having new scenery painted.

THE annual Liverpool Theatrical Gala is to be held on one of the football grounds on Feb. 14 This event, which many years ago had a small beginning, is now a great function, and receives the support of all locally engaged pantomime and variety artists, who are present in great force. The proceeds of the last nine years have enabled the committee to distribute among the local charities and Music Hall Artists' Association the sum of £4,890, last year alone realising £640. The Lord Mayor of Liverpool and the Bishop are the patrons; the chairman, Mr W. Watson Rutherford, ex-Lord Mayor; vice-presidents, Mr Isaac Glover, Mr Thos. Strettall, and Commander M'Nab; chairman, the indefatigable Mr Lewis Peake; hon. treasurer, Mr Tom Bush, of the Bee Hotel; vice chairmen, Mr John Cropper and Mr John M'Kenna; and hon. sec., Mr T. S. Ashmole.

MR OTHO STUART, at the conclusion of the third act of the sixtieth performance of The Taming of the Shrew at the Adelphi Theatre on Wednesday night came to the front, and in a most interesting speech stated that the play would be run for several months to come, to be succeeded, when the proper time should arrive, by Hamlet. Mr Oscar Asche, he said, would play Claudius, and Miss Brayton would impersonate Ophelia, and the rôle of the Queen would be played by Miss Maud Milton. Mr H. B. Irving had been secured for the part of Hamlet, an announcement which was received with prolonged applause. Each member of the audience was presented with a very handsome souvenir—a portfolio containing nine sheets of fine photogravures of the chief actors in the revival. The souvenir is an artistic treasure, and will be highly valued by fortunate possessors of copies.

THE announcement made by Mr Stuart with respect to Mr H. B. Irving will be hailed with delight by all intelligent playgoers. Those who have read Mr Irving's "Life of Judge Jeffries" and his "French Criminals of the Nineteenth Century" understand that he has a subtle intellect and a keen and peculiar brain. These gifts, combined with his admirable histrionic technique, should make his Hamlet one of the most interesting assumptions which have been seen for some time. We are sure that Mr Irving will not make his Hamlet too cold-blooded and inert. It must always be remembered that the Prince of Denmark was what would be called nowadays "a thorough sportsman." He was a first-rate fencer, and his physical activity, energy, and impulse are proved by his leaping down into Ophelia's grave and by his leading the boarders of the pirate ship with such ardour that he was left behind when the vessels parted. The fact that he was generally regarded in Denmark as the most promising "courtier, scholar, and soldier" of his time is against making Hamlet in the least degree a mere melancholy lecturer on life.

MR ARTHUR BOURCHIER has received the following letter with reference to that very clever comedy The Walls of Jericho, now being played at the Garrick Theatre:—"Devon Private Hotel, Charing-cross, Jan. 7. Sir,—It was my good fortune to attend your theatre this evening and to witness the play The Walls of Jericho. I trust you will not think it mere flattery when I congratulate you both on the play itself and on the rendition of it. Such a play cannot but have a splendid moral effect, bringing into the clear light some of the crying sins of the day, and showing them forth in all their terrible and far-reaching effect. I shall carry back to my home across the Atlantic the remembrance of this evening spent at your theatre as one of the pleasantest and most profitable memories of a brief stay in London. Believe me, yours very truly, JOSEPH M. FRANCIS, Bishop of Indianapolis." We congratulate Indianapolis on the possession of so liberal-minded and intelligent a prelate as Mr Francis. If our clergy would support and encourage clean and honest plays, and use their influence with discrimination in advocacy of good dramatic work, the drama would be immensely improved.

MR CYRIL MAUDE has earned the lasting sympathy of the profession by his origination and advocacy of the recent subscription for poor blind Henry Crisp, by which £300 was collected for that gentleman. Blindness is one of those afflictions which it is impossible to guard against. The victim is, indeed, unfortunate; and Mr Maude, by his efforts through the medium of our columns to help Mr Crisp, has won the gratitude of all who have a "heart to pity" hopeless and unmerited affliction.

THE roof has now been added to the Waldorf Theatre, Aldwych, and the opening may be expected in May. The decorations in the Louis Quatorze style are exceedingly beautiful. The crush rooms and refreshment saloons will be extremely fine, and a special architectural feature of the building will be a magnificent marble staircase.

MR CARL HENTSCHEL, at the Guildhall on Monday, was unanimously elected chairman of the music committee of the Guildhall School of Music.

MR ARTHUR CARLTON was presented on his birthday last week with a very handsome diamond ring, a gift from the managers and staff of his numerous theatres. Mr Carlton's new country residence at Hayes, to which he has now removed from Plymouth, is a lovely old Elizabethan mansion with extensive grounds, which are being tastefully laid out. Mr Carlton is an enthusiastic and skilful horseman, and his stables at Hayes are remarkably well filled.

THE members of the Playgoers' Club invited 2,500 children from the side streets and "tenement houses" of Southwark and Walworth to witness Mr Ernest E. Norris's delightful pantomime Puss in Boots at the Elephant and Castle Theatre on Saturday afternoon. Every seat was taken, and there were no late comers; and as the fairy story of "Puss in Boots" developed, the shrieks of laughter that rewarded the merry antics of Pussy were only equalled by the cheers that welcomed every member of the highly capable and excellent company. In the interval tea, oranges, cakes, and sweets were distributed ad lib. The front rows of the stalls were filled with blind children, who enjoyed to the full the delightful music and pretty songs.

MR FREDERICK E. PHILPOTT'S The Girl From Japan No. 1 company goes out on Feb. 6, carrying the original production, including new scenery and costumes, and the beautiful floral and electrical effects. The well-selected company of thirty artists includes Miss Rita Tomkins, Miss Florence Nelson, Miss Madeline Stone-Humphries, and Miss Jean Van Dalle, also Percy Baverstock, Frank Ellis, George Hudson, Frank Sherlock, H. Carlyle Pritchard, and Colet Dare. Mr Frederick E. Philpott will personally conduct the tour.

MISS TOTS DAVIS, the charming young artist who is playing the part of Maid Marian, in Babes in the Wood, at the Grand Theatre, Islington, was presented on Thursday night with a ten-guinea diamond ring by "Ally Sloper." The presentation took place on the stage, and was the result of the largest number of votes being given to Miss Davis by the readers of the well-known comic weekly, who claimed for Miss Davis that she was the most popular pantomime artist of the month.

MR CHARLES WARNER recently contemplated a twenty weeks' tour in South Africa in conjunction with Messrs Wheeler and Smith, starting for England next month. He has now, however, abandoned the idea—or, rather, deferred the carrying out of it—because of the unsatisfactory condition of things theatrical at the Cape. Mr Warner commences a twelve months' tour of Australia and New Zealand in November, with the management of Mr Musgrove. He will open at Melbourne in Much Ado About Nothing, and he and his company will appear in a series of Shakespearian revivals, as well as in Mr Warner's own répertoire of plays, including, of course, Drink.

IT is thirteen years since Mr Warner was last at the Antipodes, where he enjoyed a most successful tour lasting over three years. There were no theatres in Western Australia then, and during his forthcoming visit Mr Warner will for the first time play at Perth and Coolgardie. He is now negotiating for the purchase of a very strong play from the pen of a well-known French dramatist. He saw the piece in Paris a short time ago, and formed a very high opinion regarding it. He hopes to produce the English translation of the drama at a London theatre before leaving for Australia.

THE newly-elected committee of the Scenic Artists' Association will hold its first meeting on Monday evening at the offices of the association, 5, Robert-street, Adelphi-terrace; and we learn from the secretary (Mr H. Lawrence Harris) that the agenda is an unusually long one. The minutes of the sixteenth meeting of the old committee on Jan. 6, and the minutes of the annual meeting at the Caledonian Hotel on Monday, the 9th inst., have to be read and confirmed.

THE balance-sheet for the year ending Dec. 31, 1904, will be presented with the auditor's report on the same. The secretary will have the satisfaction of announcing the following donations to the Benevolent Dinner Fund received since the annual meeting:—Mr Evelyn C. Beuthume, £3; Mr John A. Sargent, R.A., £2 2s.; Mr Gerard De L. Duckworth, £2 2s.; Mr Fred Terry, £1 1s.; Dr. Anderson Critchet, £1 1s.; Mr Alfred Sutro, £1 1s.; Mr H. B. Irving, £1 1s.; the Right Hon. the Countess of Lytton, £1 1s.; Messrs David Allen and Sons, Ltd., £1 1s.; and Mr Stafford Hall, £1 1s.

THE secretary will also report the following additional names of stewards of the Benevolent Fund Dinner, to be held on Sunday, Feb. 19:—Mr Alfred Moul, Mr Gerard Duckworth, Mr S. Goldmann, Mr Phil Harker, Mr A. Chudleigh, Mr Ernest Hann, Mr M. Henry, Mr Geo. H. R. Dabbs, M.D., Mr C. Marshall Hall, M.P., K.C., Mr R. G. Legge, Mr C. Wilhelm, Mr Walter Hann, Mr R. M'Cleery, and Mr Stafford Hall. There are several candidates for election as ordinary members, and three gentlemen will be proposed as honorary members.

THE secretary will report that Mr J. Ashby Sterry has offered to lend a number of interesting pictures and a screen worked by the late Mrs Keeley at eighty-nine years of age. The Committee will have brought under their consideration estimates for printing on the Exhibition catalogue. They will also have to consider the application of a scenic artist for relief from the Benevolent Fund.

THE following resolutions will be proposed:—1. That members who fail to pay their quarterly instalments within twenty-eight days of the date they become due shall not be reinstated as members until they have paid a fine of 10s. 6d. 2. The secretary shall not in future send notices of committee and other meetings and notices of subscriptions overdue by post, but shall notify the same on the notice-board in the offices, and advertise committee and other meetings in The Era newspaper. 3. That a sub-committee of members be appointed to make arrangements for a monthly supper for the members of the Association, to be followed by a smoking concert. It will also be proposed to nominate two members as vice-presidents. 4. The committee will also be asked to consider a proposal to run a Scenic Artists' Club in connection with the Association, and a scheme for publishing a journal in connection with the Scenic Artists' Association will also be brought forward.

MR COSMO HAMILTON, who has just been appointed editor of the World, is well known as a popular young author and dramatist. He has adapted with much success several of his society stories as curtain-raisers. Two of them, entitled Patricia in a Quandary and Because of Billy Rudd, were produced at the Strand on Dec. 19, 1898. His best work was to be found in the three-act comedy, The Wisdom of Folly, produced on Oct. 9, 1902, at the Comedy. Miss Gertrude Kingston appeared in the eccentric character of Mrs Rose. The piece teemed with wit, but its run was short, in spite of the favourable verdict passed by the audience on its production.

MISS ADA REEVE'S name is down on the lists of cases for trial in the present law sittings in connection with an important action by her against the Newspaper Syndicate, Limited, the proprietors of the Weekly Dispatch.

MR AUGUSTIN SYMONDS, who will terminate his present engagement as business manager of Mr Milton Bode's Dick Whittington company on Feb. 11, has been connected with the management of Drury-lane tours for some years. He was also with Mr Bode's dramatic and musical comedy tours, and, altogether, has had a vast amount of experience both as actor and manager.

MR G. BRYDON-PHILLIPS'S successful pantomime of Sinbad will be transferred from the Dalston Theatre to the Brixton Theatre after to-night, and will be played there for two weeks. Mr Phillips is issuing a very amusing pictorial post-card advertisement. The subject, "His First Pantomime," is taken from life, Mr Harry Gardner, the clown, and Mr Phillips's own little son and heir, being depicted.

EXCITEMENT has been created in New York by the refusal of the management of Daly's Theatre there to admit Mr James Metcalfe, "a dramatic newspaper editor," to the first performance in America of The Duchess of Dantzic. Mr Metcalfe was charged by the theatrical managers with malicious criticism; and finally the American Theatrical Managers' Association decided to keep him out of their theatres. He then presented himself at Daly's Theatre with three reserved seat tickets, regularly purchased, but was told that he could not be admitted. At present Mr Metcalfe is unable to obtain admission to a single theatre in New York.

MR W. PAYNE SEDDON, who was journeying from Londonderry to Loughborough for the opening of the New Theatre next week, was one of the passengers in the Scotch express which was wrecked on Thursday morning. With his usual luck, he escaped without injury, and was able to assist in extricating the injured from the burning carriages.

THE Playgoers' Club have arranged for a special performance at the Britannia Theatre this afternoon of the pantomime The Goblin of the Sea for poor children.

SEVERAL actors of distinction have written in encouragement of the scheme for the establishment of a Repertory Theatre in London. Mr H. B. Irving is sure every actor must be in sympathy with any scheme that would help to vary the monotony of long runs. Mr Charles Warner says the plan would give what is so much needed to the younger members of the theatrical profession—constant rehearsals, constant practice with a company playing together, knowing each other's methods, thereby achieving an ensemble which is almost impossible where actors are constantly being changed in the casts at different theatres. "Mr Grein," concludes Mr Warner, "puts forth a very clear and business-like scheme—one of the very best I have yet read—and whatever time I may have to spare shall be placed most willingly at his service."

MR ALFRED SUTRO'S one-act play, A Maker of Men, will shortly be put on at the St. James's Theatre, in front of Lady Windermere's Fan.

MRS M. B. SPURR wishes to express her deep gratitude to Mr Herbert Flemming for all he has done for her family. The late Mr Spurr's affairs were left in an unsettled state; and though he made money out in Australia, there were difficulties in the way of obtaining it. As soon as Mr Flemming came to England and learned the awkward position in which Mrs Spurr and her family were placed, he at once sent temporary help, and has now provided for them for the next ten weeks. They are naturally anxious that such grand generosity should be generally known, and they desire to express their heartfelt acknowledgments through our columns.

MR MARTIN HARVEY will, upon the conclusion of his provincial and suburban engagements, about the middle of May, present his production of Hamlet in the West-end. He has engaged as his musical director the Chevalier Luigi del Bono, who will be remembered for his many years' association with the Royal Aquarium orchestra.

MISS GERTRUDE KINGSTON will deliver an address to the members of the O.P. Club at the Criterion, on Sunday, on "The Public as Seen from the Stage." The Hon. George Goschen, M.P., will be in the chair.

MR ARTHUR BERTRAM will produce at the Grand Theatre, Fulham, on Feb. 27 a drama entitled Hearts Adrift, which has had a successful run in America, and contains a sensational scene representing a fight on an airship in mid air.

MR W. T. LOVELL has been playing Horace Bream, in Sweet Lavender, in New York, with Mr Edward Terry's company. It was rather a severe test for an English actor to enact an American in the States and yet win the praise of the Press, but Mr Lovell succeeded in this very difficult task. He carefully avoided using the conventional Yankee drawl, making Bream speak like the average cultured New Yorker.

DURING the forthcoming Shakespearian Festival at Stratford the lecture room of the Memorial Hall will be set apart as a reading room and rendezvous for visitors to the town. Reserved seats may be secured on application or by letter to Mr C. Rainbow, the custodian at the Memorial Lecture Room. The ballot for reserved seats will take place on Friday, March 24.

MR EDWARD COMPTON finished the old year and commenced the new one in capital style by breaking all records at Leamington, Wolverhampton, and Huddersfield. The C.C.C. is now in full swing again, and a "record" tour may be anticipated. Mr Compton on his birthday, last Saturday, at Huddersfield had a very full house. Numerous expressions of goodwill from friends and well-wishers came from various parts of the country.

A SPECIAL matinée performance was given on Wednesday to some 1,000 of the poorest children of Hastings and St. Leonards and district at the local Hippodrome by Messrs Chatterton and Co., of the Louvre, St. Leonards-on-Sea. This philanthropic firm not only bore all the expenses of the performance, but distributed parcels of clothing to many of the poor youngsters, provided them with a midday meal before the performance, and with a tea after the show. They had the valuable co-operation and assistance of Mr Harold Penny, the genial manager.

IN celebration of the marriage of Mr A. E. Smith, theatrical manager, to Miss Elsie Douglas, the charming Princess of his Aladdin pantomime, which event took place at Dudley on the 8th inst., the whole of the members of the bridegroom's company, which is this week appearing at Kettering, were entertained by his liberality on the night of the 9th inst. at the Queen's Hotel, Shrewsbury. Mr J. H. Maxwell, who efficiently presided, proposed the toast of the bride and bridegroom, both of whom, he said, he had the pleasure of knowing for a very long time. On behalf of the company, by whom Mr and Mrs Smith are highly esteemed, he heartily wished them long life, health, wealth, and happiness. The bridegroom, said the speaker, had the confidence and goodwill of every member of his company, and he personally could not wish to serve a better manager. A varied musical programme was then thoroughly enjoyed, Madame Godfrey kindly presiding at the pianoforte. A dance followed, Mr Maxwell being a capable M.C. The bride and bridegroom received numerous wedding gifts, and the bells of St. Chad's Church, Shrewsbury, rang a joyous peal in celebration of the happy event.

MR GEORGE EDWARDES'S London company appeared in The Duchess of Dantzic at Daly's Theatre, New York, on Monday. Mr Ivan Caryll went to New York specially to superintend the production, which was very favourably received by public and Press.

THE pantomime at the Theatre Royal, Belfast, in which Paul Cinquevalli is so great an attraction, is a big hit. Mr F. Warden, indeed, has created a record by entertaining on one occasion the largest number of people that have ever patronised the theatre.

MR CHARLES E. HAMILTON, owing to the success of Peggy Machree at Wyndham's Theatre, has made an arrangement with Messrs Frohman and Chudleigh, who are to produce Captain Marshall's new play at that house, to extend the time of Peggy Machree for one week instead of closing to-night as originally intended. Many new additional songs have been introduced into Peggy Machree, and were it possible to extend the time it might run on indefinitely. As it is, the absolutely final performance will be given on Saturday, and on the following Monday the play will be taken on tour.

MR HENRI DE VRIES, the Dutch actor, will open at the Royalty Theatre next month with an adaptation of the two-act French play L'Aventure. Miss Grace Lane and Mr Harvey Long will be in the cast. A Case of Arson, in which Mr De Vries impersonates seven out of the nine characters, will also be performed.

MISS LILIAS EARLE, who for the last year has been playing Cousin Kate in the principal touring company, has been seriously ill, and is now slowly recovering under the excellent treatment of Dr. Herbert Spencer and Dr. Goullet. Miss Earle's part for the next few months will be played by Miss Edith Walker.

MR WALTER BEAUMONT, who has been out of the bill of the Comedy Theatre for some time owing to acute gout, is now recovered, and is playing again. Mr Beaumont has been undergoing electric treatment by the noted Harley-street specialist, Dr. Abbot-Anderson, and a permanent cure is hoped for.

MR NORMAN V. NORMAN, who has lately undergone a slight operation on his throat, has now fully recovered, and in the spring will again tour his revival of Under the Red Robe, which met with such success under his management last autumn. Miss Beatrice Wilson will again play Renée De Cocheforêt, and Mr Norman Gil De Berault.

THE following announcement is made by the management of the Standard Theatre, where Mr Frederick Melville's drama, Her Forbidden Marriage is creating so much interest:—"Notice to those intending to marry. The management will present to the first couple entering the early door a 22-carat golden lucky wedding ring." To this is added the promise that the manager or acting manager of the company will personally attend the wedding as best man.

AT the Grand Theatre, Islington, on Monday, a new sketch entitled The Telephone Girl will be introduced into the pantomime of The Babes in the Wood, by Miss Julia Kent and Mr George Mozart, and a number of new songs, dances, and clever situations will be added to this already excellent entertainment, the popularity of which is well shown by the fact of over 80,000 people having paid for admission up to Thursday night last, thus creating a record for the Grand, a circumstance of which Mr George Davey, the courteous and energetic lessee and manager, is justly proud.

HENRY IRVING AND "DON QUIXOTE."

At a banquet in commemoration of the tercentenary of the publication of "Don Quixote" held on Thursday night in the Whitehall Rooms of the Hotel Metropole the chair was occupied by Major MARTIN HUME, and among those present were the Spanish Ambassador, the Chilian Minister, Count De Torre Diaz, Sir John and Lady Lister Kaye, Mr Evan Charteris, Sir Henry Irving, Mr Edmund Gosse, the Spanish Consul-General, Mrs Craigie, Mr Sidney Lee, Mr George Frampton, Mr Austin Dobson, Mr Cunninghame Graham, Mr Anthony Hope Hawkins, Professor Ray Lankester, Mr Clement Shorter, Mr Edward Clodd, and Mr J. Fitzmaurice Kelly.

After the CHAIRMAN had proposed "The Immortal Memory of Don Quixote" the SPANISH AMBASSADOR responded in Spanish, and other toasts were drunk.

MR SIDNEY LEE then proposed the toast of "The Drama," coupled with the name of Sir Henry Irving, the only actor who had, he said, appeared as Don Quixote on the English stage.

Sir HENRY IRVING, in responding, said:—I think it is evident that Cervantes thought highly of comedians. He did not hold the opinion which some later dramatists have expounded in their haste, that the play would be a great hit if it were not for the players. I take it that Cervantes, who wrote some thirty comedies, was pretty well satisfied with the performance. "They were all acted," he says, "without any offerings of orange peel or cucumbers, and they ran their course without whistlings, hissings, or clamour." Nobody "booed" in the gallery. The author did not explain in after-dinner speeches that a total lack of training had prevented the actors from catching his meaning. There were no unfavourable notices, for the Spanish Press, like the Spanish Fleet in The Critic, was not yet in sight. It is true that the author's fees were rather low. Cervantes does not appear to have received much more than £7 10*s.* for any of his plays. I have never had the fortune to meet with a dramatic author who was willing to write for £7 10*s.* Mr Sidney Lee will agree with me that Shakespeare would never have bought New Place at that rate of emolument. Well, those comedies at £7 10*s.* are dead; but if the author were with us to-day, and could dramatise his immortal classic, his revenue might surprise him. I have heard of a manager who said to a dramatist:—"All right, I'll take your play—a capital play it is, too—if you'll first make it into a book." "Into a book! What for?" "My dear sir," said the manager, "if I send out a hundred thousand circulars to tell the public that your play is great, most of them will drop into the waste-paper-basket. But when your book is the talk of every tea-table, your play will be hailed with delight." Of the truth of that we have seen some striking examples. But I grant that "Don Quixote" on the stage is beset with difficulties of an unusual kind. I speak out of the haunted deep of experience. Most of you can pride yourselves, with justice, on having done some quixotic thing. All of you, I have no doubt, read "Don Quixote" right through again before you came to this dinner. But I alone among you have appeared to the world as the Knight of the Rueful Countenance, ridden Rozinante, and worn the helmet of Mambrino. You will remember how Don Quixote, in his eloquent discourse on the superiority of arms to letters, points out that "eminence in letters can be achieved by time, by watchings, by giddiness of the head, and qualms of the stomach." There are distinguished writers around me who will bear witness to the symptoms. I also knew these sensations when I essayed to impersonate that illustrious figure, who is enshrined in our loving memory; and I am persuaded to this day that if the powers of enchantment, of which Don Quixote had so much reason to complain—which turned the helmet of Mambrino into a barber's basin, and the aromatic fragrance of Dulcinea del Toboso into rich garlic—I am persuaded that if those fell enchanters had not interfered the play would have been a complete success. There was one character, at any rate, over whom they could not prevail, and that was Rozinante, who followed Don Quixote about the stage, affectionately reminding him of the sugar which had been liberally supplied at rehearsal. It may even be said by those malevolent enchanters that "Don Quixote" is impossible on the stage; and, if that be so, I have still a melancholy pleasure in such a judgment, for to undertake the impossible is quixotism in its purest form, and a reflected glory of the master. I contribute it in all humility to the celebration of that exquisite genius to whom all the world pays undying homage, and in whom it is possible that our Shakespeare had the opportunity of recognising a kindred soul before he died.

"BEAUTY AND THE BARGE" AT SHEFFIELD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

Admirers of Mr W. W. Jacobs' inimitable pictures of coal-boat and riverside life had a rich treat at the Lyceum Theatre, Sheffield, on Monday night, when Mr Cyril Maude's specially organised company appeared in Beauty and the Barge. To see some of Mr Jacobs' familiar types realised on the stage was in itself a delight to many, and to others there was the idyllic love story, in which the experienced stagecraft of Mr Louis N. Parker was apparent. Exquisite scenery had been furnished by Messrs Harker and Hann, and the enthusiastic approval shown by a crowded house was thoroughly deserved. It was evident that the piece had been carefully rehearsed, for a better all-round performance has seldom been seen on the Sheffield stage. The rich characteristic humour of the skipper was admirably brought out by Mr Blake Adams, whose Captain James Barley will long be remembered by the comedian's many local admirers as a character-portrait of the highest order. The bit of unaffected pathos at the finish was well expressed, and altogether Mr Adams made a thorough success. Miss May Fairclough was a dainty, lovable, and altogether charming heroine as Ethel Smedley. Miss Ethel Stalman was a tall and aristocratic-looking Mrs Smedley; Miss Mary Deverell was a pretty and intelligent Lucy Dallas; Mrs J. W. Braithwaite made a comely and good-humoured landlady of the Old Ship; and Miss Mary Griffiths gave a clever delineation of the character of the imposing Mrs Baldwin. Mr Horace Lane was a good-looking and gallant Lieut. Seton Boyne, R.N.; Mr Percival Knight was the smart, well-groomed characteristic Briton as Herbert Manners; a good sketch was the Tom Codd of Mr Charles Goold. Mr Fred Knight submitted a neat little character study of rural good humour as the old Gardener; Mr Charles Caffrey caused hearty mirth as the little landlord, George Porter; and small, but cleverly acted parts were the Augustus of Mr Forrester Harvey, the Teddy of Mr Fred Lake, the Alf. of Mr B. Fairclough, and the Jack of Mr H. Richmond. The curtain-raiser was an adaptation of one of Arthur Morison's short stories, entitled That Brute Simmons, in which appeared Mr Fred Lake, Mr Fred Knight, and Miss Ethel Stalman.

ON Monday, at the Town Hall, Sligo, Mr Charles Macdona's company, in A Country Girl, was accorded a hearty reception. Mr G. Williams was extremely good as Geoffry Challinor; Mr J. Parsons made a capital Rajah; Mr Wallace Bosco caused much amusement as Sir Joseph Verity, his acting being very good; Mr Champney as Barry created much laughter, his singing and dancing being appreciated; Miss Beatrice Rowe as Marjorie Joy was an unqualified success; Miss Kathleen Coomber cleverly impersonated Nan; Miss A. Dewhurst as Sophie was charming; the Princess was capably acted by Miss G. De Lacy.

THE REPERTOIRE THEATRE

MR. WALTER STEPHENS'S VIEWS.

Mr Walter Stephens, whose bold offer of £5,000 towards the establishment of a repértoire theatre in London has been already recorded, yesterday gave a representative of The Era his views on the subject. "As a playwright," said Mr Stephens, "I have long cherished the hope that one of these days we should have a repértoire theatre in London. Nobody, however, as yet seems to have cared to support me, and it is of no use to work a scheme like that on a small capital, for that would at once spell financial ruin. In order to erect a suitable building for the purpose, and at the same time to provide for preliminary expenses, management, &c., a sum of £20 000 to £25 000 would be required. Of course, in such an enterprise one would hope that the public would come in very largely and back one up; and, as Mr Stead pointed out in his recent address, the principal subscribers should be drawn from the aristocratic and well-to-do middle classes, for the simple reason that these, as you know, form a large bulk of the playgoing public."

Questioned as to the material he proposed to put on the stage of the répertoire theatre, Mr Stephens remarked that he would like to carry on the great traditions of the drama of the past, though not to the neglect of the best dramatic works of the present period. He thought that dramatic fare at the theatre was in such a parlous condition that it was difficult to foretell how matters in that respect would end.

"I would produce," continued Mr Stephens, "Shakespearian plays, the best Elizabethan pieces, and those works which might be described as classics, even of the modern school. I would also include in my programme good comic opera.

"Grand opera, did you say? Well, yes, but only after the theatre had been running some little while, and provided all circumstances warranted me in making the venture. I do not think there would be the slightest difficulty in getting competent actors and actresses for our répertoire company. I have no doubt that many people who have played with Mr Benson, Mr Tree, and other actor-managers would be only too glad to assist in a renewal of real art in the theatre.

"What means would I employ to popularise the répertoire theatre among the working-class section of playgoers?" said Mr Stephens in reply to a query. "Well, Mr Stead suggested that the place should be opened once a-week, free of charge, to the pit and gallery. I go further than that, and say that those parts of the house should be set apart for free admission on two nights each week. Then we should gradually educate our poorer patrons up to the pitch of understanding and really enjoying the highest dramatic works which past and present playwrights have given us."

Conversation suddenly turning upon the subject of the Passion Play produced at Oberammergau, Mr Stevens expressed the opinion that the religious play gave us the very highest dramatic art. "In olden times," he continued, "people were educated by means of stage representations of Bible scenes, than which no word from the pulpit could be more eloquent or convincing in the lessons taught. But in this country one is not allowed to bring the Bible upon the stage. I feel certain, however, that at some future date, perhaps long distant, a great deal of religious teaching will be effected in the house which we now call the theatre, and which may years hence be regarded even by the Nonconformist conscience as a place where the uplifting of one's morals goes hand in hand with the enlightenment of the mind and the relaxation of the body."

MR. CLARKSON AND THE PLAYGOERS.

MR WILLIAM CLARKSON, the famous perruquier, presided at the House Dinner of the Playgoers' Club, held on Saturday last. The club conferred on Mr Clarkson the order of the "Knighthood of St. Clement's," and an amusing parchment scroll testified that Mr Clarkson had been duly, and with befitting ceremony, installed.

Mr CLARKSON, in replying to the toast of his health, said:—Gentlemen,—I am extremely grateful for the kind manner in which you have proposed my health, and for the enthusiastic way in which you have received it. The order of knighthood which you have conferred upon me would have been cherished by my ancestors had they had the opportunity of obtaining it, but the honour has been reserved for me, and I can assure you that I will do my best to maintain the ancient traditions of this distinguished body. This reminds me of a little incident which happened during the late Wilson Barrett's tour through South Africa in Coronation year. I had a few thousand medals struck, with the portrait of the King and Queen one side and myself on the other. My representative who travelled with Mr Wilson Barrett, in charge of my department, took a number of these medallions with him to distribute on the tour. It happened after the company's arrival in Durban that one of the party had some business to transact some distance away, so he hired a "rickshaw," and when at his journey's end tendered, for fun, one of these medallions in payment, which to his utter amazement was received by the Kaffir boy with wild delight. On the following morning there were no less than twenty or thirty rickshaw boys outside the theatre offering to take any of the company for a drive in the hope of getting one of these medals in payment. Before they left Durban quite a number were wearing them as earrings, and I have not the slightest doubt that if any of you gentlemen present should go to that city you would probably find many of them worn through their noses.

A very attractive programme of entertainments followed. Mr Arthur Prince, the well-known ventriloquist, gave further evidence of his remarkable powers, and delighted members of the club. The Troubadour Four came from the Coliseum and sang part-songs, other turns being given by Mr Paul Mill, Mr Vivian Foster, Mr Harrison Latimer, Kuroki, the juggler; Mr Penyston Miles, Mr Ned Graydon, Mr James Graydon, De Camo and Dog Core, and Mr W. F. Moss. Mr Tom Browne, the artist, drew some comical lightning cartoons, and Mr C. E. Johnson acted as accompanist.

ACTORS' BENEVOLENT FUND.

The annual general meeting of the members of this Fund was held on Thursday at St. James's Theatre. Sir HENRY IRVING (president) occupied the chair, and the unusually large attendance included Sir Squire Bancroft, Mr H. Beerbohm Tree, Mr George Alexander, Mr J. D. Beveridge, Mr Henry Evill, Mr Sydney Paxton, Mr C. Aubrey Smith, Mr E. H. Bull, Mr Fredk. Wright, Mr Morris Abrahams, Mr Akerman May, Mr H. J. Loveday, Mr A. B. Tapping, Mr Bram Stoker, Mr Chas. Cruikshanks, Mr Edward Ledger, Mr Frank Desprez, Mr F. M. Dutton, Mr E. Storey-Gofton, Mr Augustus Spalding, Mr E. Hastings, Mr C. I. Coltson (secretary), the Rev. A. Brinckman, Mr J. H. Mote, Mr H. H. Cole, Dr. R. P. Middlemist, Mr P. De Pinto, Mrs George Alexander, Miss Edith Blande, Miss Clara Jecks, Mrs C. Gay, Miss Russell, and others.

The SECRETARY read the committee's report for 1904, and also the auditors' report, which were as follows:—

In submitting to the subscribers of the Fund the accounts for the past year, the committee have to report that the subscribers number 729, and the total subscriptions amount to the sum of £916 8*s* 1*d*. The total income from all sources was £5,575 1*s*. 6*d*., and the amount disbursed in gifts and loans is £3,350 17*s*. 8*d*., the number of assisted cases throughout the year being 1,411.

An analysis of the year's work will be found in the annexed abstract of report and statement of accounts.

During the past year death has been busy with the friends and staunch supporters of the Fund, and the committee have most deeply to deplore the loss of Mr Wilson Barrett, Mr F. A. Scudamore, Mr James Staats Forbes, Mr Walter Pallant, and Miss Nellie Farren. Mr Wilson Barrett bequeathed £1,000 to the Fund; Miss Nellie Farren, £500; and Mr Walter Pallant, £100. By the investment of £1 500 to capital, the committee are able to give some better guarantee for the continuance of the weekly allowances to aged actors and actresses, as these allowances absorb the large sum of £1,600 annually.

To Sir Edward Clarke, K.C., the committee tender their most cordial and grateful thanks for his earnest appeal on the Fund's behalf on the 7th of last December, when he occupied the chair at the fourteenth annual dinner. The grateful thanks of the committee are also tendered to his many friends who so generously responded to Sir Edward's appeal.

It is most gratifying to find that continued and increased support is given to the Fund by the promoters of the Liverpool Theatrical Gala, the Charity Sports at Birmingham, the Theatrical Gala at Belfast, and also by the organisers of the annual cricket match at the Surrey Oval, when the committee of the County Cricket Club very generously gave the free use of the county ground for the purposes of the match.

ACTORS' SATURDAY, JANUARY 28, 1905.

A small subscription carries with it not only a first claim upon the Fund for pecuniary assistance, but it also gives the power to recommend deserving applicants. The committee most urgently appeal to the whole of the members of the theatrical calling to contribute something to the collection which is now being made throughout the United Kingdom. The smallest sums will be thankfully received and acknowledged in the theatrical papers.

It is requested that contributions be handed to the gentlemen who are kindly collecting at the theatres.

(By order) C. I. COLTSON, Secretary.

The CHAIRMAN, who, on rising, was received with applause, said:—Ladies and Gentlemen,—It is my privilege to move the adoption of the report of the committee. It is always a pleasure to aid in officially endorsing the good work of our committee, who work so unselfishly and so strenuously on behalf of the Fund; but this year it is an added pleasure that there is nothing but good to report. We have had an income of over five thousand pounds and a disbursement of over three thousand. We may, therefore, say that the Fund is in a flourishing condition. When I say this it is not to be taken that we invite applications from those who live on theatrical and other charities. We want to help the needy and the deserving of our own craft—those who have fallen on evil days, and whom misfortune has followed hard. But we have had already, and the committee are constantly having, plenty of applications from those who are absolutely worthless. It is a very serious part of the work of this Fund to weed out the many hundreds of cases which are brought before us. We try to give aid to all that are deserving, and those who have worked worthily and are in present want need never fear to approach our committee. They will always receive sympathy and all the assistance it is possible to give them. There is one thing in which I think we are not quite up to the mark, which should represent the strength and goodwill of actors as a body. Out of five thousand pounds of income, less than a thousand comes from us. Out of a body of actors in this country, of some ten thousand at any rate, only a little over seven hundred subscribe. That seems a pity, does it not? If every actor in the kingdom would subscribe one penny in the pound it would mean a magnificent income. I earnestly trust that in the future we shall see an amendment in this respect. We can but hope that one and all will give as bountifully and generously to the Fund as their means will allow. You cannot do more, but if you will do that much may be done. As the report states, we have, unhappily, lost many staunch and generous supporters in the year that has gone. Amongst them is Wilson Barrett, who was one of the earliest friends of the Fund, and who assisted largely in its inception. He left a very handsome donation in his will. So also did poor Nellie Farren, whose name, through her bequest as otherwise, will be enshrined in our annals. Mr Staats Forbes was a very generous and thoughtful friend, and the year of his chairmanship of the dinner was a memorable one to us. We have also lost good friends in Mr Scudamore and Mr Walter Pallant. Of late there have been many suggestions of how to increase our receipts—all, or nearly all, of which are based on getting money out of the pockets of others than ourselves. What we want is cash, and this the working profession does not give adequately; we are all agreed upon that. Nor can there be any doubt as to the good work the Fund does. Managers already do their share—some times they do more than their share—and we are greatly indebted to them. But the schemes variously suggested are mainly wanting in pecuniary effort on the part of our own people. We do not, I assure you, refuse or despise assistance, and we are grateful for any interest shown in our work, both from within and without our own calling, but until actors give a little more generously I think we had better call a halt with regard to schemes, some of which actually suggest a different means of distribution from our own. We have already, in the shape of our annual dinner, an institution which allows our sympathisers from without our own ranks to show their appreciation of the art we follow; and as I see that one whole fifth of our income of this year is derived from this source, it is a pretty good proof that this effort is a good and well-directed one. Our warmest thanks are due to Sir Edward Clarke for his eloquent appeal on behalf of the fund at our last dinner. Perhaps the strongest plea to some of us springs from our own recollections of our early days of struggle—from episodes in our own lives which kindle the warmest feelings in our hearts; and I have the greatest faith in the future of this Fund, which so often stretches forth the helping hand in the hour of peril and of need.

Mr GEORGE ALEXANDER, in seconding the resolution, said they must all feel gratified by the admirable speech they had just listened to, and he could only re-echo what the Chairman had said—that the true solution of how to improve the position of the Fund lay with the actors themselves. A good deal had been said of late about the improvement in the position of the actor, and if members of the profession desired to maintain this improvement they could not do better than become annual subscribers to the Fund. He was sure that the managers of the London and provincial theatres had done all in their power to place the Fund in a good position, and it only remained for the actors and actresses themselves to co-operate and give their support. He thought it would be a great pity to make any more appeals for help to the outside public unless they could first show that they were ready and willing to look after their own interests.

The motion was then carried.

Mr TREE then moved and Sir SQUIRE BANCROFT seconded that Mr Edward Terry be elected a trustee of the Fund in the place of the late much-lamented Mr Wilson Barrett.

This proposal having been agreed to,

Mr C. AUBREY SMITH moved a vote of thanks to the committee. He said he felt sure they were all interested in the Fund at heart, and those who were called upon by their respective managers to take part in any performance given on its behalf most readily acceded to the request. The management of a fund of that kind involved a great deal of real work, and entailed a serious sacrifice of time and money. This work devolved upon the committee, and how readily and thoroughly they did their work very few realised. There was very little kudos to be gained, and not many thanks, but they did it in the kindness of their hearts. One member of the committee actually travelled 100 miles—fifty miles to London and fifty the return journey—every week to voluntarily perform his allotted task. He had great pleasure in proposing a vote of thanks.

Mr AUGUSTUS SPALDING, in seconding the resolution, said he could endorse every word Mr Aubrey Smith had said with regard to the work of the committee. He represented, as it were, the outsiders to whom the chairman had referred, and he for one took a great interest in the Fund, and had done his best to get outside subscribers. But he felt that it could not be expected that outsiders would assist unless it was seen that the actors as a body were prepared to assist themselves. He had great pleasure in seconding the motion, and should continue to do his utmost as an outsider to get new subscribers.

The motion having been carried,

Mr MORRIS ABRAHAMS replied on behalf of the committee. He said he had once more the privilege and the pleasure of thanking them most sincerely for this vote. If he were not a member of the committee, he should have no hesitation in saying it was a vote of thanks that was richly deserved, but, as it was, he must content himself with assuring the meeting that the committee did their work most energetically and carefully, and with due regard to those who gave as well as those who received. He had listened most attentively to the eloquent speech of the chairman, and there was one part he thoroughly endorsed, and that was with regard to the small percentage of actors who subscribed. It was strange that while the theatrical profession were always found willing to assist every deserving charity there were so many members of it who did not support their own Fund. But everything came to those who waited, and the committee had waited a long time for an increase in the membership, but had been sadly disappointed. He sincerely hoped that those who engaged in the good work of supporting other charities would remember the old adage, "Charity begins at home," and resolve to become subscribers to the Fund, and thus support one of the best and most deserving charitable institutions in this country.

Mr E. H. BULL said it was his privilege and pleasure to propose a cordial vote of thanks to the Fund's honorary officers. As a member of the committee he could bear testimony to the valuable work done by the officers whenever called upon. It was only right that this work should be recognised by offering them on an occasion like this their sincere thanks. The vote included the hon. standing counsel, Mr J. Safford; the hon. solicitors, Messrs J. Mote and Son; the hon. auditors, Messrs W. Westcott, Maskall, and Co.; the hon. physicians, Drs. G. Stoker, F. Horton Villanueva, C. Atkin Swan, and R. P. Middlemist; also the hon. dental surgeon, Mr P. De Pinto, and their re-election.

Mr FREDK. WRIGHT seconded the resolution, which was carried, and acknowledged by Mr MOTE, Mr H. H. COLE on behalf of the auditors, Dr MIDDLEMIST, and Mr P. DE PINTO.

Messrs Henry Evill, C. Aubrey Smith, and Belmore were then appointed scrutineers of votes in case of a contest in the election of members of the committee.

Sir SQUIRE BANCROFT said—I am in the happy position of knowing beforehand that my words will be very welcome to you all. I think I have said before, and there is no harm in saying it again, what one very earnestly feels, that brevity and sincerity are closely allied. It is my special privilege to ask you to thank our dear friend Henry Irving for his presence here to-day, and to re-elect our chief to the position which he does us the honour to fulfil as President of the Actors' Benevolent Fund. He is our chief, as you all well know, by the great and splendid position which he has so justly earned. He is our chief by the great and splendid services he has for so many years rendered the art he loves so dearly. He is our chief by the example he has set us all throughout these long years by constant acts of kindness to those who were in humbler positions than himself—acts of kindness known to few. I hope, ladies and gentlemen, that he feels that none love him better than the members of his own calling, and that none know better how much he deserves their love. In the words of the great poet he has served so long, let me say, "Sir, your presence makes us rich."

Mr GEORGE ALEXANDER, in seconding the resolution, said:—I need hardly say that every word spoken by Sir Squire Bancroft is echoed, not only by those who know Sir Henry Irving, but I believe by every actor and actress who speaks the English tongue. I hope it may be for many years our privilege to welcome him in the chair at the Fund's annual meeting, and we may be sure that during his absence from his native land his thoughts are ever with us all.

Sir HENRY IRVING, in reply, said—One would indeed be made of sorry stuff if one were not moved by the words from two very dear and affectionate friends whom I hold in deep esteem, and I have to thank you for your kind response. I have been strolling about a good deal lately, and like the Arab, pitched my tent here and there, and it is very nice to find such a soft spot as this just for a short time. I shall be glad if the opportunity should come to put down my little bit of carpet and once again appear before you. My services are not, I fear, worth very much, but such as they are are yours. At a meeting like this I feel and recognise that goodfellowship which has been and ought to be the great bond of our calling, and which should always exist between us.

Mr J. D. BEVERIDGE said it was his pleasing duty to propose a vote of thanks to their good friend Mr George Alexander for the use of his theatre. He had granted them another privilege denied the outside public, inasmuch as he had made his reappearance on his own stage in a favourite character of his—a good friend of the Actors' Benevolent Fund. Mr Alexander had in other ways assisted the Fund for many years; and he asked them to join him in a cordial vote of thanks to their excellent friend.

Mr A. B. TAPPING seconded the resolution, which was carried.

Mr GEORGE ALEXANDER, in response, said he was at all times delighted to give the use of his theatre for this meeting. He only hoped that the eloquent appeal made by Sir Henry Irving to non-subscribers to the Fund would bear good fruit. Mr Beveridge had referred to his reappearance on the stage that day. During several months Mr Beveridge had been his tutor, and if they saw any marked improvement in his performance they might place it to the credit of his friend Mr Beveridge.

The meeting then separated.

A REPERTORY THEATRE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Is there a public ready for the repertory theatre so eagerly advocated by our leading London actor-managers? Is there not a suspicion of an undercurrent of anxiety lest they lose, what all strive to attain, a hundred-night consecutive run by the "pay-going" public being attracted to the correctly termed "variety temples"?

Surely the secret of a "run" is the nightly advertisement of a well-pleased audience, each having taken the word of a previous visitor that their money and time will be profitably spent. Why are there so many "one-night failures"? Because the demand of the "pay-going" public is not supplied.

Yours faithfully, HENRY TWEEDIE

"BOOKING FIT AND GALLERY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Mr George Alexander, having signified his intention of booking pit and gallery seats, it is gratifying to find that my plea for booking pit and gallery which I made at the O.P. Club, when I read a paper on "The Discomforts of Playgoing," has at last borne fruit, and that the time when playgoers can book seats in the cheaper parts of the house is steadily drawing near. It is to be hoped that all managers will follow Mr George Alexander's spirited example. Every playgoer must wish him success.

Yours faithfully, CARL HENTSCHEL
The O.P. Club, Jan. 15.

AT the Paris Opéra Comique on Tuesday night the refrain of a song, "Au jeu! Au jeu!" ("To the Game!") was mistaken by a member of the audience for "Au feu! Au feu!" ("Fire!"), and by repeating the words at the top of his voice he created a temporary panic. Several spectators made for the doors, and some persons on the upper floors ran out on to the balconies outside the theatre and called for help. Eventually the panic was subdued, and the performance of Manon proceeded.

AN interesting representation recently took place at the Marlborough Theatre when Miss Simeta Marsden, the principal boy in Aladdin, was made the recipient of a magnificent diamond ring, won by her in an open competition to decide the most popular pantomime artist in the United Kingdom. The presentation was made by Ally Sloper, F.O.M., of Ally Sloper's Half-Holiday, in connection with whose paper the competition is being conducted. Miss Marsden was the winner of the first of thirteen rings, to be given one each week till the pantomime season closes. There was a crowded house, and the audience accorded a vociferous reception to Sloper, who made the presentation at the conclusion of the Cave Scene. Miss Marsden thanked the donor in a few humorous and well-chosen words.

AT Wednesday's meeting of the Lambeth Board of Guardians the invitation of Mr J. M. Herriot, general manager of the Brixton Theatre, for the children of the Norwood Poor Law Schools, under the control of the Guardians, to visit the theatre at a matinée and witness the pantomime was again discussed. It will be remembered that at their meeting last week it was decided by ten votes to seven to decline the invitation. The Rev. E. Denny failed to see that any harm could come to children from witnessing the pantomime, and moved that the resolution passed last week be revoked. After a short discussion this was carried by ten votes to seven, the voting being thus completely reversed.

MISS MAGDA WILDENBUEG is, we are glad to hear, much better after her illness, and will resume work shortly.—Little Miss Maudie Ray will resume the part of Toto, in Zaza, with Mrs Lewis Waller on the 30th inst., making her third tour with Mrs Waller's company. Little Maudie is not only a clever child actress, but a writer of stories. One of her sketches, Jack Frost, was produced on the 2nd inst. at a Sunday School entertainment with success, Miss Ray stage-managing the "production."

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

(SPECIAL TO THE ERA.)

A MEETING of the Society of Theatrical Carpenters will be held on Sunday at 8 30 in the Salisbury Hotel, St. Martin's-lane. All members are urged to attend.

A SPECIAL meeting of theatrical stage employees will be held in Glasgow on Sunday at 6 30, at 11, Maitland-street. All sections of the working staff in the Glasgow theatres and music halls are invited to be present.

MR THOMAS BARRASFORD has very kindly granted the staff at the Lyceum Music Hall an increase of pay. The stage men are now receiving 3s. per night, instead of 2s., and 2s. per matinée. Some recent changes in the conditions of employment at the Coliseum have also improved matters for the staff.

A FUND is being raised to assist the parents of the jockey who met with his death at the Coliseum the other day. Amongst the givers are the Coliseum, Limited, £2 2s.; Mr Oswald Stoll, £2 2s.; Mr Eugene Stratton, £2 2s.; and Miss Madge Lessing, £1 1s. Many other members of the company have also subscribed.

PREPARATIONS are being made for the annual general meeting of the Heads of Departments Association. Members wishing to submit any proposal for the consideration of the members, and nominations for election to any office, are requested to furnish the secretaries with particulars in writing.

THE second annual dinner of the No. 1 Branch (London) of the National Union Theatrical Stage Employees was a great success. The repast was provided at the Nag's Head Hotel, James-street, Covent-garden. Mr Charles Thorogood (branch president) presided, and eighty-five sat down to dinner. Among those present were Messrs H. R. Kimpton, J. Cullen, and W. Barbour, St. James's Theatre; Messrs Langley, Thomas, Godfrey, Wilson, and others, Alhambra; Mr H. Powell and Mr Ed. Wilks, Prince of Wales's Theatre; Mr A. E. Wood and Mr A. George, Grand Theatre; Mr J. Hands (?) Pavilion Theatre; Messrs Ed Keating, W. J. Hindley, P. Smith, Covent-garden; Messrs A. Lenton and L. R. Chantrell, Adelphi Theatre; Messrs Ed. Stow, A. Dudley, and C. Morrish, Lyric; Messrs J. Rich, J. Phelps, Larner, Skinner, Coombes, Dyer, Gooch, and Fitzmaurice, Drury-lane; Messrs Dalgarno, Burton, Dennison, Barrett, and Fuller, Empire; Messrs Farrell and Forman Robson, the New Theatre; Mr H. Bowmer, Gaiety; Messrs C. Terry, J. Atterton, and others, Grand Theatre. A large number attended the smoking concert given after the dinner. Among those who contributed to the entertainment were Messrs Will Randall, R. Chantrell, J. Warner, M. Baker, P. Scott, W. J. Hindley, and others. Mr F. Francis White accompanied. Several toasts were proposed, and the proceedings terminated at 11 0 o'clock. The dinner stewards were Messrs Thorogood, P. Thomas, and William Johnson.

NOTICES and reports of meetings, &c., are invited from the various societies with which stage employees are connected.

WHEN Mr Sydney Brough leaves the cast of Lady Windermere's Fan, at the St. James's Theatre, his part of Tuppy will be taken by Mr Eric Lewis.

HISTORIC PROVINCIAL PLAYHOUSE.

BY T. H. BARROW.—VIII.

Tate Wilkinson's comparison of Peg Woffington with Miss Farren is amusing if only in its analytical respects: "Their complexions and features much alike—Miss Farren will be more like ten years hence, before which time I hope she will be distinguished by some other appellation.

MRS WOFFINGTON.	MISS FARREN.
Mrs Woffington was tall.	So is Miss Farren.
Mrs Woffington was beautiful.	So is Miss Farren.
Mrs Woffington was elegant.	So is Miss Farren.
Mrs Woffington was well-bred	So is Miss Farren.
Mrs Woffington had wit.	So has Miss Farren.
Mrs Woffington had a harsh, but keen, and discordant voice.	Miss Farren's musical and bewitching.

Five years after the publication of his Memoirs Tate had issued a work in four volumes, entitled "The Wandering Patentee; or, a History of the Yorkshire Theatres from 1770 to 1795." In early theatrical literature this effort takes high rank, William Burton, one of Tate's comedians, issued in 1801 a poetical pamphlet, entitled "A Pasquinade on the Performers of the York Company." In his introduction he remarked, "I have solicited the patronage of no person of distinction, for I am convinced my writings will sell as well without a dedication as with one." His contemporaries believed this to be a quiet prod at Tate!

A quaint and amusing character of the York Theatre in those days was Johnny Winter, the wardrobe keeper, who abhorred spectacular plays because they caused him to exert himself. When it was decided to revive Coriolanus Johnny's mind almost became unhinged. "That John Kemble and Shakespeare," Charles Mathews, the comedian, once heard him petulantly exclaim, "have given me more trouble than all the other people in t' world put together and my spouse into t' bargain!" An affected or conceited actor was certain to provoke Johnny's personal resentment and open criticism.

Mrs Eliza Kirkham Mathews, the wife of Charles Mathews, died at York on April 27, 1802, and her remains were interred in the burial ground of St. Mary, Castlegate, York, almost under the shadow of the Castle walls.

Tate Wilkinson breathed his last on Aug. 25, 1803, having attained his sixty-second year. Lying very ill, he knew the inevitable dissolution was near, and expressed his wish that in the event of his death the theatre should not be closed. York races were being held that week, thousands of visitors were in the city, and from a financial point of view it was an important time for the theatre. The company decided to perform, and the receipts that night were over £100; but the news of Tate's death had spread throughout the city, and there was a settled gloom all over the house. The following day this announcement was made public:—"York, Aug. 26, 1803.—In consequence of the death of Mr Wilkinson, the trustees under his will most respectfully inform the public that they feel it to be their duty to continue the theatre open this evening, Saturday and Monday, when it will finally close until the winter season."

Deep in the affections of his friends, Tate was sadly missed. His demise was sincerely deplored by the theatre-going public, because he always strived to give them the best entertainments the resources of the profession would allow; and he was genuinely mourned by his company because he was always just, tolerant, and encouraging, without a semblance of partiality. His remains were deposited in the north aisle of the picturesque old church of All Saints in the Pavement, York, and here a simple mural tablet, commemorating his birth and death, assures all who read it that they "will not look upon his like again."

Tate's daughter, Miss Wilkinson (afterwards Mrs Mountain), became an actress of distinction, and was very popular on the York circuit. Indeed, so greatly was she esteemed that when the famous

Mrs Jordan left for Drury-lane the regular patrons of the drama in York insisted that Miss Wilkinson should succeed her as the leading lady in the local stock company. She was a woman of great accomplishments—vocalist as well as elocutionist, and in 1804 she appeared alone in an entertainment composed of recitations and songs entitled "The Lyric Novelist; or, Life Epitomised," which Mr Cherry had written for her. That literary talent in the stock company was not confined to the patentee is shown by the fact that in 1812 one of the comedians, Charles Wood, edited a work entitled "The Influence of Freemasonry upon Society &c., with an Oration."

MR MICHAEL NOLAN, who returns to town after a hard provincial tour, is taking two weeks' rest previous to making his welcome reappearance to his eager London admirers.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, JAN. 19.—An undisputed and great success fell to the lot of this delightful little work, one of the prettiest comic operas ever put upon a stage. The composer had been prevented at the last moment from leaving Venice to be present at the première—so said Director Prasch—but the popular manager, who was enthusiastically "called," told the audience he would telegraph the result without delay. The plot is simplicity itself, and without any confusing complications. The book, originally adapted by Count Luigi Sugana from Goldoni, has been translated into excellent German by Herr Teibler. The action passes in Venice in the middle of the eighteenth century. Pantalone, a wealthy citizen and an acknowledged enemy of the fair sex, has founded a men's club, where, on certain evenings, there is a little card playing, an exquisite dinner, and general merry-making. It is all very innocent, but the strict law that no woman is to pass the threshold rouses the curiosity of the ladies to frenzy. The wives of Ottavio and Lelio (friends of Pantalone), Beatrice and Eonora, and Ottavio's pretty daughter, Rosaura, who is betrothed to Florindo, are determined to get at the mysteries hidden within the walls of the house frequented by their mankind, and resort to every possible ruse to obtain their end, aided by Colombina, maid to Beatrice and Rosaura. The men prove obdurate—that is, the married ones—no amount of pleading has the desired effect; but Beatrice and Eleonora manage to steal the secret keys out of their husband's coat pockets, while Rosaura finally—by a series of fainting fits, fits of alternate anger and coaxing—succeeds in obtaining her lover's keys. Then there is proportionate rejoicing among the inquisitive women, who all arrive by moonlight, accompanied by Colombina, at the scene of action, some coming on foot, some by gondola. Pantalone's servant, Arlechino, however, is a match for them, and on the look-out. In the darkness he wrests the keys from each of the ladies in turn, and their plan appears frustrated, but merry little Colombina comes to the rescue, and makes Arlechino—who is in love with her—give the keys back again. With a cry of joy the four inquisitive ones now enter the building. The scene changes, and we see the antechamber of a dining hall, where the graceless masculines—arrayed in rose wreaths—are assembled awaiting the summons to supper. When they are gone the four women enter, somewhat astonished at not finding a scene of iniquity ready to their hand. Looking through a space between the folding doors they see all there is to be seen—a very harmless and jovial supper party. Slightly ashamed of themselves for their suspicions, they are about to leave again as softly as they have come when the doors burst open and they are discovered. The anger of the husbands is soon softened, the lovers are happy to be together anywhere, and Pantalone is pacified too in the end, so that all ends in a merry song and dance. Wolf-Ferrari's music is delightful from beginning to end. It is melodious, original, and never loses the light, airy character of a comic opera. The orchestration is admirably conceived, not merely accompanying the voices, but expressing all that they are singing. There is most certainly a successful career in store for Die Neugierigen Frauen, no matter upon what stage it appears. The interpretation was an excellent one. Fräuleins Doninger and Linda sang and acted charmingly. Fräulein Gaston is always good in whatever rôle she undertakes, and Herren Stammer and Hansen gave particularly good renderings. Kapellmeister Pfitzner—himself a composer of much merit—conducted with customary skill, and it was only just that Herr Prasch caused him to come forward to receive his share of the enthusiastic applause. A word as to the mounting, which was undertaken by the master-hand of Director Prasch himself. Each act is divided into two scenes, and each scene was mounted with consummate taste. The first scene of the last act, a moonlight scene, with a view of St. Mark's-square, was equal to anything I have ever witnessed at the Royal Opera.

GRILLPARZER'S five-act drama, König Ottokar's Glück und Ende was put in the bill at the Schauspiel Haus last week, or rather at the New Royal Opera, where the Schauspiel-Haus company are playing. The piece—which has already been detailed in your columns—is not the famous dramatist's best, but it is powerful and poetic by turns, and some of the scenes created a deep impression. Unfortunately, neither the stage nor the auditorium of "Kroll's" are suited to the demands of a work of this kind; the effect was far greater at the performance some time ago at the Schauspiel-Haus. Herr Matkowsky gave the title-rôle, gaining the stormy plaudits he is accustomed to. Frau Poppe, Herr Staegermann, and Herr Pohl were excellent in their respective parts.

THE alterations at the Royal Schauspiel-Haus, by-the-way, are proceeding so rapidly that it is expected the building will be ready for use in a fortnight's time. The long interim has been a severe trial to the patience of the public and to the pocket of the Crown, the New Royal Opera (Kroll's) not holding a tenth part of a Schauspiel-Haus audience.

MOSER'S laughable comedy, Das Stiftungsfest, made a hit at the Luisen Theatre. Time-worn as the piece is, it is nevertheless always sure to find friends, and the cast was on this particular occasion a capital one. The best renderings were those of Fräulein Hueftel as Wilhelmine, Herr Huener as Bolzau, and Herr Wald as Hartwig.

HERR PHILIPP'S spectacular farce, New York, has reached its fiftieth consecutive performance at the Deutsch-Amerikanisches Theatre, and is still running smoothly. The effective tableaux and bright music make the piece one of the successes of the season.

MADAME YVETTE GUILBERT is continuing her original performances—styled by courtesy concerts—in the Beethoven Hall. The latest evening brought a series of crinoline chansons, delivered by Madame Guilbert in costume, and accompanied by Mdlle. Delcourt on the clavecin.

THE Royal Opera has revived Kienzl's musical drama, Der Evangelimann, with some success. It has ever been a favourite work here, and not having been done for some time is new to many. The opera was followed by the effective dance-poem, Phantasien im Bremer Ratskeller, by Emil Graeb In the former work Fräulein Destinn achieved with Herr Kraus a great triumph; in the latter, Fräulein Dell' Era—a charming première danseuse—gained all the laurels for herself.

"MADAME SHERRY" has been revived at the Central, and the merry little operetta still possesses a good many powers of attraction. The chief interest was concentrated in Fräulein Mia Werber, who reappeared on Sunday for the first time after her long illness. No traces of indisposition were visible in the popular actress's voice or appearance; she sang and acted the part of Jane with all her customary verve and charm, and was applauded with the utmost enthusiasm.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

SYDNEY, NOV. 29, 1904.—Theodora is, perhaps, the most gorgeous spectacle ever staged by Mr J. C. Williamson, and an enormous audience witnessed it at Her Majesty's on Saturday. The version acted was Robert Buchanan's translation of Sardou's play, given here in French by Sarah Bernhardt in 1891, so that now Theodora is heard for the first time in Australia from English-speaking actors. A most capable company supports Miss Titteli Brune, who made every possible point in portraying the woman of so many moods. Her Theodora lifts her into the front rank as a tragedienne. The curtain had to be raised several times after every act; and at the end of the play Miss Brune was too much exhausted to appear, although the whole audience called lustily for her. Mr Roy Redgrave was the Andreas, and made an ideal lover. Mr Gaston Mervale as the Illyrian Justonian was fiercely autocratic and proudly dominant; the Euphrates of Mr Albert Gran was a clever portrayal of the sycophant courtier of a barbaric age; Mr A. E. Greenaway made Marcellus heroic and soldierly; and the conspirators, Agathon, Tonidelle, Faber, and Styrax, had capital representatives in Messrs Roland Stavely, J. P. Atholwood, Paul Scardon, and Harry Sweeney. The Frenchman, Caribert, gave Mr T. W. Lloyd his chance, and he availed himself of every opportunity. Bellisarius was well acted by Mr Jeffrey Williams; Miss Mabel Lane's Antonina was strikingly handsome and excellently played; Miss Nellie Ferguson's portrait of the old fortune-teller, Tamyris, was a telling one; and the circus-rider, Calirhoe, fell to the lot of Miss Florence Gleeson, a careful actress. Miss Lillian Meyers was good as the maid Macedonia. The scenery, by Messrs John Gordon, Dixon, and Coleman, was admirable.

"TEN NIGHTS IN A BAR ROOM" was revived by Mr Walter Sanford at the Lyceum on Saturday night. Joe Morgan, the dipsomaniac, was embodied by Mr Sandford, whose work is always conscientiously done.

MELBOURNE, DEC. 2, 1904.—PRINCESS'S THEATRE.—The management is about to revive here Sweet Nell of Old Drury, which will be staged for a short season of six nights. Miss Nellie Stewart will appear in her favourite character of Nell Gwynn and Mr Beatty will portray King Charles. The original music, scenic effects, and gorgeous costumes will be included in the revival.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—The Orchid is now in its fifth week at this theatre, and large audiences watch it with increasing interest each evening. Since its first production here new features have been introduced from time to time, the latest success being a song entitled "Prehistoric Man," sung by Mr George Lauri in his inimitable style. Some charming new ballets have also been added, and all things considered this piece should hold the boards till Christmas, when Miss Tittell Brune will return for a short season.

BIJOU THEATRE.—The revival of the melodrama When London Sleeps has been highly successful from a managerial point of view, and is nightly filling this theatre. The scenic effects of the piece are very realistic, especially the fire scene, and there is considerable merriment during the circus scene. Mr Anderson's company will continue to occupy this theatre until Christmas, when they move over to the Theatre Royal, which has been undergoing extensive alterations, and produce the pantomime Sinbad the Sailor, which is now in active rehearsal.

OPERA HOUSE.—The Tivoli company has had a warm welcome back during the week. Several new artists have been added to the company, including the Sisters O'Meers, the Peschkoff Troupe of Russian dancers, Messrs Gregson and Goodfellow, dancers and sketch artists; Mr E. Wiseman, a basso from New Zealand with a fine voice; Mr Ward Lear, an American comedian, and others. All these artists have met with excellent reception.

MR J. D. LANGDON, solicitor, appearing on behalf of Mr Beerbohm Tree, asked Mr Denman, at Marlborough-street Police-court, on Wednesday, to grant licences to permit six children, four boys and two girls, to perform in Much Ado About Nothing, at His Majesty's Theatre. The children, he said, were already playing under licence in The Tempest, and every arrangement was made for their proper rest, care, and education, lessons being given them at St. Anne's schools. Mr Denman said that the only question was one of a proper interval between the matinées and the evening performances. Subdivisional-inspector Smith having mentioned that they had a rest of four hours between the performances and that medical inquiries were satisfactory, the licences were granted.

THIS week the bill at the Grand Theatre, Hanley, is headed by Miss Marie Loftus, who scores a huge success with her excellent songs; the Hoopers contribute a turn of much excellence; Athas and Collins, in their speciality act, prove most diverting; Flo Elvin sings well; and Mark Leslie, the dusky prince, is a dancer of merit; James and Marie Finney, in their aquatic performance, give a wonderful exhibition; Baroni and Kemp, in their quick-changing, contribute a pleasing entertainment; Fred Elton, comedian, is excellent; and the Gladenbecks, hand balancers and gymnasts, are exceedingly clever.

MR GEORGE MAYES, fresh from his success in Little Red Riding Hood at the King's Theatre, Walthamstow, will start immediately on a six weeks' tour in Devon and Cornwall, after which he is booked right up to next Christmas.

MISS ETHEL WALKER, the clever society entertainer at the piano, who was so successful at Mr Albert Chevalier's recitals at the Tivoli, and also St. James's Hall, last season, appears at the Croydon Literary Institute on Thursday next, when she is giving a two hours' "Humorous, Musical, and Elocutionary Recital," and on Wednesday, 1st prox., she is specially engaged to go as far north as West Hartlepool to entertain at an evening concert in the Town Hall there.

WE are sure all our readers will sympathise greatly with Mr Jean Seul and his wife on the death of their infant son. The sad event occurred on Monday week, the funeral being on Friday, the 13th.

AT the Hippodrome, Stoke, this week, Max Gruber heads the programme with his highly trained horse and elephant; Miss Ada Fawn sings her songs cleverly, and meets with a hearty reception; Martin Conway is, as usual, a huge success; Ernie Leech is here again, and as a ventriloquist has but few rivals; Lanos and Montes are seen in a clever acrobatic turn, which is much enjoyed; Eugene Joly, cornet player, is well received; Will Hall is a clever mimic; the Evalos on the rings are seen in a smart turn; and the animated pictures are interesting.

MR ERNEST DOTTRIDGE entertained the inmates of the local workhouse at a matinée performance of his pantomime of Aladdin at the Empire Theatre, Oldham, on Saturday last, and, from the cheerful aspect of both young and old, Mr Dottridge's production gladdened the hearts of poor people greatly.

MR ERNEST SHAND'S song, "By kind permission of the Daily Mail, by Bennett Scott, has been added by Messrs Francis, Day, and Hunter to their "Sixpenny Pops," being No. 139 of the series. By courtesy of the publishers the entire song, words and music, appeared recently both in the Daily Mail and the Weekly Dispatch.

ADVERTISERS and SUBSCRIBERS who are moving about, and who have their Copy of "THE ERA" sent direct from this Office, 49, Wellington-street, Strand, are requested to forward the Addresses for their Papers not later than the Tuesday in each Week.

"IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE."

By MIRIAM MICHELSON, with Illustrations by Harrison Fisher.

London: Archibald Constable and Co., Limited.

We have had detective stories innumerable, but the autobiography of a lady thief certainly has freshness to recommend it, and Miriam Michelsen, in relating the adventures of Nance Olden, does so with much cleverness and smartness. Nance owes nothing to her bringing up; for the discipline of an asylum run by the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children had no softening touch, and the girl apparently came out of it predisposed to crime. She does not tell us how she became attached to a burglar and pickpocket named Tom Dorgan, but, when the book opens, the two have just committed a watch robbery from an old gentleman. Nance, who has the watch in her waist-belt, quietly appropriates a lady's silk-lined cloak from the station waiting-room, and noticing that a detective is paying her too much attention, bolts into a carriage, and pretends to fall asleep. She is regarded by the owner of the carriage—a bishop—as a young lady suffering from loss of memory. He puts her in charge of a rich lady friend, who sends for a doctor. Before the medical man's arrival Nance is, of course, non est, having changed places with the maid, who agrees to the deception for a consideration. Nance next disguises herself as a hotel boy, named Nat, who is concerned in a diamond robbery. This time it is a bolt to the appalling cry of "Stop, Thief!"

"I grabbed the diamonds to throw them from me, but I couldn't—I just couldn't! I jumped the fence where the gate was low, and with that whistle flying shrill and shriller after me I ran to the house. The room was empty. I pushed open a glass door, and fell over an open trunk that stood beside it. It bruised my knee and tore my hand, but oh!—it was nuts to me. For it was a woman's trunk filled with women's things. A skirt! A blessed skirt! And not a striped one. I threw off the bell-boy's jacket and I got into that dear dress so quick it made my head swim. The jacket was a bit tight but I didn't button it, and I'd just got a stiff little hat perched on my head when I heard the tramp of men on the side-walk, and in the dusk saw the cop's buttons at the gate. Caught? Not much. Not yet. I threw open the glass doors and walked out into the garden.

"'Miss—Omar—I wonder if it would be Miss Omar?'

"You bet I didn't take time to see who it was talking before I answered. Of course I was Miss Omar. I was Miss Anybody that had a right to wear skirts and be inside those blessed gates.

"'Ah—h! I fancied you might be. I've been expecting you.'

"It was a lazy low voice with a laugh in it, and it came from a wheeled chair, where a young man lay. Sallow he was and slim and long, and helpless—you could see that by his white hanging hands. But his voice—it was what a woman's voice would be if she were a man. It made you perk up and pretend to be somewhere near its level. It fitted his soft, black clothes and his fine, clean face. It meant silks and velvets and—Oh, all right, Tommy Dorgan, if you're going to get jealous of a voice!

"'Excuse me, Mr Latimer.' The cop came in as he spoke, Moriway following; the rest of the hounds hung about. 'There's a thieving bell-boy from the hotel that's somewhere in your grounds. Can I come in and get him?'

'In here, Sergeant? Aren't you mistaken?'"

The low voice belongs to an interesting young man named Latimer, who is permanently paralysed. He saves Nance from the "cop," but he has the diamonds given up to him before she departs. This kindness does not, however, prevent her from joining Tom Dorgan in an attempt to burgle Latimer's house; but Tom is lagged. Nance is left behind shame-faced, but wishing for the liberty of the man who had dragged her down. Says she, "Get Tom out of jail." Latimer is too good a friend to do anything of the sort; and Nance departs.

She has not yet learnt her lesson, however; but her salvation comes with the next "job" she attempts. Walking up into a bachelor's flat, she is in the act of abstracting dollar bills from the owner's desk when she is again caught, this time without a lie in her smart mouth. The man she meant robbing is Fred Obermuller, actor-manager of the Standard Theatre. He indulges in bitter sneers, and Nance is roused into the following indignant outburst, which tells the grim story of her early life:—

"There's a girl named Nancy Olden that could tell you a lot, smart as you are. She could show you the inside of the Cruelty, where she was put so young she never knew that children had mothers and fathers, till a red-haired girl named Mag Monahan told her; and then she was mighty glad she hadn't any. She thought that all little girls were bloodless and dirty, and all little boys were filthy and had black purple marks where their fathers had tried to gouge out their eyes. She thought all women were like the matron who came with a visitor up to the bare room, where we played without toys—the new, dirty, newly-bruised ones of us, and the old, clean healing ones of us—and said, 'Here, chicks, is a lady who's come to see you. Tell her how happy you are here.' Then Mag's freckled little face, her finger in her mouth, looked up like this. She was always afraid it might be her mother come for her. And the crippled boy jerked himself this way—I used to mimic him, and he'd laugh with the rest of them—over the bare floor. He always hoped for a penny. Sometimes he even got it.

"And the boy with the gouged eye—he would hold his pants up like this. He had just come in, and there was nothing to fit him. And he'd put his other hand over his bad eye and blink up at her like this. And the littlest boy—oh, ha! ha! ha!—you ought to have seen that littlest boy. He was in skirts, an old dress they'd given me to wear the first day I came; there were no pants small enough for him. He'd back up into the corner and hide his face—like this—and peep over his shoulder; he had a squint that way, that made his face so funny. See, it makes you laugh yourself. But his body—my God!—it was blue with welts!"

Fred Obermuller believes in the possibilities of Nance's goodness; of her cleverness he is certain—so certain, indeed, that he gives her her chance with his company in the playlet Charity, which has been written round a rich amateur named Lady Gray and her diamonds. Nance is at first merely a foundling in an asylum—a thinking part. Kleptomania still afflicts her, and one of Lady Gray's diamonds is too great a temptation for her. She takes it, but repents before going out of the stage-door. Says Nance:—"I shut the door, and I shut for ever another door, too, the old door that opens out on Crooked Street!" The rest of the story may be guessed. Nance gets her chance as an actress, becomes a celebrity, and marries Fred Obermuller. It will be seen from our extracts that the slang of "crooks" largely permeates the book.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER, BY
ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).
Chapter I.
COPYRIGHT AS OPPOSED TO PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter II.
PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter III.
INFRINGEMENT AND REMEDIES.
Chapter IV.
MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.
Chapter V.
INTERNATIONAL AND COLONIAL COPYRIGHT.
"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer, by Albert A. Strong, LL.B., solicitor, author of "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" office), seems to be the one compendious and indispensable authority on the subject, as vexed as "the Bermoothes" and as tortuous as a Chancery suit, that has long been wanted. It is in every essential a text book for the perplexed layman, and no solicitor or barrister worth his salt ought to think of taking or appearing in "proceedings" without consulting its pages. It must suffice, after what has been said, to state little more than that the contents include five chapters respectively named "Copyright as Opposed to Performing Right," "Performing Right," "Infringement and Remedies," "Musical Copyright," and "International and Colonial Copyright." The work, for all its precise authority, is not dry reading. The statutes, with the elucidatory notes, necessarily impose a task on the reader which takes some tackling, but they had to be there. The cases adduced, however, are full of interest. Certain of them might fitly find a place in the romance of copyright. There was the fight of Charles Reade with George Conquest over "It's Never Too Late to Mend," for instance, and the equally interesting conflict of Mr J. A. Cave with Chatterton over "The Wandering Jew." The latter was a famous battle. Chatterton took it to the House of Lords, and was finally beaten, to the unspeakable relief of Mr Cave, who is never weary of relating the story. Had the result been otherwise it would have meant his ruin. I well remember meeting him on the day of his victory and "crashing a cup with him" in honour of the same. "The Law of Copyright" is dedicated to Mr A. W. Pinero.—Sportsman, July 31st, 1901

REPERTORY THEATRES.

A clear view of the actual condition of affairs is apt to subject the viewer to an accusation of density. To enthusiasts, it seems so completely obvious that their proposals are generally advantageous that they look upon anyone who points out the unpracticability of their schemes as having no sympathy with their aims. It is quite possible that many of our readers, observing our scepticism as to the various plans for "National," "Endowed," and "Municipal" theatres, have jumped to the conclusion that we are opposed to such innovations on principle. The contrary is the case What we object to is the not uncommon practice of using an excellent idea merely as a means of self-advertisement. As soon as a suggestion is made, a flock of smart self-seekers swoop down on it like vultures upon a dying mule, and accelerate its extinction. Everything is said, but nothing is done; and the net result is that a certain amount of "copy" has been written and paid for, while the matter remains in statu quo.

It is possible, we are quite aware, to go too far in making the financial question the only question in connection with the drama. Mr BEERBOHM TREE, the other day, made a remark which gave us something very like a twinge of conpunction. He said that the thing to do was not to give the public what they want, but to give it what you want; to get them, so to speak, to take the dose of High Art in the jam of personal magnetism. To a popular actor-manager all things are possible. It would, for instance, be quite within the bounds of probability that Sir HENRY IRVING might "run" a National Theatre successfully on the strength of his great reputation and tremendous personal popularity. But all these schemes whether for "National," "Endowed," or "Municipal" playhouses, imply permanent establishment. The Comédie-Française does not depend upon the inclusion amongst its members of any leading actor or actress. It exists because it satisfies certain tastes and desires of the French nation. An institution must have root in the national spirit, otherwise, as soon as the "personal factor" is removed, it withers away.

On the other hand, the result of pure commercialism in any art is the degradation of that art, if not its ruin. We may take the Royal Academy as an "object lesson" in this respect. What is required in connection with the stage is something which may serve the same purpose, in connection with the drama, as the exhibitions at the New Gallery, with their leaven of SARGENT, LAVERY, and the modern French school, do in connection with painting; and we discern a great deal of promise in the agitation for repertory theatres. It is true that the support rendered to the German Theatre is principally foreign. The German colony in England is so large that it alone is capable of making a theatrical season at a comparatively small theatre profitable. The German Theatre charges £6 for every twenty stalls, being at the rate of 6s. per stall, the cost of each similar seat bought at the door being 10s. 6d. But before the season at the Great Queen-street Theatre opened, £2,000 was subscribed for booking; and the German community in London has, year after year, guaranteed on an average a sum of £3,500, half of which is paid up at once, and the other half when required.

It is possible, however, to create a Repertory Theatre by the simple process of opening a West-end house, and presenting a repertory programme to the public. A practical demonstration of how to do this has been given at the Court, where what are called the VEDRENNE-BARKER Matinées were given last year, the series including a translation by Mr GILBERT MURRAY of The Hippolytus of EURIPIDES, Mr BERNARD SHAW'S John Bull's Other Island, and Mr ALFRED SUTRO'S translation of MAETERLINCK'S Aglavaine and Selysette. That the experiment has not been unsuccessful is proved by the announcement of the repetition of Mr SHAW'S Irish play and his You Never Can Tell, and translations of BRIEUX'S Le Berceau, HAUPTMANN'S Der Biberpelz, EURIPIDES' Trojan Women, and IBSEN'S Wild Duck. Mr J. F. VEDRENNE, under whose management the plays were produced by Mr GRANVILLE BARKER, is to be congratulated upon the spirit of his enterprise and the fact that it has proved practically successful.

Other movements in the same direction are to be made by Mr BEERBOHM TREE, with his Monday matinées, and Mr GEORGE ALEXANDER, whose Wednesday matinées are likely to prove "real treats" to the epicure in dramatic work. And a proposition of a similar sort has recently been made by Mr J. T. GREIN, who, as he states in an article in a weekly contemporary, has been thinking over the matter for thirteen years. Mr GREIN'S scheme is interesting if only from the boldness of his suggestions. At this imaginary playhouse actors will be offered engagements for at least one year at small salaries, with the option, on the part of the management, to renew the contracts for a similar period. The actors are to have shares in the annual profits, and are to have a prospect of a pension after ten years' service. The direction of the establishment will be in the hands of a competent manager under the supervision of two trustees, who will administer the funds. Mr GREIN presents the following estimate of expenses, based on his experience in connection with the German Theatre in London:—

Rent (less hire of bars)	£120
Salaries—Artistes	150
Orchestra (not absolutely necessary)	20
Front of the House	28
Stage and Stage Manager	40
Supers and small parts	5
Advertising	60
Printing	15
Hire of costumes	30
Lighting	15
Licence of Plays	2
Authors' Fees	40
Insurance	2
Sundry expenses in front and on the Stage	10
Warehousing	1
Washing and Cleaning	5
Hire of Furniture	10
General and petty expenses	10
Production expenses, exclusive of scenery	25
Scenery	12
	£600

We invite comments from our readers on these figures; and pass to Mr GREIN'S estimate of the receipts, which he puts at an average of £100 a night. "Given this modicum of success," says Mr GREIN, "the money problem is settled out of hand." In order to make the triumph of his scheme more probable, Mr GREIN has been fortunate enough to secure the assistance, after the close of the German season, of Mr B. A. MEYER, whose experience in connection with foreign plays is so extensive and peculiar; while the "cast" for the Repertory Theatre will be "watched" by a no less sound and vigilant adviser than Mr ALBERT A. STRONG, the author of that valuable work "Dramatic and Musical Law." We shall be interested to see the outcome of Mr GREIN'S proposals. For the present, we confess, we are more sanguine of the results of Mr GEORGE ALEXANDER'S and Mr VEDRENNE'S experiments, to which may soon be added one undertaken by Mr PHILIP CARR. We wish all these gentlemen success in their endeavours to introduce novelty and freshness into the drama in England.

PROFESSOR CHURTON COLLINS, lecturing on Thursday afternoon at the Royal Institution on "The Religion of Shakespeare," said there was no doubt that Shakespeare accepted Christianity on its ethical or moral side, as was shown by his emphasis of the beauty of mercy, one of the most important of Christian virtues. Goethe said that man was not made to solve the problem of life, but that he should attempt to solve it in order that he might keep within the limits of the knowable. That was what Shakespeare did. The lesson of Shakespeare's works was work, wait, submit. The silence of his philosophy concerning what succeeds death was unbroken, and with respect to his belief in the immortality of the soul there was nothing to warrant a conclusion either in the affirmative or in the negative. If to have uttered no word in disparagement of Christianity, but on the contrary to have treated it with the most reverent attention and to have adopted and exercised its most characteristic virtues was to be a Christian, then Shakespeare was a Christian.

THE winners of the Carnegie Music Scholarships at the Guildhall School of Music, recently founded by the Musicians' Company, are Miss Elizabeth Tarttelin, of Grimsby, and Miss Katharine Ethel Harman, of Muswell-hill. The following are honourably mentioned in order of merit:—Mr Lawrance Arthur Collingwood, Miss Eveline Margaret Thompson, and Miss Vera Elaine Wise. At a quarterly Court of the company, held at Girdlers' Hall on Tuesday, the honorary freedom of the company was conferred upon Dr. William Hayman Cummings, the Principal of the Guildhall School of Music, and the Rev. Francis William Galpin, M.A., F.L.S., of The Vicarage, Hatfield Regis, Essex, for services rendered by them in connection with the company's Tercentenary Exhibition, 1904.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

"LE PATRIMOINE,"

Lhominois	M. GENIER
De Mérivel	M. COSTE
Jean Berthier	M. LOUIS MARIE
Baptiste	M. BERGER
Madame Williams	Madame ANDRÉE MÉGARD
Madame Lhominois	Madame BONNET
Madame De Mérivel	Madame DEHON
Andrée	Mdlle. DERIVES
Pauline	Mdlle. SPINDLER
Maud	Mdlle. LOLL

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, JAN. 19.—Most of M Janvier's plays leave an unpleasant aftertaste, and Le Patrimoine is no exception to the rule. M. De Mérivel, although married and father of a grown-up daughter, is one of the "fastest" men on record. His wife puts up with the inevitable, but her fear is that her husband's extravagance may jeopardise the fortune which Andrée, their daughter, will one day inherit. Jean Berthier, Andrée's fiancé, does not trouble about money matters. The same, however, cannot be said of his parents, who, true bourgeois-like, anxiously watch the performances of the prodigal Mérivel. Nor are they the only ones to be anxious. Madame Lhominois, who has lost her heart to the incorrigible viveur, is horrified at the man's mad pranks, and she shrewdly induces her husband to give Madame De Mérivel some advice on the matter. Lhominois, a practical man, knows that it would be impossible to reason with the incorrigible Mérivel, but as everybody appears so much concerned about Andrée's fortune, the only thing to do is to draw her terrible father away from his costly love intrigues, and, since he cannot exist without an intrigue, put him in the way of a liaison with a "society lady," who, at all events, would not prove expensive. Their choice falls upon Mrs Williams, a fascinating American, and the inflammable Mérivel is at once caught. But, to everybody's consternation, the wealthy stranger proves as extravagant as Cleopatra, and induces her admirer to make her the most expensive presents. Mérivel even offers her a magnificently furnished house, when, through an unforeseen coincidence, Andrée is brought face to face with the dangerous coquette, who at once feels so drawn towards the girl that she repents, and makes Andrée a present of the bracelet given her by Mérivel. She refuses the "magnificently furnished" house, and her generosity even goes so far as to offer herself to her admirer—gratis. The piece was not well acted. M. Gémier did not make an interesting character of the part; M. Coste was too heavy; and Madame Mégard over-acted the rôle of the fascinating American, and her supposed American accent was decidedly unpleasant. Madame Bonnet was the most natural in the rather ridiculous rôle of Madame Lhominois.

"PETITE PESTE."

Louis Chameron	M. LERAND
Chantelouve	M. GASTON DUBOSC
Roussay	M. COLOMBEY
Chancelet	M. LOUIS GAUTHIER
Dumpuis	M. BARON fils
Lambret	M. JEFFER
Paule	Mdlle. JEANNE THOMASSIN
Marceline	Mdlle. MARTHE REGNIER
Gina	Mdlle. HARLAY
Georgette	Mdlle. DE BRAY

Here we have a surprising mixture of well-expressed thoughts and vulgarity. Marceline, the heroine, is a strange girl, such as is rarely seen on any stage. Living in an irregular milieu where marriage is an unknown, not to say superfluous, institution, her ideas on this and other subjects have become somewhat elastic. Nearly all her time is spent at the house of Louis Chameron and Paule, who have been living together for ten years as husband and wife. For all her flightiness Marceline is observant. She notices that something has gone wrong in this household, and discovers that Paule has started an intrigue with Moncelet, their young neighbour, and has even arranged to meet him at Havre. Marceline, anxious to render a service to her kind friend, Louis Chameron, resolves to prevent this meeting. She then enters into a serious flirtation with Moncelet, who falls in love with her and asks her to be his wife. But Marceline does not care for him. She has lost her young heart to Chantelouve, a man who boasts of having had thirty-one liaisons; and, although Chantelouve also offers her his hand, she refuses. "Marriage," she says, "has no attraction for me. I love Chantelouve, and prefer to be his mistress rather than his wife." And on this astounding declaration the curtain falls. Mdlle. Thomassin and Mdlle. Marthe Regnier were both excellent in their impersonations of the flighty mistress and the hare-brained girl. Special praise, however, is due to M. Dubosc, whose impersonation of the fascinating middle-aged viveur was really remarkable.

"LA CONQUETE DE L'AIR,"
Play, in Four Acts and Five Tableaux, by MM. Camille Audigier and Paul Gery, Produced at the Ambigu, Jan. 16.

Henri Francard	M. CHERBIN-MARS
Duc De Geuvres	M. DIEUDONNE
Portal	M. CAILLARD
Pierre Mauvrac	M. RIEVANT
Barucaud	M. VILLA
Moser	M. MORNAU
Louise Francard	Madame DUBUISSON
Duchesse De Geuvres	Madame CANTI
Madame Moser	Madame DAUVILLE
Baronne des Charmettes	Madame DHERBLAY
Miss Paston	Mdlle. LAMBERT

The plot of this play is anything but novel, but we have to thank the management of the Ambigu for having given us for once a drama without burglars. This is already an improvement. Henri Francard is an inventor who thinks he has solved the aeronautic problem, and is looking out for the necessary capital to launch a new balloon. A certain Mauvrac promises him his aid; but Mauvrac is a villain whose aim is to steal the secret of Francard's invention and to seduce the beautiful Madame Francard. A banker, called Moser, advances a little money, thanks to which Francard constructs his balloon, with which he intends to steer round the Eiffel Tower. Through a mistake, however, on the part of Francard's assistant, the balloon comes to grief, and the aeronaut is nearly killed. For several weeks Francard hovers between life and death, and the household has become well nigh destitute. Mauvrac seizes this moment to bring pressure upon Madame Francard, who has resisted his advances; but the wretched aeronaut gathers sufficient strength to rise from his bed, and, seizing a revolver, he kills the scamp, and then drops dead. The piece was well played by a good all-round company. The staging was most effective, especially the tableau representing the Eiffel Tower platform, with the crowd of spectators, several of whom were made up to resemble well-known personalities in the sporting world, like M. Santos Dumont, the Comte De Dion, M. De La Vaulx, Captain Renard, &c.

"L'INSTINCT."
Play, in Three Acts, by M. Henry Kistemaeckers, Produced at the Théâtre Molière, Jan. 18.

Jean Bernou	M. CARDE
André Bernou	M. CASTELLI
Lantiquet	M. G. FERRE
Pierre	M. LECOMTE
Cécile Bernou	Mdlle. CORA LAPARCERIE
Thérèse Laugier	Mdlle. HELENE GONDY
Berthe	Mdlle. RENEE LAUNAY

The Théâtre Molière has given us two highly interesting plays, in the first of which M. Kistemaeckers shows us the conflict between duty and revenge. Jean Bernou, a famous surgeon, has married a young girl whom he treated in the hospital and saved from death, but he gets scant reward for his generosity. Cécile loses her heart to a consumptive youth, and a letter wherein the two lovers appoint a place of meeting falls in the husband's hands. When the seducer goes to the rendezvous he has a nervous attack, drops, and fractures his skull. He has to be operated on on the spot, and Dr. Bernou is at once sent for. Cécile confesses everything to her husband, and implores him to save the stricken man. She will expiate her fault afterwards. Meeting with a refusal, she overwhelms Jean with terrible reproaches. It is an unpleasant moment of suspense. But at the sight of the unconscious man the sense of professional duty awakens in the doctor, and, calling his assistant, he makes himself ready for the operation that will save the life of his wife's lover. The best scenes in the piece, those between the doctor and his wife, were played with much feeling by M. Carde and Mdlle. Laparcerie. M. Frère was most amusing in his impersonation of the manager of an inquiry office.

"LA SOUTANE,"
Play, in Three Acts, by M. Arthur Bernède, Produced at the Théâtre Molière, Jan. 18.

L'Abbé Jacques Mirande	M. MONTEUX
Mgr. de Canardin	M. CRESTE
Le Comte Brossard	M. RENIER
Le Baron Rouveray	M. MANNEVILLE
Henri de Prangis	M. GERBAULT
La Mère Mirande	Mdme. GONDY
Baronne de Rouvray	Mdme. RITTER
Marguerite de Rouvray	Mdlle. FANNY AUBELL

In this bold piece the author supplies a graphic picture of the differences that arise between the members of the high and low clergy, and he shows us Mirande, a poor, honest, hard-working priest, a victim of the bad faith of his entourage. He cannot preach the Gospel as he understands it without being called a revolutionary; and his parishioners denounce him to the bishop, and get him removed from his post. And, to make matters worse, a very serious incident brings him into collision with his hierarchical chief. A certain Baronne De Rouvray has confessed to the Abbé Mirande that her daughter Marguerite is the child of M. De Prangis, one of her husband's friends. Nobody, not even her lover, is aware of this. And, as a marriage has been arranged between Marguerite and the son of this very same M. De Prangis, the priest asks the bishop to relieve him from the secret of the confessional to stop this incestuous marriage. Afraid of the scandal, Monsignor advises Mirande to keep the matter secret, cases of this description having already been dealt with in a similar manner by the ecclesiastical tribunals. Not at all convinced, the conscientious priest then goes to Rome to submit the case to the Pope. But secret orders have been issued, and he is not received by the Holy Father. On his return he follows his own honest inspirations, and reveals the terrible story to M. De Prangis, who then takes the necessary steps to break off the engagement without provoking any scandal. The bishop, delighted at the difficulty being thus overcome, informs Mirande that he will be pardoned his independent attitude if he craves forgiveness. But this time the poor priest rebels. He upbraids the bishop, who anathematises him. He appeals to his parishioners, and is hooted by them. He wants to continue the struggle against oppression, but, ill-treated and beaten, he expires at the door of his humble dwelling. M. Monteux gave an impressive rendering of the rôle of the persecuted priest; M. Cresté was less satisfactory as the bishop; and the other rôles were well sustained by a capital cast.

THE Opera-Comique gave an excellent revival of M Theodore Dubois's Xavière and M. Saint-Saëns's Hélène.

THE "EAST LYNNE" RIGHTS.

In the Court of King's Bench, on Monday, before Mr Justice Wills, an action was brought by Mr John Pitt Hardacre, formerly the proprietor of a theatre at Manchester, and Mrs Gunley, against Mr Frederick W. Purcell and Miss Haidee Wright, of the Marlborough Theatre, Holloway-road, and Mr H. Armitage, manager of a theatrical touring company, and formerly manager for Mr Wilson Barrett, for damages and an injunction to restrain the defendants from producing the "Bullock" version of East Lynne.

Mr. Pitt-Hardacre's case was that in 1888 he took an assignment from Mr Chute of his sole right of representation of the "Bullock" version of East Lynne; that in July, 1903, he assigned the right to Mrs Gunley; and that the defendants had infringed that right. The defendants denied that the plaintiffs were the owners of the sole right of representation. The case was tried last week before his Lordship and a jury, when a verdict was returned for the plaintiffs. The defendants then raised a question as to the construction of the Copyright Act (5 and 6 Vict., cap. 45), and judgment was reserved.

Mr Justice Wills in delivering judgment on Monday, said there was an error in the registration of the play, it being stated that the piece assigned to Mr Pitt Hardacre was the "Bullock" version, which was produced at Doncaster in 1866, whereas it was produced at Halifax in 1868. According to the Statute the effect of giving incorrect particulars was to vitiate the registration and to deprive the plaintiffs of the important advantage of being able to rely on the entry as primâ facie evidence of title. It did not, however, take away their title, but left them to prove it if they could. The jury had found that it was the version performed at Halifax in 1868 which was assigned to Mr Pitt Hardacre in 1888, and there was abundant evidence to support that conclusion. The title of Mrs Gunley, the second plaintiff, accrued in July, 1903, and since then she had been the only person entitled to the sole right of representation. Therefore, there must be judgment, without costs, for defendants as regarded Mr Pitt Hardacre, and for Mrs Gunley in the action, with costs There would be an injunction against the defendants, and if the parties could not agree as to damages there would have to be an inquiry.

TOURING ON THE CONTINENT.

At Clerkenwell County Court, on Monday, Harry S. Parker, of Hamblen's Hotel, King's road, Brighton, and formerly lessee of the Grand Theatre, Islington, was sued by Walter Purvis, comedian, for £12 3s. 4d., as salary due, and in lieu of notice.

Plaintiff, who was represented by Mr E. Fitzgerald, said that in August of 1903 he agreed with defendant to go on a Continental tour with The Fisher Girl. He asked for a salary of £5 per week, but eventually agreed to accept £3 10s., Mr Parker urging that living was cheap on the Continent, and, further, that it would be a long tour. He attended a fortnight's rehearsals at the Prince Albert, and subsequently went to Amsterdam, where The Fisher Girl was produced at the Grand Theatre on Sept. 1 He played in the company until Sept. 21, and then went to Rotterdam, where he played for four nights. His agreement ended on Sept, 24. Altogether he received £8 16s. 8d., and he had given two weeks' rehearsals for nothing

How long did Mr Parker remain with the company at Amsterdam? He left us the day before the first treasury was due.

Judge Edge—Are you the author of the Fisher Girl? Defendant—No; but I am sole proprietor.

Judge Edge—An author might want to be present to see that his ideas were properly expressed, but I don't see why a man who holds the proprietorship of a play by purchase should want to attend rehearsals.

Defendant said the play was hired from him by a Messrs Jones and Martin on certain terms. They engaged the artists, and signed the contracts. He attended the rehearsals, but that was to put right any little defects, and to further assist them he wrote out the contracts for the artists, but never signed them. Being in ill-health at the time, he went to Amsterdam with Messrs Jones and Martin, as his medical man had ordered him a sea trip.

A verdict was given in plaintiff's favour for £5 3s. 4d, the Judge holding that, as he only went one day over the agreement, he was not entitled to the item of £7 as two weeks' wages in lieu of notice.

THE IRISH NATIONAL THEATRE.

Mr W. B. Yeats, the editor of "Samhain," the organ of the Irish National Theatre Society, contributes to the latest issue three critical essays on the work and methods of that institution. In an article on "The Dramatic Movement" he points out that the society has had great difficulties because of the lack of any suitable playhouse; but "now a generous English friend, Miss Horniman, has re-arranged and in part rebuilt, at very considerable expense, the old Mechanics' Institute Theatre, now the Abbey Theatre, and given us the use of it without any charge. We may look upon ourselves as the first endowed theatre in any English speaking country. the English speaking countries and Venezuela being the only countries which have never endowed their theatres; but the correspondents who write for parts in our plays or posts in the theatre at a salary are in error. We are and must be for some time to come, contented to find our work its own reward, the player giving his work, and the playwright his, for nothing."

Mr Yeats also refers to the importance of forming small dramatic societies:—

"We can hardly do all we hope unless there are many more of these little societies to be centres of dramatic art and of the allied arts. But a very few actors went from town to town in ancient Greece, finding everywhere more or less well-trained singers among the principal townsmen to sing the chorus that had otherwise been the chief expense. In the days of the stock companies two or three well-known actors would go from town to town finding actors for all the minor parts in the local companies. If we are to push our work into the small towns and villages, local dramatic clubs must take the place of the old stock companies"

Mr Yeats has another article on "the Play, the Player, and the Scene." First of all he insists that "Our plays must be literature or written in the spirit of literature. The modern theatre has died away to what it is because the writers have thought of their audiences instead of their subject. An old writer saw his hero, if it was a play of character; or some dominant passion, if it was a play of passion, like Phædre or Andromache, moving before him, living with a life he did not endeavour to control. The persons acted upon one another as they were bound by their natures to act, and the play was dramatic, not because he had sought out dramatic situations for their own sake, but because will broke itself upon will and passion upon passion. Then the imagination began to cool, the writer began to be less alive, to seek external aids, remembered situations, tricks of the theatre, that had proved themselves again and again. His persons no longer will have a particular character, but he knows that he can rely upon the incidents, and he feels himself fortunate when there is nothing in his play that has not succeeded a thousand times before the curtain has risen. Perhaps he has even read a certain guide-book to the stage published in France and called 'The Thirty-six Situations of the Drama.' The costumes will be magnificent, the actresses will be beautiful, the Castle in Spain will be painted by an artist upon the spot. We will come from this play excited if we are foolish, or can condescend to the folly of others, but knowing nothing new about ourselves, and seeing life with no new eyes and hearing it with no new ears. The whole movement of theatrical reform in our day has been a struggle to get rid of this kind of play, and the sincere play, the logical play, that we would have in its place, will always seem, when we hear it for the first time, undramatic, unexciting. It has to stir the heart in a long disused way, it has to awaken the intellect to a pleasure that ennobles and wearies."

Mr Yeats advocates some drastic changes. He says:—"We must have a new kind of scenic art. I have been the advocate of the poetry as against the actor, but I am the advocate of the actor as against the scenery. Ever since the last remnant of the old platform disappeared, and the proscenium grew into the frame of a picture, the actors have been turned into a picturesque group in the foreground of a meretricious landscape painting. The background should be of as little importance as the background of a portrait group, and it should, when possible, be of one colour or of one tint, that the persons on the stage, wherever they stand, may harmonise with it or contrast with it and preoccupy our attention. Their outline should be clear and not broken up into the outline of windows and wainscotting, or lost into the edges of colours. In a play which copies the surface of life in its dialogue one may, with this reservation, represent anything that can be represented successfully—a room, for instance—but a landscape painted in the ordinary way will always be meretricious and vulgar. It will always be an attempt to do something which cannot be done successfully except in easel painting, and the moment an actor stands near to your mountain, or your forest, one will perceive that he is standing against a flat surface. Illusion, therefore, is impossible, and should not be attempted.

"If one remembers that the movement of the actor, and the graduation and the colour of the lighting, are the two elements that distinguish the stage picture from an easel painting, one will not find it difficult to create an art of the stage ranking as a true fine art. Mr Gordon Craig has done wonderful things with the lighting, but he is not greatly interested in the actor, and his screens of coloured direct light, beautiful as they are, will always seem, apart from certain exceptional moments, a new externality. One should rather desire, for all but exceptional moments, an even, shadowless light, like that of noon, and it may be that a light reflected out of mirrors will give us what we need."

The Review also contains the one-act play In the Shadow of the Glen, by J. M. Synge, which was performed at the Royalty Theatre last March by the Irish National Society; and The Rising of the Moon, a comedy by Lady Gregory.

AT the usual weekly meeting of the council, held last Tuesday, Violet Barton Astor, Marie Daventry, Dorothy Hullah, Ethel Dane, Mrs Lane-Joynt, and Donald Paterson were nominated as candidates for election as members of the Actors' Association. The honorary solicitors were requested to lay a case before counsel to advise as to the claim of a member for damages for an alleged breach of contract. Mr George Seymour Stritch, 17, North George's-street, Dublin, was elected as an hon. medical officer to the A. A. A former member was reinstated. The report of the finance and general purposes committee was received. The secretary reported progress in connection with the holding of the fourteenth annual general meeting at an early date. The hon. solicitors reported the trials of two actions brought by members against managers to recover moneys, which had in both cases resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff.

FREDK BOWMAN, thirty-two, and Alice Bowman, thirty-one, of 4 St. James's-place, Roan-street, Greenwich, were charged on Monday at the Greenwich Police-court with begging in Banchary-road, Blackheath. Bowman, in pleading guilty, said he had been out of employment, had no money at home, and owed five weeks' rent. He did not know what to do, and had never begged before. Police-sergeant Relf, 40 R, said Bowman's statement was true. He had six children. He was a steady man, but had been thrown out of employment through illness. Mr Baggallay discharged defendant with a caution. Bowman, it appears, is a music hall artiste, and has travelled under the name of Alonzo, the man with the iron head, giving iron-bending and stone-breaking performances. He bears the character of a steady, sober man, but has had bad luck.

MUSIC HALL GOSSIP.

In view of the era of keen competition that has arisen in the area of the West-end music halls, some questions have been asked concerning reported reductions in the prices of admission. Mr G. A. Payne, who speaks for the Syndicate halls and houses belonging to the Variety Theatres, Consolidated, has no intention of reducing the already very moderate entrance fees that obtain at those establishments. As Mr Payne very truly says, "The conditions that govern our programmes forbid a reduction. We give a long evening's entertainment, in which we must include artistes so popular as to command high salaries for singing one or two songs, and the sums that are paid those artistes are yearly increasing."

Miss Marie Lloyd, who was to have fulfilled an engagement at the Hackney Empire this week, has been quite unable to appear. She has been driven about to her turns in her open motor-car, and was out on Sunday, but on Monday the doctor was called in, and she is now in bed with internal catarrh. Her excellent constitution, it is hoped, will soon enable her to make a complete recovery. There have been many inquirers concerning the condition of the fair sufferer at her residence in King Henry's-road.

Mr Walter De Frece has been feeling a bit run down of late, and by his doctor's advice is visiting Monte Carlo for sunshine and ozone. The popular agent and impresario has no intention of breaking the bank, and will, we hope, return with renewed vigour to take up his duties on Feb 27 as managing-director of the Grand, Boscombe, when that theatre will be run as a variety house on the twice nightly plan. The resident-manager will be Mr Harry Ball, Mr De Frece's brother-in-law.

The London County Council propose to seek parliamentary powers for the supervision of employment agencies. If the Bill is passed it is probable that agencies for the employment of typists, governesses, and music hall artistes will be all officially registered, and a licence fee established. The evil days of music hall agency have long since passed, and the curious way of conducting business that obtained in the seventies and early eighties has given place to sound commercial methods and transparently straightforward dealing. Occasionally bogus agencies inserting fraudulent advertisements arise, but the police have hitherto dealt with such cases. Registration might make their nefarious doings impossible.

We were speaking last week in terms of high praise of Mr Bransby Williams and his impersonation of the old fisherman, Dan'l Peggotty, and it seems that the moral lesson conveyed in a scene that sounds the depths of human emotion has touched the conscience of an erring one. Says she in a letter sent to the young actor:—"Sir,—I have no doubt you never think of yourself as a preacher. I was at the Tivoli last Wednesday evening. Since then I have decided to go home to my uncle—he also is a fisherman, and I was brought up by him. I left home like a lot of others do, but I am going back now, and by the time you get this I shall be with him. He is good, and you must be good, too, to act in the way you do. I shall try now I am going back to him to be a comfort and help to him. I shall always remember and pray for you, and if the prayers of a fallen one will help, you should be helped to great things." This story of the influence of the stage as a moral force should be marked, learned, and inwardly digested by the well-meaning but narrow-minded and stupid folk who decry any form of amusement associated with the footlights. To arrest any sinner in a downward course is the mission of the Church, but this little incident of real life shows that the stage can exercise a powerful influence for good.

Mr Bransby Williams's dramatic monologue to be given by him at the Tivoli on Monday is entitled Too Late. The scene of this poem, which has been written by Marshall Masters, is in the Camp, India. Mr Williams has been giving during the week at the Oxford a monologue on Fagin, which has proved one of his greatest successes. The young actor was much touched on Monday when he received a box containing a horseshoe and flowers with the words "Good Luck." He afterwards found that his two little daughters, knowing "daddy's" anxiety, has sent him the present just to encourage him, and they kept their secret so well that their thoughtful kindness was not even known to "mother."

Mrs Charles Sugden is the latest legitimate actress to appear on the variety stage, and she will appear on Monday with a new scena, with musical and choral effects, reviewing the events of the past year, specially written for her by Mr J. C. M'Manus, entitled The Pictures of the Year. Mrs Sugden has been a leading actress for some years, and has appeared in important parts in some of the most famous plays of the last century. She was seen to special advantage as Mrs Ralston, in Jim the Penman, a part originally created by Lady Monckton.

Another important attraction at the Oxford is the welcome revival by Mr Albert Gilmer of that favourite sporting sketch Over the Sticks, which had such a wonderful run when produced a few years back by Mr Harry Lundy. Mr Joe Elvin, who has been used to the pigskin—on the stage bien entendu—from his early boyhood, will repeat a personal and histrionic triumph in the part of the rider who suddenly takes the place of his brother. The public will again hear with much amusement the gag, "I'm obliging my brother, I am!" The reproduction will be presented with all the realistic effects—race horses, jockeys, and the fine staging—that were the great factors in the previous success, which constituted a record.

Mr Walter Melville, whose transition from the legitimate stage to the variety footlights is, in the case of the London, Shoreditch, just a walk across the road, is to appear at that house on Monday evening in a new comedy sketch from his own pen, entitled Six and Eight. Mr Melville's charming wife, Miss Eva Dare, who has been associated with him in so many Standard Theatre melodramas, will play the principal feminine rôle in the sketch.

Mr Alfred Butt, who has been visiting Paris and Brussels during the week, has secured as his next popular attraction Coco, known as the "miraculous human ape," who, after creating a sensation in Berlin, will make his first apearance in England at the Palace on Monday, the 30th inst. Coco, like his predecessor Consul, the lamented Simian wonder, who was at the Hippodrome, wears fashionable clothes, dines at restaurants, and attends at the theatre. At the Palace he and his trainer will dine on the stage. A waitress will hand the menu to the dandy-ape, garbed in dress suit and white shirt. After running his eye over the plats du jour he will make his selection, and proceed through his meal with the savoir faire of the practised gourmet. Coco has been several times honoured by royal command, and his appearance before the Czar at the Peterhof synchronised almost with the birth of a heir to the throne of All the Russias.

Three large war kites are now used to advertise the Lyceum. The kites are flown from the roof of that house, and inform all and sundry from a great height that two performances, at 6·30 and 9·0, are given nightly at the latest establishment of the Barrasford circuit. The idea has already been employed in Paris, Havre, America, and Australia.

Mr George Saphrini has resigned his position as manager of the Britannia, Glasgow, and has joined the ranks of agents, making his headquarters at Glasgow.

Mr Hatton Wharton has made a host of friends as manager of the Nottingham Empire, and much satisfaction has been expressed at his appointment by Mr Oswald Stoll as superintendent of the Midland halls circuit, which embraces the Nottingham Empire, the Leicester Palace, the Birmingham Empire, and the Bordesley Palace. His place at Nottingham, as announced in our columns last week, has been taken by Mr Charles Bowmaker, late manager of the Surrey and acting-manager of the Elephant and Castle Theatres.

An extraordinary thing happened at Belfast on Monday. The Palace Theatre in the Linen Metropolis did not open its doors for either performance, the closure being due to the fearful snowstorm that was raging, and that for a short time interrupted all communications with the place. Strange to say, the other theatres and variety establishments were opened as usual.

As mentioned in last week's Era, Major George Stratton, for many years manager for Mr William Greet, has been appointed acting-manager of the Empire Theatre, Liverpool. Mr T. Aynsley Cook, who occupied the position, has been promoted to that of district superintendent of Moss and Thornton's Lancashire enterprises. Whilst having his headquarters at Liverpool Mr Cook will supervise the Empire, the Olympia, now building in West Derby-road, Liverpool; the New Hippodrome, in Manchester; and the Empire at Ardwick, near Manchester.

Mr Henry Raymond has relinquished the acting-management of the New-cross Empire to take up an entirely new position in connection with Mr Stoll's scheme of organising the control of the very large number of theatres of which he is now the managing-director. The position referred to is that of district manager attached to the Empires at Holloway, Hackney, New-cross, Stratford, and Shepherd's-bush, acting also as special commissioner to Mr Oswald Stoll. In September last Mr Stoll offered Mr Raymond the choice of taking this position or that of acting-manager at the London Coliseum (which was then shortly to be opened), with the result quoted. Mr Raymond joined Mr Stoll in 1898, and in 1902 was appointed by that gentleman to do the general inspection of all the Stoll Empires, in addition to the responsibilities of acting-management at the New-cross Empire. He has just been succeeded at New-cross by Mr Harry Burdette.

Messrs W. H. Broadhead are rapidly increasing their circuit of houses, the latest being the new Hippodrome at Preston, which opened on Monday evening on the two shows-a-night system. The star of the bill was Charles Coborn, and other attractions included the Seven Proveanies (bicyclists), Chard's Dogs, the Babusians, the Four Maisanos, Davis and Davis, Marie Winsome, Winnie Scott, and the Louisianian Coloured Serenaders.

Dr. Walford Bodie finished his London season at the Paragon and Euston on Saturday night amidst scenes of unbounded enthusiasm. The Doctor had several tempting offers to remain in London, and even offered Mr Barnard £200 to release him, but Mr Barnard refused, so the Doctor opened on Monday at the Empire, Wolverhampton, and, despite a great snowstorm and blizzard, both houses were packed.

The Empire, Wrexham, was on Friday evening, the 13th, placed by Mr J. J. Scott at the service of the Mayor of Mexborough and the committee responsible for the management of the Distress Fund. There was a large attendance, and a substantial sum accrued to the Fund. In addition to the artistes engaged at the hall the following local gentlemen gave a most amusing sketch, which kept the crowded house in roars of laughter:—Messrs Harold Davies, Walter Roberts, J. H. Fitzpatrick, and Arthur E. Bird. Among those present were the Mayor and Mayoress (Mr and Mrs Birkett Evans), and several members of the Town Council.

Mr Lennox Chandler, we regret to hear, died at the Glasgow Infirmary on Monday after a short illness. He was well-known as a fine vocalist, and a prominent member of the Adeler and Sutton pierrot company. He was engaged to play King Rat this Christmas with Mr Edward Marris, but unfortunately only played the part for a fortnight, when he was overtaken with a serious illness. The funeral, which took place at old Monklands Cemetery last Wednesday, was a most impressive ceremony, all the company following. Many of the residents paid a last tribute of respect by sending lovely floral and artificial wreaths.

Mr Charles Coborn proposes to hold a meeting in Liverpool next week with a view to explaining the formation and objects and furthering the interests of the Music Hall League, which was established as a sort of protection society or trades union of music-hall artistes. It is very young, and must be tended and encouraged in its growth to maturity, when much good may be expected of it. Due notice will be given to the artistes engaged in the Liverpool and neighbouring music halls as to time and place. The first meeting in connection with it was held in Liverpool, when there were present about five artistes and six press representatives, but it has grown since then, and now possesses a provisional committee, of which Mr Coborn is the chairman.

At the Tivoli, Glasgow, last week, much interest was evoked by a beauty competition, which drew crowded houses. On Saturday the result was announced. Eighteen young ladies faced the footlights for the first time, to compete for the handsome prizes offered. At the Queen's a George Formby competition was productive of much amusement, and numerous clever imitators of that rising comedian entered the lists.

At the Machester Hippodrome—Mr Stoll's latest up-to-date provincial palace of amusement—Fox and Melville, the song illustrators, will sing, on Monday next, F. V. St. Clair's song "Where should we be without the Navy." They will be assisted in the telling chorus by the Hippodrome choir of trained voices.

Mr J. H. Wood, who has managed more contests on the variety stage than any man living, was busy in Manchester last week assisting at competitions in no less than four music-halls. Mr Winstanley, the general-manager to Messrs Broadhead, carried through the exciting events with great smartness and tact, and the unprecedented success attained is largely due to him. Mr Wood himself, who is quite a veteran, has been connected with contests of all kinds since the late sixties. He may well lay claim to the title of "the contest king."

Mr Joe O'Gorman is busily engaged in studying, with a view to immediate production, a new Irish comedy character song, specially written and composed for the genial Hibernian performer by Messrs John P. Harrington and George Le Brunn, the title of which is "The Nice Young Man from Dublin.'

Mr Morris Meyerfeld, jun., the president of the Orpheum Circuit company, San Francisco, left that city on the 8th inst. for a six months' tour of Great Britain and Egypt. He will remain in London for some weeks, and while there will visit several music halls, in hopes of making engagements for his numerous enterprises in the United States.

Mr Harry Tich, who sailed last week from Marseilles to fulfil an engagement with Mr Harry Rickards in Australia, had a wonderful send-off at the hands of his admirers in Paris. He had been for a fortnight at the Moulin Rouge, and, at the close of the term, gave a professional matinée, attended by five hundred of the best actresses, actors, and vaudeville artistes of Paris. This was quite a private affair, and entrance was by invitation only. Tich's success was colossal, and presentations were showered upon him, much to his surprise and gratification. He says "I never felt so proud in my life, especially as I am a foreigner, and such a thing never happened to me in my own country."

To begin with, the artistes of the Moulin Rouge presented a laurel wreath, a laurel crown came from M. Gemier and the company of the Odéon Theatre, and another wreath from the company of the Gaîté Théâtre. There was a silver smoking and writing service, combined with a watch, from M. Guitry and the company of the Renaissance Theatre. M. Max Dearly gave a gold cigarette case, jewelled. A statuette of Tich in costume was presented by Senor Guiraud, the sculptor; a pair of silver big boots came from M. Edmond Gideon; a watch, chain, and charm, representing his big boots, hat, and cane, from the directors of the Moulin Rouge; an enormous bouquet from the company of the Théâtre de la Porte Saint-Martin, and upwards of forty bouquets were thrown upon the stage.

Then M. Coquelin and other members of the Comédie-Française went to Mr Tich's dressing room, and M. Coquelin personally complimented him on his performance. After the evening representation Mr and Mrs Tich were entertained at supper. Such courtesies shown to a foreign artiste by the artistes of Paris must have been extremely gratifying to Mr Tich, and should be appreciated by all English actors. It was a display of good taste and good feeling, that outburst of homage to art by art.

A feature of the Tivoli programme on Monday next is an entirely new song written by J M'Manus, author of "Wait a week or two." It is entitled "The fighting man," and will be sung by Mr Leo Stormont, who will also recite a poem a propos to the question of pauper alien immigration from the same pen. Miss Louie Freear, in her quaint character impersonations; Mr Whit Cunliffe, the new comic singer; and Mr Ian Colquhoun, the fine baritone, are all immense favourites, and their numbers are heartily encored every evening.

Mr Harry Tate, who is appearing with such immense success as Abanazar at the Marlborough Theatre, Holloway, will be accorded a complimentary benefit at that house on Friday evening next. We may be certain that many of Mr Tate's friends in the variety profession will turn up to give their services for the popular dispenser of up-to-date fun. Miss Simeta Marsden, the Aladdin of the pantomime, has been presented with a diamond ring won by her in open competition to decide the most popular pantomime artistes in the United Kingdom. Miss Marsden was one of thirteen.

Mr Handel V. Phasey has been making his pile in the States with his British Guards' Bands, visiting the principal seaside resorts in America, and winning golden opinions for his fine instrumental combination. He now intends to visit the most popular and important watering places in the United Kingdom, where no doubt he will be warmly welcomed.

The regretted indisposition of Miss Venie Belfry, the lady of the celebrated duo, Clark and Hamilton, prevents her taking part in their most successful entertainment. In his dilemma Mr Clark has been fortunate enough to secure the services of Miss Constance Mori, who has previously been seen to advantage on the variety stage in Mr Arthur Rigby's popular "incident," Crystal Palace—Bank Holiday.

Miss Florence Esdaile, who is now playing the part of Princess Ivy in the pantomime of Puss in Boots at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, has been re-engaged by Messrs Warden and Mouillot to play the same part at the Broadway Theatre, New-cross. Little Stella, who has made such a hit in the same pantomime during its run in Belfast by her singing and dancing, is a daughter of Miss Esdaile, and was taught dancing by her grandmother. Miss Esdaile is booked ahead for four years at all the principal London halls, the Coliseum, the Moss and Stoll tours, and South Africa. Her business is in the energetic hands of Mr Tom Shaw.

Mr Arthur M Binstead has been invited by the directors of the Alhambra company to undertake the Press representation of that theatre. Mr Binstead's popularity as a journalist and his knowledge of the variety business make the selection a very happy one. Mr Binstead succeeds Mr George Bull, who has become the Press representative of Mr Tom Barrasford at the Lyceum.

By her continued successes in pantomime at Notting-hill, Miss Winifred Hare established herself a first favourite among "principal boys" in this form of entertainment. But great as have been her triumphs at Notting-hill, she has completely eclipsed them at Stoke Newington by her dainty and spirited performance of Prince Alexis, in Cinderella, and by her charming singing of Hannen Swaffer's "You are a little white girl," with which she opened her music hall career at the Tivoli, and Frederick Clay's "Banish Sorrow till To-morrow."

Many visitors to Drury-lane who laugh at Mr Harry Randall's humorous song with its accompanying dissertation on "Husbands—by one who has had four," will recognise it as the work of J. Bernard Dickson, who collaborates so well with the gifted artist.

Miss Nellie Coleman, who finishes the Moss and Stoll tours to-night, has been winning golden opinions in every town by her excellent comedy impersonations. She opens at the Palace, Blackpool, on Monday. Miss Coleman sails with her husband—Dome, the original comedy clay man—for South Africa, on Feb. 4. She returns to London in May, opening at the Canterbury, Paragon, and Brixton.

Caicedo possesses that intrepidity and coolness which must always make an immediate impression upon any audience, no matter to what nationality they may belong. The king of wire-walkers has discovered the truth of this aphorism for himself in every country that he has visited, and has been repeating the most agreeable experience lately in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia. The spectators in these cultured cities of the west watch with breathless interest, which almost amounts to anxiety, the feats of the Mexican wonder; but when they discover how easily everything seems to be accomplished they relieve the tension by enthusiastic applause. Caicedo is engaged in America until the end of May.

Miss Clare Howard, who in her early career was a favourite actress with the Madame Beatrice company when it was directed by the late Frank Harvey, will shortly return to the variety stage in a new entertainment that was specially written for her by her husband, Mr George Daventry, the author of The Indian Mutiny, The Harvest of Sin, Under Two Flags, and other pieces. In consequence of the long illness and subsequent death of Mr Daventry, the production, which was written last July, has been unavoidably postponed. Miss Howard's striking figure of Ghuznah, the heroine of The Indian Mutiny, is one of the very few dramatic impersonations that have made equally as deep an impression upon the variety as upon the regular stage, and her reappearance will be very welcome.

"All the Year Round" at the Alhambra has not belied its title, for Mr J. M. Glover's successful ballet will on Saturday next have achieved the Alhambra record in running for twelve months in succession, and it is pleasant to hear that another work from the same pen will be heard at the Leicester-square house in the near future.

We had a few remarks in our columns the other week concerning the spelling of the new palace of entertainment in St. Martin's-lane. It was argued that it should have been "Colosseum," and it has been suggested in a daily contemporary that Mr Oswald Stoll used the word "Coliseum" because he remembered the Italian coliseo. Mr Stoll is moved not by his love for Italy, but by a desire for economy. He points out that newspaper proprietors and bill-posting firms charge for advertisements by space. "Coliseum" is shorter than "Colosseum," and may be equally well displayed at less expense. The question presents, he considers, a distinction without a difference, because, though the letters O. S. (his initials) are taken out of the longer form, they are replaced by the personal pronoun "I"—a very clever and ingenious argument, Mr Stoll.

It is the entirely commendable custom of Mr B. P. Lucas, the managing director of the Bedford, to give an annual entertainment in aid of the North-West London Hospital, Kentish-town-road, situated in the immediate neighbourhood of the hall. Two years ago he was able to hand over the fine total of £300 to the treasurer, and he hopes on Thursday, Feb. 2, on the occasion of the grand matinée, to cut his own excellent record. The entertainment to be given on the date mentioned will be one of exceptional excellence, and will be patronised by the élite of North London. Mr Lucas considers that matinées in aid of hospital funds are the best substitutes possible for anniversaries, and we quite agree with him.

With the exception of one extremely popular "turn," there will be a complete change of programme at the Lyceum on Monday. Among those who will be seen for the first time in London will be found Mr A. Lawrence, an American comedian, whose humorous songs and discourses have won for him the reputation as the funniest man who has ever visited England. Other features of a remarkably strong programme will be Staig's motor sensation, Looping the Aerial Circle and motor racing in mid-air; the Cattanecs, eccentric comedians; Edward Reynard, American ventriloquist; Walter and Miss Ellis, with their extraordinary canine humourists; and The Prison scene from Faust, by the Lyceum Grand Opera quartet, who have already rendered immensely popular this element of the programme.

Paul Cinquevalli, a great globe trotter, writes the following testimony to the wide circulation of The Era. He says:—"I have trotted the globe all over and have often met with disappointments, but in no corner of the world have I ever been disappointed in obtaining The Era, and I am sure there will hardly be any of my acquaintances or friends I met in my travels that will not have read the splendid article which appeared in The Era about me."

Tickets for the annual dinner and dance of the M.H.A.R.A. at the Trocadero on Sunday, Feb. 5, are now on sale at the offices. The programme of the evening is as follows:—Reception by the President, Mr Harry Randall, at 7·30; dinner at 8·0; conversazione, 10·30; and dancing at midnight. A special licence has been obtained until 4·0 o'clock, and the M.H.A.R.A. Orchestra, under the direction of Mr Alf Groves, has been engaged.

There was a slight mishap on Tuesday night at the Coliseum in the Derby scene, but, happily, it was attended by no serious result. As the second performance of the day was closing a "side flat," standing about 25ft. high, depicting spectators watching the historic race, fell across the stage, but luckily clear of the horses. The fallen scenery was immediately rescued by workmen, and in a few seconds the revolving stage was brought to a standstill and the curtain rung down. The incident caused a little excitement, but no one was in any way injured.

Mr Edmond Bosanquet, whose "musical séance" has called forth a good deal of admiration at the Camberwell Palace this week, was for a period of eight years the musical director at the Canterbury, under Messrs Crowder and Payne's management. Mr Bosanquet, who resigned that position fifteen years ago, has also been associated in a similar capacity with the Edinburgh Empire Palace, the Blackpool Alhambra, and with theatres at Liverpool and elsewhere.

The most remarkable of Mr Bosanquet's instruments is what he calls the Bosanquephone, by means of which he obtains sounds similar to those made by the human voice. He tells us that the idea of this invention occurred to him one evening when he was listening to some performances by David Clegg's orchestra. He saw that it was possible to so manipulate a cornet to get the tone of a trombone, and he thought that if he could make a similar instrument with a long horn—the tube to go round his head—he might be able to give a representation of a human singer. So far as he has gone, Mr Bosanquet has been fairly successful. The effect he has obtained is that the "Bosanquephone" is most natural in the high key, and somewhat resembles a 'cello quality in the low notes. When he performed a few months ago at Rotterdam, people would not believe that such sounds could be mechanically produced. In fact, he was charged with having concealed a gramophone behind him.

At the Cambridge, on Thursday afternoon, a grand matinée performance was given in aid of the unemployed and the distress funds for the Borough of Stepney and the Tweeddale Working Guild. The occasion was certainly made the most of, for Mr A. C. Kendrick, the able manager, decorated the inside of the hall, and had flags and bunting streaming outside and across the street. The entertainment lasted for four hours — from 2·0 until 6·0 — and among the artists who generously proffered their services were Miss Marie Kendall, who sang her well-known song, "Just like the Ivy;" Mr Sam Mayo, who gave "The Old Tin Can;" Messrs Esmond and Evelyn, in their sketch, entitled Her Ladyship; the Vivians, in Life's Reverie; Ernest Montefiore and company, in the new and original musical scena, The Little Colonel; Mr Will H. Fox, in "Paddy whisk;" the Franklin Troupe of Imperial Russian singers and dancers; Mr G. H. Elliott, the popular coloured vocalist and dancer; Miss Lily Langtry, the Five Whiteleys, Lieut. Albini, the New York Nippers, the Harvey Boys; Mdme. Ophelia Phillips, the American piano soloist; and Signor Bartollotta, the operatic tenor vocalist. The function was most successful, both from a financial and artistic aspect.

An artiste writes:—"From my own experience let me make the following suggestion, which is of great importance to those artistes engaged in Germany. It is an absolute necessity that they should have inserted in their contracts a clause to the effect that the management shall not make any deduction whatsoever from their salary unless their consent is first obtained. In one establishment I know it seems to be a common occurrence for the management to pay any bill which may be presented against any artist engaged there without any preliminary consultation. The sum, however unjust or exorbitant, is deducted at pay-day. Of course, the artiste has no time to contest the matter, as an appearance has to be made immediately in the next town."

The Tivoli, Cape Town, commenced the New Year under new proprietorship, the establishment having been purchased by the Johannesburg Empire Syndicate. Mr Herbert Hyman, brother to Mr Sydney Hyman, is the new manager of the Cape Town house. Before severing his connection with the Tivoli Mr E. A. Pickering was given a farewell testimonial and benefit. We understand that Mr Pickering will shortly return to this country.

Mr George Robey, the football comedian, has arranged to play with a specially selected team at Manchester for the benefit of the unemployed fund. Mr Robey's popularity should be instrumental in securing an excellent "gate."

The Boys of the Duke York's School, to the number of five hundred and ninety, on Tuesday afternoon marched with their band to the Alhambra Theatre to witness the remarkable double-series of pictures, and the performance of the marvellous Tschin-Mas Troupe, collectively called an "Urbanora" matinée.

Mr Urban is preparing a new series of films to be called "Living London," which will illustrate to a certain extent the work of that name, written by Mr Geo R. Sims. The pictures will be presented at the Urbanora matinée at the Alhambra on Monday, Jan. 30.

Mr Walter Gibbons is threatening the Islingtonians with a great Russian invasion next week—in other words, he has arranged for the appearance at the popular Islington Empire of the extraordinary colossal Russian fat girl, Miss Lucie, who, although only sixteen years of age, weighs 350lbs., and certainly should prove a heavy draw!

That excellent fraternity the "Terriers" will have their annual dinner and ball on Sunday, March 19, at the Horns, Kennington. Applications for tickets should be made early, to the secretary, Harry Lester, as the number is limited.

Mr G. H. Chirgwin, who has entirely recovered from his accident, will be appearing at Walthamstow Palace next week with new songs and gags. Of course, "The Blind Boy" will be given if asked for.

The phenomenal success of the pantomime Sleeping Beauty at the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, was further evidenced last week by the enclosed wire from Mr J. M. Chute—while away in Edinburgh—to Miss Lil Hawthorne and company:—"Edinburgh, Jan. 13. Lil Hawthorne and company, Prince's Theatre, Bristol.—Congratulate you all on record matinée.—Chute."

Mr Percy Murray, the son, and Miss Ada Murray, the widow of the deceased actor, Mr J. K. Murray, who passed away at Chilcompton, Bath, on the 12th inst., will have the sincere sympathy of their numerous friends in the variety profession. Both mother and son were acting together last week at Collins's in the wordless playlet L'Idole Brisé when they received the sad news. Miss Ada Murray will be remembered as the original Virginie, in the production of Charles Reade's drama Drink, adapted from Emile Zola's sensational, realistic, and uncompromising novel "L'Assommoir."

Mr Lennox Barry, the newly appointed general manager of the Empire, Battersea, is organising a special matinée, under distinguished patronage, for Wednesday, Jan. 25, in aid of the local unemployed. As he has secured the services of a number of the leading artistes, the programme should be an excellent one. The entire proceeds will be handed over for distribution amongst the most deserving cases, and as the distress in this district is very great, it is hoped that a large amount will be realised.

Mr and Mrs Edward Lucas, who will make their West-end début at the Lyceum on Jan. 30, have been appearing on the variety stage in "Scenes from Dickens" for the last eight months. They previously belonged to the entertainment world and gave costume recitals, interspersed with music, singing, and even conjuring on a small scale. The death of poor Jo, from "Bleak House," and the scenes between Fagin, Sykes, and Nancy, from "Oliver Twist," have proved their most successful selections up to date. The final interview between Bill Sykes and Nancy was often read by Dickens himself during his last years on the platform; it is so horrible, however, that Mr and Mrs Lucas have rightly decided to drop the curtain before the murder takes place. It will be remembered that in the book Jo dies in Mr George's shooting gallery, but they follow stage tradition in giving the scene in a London churchyard.

The works of Charles Dickens have, perhaps, been more used on the stage and platform than those of any other novelist. The great Boz himself set the fashion when he "realised" Pegotty, Doctor Marigold, Sam Weller, and many other famous characters for hundreds of audiences in England and America. The little table on which he always laid his book is now in the possession of his youngest daughter, Mrs C. E. Perugini. Of later years Mr Samuel Brandram's recitation of "The Cricket on the Hearth" was one of the best items in his big répertoire. Sir Squire Bancroft's reading of "A Christmas Carol" will occur to everyone's mind as yet another proof of the evergreen possibilities of the famous Christmas story. Mr Ben Nathan has made a speciality of the same book. Mr Bransby Williams has done more than any other artiste to popularise Dickens in the halls. Miss Arabella Allen is a worthy follower, Mr and Mrs Edward Lucas are equally enthusiastic, and "there are others."

The Great Rubie (La Femme Mesmer), wife of Dr. Walford Bodie, has been creating a furore this week at Mr Lawson's Palace, Tottenham. Her act is quite unique and has caught on. At the conclusion of her engagement last week at the Grand, Clapham, she was presented with several lovely bouquets and a large floral basket, standing nearly 4ft. high, from several of her admirers. Mr Tom Shaw has been appointed her agent, and we expect to see her starring at all our West-end halls.

Mr Bertie Ross, after a long and serious illness, is now about again, thanks to the care and attention he received at Westminster Hospital. He was there for three months.

The 389th meeting of the executive committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon, Mr Joe O'Gorman, chairman of the committee, presiding. Mr John M'Cormick, of the Empire Palace, Greenock, was appointed as agent in that town. The secretary reported that forty-four new members had joined during the week, making a total number enrolled since the commencement of 11,144.

Mr Tom Costello's own idea for a dramatic song scena to be entitled "An Old Man's Christmas Eve" has been placed in the best of hands, Harry Adams, who gave the world the late Charles Godfrey's famous song "On Guard," has executed the writing of the morceau entirely to Mr Costello's satisfaction, and the melodic portion is safe with Bennett Scott, who at the present time is taking a run round the provinces in company with A. J. Mills.

Mr Chas. Deetrich, of the firm of D. Barnard and Deetrich, is leaving England early in February, with a large commission for booking Continental turns for England, and will also act for English artistes who desire engagements on the Continent.

THE LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

THE METROPOLITAN.

A farcical concoction, a human magnet, pickchick actors, song illustrators, comediennes, Continental artistes, coon impersonators, society entertainers, and a ventriloquist make up the remarkable pot-pourri that Mr Jack Edgar is presenting this week at the Metropolitan as a music hall programme Its scope sets one wondering at the elastic properties of the variety net which seems to be outspreading its mesh more widely than ever to satisfy the demand of the public for novelty. An important interlude in the scheme of amusement is the sketch, Riding to Orders, presented by Mr Joe Elvin and his company. The simple expedients for the promotion of funny situations have before done duty in old Adelphi farce. Mr Elvin impersonates a bicycle rider named Blinker—a champion at three miles—who by an extraordinary combination of mischances has to take the place of a jockey and ride a hurdle racer over the sticks. How Blinker manages to keep his seat and win is well described by one of the actors in the farce, and Mr Elvin's unrestrained humour and comical appearance in the pigskin are undeniable factors in the merriment. Mr Will Evans has not enlisted in the service of King Pantomime this year, but he is giving a most humorous skit of that popular form of Yuletide entertainment. Taking a couple of assistants into his confidence, and humorously instructing them how to play the parts of Pretty Polly and the adventurous hero, the comedian himself comes on as Will Atkins. Buffoonery is, of course, rampant, and the audience screams with laughter. Mr Evans has also one of his characteristic "girl" songs—one of the best he has exploited. Early in the evening Mr Billy Williams gives several well-written parodies, and is not only on excellent terms with himself but also with the audience. Miss Queenie Lawrence with daintiness and chic asserts herself as a comedienne; and Miss Bertha Vere in the same line is quite successful. The Two Bees (Harry and Flora Blake) are responsible for a happy piece of insouciance, and Mr Blake's remarks on the superiority of the sterner sex and the volubility of the weaker meet with general approval. Something of a chartered libertine in the matter of jest is Mr Phil Ray, who has a delightful way of contracting words that often gain by the process. He is fond of ingenious spoof, and his patter keeps his hearers in fits of laughter. He refers to a popular daily as "the children's friend," and touches humorously on passing events. Miss Annie Abbott, one of the big lines of the bill, is the little "Georgia Magnet," who created a sensation some years since at the Alhambra. She illustrates problems in "force," and successfully defies a number of strong men to push a billiard cue to the floor which she holds by the open palms of her hands. A committee is chosen from the audience, and the experiments create a deal of amusement and interest. Mr Frank Travis is one of our most popular ventriloquists, and in his transformations we see our old friends, M. Beautemps and the veteran of ninety, who sings "Genevieve." This is a remarkable tour de force on the part of the polyphonist, who smokes a cigarette during the whole time he is voicing the song. Les Rubens, who are new to us, are excellent singers, the lady being a powerful operatic soprano, with an extensive compass, and the gentleman a pleasant-voiced baritone. Their harmonised version of the charming Irish melody "Eileen Alannah" brings down the house. Miss Belle Davis and her piccaninnies supply a bright interlude of quaint dancing; Miss Lottie Albert has a bright style as a comedienne; Miss Kit Keene is a fascinating coon artiste; Morretti and Alice on an electrically illuminated trapeze disport themselves gracefully; and other turns include Will English, Negro comedian; and Martine and Son, song illustrators.

SADLER'S WELLS.

At this ancient place of amusement this week a considerable amount of interest has been taken in the performances of Professor Inman Hockinge, American hypnotist, electrician, and scientist. He is introduced to the audience by an assistant who, in the course of a few remarks, makes a passing reference to the large amount of fraud and deception which have been practised of late years by people professing to cure by means of hypnotism, &c. This fact was, no doubt, conducive to the existence of doubt amongst the audience. However, Professor Hockinge would prove that he was what he claimed to be—a great psychic force and a king of healers. The Professor then came forward, and announced that he was about to pass through his body a current of 500,000 volts, and also that he was prepared to see patients at the theatre any day between twelve and one o'clock. He then read a letter from a grateful father living at Fulham, whose son had been treated at the theatre the previous night. The boy had been a cripple from the age of five months, one leg being quite useless; but he was now able to play about quite well, having recovered the complete use of the limb. The case had been given up as incurable at the London hospitals. A young man, seated in a chair, was then carried on the stage by two assistants, the Professor announcing that his name was Walter Spicer, and that he lived in Miranda-road, Holloway. He was suffering from rheumatism in his arms and legs, the result of an immersion in cold water on the occasion of his rescuing from the river Avon a fellow being who was drowning. For this brave deed Spicer received a framed testimonial from the Bath Humane Society. The Professor next proceeded to hypnotise the patient and to submit him to electrical treatment, rubbing his bare legs and then working them up and down after the manner of a pump handle. The man's arms were treated in the same manner; and on his regaining consciousness he used both arms and legs freely, and finally, taking a short run, jumped over the seat of a chair. The Professor's next performance was to hypnotise a young lady and place her in such a position that her head and nether limbs rested on the edge of two chairs. A wooden bridge was then placed over her, supported by her body, and over this walked a number of men in quick succession. A comic scene followed, several youths making frantic endeavours to take coppers from the bottom of a basin filled with water and receiving electric shocks, until at length one of them achieved the feat of extracting the coins. It was announced that a competition among the penny-snatchers would take place on Friday night. Some other comical experiments were also introduced, including a duel with rapiers that had been charged with electricity. Miss Zeta Gray and company are appearing here in their amusing sketch, entitled A Lancashire Lass, the lady singing some operatic extracts charmingly, and a youth causing much merriment as Trotters, a mischievous page boy. Mr Cyril Earle, described as an English singer of English songs, gives a good rendering of "The Midnight Train" and "Side by Side." Mr Sam Redfern, Negro comedian, philosophises about marriage and other matters in his usual cheerful style; Judge's performing cockatoos continue to display wonderful intelligence; Miss Reba Kaufman scores as a toe-dancer; and other good turns are the Davenports, silent magicians and illusionists; Mr Herbert Betts, comedian; and Miss Vera Patey, burlesque artist.

THE BEDFORD.

There were some difficulties for the management of this popular Camden Town hall on the night of our visit, and the word "deputy" was requisitioned on several occasions. Delay in the arrival of artistes was caused by the slippery state of the roads, and for this reason Miss Marie Kendall was unable to put in an appearance until late in the first house. Her absence would have been a considerable disappointment to a large number of the Bedfordians, who were by way of joining in a popular singing competition on Friday (yesterday) for the best impersonation of the comedienne in any of her well-known songs. "Just like the ivy I'll cling to you" is one of the popular comedienne's latest successes, and the sentiment of the song is of that heart-searching nature that appeals very strongly to the masses. When Miss Kendall eventually made her appearance she sang an amusing selection, and then gave way to Mr Steve M'Carthy, a comedian who has won popularity with the good folk of Camden-town. Among the "deputies" were Mr Sam Mayo and the Harvey Boys. The former comedian, who rejoices in his immobility, was endeavouring to cut his own "record" of turns, and for that purpose called at the Bedford quite early and sang a couple of songs. The first, which was entitled "Oof," contained an amusing reference to Mr A. F. Lovesy, the manager, who was an amused auditor. In his second song Mr Mayo made a quaint use of a tin can—a battered specimen which is slung round his neck. He used it as a sort of drum, and the beating mostly accentuated the significance of the refrain. The idea is certainly original, and Mr Mayo's oddity of manner and imperturbable style set the audience in a roar. The Harvey Boys played their latest farcical sketch The Fighting Dummy, of which boxing and comedy are the chief ingredients. The "aristocratic" masher is of the type only seen on the music hall stage or in minor melodrama, but he is the exponent of a kind of comedy that has its admirers, and the amusing antics of the representative of the proletariat are supplemented by some clever dancing by the youngest member of the trio. Miss Jessie Albini, who also came as deputy, presented a dainty figure in her song concerning the simple country girl, whose "unworldly" ways are amusingly depicted. She also gave a number in which the practice of keeping a diary leads to entirely interesting results. Miss Edna Masten, soubrette, whistled a number of popular airs; Welda and Wynne gave a good juggling act; and Charles Danton renewed acquaintance with many of his former admirers. The sketch has always been a much-appreciated feature of Mr B. P. Lucas's bills, and the military incident entitled For the Honour of the Regiment is a highly entertaining playlet, full of interest from the rising to the fall of the curtain. Major Kerr, the villain of the piece, besmirches the honour of the regiment by stealing important military despatches that are temporarily under the care of a defenceless woman, the wife of the officer to whom they had been originally entrusted. Kerr is challenged by the husband, and is worsted in a duel. By committing suicide he saves the honour of the regiment. Mr Frank Hardie as a dude officer is responsible for a droll impersonation, and the representative of Major Kerr is also entitled to our compliments. Other turns in an excellent programme are the New York Nippers, capital step dancers, in a piece of pantomime fun entitled Bedtime, which furnishes many excuses for the laughter of the juveniles; and Zaro and Arno, in a comedy bar act. The Imperial Bioscope on Monday showed a clever series of films depicting a raid on a thieves' den, a comic courting scene, a tragedy in mid-air—a most ingeniously arranged episode; and "The Clown's Story," a touching narrative. The pictures, indeed, did excellent service on Monday, and saved several awkward waits.

BATTERSEA EMPIRE.

At the Battersea Empire this week Mr Lennox Barry has provided his patrons with a programme of the usual excellent quality. During the last week or two a few changes have been witnessed at this hall. Mr Lennox Barry, who for the last few weeks has been acting as assistant manager to Mr Edwin E. Giles, has, on the resignation of that gentleman, been appointed to take upon his shoulders the responsible duties of manager. Mr Barry bids fair to soon become as popular as his predecessor, which is saying a good deal. The musical directorship has also changed hands, for Mr R. Holman is now to be seen conducting the able orchestra from the seat which up to a recent date was occupied by Mr W. Hinkinson. The engagement of local children is proving a great attraction. Mothers, fathers, relatives, and friends come night after night to witness the performance of those juveniles in whom they are naturally interested. Mr Barry has provided forty local youngsters with very congenial evening employment to assist Mr Fred Percy in his entertaining episode entitled In Slavery Days; or, South before the War. Singing, dancing, and serious acting each has its share in this act. Tom White's Arabs, including the popular Pimple, are giving their clever singing and comedy entertainment. The witty replies of Pimple to questions from the austere schoolmaster are laughable. Tony and Flo Vernon present their whimsical and admirable comedy act. Tony somehow strays into the apartments of his partner and she "amuses" him by telling him a horrible ghost story. The excuses he frames in order to induce her to let him go, and his many funny attempts to conceal his fright, are most enjoyable. Their clever paper-tearing act must have taken many hours of weary toil to bring to its present perfection. The lady, blindfolded and with hands bound behind her, to the strains of a sympathetic song rendered by her partner, tears away with remarkable quickness and skill until the result is an artistic pattern about the size of a cartwheel. Mr J. W. Swales, who claims to be the "undefeated champion jumper of the world," is proving to Battersea Empire patrons that he has no slight claim to this title. He accomplishes straight and side jumps over five chairs placed in a row, the daring feat of jumping first over two chairs and then over three, touching and marking the forehead of a man who is resting his head on the last chair. He concludes his performance by a wonderful jump, namely that of springing backwards off a table and over five chairs. Percival, the trick pianist, is presenting his humorous skit, entitled "The Piano Shifter." In a good comic song, Mr Fred E. Terry finds various excuses for the wild pranks of people "When they're down on their holidays." "Oh, my! what a funny feeling" is also well rendered by this comedian. Mr Walter Clyde, who possesses a good tenor voice, sings "The Children's Home" and "Always," which are well appreciated. Mr Tom E. Hughes, in feminine garb, sings a good song describing the conditions under which poverty-stricken beings exist. The photo. competition still retains its old popularity, and continues to attract patrons to visit the hall many times during the week in the hope of seeing their own portraits.

MR TOM FOY, as Idle Jack, in Dick Whittington, has a great hit in his new song, "I reckon he'll be much obliged to me." At Bolton every line has evoked roars of laughter, and it is to be hoped he will drop the song—which deals with a town-dweller's misadventures, whilst taking care of a relative's farm—into his sketch, The Yorkshire Lad in London. The number, which is published by Messrs Francis, Day, and Hunter, is by Maurice Scott, and the words by the author of "The Cockney's Garden."

HARRY RANDALL,

AS

FAIRY ASBESTOS,

IN

DRURY-LANE PANTOMIME.

If there is anyone in the Drury-lane cast who can compensate us for the loss of Dan Leno, that person is Mr Harry Randall, who appears in the various costumes, "supernatural" and earthly, of the Fairy Asbestos. Although there may be limits even to the salaries of star comedians of pantomime, it would be impossible from the point of view of the man outside the Drury-lane treasury door, to overestimate the value of Mr Randall to "The White Cat." Working untiringly in spirit, and obviously determined to do his very best, he yet manages to get through his enormous part—he is on the stage in nearly every scene—with an air of the most perfect ease, and with a control over himself and the attention of the audience which is quite extraordinary. As one can easily tell by the appreciative response from all parts of the house, the voice of the comedian finds its way into every corner, however remote, like the new broom of the new housemaid. The laughter may be almost continuous while he is on the stage, but he never by any chance loses a line in it. With a deliberation that is characteristic of the man and his career—for it will not be forgotten that he has risen to his present position by definite work and the most determined will—Mr Randall waits until his hearers are quite ready to receive his jokes, and when he has no doubt whatever about it being the right time to aim, he sends them plump into their laps. Drury-lane never had a safer pantomime comedian to show than this very material Fairy Asbestos, who, a little over a quarter of a century ago, was a mild young chorister in one of our most important churches!—M. A. P., Jan. 7, '05.

PRESTON ROYAL HIPPODROME.

Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons, the well-known theatre and music hall proprietors, may be heartily complimented upon the welcome addition to the amusements of Preston which their new Royal Hippodrome provides. Situated in Friargate, a main thoroughfare, it will, when fully completed, stand out prominently as a handsome example of modern architecture; and a fact worthy of note is that it is one of the largest buildings of its kind in England.

The main entrance is through an arcade, on each side of which are shops, the façade being of terra-cotta, and very pleasing in design. A fine vestibule, beautifully decorated in white and gold, and embellished with coloured leaded lights, leads to the interior. The proscenium is in Ionic style, with Renaissance panels and friezes. On either side are statues, copies of Canova's dancing girls, "Repose" and "Silence," supported by brackets representing heads of satyr. These figures are the same size as the originals made by Canova for Napoleon I., which are now at Versailles. Electric lights around the proscenium and ceiling give a very pretty effect. There is seating accommodation for 2,000 people, and the seats are thoroughly comfortable.

The theatre is fully equipped with the latest appliances in case of fire, including a fire-proof curtain to the stage. For lighting purposes both gas and electricity are used, the necessary current for the latter being generated on the premises. The Hippodrome will be conducted on the two houses a-night plan, at popular prices. There is also to be a matinée each Monday.

A large audience assembled at the opening performance on Monday afternoon, and the entertainment provided was excellent. Charles Coborn, home from his tour in America, contributed humorous songs in capital style; Chard's cleverly trained dogs showed surprising intelligence in their many feats; the Babusians, in their acrobatic display, were seen to advantage; the Four Maisanos evoked hearty laughter in their eccentric musical show; Davis and Davis acquitted themselves well in a novel comedy act; the Seven Provenzies gave a brilliant exhibition of trick cycling; Marie Winsome, male impersonator, was loudly applauded; the Louisianian coloured Serenaders were greatly appreciated; and Winnie Scott, Parisian soubrette and dancer, proved a very successful turn.

ON Saturday, at the last performance but one of Mr E. Graham Falcon's Bo-Peep pantomime at the Alexandra Palace Theatre, that gentleman presented Mr Edwin Goodship, the manager and secretary of the Palace, with a solid silver cigar-case as a memento of a pleasant time enjoyed by the artists and himself whilst at the Muswell-hill establishment, and also to commemorate the breaking of all previous records at the house as to receipts during pantomime time. Mr Goodship acknowledged the gift, which had been subscribed for by Mr Graham-Falcon, in a few well-chosen words. During the current week Little Bo-Peep, so ably produced by Medley Barrett, has been attracting large audiences at Luton, from whence proceeding to Bedford.

'JINKS IN A JUNGLE."

A Game Hunter	Mr G. Cosman
A Tourist	Mr Henry Barrett
A Valet	Mr Julian
A Chief	Mr R. Roberts
Hottentots	Mr Richard Bohme Mr Edward Young

A trapeze in the tree-tops gains in picturesqueness and loses nothing in the way of excitement, and the novel combination has proved very stimulating at the Camberwell Palace, where it is a feature of a new sketch which is being played this week. The scene is laid in the depths of a tropical jungle, where wild beasts prowl amid the waving palms of a cocoanut grove. Then arrives a mighty hunter from a distant land, who proceeds to initiate his tourist friend with a pronounced Cockney accent into the delights of the chase. Despite his elementary knowledge of the use of firearms, the hunter succeeds in disposing of a formidable lion and tiger; but the report of the revolver brings upon them a trio of Hottentots, who have a lively sense of the ludicrous, and create havoc with the lunch which is served by a deliberate valet, who juggles lazily with the plates and dishes. Eventually the savages climb to the tops of the cocoanut trees, where they go through a series of gymnastic feats. There is more fun with the travellers, followed by a "ko-ki" dance to a peculiar clapping accompaniment on cocoanut shells fixed on various parts of the body. Finally the natives return to the tree-tops, and perform still more difficult flights on the trapeze, the curtain descending on a comic melée between the white men and the Hottentots. The little sketch, which is acted by Mr Bob Hanlon's company, is fashioned chiefly in the interests of fun, which is principally supported by Mr G. Cosman, who as the intrepid hunter never tires in its maintenance. His devices for causing mirth are on the most farcical lines, which are fully justified in the constant laughter which follows his efforts. Mr Henry Barrett supplies a very natural specimen of the English tourist, and bears with equanimity the various mischances which fall to him, and Mr Julian as the valet reveals an aptitude for juggling which adds colour to his droll impersonation. The gymnastic feets are deftly performed by Messrs R. Roberts, Richard Bohme, and Edward Young, as the dusky natives, the flying leaps from bar to bar and double somersaults to catch executed by a smart young performer arousing much applause. The scene, which has been painted by Mr L. Hart, is elaborately set, the lion, tiger, and monkey being fearfully realistic, and Mr H. Elliott should be complimented in respect of the properties. A hearty recall at the finish gave complete evidence of the success of the production.

A novelty of Mr Jesse Sparrow's strong programme is the contribution of Mr Edmund Bosanquet, the well-known violinist. His command of that instrument is well displayed in an arpeggio movement, in which a remarkable skill in the use of harmonics is shown. This, however, is only a preliminary to the introduction of a wonderful instrument, resembling an attenuated violin, with a large trumpet-shaped attachment which encircles the neck, and through which the sound proceeds. By means of this instrument, called the "Bosanquephone," and which the virtuoso claims to be made entirely from his own idea, Mr Bosanquet endeavours to produce a close imitation of the human voice. The violin is admittedly the nearest approach to that organ, but by his invention Mr Bosanquet increases the resemblance to a remarkable degree, and in the popular song, "Because I love you," succeeds in producing the sound of a resonant baritone, while on a higher scale the mellow tones of a rich contralto are distinctly heard. On an illuminated apparatus at the side appear at intervals the pictures of Sarasate and other famous musicians, with explanatory notes of the performance, and of the appreciation which is bestowed on Mr Bosanquet's efforts ample proof is found in the enthusiastic applause which awaits him.

"THE COMING RACE."

"England's New Home of Mystery" furnishes an entertainment which is quite unique so far as metropolitan amusements are concerned. The reputation which Mr J. N. Maskelyne and his son Mr Nevil Maskelyne gained at the Egyptian Hall is well maintained at the new St. George's Hall, the size of which permits the staging of much more elaborate productions than was possible at the Piccadilly establishment. Since we noticed the first performance of the magical drama called The Coming Race, founded on Lord Lytton's novel of that title, and dramatised by David Christie Murray and Nevil Maskelyne, considerable improvements have been effected. With the object of strengthening the action, four scenes have been excised, and their subject matter incorporated with adjacent sections. This has proved of great advantage, the drama now playing much closer, and the interest of the story being better maintained. The American—George W. Larcombe's—curious adventures amongst a race of people whom he meets when precipitated into the bowels of the earth give scope for the introduction of sundry of those weird and fantastic effects for which the Egyptian Hall was famous. First of all, that strange monster known as the pariasaurus makes its uncanny appearance, and, opening its hideous jaws, seizes and devours Larcombe's friend and fellow-traveller, Henry Wentworth. Amongst the most striking scenes is that with which the third and last act opens—Larcombe's apartment overlooking the city. It is night time, and twinkling lights are seen in the distance, but they gradually disappear and darkness falls. On the morrow Larcombe is to be killed by order of the Council, and, tired out, he endeavours to snatch a few hours' sleep. Then appears out of the inky blackness the majestic form of the Princess Zee. She awakens her beloved from his slumbers, and she tells him how by a union with her he may become the ruler of nations. But the little American possesses all the proverbial shrewdness of his countrymen, and after some natural hesitation he rejects the tempting offer. In spite of all the Princess resolves to save from death the man she loves, and exercising the wonderful power with which the strange people called the Vril-ya are gifted, she causes a passage to be formed to the surface of the earth, and she by means of her miraculous powers of flight bears him aloft until he reaches once more the upper level of the Cornish mine from which he descended. But to the Princess the surroundings are altogether distasteful, and she, after bidding Larcombe a last farewell, slowly descends to her home in the "inner world." The romantic story is admirably rendered. Miss Vera Beringer displays pathos and power as the Princess, and she delivers her lines with admirable effect. Mr Herman Vezin is dignified and incisive as the venerable ruler of the Vril-ya, but his opportunities are few. Miss Cassie Bruce is alert as the Princess's brother Taë, and good work is done by Messrs Wm. Mayne, H. Lesmere, and J. B. Hansard, and the chief and members of the College of Sages respectively. Mr Horace Morehen shows a sense of humour as an elder of the race, Mr F. Topham makes a good representative of the American from Boston, and Mr Thos. Sidney is well placed as Henry Wentworth. Miss Josephine Rae is a garrulous Mrs Clattermore in the prologue, and other parts are carefully embodied by Mr George Pownall, Miss Iris Lincoln, Mr E. S. Elton, and Mr Leslie Burgiss.

MISS MINNIE DUNCAN AND MR ARTHUR E. GODFREY, of Me and 'Er fame, have been obliged to refuse an offer from Mr Milton Bode for pantomime for next year, their services having already been secured by Mr Oswald Stoll.

A CHAT WITH MR. HARRY LYONS.

(BY OUR OWN COMMISSIONER.)

"Variety audiences" says Mr Lyons, the manager of Collins's Music Hall, "are quite as ready to appreciate even classical singing and music as any body of playgoers." Mr Lyons certainly ought to be in a position to speak with authority on such a matter, for he has had unique experience of both the variety and the legitimate theatre. It is undeniably true that variety artists, as a body, have done more to create a popular demand for, and love of, the less classical of musical compositions than any other associated body. Some of the best songs that have been written, and some of the prettiest music that has been composed, might have been lost to the world but for the influence of members of the music hall profession. Take, as an instance, our old friends, "The Honeysuckle and the Bee." Folk may cavil at the words of the song, but its melody was delightfully infectious by reason of the easy manner in which poetic harmony of expression was gained. We could, of course, mention many other songs which have been rendered before the vaudeville footlights, and for which similar claims could be made. Mr Lyons does not, therefore, speak "without his book" when he refers to the love of music evinced by variety audiences.

It seems almost a strange ordering of Fate that, after having been away from London for more than twenty years, Mr Lyons should be called upon to assume the management of a place of amusement within almost a stone's throw of where he was born. Bred and educated in North London, his commercial career commenced with his entry into his father's business in Clerkenwell. But aptitude and opportunity caused him, after a while, to become associated with Mr William Bennett's Diorama. In a managerial capacity he was connected with that combination for three years, the custom at that time being to appear at six towns a week, and to do two shows a day, Mr Lyons frequently acting as accompanist when necessity compelled. Subsequently he directed the doings of a touring concert party; and the Christmas of 1884 found him at St. James's Hall, Liverpool, acting as treasurer to the San Francisco Minstrels, a company mainly composed of American artistes. During their stay at Liverpool, the troupe produced the well-known farcical comedy, entitled Muldoon's Picnic. Mr Lyons smilingly recalls the fact that the two principal characters in the piece were supposed to be comic Irishmen, but were played by Messrs Wheatley and Traynor with blackened faces! After running for seven weeks at the Lancashire seaport, and proving as great a success in this country as it had been in the United States, Muldoon's Picnic was taken round the principal theatres of Great Britain. As manager in advance, and later as acting-manager, over a period of four years, Mr Lyons gained a good insight into theatrical life.

Always as business manager, Mr Lyons joined various other enterprises, including those of Mr J. P. Sullivan, the famous Irish-American; the London comedy company, in Our Regiment (from Toole's Theatre), the Hon. Mrs Jervis and Mr Fred Gould, who were running one of Mr Henry Pettitt's most popular dramas, entitled The Black Flag. After travelling for two years with the last-mentioned piece, Mr Lyons was engaged by Mr Clarence Sounes to be the acting-manager at the Queen's Theatre, Birmingham, for a few weeks only during the absence, on account of illness, of the regular manager. But that temporary engagement "panned out" to nine years, and was only concluded by the termination of the lease held by Mr Sounes, who, by the way, is the proprietor of the Grand Theatre, Woolwich. In connection with the Birmingham playhouse Mr Lyons ran a profitable dramatic agency for some years. A visit to London resulted in his obtaining the management of the original Williams and Walker In Dahomey company, with which he toured until the summer of last year. It is worthy of mention that Mr Lyons is the only English manager who has ever been appointed by Messrs Hurtig and Seamon to direct one of their companies, and the fact speaks worlds for the reputation and business instincts and integrity of the subject of this interview.

It was in August last that Mr Lyons received his present appointment from the directors of Collins's Music hall. It is the first variety house he has yet directed, but he has, with advantage to his patrons and proprietors, brought to his new position his many years' intimate acquaintanceship with music hall and theatrical affairs and his own undoubtedly good, sound judgment.

HOCKEY.

MISS CECILIA FOWLER'S LADIES ATHLETIC TEAM V. COTHAM AND REDLAND LADIES ATHLETIC CLUB.

Played near Clifton Downs on Saturday. Miss W. Bradley was unable to assist her club owing to an injury received in the match on Saturday last. The following were the teams:—

Miss Cecilia Fowler's Ladies Athletic Team.—Miss E. Bowman, goal; Miss L. Carter and Miss E. Francis, backs; Miss G. Thomas, Miss N. Bailey, and Miss C. Fowler (captain), half-backs; Miss. T. Maynard, Miss G. Leonard, Miss M. Leonard, Miss B. Godfrey, and Miss K. Elvin, forwards.

Cotham and Redland Ladies Athletic Club.—Miss M. Fisher, goal; Miss R. Davies and Miss A. Gibbs, backs; Miss E. Lawrence, Miss L. Norris, and Miss L. Coles, half-backs; Miss N. Lawrence, Miss K. Montgomery (captain), Miss F. Hooper, Miss A. Mitchell, and Miss M. Hamilton, forwards.

Referee, Miss N. Lewis (of Cheltenham). Result:—Miss Cecilia Fowler's Ladies Team, nil; Cotham and Redland Ladies Athletic Club, nil. Misses E. Bowman and M. Fisher played splendidly in goal.

MR J. AIRLIE-DIX'S charming ballad, "Could I but shape the children's dreams and make each dream come true," is now "free," permission to sing being obtainable from Messrs Francis and Day. Mr Dix—whose song "The Trumpeter," words by Francis Barron, and published by Boosey and Co., may now be regarded as a "classic"—is also the composer of Mr Chas. H. Taylor's "hit" in The Talk of the Town, sung by Mr Walter Passmore, and called "Me and my little Brood."

MR CHAS. SLOMAN, who so ably plays one of the Ugly Sisters at the Crown, Peckham, has a really humorous song connected with acquiring furniture on the hire system. It is the work of Maurice Scott.

"FORGIVE US OUR TRESPASSES," a domestic sketch, will be produced at the Palace, Bow, on Monday next, under the direction of Mr Julius Simpson. The authoress, Miss Naomi Hope, and Mr Fred Scarth (who have both just returned from a very successful two years' tour in South Africa with Messrs Wheeler) will play the leading parts, and they will be supported by a powerful company, including W. S. Hartford (late of Mr Tearle's company), Mr J. G. Johnson, and Miss Rosalie Heath. There will be five scenes, which have been specially painted for the production.

MISS AGNES HAZEL returns to the Empire, Battersea, on Monday, after being in the provinces for twelve weeks. She brings new songs.—Miss Agnes Hanson will introduce on Monday to the audience of the Chelsea Palace a new and original rattle-snake coon song, by A. C. Shelley and Louis Dalroy, entitled "Der coons won't marry; why is dis?"—Miss Bertha Seebold has recovered from her serious illness.

A COPY OF "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps. The Era is posted on Saturday in time to reach London Subscribers by the first Town Delivery, and Country Subscribers should receive their Papers by the first London Post. Address, the PUBLISHER, 49, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

SHOWMEN'S ANNUAL MEETING AT MANCHESTER.

(SPECIALLY REPORTED FOR THE ERA.)

The annual general meeting of the United Kingdom Showmen and Van-dwellers' Protection Association was held on Wednesday, in the Memorial Hall, Albert-square, Manchester. Mr FRED BIBBY, of J. Bibby and Co., presided, and supporting him were the following prominent members and friends of the Society:—The Rev. H. Norburn, Rector of St. Agnes Birch, and hon. local chaplain; the Rev. T. Horne, hon. senior chaplain and Guild organiser; Mr Charles Howard, hon. solicitor; Mr T. Watson Wright, hon. solicitor and Parliamentary solicitor; and Messrs John Wilmot, Glasgow; John Whiting, Manchester; John Green, Preston; J. Hurst, hon. secretary, Manchester; William Clark, Hyde; George H. Cornwell, Bolton; R. Newall, Manchester; Toft and Turnbull, Dublin; E. Holland, Macclesfield; William Clark, jun., George Green, Glasgow; Jas. Wilmot, John Sharpe, Burnley; Wm. Chaplain, Birmingham; Patrick Collins, jun., Walsall; H. Mellor, Oldham; T. Haworth, Darwen; Tom Smith, G.C.R.; Robert Pike and Wm. Pike, Bolton; Tom Payne, Ashton; H. J. Wallis, Wm. Holmes, J. Geoghegan, and many others.

Mr FRED BIBBY in his opening remarks referred to the serious and trying times that showmen had been passing through owing to the depression in trade, in their own county of Lancashire greatly intensified by the crisis in the cotton trade. He rejoiced and bade them take heart of courage, for good times, he prophesied, were upon them. He would not dare to anticipate the story of the Guild's rise and progress, as they were to hear from the invited speakers, but would at once call upon the Rector of St. Agnes Birch, their hon. local chaplain, to address the meeting.

The Rev. H. NORBURN'S speech was characterised by that wealth of kindly sympathy and intimate knowledge of men and things that marks all his utterances. He went direct to the heart of the question by saying that the showmen's greatest enemy was the ignorant prejudice of people who never took the least pains to study or to understand the showman and his work in life. He had made that necessary study, and he now identified himself with the Guild, because he felt that the members were doing a good and necessary work in providing entertainments of an attractive character for the workers of the kingdom. He held strongly that recreation of a healthy and amusing character was necessary and right. God had given them a capacity to enjoy life and all things, and to his mind it was but a narrow, half-starved life that refused to enjoy times of recreation and merriment. They had been told that one of the great evidences of success in the religious revival in Wales was that football had greatly gone down in the Principality. He for his part could not see any true connection between a real revival of religion and playing the game of football. He held that football and other games of an innocent and healthy character were necessary and desirable, and that the religion that taught people otherwise was not the religion that would permanently touch the heart or hold the allegiance of the people. They, the Guildsmen, were the fun and merriment-makers of the workers. He exhorted them to make good their claim to have this work understood and appreciated better in the future than it had been in the past by raising their entertainments to even higher planes of perfection and usefulness. He used the word advisedly, for he was firmly convinced that their work was as necessary to the true national life as any other department of human activity and ability. He had found the showmen at all times as earnestly purposed as any other class in the community, and certainly as amenable to religious influences as other people. When for a time they became his parishioners, as at the Long-sight Wakes, he always experienced the greatest satisfaction and pleasure in ministering to their spiritual and educational needs. He had repeatedly commended them to his clerical brethren as worthy of more attention and care than they ordinarily received. Mr Horne's work in their midst was a remarkable evidence of the specialising of religious and educational work in the Church of God. He knew full well how that work had been blessed of Him who ministered in good things to all alike in joys and in sorrows—the guest of Cana of Galilee at a domestic feast, as well as the stern denouncer of Pharisaism in all its terrible and insidious manifestations. He again wished them a prosperous season in their work and enterprise.

The HON. ORGANISING CHAPLAIN was received with great applause, and in a somewhat humorous, and at all times bright, speech, went straight to the heart of the question before the meeting—the defence of the trade rights of show people, the preservation of the holidays and fairs of the toiling millions of the empire, and the betterment and uplifting of the numerous class of people who made their daily bread on the fair grounds of the United Kingdom. What the Guild had endeavoured to do in the past still remained a paramount present duty—to enlighten, guide, and promote a sympathetic public opinion. Their greatest enemy was ignorance. They must get people to know and to understand what showmen did and what they were—workmen not ashamed of their craft; fellow-workers with the industrial multitudes, who either by hand or brain, or both combined, had made Old England a better and a merrier land than they found it. He had surrendered a well-paid and important sphere of settled work there in Manchester because he had found it impossible in that position to carry on what he felt was the great work of his life, the defence of his brethren of the road. They—the show-people—were dearer to him than any position, however desirable and important. He had made this sacrifice for them, and did it willingly, and his heart was wholly given to his people, the showmen and showwomen of the Empire. He reminded them of their part and lot in the national life. They must progress with the times in which they lived. What, he asked, were the network of cheap popular palaces of amusement now compassing our great towns? People were saying that the penny show was obsolete; a relic of past days; a thing bound to end with the provision of free libraries, parks, gymnasia, and penny readings. Then came the palaces and the two shows a-night arrangement. The demand created the supply. School Board England refused the penny reading pabulum, and sought its relaxation and necessary brightness, life, light, colour, and movement in the modern palace of varieties. The elders amongst them remembered, as he did, before Christmas carnivals or fairs found their winter quarters, that most shows wintered either on spare pieces of ground in the suburbs of large centres of life, or they took some large shop or building, and there had their two or even three shows a-night. It was the same idea they saw now in the settled homes of variety, the empires, and the palaces of entertainment—the same thing, but, of course, on modern and vastly different lines—the quick show, the good show, yet a popular and cheap show. That brought him to the last point—the necessity laid upon them to provide good, honest amusement at a charge well within the means of the workers. Advance as well as defence were the words of their Guild's charter. In this enterprise let them all work as one man—helping, cheering, and encouraging one another; making their shows fit for the entertainment of the people. Let them do this, and the forces now massed against them would be driven back, and the show and the fair remain to delight, entertain, and satisfy the workers of the industrial centres of the world. He then briefly reviewed the year's work, and said that he had every reason to believe that quieter, more peaceful, and more prosperous times were ahead of them, and concluded his speech by announcing that their honoured president, Lord George Sanger, was still their leader in their work of showman defence, and that he had promised to take the chair at the forthcoming London meeting.

Mr CHARLES, hon. solicitor for the Manchester district, congratulated the show-people on their excellent society. He was sure that all that both Mr Norburn and Mr Horne had said had found attentive and willing hearers. Their Parliamentary work in Mr Watson Wright's capable hands was a marvel of success. Their work was to find the means that and kindred work required. He therefore trusted that each one of them would realise the urgency of this, and support to their utmost the great work of the showmen. Of what use, he asked, would be less ground rent to pay—excellent thing as it was in itself—if the fair were to be abolished? No. All must, as their chaplain put it, "pull together." Union was their one line of defence that was above all others necessary.

Mr T. WATSON WRIGHT was received with great cordiality, and in his well-reasoned remarks covered the whole of the legal and parliamentary work of 1904. He remarked that the defeat of the corporations had hitherto been so signal and complete that he confidently anticipated no work in the future. With reference to the burning question of Wigan Fair, he had carefully considered the Wigan Improvement Act of 1874, and had arrived at the conclusion that the showmen had a case—and a good one. No doubt the inimical clause in the act gave the corporation power to make new markets and fairs to enlarge existing ones, and to continue (or to discontinue) existing markets and fair. But, doubtful as the drafting of the act undoubtedly was, they were not without a remedy at law. Corporations forget that showmen had a right at common law to attend all markets and all fairs. Whether they were local pleasure fairs or not, this right to attend as traders and to demand ground to exhibit on was a statutory right, and whether the market be for merchandise or not was of no consequence. Did the abolitionists know that if they stopped a particular fair, and did not stop all fairs and markets, that showmen would come and remain on the ground until satisfied or paid to quit. If the Town Council of Wigan imagined they could discriminate and bar the show trader and not the others they would find that they were grievously wrong in their calculations.

Mr Wright's speech throughout was listened to with the greatest interest, and punctuated with frequent applause.

Mr T. HURST, hon. secretary, read the balance-sheet of the Bolton ball committee, and announced that the satisfactory sum to be handed over to their Guild funds was £10 10s.

A vote of thanks was accorded Messrs Robert Pike (market superintendent) and William Pike, of Bolton, and both gentlemen in suitable terms acknowledged it. Next year's ball will be a week later, Jan. 10.

The following letter was then read amidst considerable applause:—

Hetton Le Hole, Co. Durham, Jan. 17.

REV. T. HORNE.—Dear Sir,—Just a few lines to you hoping to find you well as it leaves us at present. Very sorry cannot get to the Manchester meeting, but we have had a meeting to-day, and it is sending two persons as a deputation to the London meeting. Our meeting has passed a motion making a grant per member to the Van-dwellers' Guild. Will explain the whole matter to you when we meet.—Yours fraternally,

T. HARTSHORN,
Secretary, The North of England Showmen and Stall-holders Society.

The meeting then proceeded to the election of officers for 1905 as follows:—Executive Council. President: Lord George Sanger. Vice-Presidents: H. Ashington, Leeds; E. T. Read, London; E. H. FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

AMIDST joyous sunshine and the chiming of church bells a very pretty and interesting wedding was recently solemnised at the parish church, Pontypridd, the contracting parties being Miss Florence May, youngest daughter of the late Mr W. Wadbrook, electrograph proprietor, and Mr William Johnson, son of the late Mr John Johnson, well known in theatrical circles. The bridesmaids were the Misses Nellie Wadbrook, Flo Scard, Ruby Scard, and Lillie Austin. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr Harry Scard, and Mr George Austin, brother-in-law to the bridegroom, acted as groomsman. The bride wore a grey silk costume and picture hat to match. She carried a bouquet of white flowers and looked charming. The bridesmaids were attired in grey costumes and black picture hats. The Rev. J. P. Griffiths, vicar of Pontypridd, officiated. After the ceremony the wedding party adjourned to the Park Hotel, where the wedding breakfast and reception was held, after which the happy pair departed for Leicester for the honeymoon. The wedding presents were both numerous and costly, and were received from friends and well-wishers in all parts of the country.

THE World's Fair at the Royal Agricultural Hall, Islington, is still drawing delighted crowds. Menotti does many unique acts, and carries a gentleman selected from the audience along the wire at each performance, twice daily. This has proved an exciting item of the show, especially when the "passenger" is a Tommy Atkins or a Jack Tar; and much merriment is caused by the endeavours some to walk on the net. The Herbert Troupe of aerialists is another big attraction. The well-stocked menagerie is as popular as ever, and "Slipping the Slip" has quite won the public favour. It is the first and only thing of its kind in London, and causes immense delight and excitement. Messrs T. and T. E. Read are to be congratulated on the success of their enterprise. The plan of greatly modifying the noise of the organs and entirely stopping it during the circus and other performances is greatly appreciated. The fair will remain open until Saturday, Feb. 4.

MESSRS BARKER AND THURSTON are carrying on their winter carnival at the Agricultural Hall, Norwich, with great success. The result of the visit of Mr H. Z. T. Flowers, the mayor, realised about £16 towards his fund for the unemployed in the city. This week a prize of a suite of furniture is offered to a lucky ticket-holder.

WIRTH BROTHERS' CIRCUS opened in Phillip Park, Sydney, Australia, on Dec. 10, in a monster tent full to overflowing with a delighted audience. The bill was a very strong one, and included Tom Colquette, Captain W. M'Cloud and his Wild-west Cowboys, Emil Payer's trained tiger "Dolly," Captain Burrows, and M. Ragoul's trained dogs, elephants, camel, and pony, Mr George Wirth's cleverly taught horses, Miss Addie Frederic, Ardo, and a graceful rider, Miss W. Wirth. Mr A. P. Lincoln is the business manager of the circus.

AT Redditch there has been quite a host of attractions lately, including Mr D'Arcy Clayton's gipsies and their jester, Leo Vint's choir and scenorama, and Mr Cecil Clayton's pantomime Cinderella. More recently there has come along the Anglo-American bazaar and waxwork exhibition, showing all the celebrities and most notorious criminals; Barker and Bell's marionettes, Thomas Clarke's switchbacks, park swings, and other attractions.

MATTERS are now in excellent train for testing the popular feeling in Wigan on the question of abolishing the local fair. The snatch division in the Borough Council a few weeks ago was taken without any reference to the people of Wigan, and is not in any way an index of the public feeling on the subject, and great indignation is felt by a rapidly increasing section of the community that so important a matter should be sprung upon the town. The power obtained by the Corporation by a General Purposes Bill in 1874 to continue or to discontinue existing markets or fairs is read by the abolitionists to mean "pleasure fairs." They forget that showmen have equal rights with other traders to attend all fairs and markets, and that to deprive them of ground, without redress and compensation, is indefensible. If the Corporation think that showmen will not endeavour to maintain their common laws right as traders the municipal body will receive a series of strong reminders that the showmen, by their organisation and friends, are well able to defend their privileges.

MR WILLIAM HENRY COOKE, the eldest son of the late William Cooke, under whose enterprising direction the circus was, for several years, established in London as a constant attraction, died a few days ago at his residence in Wimbledon. He was a member of that Cooke family of whom it was said that "the sawdust of the ring" was part of their blood. When William Cooke was running Astley's he had a wonderful circus company around him—all of them riders of high quality and exceptionally talented in the performance of their tricks. John Henry Cooke, Welby Henry Welby Cooke, and Emily Cooke stood foremost. The second of these was a fine juggler on horseback, and John Henry performed the daring feat of springing on to a platform from the back of a horse which was travelling at full speed and alighting on its back again when the animal repassed. William Cooke was himself the descendant of a circus proprietor, and the fame of the family had become familiar in England and Scotland by reason of their numerous tours.

"THE BLACKMAILER."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I note the production of a play under this title at the Queen's Theatre, Dublin. The authoress is, I presume, unaware that the said title has already been appropriated. Some five years ago I wrote and toured a drama under this name, and which I am shortly reviving and sending on tour.

Yours faithfully, HUBERT BARTLETT

The Palace, Southampton, Jan. 18.

MR C. B. COCHRAN, who sailed on Saturday, the 14th inst., per s.s. St. Louis, for New York in search of variety attractions for England and the Continent, has combined his agency with that of Messrs Galenzi and Sherek, and all business matters relative to C. B. Cochran and Co., Limited (which company has been voluntarily wound up), will be dealt with by them. Artistes wishing engagements in the States should communicate with Messrs Galenzi and Sherek, 4, Leicester-street, W.C.

STORIES OF SHOWMAN LIFE:

(COPYRIGHT.)

By the REV. T. HORNE
(Hon. Chaplain, Showmen's Guild.)

"CUMBERLAND CRUSHER."

A TRAGEDY OF HATE.

The fistiana show, or boxing saloon, is a peculiarly British exhibition. Even before Tom Sayers and Heenan, the Benecia boy, boomed fisticuffs, the boxing booth was a necessary item on all the big fair grounds.

One of the very best of the modern fistiana concerns was that run by a Birmingham light-weight champion boxer, professionally known as "Nimble Nicky."

Nicky was anxious, as all good showmen are, to keep pace with the times and have the latest novelties. Now, the novelty a couple of years ago was the wrestling mania. Hackenschmidt, Jack Carkeek, Tom Cannon, and many others, British and foreign, were being boomed by enterprising music hall agents.

Wrestling was the talk of the moment. "Nimble Nicky" naturally cast about for wrestlers; nay, acting upon good advice, he went to the Westmoreland dales and tried his level best to get a couple of men to join the show.

So, keenly disappointed, the Birmingham "Nimble Nicky" came back and confessed his failure. A way out of the difficulty was found, and that, too, in an unexpected quarter.

Amongst the company was a heavy-weight boxer known as the "Cumberland Crusher," so called because whenever he met his match with the boxing gloves on he had a peculiar knack of ending the contest and scoring doubtful victory. He would bellow like a wild wounded gorilla, and rushing upon his opponent, would seize the poor beggar in a grip of iron round the waist; then, bringing his huge strength to bear, would "crush" his rival to the ground falling heavily (and of course purposely so) full prone upon him.

The referee at this point would exclaim, "The round, gentlemen, and the fall is to the credit of the 'Cumberland Crusher,' then, knowing full well the blown condition of the man who had borne the 'Crusher's' weight upon his chest, would ask:—

"Want another round, sir?"

"No, no, thanks," would be the reply, "wasn't that a bit of a foul?" "No, not at all, sir; the Queensbury rules of boxing provides for the grapple and throw. Have another go, sir."

"No, I'm not having a wrestle; I came here to box."

Well, then, the referee knowing his cue, would shout, "The interesting go-as-you-please affair is at an end, and the victory lies with the 'Cumberland Crusher,' the proprietor, gentlemen, is ready to back 'Cumberland Crusher' against any heavy-weight boxer, not less than sixteen and a half stone, professional or amateur, in the world; £50 or 100 guineas a-side. English, Colonial, or American; all welcomed; none barred."

"Look here," said the proprietor to Cumberland (it was the day before Newcastle Races, and the show was ready for the next day's business). "Look here here, Crusher, I'm awfully sorry for myself over the failure to get wrestlers for to-morrow; it'll mean a ten-pound note difference to me every day I show here; and they'd rush at a bit of wrestling. Could not you and the 'Snorter' do a bit of exhibition wrestling? I'd give you a quid extra a-day, each of you!"

"Noa, measter; I'll hev no more truck wi' wrosslin'. I've had a belly full of it years ago."

Here the Snorter intervened. "Crusher, old man, the quid a-day is worth trying for. Come, don't be 'dog-in-the-manger;' give me a chance of that extra sov. Remember I've got a home to maintain at Brum, and a few extra quids would be mighty handy there."

"Noa, I knaws that, man; but I ought never to wrossle agen. If I do, I knaw a judgment may fall upon me."

"Nonsense, man," said the eager Nicky. "Tumble into your sweaters and practice a fall or two. Remember, Crusher, only acting an exhibition display, that's all."

"Aw reight, Gaffer, I'll do it for Snorter's kids; but I'm loth to tackle wrossling agen."

Next day, when the business began, the sporting world was delighted to see from the huge new letter cloths on the show front that the new—or, rather, revived—sport of wrestling was a feature of the Brummagem Boxing Booth.

The barriers round the racecourse were well supplied in the intervals of the running with "throw-aways" announcing that a series of exhibition glove-fights between all the leading heavy and light weights, all the stars of the two-ounce glove world, would appear at "Nimble Nicky's" assault-at-arms show, including the "Walsall Walloper," the "Bermondsey Rider," the "Manchester Fly-Catcher," and "the unbreakable light-weight Birmingham record-maker 'Nimble Nicky' himself."

All the promising youngsters would be in attendance, able and willing to enter the ring against all amateurs whomsoever.

Then came the final attraction, thus set out:—"Nimble Nicky" has great pleasure in presenting to his patrons two champion wrestlers, Ben Bolton, from Felling, Merseyvale, Westmoreland, and Bill Baker, of Woolwich, in an exhibition display of wrestling in the Græco-Roman, British, or catch-as-catch-can styles. As the engagement of these able exponents of expert skill involves enormous expense, the admission charge would be sixpence.

The large pavilion was crowded at every performance. "Cumberland Crusher" and the Snorter as star wrestlers did a big turn.

The great Town Moor at Newcastle was all alive with a multitude of people towards ten o'clock, when a sudden "horror of dead silence" was felt. All movement ceased, the electric organs sounded not, the switchback ran not, the coker shy man shouted not, and instant change was wrought as though the wand of some mighty magician had cast a sudden spell over the fair.

Then from mouth to mouth ran a fearful tale.

Then other details came to hand.

"A man amongst the crowd has challenged the wrestler in Nicky's show. It was the new wrestler known as the 'Cumberland Crusher.'"

A fierce battle for the mastery, a grim, determined, death-dealing struggle, lasting only a few minutes; yet, from the moment the challenger unstripped, it was felt that the professional had met his master.

Oh! the struggle the Crusher made to crush his antagonist, but all of no avail.

In five minutes that seemed five hours the tussle of giants came to an end; there was a distinct crunching of the ribs heard, then a horrible blood-curdling snap of the spine, and the end came. No one said a word. In dead silence the victor left the booth, in dead silence he left the moor. No one dared to bar his passage.

"What was it, an accident?" No. "A brutal lust of triumph man against man?" No, no, no; the answer is—It was hate; hate nursed and fed by bitter loss and sad, sad memories.

It was a bitter cold night, and Christmas Eve.

Two people—a man and a woman—were talking in the shadow of a Westmoreland village church, Askwith-in-the-dale.

Said the woman in a low, tense voice: "Jack, wilt thou make me an honest woman. Marry me, marry me."

"Na, I will na. I'm none sa fond of thee as I us't ta be."

"You tell me that, John Umberston! Woe, woe is me, and mine and thine. The darkness of despair is upon me."

With that she turned and passed away through the churchyard out into the lane, and then into the darkness and shadow of the night. Yea—and into a deeper mirk than shadow of earth; for she passed over the borderland into the land of perpetual shadow, into that land where the command, "Thou shalt not kill," is the broken key that makes entrance possible.

John Umberston, with a half-muttered oath, went the other way, with never a look behind him, for he was never seen more in the dales and fells of Askwith.

On the morrow, in the grey dawn of the Christmas morning, on the broadening shallows of the rushing river that at times flooded the dales, her body was found, its sad, sad tale written, alas! too fully on the white face of the suicide. The charity that knoweth not evil of the dead spake not of that other life that the mother, who was never a legal wife, killed in herself when she did the dread despite.

Oh! the agony of human things, Oh! the stress and the strain of its love and passion and its hate.

For it was her own brother who found her, the sister he idolised, dead and cast up by the stream.

Alas! And so the mystery of the tragedy on the Town Moor, Newcastle, is fully explained by the fact that that loyal brother vowed to kill John Umberston whenever and wherever he might meet him.

The antagonist of the wrestler was the brother who discovered the moral murderer of his sweet sister in the person of the "Cumberland Crusher" in Nimble Nicky's Boxing Booth.

SHAKESPEARIAN TRAGEDY

By A. C. BRADLEY.

London: Macmillan and Co., Limited.

This volume consists of a series of lectures on Hamlet, Othello, King Lear, and Macbeth, and they are based by their author on a selection from materials used in teaching at Liverpool, Glasgow, and Oxford. In these ten lectures Professor Bradley treats the four principal tragedies of Shakespeare from a single point of view. His one object, he points out, is what, in a restricted sense, "may be called dramatic appreciation; to increase our understanding and enjoyment of these works as dramas; to learn to apprehend the action and some of the personages of each with a somewhat greater truth and intensity, so that they may assume in our imaginations a shape a little less unlike the shape they wore in the imagination of their creator." In the first lecture "the Substance of Shakespearian Tragedy" is dealt with; and as an example of the careful and intelligent analysis which the author applies to the work of the great dramatist we may quote a passage relating to the heroes of the plays. He says:—"We have seen already that the hero, with Shakespeare, is a person of high degree or of public importance, and that his actions or sufferings are of an unusual kind. But this is not all. His nature also is exceptional, and generally raises him in some respect much above the average level of humanity. This does not mean that he is an eccentric or a paragon. Shakespeare never drew monstrosities of virtue; some of his heroes are far from being 'good;' and if he drew eccentrics he gave them a subordinate position in the plot. His tragic characters are made of the stuff we find within ourselves and within the persons who surround them. But, by an intensification of the life which they share with others, they are raised above them; and the greatest are raised so far that, if we fully realise all that is implied in their words and actions, we become conscious that in real life we have known scarcely any one resembling them. Some, like Hamlet and Cleopatra, have genius. Others, like Othello, Lear, Macbeth, Coriolanus, are built on the grand scale; and desire, passion or will attains in them terrible force. In almost all we observe a marked one-sidedness, a predisposition in some particular direction; a total incapacity, in certain circumstances, of resisting the force which draws in this direction; a fatal tendency to identify the whole being with one interest, object, passion, or habit of mind. This, it would seem, is, for Shakespeare, the fundamental tragic trait. It is present in his early heroes, Romeo and Richard II., infatuated men, who otherwise rise comparatively little above the ordinary level. It is a fatal gift, but it carries with it a touch of greatness; and when there is joined to it nobility of mind, or genius, or immense force, we realise the full power and reach of the soul, and the conflict in which it engages acquires that magnitude which stirs not only sympathy and pity, but admiration, terror, and awe." Professor Bradley deals in a similarly instructive and interesting manner with the construction of Shakespeare's plots, Shakespeare as an artist, &c. With regard to the much discussed question of Hamlet's madness Professor Bradley does not hold with those who declare that the Prince was insane. He remarks: "That Hamlet was not far from insanity is very probable. His adoption of the pretence of madness may well have been due in part to fear of the reality; to an instinct of self-preservation, a fore-feeling that the pretence would enable him to give some utterance to the load that pressed on his heart and brain, and a fear that he would be unable altogether to repress such utterance. And if the pathologist calls his state melancholia, and even proceeds to determine its species, I see nothing to object to in that. I am grateful to him for emphasising the fact that Hamlet's melancholy was no mere common depression of spirits; and I can easily believe that many readers of the play would understand it better if they read an account of melancholia in a work on mental diseases. If we like to use the word 'disease' loosely, Hamlet's condition may truly be called diseased." These quotations give some indication of the scope and nature of Professor Bradley's lectures now collected in book form; and of their great interest and value to students of Shakespeare there cannot be the slightest doubt.

CARL AND CARR, who have made a gratifying success with their refined comedy act, "The Workhouse," at the Ealing Theatre, start on the Livermore tour after pantomime.

MR ARTHUR REECE has recently accepted from the pens of Messrs John P. Harrington and Kenneth Lyle a breezy song of the sea, entitled "First Mate of the Good Ship Home;" and another of a military type, "One of the Boys who Serve Our King," which latter Mr Reece meditates producing during his forthcoming engagement at the Coliseum. Mr G. H. Elliott is also actively rehearsing a song by the same author and composer entitled "I Natur'ly Can't Help Lovin' Yer."

"GOL DIN POO," the newest Chinese magician, was introduced at the Palace on Monday by Mr Horace Goldin, and the successful manner in which the new wonder worker accomplished a number of tricks was heartily enjoyed. With marvellous dexterity, the mysterious Palace fakir did all the tricks that have been regarded as the peculiar property of the gentlemen from the Flowery Land; but the loud applause which greeted the deft Celestial resolved itself into hearty shouts of laughter when, lifting off the pigtail and wig, and wearing a smile that it would be impossible to wash off, he disclosed the genial face of M. Pellissier, the chief of the Follies.

MISS LOUISE BEAUDET, who is just recovering from a bad cold, will be seen next week at the Chelsea Palace, where she will present her most successful new act, "Touring the Varieties."

ADMISSION CASE DISMISSED.

In the Belfast Recorder's Court on the 14th inst., before Judge Fitzgibbon, an action was brought by Mr Wm. A. Ross, B.L., 22, Rossmore-avenue, Belfast, against Mr Fred W. Warden, managing-director of the Theatre Royal, Belfast, to recover the sum of £20 damages for breach of contract and for wrongful refusal to admit plaintiff to the Theatre Royal on Nov. 29 last.

Mr Ross appeared on his own behalf, Mr Wm. Tughan for the defendant.

Mr Ross stated that on Nov. 29 last he went to the Theatre Royal. He offered a shilling for a ticket at the box-office, which was the usual price he paid for the upper circle. He paid the money at the box, but it was refused, and was informed that the price that evening for that particular part of the house was 1s. 6d. He then left, and found on reading the newspapers that there was no change in the usual price.

His Honour—Did you get a ticket? Plaintiff—No.

Did you want to get a ticket?—I did, and asked for the ticket.

Did they give you one?—No, they refused it, and said the price was 1s. 6d., and not 1s.

And you refused to pay it?—I thought my tender amounted to a contract.

Mr Tugham (to plaintiff)—I believe you are very fond of going to the theatre?—I don't think that is a fair question. I go about once a week.

When were you there before?—I could not state.

Were you there the previous week?—I think I was. The upper circle is my usual place to go to. I could not state if I was there the previous week.

Were you there a fortnight before that?—I believe I was.

Was this the occasion on which Mr Martin Harvey was there?—Yes, that was the performance I wished to see, and was prevented from seeing

Mr Tughan (handing witness the Theatre Royal poster for the week in question, Dec. 2 last)—Does that represent the play that was on the boards on that particular week?—Yes.

What price is on that bill for the upper circle?—Witness—1s. 6d., and the early door 2s.

Mr. Tughan—Didn't the young gentleman in the box refuse to issue a ticket until you would pay 1s. 6d.? Witness—He did.

Where is the shilling? Witness—I took it back. He did not receive it.

How do you make up the £20 damages? Witness—That is an antiquated amount.

The plaintiff then left the witness-box, and quoted some cases with regard to breach of contract, amongst the number being Denton v. the Great Northern Railway Company of England.

Mr Tughan briefly replied, contending that the case just quoted was not applicable here, and said that the plaintiff went to the theatre on the night in question, and in black and white upon the theatre bill in large letters were the prices for admission to that particular part of the house—viz., 1s. 6d. Immediately he went in he tendered 1s., but it was refused, and he had still kept his 1s. It was refused on the ground that the price was 1s. 6d. The plaintiff, Mr Tughan contended, was rightfully refused admission when he refused to pay the extra 6d. He (Mr Tughan) did not know, however, whether his Honour would ask him to call any evidence.

Mr Fred Warden was then called by Mr Tughan, and entered the witness-box, but was not examined.

The plaintiff said he acted bonâ-fide on the occasion. The usual price for this part of the theatre was 1s., and there had been no proper revocation of the usual prices.

His Honour—Isn't this a registered limited company?—Plaintiff said it was.

And you brought an action for an act that had been done by one of their servants?—I did. I thought Mr Warden was the responsible party, as being agent and managing-director.

His Honour—This is a limited company. If an act has been committed by one of their servants how can you sue the servant and not the company? It is the company you should sue.

Plaintiff—I was doubtful whether it was the servant or the company I should sue. I thought Mr Warden as managing-director was the proper person. I thought Mr Warden should consider himself sued for the company.

His Honour—You must sue the company.

Plaintiff—I think when it is mentioned that he is managing-director of the company that is sufficient service. I would ask your Honour to amend the process.

His Honour—I cannot do that, because your action is only against an individual.

Plaintiff—Mr Warden is one of the proper persons to sue; he is the managing-director of the company. The managing-director is part of the company, and is responsible for their acts.

His Honour—I must dismiss the case on its merits.

Plaintiff—I will appeal to a higher court. I will bring an action against the company and Mr Warden. I will take an action against the proper parties.

Plaintiff then asked his Honour to dismiss the case without prejudice.

His Honour—Very well; I will do so.

MR JORDISON'S Babes in the Wood pantomime is this week the attraction at the Queen's Theatre and Opera House, Keighley. The eccentric performance of Messrs Cullen and Carthy meets with due recognition. Mr Rowland Hill's Dame is very funny; Baron Toodle is in the capable hands of Mr Ed Avon, and his dancing is decidedly clever; Miss Madge Daley is an ideal Robin Hood; Miss Ada Martine is a pleasing Maid Marion; the two Babes are prettily impersonated by Miss Dolly Cullen and Miss Jordison; and George Chanti wins loud applause, his entertainment being excellent.

THE Carl Rosa grand opera company is paying a visit this week to Victoria Hall, Hanley, in a round of standard operas. On Monday Lohengrin was charmingly rendered. Miss Lizzie Burgess was the Elsa, and her performance was indeed brilliant; Herr Julius Walther was in excellent form as the son of Parsifal, and sang with all the necessary charm; the Telramund of Herr Chas. Victor was a good performance; Mr Arthur Winckworth as Henry was well placed; Mr Frank Arthur as the King sang admirably; Madame Augusta Renard as Ortrud was distinctly successful, her rich voice being heard to great advantage. Faust, Rigoletto, Don Giovanni, Tannhäuser, Cavalleria Rusticana, I Pagliacci, and Carmen are included in the week's programme.

MR HUBERT PERRIS'S company, in A Fight for Millions, is appearing at the Prince's Theatre, Preston, this week. Mr V. Carlyle plays Tom Manley in a clever manner. As Hudson Rivers Mr N. Cowling acquits himself creditably. Mr Horace Booth successfully portrays the villainy of Richard Dudley. Solomon Moses is ably embodied by Mr V. K. Edwards. Mr Robt. Perriss as Willie Neverwork evokes much laughter. Pearl Rivers is well sustained by Miss Eva Purcell. Miss Elma C. Turner in the rôle of Helen Dudley deserves much praise. Miss Dora Lyons makes a charming Little Madge.

PRESENTATION.—Mr Frederick Victor, who last week concluded a long engagement as Napoleon, in A Royal Divorce, having been engaged to play David Rossi, in The Eternal City, was recently presented by Mr and Mrs W. W. Kelly and the members of the company with a handsome travelling clock.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

NEW YORK, JAN. 11.—Sir Charles Wyndham and Miss Mary Moore changed their bill at the New Lyceum Theatre on the 9th inst., and appeared in a revival of Henry Arthur Jones's play The Case of Rebellious Susan, which much delighted a large audience.

MR GEORGE BERNARD SHAW'S You Never Can Tell was performed for the first time in America at the Berkeley Lyceum Theatre last Monday by Mr Arnold Daly and his company. This peculiar play was admirably acted and proved most diverting. As the dentist Valentine Mr Daly made a pronounced hit, and excellent work in prominent rôles was done by Mr William H. Thompson, Mr Harry Harwood, Mr John Findlay, Miss Jeffreys Lewis, and Miss Mabel Taliaferro. The play is discussed extensively in the newspapers.

"COUSIN BILLY," a farcical comedy, in three acts, was adapted from the French by Clyde Fitch for the express purpose of enabling Mr Francis Wilson to be "off with the old love and on with the new," or, in other words, to forsake comic opera for what is known here as "straight" comedy. Mr Wilson has said that the public should feel grateful that he is not called upon to sing in his new rôle. But for all that it would be rash to predict that never again will he sing—or recite—the famous "Dicky Bird" ditty in Erminie. In Cousin Billy he impersonates one William Jenks, an American travelling on the Continent with his cousin, Mrs Meade, a widow, and her daughter, Kitty. He proposes to his cousin, but she has made up her mind not to marry again until Kitty has found a husband. Kitty captivates two young men, who agree to a friendly rivalry for her hand. One of them plays fair, while the other resorts to trickery. But the former triumphs over his rival in the end, and Jenks wins the widow, after having extricated himself from a series of embarrassing situations in which he becomes involved through his ignorance of the language and the local customs. Mr Wilson's agility and drollery provoke roars of laughter.

MISS FRITZI SCHEFF has shelved The Two Roses, and has revived Franz Von Suppé's light opera, Fatinitza, at the Broadway Theatre. In the rôle of Lieut. Vladimir Miss Scheff has full scope for her vivacity and humour and has scored an unqualified success.

MISS VIOLA ALLEN is appearing at the Knickerbocker Theatre in a very handsome revival of The Winter's Tale. The text has been "cut" to meet the needs of modern theatre hours, but this has been done judiciously, and all the beauty and poetry of the play have been preserved. Miss Allen, in the dual-rôle of Hermione and Perdita, gives a highly intelligent and praiseworthy representation of each character. Miss Zeffie Tilbury, who appeared with Miss Mary Anderson in this play as Mopsa, is playing Paulina in the present revival.

"HOME FOLKS," a rural play in four acts, by C. T. Dazey, author of In Old Kentucky, is proving a popular attraction at the New York Theatre. There is little plot but there are four love stories and several clever character sketches that keep the audience interested and amused. The Misses Crystal and Julie Herne and Messrs Thomas A. Wise, W. S. Hart, and Jack Ryan play prominent parts well.

MRS GENEVIEVE G. HAINES is the author of a new romantic comedy, in three acts, entitled Once Upon a Time, which was produced recently at the Berkeley Lyceum Theatre. In this piece the authoress's husband, Mr Robert T. Haines, is "starring." The play is described as a romance of Andalusia. The period is the middle of the nineteenth century, and the scenes are laid in the ancient Moorish province of Jaen, principally in the courtyard of the ancestral home of the De Cerbados family. Dona Ana de Cerbados, an orphan heiress, has been pursued by penniless suitors until she has sworn to take the veil and devote her fortune to the Church, unless she finds a husband to her taste before the Fiesta of Santiago. Don Fernando de Alva, a gay widower, whom Dona Ana has once rejected, has a son, Don Juan, who is totally unlike the legendary hero of the same name. This young man has been reared amid religious surroundings by his mother's family and is attending a seminary in order to prepare himself for the priesthood. Don Fernando, anxious to obtain control of Dona Ana's fortune, conspires with her duenna, Concepcion, to bring the two young people together and make a match by apparently opposing it. But a sincere attachment springs up between Don Juan and Dona Ana, and the young man's jealousy is aroused by the attentions of one Don Guzman De Mendoza, a former bandit and a fortune hunter. Antonio, a gipsy, attempts to abduct Dona Ana, and is thwarted by the bravery of the young student, who is wounded in the affray. This brings the love affair of the young people to a climax, and their betrothal is celebrated during the Fiesta of Santiago. Mr Haines as Don Juan, Miss Mathilde Cottrelly as the duenna, Miss Gertrude Coghlan as Dona Ana won praise for their impersonations, but the play failed to win critical approval, being condemned as sacrilegious. Mrs Haines has replied to this charge in a letter to the newspapers. After referring to an incident in Israel Zangwill's play The Children of the Ghetto, that was regarded as sacrilegious by the strictly orthodox, she says:—"If these amiable assassins of the pen succeed in driving my play from the New York stage, as they did Zangwill's, I will take it to Baltimore, the home of the Church of Rome in America; to Washington, our most cosmopolitan city; to Boston, our most intellectual; to Chicago, our most independent; to London, whence come all the plays approved by the 'wise men of Gotham;' or even to Madrid, for vindication."

"THE LITTLE MINISTER" is enjoying a prosperous revival at the Empire Theatre, with Miss Maude Adams in the rôle of Lady Babble, the character she created when the play was first produced here about seven years ago. Miss Adams received an enthusiastic welcome when she made her reappearance, for her popularity is great. On the opening night, at the close of the third act, she was recalled fifteen times. The Empire Theatre has been filled at every performance, showing that Mr Barrie's play has lost none of its charm.

MR W. A. BRADY has made a fine revival of Bartley Campbell's old play Siberia, originally produced about twenty-five years ago at the Academy of Music. A representation of the Kishineff massacre is the principal spectacular feature, and this is done in a very realistic manner, evoking hearty applause.

THE Messrs Shubert Brothers have a new theatre in St. Louis called the Garrick. It was opened recently with a performance of The Taming of the Shrew, Miss Ada Rehan and Mr Charles Richman playing the principal parts. The Garrick is the twelfth playhouse in America to come under the direction of Messrs Sam S. and Lee Shubert. It is one of the finest theatres in the West.

DAN M'AVOY, a favourite Irish comedian, is appearing at the Murray Hill Theatre in a musical play entitled His Honour, the Mayor of the Bowery, which was barred from the Fourteenth-street Theatre on the ground that Mr M'Avoy's impersonation of the Mayor was a caricature offensive to Irishmen. The matter was brought into court, and the judge decided in favour of the manager who excluded the play from his theatre. The feature chiefly objected to was the wearing of green whiskers.

MR EDITOR.—Sir,—In your issue of the 14th you stated that I appeared as Blinky Bill in The Belle of New York at Ayr. I was not in the town. Yours faithfully, MACK OLLIVE, 34, Bernard-street, Russell-square, W.C.

"MR. WATCH, PAWNBROKER."

By GEORGE H. R. DABBS, M.D.
London Argus Library of Fiction.
Price, One Shilling.

The experiences of the gentleman who is familiarly known as "uncle" to his vast clientèle of poor relations have before supplied interesting subjects for the pen of the popular novelist. Mr George R. Sims, for instance, wrote a series of stories under the title of "Three Brass Balls," but it has been left to Dr. Dabbs to make of the public hypothecator a romantic figure with a pulse that quickens with sympathy for the oppressed and the heart of a lion. Mr Watch, indeed, is a paragon of chivalry, and uses a straight left with unconscionable severity when facing "wrong 'uns," as he does many times during the series of exciting adventures put to his credit by the author. He rises superior to the common drudge given to bargaining and a usurious rate of interest, but is always interesting and excites the reader's admiration. Says Watch in an early chapter, "We are supposed to be men, in my business, who have no heart or compunction much—like many a swift judgment, injustice is inside this one. I can recall many an instance, I am glad to say, in which I neglected to press an advantage home. We don't all of us work for only the dross of gain; we have our little romances now and then!" Watch one day had an extraordinary bundle deposited with him—a baby girl. She was immediately taken in as a pledge of affection. The story of the advent of Miss Pancake in the bachelor's lonely home is worth retelling:—

"When Beans, the faithful dog—a cross between a bull-mastiff and a retriever—was brought in one dark November night, and was passing my parlour door to go down into the cellar, I tossed him a bit of muffin, and he stopped to eat it. Just as he'd got it in his teeth he stopped biting, and walked into my parlour—a thing he'd never done of his own accord before—and Measles (the pawnbroker's assistant) not having expected a side-pull at the chain let go of it. Beans dived under the table and pulled a bundle out, and then I understood, and there was no time lost in my cutting the cord. And there was little 'Miss Pancake,' as we called her afterwards, because she was so flat, stark naked, and all over smiles. And I scratched my head and doubted, for an instant, my own eyesight and my own virtue. Measles, as he always did when puzzled, took a fresh straw from his pocket and started on it. Beans lay down by the child. I took off my coat and covered her little body with it, and she kicked one leg out of the side of it, and went into ecstasies over some joke she had all to herself. I asked Measles where she came from, and how she got here, and he condescended to speak through his straw that he didn't think he knew, and then to suck in surprise as if he was enjoying a sherry cobbler.

"The child meanwhile had adjusted her other leg to Beans' broad skull, and he seemed to like the annexation. Added to which he growled at me because I put my hand down to tuck in the coat for purposes of decency. And there we all were, and no one seemed to know what to do next. At least, Measles and I had no clear ideas; but Beans and the child went to sleep.

"It is very rare, I imagine, that in a quartet so situated you would find an equal division of sanity and impotence. I said at last to Measles, 'Seems to me we'd better send for the police,' but Measles only sucked at his straw. 'D'ye hear me?' I asked angrily, and the boy replied, 'I know her, and so do you,' at which I asked for an explanation, and the young ruffian winked at me. 'Don't you see, sir, Mr Watch, what this means? That swell mobsman in the next street has just pawned all the child's clothes with you; the mother's come home from the circus ill, and found out there's nothing but a naked baby left, and she's sent or brought the child here to you on her way to the 'orspital.' And then Measles dodged among the pledges and found the bundle and, unasked by me, commenced to air the clothes, all the time whistling through his straw. At last the boy turned on me and said, 'Take my eight bob a week and I'll work for nothing; but don't for Gawd's sake, turn that child out. Keep her, master, keep her; she'll be the best pledge you've taken for the luck o' this corner shop'—and I stopped the boy with a benevolent blasphemy, and told him I'd as soon rob my mother's grave as turn out the child.

"I was going to send for a woman to look after her, but Measles warned me that the only security for her against the father was to keep dark. 'All very well,' I said, 'but who's going to wash and dress her?'

"'You must do that, master,' that varmit replied; and 'she must sleep with you, too, and I'll come in and sleep under the counter, and run up and down for what you want, and boil the kettle and mix the food, and sit with her now and then; but you must do the dressing.' And then he chucked the clothes down, and took the child up in my coat, and laid it in my lap, spite of the language Beans used, and went upstairs to light a fire in my bedroom.

"I pass by what followed. The child screamed with delight at every effort I made to dress her, and when I had finished I was half blind from her ten toes, and half deaf from her heels and knees. Then Measles came down and told me he was going out to buy some food for her, and I had to sit and wait.

"A customer came in, of course, and while I was out of the room I left her to Beans. When I came back that dog was lying just anyhow, and she seemed to be all over him, and was sucking his great ear. He was wincing with the ticklishness of it, but wouldn't show it. Then, the customer gone, and Measles come back, I told him to feed her, and I listened outside to that boy trying to manage that girl, and held my sides with laughing. Ordinarily he was a desperate young devil, that boy, but that child ruled him with her bottle as if she was the Queen of the Pawnshop, and he was the dirtiest and meanest pledge of a stowaway allowed to rest there on sufferance of her regal will and condescension. But he fed her, as he always did, at last."

Miss Pancake, who was afterwards called Pansy, had an eventful career, and one of the best pieces of descriptive writing is the account of her rescue from a burning house by the intrepid Measles. Unhappily she lost her sight as a result of this awful experience. Watch is a pawnbroker militant, and he finds a chum entirely after his own heart in Mr Steadfast, the curate of the parish in which he resides, a fine example of muscular Christianity. Inspector Lorry, an honour to the police force, completes the trio. The reader who follows their adventures with anarchists, thieves, and other undesirable persons will enjoy the exciting career that has been assigned to them by Dr. Dabbs, whose volume is most ingeniously written.

HER Majesty the Queen has graciously accepted the new patriotic song "England's Queen," words by Guy Danbury, music by Ernest George, published by Messrs Ascherberg and Co., Berners-street. The above announcement speaks for itself in more ways than one. It proves the enterprise of the publishers, the cleverness of author and composer, and the graciousness of the popular lady who shares with King Edward the throne of England.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.—All suffering from irritation of the throat and hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of Brown's Bronchial Troches. People troubled with a hacking cough, a slight cold, or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious pulmonary and asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box. Sold by Chemists everywhere, 1s. 1½d. per Box.—[ADVT.]

WEDNESBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Harry Battersby; Acting-Manager, Mr W. J. Cranston.—Mr T. E. Ward's company is here with Her Fatal Past. Mr Percy Brown makes a capital Mark Desmond, and Leonard Fernside is admirably portrayed by Mr Bernard Dunstan. Mr Chas. H. Lester does good work as Gilbert Fernside, and as Jonathan Buckstone Nobbs Mr T. Edward Ward makes the most of his opportunities. Mr Victor Mason as Dicky Bird scores successfully; Miss Amy Maitland as Kitty Springwell does excellent work; and Miss Marguerite Thorne, in the rôle of Martha Springwell, wins warm appreciation. Sal Jenkins is ably and amusingly rendered by Miss Kate Newman, and Miss Helen Ingelow is well suited to the characters of Ruth Fernside and Bella De Lara.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.

GRAND.—General Manager (for Mrs Weldon Watts), Mr Sidney Bacon; Resident Manager, Mr Fred Conneaux.—Revenge is being played here this week by Mr Hill-Mitchelson and an excellent all round company, Mr Hill-Mitchelson giving a powerful delineation of Prince Orloff. A studied reading of the rôle of Captain Loris Vanessa is supplied by Mr Wellesley Draper. As the King Mr Theo Balfour is highly effective, and amusing work is done by Mr Arthur M'Culloch as Count Mussant and Mr Fred Yarnold as Jim Jennings. Mr T. W. Hurst's performance as Captain David Carr is heartily appreciated; Miss Grace Aimers merits warm recognition for her performance as Lieutenant Maurice; Miss Violet Carlyle thoroughly gains the sympathy of her audience by her admirable portrayal of the Queen; Draga Vanessa is satisfactorily depicted by Miss Frances White; and Cora Brook is represented in pleasing manner by Miss Alice Barber.

PALACE.—Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—The list here is headed by Miss Dinah Morris and her troupe of Southern State artistes, including Miss Bessie Morris, in their musical scena, The Lost Coon; the performance, which is most enjoyable, includes songs, dances, and instrumental music. The Four Burnells do an amusing skit on golfing, and introduce a smart bâton drill. The performance given by Miss Raffin's troupe of monkeys is extremely funny; horn playing is Mr D. W. Watson's speciality, and his performance is well received; Dickinson and Johnson, in their silver tank, appear to be as much at home in water as out of it; Ethel Sylvesto's contortionist act is a clever and graceful one; and a very pleasing musical performance is contributed by the Darrell Trio, which includes Miss May Darrell, lady banjoist.

WEXFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr E. P. Ronan.—Under its new management this cosy little house has commanded extraordinary success, and the initial visit of the Benson (North) Shakespearian company on the 12th, 13th, and 14th inst., created a furore. On the Thursday Romeo and Juliet was performed, the house being packed with the elite of the district. Mr Holiday Attley as Escalus looked and played the part to the life; Paris was ably impersonated by Mr C. Foote; Mr Arthur Fayne's interpretation of the rôle of Capulet could scarcely be excelled; Mr Henry Herbert's impersonation of Mercutio deserved the hearty recognition it received; Mr F. Owen Chambers was an admirable Friar Laurence; and Mr Guy Leigh as Montague was also good. Romeo was entrusted to Mr T. A. Shannon, who gave a careful and sympathetic rendering; and Mr C. H. Croker King impressed the audience favourably as his apothecary. Miss Catherine Boyce was a tender and womanly Juliet; Lady Capulet as played by Miss Maud Garth deserved much praise; and Miss Geoghegan as the Nurse was all that could be desired. She Stoops to Conquer, The Merchant of Venice, and Hamlet were also produced; the last-mentioned tragedy on Saturday night beating all records at the theatre.

WIGAN.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr John Worswick.—Messrs Haddon and Loader's comic pantomime, Jack and the Beanstalk, has been presented here to appreciative audiences. The pantomime is admirably staged, and there are some very pretty spectacular effects. The parts of Jack, by Miss Bessie Shelley; Dora, by Miss Pattie Bella; Silly Billy, by Mr Jay Laurier; Dame Trotter, by Mr Harry Harrop; and that of Squire Musty, by Mr Reg Bolton, are all well sustained. George Harrie gives a clever star trap performance; Miss Cissie Trent is a charming transformation dancer; and the Cameron Glee Singers (Misses Belshaw, Carmichael, and Verin) are additional specialities.

GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr J. Worswick.—At the Hippodrome, Vanola, Mexican antipodeste, and Tom Lloyd, the well-known and successful vocalist, are great attractions here this week. The Two Countees, duettists; the Violas, the white Mahatmas, or adepts in second sight; Coram, novelty ventriloquist; and Rosina Casselli and her troupe of performing dogs are all excellent turns. Maggie Rimmer is a dainty comedienne and dancer; Shang Hai, a clever Chinese conjuror; the Revell Troupe, in a pantomime act, Mischief; and Charlie Craston, comedian, complete a capital and up-to-date list of artists. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr S. Dawson, accompany the several items.

EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Manager, Mr W. Birchall.—Miss Irene Santley, soprano vocalist, and Lanney and Dode, athletic domestics, are capital turns. Dr. Vallus, hypnotist and mystifier; Frank Vant and the Bros. Houston, comedians and dancers; and Dick Wadeson, "the original wind cutter," are also popular. George Yorke, one-legged dancer, continues his engagement for another week.

WHITEHAVEN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Clark.—Mr Edmund Tearle's company opened here for three nights, on Monday, in The Three Musketeers, the eminent actor appearing as D'Artagnan. He received excellent support from Miss K. Clinton as Miladi and Mr J. V. Fairley was good as Buckingham. A convincing portrayal of Richelieu was given by Mr W. J. Miller, and Mr V. O. Crabtree was capable as the King. Miss Mary Campbell was seen to advantage as Anne of Austria, and a capital study of Boniface was given by T. W. Benson. On Tuesday Under the Red Robe, and on Wednesday Jeanie Deans were staged. For the remaining three nights of the week Mr Hart's company is announced to appear in My Lady Molly.

WINDSOR.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Licensee, Mr Fred L. Connynghame; General Business-Manager, Mr Worton David; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Nash.—One of Miss Maggie Morton's several companies has been here this week for the first three nights with the military drama, in four acts, Two Little Drummer Boys, a story of the Sixth Royal Warwicks, by Mr Walter Howard. The presentation of this lively, moving, and realistic play was under the personal direction of Miss Maggie Morton, who is an old favourite in the Royal borough, and the popularity of that lady and the excellence of the production by an all-round company of experience and ability combined to yield a marked success in Windsor.

WOLVERHAMPTON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr E. H. Bull and Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Percival.—Mr George Dance's company is appearing here this week in The Orchid, a play which is deservedly popular, and is presented by a first-class company. The part of Aubrey Chesterton has an excellent exponent in Mr Ernest Darrell; the Hon. Guy Scrymgeour is capitally played by Mr G. Davy Burnaby; Mr Edmund Hollick is a capable Dr. Ronald Fausett; Mr Edmund Page, an able and amusing Comte Raoul; and Zaccary is well represented by Mr Arthur P. Hemsley. In the character of Meakin Mr Charles R. Walenn is a host in himself, and gives an admirable portrayal of a humorous but arduous part. Miss Irene Desmond is charming as Josephine; Miss Ethel Bryant does well as Lady Violet; Miss Ida Chichester is good as Countess Anstruther; Miss Chrissie Ralland is smart as Thisbe; and Miss Madge Lucas does admirably as Caroline Vokins. The play is brilliantly staged, and the whole performance bright and gay.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Bernard; General Manager, Mr W. H. Lennon.—The great attraction here this week is Dr. Walford Bodie, who is drawing large houses nightly to witness his wonderful cures by "bloodless surgery," and his mesmeric performances. The bill also includes the following artists, viz.:—Gerald Lopez, Little Dolly Robson, La Petite Bella, Marie Henri, Tom Duriah, the Sahallers, Norman Mills, and the Original Vivians, who are re-engaged for a second week.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Sole Lessees, Mr Fred Benton and Mr Fred J. Little; General Manager, Mr Fred Benton.—The entertainment for the week is provided by a circus company, including a troupe of forty amazon warriors, who give a representation of a midnight attack in Dahomey; the Sisters Le Graham, vocalists and dancers; the Leons, acrobats; and Frank Hope, trick cyclist.

WORCESTER.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; General Manager, Mr Louis Karpe; Assistant-Manager, Mr L. Warde.—Great praise has been accorded this week to the representations of My Lady Molly, which is here on a return visit. Miss Agnes Fandy sang and acted admirably in the title-rôle; Miss Sybil Thorne made a most favourable impression as Hester, as did Miss Mande Thorne as Alice Coverdale; while the part of the Governess was cleverly taken by Miss Florence Wakeman. Miss Maud Lucy was a dainty maid. The male characters found capital exponents in Mr Stuart Alexander (Lionel), Mr Edmund Sherras (Captain Romney), Mr Arthur Powell (Micky), Mr T. Norbury (the Landlord), and Mr Fredk. Hobbs (Sir Miles).

WORKINGTON.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr Stanley Rogers.—On Monday night there was a large audience to witness Mr W. H. Kirby's company's performance of The New Mephisto. Mr Albert Weston as Mephisto and in his other parts was greatly admired, and he was ably partnered by Miss Nellie Burdette, whose graceful acting and dancing secured for her several encores. Dick Pilgrim had a capital exponent in Mr W. H. Vernon. Miss M. Armitage was exceedingly quaint and humorous as Becky. Mr C. Lindon was refined as Meredith. As Humming Top Mr B. St. Joen was capital, and equally so Mr A. Randal as the Major. Miss Dorothy Cecil was charming, and acted well as Gertie. Miss Leah Howard and Miss Lillian Gregory were also vivacious as the widows. The chorus was very good and the mounting artistic.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Helsby Wright.—Mr E. Hoggan-Armadale and his company on Monday presented David Garrick to an appreciative house. He gave a manly and intelligent rendering of Garrick. Miss M. Florence was graceful and sympathetic as Laura. Mr F. Emery was excellent as the Squire. Mr H. Osman, Hoskins, was satisfactory, and also Mr H. A. Burton as Gamphire and Mr C. Langton in the part of Peterkin. The heroine was ably supported by Miss Wilson as Lydia, Miss E. C. Matthews as Patience, and Miss Evelyn as Priscilla.

WREXHAM.

EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr Herbert Nicholls.—The Summersons made so great an impression here a fortnight ago that they were promptly re-engaged for the present week, and having introduced entirely new duets, they have again scored a big success. Mr J. H. Kavanagh, comic and descriptive vocalist, is another star artist, as is Mr T. B. Talbot, eccentric singing comedian and expert ventriloquist. Miss Carrie Leslie, characteristic and descriptive vocalist, commands plenty of applause and other manifestations of approval, as do also Miss Marie Lester, comedienne, and Mdlle. Henriette, 'cellistr.

YORK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr T. H. Barrow.—The Beautiful Avenger is the attraction this week, and Miss Nannie Meade as Vashti Volta and Victor Stanhope gives a powerful rendering of two distinct rôles, and is ably seconded by that robust actor, Mr Algernon Syms, who as Cyrus Telford finds great favour. Mr Edwin Walton and Mr C. T. Does score as the villains, and in contrast to the tragic element we have the excellent fooling of Mr Arthur Richmond as Jim Jahme. Miss Cissy Podmore, Mr Bert Ellis, and Miss Lillian Hawkins complete an able company.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr Sidney Brooke.—Datas, a truly wonderful turn, heads the bill this week. His clever entertainment finds great favour. Barton and Ashley are distinctly smart in their sketch. The conjuring of Sidney Lee is much above the average. Smith and Johnson, coon artists; Vance Brothers, instrumentalists; Geo. Daunton, comedian; Howard and Hollinson, sketch artists; and H. O. Wills, instrumentalist, make up a strong company.

FOOTBALL.

BRISTOL X.L.C.R. AND HARRY HARE'S ORCHESTRAL BAND ATHLETIC CLUBS v. MUSIC HALLS A.F.C.

Music Halls A.F.C.—F. B. Nicholls, goal; T. Denton, and J. Stuart, backs; J. Lacey, D. O'Connor, and T. Neagle (captain), half-backs; P. Reardon, B. Cullen, F. Hansford, W. Hinder, and G. Anstey, forwards.

Referee, J. Leonard (of Westbury Villages Second A.F.C.). Linesmen, H. C. Douglas and W. Miller. Result:—Bristol X.L.C.R. and Harry Hare's Orchestral Band Athletic Clubs, one goal; Music Halls A.F.C., three goals. Messrs J. Aubrey, J. Lacey (two), and P. Reardon scored for their respective sides.

HAMMERSMITH EARLY CLOSERS v. CHISWICK EARLY CLOSERS AND THEATRICALS.

Played near Kingston-on-Thames on the 12th inst. Harry Hare, of Bristol X.L.C.R. Athletic Club, assisted the second named team. The following were the players:—

Hammersmith Early Closers.—Martin, goal; Wills and Culverwell (captain), backs; Tonkins, Adams, and Parker, half-backs; Paget, Hall, Symes, Pike and Howell, forwards.

Chiswick Early Closers and Theatricals.—Jefferies, goal; Rogers and Murray, backs; H. Hare (Bristol) (captain), Prescott and Lambert, half-backs; Griffiths, Pearce, Hodges, Edkins, and Caple, forwards.

SEASON 1905.

The Building (which is 127ft. in diameter, 41ft. high to the eaves, and 83ft. to the Lantern) is Lighted by Electricity, and as a place for Animal Entertainments is unique, it being the only building in Blackpool that, in consequence of its being free from pillars and other obstructions, afforded the necessary height and space for Diavolo's performance of 'Looping the Loop.'

For the last eight or ten years Blackpool has been extending around and for miles south of the Colosseum in a marvellously rapid manner. Thousands of houses have been built and are occupied, and there has not been any place of Public Entertainment provided for the Masses of the People south of the Tower.

The Authorities estimate that about Four Million Persons visited Blackpool last Season.

The great Popularity of the Colosseum is shown by the fact that, although only partially occupied during a part of a Blackpool Season, upwards of 100,000 paid for Admission during the remaining part of the Season.

Offers for the 1905 Season on Sharing Terms should be made to the Undersigned, who will furnish any further information.

Published at "The Era" Offices, 49, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

Those who are interested in "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" will derive much valuable intelligence by reading Mr Albert Strong's book bearing the above title, published at "The Era" Office.—Pelican Aug. 3d, 1901.

Mr A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes" which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette, Aug. 2d, 1901

Copyright confusion is, like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr Albert A. Strong's new work entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his text-book on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" Office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases, what probably is—the law as to musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters on the Berne Convention and on the Chase Act, passed by the United States Congress last March, are full of interest.—Referee, July 28th, 1901

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1905.
"The Era" Annual, 1905, is with us once again, and is very welcome. The usual stock features which make this Annual so valuable for reference have been compiled with the usual care, and the "Incidentals" will favourably bear comparison with those of any former issue. They range from "Dundee Reminiscences," by Sir Henry Irving, to an endeavour to lay the "Foundations of a National Drama," by Mr Henry Arthur Jones.—Referee, Jan. 15, 1905.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1905
That vade mecum of "the profession," "The Era" Annual, has just made its 1905 appearance. In addition to the dramatic and musical calendar, the alphabetical list of new pieces, and other permanent features, there are some twenty-five stories by leading authors, actors, and actresses, including Sir Henry Irving, Mr George Alexander, Mr Sydney Grundy, Mr H. A. Jones, and Mr Walter Passmore, all illustrated by photographs and autographs.—Sunday Times, Jan. 15, 1905.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1905.
"The Era" Almanack and Annual for 1905, conducted by Mr Edward Ledger, is the vade mecum of the dramatic and music-hall profession, containing as it does all an artiste desires to know in connection with the stage. A feature of the publication are the stories of adventure told by well-known artistes like Sir Henry Irving, George Alexander, Harry Pleon, John Le Hay, Constance Moxon, Walter Passmore, Fanny Wentworth, and John Lawson. Mr Henry Arthur Jones discourses wisely on the "Foundations of a National Drama." The Annual is one that will interest and amuse not only the "professional," but the general public.—Reynolds's Newspaper, Jan. 15, 1905.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, JAN. 26.—The incidental and frequently local humour of Herr Katsch's latest play caused it to be well received, the author being called after each act and heartily applauded. Plot there is little; the action passes in circles known as Bohemian, a "milieu" that always appeals to the German public. Fritz Riemer, a young sculptor, is at work on a statue of a girl violinist. He is not satisfied with the professional model who sits to him, pretty as she is, and he loses courage and begins to despair. Rose Merten, the sister of Riemer's friend, Heinz Merten, is a teacher of the violin; she is young and fair, and the sculptor implores her to become his model. The girl—for the sake of auld lang syne—complies; she sits, or rather stands, to him in an airy garment that "more expresses than hides her," and the statue grows into a thing of life and beauty, bringing the sculptor life-long fame. But it leaks out among Rose's pupils that she has sat as a model, and the consequences are disastrous. Gradually the means of living is taken from the innocent girl, and what is worse, she suffers a good many insults. Fritz Riemer, for a while, has no knowledge of the state of things; he is the man of the day, and fashionable ladies covet him for their parties. When the humiliation of his little friend is made known to him by an accident he is very indignant, and the love he has always more or less felt for Rose breaks out in an uncontrollable passion. He seeks her, proposes, and is accepted; so all ends merrily, while the evil-minded gossips are silenced for ever. The piece was very brightly acted, Fräuleins Rocco, Cerigioli, and Boëttticher; the Herren Mischke, Haesker), and Rohland carrying off the chief laurels.

"DIE ZAUBERGLOCKE" (le timbre d'argent), opera, in four acts, by M. Saint-Saëns, was produced at the National last week with but little good fortune. It is one of the oldest works of the composer, and was not even a success at the time of production in its own country. The book is excessively poor, and its translation into German has not improved it. An evil star rested upon the National on this particular evening; the cast was far less commendable than usual, the most appreciated numbers being the dances, which were fairly well executed. I do not fancy Die Zauberglocke will remain long in the bill, all things considered.

A NEW comedy was produced at the Deutsches last week, meeting with a very cordial reception. The piece, which contains three acts, is entitled Die Grosse Leidenschaft. The author, Herr Raoul Auernheimer, is in his first youth. Notwithstanding much crudeness and some overlong scenes the comedy is genuinely amusing, and is a good omen for future work by the same author. The plot is soon told. It has, by the way, many points in common with M. Sardou's Divorçons. The pretty young wife of a business man named Vinzenz fancies herself ill-used and misunderstood by her sharp-witted, if somewhat prosaic husband, who loves her all the time he it said. So Sophie Vinzenz conceives a "great passion" for a painter named Adrian. The husband perceives the drift of his sentimental little wife and gives her her head. He remarks that opportunity does not make love—on the contrary, it is usually the undoing of love. He, therefore, invites Adrian to come and stay with himself and wife at their country house, and speedily his prognostications are verified. The would-be lovers do nothing very terrible, and Sophie is glad to have her husband to herself after a while. The happy pair enjoy a second honeymoon, and Adrian falls in love with someone else.

FOLLOWING the three-act comedy came a one-act verse piece, Das Nachtmahl der Kardinäle, by Julio Dantas. Three old cardinals sit at supper and tell the story of their youthful loves. The story is not interesting and the play fell very flat. Both pieces were extremely well acted, Fräuleins Rabitow and Müller, Herren Klein and Strohl giving especially good renderings of their respective parts.

A VERY interesting evening was given on Monday at the Künstler-Haus. Mr and Mrs Augustin Duncan gave a selection of scenes from Hamlet, Romeo and Juliet, and Macbeth in English before a highly appreciative audience. Mr Duncan is an American and an actor of note in his own country, but he has Irish blood in him, too. He has a good stage appearance, a sonorous and particularly pleasing voice, and responds well to the demands made by Shakespeare upon an actor. The programme opened with Mr Duncan's delivery of the Prologus from Henry V., and closed with the Epilogue from As You Like It, spoken by his wife. The famous monologues from Hamlet and the Nunnery scene were very successfully rendered, while the Balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet afforded Mrs Duncan her best opportunity. She proved a charming Juliet, sympathetic and convincing, while in the Chamber scene in the fourth act she acted with considerable power. The last item on the programme was "an arrangement, including scenes five and seven from act one, and scenes one and two from act two of Macbeth." Mrs Duncan displayed much talent and discrimination in her handling of the part of Lady Macbeth, and her husband's rendering of Macbeth was unquestionably fine. Altogether the artist-pair may be warmly congratulated upon their success, which would certainly have been much greater under more favourable circumstances. The artistes wore in each scene the appropriate costume; tapestries took the place of scenery with good effect, but the Künstler-Haus Hall does not lend itself well to the exigencies of Shakespearian plays—or even scenes from them—and both acoustics and lighting left much to be desired.

"DER GROSSE STERN," the pot-pourri of whimsical but clever nonsense, has reached its twenty-fifth consecutive performance at the Thalia. Its popularity seems in no wise to have become diminished, and it will no doubt run smoothly for some time to come. Herr Thielscher—the idol of the Berliners—Herr Helmerding, Fräuleins Ballot, Wannovius, Abarbanell, and other principal members of the excellent cast were signalled out for floral offerings.

EDWARD GRIEG is dangerously ill at Copenhagen. The physicians hold out hope of his recovery, but the utmost caution is necessary. The famous composer, who is suffering from inflammation of the lungs, is being nursed by his wife at the Phœnix Hotel.

The alterations at the Royal Schauspiel Haus have proved to be far more extensive than was at first thought necessary. The entire roof was badly constructed, and is now new, the stalls, galleries, stage, are all altered out of knowledge in fact, the whole of the interior is practically that of another building. It is calculated that the total expenses run to a tune of a hundred thousand pounds, which is an object lesson in the advisability of building thoroughly at first.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr H. C. Cavanah.—The stage is occupied this week by an exhibition of pictures illustrative of life in the army and navy, which prove very attractive. In the course of the evening a number of Scots songs are tastefully rendered by Miss Agnes Taylor.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Sheldon.—Sid Doody and Edie Wright provide an exceedingly funny turn, and Jean Seul contrives to excite curiosity with his "Hindoo mystery" exhibition. The Karno Trio are, as usual, highly diverting; Tom Hall and his Nippers are well received; and an amusing turn is introduded by Carle and Carmanelli. The singing and dancing of Mr D. J. Pedley please the audiences; Mr and Mrs Paul Knox, speciality artistes, establish themselves as prime favourites; while Mr D. W. Watson shows great skill as a cornet player. Miss Marie Joyce, comedienne, dances and sings very acceptably; and the programme concludes with an interesting exhibition of pictures by the Bioscope.

ABERTILLERY.

THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; General and Resident Manager, Mr Geo. W. Ventom.—The boards are occupied here this week by Mr Will Hebden's company in the musical comedy, entitled A Day in Paddy's Market. Mr Will Hebden in the rôle of Johnny Kelly is very funny, and causes much mirth; as William Henry Percy Fitzalbot Mr L. Maitland is a capital dude; Mr Charles Lyndon and Mr Charles Locke as Daft Jimmy and Michael O'Hennessy respectively are very good; as also are Mr George Millard, Mr T. Halsey, Mr F. Cooper, Mr G. Warner, and Mr C. Bowers. Miss D. Fairley as Mrs O'Hennessy plays the part well, whilst Miss Jennie Clare as Mary Manners is an artiste worthy of note, her songs and dances being cleverly rendered and much appreciated.

ACCRINGTON.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. B. Ormerod; Manager, Mr J. E. Barnes.—Mr Ernest K. Abbott's company opened here on Monday in A Wife's Triumph. Mr George C. Doughty gave a fine performance as Frank Wilton. Ellis Jordan was cleverly depicted by Mr W. H. Garbois. Julius Hartman was admirably embodied by Mr E. Ouston. Mr W. H. Davis-Brown was very funny as Stubbs, and was well supported by Miss Constance Medway as Margery Crib. Miss Ada Abbott looked and acted Bessie Dewhurst well.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Mill; Assistant-Manager, Mr T. W. Moyes.—Mr Charles Bradford renders his numbers very quaintly here. The Evalos are decidedly clever. Mr Charles Bayman takes well with his excellent singing and clever patter. The Imperial Boys' Orchestra are a musical treat. The Dillons must be complimented upon their excellent turn.

ALDERSHOT.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Clarence Saunes; Resident-Manager, Mr George E. Williams.—Pantomime is forming an acceptable change this week, Mr Arthur Carlton's company in Aladdin appearing with success. It is lavishly mounted, and the performance goes with a swing, tuneful music, local and topical hits, and several specialities helping considerably in making the pantomime the success it is. There are several old favourites in the cast, amongst whom is Miss Hettie Gale and Miss Lallah Davis, and the whole company work hard. Miss Hettie Gale sings sweetly and acts with charming results as the Princess; and Miss Jennie Richards as Aladdin is capital. Mr Jack Cromo's clever impersonation of Widow Twankey is one of the hits of the evening. Mr Allen Thomas is good as the Emperor; and Mr Frank Bertram's Abanazar is an excellently played rôle. Mr Charles Ross does well as the Grand Vizier; whilst as Wishee-Washee Mr Cecil Clayton causes much amusement. Messrs Carl and Carr are two clever comedians. Misses Lallah Davis, Amy Bellwood, V. Varcoe, Trixie Keane, Grace Huntley, Rose Sydney, Dorothy Delemere, Elsie Sargent, Ida Heron, and R. Faith are seen to advantage, and a very large number of others in smaller parts; and the chorus add their share to the success. The specialities are given by the Royal Troupe of dancers, Miss Jennie Richards, Miss Hettie Gale, Carl and Carr, and Jack Cromo.

ALTRINCHAM.

NEW PAVILION OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, Messrs Budd, Howe, and Taylor; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Gilman.—The run of Aladdin is being continued here with marked success. Miss Pattie Fairley, after a sudden and somewhat serious illness, has returned in excellent voice, and portrays the title-part with dash and verve. One of the biggest hits is made by Miss Clair Ingham with her song "Farewell my little Yo-San." New songs and dances have been introduced, and Mr F. Budd creates roars of laughter. Several of the new ditties are by Mr Frank Noble, the conductor of the orchestra.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Fallbairn.—Messrs Dottridge and Longden's panto is a big success and is drawing well. The comic business of the comedians has the merits of spontaneity and originality; and the doings of the panto. boy and girl are full of winning vivacity, chic, and grace. Miss Dolly Elsworthy as Ganem is full of "go" and dash, and sings her serio-comic ditties with excellent emphasis. Miss Lily Lonsdale as Morgiana is a sweet and graceful heroine. She has decidedly superior gifts as a vocalist, singing with power and sweetness. Misses Cissie Kingsley, May Fallowfield, Ada Beaumont, and the bevy of beauties who dance and sing as the "Forty" also look picturesque. The comedians, Messrs Jas. Danvers, Ernie Myers, Cliff Dover, Forsyth Bruce, Phil Leonard, Jas. Dubois, and the Oetzmans are first-rate fun-makers. The specialities consist of the clever troupe of Bedouin Arabs; the Reed-Oetzman Troupe of grotesque acrobats and James Dubois as Pongo, the original man-monkey, in his clever rope-performance.

ASHTON HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr C. Revill; Director of Entertainments, Mr F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr L. Campkin.—The popular comedian Mr Martin Conway heads the bill for the current week. Martin is a big comic favourite. His celebrated speciality "Walk round, Martin," is most laughable. The Irish vocalist Cora Gray sings sweetly some pathetic ballads of the "Green Isle," and is vociferously applauded. The Three Dagmars are wonderfully expert and clever gymnasts; but the big feature from the "strong man point of view" is Berg, in his smart and novel act. He lifts his monster bell-bar with apparent ease, and offers prizes to amateurs to lift a bag of flour off the stage and carry it away. George White's Arabs are wonderful acrobats; Bert Holmes is an acceptable comic vocalist; the Hamiltons, versatile comedy duo, are well worth patronage; and Collins and Croft provide a turn which greatly interests the audience. The Bioscope concludes a good programme.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr W. Leech.—This popular pleasure resort continues to be a favourite palace of entertainment. Variety is found in the performances of Grey and Welford, and much food for hearty laughter in their quaint comedy and boxing act. A humorous performance is that of the comedy sketch One Night Only, with Henry Carlton as Billy Blobbs, supported by an excellent team. This farcical absurdity is one huge laugh from start to finish. Little Dando is very aptly described as an eccentric and humorous comedian; Kellino and Pope, in a circus comedy act, are funny as well as startling; Fred Horsfall is a really clever mimic; the Gregson Comedy Three provoke abundance of mirth with their novel sketch; the Rolands' performance is one of strength and muscle; Gerald Mount, mimic, is a good turn; and Percy Vere and Edith Royal give a refined comedy act; the Paul Hesse Trio get their full share of approval in an acrobatic wire pot-pourri act; and the cinématograph pictures are interesting.

ATTERCLIFFE.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwards; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Lacy Lyne.—This week's programme here includes the names of Lilith, whose turn is as clever as it is bewildering; Will Bacchus, an actor-vocalist of merit; and Zasma, who does a good turn as an acrobat and weight-lifter. Exceptionally pleasing is Lilian Warren, whose songs, in addition to being well rendered, are illustrated by suitable pictures; Fred Harcourt is a talented conjuror; Salmon is heartily applauded for his trick cycling; the Revell Troupe in their pantomimic sketch, entitled Mischief, cause roars of laughter; and Maudie Ford is a smart juvenile comedienne and dancer.

BACUP.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr George Stone.—Mr A. E. Smith's pantomime Babes in the Wood is here. Mr J. H. Matthews displays a fine baritone voice as Demon King of Lightning; and the Fairy Queen Flora has a good exponent, who sings well, in Miss Lily Coleman. Miss Edith Wallis makes a dashing Robin Hood; and the Maid Marion of Miss Beatie Howard is quite winning. The Baron Balderdash of Mr Arthur Slater and the Dame Quisbydiggs of Mr Charles Gladwell are very amusing. Mr Bob Padley as Weary Willie and Mr F. Wheatcroft as Tired Tim contribute much fun. The Edna Trio and the Colleys are also conspicuously successful.

TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr Tom Whiting.—Payne's Little Vagabonds top the bill here this week; they are a great success. Les Kyasyas, athletic entertainers, give a wonderful entertainment; Mdlle. Collard's burlesque boarhounds go through a variety of exceedingly clever tricks; Swan and Stanley are a couple of capital facial experts; Paul Pelham is a successful descriptive vocalist, and his songs are much appreciated; Louis Murray, actor-vocalist, is well received; and Dot Stanley is a pleasing comedienne.

BATH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr Lewis A. Long.—The Japanese play called The Darling of the Gods is here this week. The company is that of Mr Bannister Howard. Zakkuri, the cruel minister of state, is embodied by Mr Edward A. Warburton, who was well received on Monday night. Mr Alfred Goddard makes a picturesque and effective Kara, and his scenes with Miss Inez Bensusan as Yo-San are acted with marked ability. The lady has a difficult task, but achieves no little success. Miss Edith Anton Laing deserves praise for her careful handling of the part of Rosy Sky. Mr Leonard Grey (Saigon) and Mr Alexander Haviland (Tanda Tanj) lend useful assistance, and the numerous other parts of more or less importance are in safe hands.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr W. Trussell.—Theo. Hardeen, the handcuff marvel, is on a return visit, and his tricks are as swiftly and deftly performed as ever. A prettily conceived idea is the A-Ba-Be's Picture Postcard Album, which meets with much acceptance. Mdlle. Lorette and her statue dog, Ben, reappear with all their former success; Wade and Dean, comedians, create plenty of laughter; and Frances Haskoll remains a second week and now gives her well-known chameleon scena instead of illustrated songs. Jack Charman is a young vocalist who sings unhackneyed ballads well; Madeline Rossetti, vocalist, banjoist, and cake-walk dancer, gains applause; and Chas. Bowker, the singing cobbler, has a pleasant tenor voice.

BATLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr and Mrs J. Edward Whitty; Resident Manager, Mr G. M. Hurst.—Mr Bert Coote's company commenced a week's engagement here on Monday with The Fatal Wedding. Mr Ernest Owttrim gave a pleasing representation of Howard Wilson; Mr Cecil Collins was a successful Robert Curtis; Mr J. Carl Lyle a good Toto, and Miss Carrie Fenton very capably assisted in the comedy element. Miss Theresa Osborne gave a pathetic rendering of the persecuted Mabel Wilson; Cora Williams was safely entrusted to the care of Miss Beatrice Whitney; and Miss Gladys Rose Jones was quite the attraction of the piece as Jessie.

BEDFORD.

BELFAST.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr James M'Cann; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr Wilfred Stanford.—Much pleasure is being evinced this week by Belfast playgoers at the annual visit of Mr F. R. Benson and his talented company, who are appearing in a répertoire of most attractive pieces. On Monday Othello was presented with Mr Benson in the title-rôle. Mr Benson's fine acting was deservedly accorded an enthusiastic reception. Mrs Benson played the rôle of Desdemona with exquisite charm, and her admirable conception delighted her hosts of Belfast admirers. Mr Arthur Whitby's Iago was a fine piece of acting. Nothing indeed could be more effective than his capital treatment of this difficult rôle. Mr Cyril Keightly, a clever actor and a decided acquisition to Mr Benson's company, could not easily be excelled in his finished impersonation of Cassio, and Miss Gertrude Scott was in every sense excellent as Emilia. Mr H. O. Nicholson's Duke of Venice was a capital assumption, and Mr Philip Saunders made an admirable Montano. On Tuesday The Taming of the Shrew was presented, and during the week Romeo and Juliet, Hamlet, and She Stoops to Conquer have also been presented.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr John P. Beardmore.—Another fine bill is being presented at this popular theatre, the leading attraction being provided by the Mannon Troupe in Uncle Yank. A novel entertainment is submitted in Valvero's Naval Bombardment. Mr George A. Booker and Miss Mabel Narbis appear in their well-known comedy creation The Interviewer, the vocalism of Miss Narbis being remarkably good. Stylo, the original hoop manipulator, upholds his enviable reputation in his performance, and the Five Bon-Bons create the heartiest laughter with their smart pantomime trap scene entitled Hot Time for One. Also appearing with every element of success are Miss Beatrice Bonne, a charming comedienne; Miss Annie Fielding and Mr Bert Hull, comedy duo; and Miss Flo Cecil, vocalist and dancer.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Brook.—The Aurora Troupe top the bill and have created quite a sensation with their acrobatic cycling feats, which are certainly remarkably clever. Hilton and Hilton, comedy bar performers, submit a capital performance; and Mueller and Coyne appear to great advantage in their comedy act, Mr Harry Lawson is a humorous comedian with a capital style, and the Three Victorias, talented song and dance artistes, have been accorded a splendid reception. Mr Charles Diamond, whose harp solos are such a feature of any variety programme, and Miss Beatrice, who plays the saxaphone to perfection, have received well-merited approval; and the Korries play a number of musical instruments to perfection. Also here are Miss Edie Veno, a good vocalist, and Mr Charles Adams, comedian.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Henry T. Downs.—The leading position at this old-established hall (so ably managed by Mr H. T. Downs) is held by Mr Imro Fox, the famous comic conjuror, whose novel and decidedly smart entertainment has been received with enthusiasm. The Arthur Lloyd Trio appear in their well-known entertainment entitled Little Charlie, or the Twin Sister, which has been most successful, and is a strong feature of the bill. A welcome return visit is being paid by Miss Gladys Mavius, the celebrated comedienne, whose vocalism is first-class, and her dancing the very poetry of motion. Mr Charles Best, comedian, stages a novel act entitled M'Bunker, the Mountebank, and Mr A. Robinson, a capital local comedian with good songs, commands much favour. Weisker Brothers' Bioscope provide some new pictures this week, which are vastly entertaining, and others appearing are Harry Hayton, comedian; Flo Varley, comedienne; and Mr G. H. Keith, actor-vocalist.

IMPERIAL HIPPODROME AND CIRCUS. — Proprietors, Messrs Carter and Bosco; General Manager, Mr Irving Bosco; Assistant-Manager, Mr Geo. Dobler.—To the great regret of the Belfast public it has been announced that this week marks the finish of the present successful season at this popular place of amusement. A splendid programme is provided for the closing week, the chief turn being supplied by the Albano Troupe in their refined musical act, their manipulation of many musical instruments being exceedingly clever; a sensational vaulting act is performed by Les Levetts; and the act provided by the Seltino Troupe is quite a feature of the programme. Princess Annie, the accomplished equestrienne, concludes this week her highly successful engagement; and Funny Burgess creates roars of laughter with his humorous sayings. Others included in the programme are the Smith Family, who are very clever; Jean Steckles, the Newmarket jockey; the highly talented Sloan Family, &c. Wednesday last was set apart for a complimentary benefit to the popular acting-manager, Mr George Dobler. The success achieved by the Hippodrome has in a very large measure been due to his energetic efforts.

BERWICK-ON-TWEED.

CORN EXCHANGE.—Secretary, Mr A. L. Miller.—Messrs Hogg and Mackintosh on the 20th inst arranged for Florizel Von Reuter to give a recital in the above-mentioned hall. He rendered the following items in a marvellously accurate manner:—Concerto in D, Paganini; "Zigeunerweisen," Sarasate; Faust Fantasie, Wieniawski. This wonderful boy, who was encored repeatedly, was supported by Mr Arthur Newstead, who rendered several solos on the piano in a manner which called forth applause. Miss Eleanor Athelstan, with a fine soprano voice, sang pleasingly. Mr Arthur Crosby was the accompanist.

BILSTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—Greed of Gold, by Mr T. Morton Powell's company, is being performed here this week. Mr Charles Coleman as Arthur Errol gives an excellent impersonation; and Miss Daisy Halling is a true representative of Dora. Then we have Messrs T. G. Warry, H. Creamer, and B. Fox doing capital work in the rôles of Brightson, Conn, and Tom Welstead respectively. Miss Hetty Woods plays nicely as Cecil.

BIRKENHEAD.

THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell. — Mr Louis Calvert's company is fulfilling an engagement here with Sunday, and it is deservingly commanding extensive patronage. Miss Jean Stirling Mackinlay gives a fine performance of the title-rôle, a part peculiarly suited to her undoubted abilities. Tom Oxley is capitally illustrated by Mr Ernest B. Douglas; Mr Charles B. Vaughan is a fine representative of Arthur Brinthorpe; and Mr J. Edward Pearce is well suited as Colonel Brinthorpe. Messrs Frederick Powell, John H. Manley, T. Norman Walter, and Whitford Kane are worthy of special commendation as the "boys." Miss Elizabeth Watson is an efficient Mrs Naresby, and Miss Helen Macgregor as the Nun acquits herself with distinction. The play is capitally staged, and both company and piece have created an excellent impression here.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Mr Arnold Bell's company opened on Monday in Ben My Chree, with Mr Bell in his well-known impersonation of Dan Mylrea. Miss Lilian Earle appears to great advantage as Mona; Ewan Mylrea is well played by Mr F. Robson; and the Deemster is powerfully portrayed by Mr F. Marlow. Other parts are suitably enacted, and the week's productions have also included The Shaughraun, The Ticket-of-Leave Man, and The Octoroon, all of which have been effectively staged.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Manager Mr D. J. Clarke.—Miss Peggy Pryde heads the company this week. Caban's trained ponies and dogs are also a leading attraction and are certainly marvels of sagacity. The Autos in a clever musical act are a decided novelty, and the O'Malleys, entertaining comedians, have made a hit. Prominent turns are also given by Miss Alice Oakley, balladist; Mr Frank Whiteley, an able character comedian; and Mr Charles Somers, also a comedian of ability. The programme is diversified by an excellent display of the Bioscope.

BRIGHOUSE.

ALBERT THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr T. Morton Powell; Business-Manager, Mr M. Manley.—Mr J. A. Campbell's company, in the drama entitled The Sin of Her Childhood, occupies the boards here this week. Miss Mary Fulton plays the part of Mary Haysel with much credit, whilst Little Dot Moss as Hannah Spry, in her songs, &c., has become a great favourite.

BIRMINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr Philip Rodway.—The Babes in the Wood grows in favour at every performance, so successful have the various artistes proved in building up and strengthening their respective characters. Appearances point to a long run.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr Henry Johnston.—The Forty Thieves also enjoys the fullest favour, being in point of fact an unequivocal success from the first. This success, which increases daily and nightly, is well merited, for a better production, or a finer cast, could scarcely be devised, and a long reign will naturally ensue.

GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr Victor Turner.—The last week of the Turner opera season has been distinguished by the inclusion of several old favourites which have met with cordial receptions. Carmen, with Miss Chrystal Duncan in the titular rôle and Mr J. W. Turner as Don José, has been duly acclaimed; and Mr John Ridding as Escamillo, Miss Kitty Brownlee as Michaela, Miss Jessie Dennis as Mercedes, and others, including the excellent chorus, shared in the honours. Tännhauser, in which exacting rôle Mr F. J. Hargrave scored to the Elizabeth of Miss Chrystal Duncan, has been repeated, plus The May Queen, Maritana, Hansel and Gretel, The Daughter of the Regiment, and The Bohemian Girl. The Waterman has also been revived, with Mr J. W. Turner as Tom Tug. Mr T. Lawton has throughout the season wielded the bâton with his accustomed care and skill.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Lester Collingwood. — Dick Whittington is another success of the first order, packed audiences nightly rocking with uncontrollable laughter at this truly comic and pretty pantomime.

METROPOLE THEATRE. — Manager, Mr Walter Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Hindle Taylor.—The Girl Who Lost Her Character concludes a most successful fortnight's engagement to-night (Saturday). For Friday (last night) a "phrenological contest" had been arranged for Birmingham girls, which premised a novel and agreeable diversion.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr Ben Sydney.—Honour Thy Father furnishes an excellent play, the moral of which gains considerably in effect from Mr T. Morton Powell's present company. Mr J. W. Evelyn portrays the anguished father with true pathos. Miss Mabel Coleman as the erring daughter brought to repentance wins the entire sympathies of the house; Miss Kate Newton is successful as the wife; and Miss Kitty Russell acts well as Mercy Merry. Mr Douglas B. Watson gives tone and colour to the rôle of Jack Halyard; Mr Juan De Alberti arouses the proper spirit of antipathy by his clever acting as Duncan Bly; and Mr Claude Merton in a double rôle, Mr Frank Eden, who acts equally well as both manager and "Dr. Sleek;" Messrs W. H. Melrose, Walter Dale, and Miss Lizzie Moorley are successful.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr Charles Barnard; Manager, Mr Dan Barnard. — Dick Whittington was produced here on Monday by Mr Howard Hinton, whose annual incursion is again attended with much success. Miss Kitty Phelps proves a handsome, dashing, and melodious hero. Miss Daisy Clements acts and sings as Alice in a most prepossessing way. Miss Violet Welsh is winsome as Princess Charming, and Miss Gracie Clements is prominent as the Fairy Goodwill. Mr Harry Rennior is fully appreciated for his clever witticisms as Idle Jack; Mr Mount Stephens is humorous as Fitzwarren; and the other comedians, Messrs Tom R. Seymour, Steve Cooke, H. H. Hastings, the Bowery Boys (in their comic boxing act), and Harry Cardoe (as the cat) do exceedingly well. Prof. Yawta appears with his wonderful performing dogs, and the transformation scene and harlequinade are preserved in this bright and musical production.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr A. W. Matcham. — The principal item this week is an exciting racing turn between a racehorse and a cyclist, presented by Walthour and Kreamer. The acrobatic pantomime act of the Vasilesen Troupe is loudly applauded; the daring feats of the Three Navarros and the skating act of Les Vicentinas are exceptionally smart; Katie Butler contributes songs in her happiest manner; and the Sisters Jonghmanns, Meistersingers; Pia Carozzi, harpist; Paul Mill, Albert Whelar, and Chas. Cardow, comedians, complete the programme.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Albert Bushell. — Tina Clements, with her horse and troupe of dogs, is responsible for clever tricks; the Four Jumels have an excellent musical act; the Attilla Bros. give a smart athletic display; and the trapeze act of the Sisters Trentanovi is neat. Alec Kennedy is well received for his songs; Norman French and Effie White gain popularity for their clever dances; and other excellent turns are Harry Tomlinson and Minnie Florence, who are responsible for some good songs.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—The Six Brothers Luck are entertaining large audiences with their pantomime sketch The Hermit; Lottie Lennox is loudly encored for her songs; acrobatic turns are submitted by the Pichel Troupe and Keen and Waller; and Melaine, the Brothers Claruz, Emma and Victor, Edna Groves, Marquis Iton, and the Densmores, in their absurdity Early Morning in the Kitchen, are well received.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr Edward Foster.—A feature of this week's programme are the violin selections rendered by Jan Rudenyi, whose performance is loudly encored. The Sarnthaler Troupe are responsible for some excellent singing and dancing, as also is Lily Currie. Alice Maydue puts plenty of humour into her songs, and Mersano, conjuror; Sinclair and Parr, May Tyler, Martin and Quigg, Charles Danton, and Francis and Melli are also here.

MASONIC HALL.—Catlin's Royal Pierrots commenced a short season here on Monday. Their songs, dances, sketches, and musical entertainment are in the capable hands of Messrs W. Catlin, F. Blythe, E. Preston, Tom Fox, Charles Lewis, G. Frere, and G. Houghton.

BLACKBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Harry Yorke; Business-Manager, Mr Reginald Yorke.—A Trip to Chinatown, under the management of Mr Leslie Norman, forms the attraction this week. Mr Norman himself appears quite successfully as Rashleigh Gay; Mr Will Smith is very good as Noah Heap; and Mr Charles Sequin is amusing as Welland Strong. Miss Kitty Marion plays the Widow, her singing being much admired. Miss Daisy Revett and Mr Jerrold Manville are also very good as Flirt and Ben Gay.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr E. H. Page.—Miss Daisy De Roy's company in the pantomime of Dick Whittington is here this week. Mdlle. Lucretia is a sprightly Dick, and receives adequate support from Miss De Roy as Alice. Mr J. C. Bland is funny as Jack, and Mr Joe Bond successfully plays Eliza, the cook. Mr Paul Courteney and the Barrasford Boys also add to the success.

PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr F. Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Will Murray; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Drury.—Lockhart's Elephants head the bill at this place of amusement. The Four Burnells give a good turn. Other items in an excellent programme are furnished by Wat Tyler, the Brontis, the Lomas Trio, Orpheus, Zarmo, Gilroy and Cross, and the Wartenberg Brothers.

BLACKPOOL.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr J. R. Huddlestone. — Cinderella, played by Messrs Forge and Dalton's company, is the fare here this week. The title-part is cleverly acted by Miss Lizzie Primer, whose tuneful singing is a very pleasing feature; whilst Miss Chummie La Mara makes an ideal Prince Paragon. Miss Julie Alexander ably sustains the part of Dandini; Miss Gertrude Saville is good as Pert; and Miss Louie Dennison finds favour as the Fairy Sunshine. The fun providers are Messrs Fred C. Brookes (Angelina), Little Tony (Seraphina), Johnny Chippendale (Baron Bunker), John Forge (Nabber), and Ted Lemiere (Nailem), who are all very good in their respective parts. Specialities are supplied by Midlle. Dorina and Mr George Bright, dancers; the Swift Trio of cyclists, and the original Musical Japs.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr T. Sergenson.—Messrs Haddon and Loader's Jack and the Beanstalk company is giving the utmost delight to big houses here this week. The performance is an admirable one in every respect. Miss Bessie Shelley as Jack and Miss Pattie Bella as Dora are very successful both in their acting and singing. Mr Jay Laurier works hard as Silly Billy, and Mr Harry Harrop makes a hit as Dame Trotter. Messrs Kydd and Kydd impersonate the Squire's flunkeys (Dip and Dap), the Squire himself being capitally portrayed by Mr Reg Bolton. The special features introduced include the Cameron Glee Singers and the Continental Trio of dancers. The costumes and scenery are greatly admired.

PALACE.—General Manager, Mr G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Waller.—Another big programme is found here this week. Rosina Caselli, with her troupe of Chihuahua dogs, proves a big draw, whilst Nellie Coleman is always sure of a warm welcome. She has some capital songs, which she renders in her own clever style. Eugene Jolly is a smart cornet player; Ivy Graham is a good comedienne; Goggin and Davis give an acrobatic show; Vanola performs some remarkably clever balancing feats; Dome gives a clay modelling exhibition; Vandioff does lightning sketches; J. H. Milburn is a favourite comedian; and Joe Almasio supplies a juggling turn.

BOLTON.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Hermann.—Mr Elliston's pantomime of Dick Whittington and His Cat finishes this week a short but very successful run. Mr Tom Foy as Idle Jack continues to keep the house in a perpetual roar of laughter, and he is ably supported by Mr Jack Foy, Miss Nellie Dale, Mr Bert Byrne, Mr Will Musgrave, and Mr Ted Foy, with Miss Ethel Newman as Dick Whittington and Miss Clara Reid as Alice Fitzwarren. On Wednesday evening Mr Elliston, the enterprising managing director, took his twenty-fifth annual benefit, on which occasion, by kind permission of Mr Walter Melville, two scenes from Boucicault's drama Formosa were given, in addition to the pantomime, in which Mr Elliston appeared in his original character of Bob Sanders, the part he first played in the old Theatre Royal, Bolton, twenty-five years ago. He was supported by Mr Tom Foy as Sam Bowker and other members of the company. A turn was given by Mr W. H. Frame, Scotch comedian. The bénéficiaire addressed the vast audience, commenting on his long connection with the Theatre Royal, Bolton, and announced future engagements.

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Kenyon.—There is a good company engaged here, headed by Mr W. H. Frame, Scotch comedian, who has found many admirers. Other turns are the Saxon Trio, in their sensational and unrivalled strong act; the Zazas, low comedy duettists; Haldyne Trio, in their vocal comedy duologue act The Curate's Dilemma; Harry Morris, humorous mimic and comedian; Ernesto, juggler and musical equilibrist; Oline and Clark, black and white comedy artists and speciality dancers; Baroni and Kemp, Protean artistes; Evelyn Taylor, male impersonator; Arthur Elvy, vocal comedian; and the Imperial Bioscope.

OHMY'S CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—A complete change of programme has been submitted here, and comprises Mrs Dudley Smith, in a leaping act on her favourite mare, Dainty Lass; the Leopold Leglere Troupe of acrobats, who do some clever tricks; Claude Ohmy as Zoza, a lady equestrienne; Alveo and Zeco, in a smart gymnastic performance in mid-air; Mr W. Gilbey, in his ladder performance; Mons. Viuelo, perch performer; the Brothers France, acrobats; concluding with the laughable farce The Mad Tinker by the entire company.

BOOTLE.

ROYAL MUNCASTER.—Proprietors, Messrs Pennington; Manager, Mr Albert E. Wilson.—The 10 30 Down Express is paying its third visit here this week, and still remains as popular as ever. Mr Scott Leighton is a powerful James Inderwick, and Jack O'Malley has a manly representative in Mr H. T. Wood. The comedy is in the safe hands of Mr Horace Stanley as Sam Waggstaffe and Miss Kate Kilpack as Peggy Potts. Miss Effie Bartlett is convincing and sympathetic as Bessie Leigh, and a capital character sketch comes from Miss Evelyn M. Walton as Letitia Leigh.

BOSCOMBE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr F. Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Mr T. Jarman's company is here with In Dark Siberia. Mr H. Tarrant is good as Dr. Yeroslaff, and Mr W. T. Riley's manly impersonation of Captain Victor Gordon wins the sympathy of the house. Mr Wilson Howard's effective rendering of Major Waroff is equally successful. Miss Cecilia Ransome is excellent in the part of Paul Gregorovitch, and Miss Ethel Bickham does well as Sonia Gordon. Miss Carlotta Anson gives a most commendable rendering of the rôle of Princess Natalie Orloff.

BOURNEMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Mrs Russ Whytal's company in The Cardinal commenced a week's engagement here on Monday. Mr Philip Cunningham plays the name-part in an exceedingly able manner; the Clariela De Medici of Miss Katherine Maude is a careful study; Mr Gerald Kay-Souper does full justice to the part of Giuliano De Medici; as Bartolomme Chigi Mr Oscar Adye contributes a sound piece of acting; and to Mrs Russ Whytal as Filiberta much of the success of the play is due, the character being most sympathetically rendered. Mr George Ingleton as Baglioni and Mr Douglas Gordon as Strozzi are convincing.

BRADFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Pemberton. — Last Tuesday Mr E. St. Alban and company presented the musical dream play Alice in Wonderland, as a feast for the youngsters. Miss Ida Thompson displayed wonderful intelligence in her interpretation of the part of Alice; Mr St. Alban was quaint and humorous as the Mad Hatter, and Mr J. W. Hooper as Tweedledum and Mr Sidney Benson as Tweedledee elicit screams of laughter from the juveniles. Miss Madge Western majestically fills the rôle of Queen of Hearts, and Mr G. Handel as the King, Mr J. E. Cowell as the Knave, and Mr L. Sandown as the Executioner were particularly noticeable amongst the many capital impersonations. The performance is billed for repetition on Wednesday and Thursday, Mr Hart's charming pantomime Cinders, as usual, being presented in the evenings.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr N. Hepworth.—Robinson Crusoe is now running merrily, and the bright production has fully justified the favourable comments passed upon it.

EMPIRE. — Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr J. J. Kelly.—The Dandies give a dainty entertainment, and the Caledonian Boys are reappearing with success as an excellent concert combination. George Adams, baritone, is also paying a welcome return visit. In the acrobatic line the Five Ulracs are clever and amusing, and the Trapnell Family give a graceful and smart display. Ella Retford's turn as a comedienne is very acceptable. Miss Winona Winter, assisted by the comedian, W. H. Banks, in her comedy playlet, When I Help Ma to do the Washing, displays commendable versatility and talent; George Newburn wins unstinted applause for clever mimicry; Walter Munroe, Irish comedian and dancer, submits a capital turn; and the Three Donals on the rings give a fine athletic performance.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr J. W. Berry.—The top of the bill turn here this week is given by the Southern Nightingale, Ella Shields, and her charming Californian Quartet of dancers, whose coon display is enjoyable. Some marvellous barrel and chair jumping is accomplished by the Wynford Bros.; Leslie Murray proves himself an adept in the manipulation of cards; Walter Wallace submits a good comic song in humorous style; a funny sketch, The Man in Possession, is capitally acted by Blake and Granby; the Darrell Trio give a good musical entertainment; in his entertainment, "The Magic of Japan," Max Sterling does some wonderful tricks; a cleverly manipulated marionette show by the Sisters Petram is much enjoyed by the audience, who award George D'Albert triple encores for his humorous and well rendered descriptive songs.

BRIDLINGTON.

ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE. — Manager, Mr Charles Palmer.—Miss Lena Stanton's capital company is appearing here this week in the pantomime Dick Whittington and His Cat. Miss Stanton as Dick carries all before her by her smart acting, dancing, and talented vocalisation—in fact, she is an ideal principal boy, both in face and figure. Miss Marie Gerard is a lively Alice, her songs and dances being very good. Miss Millie Maxwell and Miss Millie Burnett are very smart as Lord Bob and Sir Plunger, and Miss C. Shannons scores as Princess Pre-Tee. Mr George James is quite at home as Alderman Fitzwarren; Mr Bruce Green as Margarine proves himself a very versatile comedian; and he is ably assisted by Mr Alf Brooks as Idle Jack. Mr Harry Jay as the Emperor of Morocco shines in both song and story, and his ventriloquial work with "Ginger" is excellent. Little Keeno, the boy comedian, is remarkably clever for one so young, and his songs and dances are well received. A word of praise is due to Joe Pauletti for his acting as the Cat, and also for his clever trick cycling. The Cecil Troupe of lady acrobatic dancers shine in their speciality dances, and the staging and dressing of the pantomime are very good.

BRIGHTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harcourt M. Beryl.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company is here this week with Cousin Kate. Miss Edith Walker gives a bright and charming impersonation of Kate Curtis; Mr Walter Ringham makes an admirable Heath Desmond; Mr Donald Maclean is well suited as the Rev. James Bartlett; Miss Nina Cressy displays able acting as Mrs Spencer; Miss Hilda Honiss is highly effective as Amy Spencer; Master Vyvian is a capital Bobby Spencer; and Miss Betty Castle's Jane merits praise. The comedy is preceded by A Case for Eviction.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Bernhardt; Resident-Manager, Mr H. De Groot.—The fairy play, The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe and the Spelling Bee has been doing a good business here. Prominent among the successful artistes are Miss Decima Brooke, who makes a very engaging Beatrix, and Mr Arthur St. George, who gives an excellent impersonation of the old woman, Mistress Shoe.

GRAND THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr W. F. Crowe.—The pantomime Little Red Riding Hood continues to attract crowded houses here. It has been materially improved with new songs, dances, and humorous business. Miss Blanche Vincent acts and sings with great charm as Prince Peerless; Miss Madge makes a dainty and winsome Miss Muffitt; Little Rosie Campbell is an engaging Red Riding Hood; Mr Dave O'Toole is a host in himself as Dame Trott; while Messrs Sandford and Lyons (Johnny Stout and Jimmy Green) are amusing and dance admirably. Miss Iren Rose sings tastefully as Fairy Sunshine; Mr Charles Russell is capitally suited as the Baron; the Sisters Lunelle (Tommy Tucker and Margery Daw) win great favour by their nimble and graceful dancing; and Miss Nora Aitkin as the Herald gives her lines with clear enunciation. The Tally-Ho Trio deserve unstinted praise for their artistic and humorous singing.

WEST PIER. — Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr A. D Norman.—The fairy extravaganza, Bluebell in Fairyland, entered upon its last week here on Monday. It has attracted crowded and delighted audiences, and Miss Rosalie Jacobie as Bluebell and Mr Walter Cranch as Dicky and the Sleepy King merit unstinted praise for their admirable impersonations.

COLISEUM.—Licensee and Director of Entertainments, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr C. Smith-Wilkes.—The following are here this week:—George Dainton, who sings "England, Home, and Beauty," and, assisted by his toy fox terrier Biddy, gives a vocal naval scena; Zard, a Spanish Moor, in an oriental speciality; Irene Meldon, comedienne and dancer; Alf Davis, comedian and actor-vocalist; the Two Harveys (Jack and Polly), acrobatic comedy artistes; Ernest Sewell, conjuror and illusionist; Bessie Travis, girl ventriloquist; the Mozondos in their comedy barrel and tumbling act; Pattie M'Carthy, comedienne; and the Coliseum pictures.

BRISTOL.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Macready Chute.—Crowded houses continue to be the rule here, all the reserved seats being booked weeks ahead. The popular opinion is that The Sleeping Beauty will prove to be about the most successful pantomime produced at the Prince's; for not only is the company an excellent one, but the elaborate spectacles are mounted on a scale of magnificence quite equal to, if not actually surpassing, former years. Miss Lil Hawthorne is highly successful as Prince Florizel; she acts the part really well, and sings her songs in artistic style. Miss Zena Dare is pleasingly refined as Princess Beauty: she has a new song, "Navaho," which is pretty, and has an effective refrain. Miss Dare sings her new song charmingly, and concludes with a graceful dance, in which she is joined by Miss Williams (of the Tiller Troupe), assisted by an invisible chorus. The comedians keep the pantomime going in lively style, much credit being due to Mr W. H. Rawlins, Mr Lionel Victor, Mr George Miller, Mr Albert Le Fre, and Messrs Drew and Alders for the capital way in which they all work together. The matinées on Thursdays and Saturdays are also well attended.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter.—Robinson Crusoe is very successful, the pantomime is dressed with taste and liberality, the scenery is especially good, and it is well performed by a very capable company. Both Miss Ethel Campbell and Miss Margery Moore are successful in their respective parts of Robinson and Polly Perkins; they have good songs and specialities, and throughout do full justice to their rôles. Miss Minnie Love is pleasing as the Princess Carina, and she can both sing and dance in good style. The Sisters Warner have some excellent specialities of song and dance, and they also play well as Billee Taylor and Nancy Lee. The comedians are all smart in their respective parts, and they put in some capital dancing and funny interludes.

PALACE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace Livermore; Secretary, Mr F. J. V. Welchman.—This week Alec Hurley heads the bill with his latest success The Coster's Friendly Lead, supported by numerous auxiliaries, and the old favourite, Lambeth Walk, is also announced for later in the week. Other good turns are provided by Arthur Reece, with some taking songs and topical illusions; Nelson and Thomas, in their absurdity On the Ra-Ta; Wright and Elton (Crazy and Daisy), in an amusing speciality; the Mezzettis, in their smart triple bar speciality, "The New Recruit;" George Foyle, a character vocalist of ability; Miss Alexandra Edwin, a soprano vocalist of considerable merit; E. J. Sheldon, an acceptable speciality comedian; and Miss Amy Sulivan, a pleasing comedienne, with taking songs. The performance concludes with a good display of Vernon's animated pictures.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—The leading turn here is provided by Tom M'Inerney, champion wrestler. Offers of £10 and £50 are made to competitors on certain time limits, and much interest is taken in the bouts with local wrestlers. The Hilgart Arkas Troupe perform many clever acts of agility and strength in "Scenes in a Restaurant." Permane Brothers do a smart eccentric acrobatic act; Leonard and Francis have an amusing "Bull Fight" acrobatic act; Gardner, Griffin, and Gardner have an amusing absurdity, The Ratcatcher; Toch and Tard, burlesque artistes, do a good turn; Wal Croft, Scottish comedian, is successful with funny songs, &c.; and Amiel, contortionist, is certainly an expert in his line. The performance, two shows a-night, concludes with some interesting animated pictures.

BROMLEY (KENT).

LYRIC THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr F. B. Woolstenhulme.—Mr Geo. Kirk and Miss Mary Neil's company, in Judy; or, the Fatal Hand, has been playing to appreciative audiences this week. Grip, the three-fingered detective with the inscrutable face, needed no better exponent than Mr Geo. Kirk, and Mr Richard Ferris gave a powerful interpretation of the villain, Duburg, the manly character of Sterling, the banker, being adequately dealt with by Mr Wm. Vane. Mr Will Cassey quickly ingratiated himself as Jim, the coster; a capital representation of Giddles, the never-sober showman, being given by Mr. W. Wright. Of the ladies in the cast nothing but praise can be said, and the difficulties of the dual-rôle of Alice (the victim) and Polly (the coster) are no difficulties to Miss Mary Neil; while the portrayal of Blake (the wretch) was a clever exhibition of talent by Miss Violet Langley. Little Miss Florrie Groves, however, as the extraordinarily precocious child of the streets, "Judy," claimed the greatest share of applause, and her performance was in every way worthy of it.

BURNLEY.

GAIETY.—Proprietress, Mrs T. Culeen; Manager, Mr Jas. Culeen.—The Drama of Life, played by Messrs Carson and Granville's capable company, is proving an attraction here this week. Mr Walter Steele gives a fine performance of the detective Brenton; Harry Beech is excellently played by Mr Jerrold Ord, and Mr John Hooker submits a lifelike impersonation of the villainous Walter Beech, Miss Cissy Bellamy gives a clever study of the part of Sylvia Beech; Miss Nellie Daly makes the most of Betty Black; Miss Marie Murray is a capital Master Beech; and Mr Owen Redmonde as Sir Dobson Wilde and Miss Muriel English as Lady Wilde give every satisfaction.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr W. C. Haines.—An excellent programme has been arranged for this week. Misses Gallagher and Hild receive warm applause; the Vivians submit an excellent musical travesty; Shang Ho, Jap juggler, gives a wonderful entertainment; the Sisters Magelini Mulleni provide an interesting and clever turn; Viola, wireless telegraph artist, is hugely appreciated; Mystery Gauze is very clever; Mr Ted Cowan, comedian, renders several acceptable contributions; and the Empire Biograph submits a variety of interesting pictures.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr John Waller.—Pantomime is again the attraction here this week, Mr Henry Eglington bringing his talented company with The Babes in the Wood. Miss Tilley Stewart, a dashing Robin Hood, in conjunction with Miss Florence Brandon, an ideal principal girl, give their songs and dances in capital style. The Babes, represented by Miss Cissie Williams and Miss Eileen Lovelle, are sympathetic. An efficient Fairy Gloworm is found in Mdlle. Ella Rose; Baron Graball is well placed in the hands of Mr Harry Harcourt; the Dame Durden of Mr Henry Eglington is an extremely droll performance; Mr Harold Perry is sufficiently vindictive as the Gnome, giving a military song during the Palace Scene in a spirited and telling manner. Mr Harry Talbot and Mr H. St. John Stewart are responsible for some genuine fun.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS.

ATHENÆUM HALL.—Manager, Mr E. A. Crack.—Mr Lilford Arthur's company, with Jones's Jaunt, has been here for one night. The piece was played with much spirit, Mr Collette as Jones creating great merriment by his humorous performance. As Smith Mr E. Wintour entered keenly into the fun. Miss R. Chester makes a charming Dollie Bond, Miss Irene Ross as her daughter being well to the front. Miss R. Bury is excellent as Kate, Jones's daughter, and Miss Mabel Luxmore plays cleverly as Beadle. Mr D. Sellar makes a good Tom Breeze

BURY (LANCS).

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—Mr Milton Bode's company is playing Puss in Boots here this week. The book, by Mr Hickory Wood, is funny. Mr Joe English as King Grabbas, Mr Billy Harmon as Baron Rumphiz, Mr Tommy Nelidon as Muggles, and Mr Harry Buckley as the dame are four very capable comedians. Miss Flo Challis is charming as Colin, and is well assisted by Miss Orpha Paris as Phyllis. There are specialities by the Edene Troupe of dancers and the Dandinis, comedy jugglers.

OLYMPIA CIRCUS OF VARIETIES. — General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—An excellent programme is provided here. The Lukushima Troupe of Japanese marvels give a capital show. Other items include the Stavordale Quintette of musicians; Clark and Argyle, pipers and dancers; Akbar, gymnast; George Scott, comedian; Harry Clyo and Rose Rochelle, vocalists; and W. H. Downe, coloured vocalist.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr W. Broadhead, jun.—The bill here includes Franko Bros., conjurors; Chard's dogs; Mill May, vocalist; Arthur Albert, vocalist; Les Laurens; Harleno, paper manipulator; the Sisters Bartholomew, duettists and dancers; and Bruce and Ross, comedy artists.

CAMBRIDGE

NEW THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr W. B. Redfern, J.P.D.L.—On the first three nights of this week The Earl and the Girl was played here for the first time by Mr W. Greet's company. Mr Reginald Switz works hard and successfully as Jim Cheese, and in his topical song, "I fancy I'd be satisfied for life," he introduced several smart lines of local interest. Miss Cynthia Carey as 'Liza gave him material assistance; Miss Mary Fraser was simply delightful as Elphim Haye, all her songs being sweetly rendered, particularly "In Zanzibar;" Mr Alec Fraser as Dick Wargrave, though suffering from a bad cold, also acquitted himself smartly, his song, "The Cosy Corner Girl," being much to the taste of the audience; Mr Haddon Cave as the Hon. Crewe Boodle made a great hit in "Here come the Grenadiers; Miss Maud Aston gave a chic representation of Daisy Fallowfield; Miss Maud Adams was very much in evidence as Mrs Shimmering Black; Mr H. B. Brandreth as A. Bunker Bliss, was convincing; Mr Tom Edwards made a good Downham, the American solicitor; and Mr W. T. Hybert was capital as his English confrère. Mdlle. Maud Schwitz showed herself to be a graceful and pretty dancer.

CARDIFF.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Robert Redford.—Mr Robert Redford has made a good beginning with his new season, having secured the welcome engagement of the D'Oyly Carte principal opera company. On Monday the house was packed with an enthusiastic audience, the piece presented being The Gondoliers. Mr Fred Billington as Don Alhambra was accorded his usual hearty reception; Mr C. H. Workman as the Duke of Plaza-Toro received very flattering applause; the difficult parts of Marco and Guiseppe Palmieri were capitally portrayed by Messrs Pacie Ripple and Albert Kavanagh; Miss Alice Lisle as Casilda displayed her fine soprano voice to advantage; Miss Nora Maguire and Miss Jessie Rose as the Contadine Gianette and Tessa sang in excellent style; and Miss Theresa Rassam acted with dignity and sang sweetly as the Duchess of Plaza-Toro. The répertoire includes The Mikado, The Yeomen of the Guard, &c. On Wednesday afternoon, by kind permission of Mr Redford, a fine rendering of The Pirates of Penzance was given in aid of the Cardiff Infirmary.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Bateman; Business Manager, Mr Robert Sawlu.—The pièce de résistance here is the sensational convict melodrama Sentenced for Life, capitally presented by Mr Bulmer's company. Additional attraction is given to the piece by the fact that our popular lessee, Mr Frank Bateman, is the author, and Cardiffians are appreciating the fact by packing the house nightly. Mr Henry Lloyd as the hero Roy Stillwell, Mr Ernest Vaughan as the villainous Captain Derrick, and Mr Richard Greene as the Rev. Martin Orris all deserve high commendation for their excellent portrayals. Mr Ralph De Bulmer does extremely well as Henry Beckwith, and Mr Frank Zara as Percy M'Gentle is responsible for a very comical delineation. Miss Madge Douglas makes a charming Adele Gray, and Miss Florence Trevor an excellent Kate Rennel.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Lea.—The programme this week contains several well-known and popular names. Happy Fanny Fields is making a welcome reappearance and keeping her audiences as "happy" as herself. The popular Harriett Vernon presents her latest successes, and O'Gust, the mimic par excellence, displays his marvellous imitation. The Bros. Horne in their boxing sketch, Alf Gibson, the quaint comedian; and Carrie Laurie's Kindergarten are responsible for successful performances. Other capital turns are given by Ethel Ra Leslie, character vocalist; the Alfonso Trio in a novel juggling performance; Chas. Deane, comedian; and the Bohemians, musical artistes.

CARLISLE.

CASTLEFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor H. Masterman.—A Modern Adventuress is proving a powerful attraction here this week as presented by Messrs Carson and Granville's company. Miss Beatrice M. Anderson gives an able performance as Violet Meredith; Miss Alice Defoe as Vivette Delby is admirable; Wallace Danton is a thorough villain in the hands of Mr Edward M. Hamilton; Harry Delby is played in manly fashion by Mr Royce Carleton; William Delby is successfully enacted by Mr George D. Knight; Mr Leonard Aardale must be highly complimented on his admirable Pietro Donelli; Mr Evan Roland is prominent as the Yorkshireman John Crompton; and Mr George P. Lester as Detective Beale, with many disguises, makes the most of his opportunities. Miss Emily Custance as Sally Hodges contributes endless amusement, and Mr Leonard Montgomery renders admirable service as Steve Meredith.

CHELTENHAM.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr H. Oswald Redford.—Mr Martin Harvey and company opened their spring tour here on Monday before a crowded audience. Sydney Carton has never been more finely realised; from first to last it is a wonderful piece of work, and Mr. Harvey again holds the house throughout. Miss Amy Coleridge plays with her wonted grace and sympathy as Lucy Manette; Miss Grete Hahn as Mimi acts with simplicity and sweetness, sharing with Mr Harvey the honours of the final scene; Mr Charles Glenny submits a fine study of Defarge; Mr Percy Anstey's study as the young Evremonde is thoughtful, and as the elder Marquis in the prologue he does very well; Mr Fred Wright, sen., is an admirable Dr. Manette; Messrs Pat Alexander and Reeve Denbigh enliven the proceedings as Mr Lorry and Mr Stryver; Mr Chas. J. Cameron as the President of the Tribunal and Mr Geo. Cooke as the Public Prosecutor act with force and dignity; and Mr Arthur Maude contributes an impressive study of the dying peasant, Jean Defarge, in the prologue.

CHORLEY (LANCS.).

COLNE (LANCS).

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Gerald Harding.—The Beautiful Avenger, as presented by Mr Arthur Richmond's company, is all that can be desired both in regard to acting and scenic effects. Mr Algernon Syms gives a powerfully realistic impersonation of Cyrus Telford; Jim Jahms has a capital representative in Mr Arthur Richmond; and Zadox Foxbane and Herman Foxbane are in the able hands of Mr Edwin Walton and Mr Charles Doe. The rôle of Peregrine Patch is ably presented by Mr Bert Ellis; and chief interest is centred in the admirable embodiment of Vashti Volta by Miss Nannie Mead and the clever delineation of Edna Volta by Miss Cissie Podmore. A special word of praise must be given to Miss Lillian Morgan for her natural representation of Baldie Mansfield; and Miss Lillian Hawkins greatly enhances the play by her sprightly rendering of Arabella Binks.

CLYDEBANK.

COLCHESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr F. Graham Macdona.—The Brothers Renad are here this week in The Swiss Express. Mr Wilford Bailey as Dr. Gull and the Renads as the servants are most amusing and grotesque. The Four Brighton Girls contribute largely to the success of the performance by their clever dancing and topical singing.

CONSETT.

NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr Lloyd Clarance.—Mr J. F. Preston's company is here this week. On Monday Lady Godiva was presented. Miss Grace Lester gave a careful rendering of the title-rôle, and as Lady Aldwyth Miss Marcella Hudson was pleasing. Mr Jas. Duncan was a capable Leofric; as Algar Mr W. Howard Barlow was a complete success; Edgar lost nothing in the hands of Mr Reginald Brown; the comedy element was well supplied by Mr Dan F. Roe as Robin Shakelbolt and Miss Madge Boulter as Elfrida; Mr Clifford Marle was very good as Unwolf Unwolfsen; and as Tom o' Coventry Mr F. B. Woulfe displayed talent of no mean order. Nell Gwynne and Jane Shore have also been produced during the week.

CROYDON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Lawson Lambert; Acting-Manager, Mr Reginald Lawrence.—Mr Frederick Mouillot's company is receiving cordial greetings in the tuneful and entertaining comic opera My Lady Molly. In the title-rôle Miss Beatrice Edwards acts with great charm of manner, and makes many friends. Miss Zoe Gilfillan wins approbation in the part of Alice Coverdale; Miss Mabel Carr is very good as Hester; and Mdlle. Ebba Darcier is seen to advantage as Madeline Mirabeau. Mr Ernest Mozar is easy and natural in the rôle of Lionel Bland; Mr H. Godwin Hunt hits off to a nicety the part of Sir Miles Coverdale; and Mr George M'Closkie is brimful of genuine fun as Mickey O'Dowd. A good word is also due to Messrs Frederick Silverton, J. Walton, M. Stevens, and V. Gally as Reuben Oats, Judge Romney, the Head Groom, and Roger; whilst adequate impersonations of Alison and Lucy are given by Misses Hilda Marks and Kate Holmes. Mr Leonard Gautier's talented orchestra wins encomiums for their masterly rendering of the music.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr Newman Maurice.—The Midnight Mail is being creditably staged at the Royal this week. Mr Fred G. Evison is much appreciated in a well-thought-out rendering of Billy Brewer; Mr George Harvard is commendable as Harry Steyne; Mr Alec Alves is earnest as Leonard Royle; Mr Arthur Gilroy is well placed as Hassan Padisha; Mr Charles M'Cann is convincing as Donald Craig; Mr Warburton makes the most of his opportunities in the rôle of Edward Barclay; Mr C. P. Wentworth gives a neat character sketch of Jasper Thornleigh; and Mr M. O. Wills takes a prominent position as Sergeant O'Lynn. Miss Dolly Gilroy is a pretty little Patty; Miss Daisy Clifford is quite equal to the rôle of Lady Phyllis Eustace; Miss Mildred Carr is exactly suited to the vivacious part of Nancy Brewer; and Miss Ada Oakley wins much sympathy with her fine acting in the character of Mary Steyne.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Resident General Manager, Mr Eustace H. Jay.—The attractions here are again very good. Mr George Gray and company gain unstinted applause in the graphic and realistic sketch The Fighting Parson, which is admirably acted. Millie Howell is a high-class comedienne; Harrigan and Holt are a droll pair of patter comedians; Lillie Lassah is a pleasing serio and dancer; Marcelle Eirl is a pretty descriptive vocalist; Will Driscoll, comedian and dancer, is excellent; Les Frères Baptiste are clever in their juggling act; Little Bessie Spear is a smart song and dance artiste; and Rosie Cass, comedienne; Bert Lytton, comedian; Mabel Vine, serio; and the Sisters Redfern, banjoists, are also well received.

CORK.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr John Horgan.—The Moody-Manners' company opened here on Monday night with Bizet's opera, Carmen. The performance was of a very high standard. Mdlle. De Lussan as Carmen sang with excellent taste and judgment, and her acting was most artistic. Mr Joseph O'Mara as Don Jose was remarkably successful, his firm voice being heard to great advantage, and his acting in the scenes with Carmen, and particularly in the final scene, being full of dramatic power. Mr William Dever as Escamillo supplied a picturesque toreador, and gained an encore for the Toreador song. Miss Kate Anderson as Michaela was effective; as Mercedes Miss J. M'Carthy was successful; and the minor parts were filled capably as follows:—Il Remendado, Mr H. Bailey; Il Dancairo, Mr Charles Moppett; Morales, Mr N. Davidson; Zuniga, Mr G. Renshaw; and Frasquita, Miss N. Child. The choruses were well rendered, and the orchestra, under the conductorship of Herr Richard Eckhold, gave a finished rendering of the composer's rich orchestration. Il Trovatore, The Jewess, Mignon, La Traviata, and Maritana are in the répertoire.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Henry Kemble.—An excellent bill-of-fare is provided here. The principal turn is furnished by Atlas and Vulcana (brother and sister) who do some wonderful feats in weight-lifting. Charlie Williams pleases in his Negro songs, and he dances well; Olive Vane, male impersonator, gives a couple of pleasing songs; Tony Iveson is an excellent mimic and entertainer; May Geraldine sings some catchy airs, and is a pretty dancer; Kyoto does some good sleight-of-hand tricks, and is an excellent contortionist; La Modele is pleasing in her posing as classic figures; and Les Bollingers produce on a dark screen some beautiful landscape pictures composed of rags.

COVENTRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr Wm. Bennett.—A capital romantic play entitled A Royal Revenge is being presented at the above house this week by Mr J. H. Clyndes, supported by an excellent company. The piece is a collaboration of Adrian O'Connell, J. Fox, and Eugene M'Carthy. Mr J. H. Clyndes amply fulfils the part of Estevan Alvarez, who is afterwards seen to advantage as the Marquis De Santiago. Mr Charles Jordan is quite capable in the part of Manuel Mondega; Mr Jack Bigwood as Michael Sancha, a typical innkeeper, is responsible for a deal of merriment; Mr Geoffrey Broughton plays the pleasure-seeking King of Spain with success; Mr Richard Webb is a good Friar Dominic; Miss Bessie Elma capably portrays the part of Inez Alvarez; Miss Evelyn Shannon as Cora Casilda, a gipsy dancing girl, is admirable; and Miss Lizzie Lennon is a good Mother Maria Teresa.

CREWE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry Taylor.—The Moody-Manners Opera company has been paying a welcome return visit here, Carmen, presented on Monday, was greatly appreciated; Miss Teify Davis in the title-rôle acquitted herself in excellent fashion; Mr Charles Carter as Don Jose made a deep impression with his singing, his higher notes being especially noteworthy. Miss Grace Nicoll was very well received as Michaela, her sweet voice being much admired; Mr Walter Barratt achieved much success as Escamillo. The other parts were well sustained. Lohengrin was played to a good house on Tuesday with Miss Enriqueta Crichton as Elsa. There was a matinée of Faust on Wednesday, and The Bohemian Girl occupied the evening bill; La Traviata was selected for Thursday, Tannhäuser for Friday, and the ever-popular Maritana is announced for to-day.

CROOK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Wallace Davidson, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr Wallace Davidson.—Messrs Callan and Croke's company is here in Florodora. As Dolores Miss Maud Lake is charmingly dainty, and her several songs are admirably rendered. — As Lady Holyrood Miss Cissy Sephton presents an artistic portrayal, and sings sweetly. Miss May Yates gives a bright impersonation of Angela, and Mr Frank Grans is a dashing Captain Donegal. Mr Arthur Lenville creates much amusement as Tweedlepunch, and Mr Wm. Everard, whose voice is heard to advantage in "Under the shade of the palms," is a manly Frank Abercoed. As Cyrus W. Gilfain Mr C. Young Fixott does well.

DARLINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manageress, Mrs T. W. S. Jennings.—Mr Brandon Thomas's company is here this week with Charley's Aunt. Mr Edmund Baker as Lord Fancourt Babberley gives an excellent performance; Mr M'Causland Stewart as Colonel Chesney is capital; Mr Henry Brame as Brassett is admirable; Jack Chesney and Charles Wykeham are well played by Messrs Edward Bonfield and Wylie Thompson; Mr Henry Nelson does well as Spettigue; Miss Gertrude Le Sage as the real Charley's Aunt gives great satisfaction; Miss Marion Fitzgerald is an acceptable Ela Delahay; Miss M. Scharning is successful as Kitty Verdon; and Miss E. Baker is a capable Amy Spettigue.

DARWEN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr E. L. Ormsby.—An enthusiastic reception was accorded on Monday to Messrs Griffin and Drake's successful pantomime of Dick Whittington. Miss Lily Jackson is an ideal Dick, her sprightly acting soon making her a great favourite; Miss Emmie Hands is a pleasing and attractive Alice, her numerous songs being tastefully rendered; Alderman Fitzwarren is capitally depicted by Mr Ben Ford, who, along with Mr Will Dennis as Idle Jack and Mr Mark Lane as Martha Muggins, is responsible for the fun. Mr Jack Simpson, a contortionist of ability, makes an excellent Cat. Miss Gladys Wells scores as Fairy Blue Bell, singing exceptionally well. Mr E. Jason combines the duties of general-manager with the rôle of the Emperor of Morocco successful, and Mr Ted Lambert is a good Demon King. The specialities include Mdlle. Luba De Sarema with a sensational display with a mountain bull, two ponies, bucking donkey, &c.; the Yorkshire Mill Lasses, who sing excellently; and the Sisters Brenton, in a capital exhibition of dancing.

DERBY.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr J. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr Charles Denley.—Mr Frank Curzon's company is this week giving the first productions locally of the popular Strand musical comedy Sergeant Brue. Mr Victor Widdicombe in the name part scores a complete success, and the Crookie Scrubbs of Mr Geo. Barrett is also a thoroughly satisfactory assumption. Mr E. Percy Rodgers as Michael Brue and Mr Arthur Stroud as Gerald Treherne are both praiseworthy. Mr Cyril Burt as Mr Crank interprets the rôle in a highly intelligent fashion, and Mr Harold Goodwin does well as Inspector Goringe. Miss Violet Dene is to be heartily complimented upon her depiction of Lady Bickenhall, and the gifted rendering of the songs allotted to her is equally pleasing. Miss Constance Lait plays well as Aurora Brue, and has a couple of songs which she contributes with considerable taste and effect. A clever and vivacious Daisy is found in Miss Eliza Earle.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Allan Edwardes.—The Magic Kettle, as the principal attraction here this week, is causing a great sensation, and local patrons are literally bewildered at its truly magical properties. Walter Adams, an exceedingly quaint comedian, is well received; Michel and Polo, two clever athletes, secure hearty marks of appreciation; and Steel and Laing, American speciality artists, merit special praise. Kavados is a skilful juggler and equilibrist, his feats with a cannon ball being duly acknowledged. Flo Melville, a pleasing comedienne and soubrette, soon finds favour with her audience. An amusing sketch is provided by Cavern and Cave, called An Early Morning Dip, and Le Hurst is well up in his polyphonic business.

DONCASTER.

NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. W. Chapman.—On Monday the romantic play entitled Way Men Love Women was successfully presented here by Messrs Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company. Mr Alfred Paumier gave an interesting rendering of Gerald Fielding; Mr Bensley Evans was well placed as Sergt. Stanloff; Tommy Fitzherbert, an English officer, had an able exponent in Mr W. G. Hardy; Mr Edwin Lever's interpretation of the Maharajah of Balore, a native prince, was acceptable; the Rev. Edward Grey was capably enacted by Mr R. Calvert Haws; and roars of laughter were evoked by Mr Harwood Roberts, whose impersonation of Orlando Figgins it would have been difficult to excel. Matilda Figgins was intelligently undertaken by Miss Marie Glynne. Miss Annie Saker upheld the responsibilities of the title-rôle with an easy confidence.

DUBLIN.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Limited; General Manager, Mr Charles Hyland.—The successful pantomime The Sleeping Beauty, which has entered on its fifth week here, continues to draw packed houses. An attraction has been added in La Loie Fuller, whose luminous creations are marvels of beauty.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr Arthur Armstrong.—The pantomime Puss in Boots, by J. Hickory Wood, was produced here on Monday, and was patronised by the Lord-Lieutenant, Countess Dudley, and Viceregal party. Miss Minnie Jeffs is captivating as Colin, rendering her vocal numbers in a charming manner. Mr Martin Adeson as King Grabbus and Mr Fred Lyne as Dame Shortly are irresistibly comic. As Fritz, the waiter, Paul Cinquevalli introduces some clever tricks; the rôle of Phyllis is excellently played by Miss Edith Adeson, her coon song and dance being much admired; and as Prince Rudolph Miss Dorothy Sephton displays considerable ability. The Cecilian Glee Singers are highly successful, and the same may be said of Tiller's Seperba Quartet of dancers. Miss Florence Esdaile gives a delightful rendition of the rôle of Princess Ivy (principal girl), singing her songs in a most cultured manner, and as Navaho Little Stella is applauded for her excellent dancing. Slyboots (king of cats) has an able representative in Bert Lloyd, and Miss Josephine Colona is seen to advantage as Felina. As Muggles and Digestus Mr Marriott Edgar and Mr Allan Davenport are both excellent. The scenery is magnificent and the dresses are beautiful.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. W. Whitbread; General Manager, Mr Kennedy Miller.—Mr Leslie Vyner's company is here this week with The Lightning's Flash. Mr Leonard Robson enacts the dual-part of Stephen and Mark Merrick, and Miss F. Russell Spiers effectively portrays the rôle of Kate Merrick. The part of Gordon Garville is capitally played by Mr Sydney Kearns, and Miss Blanche Vernon is all that can be desired as Selina Slack. Mr William Harridane is particularly good as Jim Bargiss; Miss Eva Reed makes pn acceptable Zuzu; the part of Toby Gander is played with success by Mr Harry M. Vernon; and as Sam Parker Mr Maurice Grant is satisfactory.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. S. Figgis.—The principal item this week is supplied by Robertus and Wilfredo, ball manipulators, whose clever performance meets with appreciation. Another excellent turn is that of the Loro Quartet of musical comedians, and the efforts of the Raies, duettists and dancers, are well rewarded. Rose Archer displays much ability as a mimic, and George Bohee meets with a hearty reception. Driscoll and Beattie do well in their sketch Major M'Fee, M.P., and Alice Simmons renders her vocal items in a charming manner. Mezzetti and Mora are expert bar performers; Charles Vincent is a smart comedian; and the Empire pictures are as pleasing as ever.

TIVOLI.—General Manager, Mr Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr H. A. Murphy.—Jack Ross and Sue Lewis, American speciality artistes, head the bill here this week and score a success. The Three Seabornes, equilibrists, supply welcome entertainment; John E. West is a capital Scotch comedian; the Three Sherrys, comedy acrobats, are well received; and Harland and Rollison are a clever pair of musical grotesques. Book Pylades' impersonations of past and present celebrities are exceedingly good; the Three Sisters Adrienne, comediennes, merit applause; Reddick Anderson is an excellent vocal comedian; and Comical Walker and his Nippers cause plenty of fun. Bessie Lind, comedienne, and Reklaw, rolling-globe performer, complete the programme.

DOVER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Limited; Managing Director, Mr F. C. Dew.—The delightful comedy The Marriage of Kitty, portrayed by Mr Frank Wilson and company, is paying a welcome return visit here this week. The cast has undergone some slight alteration since the play was here in July, but Miss Vera Fordyce still continues to charm all beholders by her natural, unaffected, and entirely womanly impersonation of Kitty. The honours of the evening are also shared by Miss Kate Harwood, whose brilliant rendering of the difficult part of Madame De Semiano is most striking and effective. A smart little French maid has been found in Miss Elsie Saville, and Norbury, as played by Mr F. Leighton, is a most amusing performance. Mr Leighton is also responsible for the excellent stage-management. To Mr Leslie Tyler the part of Sir Reginald Belsize has been given, and this gentleman proves himself an actor of exceptional talent and undoubted experience. Mr Frank Wilson, who is now playing John Travers, deserves congratulations on an earnest and convincing portrayal; and Mr Walter Craig is good in the minor rôle of Hampton.

DUMFRIES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr W. E. Potts.—We were favoured this week for the first three nights with Miss Blanche St. Albans and Mr J. Leicester Jackson's company, in Her One Great Sin. Mr Henry W. Hatchman as Reuben Warhurst, the village carpenter, was well placed; Mr J. Leicester Jackson as Arnold Thornhill was a success; Mr Fred Hodson as Jerry Jumble and Mr Charles E. Lambert as Dan Hundle were both very good; and Mr Jack Royston as Mr Benton was effective. Miss Blanche St. Albans as Grace Warhurst was responsible for a sympathetic rendering, and Miss Maudie Lambert as Little Gracie was very quaint. Macdonald's company, in My Lady Molly, came on Thursday.

DUNDALK.

TOWN HALL THEATRE.—Under the management of Mr Payne Seddon we have had a welcome visit from Mr Charles Macdona's company this week, in A Country Girl. As Barry Mr Walter Champney was excellent, keeping the house in high good humour. Miss Combe was a smart Nan and Miss Beatrice Rowe was very successful as Marjorie Joy. The rôle of Geoffrey Chaloner was quite safe in the hands of Mr Guy Williams, his singing being loudly applauded. Mr Jack Parson was very happy as the Rajah of Bhong; Miss De Lacey was a haughty Princess, playing her part with much ability; Mr Besley Beltram was a capital Douglas Verity, as well as being successful as stage-manager. Others who acted with ability were Miss Kitty Stone, Miss Laura Bagland, and Messrs George Stone, Wallace Ross, and C. Rickards.

DUNDEE.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Will Parker; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr Alf Ross.—That charming trifle, The Children's Party, continues to attract crowds, and has several new features introduced. A marvellous exhibition of sensational cycling is given by the Tom Davies Trio in "Whirling the Whirl;" Will Godwin is favourably known in Dundee as a capable actor-vocalist, and scores with his vocal scena; the Zampas contribute a smart speciality act; and the Maros excel as triple-bar performers; Leighton and Mona produce a musical comedy act, which provokes loud laughter; and Charles Gardener, comedian, does well. Haig and Novel in acrobatic comedy score a success; and the bill is completed by Mons. Zouroff, mimic; and Fred Collins, Scotch comic.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Percival.—Little Red Riding Hood has entered on its second week. It has proved a distinct success, and with the well-chosen and clever artistes engaged, everything moves along with a delightful swing. This week much new business has been introduced, and a successful run is assured.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Frank Percival.—A special week here opened on Monday with Mr J. Rice Cassidy and company in the musical comedy-drama, Dan the Rake. Mr Cassidy appears in the rôle of Dan, and interprets the part with true Hibernian humour. Miss Lilian Claro as Madge, the gipsy girl, gives a charming impersonation; Miss Ada Roscoe as the Blind Mother of Dan is sympathetic; Miss F. Halton as Helen acts well; Mr Frank Orchard as Colonel Flamer is satisfactory; and Mr F. Copeland as Lieut. Kavanagh is dashing and manly. Mr Frederick Biron as the villain is successful.

EASTBOURNE.

DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr A. Standen Triggs.—The dramatic bill usually offered here is changed this week for Biograph pictures of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. The animated pictures are interesting, and variety is introduced by Miss Lily Carrick, a pleasing vocalist; Mr G. Gilroy, an excellent ventriloquist; and Mr T. Carrick, a funny patterer and singer.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr George Hayes.—Mr E. O. Brooks' company is appearing here during the week in The Girl from Bond Street. Miss Marie Vere is a pretty and dainty Lucy; Miss Ethel Russel is a refined and pleasing Lady Fielding; and Miss Doris Regan, a pert Lotty. Miss Maud Beard is an effective Mrs Harvey, and Miss Ivy Alberto an animated Edna. Mr Campbell Goldsmid has a capital voice, and is an excellent Seacombe; Mr George Watts does well as Sir George Fielding, and Mr F. R. Heaton ably fills the part of Archie. The comedy element is well sustained by Mr Edward De Vere as Micky. Quite a feature of the performance is the very smart dancing contributed by the New York Quartet.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel Lloyd.—A strong bill is being offered to the patrons of this house twice nightly. Messrs Hall and Earle are among the best tumblers and acrobats seen here, and their clever, smart turn is received with acclamation. Barton and Ashley, a lady and gentleman, provide fun in a most original style. The Herald Comedy Four remain from last week, and their very tuneful singing and attractive dancing are again popular. Barnard's marionettes are very skilfully worked on the pretty mimic stage. Celest is a daring wire-walker; Dan Filmer an amusing comic singer; Lozelle a gymnast of great strength; Miss Ena Beryl pleases with voice and mandoline; and fresh films are shown in the Hippodrome pictures.

EBBW VALE.

KING'S.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; Manager, Mr Arthur Knight.—Mr Wentworth Croke's company is appearing here for the first time in The Christian. Miss Grace Chalmers in the difficult part of Glory Quayle is both powerful and pathetic; John Storm as played by Mr Hilliard Vox, is popular throughout; Mr Stanley Ridcliff makes a dignified Father Lamplugh; the part of Lord Robert Ure is in the capable hands of Mr Charles B. Bedells; and Mr Jackson Wilcox is excellently placed as Horatio Drake. Miss Clara Nicholls is distinctly good as Mrs Callander; and the other parts are well filled.

EDINBURGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Hollister.—Jack and the Beanstalk continues to be repeated here to crowded houses, business at the same period of the year never having been so good. As a spectacle the pantomime is unsurpassed, and in providing features of merriment so lavishly for old and young alike the management have created one of the chief elements of a popular success.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; General Manager, Mr G. T. Minshull.—On Monday Mr George Edwardes's company brought The Duchess of Dantzig to Edinburgh after a month's sojourn in the West, and the reception accorded to the opera by a large and appreciative audience was enthusiastic in the extreme. Miss Amy Augarde won all hearts with a singularly spirited rendering of Catherine Upscher, her performance being of notable dramatic effect and of the highest lyric rank. Miss Luna Love was a charming Lisette, singing well, while the important part of Renée De Saint-Mezard was played by Miss Lillian Digges in a very talented manner, her singing also being effective. The Empress Josephine was represented with due dignity by Miss Mabel Lorrell and Misses Kate Traill and Doris La Tour appeared successfully as the sisters of Napoleon. Other parts by Misses M. Mallison, F. Snell, Irene Edwards, and Connie Ross were effectively filled. For Mr Matthew Brodie's Napoleon we have nothing but praise. The rôle could not have been placed in better hands, and for his presentment and performance we must record our heartiest admiration. It was vivid, life-like, and always historical, and carried through in every scene with a reserve of power that spoke worlds in favour of the well-graced young actor. After such a meritorious piece of work Mr Brodie's incursion into the domain of romantic light opera should never be regretted. Mr Herbert Clayton gave a commendable picture of the bluff Sergeant Lefebvre, afterwards Duke of Dantzig, and sang admirably; while the vocal numbers of Mr Reginald Kenneth, first as Vicomte De Bethune and afterwards Adhemar, were delivered with fine artistic effect. Mr T. W. Volt made the character of Papillon a highly amusing one, and fully sustained his reputation as a comedian of humour and refinement. His business in the second act was thoroughly diverting, and assisted by Miss Augarde caused unbounded merriment. The dresses were magnificent, the costly furniture of the period, and Mr J. Harker's three set scenes were very beautiful, while to Mr Robert Courtneidge all praise is due for the historical accuracy of the production. Mr J. B. Gordon proved an ideal stage manager, and Mr P. W. Hilton conducted.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll.—The top line on the bill this week is the Japanese Guards, a troupe of young ladies who perform a sort of military drill with astonishing agility and effect. The Jackson Family, who are well known here, give their popular musical entertainment with increased success, while Brown and Robinson whose voices harmonise well, render a number of favourite songs with huge success. The Wotpert Trio of acrobats; the Three Georgis, in the same line; Baldwin Brothers, and Morris and Morris, who are comedians as well as acrobats, perform many novel feats, and Billy Hobbs makes an excellent impression as a coon singer and dancer, his whole performance being first-class. Little Uno, the boy comedian, is following in father's footsteps, and mother's too. Miss Lily Tiso, a pleasant singer and dancer, and the Sakers, lively as ever, and with lots of fresh business, complete the bill.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Eade Montefiore.—In framing the book of Little Red Riding Hood Mr Victor Stevens has written one of the best pantomimes ever produced in Edinburgh. Its success on Monday when presented by Mr George Brydon-Phillips' company was most emphatic, and this theatre should be packed to the doors nightly for many weeks to come. The cast was first-rate, and included Mr Fred Hallam, who cut a droll figure as the Wicked Squire; while Mr J. W. Brighton as the Wolf, and Mr J. E. Connor as Simple Simon and Mr C. Brady as a Fat Boy added largely to the fun, which was never allowed to flag. As played by Mr Frank Dunlop, Granny is likely to be highly popular here. The Lawyer Slyfox of Mr Fowler Fletcher was a really splendid piece of burlesque, while, on the other hand, its quaintness and humour, so appropriate in a pantomime, were most enjoyable. In this performance Mr Fowler Thatcher proved himself to be an artist to the finger-tips. Miss Florrie Forde made a positively peerless Prince and had an enthusiastic reception on coming forward. Her success was immediate and immense, and she delighted the public with an altogether charming and piquant performance. As may be imagined, Miss Forde's songs took the house by storm, "My Nightingale" and "Navaho," with its picturesque setting, being notably successful. "The Bull and Bush," which is specially Miss Forde's own, was rapturously received, and, sung as she only can sing it, had to be repeated again and again. Miss Forde's handsome figure was seen to perfection in a dazzling display of dainty dresses, all being remarkable for their elegance and artistic effect. Miss Gertie Gitana made an admirable appearance as Red Riding Hood, and with her tasteful acting, cultured singing, and sympathetic style secured the goodwill of the audience from the very first. Miss Millie Denham sang effectively as Jack, and Miss Doris Lillian did some neat and clever dancing as Jill. Miss Marie West played the Fairy Gossamer with spirit, and Miss Florence Fredrica was a captivating Cupid. A feature of the first part of the production was the appearance of E. R. Dainez's circus, including the clever donkey, Smiler, and highly trained pony and the famous leaping dogs. This part of the entertainment called forth tumultuous applause. Specialities by the Du Gros Trio, O'Connor and Brady, and Gertie Gitana were given, and in a pretty winter ballet introduced in the fourth scene the Mesdames Carrie and Alice King appeared as principal dancers. The pantomime was produced under the stage direction of Mr Louis Stanislaus, the music arranged by Mr Alex Humphries, who presided in the orchestra; and Mr Percy Krone is the general manager.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Tom Ellis.—Mr Herbert Fuller's drama, The Passion of Life, was presented here on Monday evening and heartily received. While the action is chiefly of an exciting nature, a number of variety turns are introduced, and these, of course, find much favour with the audience. The principal characters by Messrs Francis Everard, H. Evan Gibbon, Harold Wallace, and Fawcett Lomax; and Misses Agnes Collier and Edith Mitchell were effectively filled.

COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS.—Proprietor, Mr John Henry Cooke.—Very excellent business is being done here, and in point of variety and attraction the present week's programme is one of the best. In her representation of classical statuary Miss Ernestine Rosa introduced a picturesque and enjoyable performance that gave the highest satisfaction to a crowded assemblage of her admirers on Monday. Mr John Irvin executed some remarkable feats of juggling on horseback, and Miss Pinder was warmly received in a clever trotting act, a flight of birds assisting with pleasing effect. Mons. Nivri proved an expert foot equilibrist, and Vincent's somersaults from high tables were both novel and daring. Selbo appeared as a manipulator of Indian clubs, and the whirlwind tumbling of the Arab Azieky evoked loud applause. The acrobatic turn of the Brothers Laure was smart and amusing, and the Biograph pictures, which have been shown nightly all through the season, are as popular as ever. "Aqua-wreck," with its water sensation and other manifold features, is causing quite a cataract of coin to flow into the treasury here, and is received with well-deserved favour nightly.

EXETER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Fred Pollard; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy M. Dunsford.—The Girl from Chicago is being presented here this week by Mr Henry Hare's company. Judge Hussel is effectively portrayed by Mr Buckstone Clair; Mr E. Dodds sings and dances cleverly as Billy M'Guffin; and General Boomer receives excellent treatment at Mr Hare's hands. Obadiah Cackles as depicted by Mr Clarence Ibbotson is a mirth-provoking character; the Dude is capably played by Mr George Doyle; Miss Nellie Vicott makes a humorous Lucretia Flatfoot; Miss Ida Kessanly finds favour in the name-part; and Miss Cissie Hilton is a capital Mrs Sweetlove.

FALKIRK.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace W. Ebbutt.—Mr Chas. Macdona's company with the popular musical comedy, A Chinese Honeymoon, held the boards of this house on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Miss Cissy Scofield as Fi-Fi was a great favourite; Miss Mamie Finbow made a pleasant and attractive Soo-Soo; as Mrs Pineapple Miss Mabel Carlton came in for much favour; and Mr H. Welchman as Tom Hatherton, Mr Lester Carry as Hang-Chow, Mr Percy Stephens as Chippie-Chop, Mr Tom Birch as Li-Hung, and Mr Geo P. Ascot as Mr Pineapple all proved themselves capable. The Duke of Killicrankie was presented by Mr Leigh Lovel's company on Thursday.

FARNWORTH.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell.—Miss Renee Glendower's company in The Ladder of Life is paying us a visit this week. General Gordon is ably presented by Mr Tyrone Power; Mr Roy F. Gascoigne gives a clever representation of Colonel Macgregor; and Messrs C. H. Matthews and Roy Milton make the most of their parts as Fergus Gordon and David Gordon. Miss Stephanie Baring plays capably in the difficult part of Olga Sobinsky; and as Meg Merrilees Miss Flora Leslie is excellent. The Feros give a good acrobatic performance as the human ladder.

FOLKESTONE.

PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison company was here the first part of the week in Saturday to Monday. Mr Stuart Champion gave a natural rendering of the rôle of Lord Calvert; Mr Jack Hampton made an admirable Probyn Dyke; Mr Edwin Ling as the Rev. Toop was excellent; Mr Dallas Welford was clever and humorous as Stanley Pidding; Miss Hilda Tressilian was pleasing as Mrs Wendover; Miss Adeline Lester did ample justice to the part of Lady Diana; Miss Kitty Doyle was well suited as Angela; Miss Madge Barton and Miss Charlotte Mead sustained their respective parts of Miss Toop and Miss Skeet with great success; and Miss Olive Loftus Leyton was a capable Thompson. The comedy is preceded by the well-known piece Judged by Appearances. Mr Charles Macdona's company in Three Little Maids occupied the boards on Thursday.

GAINSBOROUGH.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton.—This week we have had here Mr John F. Asche's company, in The World. Mr Stuart Lomath is well placed as Sir Clement; Mr Francis Hawley as Harry Huntingford is prominent; Miss Beatrice Fay is excellent as Mary; Miss Octavia Noel gives a good portrayal of Mabel; Mr Bernard Lieli is amusing as the Jew; and the other characters are in capable hands.

GATESHEAD.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Bolam and Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Straughan.—The strong variety bill submitted here is headed by the Bellong Brothers, who provide a sensational cycle balancing act. Mdlle. Kloët poses as famous characters. Harry Coates, the original singing navvy, also gives a first-rate entertainment. The Fordyces, vocalists and expert dancers, cause much amusement; as do also Hill, Barry, and Lang, in a sketch entitled A Hot Reception. Smith and Johnson, coloured vocalists, sing well, and other entertaining turns are provided by Rappo, equilibrist and acrobat, and Vasey and Ramsey, in their comedy dancing act.

GLASGOW.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Humphries.—Capital business continues to be done by The Forty Thieves. On Monday evening Miss Annie Purcell was obliged, through indisposition, to give up her part, which was taken, at short notice, by Miss Annie Braddon, who made a very successful Ganem. She has a sweet voice which she uses to advantage, and otherwise made a very acceptable understudy. Mr Tom E. Murray as Ali Baba and Mr Fred Griffiths as Ibrahim keep everybody in a merry mood. Mr George Lashwood is still the dashing Captain Abdallah, and his songs are well received. The other principals contribute to the success of the pantomime. Notable mention may be made of the dancing of the Diamond Troupe.

ROYALTY, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr Wm. M. Downie.—Jack and Jill still proceed on their merry way, and large houses nightly continue to be the rule. An outstanding feature is the large number of children who take part, thus making it essentially a children's pantomime. Little Miss Mabel Higson plays Jill with all the abandon of an experienced actress, and Miss May Merry as Jack, with her graceful ways, contributes largely to the success of the production, their dancing winning repeated encores. Mr Harry Conlin takes the part of the mirth-provoking Dame, and infuses much life and vigour into his part. Mr Freddy French is very original as Ginger, Miss Florence Burdett as the Princess and Miss Frances Earle as the Prince have lost nothing of their attractiveness, and Mr Leslie Stiles is proving himself a jolly Baron. Messrs Dixon, Nelson, and Watson keep the fun going as three eccentric soldiers.

KING'S, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr Hugh Macfarlane.—After a most successful month's run in Edinburgh The Cingalee has been transferred here for a corresponding term, and an enthusiastic welcome was accorded the new play on Monday. For tuneful music, an attractive story, and bright and picturesque setting, The Cingalee marks a distinct advance even on the high standard set by Mr George Edwardes's previous productions. The company includes several artistes whose former successes in musical comedy here have made them first favourites, notably Miss Octavia Barry, who as Nanoya acts and sings with charming vivacity. The part, unfortunately, contains no outstanding musical number, but her fine voice is appreciated in the tripping and lively air, "The dance I'll lead him." Mr Leonard Mackay as Vereker is allotted several of the best songs in the play, and is worthy of them. Miss Lily Elsie is a most attractive Lady Patricia, and for her song, "My heart's at your feet," she is heartily recalled. The Chambhuddy Ram of Mr E. Statham Staples is exceedingly clever. His various songs are well received, and especially popular are the funny business and duets with Peggy Sabine, a part that Miss Eva Sandford has made one of outstanding merit. As a comedienne she possesses a happy style, and her vocal and dancing abilities are also noteworthy. With Chambhuddy she scored in the "Parrot" and "Gollywog" songs, and their love-making in "Make a fuss of me" causes roars of laughter. Mr Harold Thorley as Bobby Warren acts well and sings with piquant humour, his various songs with the four little tea girls being heartily encored. Mr Colin Coop as the dignified Boobhamba revels in the fun of the part, and in his topical song, "Nothing much more to say," gets in some clever hits at things of local and universal interest. Mr W. J. Manning again contributes one of his clever impersonations of fussy old military worthies, and Mr Willie Warde, jun., gets in some clever business as the attendant Myamgah. Misses Clare Marsden, Claire Pridelle, Kathleen Severn, and Doris Lester make a charming quartet of tea girls. Miss Rhoda Gordon as Angy, and Misses Mabel Lowe, Mabel Hirst, Evelyn Fortescue, and Mabel Allen as her governesses, all fill their parts with ability and grace. Solo dances are contributed by Miss May Gould, and the Rubies give weird effect to their devil dances. The chorus is large and vocally well equipped, and Mr Harold Vicars ably conducted.

METROPOLE, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr John Dunbar.—Messrs E. H. Knight and George Denham's company is here with The Grip of Iron, in which Mr Fred Powell still plays Simmonet, the strangler, with intensely grim humour. Miss Georgie De Lara acts Cora with mingled strength and tenderness, and Miss Helena Walbran as Sophie is effective. Miss Hilda Barnton makes a charming Marie Guerin. The villainy is ably portrayed by Mr Thornton Heath as the Spanish adventurer, and Mr Blundell Lenton as the honest young lawyer is an excellent foil. The part of Paul Blanchard is creditably sustained by Mr George Denham. Detectives of the old and new schools are effectively contrasted by Mr John Brittain as the old and Mr Harry Agar Lyons as the new. Mr W. Griffin as the Smiler causes much amusement.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. H. Oakden.—Mr Chas. H. Phelps is appearing here in his own play, One Woman's Wickedness. His impersonation of the wronged Jem Craggs is clever and effective. Miss Florence Lloyd gives a strong performance as the unscrupulous Janet Raymond. Miss Amy Dalby as a mentally stricken young lady and Mr Lawrence Brien as the somewhat preachy Philip Beaufort ably fill their parts. Eccentric humour is variously supplied by Mr George Byrne as an amateur detective, Miss Ethel Asbury as a barmaid, and Mr Arthur Ferriss as Limpy Larry. Miss Frances Jessop as Marienne Beaufort and Miss F. M. Daly as Aunt Crasy are well placed.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss's Empires, Limited; Resident Manager, Mr Arthur Aldin.—Mr Fred Karno's company remains here another week. They are presenting Mumming Birds, which is cleverly acted and never fails to cause uproarious mirth; Mendel, the blind pianist, is a turn of excellent quality; Richard List's performing bears are a good example of what can be attained by patient training; Rossow Midgets give a capital boxing turn; Harry Martell again proves himself a clever dancer; Kenc, Welch, and Montrose, comedy acrobats, show exceptional talent; Arthur Lennard is, of course, a great favourite; and the Three Sisters Hayden are clever comediennes; Rastus and Banks are highly diverting in The Mayor and the Maid; Lyane and Gene, contortionists; and Lizzie Fletcher comedienne, conclude the programme.

TIVOLI AND QUEEN'S, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr S. King Alexander; Acting-Managers, Messrs Fred C. Ewing and T. J. Colquhoun.—The bill-of-fare provided at these halls this week is both varied and interesting, and includes the engagement of James and Marie Finney, the world-renowned swimmers; the Zaros, tumblers; illustrated songs by Preston and Balmain; a beauty competition for ladies over fifteen; Matt Wilkinson and company, sketch artists; Amy Elcock, comedienne; Marcus Boyle, comedian; Bendon's Bioscope; Frank Boyce, character vocalist; Two Rubies, comediennes; Violet Beatrice, vocalist; Onda and Artell, in a gymnastic act; Abel and Welsh, famous grotesques; Lilian Rigby, dancer; and Flo St. Roy, serio.

PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs Rich Waldon and Thos. Barrasford; Assistant Manager, Mr H. M'Kelvie.—Houdini is still the principal attraction at this house. Nicodemus, an amusing pantomime absurdity, by Chas. Vandyke and company, is well received, as also does the clever bull-fighting sketch by the Toreadors. Fred Earle makes a hit with his "Seaweed" song, and Gus Harris also scores with his Hebrew impersonations, other good single-handed turns being given by Sid Bandon, comedian; Florence Hill, serio and dancer; Alice Ormonde, comedienne; while humorous comedy acts are contributed by the Falcons and Stanley and Vandyke.

BRITANNIA.—Lessee, Mr James Anderson; Manager, Mr Harry Humfrey.—The principal turn here is that of the Zerbinis Troupe, musical speciality artistes. The other items include Dora Lindsay, vocalist; Will Mackie, comedian; Tom Berrick, the black tit-bit; Herriot and Sauvion, burlesque conjurors; Gibb Smith, comedian; Frank Sauterone, champion jumper; Brindall and Cooper, comedians; and the Britannia Bioscope with new and interesting films.

HARMONIC CONCERTS.—Secretary, Mr W. Biggam.—On the eve of the Burns Anniversary the management of these popular concerts gave their annual Scotch night, when their three halls were packed with patriotic and appreciative audiences. The principal feature of the programme was the comedy-drama of Cramond Brigg, in which Mr John Clyde appeared as Jock Howieson, supported by a powerful company. Mr Mackenzie Murdoch gave a violin performance, which met with deserved appreciation. Miss Clara Butler, contralto; Mr J. M. Louie, tenor; the Rodgers Family, duettists and glee singers; and the Murray Troupe of national dancers added considerably to the enjoyment of the evening; while among the comedians Messrs Bob Sloan, Jack Henri, J. K. Macfarlane, and Sam Thomson in their various representations were well received.

GOOLE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John E. Tomlinson.—On Monday and two following nights Messrs Mitchell and Belton's company appeared here in the drama a The Conscript. Mr G. Mitchell gave a striking impersonation of Karl Truevitch, and Miss Mary Dawson submitted a powerful and realistic interpretation of Nadia Truevitch. Mr Howell Travers as Ivan Manloff plays with conspicuous ability. Mr Horatio Sinclair is sufficiently villainous as Count Paul Hardiski; Mr Frank Harvey as Michael Andrevitch and Mr Edward Hill as Maxim Fedka play with considerable dramatic power; Mr John Belton presents a realistic picture as Dor Doggervitch; Mr Harry Tilbury as Fretch Trotoff and Miss Belle Tilbury as Wanda are responsible for acceptable humour; and Miss Helen Brinkman as Dame Katinka and Little Arlene as Karl are both exceedingly good.

GRIMSBY.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr S. Tolfree.—The School Girl has made her first appearance here this week. A capital representation is given by Mr Charles Macdona's company. Miss Nellie Hodson, who is well known here, sustains the title-rôle in good style; Cicely Marchmont is charmingly played by Miss Jenny Bonney; Miss Kate Forster capably doubles the Mother Superior and Mrs Marchmont; Miss Bessie Maddox infuses just sufficient dash into the character of Mamie Rockfeller; and Mr C. Adeson is responsible for the most amusing impersonation of the eccentric General Marchmont. Mr Max Copland also creates much laughter as Sir Ormsby St. Leger, as does Mr Alfred Leslie as Tubby Bedford. Mr Alec Chentrens is good as Edgar Verney, and others who may be mentioned are Mr Charles W. Anson as Peter Overend, Mr Frank Sutton as Corner, and Miss Madeleine Maude as Saafreds.

NEW PALACE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Stewart Orcil.—There has been a return to variety programme here this week, with John Marx, who displays exceptional feats of strength, as the principal attraction. He has shown remarkable powers in the way of weight-lifting. Competitions amongst local strong men have been held nightly. A couple of smart patter comedians have been seen in the persons of Jordan and Harvey. A really funny pantomimic sketch—a burlesque upon burglars—has been contributed by Pickard's Troupe, whilst another sketch presented by the Ross-Clyde company is also amusing. A unique exhibition of physical contortion is given by Edith Sylvesto, and other turns are Nellie Elder, Tyrolean vocalist;

HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwardes; General Manager, Mr H. F. Millar; Assistant-Manager, Mr H. H. Watson.—Otto Schuman's Troupe of horses, ponies, and boar hounds have given an entertainment that is at once refined and clever. The return of Clarke's Nippers has proved highly popular. Lily Martell has given evidence of ability both as a songstress and dancer. Sleath and Aldin have submitted a musical scena illustrative of a highwayman's life, whilst Ossi Souplessi, on the aerial rings, Will Harvey, comedian, and Pulo, a boy juggler, have given interesting turns. A drama, Revenge, depicted by the Bioscope, completes the programme. On Thursday evening benefit performances were given to Mr H. F. Miller, who has been the manager at the Hippodrome since its opening, and who is being transferred by Mr Edwardes to the management of the Hippodrome, Stoke-on-Trent. At these performances extra turns were given by a number of local artistes.

GUERNSEY.

ST. JULIAN'S HALL.—Sole Lessee, Mr C. Robt. Perkins.—On Monday a crowded house welcomed Mr Fred Mouillot's pretty and rollicking pantomime The Sleeping Beauty. The piece is prettily staged, the music is bright and catchy, and the chorus works well together. Mr Charles Penrose is a clever comedian, possessing abundant comic material which he liberally dispenses as Peter Piper. Mr Alf Sardoe as the Royal Nurse is highly diverting, and a capital King is Mr Joe Hudson. Miss May Davis is a charming Beauty, and Miss Florence Vie plays with plenty of spirit as the Prince. Specialities are given by the Stuart Trio of dancers, the Miltons, comical skaters; and Leo Picolo, juggler.

HALIFAX.

GRAND THEATRE. — Managing Director, Mr William Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—The Fatal Wedding, on a return visit, is proving very popular. Mr Bert Coote's company gives a good interpretation of the play. Mr S. Herbert Humber as Howard Wilson is responsible for a piece of sound acting; Mr Oliver Rogers does well as Curtis; Mr Jack Denton is smart and alert as the volatile French servant; Mr Jack Waring does well as the Policeman; and Mr Charles Kenney is a capital Schwartz. Miss Norah Hoffe is a patient and sympathetic Mabel Wilson; Miss Gertrude Harrison is an incisive and callous Cora; and Miss Marjorie Lawrence an intelligent and promising child actress.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—Mr Frank Macnaghten's pantomime Aladdin was such a great success here a fortnight ago that it has been thought advisable to bring it here again. The bright, rollicking, merry little show is going as briskly as ever, and the public are gladdening the hearts of the management by their consistent support. The cast is the same as on the previous visit, and has been noticed.

HARROGATE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr C. F. Smith.—On Monday Mr W. H. Kirby's company opened a three nights' engagement in the successful musical comedy The New Mephisto, when a bright and clever performance was given. Mr Albert Weston ably portrayed the rôle of Mephistopheles, and introduced some smart business; Mr W. H. Vernon was a big success as Dick Pilgrim; Miss Nellie Burdette as Dolly and Miss Marion Armitage as Beck Pilgrim played with great success in their respective parts; and Mr Herbert St. John was thoroughly adequate as Lord Hummingtop.

HARTLEPOOL.

EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Messrs Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr Harry Burns.—The Three Rickards, who head the bill, give a smart and clever exhibition; the patter and songs of J. W. Hall are provocative of much laughter; the Gintaros, Japanese jugglers, are a masterpiece of skill and precision; a clever ventriloquial imitation of Chirgwin is submitted by David Poole; Mr E. J. Wilkes's poodle is clever; the cross talk of Walker and Lake is funny; and neat sand dances are submitted by Earl and Melville.

HASTINGS.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Geo. H. Gaze.—On Monday Mr Mark Blow, assisted by his capable company, opened a week's engagement here with the dramatised version of Ouida's romance Under Two Flags. The rôle of the chivalrous Bertie Cecil was played by Mr Mark Blow with naturalness and ease, and his treatment of the many romantic situations of the piece carried conviction. Cigarette was ably played by Miss Emelie Polini, whose passionate character and devotion she forcefully presented. Miss Hope Mayne acted charmingly as the Princess. Mr Walter Thornton presented Lord Rockingham with sterling manliness. The cowardly Barklie Cecil and the selfish Lady Beatrice had good exponents respectively in Mr Reginald Harley West and Miss Lucy Carr. Mr Charles D. Pitt gave full effect to the vengeful and cruel character of Colonel Chateauroy. Rake was amusingly presented by Mr Will Hook, who with Miss Daisy Carlton as Lavinia filled the lighter rôles agreeably. The farce Aunt Rebecca preceded the principal piece.

PIER PAVILION.—Pier-Master, Mr R. Turner; Entertainment Manager, Mr J. D. Hunter.—Mr A. J. West is occupying the boards here this week with a series of pictures showing the training of lads entering the British army and navy. Mr R. Courtier Dutton explains the illustrations.

HIPPODROME PALACE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Harold Penny.—A good vocalist in the person of Mr Harry Desmond opens the programme; the Two M'Kays are exceptionally skilful as quick artists; Miss Flo Elvin, comedienne, is greatly applauded; Messrs Burns and Bentley supply some neat coon dancing; Miss Fanny Wentworth, society entertainer, introduces an amusing series of piano sketches; Messrs Lord, Murray, and Lord are diverting in their athletic comedy act; Miss Alice Digby is an attractive comedienne and dancer; and the Hoopers cause a great deal of fun by their comic juggling.

HIGH WYCOMBE.

TOWN HALL.—There was a large attendance here on Tuesday evening, when Mr Ben Greet's No 1 company (under the personal direction of Mr Arthur Howard) was seen to great advantage in Florodora. Mr Gus Danby as Anthony Tweedlepunch was excellent, and Mr Edward Chester and Mr Edward Crossland ably sustained their parts as Cyrus W. Gilfain and Frank Abercoed respectively. Dolores was embodied with spirit by Miss Daisy Lake, and Mesdames Louie Danby and F. M. Newman were well received for their songs and dances in the respective parts of Angela Gilfain and Lady Holyrood.

HYDE.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Joseph W. Maloney.—The Lady of Ostend is being performed here this week by Mr Lawrence Brough and an excellent all-round company. Mr Harry Hampson as Dick Whortles and Mr Percy Marshall as Joseph Carbury keep the risible faculties of the audience very well exercised right through; Mr Lawrence Brough is most praiseworthy as Le Baron De Longueville; and Mr L. Corv Thomas submits a clever character sketch as Toby Krockett. Miss Kate Milford plays the part of the indignant wife admirably; a charming and graceful impersonator of Millie Grace is found in Miss Doris Vayne; Miss Eleanor Gilbart makes a capital Matilda Carbury; Miss Maud Buchanan is exceedingly good as the Lady of Ostend; and Miss Daisy Cook is a pretty Jane. As a curtain-raiser Margaret's Strategy is given.

HAWICK.

NEW THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr W. Payne Seddon; Lessees, Messrs W. Payne Seddon and Gordon Starkey.—Florizel Von Reuter, the boy violinist, visited this theatre on Monday. His party included Mr Arthur Newstead and Mr Arthur Crosby. Miss Eleanor Athelstan was also to appear, but could not do so owing to illness, and at the last moment the services of Mr John Bell, a local tenor, were employed.

HORWICH.

NEW PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Sandiford.—Mr Ian Maclaren's company, in the drama The Prince of Rogues, is here this week. Mr Ian Maclaren as the Prince of Rogues, Mr Hy. Howard as Richd. Harwood, and Mr Arthur Chisholm as Frank Farrell are very conspicuous in their respective parts. Mr Francis Hope as Kenry and Mr James F. Firth as Josh Buggins are responsible for a large amount of comedy. Miss Ruby Maclaren plays Frank's wife with great feeling, Miss Dorothy Mackenzie makes Rita a fitting associate for the Prince, and Miss Kythe Mackenzie's Polly is a very good performance.

HOYLAND.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Owner, Mr Arthur Carlton; Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Geo. S. King.—This week Mr Gus C. Livesey's company is occupying the boards here with The Crimson Club. Mr Gus C. Livesey interprets the wronged Richard Fenton in admirable style; Sir Philip Garside is powerfully drawn by Mr L. Thompson; Reginald Adolphus Garside is humorously embodied by Mr P. Shaw, a clever whistler; Mr H. Belmore as Selby and Mr B. H. Pearson as Craddock do good service; Julia Marsden is effectively represented by Miss Francis Waring; Miss May Wynlard is a charming Muriel Lockwood; and Miss Elsie Mesnerd gives efficient help.

HUDDERSFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy G. Arthur.—There is no doubt that the version of The Sorrows of Satan, presented by Mr C. W. Somerset, is an effective acting play, and, judging by its reception on Monday, when the piece started on its spring tour, will meet with a full measure of public favour. Naturally the part of Prince Lucio, when played by so ripe an artist as Mr Somerset, is the dominant factor of the whole production. Weird and fantastical to an unusual degree, the wide possibilities of the part have been studied by Mr Somerset with an intelligence deep and keen in its insight into the problematical sufferings of a sin-tortured spirit. A thoroughly capable company has been chosen to support the leader, and on the opening night some clever work was done, notably by Miss Agnes Russell, who as Margaret Foster played with great sweetness and charm of manner. Mr Talbot Homewood was the Paul Carruthers. Miss Leah Marlborough has exactly the commanding presence called for in Lady Delila Dragnette, and showed much power in her impersonation of passionate though ill-placed love. Miss Laura Clement as Lady Dragnette imparted the necessary indifference to her worldliness. Mr Richard Norton represented Crafton Lyle. Mr Keith Fraser as Lord John Wellington Burrows and Miss Geraldine Somerset as the Hon. Ethel Cholmondeley successfully supplied the lighter element. Little Daisy O'Neill was prettily natural as the child Mary, and minor parts were supported by Mr W. H. Rotherham, Peter Wurrell; and Miss J. Burnside, Mother Wurrell. The play is beautifully dressed and carefully mounted.

HULL.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr W. Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr W. F. Morton.—A crowded audience assembled on Monday to welcome Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company in Aladdin. Its scenic effects are good, and the general idea excellently carried out. Mr Fred Cary's Abanazar is a revelation, being entirely out of the general rut. Miss Cassie Walmer is a dancer with a good style. The Widow is impersonated by Mr Fred Graham.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; Local Manager, Mr Wynn Miller.—Hull has been eagerly awaiting the advent of Mr W. Jacobs and Mr Louis N. Parker's Beauty and the Barge, and now that it has come they are in no way disappointed with the comedy. Mr Blake Adams sustains with considerable credit the rôle of the bargee, whilst admirable in every sense is the little runaway Ethel as impersonated by Miss Fairclough. Captain Barley's buxom lady love is a pleasant picture painted with skill by Miss Mary Griffiths. That Brute Simmons, a clever dramatised version of one of the Morison "Mean Street" stories, is the curtain-raiser.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Sole Owner, Mr W. Morton; Manager, Mr Geo. Morton.—The Wrecker of Men is the attraction at the Alexandra this week. Miss Rosalind Tate is a striking exponent of the woman with a past, and therefore plays the part of Risca Mallison with dramatic ability.

PALACE THEATRE.—Moss' Empires, Limited; Resident Manager, Mr A. Graham.—The striking novelty of the Staley transformation has appealed strongly to the public this week. The blacksmith's shop and transformation to the drawing-room is a thing to see and marvel at.

ILKESTON.

INVERNESS.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr Cameron Burgess.—Miss Lillie Mowbray's company is here this week in Robinson Crusoe. Miss Lillie Mowbray makes a good Crusoe; Miss Tina Franks is a charming Dolly Mayflower; Miss Alice Chant acts and sings well as Polly Hopkins; Mr J. C. Chant is amusing as Will Atkins; and Mr Anthony Gordon is good as Blizzard.

IPSWICH.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. G. Fisk.—Mr Walter Howard's melodrama, Two Little Sailor Boys, is being played here by a company under the direction of Mr W. H. Hallett. The two little boys are represented by May Day and Miss Ethel Francess, both accomplished actresses; Miss Blanche Steele does full justice to the part of the adventuress; and Miss Mabel Scudamore is a pathetic heroine. Mr William Sams is a manly Commodore; Mr Leonard Rooker is satisfactory as the Lieutenant; and Mr Ambrose Horton as the chief villain is effective.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr Fred Barrett.—A change of programme this week includes the following turns:—Marco and Dunham, a trio of bar performers; Craig, Rose, and Craig, gymnasts; Ray and Mills, jugglers; the Sisters Le Graham, vocalists and dancers; Bob Stevenson and Arthur Pearl, comedians; and Victoria Lytton, burlesque artiste.

PUBLIC HALL.—Manager, Mr George Watson.—A flying visit of London stars gave a couple of performances here on Wednesday. The chief artists were Miss Mabel Love, the accomplished actress and impersonator; Miss Muriel Newman; Mr J. Warren Foster; Cazabon, the new violinist; Mr Charles Pond, raconteur; Dr. Francis Gerard, with the Demon Kettle; the Pipers of the King's Own Scottish Borderers; and Master F. M. Smith.

JERSEY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. Robert Perkins.—Mr Frank Fenton opened a short stock season here this week with Still Waters Run Deep. As John Mildmay Mr Frank Fenton proves himself a finished actor; Miss Louise Vansittar's handsome presence aptly fits the part of Mrs Sternhold; Miss May Cull, a delightful Mrs Mildmay, displays considerable depth of feeling; Mr Frank Elton humorously presents Potter; and Mr E. Bellenden Clarke is excellent as Captain Hawkesley.

KETTERING.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Payne.—This week we have Messrs Draycott and Peppin's company in The Stolen Birthright. Mr Robert Watson gives a manly interpretation of the hero, Andrea Celsi; Mr Chas. Draycott displays the evil nature of Count Marco in sinister style; Mr F. Aldworth is successful as Michele Silvati; and Mr Henry Monti contributes some powerful acting as Stefano. Miss Lilian Watson Loyde is a capable Miranda, and the comedy characters of Nita and Pedro are satisfactorily filled by Miss Maud Hetherington and Mr Frank Kent respectively.

KIDDERMINSTER.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr R. C. Gudgeon, jun.—The boards here are occupied this week by Messrs Carson and Granville's company in Defending His Honour. Douglas Bryce is in the capable hands of Mr John Davidson; Mr Clifton Boyne ably portrays the character of Stephen Graid; Mr Chas. H. Herbert as George Duncan is good; and Miss E. Melrose-Millet as Ethel Bryce is realistic.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors, Messrs Lister Reekie and Howard Stephens.—The structural alterations which have been carried out here greatly facilitate the means of egress. The company includes Rick and Laurel, a really smart pair; Black Apollo, an expert instrumentalist; Colin and Irene, exponents of second sight; Fred Healey, Belle Belmont, and La Belle Rosa.

KILMARNOCK.

KING'S LYNN.

NEW ROYAL THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Bannister Howard; Business Manager, Mr Herbert Leonard.—Mr A. Clifton Alderson opened with hisdomestic and military play, A Soldier and a Man, on Monday, when he successfully portrayed the part of Harold Sinclair. Mr P. Beckett played Hubert Walgrave in an admirable manner; Mr W. A. Norman as David Melbury and Mr W. K. Ayliff as Jake Harding were both good in their respective parts; and the comedy parts were ably sustained by Mr Harry F. Wright and Mr T. Kirkwood. Miss Daisy England charmingly portrayed Rose Melbury, and Miss B'Eare Doyle proved to be worthy of praise as Norah Melbury. The scenic effects were good. On Wednesday the play was under the patronage of Colonel Cresswell, Major Morgan, and officers of the 3rd V.B.N.R., the band of the regiment playing several selections on the stage.

LANCASTER.

ATHENÆUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Hy. Wilkinson.—The boards this week are occupied by the Edmund Tearle répertoire company in a round of plays, which include Ingomar, Cramond Brig, The Three Musketeers, Under the Red Robe, Macbeth, and Jeanie Deans. On Monday Mr Tearle appeared as Ingomar, and was ably supported by Miss Kate Clinton as Parthenia.

PALACE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs W. J. Fergusson and John Porter.—Another attractive programme is arranged here, with the Scottish Meisters at the top, who are well received. Mdlle. Vanda is a clever juggler, and performs on the tight wire very creditably under the name of La Belle Tosca; Bert Brantford sings and dances well; and Gus Balsiger, trick instrumentalist, comes in for rounds of applause. Sadie Earley, ballad vocalist; Payne's animated pictures; and Alskarno, acrobats and Risley performers, who have a most flattering reception, complete the list.

LEAMINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr Henry Esden.—Mr Langhorne Burton and his company, in Mrs Gorringe's Necklace, occupied the boards here for the first three nights this week. Mr Langhorne Burton enacted with skill the part of the manly Captain Mowbray; Miss Mary Webb's study of the high-minded Isabel Kirke was very effective; and Mr Arthur Vezin as the pathetic but pitiful David gave a very fine impersonation. Miss Frances Vine made the most of her part of Mrs Gorringe, and the other characters were in able keeping. Mr Martin Harvey and company came on Thursday in The Only Way.

LEEDS.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Richardson.—There is a steady continuance of good houses to report for Mr Hart's attractive pantomime, The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe, which is now in the zenith of its success at this theatre. The leading comedians, Mr J. Robert Hale, Mr Mike S. Whalien, and Mr Lionel Rignold (the latter in a notable portrayal of the Dame) have developed their parts with striking success, and their numerous encounters are productive of unstinted merriment. This week sees the return to the cast of Mr Harry Dent, who has been out for the past week or two through an unfortunate accident, and he has infused renewed vigour and humour into the part of Sunny Jim Crusoe.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr R. Ernest Liston.—Cinderella continues to be a great attraction, thanks in a great measure to the efforts of some clever comedians, of whom Mr T. B. Fayne, in a whimsical performance of the Page, with Mr Harry Weldon and Mr Deane Tribune as the ugly sisters are very prominent. The ladies, notably Miss Lola Patey, Miss Olive Marston, Miss Edie Rivers, and Miss Murielle Langley, are also high in popular favour.

QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs Dottridge and Longden; General Manager, Mr C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Bush.—Laughter Land is the name of the extravaganza submitted here this week, and it serves to exploit that amusing troupe of acrobats, the Craggs, whose clever work is the main feature throughout. Mr H. B. Lewis, Mr John Hitchin, and Mr G. Westacott are also leading lights; whilst of the ladies none do better than Miss Amy Hastings and Miss Louise Millward.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr T. G. Mooney. — A varied and attractive programme is here headed by the Klein troupe of trick cyclists, whose expert and daring feats arouse the greatest enthusiasm. The Five M.P.s provided good entertainment in a fine vocal scena. Rousby's "In Paris" panorama is an interesting electric display. Horace White is prominent with a clever ventriloquial sketch; the Cole de Losse Duo repeat their expert and humorous acrobatic and slack wire act; and a remarkably fine trapeze speciality is done by Leona Dare. Prince Kokin evokes warm approval for his Eastern juggling turn; an extremely popular musical speciality is done by those favourites Signor and Madame Borelli; the Labakans are responsible for an amusing grotesque acrobatic show; and Harry Maynard, comedian, is also appearing.

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr T. Barrasford; General Managers, Messrs Chas. Weldon and Edgar O. Waller.—Those very popular entertainers, Mr and Mrs Gene Hughes, are appearing here with great success, their smart sketch being enthusiastically received. Chapender, the illusionist, also repeats former successes with his expert feats. Chas. Baron submits his amusing burlesque animal turn. Considerable amusement is derived from a clever little sketch by Hayman and Franklin. Novel acrobatic turns by Alexander and also by Alphonse Silvano, are duly appreciated, as also are the efforts of Fred Curran and Harry Leybourne, a pair of smart comedians. The programme also contains a speciality turn by Alix Lukos and contributions by Nancy St. John, comedienne and dancer.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr F. W. Wood; General Manager, Mr J. C. Whiteman; Acting-manager, Mr S. Jones.—Belle Davis is the popular star turn here, her clever piccaninnies giving a very smart entertainment. Smythson's novelty sketch, The Lie Alarm, occupies the bottom of the bill, and is cleverly performed. Frank Cass, vocal comedian, is popular, as also are Reilly and Taylor in a smart Dutch patter sketch. Mons. De Lil again displays ability as a conjuror; Dinah Morris's blind boy contributes a fine musical turn; and the bill also includes a ventriloquial entertainment by Professor Hulbert and Cris Masters, comedian.

LEICESTER.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE. — Sole Proprietor and Manager, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; Acting-Manager, Mr C. D. Leigh.—Mr J. F. Elliston's pantomime, The Sleeping Beauty and the Mystic Yellow Dwarf, entered on the concluding week of its engagement here on Monday evening, when it met again with an enthusiastic reception from a delighted house. The beautiful electric novelty, presented by Alma and Abdullah, entitled "Electra's Dream," is a source of great wonderment, and evokes the heartiest applause. La Superbe, the miniature marvel, in her terpsichorean acrobatic phantasy, is seen to considerable advantage, and is extremely popular. The principal boy, Miss Esme Gordon, secures a warm welcome for her dashing and vivacious rendering of the rôle of Prince Faithful, and Miss Daisy Stratton, the principal girl, as Beauty Allfair, charms all with her delightful performance. Miss Kempton is well placed as Silver Star, and Miss Ada Tilley scores a success as the Grand Chief. Mr W. J. Churchill causes the greatest merriment as Count Incognito, and both Mr James Chippendale as Queen Half-a-Crown and Mr Alf Bishop as King Half-a-Crown evoke incessant laughter. Mr Lonnen Meadows makes an excellent impression as the Yellow Dwarf, and stage manages the "show" with credit to himself. The Morton Trio appear as Chump, Log, and Bog, and make a hit with their harmonious singing, besides being very amusing. Mr Donald Keir as the Wicked Witch sings extremely well. Miss Lottie Stone's Royal Alexandra Troupe (eight in number) contribute a number of dances, which afford the greatest pleasure. The Sisters Cunningham also achieve success as dancers, and Little Maud Vera is popular. Mr Alfred H. Elliott, the acting-manager for the company, has made many friends here by his courtesy.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Sole Lessee, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General Manager, Mr John H. Clarke.—Mr Frank M. Thorne's capital company, under the direction of Messrs Carson and Granville, is making a first appearance here this week in Napoleon the Great. Mr Hugh Montgomery in the name part maks a conspicuous success; Mr J. G. Maine as Paul Laczinska, a Pole, is distinctly effective; Mr Henry Earlesmere is well placed as Colonel Lavarennes; Mr Phil Harper is seen to advantage as Colonel Jules Meuron; and Mr Frank M. Thorne makes an excellent Pierre Pomponnet. Miss Maud Russell deserves warm commendation as Mdlle. Leonie Marboeuf; Miss Chrissie Dunbar is good as Marie Waleswka; Miss Marie Harcourt scores as Marcelle Choupin; and Miss Florence Thorne plays well as Mère Dumont.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED. — Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Leonard Vidal.—At the head of the usual excellent programme submitted here is Graig's Baboon Prodigies, including "Diavoleno," in cycling the hoop. The entire performance is a truly remarkable one. At the other end of the bill are the Max Welson Four, European rope performers, who give an exceedingly clever and smart show. Milner Verren is scoring a success with his pretty song, "The Playground in the Sky;" the Jees return with their Musical Smithy, which goes as well as ever; the Three Sisters Ronay, the original lady clowns, give a popular and entertaining turn; the Llewellyns, Australian operatic vocalists, are heard to great advantage; Alburtus and Bartram are pastmasters in the art of club juggling; the Resuas Trio give a good display as acrobats and equilibrists; the Brothers Pueblo are capital cake-walkers and sand dancers; and the American Bioscope, always a popular feature at this hall, is showing the latest films.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Lapworth.—A good programme here is topped by Albert Wyndham and company, in the sketch Prince Arthur, an excellent turn. Judge's performing cockatoos, parrots, and macaws, introduced by the Sisters Judge, are responsible for a pretty and clever display; Flo Deighton is a capital ballad vocalist; Olga gives a smart show on the trapeze; the Sisters Reveni score as duettists and dancers; George Edney, vocalist, is good; Charles Paver is a funny comedian; and Walter Lester, comedian, is also entertaining.

LEIGH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Dewhurst.—Messrs Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company in the drama The Village Blacksmith is the attraction here this week. Mr Sam Livesey gives a powerful portrayal of the title-rôle; Mr Jos Carter as the villain, Captain Leo, does his work admirably; Mr Geo. V. Campbell as Billy Twigg causes much amusement; Miss Laura Walker ably impersonates the part of the blacksmith's wife; Sal Parkins and Ruth Parkins are well sustained by Mrs T. C. Livesey and Miss Maggie Edwards respectively; and a clever performance is given by Little Christobel as Harry Strong. The scenery is good and the wrestling match causes much enthusiasm.

LIVERPOOL

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Licensee, Mr J. G. Howard; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Montgomery, jun.—The pantomime Aladdin, which has had a successful run, terminates to-night.

LYRIC THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Coles.—Babes in the Wood, as played by Six Brothers Luck and their capable company, is drawing well this week. The Four Milano Girls are very clever dancers; Miss ? ? ? as a dashing serio is good; and Ray Hartley is clever in international dances.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Harris Fineberg; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Simmons.—A cleverly written play, presented by an able company, has been a strong attraction here during the week. A London Actress, from the pen of Miss Emma Litchfield, contains the story of a scheming woman's adventures, many striking situations being introduced. The large audiences that have enjoyed the play gave the authoress, who enacts the part of the adventuress, a most cordial reception, that lady's high standard as an actress being freely admitted. Mr Stuart Cleveland as the unfortunate Clive Crawford played with telling effect, and among the principal supporters were Mr George Wallace, who presented a good picture of a money-lending Jew; Miss Violet Lawson as the sympathetic Phyllis Crawford, and Mr Sam Wilford, in whose able hands were the lighter side of things. A quantity of excellent scenery was used.

QUEEN'S.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Manager, Mr Fred Granville; Business Manager, Mr Fred L. Arthur.—For the first time in Liverpool the melodrama The Life of a Showman has been presented here. The second act shows the interior of a circus, where a number of variety turns are given by several artistes of undoubted ability. The two clowns, played by the Brothers Testo, are particularly good. Mr George Testo Sante also gives a remarkable exhibition of strength. As the showman, Brien Leader, Mr Sante displayed much ability, Miss Amy M'Neill was a tender and repentant Agatha Winter, Miss May Warden and Master Harry Warden were a couple of smart juvenile artistes, and the low comedy work was in the able hands of Miss Alice Granville and Messrs Allen Charles and J. Clegg. The scenery was good.

EMPIRE, LIMITED. — Managing Superintendent, Mr T. A. Cook; Acting-Manager, Mr George

GRAND PRIX
ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION, 1904.

Stratton.—Karno's comedians are still here with their funny Saturday to Monday, and despite the fact that the sketch has been played since Boxing night it proves as strong as ever. Included in the remainder of an excellent programme are G. W. Hunter, a popular comedian, with a budget of clever stories; Charles Coborn, well known in Liverpool, who has just returned from the States; Leslie Brothers, with a comical act, entitled "Music Mad;" Tom Edwards, a clever ventriloquist, Joko and Koko, with an equestrian novelty; Frank Harwood, descriptive vocalist; the Burnellys, who give a smart turn on stilts; Will Haines, comedian; and Amber Austa, coon singer and dancer.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—In addition to a lengthy list of variety artistes a good attraction has been presented during the week in the appearance of Mr George M. Schilling, an American athlete, who is engaged in a walking tour round the world for a wager. He relates an interesting account of what he saw during his perambulations. The Yiulians are a combination of clever acrobats, and their new and surprising feats are loudly applauded; T. Nelson Downes performs some remarkable sleight-of-hand tricks with coins; the Young American Quintet, conducted by Miss Mattie Boorum, renders a number of pretty glees and dances gracefully; the Brothers Ashley submit an amusing sketch entitled Next, Please; Harry Drew possesses a bass voice of richness and depth, his several songs being cordially received; Farley, Rennie, and Farley introduces a humorous turn entitled Fun at a Railway Station; Mr A. Aldridge sings several tenor songs with satisfaction; the Paxton Trio, head balancers, perform a number of smart feats; Mountford and Walsh are capable speciality artists; and others who appear are Starr and Jerome, vocalists and dancers; and Ida Ross, comedienne.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr F. O'Toole.—Included in a well-diversified programme here this week are Harry Barclay, a favourite, who brings several new songs; Joe Huda, a smart dancer and patterer; Borrello, who performs some clever juggling; Miss Connie Nicholls, comedienne and dancer; Mr Ford Williams, baritone; and the St. Clairs, with a dramatic trifle, The World Against Him. The Cinématograph, showing "A Trip to the Sun," is an interesting feature of the evening.

NEW PARTHENON.—Proprietor, Mr Edwin W. Smith.—At this cosy little place an acceptable bill-of-fare has been submitted during the week. At the top are the Bros. Zampah, who are wonderful one-legged artistes. Ethel Resford and Gerald Hunt present a laughable absurdity entitled The Widow and the Duke; Fritz sings a number of Dutch songs in a smart manner; Fox and Melville are capable song illustrators; Andy Fagan is an able comedian and dancer, as is also Fred Roden; and Amy Melville is an accomplished comedienne and dancer.

PADDINGTON PALACE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr J. Kiernan.—There is a fine array of talent here this week. Foremost is Kurtz, who performs some remarkable juggling, his work earning for him loud applause; Richard Mentos renders some acceptable music on the mandoline; Harry Craven as an eccentric comedian causes much laughter; Cohen and Page provide a bright comedy sketch, All the Latest; some excellent dancing is performed by Currie and Rice; a pretty spectacle entitled A Night with Santa Claus is provided by Baby Macfarlane, a clever child actress; Mabel Comely sings a number of acceptable songs; and Madge Roberts is a graceful comedienne and dancer.

WESTMINSTER.—Proprietor, Mr M. Montgomery.—J. A. Wilson has been the principal artiste here this week. He is a Negro comedian and dancer of considerable versatility, and his work has been much appreciated. Agnese and Arthur Lynch render a number of smart picture songs; Harry Ray and Lillie Calden present a humorous item, The Artist and the Maid; Hart and Rudd are a couple of eccentric comedians; Roscoe's animals show a high degree of training; Connie Lane is a smart comedienne and dancer; as is likewise Maude Cherry.

PARK PALACE.—Director, Mr J. Kiernan.—In big type here this week is Professor Ted Heaton, the well-known diver and swimmer, who, with Sacha, gives a clever tank act. The Randles (Will and Ada) contribute an amusing trifle, The Emigrant; Walter Arnold sings a number of catchy songs; Hyam Long as a musical comedian is both clever and amusing; many wonderful conjuring tricks are performed by Mdlle. Alencon; the Tippets are acceptable drawing-room entertainers, vocalists, and dancers; and Mattie Crawford is a graceful comedienne and dancer.

LONG EATON.

LYCEUM THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr Thomas Meakin.—Madame Willoughby's pantomime The Babes in the Wood is here this week. There is plenty of variety, some good singing, and dancing. Mr B. Gardner is the Uncle; Misses Daisy and Violet Mottley are the children left in his care, both are exceptionally clever; Miss M. Lakay is Robin Hood; and Miss Winnie Wenthworth is Maid Marion. The fun is plentiful through the versatility of Brown and Harker.

MACCLESFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr W. K. Gatley.—Goody Two Shoes is attracting good houses here this week. The company is under the able management of Messrs Marston and Buckstone. The title-rôle is ably portrayed by Miss Marie Santley, and her singing and dancing call forth much approval. Miss Maude Western is an ideal Roland; Mr Syd Bazley as Simon Simple makes the audience roar with his exceedingly funny antics; Mr Fred A. Marston as Baron Graball cannot be too highly complimented; Mr Ted Mac works with unflagging zeal as Dame Durden; and Miss Connie Irwin as the Good Fairy and Miss A. D. Hender as the Wicked Demon are well placed.

HIPPODROME. — Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Bendon.—The programme here this week is headed by Jabez White, 9st. 8lb. champion of the world Walter Gurney, swell comic, is a pleasing turn; Barker and Rose, in A Waif's Ambition, meet with deserved approval; Lily Mason, serio, is a good turn; Harry Bent, mimic, amuses the audience with some clever imitations of well-known celebrities; Harry Conlin, vocalist, well maintains his popularity; Carlotta Lunn, vocalist, sings some catchy songs; and the Sisters Manning, duettists and dancers, are a sprightly pair.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Will Smithson; Assistant-Manager, Mr Albert J. Lewis.—Mr and Mrs William Maclaren's company is here in Proof. Pierre Lorance is forcibly played by Mr Maclaren; Mr Richard Fulton gives a highly meritorious reading of Lazare; and Mr Kingsford Pearce is successful as Chamboran. The characters of Victor De Lagny and Duke D'Aubeterre are well filled by Mr E. St. Clare Vayne and Mr Tom Robertson. As Valentine Miss Lily C. Bandmann plays the part very effectively, and wins the sympathies of the audience. Miss Gertrude Evans acts in a praiseworthy manner as Adrienne, and Miss Wynne Hanley is well suited as Duchess D'Aubeterre.

MEXBOROUGH.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. H. Melton.—Mr J. Gar Kiddie's pantomime Little Bo-Peep is drawing packed houses here this week. Miss Lizzie Payne is charming in the title-rôle; Miss Flo Warner is a dashing Boy Blue; as Fairy Moonbeam Miss Norah Beverley is most graceful, and sings capitally; Mr J. Gar Kiddie's interpretation of Tommy Long is excruciatingly funny; and Mr J. W. Groves as Granny Brown is a big success. Mr E. H. Bertram is successful as Baron Hardup. The Solon Trio in their statue speciality; the Milstead Quartet of dancers; and the Hammersley ballet troupe give clever and enjoyable turns.

MAIDENHEAD.

GRAND THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs Edgar Dereve and F. L. Schmitz.—Mr Ben Greet had his No. 1 company here for one night only on Jan. 21, playing Florodora. The house was entirely packed in every part. On Monday Joseph Poole's Myriorama and variety combination commenced a week's engagement. The pictures are well painted, and are very smoothly manipulated, the dioramic effects being particularly good. The variety turns are of a very high order. Miss May Finch and the Veronas are redemanded for clever singing and dancing; Felix Somers deserves his warm reception as facial imitator; Mdlle. Orbasany has a very novel entertainment with performing cockatoos; and the Westwoods, for their marvellous trick-cycling act, receive unbounded applause. Mr Nat Abatt is well placed as guide and raconteur.

NEW PAVILION.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Geo. Gude.—The Daintons do a smart turn as comedy duettists and dancers; the songs and duets of Parry Jones and James Carr are a musical treat; Arthur Gilmore and Sam Mitchello are good comedians; Miss Evy Roselle and Miss Dora Dale are pleasing both in dance and song; and the duologue, "Mr and Mrs Brown," is presented by Alex and Cole.

MANCHESTER.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr W. H. Broadhead; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—A capital pantomime, Dick Whittington, which was produced some weeks ago at the Grand Junction Theatre by Mr Edward Marris, and for the book of which Messrs Rogers, Lowther, and Marris were responsible, has made a welcome reappearance at the Oldham-road house, to which a big audience was attracted on Monday evening. Good as it was in the first week of its production, many improvements have taken place in this popular show, all the artists being quite at home in their development of the various parts. Miss Joey Preston makes a smart and satisfactory Dick Whittington, and Miss Mena Eckerman as Alice used a good voice to advantage and moves well in the rôle. Comic business is in the hands of Mr Fred Acton, Mr W. Frean, Mr Harry Russell, and the well-known gymnastic comedians, Messrs Rezene and Robini, all of whom carry the fun forward at a rare pace; while others who distinguish themselves vocally and otherwise are Miss Agnes Clarges, Mr Will Kashma, Miss Hulo Hodson, Miss Florence Allen, Miss Elsie Allen, Mr Ben Rowe, and Miss Topsy Holden. Interspersed throughout are the clever speciality turns of Messrs Rezene and Robini, the Brothers Kashma, equilibrists; Miss Georgina Nicol, child mimic; Madame Roma's lady aerial wrestlers; the Marions, acrobatic dancers; Benkroe, bone soloist; the comical Freans; Rowe and Holden, cake-walkers; Russell and Eckerman, tramp singers, and the Sisters Roma, club jugglers. Nothing better than this need be wished for on the road.

METROPOLE THEATRE. — Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Katie Lawrence is the principal turn in an excellent programme here this week, and justifies her reputation as a star comedienne by the style in which she renders her various popular songs. Capital business is submitted also by Hall, the mimic; Moto, eccentric musician; the Ralston Boys, sensational vocalists; Duncan, a smart club manipulator; and the Eight Lancashire Lads, in a clever speciality act. Other good and enjoyable turns are the Walonells, in their comic acrobatic bar act; Nina Elmo, comedienne; Carr and Rose, comedy vocalists; J. P. Dane, eccentric comedian and dancer; and Oswald, in a hand-balancing speciality.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead. Mr Walter Melville's company, in A Girl's Cross Roads, is the attraction here this week, after a week at the Royal Osborne Theatre.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Potasch.—The well-known Indian piece Wep-ton-no-Mah, played by the clever American Indian actress Go-won-go-Mohawk and her company, is the attraction here this week. Many realistic effects are included, and the story and staging are picturesque and dramatic. Go-Won-Go Mohawk is the centre of interest, but adequate support is rendered by Miss Minnie Goepel as the Colonel's daughter, Nellie, Mr George Courtney as the villainous Manuel Lopez, and the humorous efforts of Mr Guy D. Hackney, Mr Dan Ryan, and Miss Jessie Hart. A stirring knife fight takes place in the scene of The Indian Camp, and various interesting specialities are introduced in the second act.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Manager Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Mr H. Hesslegrave and capable company are seen to advantage here this week in Soft Tommy, which is greatly appreciated. Ben Hur displays great strength, and his lifting competition is very popular; Wragg and Wragg, military athletes, give a highly finished display of swordsmanship; the Crown Trio of speciality vocalists render their songs most successfully; the Itrams are seen to advantage in a novel trapeze; and delightful musical turns are provided by Les Strads and Saxo. Other enjoyable items are supplied by Fred Casburn, comedian; Frank Tyrrell, comedian; and the animated pictures. Sadie Simpson did not appear on the night of our visit.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—The chief attraction here this week is Mr John F. Preston's company in a dramatic sketch, The Streets of Manchester. Culpitt, comedy magician, gives an excellent display of conjuring and hat manipulation, and is most cordially received. Jack Horsley shows ability as a bag-puncher, and gains much applause. The Three Delaries are very clever acrobats, and are seen to advantage in their speciality act, "The Demon Grotto." The animated pictures are exceptionally good, and the Countees are repeatedly recalled for their delightfully rendered harmonious duets.

TIVOLI. — Managing Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr Arthur B. Wilkes.—The charming French comedienne, La Jolie Titcomb, heads the bill here this week, and sings several songs in excellent style. Williams and Brown are exceptionally smart cross-talk comedians, and continual laughter follows their efforts. Walter Emerson, a capital comedian, makes a hit with his songs, "They didn't thank me" and "Another one off to America;" Mdlle. Santoi presents a pleasing scena, "The Merry Japs;" the Three Dorians go through a clever aerial act; Keene and Adams are decidedly entertaining in song, dance, and patter; La Tostia is an expert mandolinist; Nellie Navette sings and dances nicely; Lillie Le Breton is graceful on the trapeze; and Will Bell sings a capital Irish ditty with an effective dance added.

EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Will Collins.—The inimitable Nellie Wallace is here this week, and her reception, more by sheer ability than popularity, is something to be proud of. Her songs are all highly amusing, and her patter and eccentric business create roars of laughter. Tilly Bébé, said to be the youngest trainer, in the world, appears with her troupe of magnificent lions, and goes through a remarkable performance. Rounds of applause are earned by Morton and Elliott for their capital musical, vocal, and phenomenal paper manipulation act. Lily Marney, comedienne, makes a big hit with "The Spanish Irish Girl," and is deservedly well received. The Selbinis provide a highly finished acrobatic, bicycle and musical pot-pourri act, which is much appreciated. Visto and his pretty daughter Irene are decidedly pleasing in a refined drawing-room musical act; Wilson Hallett is a first-rate child mimic, and creates much laughter; Charles Pastor sings a laughing song with success; and Auto and Mobil, the original comedy motorists, are clever and amusing. The American Bioscope shows some excellent films, including "The Cheeky Traveller" and "A Race for a Husband."

GRAND.—Lessees, Messrs Thomas Barrasford and Will Sley; Manager, Mr H. C. Arnold, jun.—The Sandor Trio present a first-rate gymnastic performance here this week; and the Schutzenlieserl'n Quartette of lady singers and dancers are pleasing in the extreme; the Four Andys are clever comedy acrobats; Lily Seville, comedienne, sings and dances well; Mdlle. Henrietta, in a novel musical entertainment, is well received; and Gillin, ventriloquist, creates a good impression. Other good turns are done by Lil Esplin, comedienne; Bert Evans, comedian; and Fred Bronte, descriptive vocalist. Woodrow and Lunn, who appear on the programme, did not appear on Monday night.

PALACE. — Manager and Secretary, Mr P. Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr J. H. Stringer.—The renowned Boissets are appearing here this week in their well-known acrobatic sketch, The Bricklayers, their antics causing roars of laughter. Another attraction is Banker, the Canadian cyclist, who contributes a highly sensational "turn." He rides down a steep track, at the bottom of which some contrivance causes the machine and rider to throw a complete somersault over a bar, although travelling at a terrific pace; Michalinis, in their comic equilibrist act perform some smart tricks, and are deservedly well applauded; Henry A. Moore's vocal imitations of actors and comedians please greatly; Collins and Rice are seen to advantage in an amusing item, The Ballet Girl and the Comedian; Sybil St. Elmo, ballad vocalist, sings remarkably well; Will Cornish is a delightful handbell ringer; and George Linton appears with success as an "acrobatic bounding" artiste on the tight-rope. A capital selection by the orchestra and a series of animated pictures are included in the programme.

MANCHESTER HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr E. P. Morgan; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr H. Hall.—The Bombardment of Port Arthur, a decidedly novel and effective naval spectacle, is proving a big attraction here this week. The scene depicted is the Harbour and Town of Port Arthur at nightfall deepening to night, with the Russian fleet at anchor in the roadstead; the Admiral's ball; advent of the Japanese fleet; torpedoing of the Tsarevitch; rival fleets in action; the Polosk on fire and sinking; Russia's crippled fleet; withdrawal of the victorious Japanese—the whole forming a vivid picture of modern warfare on the seas. The various manœuvres and mimic battles are as near reality as ingenuity can make them. A most remarkable item for a music hall, especially on the two performances nightly system, and only possible in the most up-to-date Hippodromes. From last week remains the big turn of Herr Seeth's lions. The new comers include two exceptionally clever and amusing turns by the Brothers Artois on the triple bars, and Conway and Leland, the "merry monopedes." Signorina Verera, the Italian Nightingale, sings in excellent operatic style; Harry Carsdale is successful with his farm-yard imitations; and Harry Grattan and capable company cause endless laughter with their sketch, Packing Up. The Choristers render an illustrated song, "Nobody seems to love me now;" and the Bioscope shows an excellent series of films.

MARGATE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr W. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr C. F. Bawtree. — The musical comedy Miss Mischief has proved an irresistible attraction here, and as presented by Mr Godfrey Lamplugh's company, has been received with real delight. Mr T. E. Conover in the rôle of Private Harris, V.C., causes endless amusement by his quaint and humorous interpretation of the part of the ubiquitous servant. The part is sustained throughout with great dash and go, and he literally revels in the presentment. Mr Arthur Jenner as the bluff old salt, Admiral Sir H. Bethune, through whom all the mischief occurs in mistaking the maid, Mary, for his ward, Kitty, is excellent. Mr Cecil Curtis as Jack Bethune plays well, his acting and singing being alike much appreciated. Mr F. Mantell as Lord Fitz-Sherry enacts the dude well, and contributes largely to the success of the piece. Mr Fredk. Sandy makes a capital Hiram Q. Pegg, and Mr H. Ellesmere is all that could be desired as Count Von Himmelblau. In the rôle of Kitty Malone Miss Ethel Hughes is delightful. All through she plays with pleasing vivacity, her singing and dancing gaining her well-deserved encores. Miss Cissie Francess ably seconds the efforts of the heiress, as Mary Ann Smith, her maid. Miss Eileen Guilbert capably fills the rôle of Lady Orrery, and the remaining parts are all in good hands.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr E. Macknight; Business-Manager, Mr Chas. E. Hardy.—Mr H. Edwards Cecil is here this week with the farcical comedy The Strange Adventures of Miss Brown, the bright little piece which has amused a Margate audience before. Miss Madge Carrington acts charmingly as Angela, and Mr H. Edwards Cecil is an excellent Captain Courtenay, their vocal contributions being well received. Miss Georgie Thomas plays and sings well as Clara Loveridge, Miss Marie Jonquil also scoring as Matilda Jones. Miss Dora Eunice Eastlake is a capable Euphemia Schwartz; Mr Beresford Lovett is all that can be desired as Major O'Gallagher; Mr Humphrey Warden makes a most amusing Sergeant Tanner; and Mr Julian Hays the most mirth-provoking of music masters as Herr Von Moser. Mr Idy Freer puts in some good work as the soldier, Michael Doueherty, and Miss Rosetta M'Laren plays the Principal of the Academy with all sufficient austerity. The remaining characters are well sustained, and La Scala Troupe of dancers contribute some pleasing Terpsichorean quartets.

MIDDLESBROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Theatres, Limited; Managing-Directors, Messrs Geo. and Chas. Imeson.—Mr T. Arthur Jones's No. 1 company in Life's Sweetest Sins is here. Mr Jones himself gives a skilful and artistic portrayal of the principal part. He is ably supported by Miss Madge Morley as Doreen Rivers. As Dr. Colbrooke Mr Oswald Douglas is successful, and the same may be said of Mr Charles Sewel's Ernie Woodstone. Mr Frank Thornton proves a capital Captain Rawlins; Mr Bertram Lee makes the most of his opportunities as Martin; Miss Amy Rudd ably sustains the rôle of Fay Colbrooke; and the Bess Grayson of Miss Sara Dudley is excellent. An interesting and novel feature of the play is the appearance of a submarine boat in the third act.

OXFORD.—Lessee, Mr Wm. Peacock; Manager, Mr Wm. Ainsworth.—The Bros. Edgar provide amusement here with their patter, and another good turn is provided by the Three Schaffers, smart equilibrists. H. O. Willis meets with a good reception; the Three Goldinis are clever acrobats; and Tell and Tell, eccentric comedians, please. H. K. Bradshaw, with a sweet tenor voice, is a hit, and Anthy does some clever feats on the wire. Sam Weller, J. P. Carroll, and the Bio complete the programme.

MIDDLETON.

PARDOE'S THEATRE.—This week Queen of the Night is being played here. Miss Lilla Wilde enacts the adventuress artistically, and Mr Charles Sandford infuses all the necessary villainy into his performance as Philip Stoneleigh. Mr James Stillwell is very successful as the hero, and Mr E. Thorp Tracey and Mr Herbert Colley are capital comedians.

MORLEY.

ALEXANDRA HALL.—This hall has been occupied during the week by the New Century Animated Photo. Company with a capital display of pictures, including scenes from the Far East, "Alice in Wonderland," the Baltic Sea Outrage, and other notable events.

MOTHERWELL.

NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident Manager, Mr W. Gillespy.—Mr Fred Karno's company is paying a return visit here this week in His Majesty's Guests. Mr R. H. Kitchen gives a capital impersonation of Sergeant Lightning; Mr Charles F. Howard is a very good Lord Easem, being ably seconded by Miss Jessamine Newcombe as Lady Maude. Mr W. Smith is very amusing as Mr Miffin; and Messrs James Ross and C. Leoville as Selina and Bunker respectively combine with the other members of the company to make up a very strong cast.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

TYNE THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr Fred C. Sutcliffe.—Warm support continues to be accorded Cinderella. Mr Mark Sheridan is high in popular favour as the Baron, and enjoyable performances are those given by Mr Josh Dixon and Mr Gus Le Clerq as his daughters. Miss Bessie Featherstone makes an admirable principal boy, and the title-rôle is charmingly embodied by Miss Alice Russon. A hit has been made by Miss Lina Verdi in her imitations of well-known singers.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Teale Lingham.—The Babes in the Wood fully holds its own in popular estimation. Miss Dolly M'Calla and Miss Hanid Alexander give immense satisfaction as the Babes. Successes have also been scored by Miss Maud Prenton and Miss Elise Cooke as principal boy and girl respectively. The American Comedy Four make welcome appearances. Mr T. E. Dunville as the Baron occasions merriment in his songs and patter, while Mr R. H. Douglas and the Poulakis afford pleasure by their performances.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr T. W. Rowe.—Mr Howell Webb's company is here this week in The Convent Bell, a drama which contains many sensational episodes. Welcome diversion is occasioned by the comedy scenes, of which there are an abundance, while the whole production is further varied by the musical contributions which are introduced.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Director, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr E. Leslie Conroy.—Heading the bill here is a combination known as the Union Gatling Guards, who put on exhibition a Gatling Gun, and their manipulation of which is smart and instructive; Tom Stuart's impersonations reveal the possession of ability for this class of work; and a Scotch comedian in J. K. Macfarlane makes his first appearance here. An exceedingly skilful performance on the triple horizontal bar is given by M'Phee and Hill. Amusement is created by Burns and Evans as Alfonso and Gaston, and a similar state of things prevails when Geoffreys and Benson occupy the stage with their sketch. The Sisters Neilson are applauded for their dancing; Mdlle. Emmy with her dogs, and Beppo's monkeys are also included in the evening's entertainment.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Thornton and Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Nelson Barry.—A packed house on Monday welcomed Cinderella, which has been transplanted here from Edinburgh. Miss May Marton enacted the part of Cinderella in pleasing style, her singing and dancing calling for warm praise. The performance of Miss Ada Twibell as the Prince was quite satisfactory, and Miss Fanny Wright displayed her customary ability as Dandini. Comedians of merit in Mr A. G. Spry (Baron) and Messrs Percy Curry and Augustus Wheatman (the Ugly Sisters) work hard for the success of the performance. The drolleries of Mr Fred Zola as Buttons are much appreciated, and Messrs Conan and Doyle, in songs and patter, create merriment. Dancing is a prominent feature, and some excellent displays are given by the Six Lancashire Lasses and the Four American Idols. The orchestra is under the direction of Mr E. T. De Banzie.

GRAND THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Business Manager, Mr E. W. Bacon.—Heatonians have a pantomime after their own hearts in Dick Whittington, which continues to enlist enthusiastic support. Prominent in the fun-making are Messrs Bob Selvidge and Dan Thomas; while leading honours among the ladies are easily secured by Miss Gracie Grahame as Dick and Miss Fanny Harris as principal girl. Their songs in particular are capitally given.

PAVILION THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr Will H. Boardman.—The Four Cliftons, Olympian acrobats, are the principal attraction, and give a performance well worth witnessing. Tom Lloyd is a comic vocalist of ability, and contributes several amusing songs. George Penn is prominent as an eccentric musician, and plays on numerous instruments. Morritt's Blind Man excels in feats of memory and calculation, and his entertainment proves a very popular item in the programme. The Bennecelli Troupe introduce a somewhat novel turn, introducing gentlemen and lady acrobats, who perform some startling feats with apparent ease. De Henau, painter with his toes, has been seen here before, and his clever work in painting pictures, playing tunes, &c, deservedly earn for him the plaudits of the audiences. Aladini's Cockatoos are a troupe of performing birds who do many smart tricks. Charles Morritt, the magician, introduces some startling novelties, and has to respond to numerous recalls. Larry Lewis, comedian, and the animated pictures are also included in the programme.

NEWPORT.

LYCEUM. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Sidney Cooper.—The Golden Ladder is being performed this week here by Miss Marie Austin and E. Vivian Edmond's company. Miss Conyers Radcliffe gives a sympathetic presentation of Lillian Grant; Mr Harry Cullenford is an ideal representative of the Rev. Frank Thornhill; and Mr Frank Hill's impersonation of Samuel Peckaby is successful.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr O. Stoll.—A strong bill is put forward for patrons here. Duncan's dogs provide a turn that is both amusing and interesting; the Wille Brothers are a clever trio of head balancers; and Newhouse and Maud perform some clever feats in cycle riding. Morcashani, "La Belle Creole," has a wonderful voice, which she uses to advantage; Maud Ross, a clever comedienne, is popular, and a good turn is presented by the McGregors. Will Mitcham provides a lively musical turn; Lily Lena sings some catchy songs; and an electrical gymnastic novelty by Tolle D'Araignee completes a strong bill.

NEATH.

THEATRE ROYAL (LATE ASSEMBLY ROOMS).—Lessee and Manager, Mr Albert W. James.—The attraction here this week is Miss Bonwin Carlton's company in The Plucky Nipper. Mr Geoff Sutherland submits a manly impersonation of Captain Frank Leslie; Mr G. B. Wright as Colonel Fenwick is good; the villainous Richard Vanbrugh is well drawn by Mr Edward Fryer; Mr Edward Surrey as Bill Burgess is capital; and Mr Douglas Campbell, with songs, does well as Tommy Atkins. Miss Lilian H. Radburn is charming as Ina Fenwick; Miss Esther Lamonte is good as Daisy Paget; and Miss Bonwin Carlton as the Plucky Nipper is well received.

NORTHAMPTON.

OPERA HOUSE —Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr W. J. Andrews.—The Royal Carl Rosa opera company is here this week with the following répertoire: Monday, Cavalleria Rusticana, in which Madame Augusta Renard, Miss Douglas Wilson, Miss Ethel Pender-Cudlip, Mr Lewys James, and Mr Edward Davies met with a great reception; Pagliacci followed, in which Miss Lizzie Burgess, Herr Julius Walther, Herr Charles Victor, Mr Edward Davies, and Mr Lewys James did well. On Tuesday Faust was presented with Mr Edward Davies and Madame Una Bruckshaw as the primos. On Wednesday Carmen was played, with Madame Augusta Renard in the title-rôle, supported by Mr H. C. Hedmondt. On Thursday Rigoletto, and on Friday Don Giovanni were presented. The orchestra is of the best, the chorus most efficient, the ballet good, and the staging excellent. Mr Eugene Goossens and Mr Walter Van Noorden are the conductors.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager Mr Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr Robert Barton.—Dandy George, with his clever dog Rose heads the programme with an entertainment which is highly appreciated. The genial Tom Brantford is another good turn; Johnny Dwyer also makes a successful bid for public favour; Arthur Patmore scores as a female impersonator; George King and Tom Delaine furnish a refined comedy act entitled "At the Club;" Ailsa Douglas, soprano, meets with warm approval; Flo Burriss, descriptive character comedienne and dancer; and Gracie Logan, soubrette and a graceful dancer, are also great favourites.

NORWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr Fred Morgan.—Mr Milton Bode's pantomime, Cinderella, is attracting large audiences. Miss Addie Love both acts and sings well as Fairstar, the fairy godmother; Miss Hebe Bliss is thoroughly successful as Prince Brilliant; Miss Marie Reeves is a very pleasing Dandini; and Miss Florence Beech as Cinderella wins golden opinions for her song "In Dreamland." Miss Blanche as Rosie Romp gains approbation for her pretty dance; Mr Leo Sterling creates much fun as Baron Balmy, and entertains with solos on the side-drum, bugle, posthorn, and cornet; Mr Geo. Antill is good as Capus, and Messrs Lanton and Lane are very amusing as the Prince's servants. Mr John Nolan as Gladys and Mr Percy Dawsone as Violet are successful as the ugly daughters; Miss Maud Davey is a skilful siffleuse; and Leo Sterling is well received in his musical speciality act. Major Harry Sitherland displays ability in his rifle and bâton manipulations, and Bert Woodward is a clever trick cyclist.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr F. W. Fitt; Musical Director, Capt. Selby.—A return visit is being made here by Servais Le Roy, Mdlle. Talma, and Leon Bosco, who have received a hearty welcome. Ralph and Nellie Howard are pleasing entertainers; Princess Pauline gets much applause; Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, the sweet-singing cardboard-box makers, are great favourites; Wilson Blackledge, society entertainer, is very amusing; Tate and Tate, trampolin acrobats, astonish with their novel display; Great Scott is a clever juggler and ladderite; and Charles proves himself a first-class comedian and dancer.

NOTTINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Howard Finney.—To the great regret of patrons Mr Arthur has decided to withdraw Robinson Crusoe at the end of next week. As a pretty spectacle it has charmed, and the company engaged in the performance has made it immensely popular by the hearty manner in which they have entered into their work. Miss Madeline Du Val, Miss Mabel Osborne, the Sisters James, Miss Madge Melbourne, and Miss Nellie Christie merit the plaudits showered upon them; and uproarous laughter is drawn from all parts of the house by the genuinely comic methods of the comedians, Messrs Bob Baxter, Harry Crane, Fred Solo, Wally Scott, and the Two Austins.

GRAND THEATRE. — Manager, Mr Charles P. Cooke.—Goody Two Shoes has now reached its last week, and this has brought out the best resources of all the artists. The new songs, dances, and specialities presented from week to week have been received with enthusiasm, and the production throughout has well deserved the hearty welcome accorded to it. Miss Ida Gladstone (principal boy) and Miss Annie Casey (principal girl) have sung and danced with untiring zeal, and their efforts have met with the fullest appreciation. The Misses St. Julian, Bessie Deane, and F. Spencer have acted their parts with the utmost vivacity, and admirable work has been shown by Misses Issa Steel and A. Marsden. The comedians' business has not flagged in the least, and their eccentricities have met with abundant reward. Mr Charles Chard has made a thoroughly comical Simple Simon, being ably supported by Messrs Bliss and Bliss, Pete and Juno, Sidney Dean, James Kurry and Arthur Stratton.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, A. W. Bull.—In the Ranks always meets with a good reception, and a large audience on Monday cheered the efforts of Messrs Arthur Carlton and H. Armitage's company in no uncertain manner. Mr Edward Lloyd as the hero Ned Drayton plays capitally, and looks every inch the part. Miss Edith Blair-Staples tenderly portrays the sufferings of Ruth Herrick, gaining many audible expressions of sympathy. Mr Herbert Cecil represents boldly and incisively the villainy of Gideon Blake. Mr Arthur Palling as Colonel Wynter and Mr A. W. Chappell as Captain Holcroft give pleasing embodiments, and Mr Lionel Sullivan makes a typical Farmer Herrick. A charming Barbara Herrick is seen in Miss Daisy Norman, and Mr Eric Dane is effective as Mr Timmins. The comic element loses none of its effect as described by Misses L. Barley Clarke, Maud Darley, Harriett Russell, Flo Ravenshear, and Messrs Arthur Byron, James E. Page, and Leon Ainscliffe.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr C. H. Bowmaker.—The mannerisms of Mark Melford are funny in the extreme, and in the sketch Black and White his facial expressions compel roars of laughter. Salamonski and his perfectly trained horse submit a fine performance, in which the animal is put through difficult tricks. The acrobatic feats of the Szarvasi-Ferencz Troupe make a capital exhibition of clever balancing and jumping. Burke, Andrus and Frisco are as mirth-provoking as ever with their scene in Trafalgar Square; and a sketch by Burke, Moller and Teller, is also productive of laughter. Ginnett's Rejected Remounts seems as fresh as on its first visit, and the hilarity is contagious as the sketch proceeds. A remarkable little dog is shown by Clown Ferreros, whose knowledge of harmony has been cultivated to a high degree. Juggling by the Alaskas forms a smart item, and the Piquays obtain much applause for their acrobatic act. John Alexander and Co. add to the merriment by a sketch entitled Troubles of a Tourist.

NORTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Jefferson; General Manager, Mr Horace Lee; Secretary, Mr Gordon Jefferson.—The boards here this week are occupied by Mr and Mrs Chalmers Mackey's company, which has presented The Wearin' o' the Green before appreciative audiences. As Barney O'Hea Mr Chalmers Mackey fills the part admirably; Mr Charles Homer is responsible for a capital impersonation of Shamus M'Dermott; Mr John C. Chamberlain gives a satisfactory rendering of Michael Kenny; and Mr H. Sainsbury scores as Sir George Courtney. As Norah M'Garth Mrs Chalmers Mackey is seen to great advantage; Miss Lalla Stanhope is clever as Biddy M'Ginn; Miss Kathleen Clare is pleasing as Ellen Fitzgerald; and the remaining parts are well sustained.

NEW CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr William Mould.—The bill here is headed by the Jansons, in their speciality act, which gains much applause; the St. Johns, comedy musicians and dancers, receive a hearty welcome; and Kalan and Kalar, novelty acrobats, give a smart performance. Miss Rose Dashwood, serio; Mr Tom Lake, actor-vocalist; Mr J. H. Clark, the singing boilermaker; and Payne's Bio-Photoscope are also successful.

NORTHWICH.

CENTRAL THEATRE. — Proprietress, Mrs S. Golden; Manager, Mr Percy Webb.—Miss Olga Audré's No. 1 company in The Mockery of Marriage has been here this week. Miss Audré's Alva Kenyon is an admirable piece of acting, Mr Arthur Winpenny as the villain Dick Kenyon gives a capital delineation, and is ably seconded by Mr James Dalton as Seth Pearce. Mr Charles Boult is successful as Jack Stanley, Miss Florence Gillwood constitutes an ideal Rose Vernham. The comic element of the play is extremely well looked after by Mr Will Skelton and Mrs Sydney Halling as Toby Wright and Mary Ann Barnicote respectively. Mr Harry Nelson does full justice to the part of P. C. Rice, and Little Katie is natural as Nellie Kenyon. The Four Aces deserve every praise for their clever acrobatic performance.

NUNEATON.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietors, the Theatre and Entertainments Company, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr Herbert Barrs's company is here this week, and each night delighted audiences have followed with keen interest the fortunes of Cinderella. The company is an excellent one in every respect, the dressing is elaborate, and the staging good. Miss Maggie Stuart is much in favour as Dandini; Mr Carl Frederinks makes an excellent Baron Stonio; Miss Tessie Vandean as Prince Charming is exceptionally good; and Miss Miss Louie Counsell sings and acts with great effect as the Fairy Godmother. Miss Minnie Willett is a charming Cinderella. Much merriment is supplied by Messrs Oscar Mills (Flossie) and Walter Langford (Araminta), their efforts being duly applauded. Mr Paul Pry (Buttons) and Miss Marie St. John (Pretty Polly) also call for special mention. The Ya Pyn-Keto Family contribute some clever turns, which are well received. On Thursday night Mr Cross, the popular managing director, took his annual benefit, on which occasion extra attractions were added to the programme.

OLDHAM.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr George Knowles. — M. and Mdlle. Belloni's performing cockatoos; Unthan, the armless wonder; the Gladenbecks, in a clever performance on the silver rings; O. T. Fiske and Nellie M'Donough, in a comedy-drama, Brocky's Temptation; Mr Harry Clifford, a capital comedian; Griff, in an amusing performance; Rivington and Gordyn, who are well received in a laughable duologue; the Dainton Girls, duettists; and Geo. Formby, a very acceptable turn, form the attractions here.

GAIETY, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr E. J. Dexter.—An excellent company here includes Bayne and Hope (Ronald and Evelyn), in an effective scena entitled An Emperor's Divorce. Mdlle. Magna is appreciated for a classical statue act; a clever knockabout turn is submitted by the Wiltons in their triple bar act; the Two Romers are well received for their clever duets; Rim Lang, American society entertainer, is heartily appreciated; Rodin creates roars of laughter; the Dunvilles are very successful in their musical act; and Miss Della Dance, comedienne and dancer, and Raymond's Bioscope conclude the entertainment.

EMPIRE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr Hulme.—A welcome return visit of Mr C. P. Levilly's London company in Amorelle met with an enthusiastic reception on Monday. Mr Eric Thorne as Dr. Napoleon Bonaparte Crow kept the audience in a continual state of merriment; Miss Stella Gastelle as Amorelle was as captivating as ever; Mr John Doran in the arduous part of Jules acquitted himself creditably; Mr Newton Ide makes an ideal François; and Mr Fred Seymour is as powerful as ever as Dotard. Mr Robert Fairbanks made a capital Count. As Lesbia Miss Kitty Cavendish sang charmingly.

OXFORD.

NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr C. C. Dorrill.—This week Mr George Dance's company in The Duchess of Dantzic is fulfilling a most successful engagement here, the theatre being nightly packed with delightful and absolutely enthusiastic houses, who evidently appreciate the artistic treat afforded by a thoroughly efficient company in a really good opera. Miss Rita Presano in the arduous title-rôle scores a complete success, her acting and singing meeting with the keenest appreciation. Miss Alice Coverick is a dainty Renee De Saint Mesard; Miss Amy Burton is an acceptable Lizette; Miss Lilian Drake a capital Empress; while the disagreeable parts of Napoleon's sisters are played with true artistic finish by Miss Edith Carlyle and Miss May Harris. Mr Frederick Moyes gives a clever and convincing impersonation of Napoleon; Mr T. C. Maxwell sings delightfully and acts exceedingly well as Adhemar; Mr Mackesay Cullin is splendid as Marshal Lefebre; and Mr Colin Mackay is highly amusing as Papillon. The opera is splendidly mounted and staged, the chorus is strong and of excellent quality, and the company richly deserve the success they undoubtedly achieve.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr H. G. P. Wells—Mr Edward Neville's company is occupying these boards this week with The Sorrows of Satan and The Anarchist Terror. In The Sorrows of Satan Mr Edward Neville depicts Prince Lucio Rimanez with great dramatic skill and intensity, and may be complimented on his capital rendering of a most difficult part. As Geoffrey Tempest Mr C. T. E. O'Connor is highly successful, and Mr Gus Bowerman does justice to Lord Lynton. Mr Will White does his work well as Morris, and Mr Harry Dowling well sustains Amiel. Miss Violet Hammersley makes a most attractive Mavis Clare, and Miss Lois Esmond is well suited as Diana Chesney. Miss Cecile Byrne makes the most of Mrs Grunbes, and Miss Annie Burnette is forcible as Lady Sybil Elton.

PAISLEY.

PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile.—To-night Mr Savile's pantomime Aladdin concludes after a most succes ful and brisk five weeks' run. It is a worthy addition to the list of successes in pantomime—and Mr Savile has produced seven in Paisley—at this house. The attractiveness of the musical numbers and the wealth of funny business account for much of Aladdin's popularity. Invariably the house has been crowded at every performance, matinées included. New songs and business have been introduced this week, and an extremely interesting and clever entertainment, as well as being funny, is submitted by Messrs Hess and Lisbon, in their skating speciality turn. Mr Alec Flood has stage-managed the pantomime throughout with conspicuous ability.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr J. H. Savile; Manager, Mr Delno Fritz. — Here this week are Fee Lung, Chinese transformation juggler and back rope-skipper; the Glasgow Clinchers, vocalist; Belford, the boneless wonder; C. Gray, in his great table and pedestal act; Harry Jennings, singing, patter, and dancing comedian; and the Weimars, with trumpet and bugle calls entertainment.

TOWN HALL. — Proprietors, Magistrates and Council.—The Joseph Poole Myriorama and Myriograph is a great and decided attraction in this town at present. The exhibition is of supreme excellence, and the vaudeville combination is of undoubted ability, all the turns being vociferously applauded.

PERTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Aldridge.—Mr Charles Frohman's company is here this week in Sherlock Holmes. Mr Kenneth Rivington's impersonation of Sherlock Holmes is most realistic. Mr Fred Inwood's portrayal of Dr Watson is excellent, and Mr Arthur B. Murray forcibly depicts Professor Moriarty. Miss Florence Radcliffe as the suffering Alice Faulkner readily wins the sympathy of the audience, and Miss Carrie Lacey as readily gains their approbation as an actress of no mean talent in the rôle of Madge Larrabee. Mr F. Clive Ross ably acts the part of John Forman; Messrs Howard E. Laing and William Wilson are suitable exponents of Sir Edward Leighton and Count Von Stahlberg; Mr Ernest Grey shows to advantage in the part of James Larrabee, as also does Mr Harry G Wright in that of Sydney Prince. Mr Harry Mann is an able Alfred Bastic; Mr Charles Chaplin's Billy is most commendable; Messrs George Fairburn, Charles E. Scutt, T. Williams, M. M. Lomis, and R Ashford contribute towards the success as Jim Craigin, Tim Leary, "Lightfoot" M'Tague, John, and Parsons respectively; as also do Misses Ethel Gordon, Marjorie Murray, and Hattie Newcombe in the parts of Mrs Faulkner, Thérèse, and Mrs Smedley.

PETERBOROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr A. Darville Vernon.—Robinson Crusoe is being presented here this week by Messrs May and Huntley's company. The pantomime furnishes a good all-round entertainment. Miss Dulu Burgoyne is successful as the principal boy; Miss Maud Ethelda is a pleasing Princess; and Miss Florence Kendall a satisfactory Polly Hopkins. Mr Fred May is an amusing Madame Crusoe and the eccentricities of Mr Horace Bain and Mr James May are in great favour. The Sylvian Quartette of lady dancers and Elliot and Warne make themselves popular.

PLYMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Langdon Lee.—Though this is the fifth week of its run the pantomime of Dick Whittington is still going strong, drawing big houses and eliciting general praise. Much of the success is due to Ille Jack and Biddy, impersonated respectively by Mr Pat Waddock and Mr Frank Weir; Dick, who finds a capable exponent in Miss Margaret Ruby; Alice, bewitchingly represented by Miss May Angus-Young; and Princess Zorilda, a lively study of which is given by Miss Nellie Sheffield.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Williams.—Mr George Dance's company is appearing here this week in Veronique. The piece is beautifully mounted and superbly acted, and its fortnight's stay here should be productive of liberal patronage. A conspicuous success is Mr Scott Russell as Florestan. His singing is both cultured and sweet. Another gifted vocalist is Miss Lena Maitland, who appears as Veronique's aunt, and words of praise for her efforts in a similar direction are deserved by Miss Maud Boyd, who essays the character of Agatha. Miss Gracie Sinclaire as the bride Denise acts vivaciously and pleasingly, and Mr Tom Shelford makes a popular bridegroom. Mr Leslie Holland's acting as Coquenard was very humorous, and elicited much laughter. The chorus work, like that of the principals, was very efficient.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton.—Mr Mouillot's pantomime Robinson Crusoe opened a fortnight's engagement here on Monday, after a successful run at Exeter. Brightly written, full of tuneful music, sparkling with good things, and capitally mounted, it goes with a swing from start to finish, thanks to the clever acting and enthusiasm imparted by one and all. Miss Rose Helene in the title-rôle is delightful, and Miss Mary Conroy as Polly acquits herself satisfactorily. Other successes are Mr Percy Cahill, Mr Anderson, Mr C. Stephenson, Mr Mat Melrose, Mr Almonte, the Misses Lalla Cowell, and Reve Canning.

PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Brothers; Manager, Mr J. Field.—A well-selected programme is submitted here this week. A more expert juggler than Chinko it would be impossible to find, his performance being astoundingly clever. Florrie St. Clair is a clever comedienne, with a good répertoire. Mr Frank Gerald and company appear in a sketch entitled Captain Starlight. Plenty of fun is extracted out of this turn by the Brothers Hersleb, and Harry Sheldon's tenor singing is much appreciated. Others appearing with success are Mr T. G. Callaghan, comedian; Minnie Dare, dancer and comedienne; the Hudson Powell Troupe, acrobats; and Guy Ryder, vocalist and whistler. Vernon's animated pictures are also included.

PORTH.

POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE. — Manager, Mr W. Bynoth.—This week we are favoured with a return visit of Mr John H. Tompkinson's Royal Gipsy Children. Mr Fred M'Lean, comedian, is responsible for some excellent fooling; the Musical Keiths are well received; Miss Elsie Rubina gives a graceful performance on the wire; the Lizette lady acrobats meet with great approval; and Miss Annie Knowles, trombone soloist, is loudly applauded. the vocalists are also much appreciated.

PORTSMOUTH.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr T. E. Agate.—Mr Tom H. Taylor's company is appearing here this week in the drama entitled The Female Swindler. Lu Valroy is capably and excellently played by Miss Violet Ellicott; Miss Florrie Kelsey admirably portrays May Andrews; Jack Coulson, criminal investigator, is played with great force and precision by Mr Jerrold Heather; Mr Luke Foster has a number of parts as Coulson's factotum, and sustains them with judgment; the Geoffrey Warden of Mr Bernard Mervyn is a clever piece of work; and Abraham Mikestein is played by Mr Rule Pyott in a careful and painstaking manner.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr W. Pratt.—The programme at this well patronised place of amusement is again well varied. The four Maisanos with their eccentric musical act are very clever, their manipulation of musical instruments and juggling at the same time being greatly appreciated. Mr and Mrs E. H. Lucas with a number of scenes from Dickens is a taking turn; Franco Piper, banjoist, has scored a great success; Robert Gilbert and his troupe of performing dogs and cats is another popular item; the Jagos, American speciality artists, have had a good reception; and other artists in the bill are Demi and Semi, comedy musical act; Sisters Selwyn, speciality vocalists and dancers; Lillian Travellie, soubrette; Sam Dalton, character comedian; and J. W. Ellison, vocal comedian.

PRESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Stephen Pritt.—Messrs Geo. Edwardes and Charles Frohman's company is appearing here this week in Are You a Mason? Mr Anthony Fawcett in the rôle of George Fisher is very amusing; a clever and humorous impersonation of Amos Bloodgood is given by Mr Harry Ashford; Mr Arthur Claremont acquits himself well as Frank Perry; John Halton has an excellent representative in Mr Tom Mowbray; Mr Frank Ridley as Hamilton Travers causes much merriment; and Mr Valentine O'Connor capably depicts Ernest Morrison. Miss Harriet Trench sustains the part of Mrs Caroline Bloodgood in a perfectly natural manner; Miss Violet Graham looks and acts well as Eva; Miss Lily Beagle and Miss Isla Glynn are seen to advantage as Annie and Lulu respectively; Miss Mabel Younge is an attractive Mrs Halton; and Miss Edith Ife is quite successful in her portrayal of the uncompromising Lottie. Hushed Up, a comedietta in one act, by W. Hall, is presented as a "curtain raiser."

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Sawyer and Woodruffe.—Mr H. A. Jordison's company, in the Babes in the Wood pantomime, is occupying the boards here this week. Robin Hood, taken by Miss Madge Daley, gives some capital songs, and is deservedly applauded; Mr Edward Avon as Baron Toodle is an exceedingly clever acrobatic dancer; Little Cluley causes much amusement in the part of Bantam; Mr Rowland Hill in the rôle of Dame Peggy supplies some original jokes and patter; Marjorie finds a pretty dancer in Miss Kitty Caffrey; Misses Dolly Cullen and Elsie Jordison show remarkable ability as the Babes; Messrs Cullen and Carthy evoke endless laughter as Beery Bill and Sloppy Dick; George Chanti brings the house down with his perfect impersonations and mechanical effects; and Jordison's Empire Quartet excel in their graceful dances.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Broadhead and Sons.—A capital programme is submitted here this week. Perci Honri heads the bill, and his selections and imitations on the concertina are greatly enjoyed; Caselli and James are expert banjoists; Bell Pearl and company's musical sketch A Bit of String is well received; Florence gives a clever performance on the rolling globes; Ranji Singa displays astonishing skill as a magician; the Sisters Terry are exceptionally good mimics; Capt Gerald scores a success with his performing lions and dogs. Acceptable comedy entertainment is provided by Sandy and Carl, Will Saul, and Stoll Bros. in their respective turns.

RAMSGATE.

AMPHITHEATRE. — Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General Manager, Mr Henry Bowman.—Alice in Wonderland, put on in charming style by Messrs Lowe, Pagden, and Gilbert's company, afforded keen enjoyment to the audiences which assembled here on the first three evenings of the week and on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. Miss Rosie Dane, a very clever child actress, played sweetly as Alice, sang tunefully, and danced with much grace. Mr Frank Lincoln was vastly amusing as the Mad Hatter, and all the other members of the cast filled their respective parts in a distinctly praiseworthy manner.

RAWTENSTALL.

GRAND THEATRE.—Co-Proprietors and Lessees, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr J. Potter.—Messrs Preston and Doherty's excellent company is this week appearing here in The Rich and Poor of London. As May Braithwaite Miss Dora Dench was decidedly good; Miss Lillie Woods as Aunty Scrimp gave a clever impersonation; Miss Dora Pass as Polly Philpot was also considerably above the average; and Master Bert Dench as Dixie was equally successful. As Mark Stanley, the villain of the piece, Mr Andrew Money gave a realistic rendering; and Mr Robert Hall as Dr. Morton was very successful in his reading of the part. Mr Sidney C. Cranston was capable as Gussy Lamb, as also were Mr Tom Bowman as Dan'l Drake and Mr Jack Sydney as Lawyer Grabbam. Bill Binks had an admirable representative in Mr E. J. M'Sweeney, and as Spider Jack Mr Sidney Dench was well placed.

READING.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr Reginald Taylor. — Mr George Dance's company is here this week with the musical play The Chinese Honeymoon. Mr Philip Haydn is excellent as the Emperor Hang Chow, Mr P. Allerton Turner, plays cleverly as Chippi Chop. Mr Fred Payne is droll as Hi-Lung. Mr Foster Courtney is exceedingly amusing as Mr Pineapple. Miss Jose Collins plays with vivacity as Mrs Pineapple. Miss Alice Drummond scores as Mrs Brown. Miss Nellie Wigley is entertaining as Soo-Soo and Miss Vera Vere is an attractive Fi Fi.

ROTHERHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr W. Manning.—Mr James Kiddie's company is this week presenting the pantomime of Little Cinderella under the personal direction of Mr George Burton. Miss Rose Parezer is a pleasing Fairy Sunbeam, and Mr J. H Hawtrey is a great success as Malicio, the spirit of mischief. Among the mortals Miss Florence Watson is delightful in the title rôle, and Mdlle. De Rose is smart as Prince Perfect, her songs being received with much applause. Miss Susie Bevan as Dandini is very effective, her songs also receiving well-merited recognition. Miss Pollie Kiddie is a sprightly Viscount Nappe. Miss Minnie Harvey scores as Lord Stiff, and Miss Nellie Stewart is deserving of mention as Marquis De Cadie. Mr W. Saunders as Baron Shiphtolotte is very droll, and Messrs H. O. Lovell and Fred Denman are most amusing as the Baron's eldest daughters Ethel and Maud. Mr Charles Harvey is humorous as Pimples Messrs Houpla and Hecla give a special turn, and the transformation scene is exceptionally beautiful.

ROCHDALE.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED. — Managing-Director, Mr W. Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr Charles Clucas.—The Country Girl is paying a welcome visit here this week. Mr Cyril Thompson has a fine voice and acts with distinct success the part of Geoffrey Challoner; Mr H. C. Morton does well as the amorous Sir Joseph Verity; Mr St. John Hamund as the Rajah of Bhong contributes one of the hits of the performance; Mr Willie Hartill as Douglas Verity; Mr Arthur Hayter as Grandfer Mummery; and Mr Scrope Quentin as Lord Anchester are each successful in their efforts. Mr Johnny Osborne again appears as Barry and keeps the audience roaring with laughter. Miss Maud Harvey makes a winsome Marjory, her vocalism being most acceptable. The Princess Melaneh is acted with conspicuous ability by Miss Nina Carlton. Miss Addie Lennard is a great favourite as Sophie, her dancing and mimicry being hugely enjoyed. Miss Edna Knollys is a capital Mrs St. Quinton and Miss May Glen charmingly enacts the part of Nan.

CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs Smith and Lee; Business-Manager, Mr S. L. Lee.—The Mackweys, in comedy wire act, convulse the audience with laughter at their cleverly worked performance; Carrie Leslie, vocalist; Barney Noble, comedian; Jarvis and Higgins, jugglers; Leon Edmond and Co., musicians; T. B. Talbot, comedian; Miss Olive Poole, comedienne and clog dancer; and the Cranks, comedy cyclists, make up one of the most enjoyable programmes we have had here for some time.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Hargreaves.—Harry Edson and his wonderful dog Doc submit a clever and amusing turn. The Sisters Marion, juvenile duettists, are enthusiastically encored for their well-rendered songs. Frank Coyle, comedian; Horace Monto, soldier vocalist, &c.; Fred Lloyd and Co., in a laughable sketch, The Blind Spinster; Robins and Collier, in The Photographer and the Lady; Belle Braham, illustrated song artiste; and the Empire Bioscope complete an attractive list.

RUGBY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr E. Parker Royston.—This week Mr F. G. Kimberley's company is presenting the drama, Bound to Win. Mr F. G. Kimberley gives a manly and effective rendering of the part of Harry Lyndon; Mrs F. G. Kimberley as Marion Forbes displays exceptional ability; Miss Kathleen Eckhart is realistic as Gladys Orme; Mr F. Strickland as Philip Ayre deserves special mention for his able exposition; and Mr James Hont is very good as Ned Oakley. Miss Edie Machin as Winnie Oakley is graceful and artistic; Mr Horace Custins as Willie Wilkins causes much amusement; and the remaining characters are all in the hands of capable artistes.

FOSSETT'S HIPPODROME.—In addition to the usual equestrian turns, ably given by Mr Robert Fossett, jun., and Miss Fossett, an additional attraction this week is the engagement of Kardoo, the handcuff king. Another attractive turn is that of De Lougay, contortionist and acrobat; C. Beckett is very good as usual; and Otto also is well worthy of mention.

SEACOMBE.

IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Kiernan.—Mr and Mrs Calvert Routledge's company is here this week with The Cricket on the Hearth. The various immortals are excellently impersonated by their respective exponents. Mr Calvert Routledge as John Peerybingle plays with force and earnestness; Mr Sidney Sarl is a decided success as Mr Tackleton, as is also Mr David Curtis as Caleb Plummer; Porter is strongly played by Mr H. Speedwell; and Edward Plummer is adequately looked after by Mr Alex. Willis; Bertha, the blind girl, is pathetically enacted by Miss Sybil Ruskin; and the cheery and vivacious little Dot is prettily played by Miss Mary Jocelyn (Mrs Calvert Routledge), whose natural and easy style wins repeated applause.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr A. C. Harrison.—Home, Sweet Home, is being performed here by Mr Frank Lindo and company. Stephen Armitage is admirably depicted by Mr Lindo. Captain Gerald Gambier looks the rôle of the Duke of Ancaster capitally. That of Lucas Lyle is skilfully handled by Mr Wilson Coleman. Joan is charmingly embodied by Miss Marion Wakeford. Sybil is carefully represented by Miss Gertrude Bingham, and Dora is prettily played by Little Madge Bingham. Mr Geo. Jervis, Mr Sidney Bryant, Mr Geo. Overs, and Mr Norton Shield also do good work.

SHEERNESS.

COLISEUM.—Sole Proprietor, Mr T. C. Dorling; Manager, Mr Chas. Melvin.—A capital bill is presented here for this week, the principal item being the production of a dramatic sketch, entitled After Many Years, in which various scenes of everyday life are faithfully portrayed. Lu Lu and Leon, Continental jugglers, are enthusiastically received; Miss Florence M'Intyre, soprano; and Miss Alma Florence, elocutionist, meet with a good reception; and the programme concludes with the comedy sketch My Son's Wife.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr P. Reymond.—The programme for this week includes the Walcot combination in the comedy sketch, Exchange is No Robbery. Hawley and Orescent in the laughable farce, The Messenger, are also well received. In the variety line Mr Fred Carroll, comedian; Mr Leonard Royal, descriptive vocalist; and Miss Lillie Gainsly, comedienne, are likewise deserving of special mention. The Kendalls, in the comedy act, "All Brand New," also score.

SHEFFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr F. W. Purcell; Acting-Manager, Mr T. S. Carter.—The enormously successful annual Goody Two-Shoes is still delighting large audiences.

LYCEUM THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager and Treasurer, Mr J. E. Beaumont.—A merry and right good old-fashioned pantomime is Mr Jas. Kiddie's Dick Whittington, which was played to a good house on Monday. The scenery and dresses are first-rate, the ballets are pretty, and the overture, "incidentals," and concerted finales have a distinctly musicianly flavour. Mr George Burton, who has composed and arranged all the music, has the true gift of melody, and some of the lyrics show a distinct advance on any of his former work. Like Mr J. L. Barry, the author of the book, Mr Burton is a "Sheffield Blade." The artists work together with great and commendable esprit de corps. Miss Bessie Willan is a pretty and vivacious Dick, and Miss Leah Laurie sings and acts cleverly as the dainty Alice. Miss Florence Hilton is again to the fore as the dashing Lord Algernon. Miss Meta Anderson is successful as the Fairy Queen. The trio of capable comedians, Mr Cyril Dundas as Fitzwarren, Mr Allan Carruthers as Idle Jack, and Mr Harry Albery as the Cook, Messrs Clifton and Gibson as Peter and Larry, cause great laughter. The Three Sisters Kilner do some agile acrobatic dances; Curtis and Vanity are clever cake-walk experts; Miss Isabel Taylor is a handsome Captain Navycutte; Mr M. V. Vido makes an active and intelligent Cat; and the Belle Troupe of dancers are deservedly applauded. The youngsters have had a grand feast of innocent fun this week at the Lyceum, for in addition to Dick Whittington at night, Mr E. St. Alban's company have given matinée performances of the ever-delightful fairy play Alice in Wonderland.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr C. W. Ramsay.—Aladdin still holds the boards. Those tremendous favourites and most diverting drolls August and September, are still making the rafters ring with roars of health-giving laughter, and they are ably seconded by Messrs Charles Austin, Teddy Benham, and Royce and Royston. To the great regret of her countless admirers, Miss Esta Stella, the graceful, pretty, and piquant principal girl, has been out of the cast for several nights, through indisposition. Her part has been ably sustained by Miss Dacre. Miss Ida Worsely, an excellent and refined vocalist, scores with her pretty song, "The Girl from Dixey." The Misses Conway and Bolton, in a coster song and dance, are very popular; and the terpsichorean displays of the Four Magnets are enthusiastically applauded.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.

ST. HELENS.

THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr M'Leod Loader.—Mr Charles Frohman's No. 1 company is on a return visit this week with Sherlock Holmes. Mr H. A. Saintsbury gives a fine portrayal of the title-rôle; as Alice Faulkner Miss Vera Longden displays undoubted ability; Mr W. F. Stirling makes an effective Moriarty; Dr. Watson has a capable representative in Mr Lawrence Leyton; and Mr Leslie Carter and Miss Maud Linden are seen to advantage as the Larrabees.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs T. Barrasford, Will Sley, and F. Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr A. V. Carnel.—The trump card here this week is Miss Connie Goodwin and her piccaninnies, who are creating a furore. The Waldrons, old favourites, cause much hilarity in The Silly Burglar; Miss May Milburn scores well as a comedian; as does Miss Lily Turner as a descriptive vocalist. Coram gives a clever turn as a ventriloquist; and Monks and Wood, duettists; Post Mason, baritone; Mr Arthur Beecham, comedian; and Weisker's bioscope complete the programme.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, Jan. 23, the Drama, entitled
"EAST LYNNE."

The attraction at the Pavilion this week is a revival of the favourite drama East Lynne, which, with its strong human interest and emotional situations, still retains its old drawing powers. A fine impersonation of the sympathetic Archibald Carlyle is given by Mr Ashley Page, who plays with much artistic appreciation and effect. Mr James C. Aubrey is to be commended for his admirable exposition of Lord Mountsevern, and Mr Frank Harding indicates the villainies of Sir Francis Levison without undue or enforced characterisation of wickedness. An able reading of Justice Hare is given by Mr Russell Norrie, and Mr Charles Crawford is earnest as Richard Hare, while Mr Harry Barford infuses plenty of broad humour into the part of Bullock, which keeps the audience in laughter whenever he is on the stage. As Lady Isabel Miss Marion Denvil is splendid, her acting being truly emotional and natural. The varied feelings are cleverly portrayed, and Miss Denvil well deserved the applause with which her efforts were repeatedly greeted. Miss East Robertson, who made her first appearance here this season, is well suited as Barbara Hare, and Miss Tina Mavro gives a highly finished rendering of Cornelia Carlyle. Miss Cissie Bezzant is excellent as Little Willie, and Miss Laura Thorne is capable as Joyce. Mr Cremlin makes a capital Lawyer Dill, while a charming representative of Wilson is found in Miss Kitty Cardigan. Miss Ethel La Roze is a piquant Susanne, and Miss Alice Grahame a pleasing Little Isabel. The scenery and mounting is all that could be desired.

WEST LONDON.

"THE UGLIEST WOMAN ON EARTH."

Though loth to lose the pleasant charm of pantomime, there was nevertheless a certain sigh of satisfaction with which the Marylebonens settled down to witness Mr Melville's extraordinary play The Ugliest Woman on Earth, for come what may the West Londoners will always be true to their first love, the drama. Miss Beatrice Homer sustained the title-rôle with conspicuous ability and power. Her well-modulated voice was heard to advantage during the four trying acts, and altogether her performance calls for the highest praise. Miss Margaret Watson's study of the Italian girl Morita was another capital piece of work, her make-up and delivery being excellent. As Rose Courtenay Miss Rosabel Dodd was full of passion and energy, and Miss Nellie Jackson was particularly bright and cheery as the lively Aggie Brown. Mr Stanley Bedwell portrayed Jack Merriman with an abundance of vital energy and skill, his robust rendering of the part being much to the liking of the critical patrons of this Church-street playhouse. As Hubert Gold Mr Leyton Cancellor was well placed, giving an easy rendering of the character; and Mr Stuart Roberts was equally capable as his companion in crime, Antonio Luchessi. Raggles, a London Hooligan, was played by Mr Fred De Vere in a most amusing way, and the exertions of Mr Tubby Edlin as Tubby Herrick were much appreciated by reason of Mr Edlin's humorous delivery. Mr Frank Denis was decidedly good as Doctor Carry; Mr Renaud Lockwood was a manly Tom Redvers; and Mr Wilton Boyne was satisfactory as Lamerel. All the other parts were in safe hands, and the staging and mounting beyond reproach. Mr George Henry looked after Mr Melville's interests in front in a courteous and discriminating way.

THE TERRISS.

On Monday, Jan. 23, the Comic Opera, by Maurice Ordonneau and Arthur Sturgess, with Music by Audran, entitled
"LA POUPÉE."

A rise in the thermometer of merriment has been distinctly perceptible this week at the Terriss on the advent of La Poupée, and the pretty house has resounded with mirth at the funny incidents which surround the escapades of the fascinating doll; but even at the highest degree of hilarity the large audiences have been constrained to pause in admiration of the entrancing melodies which abound in Audran's masterpiece. No better rendering of the work could be wished than that which the celebrated Ben Greet company, under the direction of Mr J. Bannister Howard, presents. Mr Edward Thirlby skilfully develops the fun of the part of Hilarius, taking advantage of every opportunity to divert. His capers and grimaces are infinite in variety, and the witty dialogue which he is called upon to speak gains by his droll methods of delivery. Popularity is early attained by Miss Cissie Wade, who is a winsome Alesia, her movements as the doll being instinct with refinement and grace. She is all brightness and vivacity, and a flexible voice aids her in the tuneful rendering of the melodious airs, her love duets with Launcelot being very gratifying to the ear. Mr Algernon Lee is a well-graced novice as Launcelot. Excellent taste and expression marks his singing, and an unpretentious sense of humour is an agreeable feature of a well-studied impersonation. The airs and graces of the two old gallants Loremois and Baron Chanterelle are elaborately presented by Mr Harry Bishop and Mr Stanley White, their part in the trio "She is charming" being invaluable. Father Maxime has a grave and reverend representative in Mr Joseph A. Brull, who wins an encore for "A jovial monk am I," which he renders with admirable breadth and power. The humours of Balthazar are dryly accentuated by Mr Bob Anchor, who keeps well within the bounds of delicacy, and opens his mouth only to amuse. A comely Madame Hilarius is found in Miss Alice M'Farlane; Mr Clowes is a quaint Notary; and Messrs Devonport, Charles Flynn, and G. Speed are well suited in the parts of Basilique, Benoit and Angelot. Henri has a personable exponent in Miss Eva Ellis; Miss Carr and Miss Bailey are entrusted with the parts of Guduline and Jacques respectively; minor rôles are played by Miss Fenn and Miss Ward; and as the First and Second Doll Miss Violet May and Miss Florence Bedell are adequate. The opera is exquisitely dressed and the mounting is based on elaborate lines and with no apparent regard to expense. The chorus sing with remarkable precision and purity of intonation, an agreeable achievement in which they are supported by the augmented orchestra directed by Mr H. H. Shaw.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

Mr Murray Heriot this week is presenting Messrs Geo. Brydon-Phillips's company in the popular nursery tale of "Sinbad." The book, which has been written by the well-known Drury-lane author, J. Hickory Wood, follows the story very closely, and is smartly put together. Miss Jessie Preston as Sinbad is the life and soul of the pantomime, and seems to put vitality into everyone who is on the stage with her. Mr Walter King is very funny as Mrs Sinbad, and his dry, quiet humour is in marked contrast to Sinbad's hilarity. Miss Nellie Randall, a very charming and dainty Badoura, sings "My Barney" and dances admirably, and Miss Amy Maple makes a pretty, chic Zoe. Mr Fred Maple is excellent as Hindbad, being well applauded for his excellent dancing, and Messrs Esmond and Verona as the two seamen, Jack Bobstay and Ben Bunk, are prominent in the fun-making. Mr G. F. Snow and Miss Clare Farron as King Tibbles and Princess Naggles are encored for their dancing. Mr Leslie Digby, whose make-up resembles the celebrated Captain Kettle, stands out prominently as Captain Scuttle. Mr Frank Seabrook gives a very weird impersonation of Agrippa, the Old Man of the Sea, and Mr F. Kemble as Hassan plays the part well. Miss Cecilia Maude brings the part of Crystal, the good fairy, into prominence by her charming rendering of the song "The Land of Make Believe." There are not a large number of songs, but Miss Preston has a good reception for her singing of "Yo San." She also gives "Down at the Old Bull and Bush," much to the delight of the gallery boys who take up the chorus with heartiness. She joins Mr Walter King in some very diverting business, entitled "Who Killed Bill Bailey?" to the tune of "Cock Robin." Most of the company introduce specialities. The Maples give their acrobatic dancing, and also the "way they do the cake-walk in Japan," for which they receive a well-deserved encore. Messrs Esmond and Verona introduce their clever legmania performance. "Navaho" is well sung by Mr G. F. Snow, who is joined by Miss Clare Farron in a well-executed cake-walk. The scenery is on a lavish scale, and is very pretty, especially the Diamond Valley, which is a triumph of the scene painter's art. The music, which has been composed and arranged by Mr C. Johnson and Mr W. Stephenson, is smartly rendered by an augmented orchestra under the able direction of Mr W. Stephenson, and the good old-fashioned harlequinade, arranged by Mr H. Gardner, who plays clown, much to the delight of the juvenile portion of the audience, brings a most enjoyable evening to a close.

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Jan. 23, the Pantomime, entitled
"SINBAD THE SAILOR."

Although late in the field with a pantomime, Mr Samuel James's production is in no way to be despised, nor is it at all inferior to the many attractive pantomimes produced by the former proprietor, Mr Acton Phillips. Knowing what is required in Hammersmith, Mr James has engaged a company that works together for the good of the entertainment, and so attains a success. Due attention has been paid to the scenery and costumes, but they are—as they should be—secondary to the providers of the fun. The pantomime is divided into two acts, and embraces sufficient of the familiar story to be made plain to the youngest member of the audience. A handsome and dashing Sinbad is Miss Daisy Silcott, who gives an excellent interpretation of the hero. Her expressive singing is also received with much favour. Mr Con Silo makes a dramatic Davy Jones, the Demon of the Deep, and Miss Ida Katerina as Coraline, the Mermaid Queen, is also seen and heard to advantage. A side-splitting Shiraz Ali, a tailor, is Mr Sid Morton, and in combination with Mr Jack M'Kenzie as Cogia Ali he succeeds in provoking much merriment. Tinbad the Tailor is comically played by Mr Dan O'Connor. Wiffles and Woffles, the twin babies of Shiraz and Cogia, as impersonated by Messrs Dale and O'Malley, are hugely appreciated, their efforts causing the heartiest laughter. Mr Bob Graham is a capital Sultan, and Captain Coddle is well rendered by Mr Charles Sando. Mr Dick M'Kay is an impressive Old Man of the Sea. Zoradee, Sinbad's sweetheart, serves to introduce Miss Ethel Dove, a smart and attractive young lady, who has quickly achieved distinct popularity during her short stay here. Her acting, singing, and dancing are of great value to the production. Prince Azan is effectively portrayed by Miss Ruby Norton, and Miss Ethel Marles distinguishes herself as the Princess Irza. The chorus sings admirably, and Mr J. Reillie deserves credit for the arrangement of the music. An amusing harlequinade is furnished by the Sando Troupe.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Jan. 23, the Negro Musical Comedy,
"IN DAHOMEY."

Dalstonians like a constant change, and the alteration from pantomime to the Negro musical comedy In Dahomey, which is being played there this week, is evidently quite to their taste. In Dahomey, the work of Mr Will Marian Cook, contains plenty of lively music and a variety of incident which provides an almost unbounded source of amusement. Mr Dan Avery and Mr Charles Hart, "the sunny comedians," are really the life and soul of the piece. Mr Avery ably represents Rareback Pinkerton, and Shylock Homestead has a humorous exponent in Mr Charles Hart. Other prominent parts in the male cast are taken by Mr Pete Hampton, Mr Fred Douglas, Mr Walter Dixon, Mr Leon Williams, Mr Walter Richardson, Mr Pete Washington, and Mr Alex. Williams. Miss Lizzie Avery, who appears as Flossie, a flower-seller, is a great favourite, and certainly her singing is inclined to make her popular wherever she goes. Miss Tiny Jones as Lucille, Miss Fanny Wise as Pansy, Miss Netty Goff, Miss Laura Bowman, Miss Stella Hart, and Miss Pauline Freeman each contribute towards the undoubted success of the performance.

EALING THEATRE.

On Monday, Jan. 23, the Musical Comedy, in Two Acts, entitled
"MY LADY MOLLY."

After a successful four weeks' run with the pantomime Aladdin, My Lady Molly is again paying a visit here with Mr Arthur Hart's excellent company. Miss Maud Thorne is winsome as Alice Coverdale, and has a pretty voice, which she uses with effect. Miss Agnes Tandy in the title-rôle invests the part with a charming piquancy that wins her favour, and Miss Sybil Thorne sustains the character of Hester with conspicuous ability. Miss Florence Wakeham is a typical French governess; Mr Arthur Powell creates much merriment by an excellent portrayal of Micky O'Dowd; while Mr Edmund Sherras is frank and earnest as Captain Harry Romney. Mr Stuart Alexander as Lionel Bland is all that could be desired, and the Sir Miles Coverdale of Mr Fred Hobbs is a capital performance. Miss Maude Lucy is a fascinating Maid, and dances with great ease and effect. She is supported in excellent style by Miss Maud Mandrell. The small part of Reuben Oates is successfully undertaken by Mr Thos. R. Norbury, and Mr Charles Burney is commendable as Judge Romney. Numerous pretty young ladies comprise a large chorus, who sing sweetly; and a capital orchestra is under the direction of Mr Carlton Mason.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

"IT'S NEVER TOO LATE TO MEND."

After a month of pantomime Mr Sounes was rightly of opinion that his patrons would appreciate rather stronger fare, with the result that Mr John Wainwright and company have played It's Never too Late to Mend to appreciative audiences here this week. Mr John Wainwright keeps his old rôle of Tom Robinson, the convict of many aliases, and it is scarcely necessary to say that his impersonation has that breadth of conception and finish of execution only to be attained by careful study and constant practice. Every phase of the convict's character was carefully depicted, and whether trying to brain his warders with a flagstone or breaking down at the death of his fellow-prisoner, Mr Wainwright kept a firm grip on the attention and sympathy of his audience. Miss Kate Randolph gave a sweet and womanly rendering of Susan Merton, and indicated possession of the power to express genuine tenderness of feeling, notably in portraying Susan's joy and relief at the return, in the last act, of her old lover. Mr Wilfred Graham was a manly, straightforward George Fielding, speaking his lines with conviction and a refreshing clearness of enunciation. Mr Charles F. Johnson gave a virile and clearly defined representation of the Rev. Francis Eden, a chaplain of the muscular Christian type; and Mr Henry Lee acted the sneaking, cowardly attorney to the life. Mr W. R. Wilson was sufficiently vindictive as the Prison Governor; and Mr Edwin Davies was a dignified and venerable Isaac Levi; a strong and consistent impersonation of the corn-factor, Meadows, came from Mr Harold Webb, and the antics and business of Mr Fred Owen as Jackey caused much amusement. Miss Millie Wilton contributed a touching and sympathetic rendering of the boy Josephs.

"THE CHOSEN PEOPLE."

Russian Play, in Three Acts, by Eugen Tschirikoff, Produced at the Avenue Theatre on Saturday, Jan. 21, and Played in the Russian language.

Leiser Frenkel	Mr N. ORLOFF

The title of the above drama conveys its didactic character quite easily to the English mind; but its purpose, that of exciting sympathy for the Hebrew race in Russia, would have been fulfilled better had an English version been given. The three acts are largely given to dissertation and argument, but there are occasionally periods of swift action and tragic import, and the acting—always so sincere and earnest—made a deep impression upon the audience on Saturday. We are told that Tschirikoff is a promising Russian dramatist, and that, although an orthodox Russian, shows a comprehensive grasp of their mental struggles, occasioned by the oppressive and restrictive legislation, the social and religious prejudices, and the economic difficulties to which they are subjected. The story opens at the home of Leiser Frenkel, a Jewish watchmaker, who through riots had no less than three times lost all his belongings, and only escaped alive with the greatest difficulty. Frenkel has faith in the destiny of the Jewish people; and notwithstanding his sufferings is more peaceably inclined towards the authorities than his two children Boruch and Lia (Leah), both students with advanced views, who have participated in disturbances that led to their exclusion from the University. Frenkel's faith in Zionism—a movement aiming at the creation of an autonomous Jewish commonwealth in Palestine—is shared by Nachmann, who is indeed the champion of the Zionist ideal, according to which the Jew will cease to be an eternal wanderer over the face of the earth. Nachmann is in love with Lia, who, however, has given her heart to Beresin, a young orthodox Russian. The embers of Lia's religious faith are fanned into some semblance of life when she hears her father read the Sabbath prayers; and she hesitates to tell him of her attachment to Beresin, especially as his life had been embittered by her sister's conversion to Christianity. Nachmann makes a last effort to bring Lia back to her people by pointing out to her the misery of her own kith and kin, and his words produce a deep impression. Her distress does not escape the watchful eyes of her father, and the old man is painfully agitated when he learns from Lia's own lips of her love for a Christian. It is a terrible and unexpected blow, and he implores her not to take a step fraught with such momentous consequence. He had already lost one child, and now his only remaining daughter would also leave him in his old age. Beresin arrives, but Leah excitedly demands him to go away and leave her quite alone. News is brought of the Kishineff riots, and the remainder of the act is mostly filled out with arguments concerning Socialism and Zionism. At the opening of the third act Frenkel and various members of his family are awaiting coming events. The melancholy remarks among those present are broken by the bitter reproaches of Frenkel against his son Boruch, and, on Boruch exhibiting an utter want of sympathy with his own people, he is driven from the house by his father, who breaks down on the departure of the son. At the height of the confusion occasioned by the approach of the rolters, Nachmann hands a revolver to Lia, for use at the last extremity. Beresin, too, arrives, and taking hold of Lia calls on her, as well as on her father, to leave the house. Frenkel replies: "Am I also necessary? You only need her. Let her go if she likes; I remain alone." Lia prefers to stay, in spite of every effort of Beresin. The mob at last breaks into the room, Frenkel and Beresin are murdered, and Lia commits suicide.

The play is announced to be acted by the St. Petersburg Dramatic Company; but as the performance in the Russian capital was forbidden, it means merely a dramatic company from St. Petersburg, under the direction of Mr Orleneff, who played the fierce and passionate Zionist Nachmann with unrestrained vehemence at times, but generally with strength and conviction. Madame A. Nasimoff, who played Lia, has a command of emotion that stamps her as an exceedingly fine actress. She sounded the depths of her tragic rôle, and the moving scene between father and daughter became a most touching episode in her hands. She derived the best of support from Mr N. Orloff, whose portrait of the old watchmaker was lifelike. Mr A. Karataeff did well the little he had to do as Iserssop, a Jewish mechanic, who knows no other national distinction than that between rich and poor. He says "I only know two nations, one which works much and eats little, and the other which works very little and eats very much." The strenuous rôle of Boruch found an effective exponent in Mr D. Michailoff, and there was humour in the rendering of the two characters of Srul, a newsvender, and Dr. Furman by Mr D. Lotkowsky and Mr A. Sorokin. Mr S. Kramskoi made the character of Schloime (Frenkel's manservant) stand out by his truthful and consistent portraiture; and the minor parts were effectively handled. The audience in all parts of the house were most sympathetic, and this sympathy has not been lessened during the week by the terrible tragedy in St. Petersburg on Sunday.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

The concert of Wednesday evening at the Guildhall School of Music commenced with "The Maidens' Trio," by Miss Needham, which was gracefully rendered by the Misses Boult, Barker, and Lester. The voices of these young ladies blended harmoniously, and Madame Helen Armstrong had evidently taken pains in training them. Master Levin, a gifted pupil of Mr Barnett, did himself and his master great credit in Schubert's Impromptu in C minor, and Weber's Rondo in E flat. The Nocturne of Chopin in F minor required a little more expression to do it justice. But the Chopin spirit and style are rarely acquired, even by mature performers, and we shall not blame Miss Hilda Bregmann for lacking qualities that experienced artists do not always command. Sarasate's charming "Zigeunerweisen" solo for the violin was admirably played by Miss Margaret Holden. Recitations by Miss Ivy Popham, a youthful pupil of Mr Allen Beaumont, created a very strong impression, the talent of the little student being remarkable, and the teaching of Mr Beaumont equally so. Her rendering of "Heroes," by Barry Pain, was especially clever. The pretty song of Miss Grace P. Wyndham, called "Love, Toil, and Rest," had ample justice done to it by Miss Mary Williams. Mendelssohn's song, "There be none of Beauty's daughters," enabled Mr H. Everett to do himself some credit, but he did not quite reach the Mendelssonian standard. Miss Allitsen's duet, "Break, Diviner Light," was neatly rendered by Miss Glenister and Mr Atkinson. Miss Lillie Gill was heard in Gerald Lane's ballad, "So robin sang." Miss C. Fawcett in the pizzicato passages of Sarasate's Spanish Dance required a shade more finish, but pizzicato effects are not easy for a student. Miss Edith Dixon sang two songs of Reginald Somerville, and Mr Arthur Jay in a song and Miss Crabbe with a pianoforte solo concluded the concert. Mrs Charles P. Smith, as usual, superintended the young ladies, and Miss Kate Richards accompanied with skill and tact, being frequently of great service to the students.

SCENIC ARTISTS' ASSOCIATION.

The Scenic Artists' Association held their seventeenth committee meeting on Monday evening at the offices, Robert street, Adelphi-terrace, W.C. There were present Mr Walter Hann (in the chair), Messrs. E. G. Banks, Rich. Douglas, Will Hatford, W. T. Hemsley, R. C. M'Cleery, H. W. Owen, Harry Potts, Will Raphael, W. B. Spong, Geo. Tweddell, and Harry Woolls. The secretary reported that the following donations had been received since the last meeting, namely:—Geo. Herring, Esq., £1 1s.; Sir Anderson Critchitt, £1 1s.; Mr John S. Sargent, R.A., £1 1s.; Mr Fred Terry, £1 1s.; Rt. Hon. the Countess of Lytton, £1 1s.; Mrs Bethune, £3; Mr H. B. Irving, £1 1s.; Mr Gerald De L'Duckworth, £1 1s.; Mr Alfred Sutro, £1 1s.; and Messrs. David Allen and Son, Limited, £1 1s.

The following scenic artists were elected members of the Association:—Messrs Geo. S. Evans, of Ashton-under-Lyne; Phil Small, of Maida-vale; Will Hobbs, of Dover; and Edward Nichols, of Drury-lane Theatre. The following were elected honorary members:—Messrs John S. Sargent, R.A., M. Henry, and Fred Terry.

The SECRETARY reported that he had received offers from the following to lend pictures to the Association for their exhibition to be held at the Grafton Galleries in April next:—Mr H. Absolon, a painting of "Mrs Baguett," from Charles Dickens's "Bleak House," by his grandfather, the late Mr John Absolon, R.I.; Miss Catherine A. Nimino, water-colour drawing, by the late William Beverley; Mr J. Ashby Storry, "Haunted Still," by Matt. Morgan; "A Thames Backwater" and "The Last of the Old Horse" (Leicester-square), by William Beverley; "Llewellen" and "Lancaster," by W. J. Calcott; "Dining-room of the Hon. Lewis Wingfield," by John O'Connor; "Redbrook," "Sand and Sea," "Alldorf," and "The Quaker's Room," by Charles Mathews; "Lancaster Castle" and a screen worked by the late Mrs Keeley at eighty-nine years of age; from Mr G. H. Gaskin, a painting by David Cox, R.A.; Dr. D. Dyce Brown, water-colour drawing, by T. L. Leitch, a drop scene at Drury-lane Theatre; Mr J. Allen Glasse, water-colour drawings by P. Nasmyth and Clarkson Stansfield, R.A., also water-colour drawing by Pitt.

The following resolution was proposed by Mr W. B. SPONG, and seconded by Mr H. WOOLLS:—"That members who fail to pay their quarterly instalments within twenty-eight days of the date on which they are due shall not be reinstated as members until they have paid a fine of 2s. 6d. and the arrears."

The secretary was instructed not to send in future any notices of committee, or other meetings, or of subscriptions overdue, or reminders of promises of contributions to the guarantee fund, but to notify the same on the notice-board in the offices, and to advertise the dates of meetings in The Era.

On the nomination of Mr HARRY POTTS, seconded by Mr E. G. BANKS, Sir Philip Burne-Jones, Bart., was elected a vice-president; and on the nomination of Mr R. C. M'CLEERY, seconded by Mr HARRY WOOLLS, Mr William Harford was also elected a vice-president.

Mr H. Warner was elected to the committee to fill up the vacancy caused by Mr Harford's acceptance of the office of vice-president.

The Secretary of the Association informs us that since the committee meeting on Monday he has received offers from the following to lend the pictures mentioned to the Association's exhibition at the Grafton Galleries in April next, namely:—From Mr Walter Withall, water-colour sketch by the late W. Beverley of a drop-scene for the Old Theatre Royal and Amphitheatre, Liverpool; water-colour drawing by Clarkson Stansfield, R.A., "The Harbour of England"; "Old and New Edison Lighthouses," by Charles Ryan; drop scene by W. B. Laidlaw, "Diana and Actæon;" water-colour drawings by Richard W. M. Keen of "Mother Shipton and Father Time." From Miss Mabel Allen, pictures by the late Joseph Williams Allen. From Mrs Sarah Barclay, works by Mr Charles Tomkins; and water-colour drawings of "Venice," by Dareth Roberts, Geo. Chambers, and David Cox, R.A., &c.

The next committee meeting for election of new members will be held at the offices at 8·0 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 6.

THE HORNS CARNIVAL.

In a scene of animated gaiety and brilliancy rarely seen in Suburbia Mr R. J. Brinkley's final Fancy and Costume Carnival of the season took place on Wednesday evening. The spacious and handsomely decorated King's Hall at the Horns Hotel, Kennington, held a crowd that was large and representative, and the thorough enjoyment and comfort of the gay revellers were assiduously looked after by Mr Jean Kohl, the Horns popular manager. He was assisted by Messrs W. Simpson and A. Rose, who as M.C.'s directed the twenty-four dances on the programme with a skill and efficiency only attained by long practice. The march-past revealed character costumes in delicate hues and confections of surpassing loveliness quite bewildering in their kaleidoscopic beauty and variety. The amusing drollery and antics of the comical characters evoked much merriment. To the splendid march time of Mr A. Groves' admirable orchestra the long line of aspirants for honours passed before the lady and gentlemen judges. The first prize, an upright grand piano, was awarded Miss Mascott for a lovely electric-lighted creation entitled "A Persian Garden." The second went to Mrs Hinds, who as "The Moulin Rouge" wore an attractive costume, which won an exquisite diamond and sapphire bracelet. Mr Gates as "An Old Beau" carried off a gentleman's fitted travelling bag; Mr H. Stanford as "Nursery Rhymes," a pair of saddle-bag easy chairs; Miss Mabel Woolff as a typical and pretty "Fairy Queen" won a lady's high-grade bicycle; Miss Payne as "A Fiery Fiend," a handsome inlaid cabinet; Miss Stewart as "A Japanese Garden," a lady's fitted dressing-case; Mr Clarence as "An Absurdity" (a most effective comical character), a gentleman's fitted dressing case; Mrs Leslie Thomas as "England's Heroes," a lady's gold-mounted umbrella; Mr G. Morrison as "The King of Grease," a gentleman's gold-mounted umbrella; Mr C. Elliff as "A Market Gardener," a marble clock and ornaments; Mr Mott as "King Carlos," a combination tantalus; Mrs Gates as "The Ruling Passion," a silver tea and coffee service; Madame Katarine, "In the Snow," a handsome coal cabinet; Miss Kohler as "The Horns Poster," a case of carvers; Mr H. Dawes, a splendid female impersonation of "The Grand Duchess," a fitted tantalus; Mr Barrat as "A Toreador," a case of fish eaters; Miss Sullivan as "Nell Gwynne," a lady's fitted toilet bag; Mr Lidle as "A Matador," a silver afternoon tea set; Miss Ross as "A Horns Poster," case of fish eaters; Mr H. F. Fleth as "The Black Cat" (cigarette poster), case of fish eaters; and Miss E. Stuart as "A Japanese," a silver-mounted salad bowl and servers. Mrs R. J. Brinkley distributed the prizes, a vote of thanks for so doing being most enthusiastically carried, and acknowledged in a few well-chosen words by Mr R. J. Brinkley, the genial host of The Horns.

The growing popularity of the Horns Carnival balls was evidenced by the crowded condition of this handsome hall and the suite of rooms. Dancing was kept up with untiring spirit till daybreak.

MR EDWIN H. WYNNE played the part of Lord Fancourt Babberley in Charley's Aunt at very short notice on 16th inst. at the Comedy Theatre, and continued to sustain it until Mr Cooke's return. Mr Wynne was Mr Penley's understudy at the Globe, and has appeared in the character over 2000 times.

MRS. LANGTRY AND MR. ALLEN.

In the Court of King's Bench, on the 20th inst., before Mr Justice Warrington, sitting without a jury, was heard an action brought by Mr Henry Marsh Allen to recover damages from Mrs de Bathe for alleged wrongful dismissal.

Mr M'Call, for the plaintiff, stated that Mrs Langtry in the summer of 1903 was rehearsing a play called Mrs Dering's Divorce, for the purpose of producing it in the United States. Before July 23 a number of rehearsals had taken place, and there was in the piece a character called "Jimmy Foster," but the person playing it had not secured the approval of the defendant. In consequence she wrote to the plaintiff, asking him to call and see her, with the view to an arrangement for his taking the part. Plaintiff called, and it was arranged that he should take the character at a salary of £35 per week. The tour was to be until March, and plaintiff was to take the part, probably for the whole tour, but certainly until Jan. 1, 1904. At the time plaintiff had not seen the part, but when he studied it he came to the conclusion that it would not suit him, as it ought to be played as an eccentric character. He had at that period an offer from Mr Lewis Waller, who was organising a company to play Monsieur Beaucaire in the provinces, and of this offer he spoke to the defendant. Defendant dissented from plaintiff's view of the character of Jimmy Foster, and it was agreed that plaintiff should go out to America with defendant's company. The arrangement, however, was modified to the extent that in the event of Mr Clyde Fitch, the dramatist, having a part suitable for plaintiff in America, plaintiff was to be released on Nov. 1, or, at the latest, on Jan. 1. In return for this option, the plaintiff agreed to pay half his travelling expenses to New York. The play was performed at the Savoy Theatre, New York, on Sept. 7, but it was not appreciated by the public, and the defendant said to the plaintiff that she would be glad if Mr Clyde Fitch would require his services earlier than had been suggested. Plaintiff continued to play the piece until Sept. 21, when he was told by the acting-manager that another actor had been selected for the part, and plaintiff was asked to accept a week's salary in lieu of notice. Plaintiff declined. He did not play in the piece after the third week, but remained in New York, where he endeavoured to obtain an engagement, without success, until January, when he returned to England. On his arrival in London he applied to the defendant for £472 10s., being 16½ weeks' salary, from Sept. 7 to Jan. 1, less three weeks on account. Receiving no answer to that application, the writ was issued.

The plaintiff was called, and bore out in evidence his counsel's opening statement. He added that he was now playing with Mr Cyril Maude in Beauty and the Barge. He was recommended to Mrs Langtry by Mr Charles Hawtrey.

Cross-examined by Mr Tindal Atkinson, K.C., plaintiff said that the criticisms upon the play and his part in it would not do him any good with Mr Clyde Fitch or with the American public. His return passage cost him 75 dollars, and the charge of £21 was made by his solicitor. Before taking the part at all he told defendant that it would not do him any good, but took it because defendant was somewhat in a fix, there being no time to have any other rehearsal. He did not say that he intended to go to New York anyway, and, therefore, would play the part for the defendant for four weeks for certain. No one would go to America under at least a ten weeks' engagement. Such an engagement would carry with it the passage money. At the time he went out there was no written contract, and it was quite true that he was not very well off about then. If Mr Fitch had wanted him after the New York season of four weeks with the defendant, he should have accepted the offer. He was exceedingly upset when asked to accept a week's salary by the acting-manager, but he made no effort to see the defendant, and to ask her for an explanation. Between September and his return to England he went to various places, amongst them to Washington.

Mr Atkinson—In search of work?—No.

You were following a company?—Yes.

Interested in anyone?—Yes.

Witness here asked his Lordship if he must answer these questions, and whether these had anything to do with the contract.

Mr Justice Warrington—I cannot stop them.

Mr Atkinson (proceeding)—A lady?—Yes.

Where she went you went?—No.

Sometimes?—Yes.

Where else did you go?—To Philadelphia and Baltimore.

That is where you went between September and January?—Yes.

Did you come back with the same company?—Yes.

In re-examination by Mr M'Call as to his expenses in New York, Mr Allen said his hotel bill was £2 per day, and it cost him £1 5s. for a cab from the landing stage to the hotel.

His Lordship—I happen to know that.

Mr Charles Warner, an actor, said he saw the defendant in August, 1903, when she told him she was unable to engage his son, as she had engaged the plaintiff for the tour, but had promised to release him after ten weeks if Mr Clyde Fitch required him. If that occurred she would be glad for his (witness's) son to join the company.

In cross-examination, witness said he would swear defendant mentioned ten weeks. A four weeks' engagement would be a most unusual thing.

Mr Lomas, managing clerk to the plaintiff's solicitors, said that from inquiries he made he found the rates from New York to England in January, 1904, varied from £18 to £35. As he understood plaintiff had something better than the lowest—he put down the figure in the particulars at £21.

This close the plaintiff's case.

Mrs Langtry was called, and stated that she engaged the plaintiff, and on the same day he rehearsed the piece. On the following day plaintiff said he thought the part would not suit him, and that he wished to play sentimental parts. After some conversation plaintiff offered to play the part in New York, and it was arranged that a man should be got to understudy to take his place. Plaintiff said that in any case he would be going out next month, as Mr Clyde Fitch wanted him for a play he was going to bring out. It was also agreed that plaintiff should pay half the passage-money. No contract was drawn up, because the engagement was to be a short one. She said nothing to Mr Warner about ten weeks. What she said was that she could employ his son after the New York period. After the piece had run a fortnight in New York, she told her manager, Mr Kiralfy, to intimate to the plaintiff that another person had been engaged to continue the company's tour in the part played by plaintiff. No claim was made upon her until March in last year.

In cross-examination, witness said she did not answer the plaintiff's letter, sent by his solicitor, because she never answered lawyers' letters. When unfortunate enough to receive them she handed them to her own solicitor. She understood from the plaintiff that Mr Fitch had engaged him to play in a new piece in October.

Mr Tindal Atkinson submitted that the engagement was for four weeks certain, and four weeks only, as plaintiff was expecting to be called upon by Mr Clyde Fitch, in which case plaintiff would be able to better his position.

Mr Justice Warrington said that being in the position of a jury, and considering this case from that point of view, the conclusion he came to was that the plaintiff had not made out his claim, consequently there would be judgment for the defendant. The £35 paid into court to make up the four weeks' salary would be paid to the plaintiff. Judgment was given accordingly.

'THE FORTY THIEVES" AT STRATFORD.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

In his latest Christmas production Mr Fred Fredericks has departed from orthodox lines by dispensing with several of the generally accepted features of pantomime, relying for success on a light and bright entertainment embodying sumptuously mounted spectacular effects, plenty of songs, dances, and concerted numbers, interpolated with an easily followed story, and containing an abundance of legitimate comedy business appealing to old and young alike. In this he has gauged to a nicety the tastes of the inhabitants of the populous Eastern suburbs for whom the Borough Theatre specially caters, and the record business which is ensuing must be exceedingly gratifying to all pecuniarily interested in the production. Miss Claire Romaine, whose fourth appearance it is in Stratford pantomime, easily retains her immense popularity. The part of Ganem suits her admirably, and her distinct enunciation, her vivacity, physical activity, appropriate acting, and general joviality render her an ideal principal boy. Her songs are received with enthusiasm, the chorus of "Pennies" being taken up nightly with avidity. An effective contrast to the exuberances of Miss Romaine is provided by the eccentric drollery of Mr Nat Clifford, whose original methods of extracting mirth never fail in their object. His very appearance is irresistible, and his excessively absurd rendering of a "mock" military ditty is excruciatingly funny, whilst his intricate dancing compels wonder and applause. These two artists share the success of a farcical duet, "Prophets," in which Mr Clifford invokes the aid of some "property" rabbits, together with other amusing business; and also in conjunction with Mr R. Saker-Harlow, whose performance as the donkey could not be improved upon, they provide one of the funniest episodes of the pantomime in their cave-robbing scene. Mr Kennedy Allen makes the most of his chances as Hassarac, playing the part with a dry, ironical humour which is most effective. His attempts to assert his authority with the band as their lieutenant is decidedly comical; his cigar-shop interlude with Miss Sylvester is in genuine comedy vein, and his song, "Josey," which concludes with a very quaint dance by Mr Allen and Miss Ashton, is a highly pleasing item. Mr Dan Crawley as Cassim, who looms so largely in the story, is admirably suited, and he does not overlook the dramatic possibilities of the part in the Cave scene. Cassim's better half, Cogia, is rather a robust dame in the hands of Mr Allan Wye, but his strong voice and excellent diction stand him in good stead in the numbers allotted to him. Miss Rosie Sylvester has become a general favourite as Morgiana. She looks very sweet and dainty in the different pretty frocks she dons during the performance, and she sings and dances with captivating grace and ease. Quite an uproar of "I will's" is the response to the invitation expressed in her song "Who'll be Johnny number two?" and "Romeo and Juliet" never fails to elicit applause. Miss Vere Gerald is happily cast as Abdallah, the captain of the Forty Thieves, playing the part with a martial air and genial swagger, which suits it immeasurably, besides singing "It's Tommy who carries the gun" in very appropriate style. Miss Muriel Vox as Zoe continues to win favour for her rendering of "Under a Panama," and Miss Daisy Webb never fails to win encore verses for her chic and vivacious rendering of "Sammy," in which she has the assistance of a clever confederate in one of the boxes. Saladin and Lallah are charmingly impersonated by Miss Ethel Harry-Nash and Miss May Harry-Nash respectively, and Miss Alys Eden makes a very graceful Fairy Sesame. The solo dances contributed by Miss Ethel Ashton, the première danseuse, are greatly admired and applauded. For the excellence and smoothness of the ensemble Mr Ben Barrow, the musical director, is responsible; and Mr Arthur Linforth's expert stage-management secures a smart performance of a brilliant annual.

GREENWICH THEATRE.

"THE SINS OF A CITY."

Miss Winifred Maude and company are paying a welcome return visit this week, and playing to satisfactory business the successful drama entitled The Sins of a City. Miss Maude appears again as Seaweed, the adopted daughter of Donald M'Ivor, and wins all hearts by her charmingly sympathetic performance. Mr Victor Du Cane is highly successful in the dual-rôle of the twin brothers, Joe and Jasper Woodleigh, and displays considerable power of characterisation; Mr Horace E. Herbert plays Sandy M'Donald in earnest and convincing style; Mr Leslie Beaufort is an excellent representative of Ralph Blackwater, K.C., his interpretation of the part being effective and powerful; and Mr Carson Melville as Isaac Levi is very good indeed. Miss Ellen Grey gives a clever rendering of Jenny, the old Scotchwoman; Miss Marie Lyons is a powerful and impressive Lesbia; Miss Lily Seymour is good as Mrs Miggs; and Miss Jenny Hackett is bright and amusing as Midge.

MR FREDERICK VINCENT, of 7, Coburg-street, Leeds, for many years general manager of the Leeds Grand Theatre, and formerly associated with Mr John Hart and the United Theatres Company as manager in Bradford and Hull, who died on Dec. 27 last at the Albion Hotel, Manchester, at the age of fifty-five years, left estate of the gross value of £2,215, with net personalty £785. Probate of his will of Aug. 11, 1899, has been granted to his brother, Mr Harry Engel, of 10, Parson's-green, Fulham, the sole executor, to whom for his services he bequeathed £25. The testator bequeathed his diamond pin to his friend, Mr John Hart, "as a token of respect, esteem, and regard, and as an expression of gratitude for the many favours, acts of kindness, and courtesies exhibited by him to me." The testator left the whole of his estate to his wife for life, but, as she had predeceased him, his estate devolves, subject to legacies, of £50 each to his nephew, Charles Engel, and his niece, Nellie Engel, to his brothers and sisters, Marie Rogers, Annie Belham, and Harry Engel, in equal shares.

Simone De Graissac ..... Mdlle. LEBLANC

PARIS, THURSDAY, JAN. 26.—We have been overwhelmed with new plays within the last fortnight, but nothing particularly striking seemed to come our way. I am, therefore, all the more pleased to chronicle the genuine success scored by M. Georges Berr's latest effort. It is in every respect a charming comedy, wherein the author has hit upon the original idea of showing us a father who grieves because his son is too steady. Yes, Pascal Merlereau is a thoroughly steady youth and works hard, whilst his father is solely bent on amusement. Pascal is engaged to Simone De Graissac, but the father, thinking that every young man should sow his wild oats before marrying, sends Pascal to Paris to his college chum, Gourgançon, an old "viveur," with instructions to show the boy something of life. Two months elapse, and father Merlereau has already had to pull out something like fifteen hundred pounds for his son's pleasures. Fearing that Pascal is going too rapid a pace, the elderly gentleman starts for Paris, where he finds to his dismay that the youth is as steady as ever, and that it is Gourgançon who has been enjoying himself at his expense. And then it is Merlereau senior's turn to succumb to the pleasures of the capital; and he makes such a prolonged stay there that his wife deems it necessary to take the train to Paris. The good-natured Pascal, in order to screen his father, tries to make his mother believe that it is he (Pascal) who has spent so much money, and that it was he who offered a little villa to the frail beauty, Mdlle. Jeannine De Bréoy. But Madame Merlereau has guessed the truth. She takes her husband back to Nantes, and tactfully lets him think that she knows nothing. And Pascal will marry Simone without having sown his wild oats. It required artists of real talent to interpret this subtle comedy, and M. Bour and the author owe a debt of gratitude to the exponents of the work. Mdlle. Dux, whom we were glad to welcome once more on the boards of a Paris playhouse, gave the necessary pathetic touches to the rôle of Madame Merlereau. M. Huguenet impersonated the "flighty" father in a masterly manner; M. Barral was inimitable as the gay Gourgançon; M. Brule was a sympathetic Pascal; Mdlle. Dallet remained original without lapsing into her old eccentricities; and Mdlle Rivière threw plenty of humour into the rôle of the old aunt Elizabeth.

THE play was preceded by Anne La Simple, a one-act farce, by M. Maurice Allou, a mediæval anecdote, wherein Anne, the wife of an innkeeper, confesses to her husband, who disguises himself as a monk, a sin she never committed. The husband at once becomes terribly jealous, and Anne, who only wanted to convince herself that he really loved her, informs him of the trick she played on him. This trifle was capitally played by M. Bénédict and Mdlle. Bertile Leblanc

"LA PETITE BOHEME," Operette, in Three Acts,
by M. P. Ferrier, Music by M. H. Hirschmann, Produced at the Variétés, Jan. 20.

Barbemuche ..... M. PAUL FUGERE
La Bretèche ..... M. PRINCE
Colline ..... M. CLAUDIUS
Arène ..... M. VAUTHIER
Marcel ..... M. ALBERTHAL
Mimi ..... Mdlle. EVE LAVALLIERE
Musette ..... Mdlle. JEANNE SAULIER
Comtesse ..... Mdlle. LEONE LAPORTE
Phémie ..... Mdlle. FOURNIER
Francine ..... Mdlle. GINETTE

Murger's Vie de Bohême having long ago lost all its prestige in France, it seems strange that M. Paul Férrier should have made the mistake of trotting out once more the "Bohemian," that silly type of man, the product of Murger's fertile brain, who never existed in the Latin quarter. We have lost all interest in Rodolphe, in Mimi, in Musette, in Marcel. And it was, therefore, hardly necessary to show us the masked ball which Barbemuche gives at the house of the Comtesse De La Bretèche, nor to take us to Montmorency, where Mimi goes back to Rodolphe, and Musette gives up her titled fiancé to return to Marcel. We were afraid of having to witness also poor Mimi's death; but the author fortunately spared us this. M. Henri Hirschmann had a difficult task to supply music to a work wherein there is hardly any action, but, being a musician of talent, he somehow or other got over the difficulty and gave us some bright melodies, excellently orchestrated, likely to become popular. The interpretation was fairly good. M. Paul Fugère was as funny as usual, and in the disguise of Catherine of Medicis created much merriment. Mdlle. Lavallière was a delightful Mimi, and the other rôles were well sustained. The work was beautifully mounted.

AT the Théâtre De L'Œuvre M. Lugné Poe gave an admirable performance of Gabriele D'Annunzio's La Gioconda, translated into French by M. Georges Hérelle. Madame Suzanne Desprès' Silvia Settata was a very fine creation, and that admirable artist was ably assisted by M. Lugné-Poe (Cosimo Dalbo) and M. Henri Burguet (Lucio Settata).

"LE CHOPIN,"
Vaudeville, in Three Acts, by MM. Keroul and Barré, Produced at the Palais-Royal, Jan. 20.

Dartignac ..... M. GALIPAUX
Roger Boulac ..... M. HURTEAUX
Robillard ..... M. GUYON fils
Prince Petroloff ..... M. TREVILLE
Collardot ..... M. HAMILTON
Madame Marignan ..... Madame BERTHE LEGRAND
Josette ..... Madame AIMEE SAMUEL
Suzanne ..... Mdlle. FIERNOLD
Diana ..... Mdlle. JANE FABER
Stelle ..... Mdlle. BERLAND

MM. Keroul and Barré have performed a record feat—they made a Palais-Royal audience blush. As the plot is too peppery to be told in detail, even in Latin or Greek, I must leave to the imagination that which cannot be narrated. In Paris slang a "chopin" is a sudden fancy, a violent "love at first sight." Dartignac, a young briefless barrister, has a "chopin" for the pretty Madame Boulac. He has discarded his mistress Josette, for whom Anatole Durand, a notary, has conceived such a "chopin" that he has asked the lady to become his wife, and the wedding is to take place on that very day. But Madame Boulac's husband has his suspicions, and, despite Dartignac's assurance that Josette is still his mistress, Boulac insists on an ocular demonstration of this fact. It is an awkward predicament for the young barrister. The long arm of coincidence, however, comes to his assistance. Josette has an aunt, Madame Marignan, who keeps a kind of private hotel where no questions are asked; and, as Josette intends to spend the first evening of her wedded life under her aunt's roof, Dartignac hopes to induce the good-natured Josette to help him out of his trouble. At Madame Marignan's we witness a series of extraordinary incidents, over which I must draw a veil. Sufficient that in the end Madame Boulac's husband convinces himself that Josette, and not his wife, is Dartignac's mistress; that Josette starts for the provinces with her husband, the notary; and that Aunt Marignan continues to manage her private hotel with her customary judgment and discretion. The excellent Palais-Royal company did full justice to this "naughty" farce, which is now drawing crowded houses.

"LE GIGOLO."
Farcical Comedy, in Three Acts,
by M. Miguel Zamacoïs,
Produced at the Nouveautés, Jan. 24.

Hippolyte Serjeux ..... M. GERMAIN
Jacques Serjeux ..... M. TORIN
Antonin ..... M. LANDRIN
Edmond ..... M. GAILLARD
Honoré ..... M. KEPPENS
Nini Bellair ..... Mdlle. CARLIX
Lucie ..... Mdlle MAUD AMY
Madame Bellair ..... Madame MAUREL
Tante Delphine ..... Madame GUITTY
Clémence ..... Madame JENNY ROSE

"Gigolo" is another slang term not to be found in a God-fearing dictionary, and means a "lover," the "amant-de-cœur" of a lady of the half-world. Jacques Serjeux has for a long time past been the "gigolo" of Nini Bellair, and his parents, anxious to put an end to this disgraceful liaison, implore Lucie—Jacques' fascinating aunt—to enter into a flirtation with her young nephew and try to make him forget his inamorata. Moreover, Jacques' father and his brother-in-law, Antonin, call on Nini, under assumed names, promising her a sum of money if she breaks off her liaison with Jacques. The two elderly ambassadors, however, lose their hearts, one to Nini, and the other to Nini's friend Lelia, whilst the pretty Lucie's flirtation threatens to develop into something more serious. Things, luckily, do not go so far. The two elderly gentlemen keep clear of the two dangerous syrens, and Lucie saves herself in time from committing a terrible mistake. M. Torin as the "gigolo" was very diverting; Mdlle. Carlix made the most of the rôle of Nini Bellair; and Mdlle. Gense was intensely droll as a lady from the provinces.

A NEW ballet, Le Voyage de Madame la Présidente, by MM. Beissier and Leo Pouget, was brought out with much success at the Casino de Paris. The seven tableaux are beautifully mounted, and, with the assistance of the Havanas and the Brothers Ritters, acrobatic clowns, contribute a capital entertainment.

MADAME JEANNE GRANIER made her reappearance last night at the Théâtre des Capucines in La Bonne Intention, a little two-act comedy by M. Francis De Croisset. It is a cleverly written trifle, wherein the talented actress scored a real triumph.

THE PUBLIC, FROM THE STAGE.

Miss Gertrude Kingston on Sunday evening read a paper before the members of the O.P. Club, at the Criterion, Piccadilly, on "The Public as Seen from the Stage." The chair was occupied by Mr George Goschen, M.P., who, in opening the proceedings, paid a compliment to Miss Kingston for her efforts on behalf of a drama capable of bringing to bear upon the life of the nation an artistic, intellectual, and educational influence.

Miss KINGSTON began her essay by saying it was a great treat to her to have an opportunity of speaking her mind to the public, after having listened for some years to what the public had to say about the stage. The earlier portion of the address, however, proved to be largely occupied with considerations upon authors, actors, and actresses. Coming to the subject announced, Miss Kingston said she contended that in England there was no public. Where strong emotional scenes needed to be played the English actor or actress had to wrestle with the reserve and the shyness—some might call it the hypocrisy—of the British nation, still suffering under the aftermath of the Puritan movement. A well known French actress had observed to her last year, "I don't understand your English public. Your plays are made for children, not for grown-up men and women." She had replied to that artist, "Madam, we are a prudish nation; we don't care to look on at naked passions in the presence of strangers." "Nevertheless," objected the foreign lady, "you come and see our French plays." Miss Kingston here seemed to have lost an excellent opportunity. Instead of responding "True, madam; but we don't understand them, and we only laugh because we want to appear to do so," she only rejoined, "That is a very different matter. We always hope the man in the next seat does not understand the language." Having just returned from Germany, Miss Kingston drew comparisons unflattering to the artistic ideals of the average British playgoer. Her notion of a "charming French comedy," at the same time, was Ma Cousine. In art she thought the "reading British public was half a century in front of the playgoing British public," but she did not commit herself explicitly to the proposition that people who go to the theatre do not read fiction. She was applauded for the lament that we did not in this country take the theatre seriously. We never wanted to think at the play in England. The man, who was the breadwinner, frankly declared he only went to the theatre to be amused—not to learn, not to observe, and not to be interested. She hoped the book-reading public might so influence the theatre-going public as little by little to effect a liberation from the old hackneyed formulas.

Mr CECIL RALEIGH said he could not understand why English audiences should receive the expression of particular sentiments in the way they did. Whenever love was mentioned in anything like broad drama the speech was inevitably received with a titter. Mention of white mice, or of a guinea-pig, also always made the public laugh. He himself believed that the uncensored "sketch" played at present at music-halls contained a germ of future dramatic literature. The public that liked the "snippet" style in newspapers, that liked the short story very short, and the short telegram, would probably prefer its stage plays very short. The new author was to be welcomed and strenuously encouraged.

Mr ALFRED ROBBINS feared that we might hanker in vain after serious and earnest drama so long as the great majority of the public demanded over-dressed and under-dressed musical comedy. He held that barrenness was noticeable not in the English drama alone, but in the English novel as well, and even in the House of Commons. Freshness of intellect seemed to be lacking everywhere, however—in France, in America, and elsewhere, as well as here.

Mr J. T. GREIN maintained that a répertoire theatre was a necessity. We should look at art first and money afterwards, but unfortunately in England success was measured by the bounty of the pocket—how much had a man received for such and such a picture, novel, or play? The lives of the greatest artists showed us that great art was dissociated from money. Miss Kingston had seemed to regard the public as an entity, whereas it was a mass of being swayed by contrary emotions. The playgoing public here was most docile, but where severity was found it was often due to the disproportionate advertising, which, by means of paragraphs, interviews, what-not, which actors and actresses nowadays obtained.

The CHAIRMAN put forward an appeal to criticism to observe a high and pure ideal, and Miss KINGSTON briefly replied to the remarks of the speakers.

MR. C. V. HEATHCOTE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Will you kindly correct the absurd statement which is current that I succumbed early this month to the results of a revolver accident that happened last October. I am very well, and hope to start the Revival Opera Company on its career on March 1 at Plymouth.

Yours faithfully,
CHARLES VERNON HEATHCOTE.

DEATH OF MR. C. H. STEPHENSON.

Mr Charles Henry Stephenson, the veteran actor, died on Saturday at the advanced age of eighty-two. He made his first appearance at a London theatre in the minor rôle of the Governor of the Bastille, in Richelieu, at Drury-lane, on Oct. 2, 1852, and subsequently he did a good deal of work in the provinces, appearing in a number of plays long since laid on the shelf and forgotten. He was the original Corporal Cassidy in the cast of the successful drama, Jessie Brown; or, The Relief of Lucknow, produced in the provinces in the autumn of 1858, and first seen in London four years later. The piece was described as an "American drama," from the fact that it had been presented to New York audiences for 200 nights at Wallack's Theatre before being sent to this country. In Gwynneth Vaughan; or, The Village Coquette, The Red Mask; or, the Wolf of Lithuania, Isabelle, the Savoyard Girl; or, the Life of a Woman, and Ben Lid, the Son of Night; or, The Cradle of the Waves, the deceased took part, and he supported a tragedian of some note in his day—the late James Bennett—in Brutus, the Liberator of Rome; or, The Fall of Tarquin. An early version of It's Never too Late to Mend saw Mr Stephenson as Meadows, and in adaptations of Henry Mayhew's London Labour and the London Poor, in Self, a comedy by the late Mrs Batemen (wife of Colonel Bateman, of the Lyceum), he also appeared, as well as in France and Russia; or, The Cross of Gold; Abelard and Héloise; or, The Guardian, The Scholar, and The Nun; The Flower Girl; or, The Convict Marquis; and The Gondolier; or, The Three Banished Men of Italy. He supported Madame Celeste in a piece called Marion De Lorme; or, The Cradle of Steam. When The Colleen Bawn was produced at the Adelphi on Sept. 10, 1860, Mr Stephenson appeared as Father Tom, and the play ran for 360 nights, a notable theatrical event in those days. By his admirable portrayal of the character of the benevolent priest the deceased actor greatly advanced his position in the profession, and indeed acquired a lasting reputation. When in the winter of 1868 the Marylebone, in Church-street, Edgware road, changed its title to that of the "Royal Alfred," out of compliment to the Duke of Edinburgh, and came under the management of the late Miss Amy Sedgwick, Mr Stephenson's original drama, Pindee Singh—a tale of the Indian Mutiny—was produced there. Prince Alfred attended the opening performance. The play, however, proved a failure, and at the end of a month was withdrawn and the theatre closed. In the meantime the author had supported Ben Webster in his original part of Triplet in a revival of Masks and Faces at the Olympic, and he had been in the original cast of the Adelphi play, The Workmen of Paris. In The Prompter's Box, at the same house, when Henry J. Byron assumed the part of the crushed tragedian, in Notre Dame, in The Hidden Treasure and Hilda (both produced at the Adelphi), and in Byron's comedies Old Soldiers and Weak Women at the Strand, the deceased veteran had original parts. One of his last appearances on the stage was in the Bristol pantomime of 1879—Sinbad the Sailor—which he stage-managed, in addition to assuming the responsibilities of Captain O'Skuttle. The deceased wrote several dramas, and he was for long a great favourite at Manchester.

IN the Court of Bankruptcy on Tuesday a sitting was held, before Mr Registrar Linklater, for the public examination of Henry Moss Szapire. Since 1896 the debtor had been engaged for several years as an actor and actor-manager, being professionally known as Martin Henry. He subsequently went to South Africa, but returned to England in September, 1899. He had since been engaged as managing-director of a limited company, also in a business at 60, Piccadilly. His deficiency account disclosed £150 loss on horse-racing and £100 in connection with a piece called A Rake's Wife. The examination was concluded, the accounts showing unsecured debts £1,132 14s. 1d., and net assets £19 15s.

MISS HETTIE GALE desires to thank the members of the Aladdin company, Ealing Theatre, for the very handsome gold bracelet presented to her, with their kind wishes, at the close of the pantomime on Saturday evening last, and also to express her gratitude to the stage hands for their present of a set of silver-mounted hair brushes and comb.

AT the Sarah Bernhardt Theatre, Paris, on Saturday, when an afternoon rehearsal of Victor Hugo's Angelo, Tyrant of Padua, was going on, Madame Sarah Bernhardt, while repeating a speech in the second act, suddenly fell on the floor in a faint. While she was being recovered, Madame Blanche Dufrene suddenly "went off" in the same manner. Madame Bernhardt's arm was rather badly bruised by the fall.

"CINDERELLA" AT MANCHESTER.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

The promise of Mr Oscar Barrett's production of Cinderella at the Prince's Theatre, Manchester, has been more than fulfilled, for it has not only developed into a popular success; it is also a success of the first artistic magnitude. Here and there a feature has been eliminated to make more room for the innumerable small but telling improvements which are discernible at every step of the story, and which combine to give the "show" an effect of almost entire freshness in the eye of those who see it for a second time. At the first performance, a month ago, one of Mr Conrad Tritschler's "set" scenes, the Vestibule in the Palace, was unavoidably omitted; now it provides an entertaining interlude, and is in itself a noteworthy addition to the excellent and elaborate scenery which is invariably a feature of local grand pantomime. The more formal lines of the book, indicative of the story, are less obvious also than is usually the case on first nights, and the incidents and by-play go forward with a swing and freedom which show that every artiste is perfectly at ease. The comedians especially have increased opportunities to shine, though their efforts do not overtop the very delicate and engaging business of the ladies in the popular estimation. Messrs Tom and Fred M'Naughton obtain the lion's share of the comic business, the former obviously revelling in a part brimful of opportunities, and the latter succeeding no less emphatically in a rôle comparatively taciturn, though full of quaint humour. Mr William H. Powell as Cassandra, one of the ugly sisters, leaves no doubt in the mind that he is a very capable and practised comedian, and he makes a hit with two songs, "Diddly-iddly-um" and "I'm Twenty-one;" while Mr Oliver J. Round as Chloe provides a grimly amusing companion in the joint quest for a husband of quality. Mr Norman Hall plays the Baron satisfactorily, and Miss Florence Smithers does well as the spiteful and domineering Baroness. Of the principal ladies nothing but the highest praise can be written. As the Prince Miss Millie Lindon has added, and will continue to add, many admirers to the very large circle in Manchester to whom her name stands for excellence and refinement of style. Pleasing in appearance, her delivery gives character to her lines and a significance to her songs, which seem always to have the right pitch of sentiment and the appropriate expression. "The rain came pitter-patter down" and "The fat old cat" are two well rendered favourites, a more important item being, however, a song entitled "The angel of my dreams," an exceedingly well-written and well-arranged number by Fred Leigh and Henry Pether, which is put on as a scene, with Cinderella as the objective, and which is one of the notable successes of the night. Besides these, Miss Millie Lindon is heard to great advantage in a stirring ballad, entitled "Come and be a soldier," and a Japanese ditty with dance and chorus. So excellent a Prince is deserving even of such a Cinderella as Miss Ida Rene makes, and probably no one could present a more dainty and delightful impersonation. Miss Ida Rene has every charm for the part; she is petite, pretty, youthful, full of feminine grace, and her performance, moreover, is informed with that complete art which seems like artlessness, but which can be dramatic and impressive none the less. Her singing of "Under a Panama," assisted by Miss Millie Lindon, the M'Naughtons, and Miss Gwen Howard (Lady Dainty), is in the lighter style, as may be said of "O'Reilly"—a big hit, by the way—with Mr Tom M'Naughton as O'Reilly, and a chorus; but she essays, and with remarkable success, a bigger theme in "The Rake's Progress," a song which demands much greater intensity of expression. Signs are not wanting that Miss Ida Rene has established herself as a firm favourite in Manchester, and it is but fair to add that much of the success of the pantomime is due to her charming presence and her vocal gifts. Conspicuous among the remainder of the cast is Miss Maud Venn, whose abilities as a comedienne stand her in good stead in the rôle of Dandini. Miss Venn makes a success of her "Clothes-line" song, and figures advantageously also in other vocal items. Miss Gwen Howard looks and acts well as Lady Dainty, and contributes her item "Navaho" in capital style. Miss Gladys Harvey and Miss Frances Davie also do well in minor parts. By way of speciality the Creo Brothers contribute a clever and amusing acrobatic act; and Mr W. C. Fields, the well-known eccentric juggler, is provided with a part as Freake, a palace attendant, who does some wonderfully clever business in the style familiar to patrons of the halls. Mr Field's performance is, in fact, a memorable feature of the show. All these good things, combined with brilliant scenery and effects, cannot fail to result in a most successful run, great credit being due to Mr Oscar Barrett for his enterprise in securing so excellent a cast and so magnificent a setting.

IN the full list of subscriptions for the blind actor, Mr Henry Crisp, which recently appeared in The Era, the sum of one guinea was acknowledged as from Mr J. F. C. Sims. This amount should have been announced as a donation from Mr George Grossmith.

MR BOURCHIER will resume the Wednesday and Saturday matinées of The Walls of Jericho at the Garrick Theatre on Saturday.

AT the Metropole Theatre, Glasgow, on Saturday, 21st inst., a production, for copyright purposes, took place of a sketch entitled The Maniac, written by Mr Arthur Jefferson, and founded on the main incident in his own play, The World's Verdict, recently played at the same theatre.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

SIR HENRY IRVING commenced at the Theatre Royal, Portsmouth, on Monday his series of farewell performances in the provinces. As might have been expected, his last appearance on the Portsmouth stage caused a "rush" for seats, and the house was crowded in every part. The reception given to Sir Henry on his entrance was hearty and prolonged, and it was some minutes before Waterloo could be proceeded with. To say that Sir Henry's Corporal Gregory Brewster "showed no signs of age" would be a poor compliment to the actor, but his Mathias, in The Bells, was as strong and intense as ever.

ENTHUSIASTIC applause followed the lowering of the curtain on the latter play, and twice it was raised to enable Sir Henry to bow his acknowledgments. In response to an undeniable demand for a speech he said, "I thank you for the far too kind and loyal greeting you have given me. It is a great pleasure to be in your renowned and historic town of Portsmouth, and I have pleasant recollections of a former visit. I hope the plays in our répertoire which are to be performed will afford you some gratification, and on behalf of myself, my colleagues, and my comrades, I desire to express our heartfelt response for your kind welcome."

THE audience at Mr Beerbohm Tree's revival of Much Ado About Nothing at His Majesty's Theatre on Tuesday was a brilliant one, and included Mr John Hare, Miss Clara Butt, Mr Kennerley Rumford, Miss Irene Vanbrugh, the Countess of Warwick, Lady Colin Campbell, Mrs Cornwallis-West, and Major-General Baden-Powell. In one box on the prompt side were Mrs Beerbohm Tree and her little girls, and in the other the daughters of Mrs Cyril Maude, who were dressed in pink. With them, in her professional costume, was the nurse who had attended on Miss Emery during her recent long and painful illness, and who appeared to take great delight in her ex-"patient's" triumph.

A COPY of the following intimation was handed to every person in the pit and gallery:—

TO THE PUBLIC.

Mr Tree desires to ascertain directly from the patrons of this theatre whether they desire that the pit and gallery seats shall be booked beforehand, and with this view voting papers are given to each occupant of these seats. In this theatre the 2s., 3s., and 4s. seats can be booked beforehand. The advantages of booking the pit and gallery seats are obvious, and need not here be emphasised, but in voting it should be borne in mind that there may be many busy people who can only make up their minds at the last moment to go to the theatre on any particular night, and it is for their convenience that Mr Tree has held back from booking these seats.

The voting in the pit was:—Yes, 41; No, 105; 65 did not vote. In the gallery the "ayes" were 58, and the "noes" 158. Mr Grein's agents were very active, and handed every "first-nighter" on leaving a copy of his pamphlet on an English Répertoire Theatre. What with this and the excellent and informative little essay on Much Ado About Nothing which was included in the programme, Mr Tree's patrons had plenty to read when they got home at "twelve-thirty" on Wednesday morning.

MR GEORGE GROSSMITH has had to cancel many important engagements in consequence of the serious illness of his wife. Mrs Grossmith has been suffering for many months from an internal complaint, and an operation was recently performed by Mr Watson Cheyne. Her condition is now serious, and Sir William Broadbent is constantly in attendance. Mrs Grossmith is in great pain, which she bears with marvellous patience. Mr Grossmith has the deepest sympathy of the profession in his heavy trial, and the visits and letters of condolence at his house in Russell-square have been very numerous indeed, amongst the callers and correspondents being many individuals distinguished both in the profession and society. Mrs Grossmith is one of the most unselfish of women, and universal commiseration is excited by her heavy trouble.

MISS CONNIE EDISS was a successful defendant in the Chester County Court on Thursday. She took the Beeches, a pretty house with a delightful garden, at Addlestone, Surrey; but finding that it did not quite suit her, she sought someone last summer to take it off her hands. A Mr Chamberlayne came forward and undertook to rent the house from June 24, Miss Ediss retaining possession, with Mr Chamberlayne's consent, for three week's longer. He contended that Miss Ediss undertook to pay three weeks' rent at £1 a-week, and had given him orders to effect repairs to save her any trouble with the landlord. While frankly admitting that she had forgotten what arrangement she made about the rent, Miss Ediss was positive she had given no instructions for repairs. As a matter of fact, in August last she paid the landlord £7 10s. in discharge of all her liabilities. His Honour, Judge Russell, accepted Miss Ediss's version, and gave judgment in her favour with regard to the repairs. There was a verdict for the plaintiff for £3 rent; but his Honour said each side should pay their own costs.

THOSE who admire Mrs Langtry's serene self-possession in Mrs Dering's Divorce at Terry's Theatre can hardly imagine her as a reckless tomboy. Mr T. P. O'Connor, in his clever book of biography entitled "In the Days of My Youth," gives some interesting particulars of Mrs Langtry's early experiences. Her sporting career began at the age of eleven, and she was still a child when she and her brother bought a racehorse. The name of the joint purchase was Flirt; she was a bay mare of uncertain age and very uncertain foreleg. The "owners" gave the princely sum of four pounds ten shillings for her. The Jersey races were then under no rules whatever and the stakes hardly worth winning; only animals of somewhat blemished reputation and shady selling-plate antecedents ever found their way to the island racecourse.

MRS LANGTRY'S father, the Dean, was a very long-suffering and indulgent parent; but she feared the effect of introducing a racehorse to him. Flirt was therefore brought to the deanery stables as a hack, and put to steady training; and to save her brother's dignity it was Mrs Langtry who had to be responsible for taking out the alleged hack. She had to mount, or rather was thrown, like another Mazeppa, on the back of the animal, while her brother, on a perfectly safe beast of French extraction, ambled by her side. But when they reached an adjacent common the saddles were exchanged, and Mrs Langtry led the thoroughbred as well as she could on an exercise gallop. Ridden and trained in this way, Flirt won a race worth thirty pounds to the winners. This was Mrs Langtry's first success on the Turf.

SIR SQUIRE BANCROFT has kindly forwarded a cheque for ten guineas for the relief of Mr Edward Hastings, the octogenarian manager.

MR CYRIL MAUDE, whose name is so euphonious as to suggest adoption, has not chosen a nom de théâtre. He is the son of Captain Charles Henry Maude, and his mother was the Hon. Georgiana Henrietta, daughter of the second Baron Sudeley. Cornwallis Maude, first Earl De Montalt, who died the other day, and was the second titular Viscount Hawarden, was a cousin of Mr Cyril Maude. He is probably much prouder of his fame as an actor and a manager than of his aristocratic connection, and we merely mention these facts for the benefit of some of our readers. As Major Pendennis intimated to his nephew, it is just as well to know these little things.

THE annual general meeting of the Theatrical Managers' Association will be held on Thursday at the Tavistock Hotel, Covent-garden, at 3 30 p.m.

VISITORS to Brighton have this week enjoyed the sight—interesting to all, and pathetic to those in "the sere, the yellow leaf"—of Mr J. L. Toole taking a sun-bath in a wheel-chair. Since Mr Toole was born, in 1832, many things have happened. The motor-cars which dash by him on the front certainly had not then "arrived," though, as we see by old prints, they had been invented; and "Spitalfields Weavers" were actualities. We trust that Mr Toole is taking all the sunshine and sea air he can get. He certainly has earned his right to peace and repose.

ONE of the heartiest rounds of applause which were evoked in the course of the production of Much Ado About Nothing at His Majesty's Theatre on Tuesday was created by an ingenious bit of stage business. The boy who sings "Sigh no more, ladies" so sweetly enters Leonato's garden, crosses the stage, and returns. As he does so, he sees lying on the ground an orange which has dropped from the tree in the centre. He drops his hat on it as if by accident, picks up both fruit and head-covering, and makes his exit, bowing to the gentlemen and exhibiting very plainly to the audience the orange held behind him in his hat.

MR H. B. IRVING will be the guest of the evening and respond to the toast of "The Drama" at the annual dinner of the O.P. Club, which will be held at the Criterion on Feb. 12. The toast of the Visitors will be proposed by the Vice-President, Mr J. M. Freshwater, to which Mr Rutland Barrington will respond, and Mr Alfred F. Robbins will propose "The Press," which will be responded to by Mr Mostyn Pigott. The President, Mr Algernon L. Collins, will occupy the chair.

MR BEERBOHM TREE took the chair on Sunday afternoon at an entertainment for the people given in Poplar Town Hall, organised by a number of labour workers in the borough. Mr Will Crooks, M.P., in introducing Mr Tree, remarked that this was his first visit to the East-end. In the West-end Mr Tree was loved and admired, but he had no more sympathetic admirers than there were in Poplar. Mr Tree, who was loudly applauded, said they were to hear a lecture on "People I Have Met." He was glad to have met—for the first time—Mr William Crooks, who was so popular in this district. Mr Crooks had said this was his first visit to the East end, but, alas!—or happily—Mr Crooks was misinformed. Twenty-seven years ago he used to play at the Garrick Theatre in Leman-street, and he had just met a friend who had recalled having witnessed his performances there. He was delighted to think that many of those who had seen him play in those days had come to witness his performances in the West-end. When playing at the Garrick every Saturday night he used to receive burnt offerings of fried fish. He thought he could claim to have been an East-ender.

MR ARTHUR BOURCHIER entertained the boys and staff of the Duke of York's School on Thursday afternoon at the Garrick Theatre to witness a performance of Little Black Sambo and Little White Barbara. While the lads in scarlet were marching in a fine military band took up a position in the roadway and played some inspiriting selections.

MR AND MRS KENDAL will commence their spring tour at the Theatre Royal, Leamington, on Monday week, with a répertoire including Still Waters Run Deep, The Elder Miss Blossom, and their latest success, The Housekeeper. Mrs Kendal gave a dinner-party at the Carlton Hotel on Sunday, among the guests being Sir Bruce Seton, Sir Douglas Straight, Sir Alfred and Lady Fripp, Mr M'Kenna, Miss Fortescue, Mr Heilbut, Lady Seton, Mrs Caulfield, Mrs Mackay, Mrs Heilbut, Captain Marshall, Mr Courtenay, Dr. Orwin, Mrs Alexander, Mr Linley Sambourne, Mr W. Grossmith, and Mrs Courtenay.

MR F. J. WATTS, the secretary of the Walsingham Club, has sent a cheque for £30 8s. 6d. to the Actors' Benevolent Fund, being the proceeds of the sale of extra tickets beyond those allowed to members or from the sale of programmes on the production of The Finger of Fate at the Club on the 15th inst. Mr Coltson has also received a cheque for £8 from Mr Edward Compton and Mr Milton Bode, which was obtained from the Chester Amateurs last December when a performance was given for the waifs and strays. Mr Milton Bode states that when giving the use of their theatres to amateurs a condition is made that a small percentage of the receipts shall be divided amongst the charitable institutions in which he is interested. Mr George Edwardes has sent to the fund a cheque for £2 which some amateurs have given as a slight recognition of his generosity in allowing them to give performances for charity of several songs from his operas.

SIR LAURENCE ALMA-TADEMA, R.A., who will preside at the Scenic Artists' Association's Benevolent Fund dinner, on Sunday, Feb. 19, at the Imperial Restaurant, Regent-street, will be supported by the following stewards:—Sir Squire Bancroft, Mr George Alexander, Mr Oscar Asche, Mr Edmund G Banks, Mr Dion Boucicault, Mr Arthur Bourchier, Mr Arthur Chudleigh, Mr W. L. Courtney, Dr. Geo. H. R. Dabbs, M.D., Mr Leslie Douglass, Mr Richard Douglass, Mr Gerard Duckworth, Mr Albert Gilmer, Mr S. Goldmann, Mr E. Marshall Hall, M.P., K.C., Mr Ernest Hann, Mr Walter Hann, Mr Gilbert Hare, Mr William Harford, Mr Phil Harker, Mr Frederick Harrison, Mr W. T. Hemsley, Mr M. Henry, Mr George Herring, Mr Julian Hicks, the Count Max Hollander, the Hon. C. N. Lawrence, Mr R. G. Legge, Mr Claude Lewes, Mr J. N. Lyons, Mr R. M'Cleery, Mr Jas. W. Mathews, Mr Cyril Maude, Mr Carl Meyer, Mr Joseph Mordecai, Mr Alfred Mout, Mr Lewis Nathan, Mr H. W. Owen, Mr Louis N. Parker, Mr T. Wigney Percyval, Mr A. Wing Pinero, Mr Harry Potts, Mr W. Raphael, Mr Paul A. Rubens, Mr T. E. Ryan, Mr W. B. Spong, Mr Oswald Stoll, Mr W. Telbin, Mr Geo. Tweddell, Mr Lewis Waller, Mr C. Wilhelm, and Sir Philip Burne-Jones, Bart.

MR PINERO is, as is well known, in favour of the establishment of a repertory theatre, of a "booked" pit and gallery, and of the lowering of the price of stalls. He would also advise the removal of all restrictions as to dress "in front of the house."

MR ARTHUR BOURCHIER, in reply to Mr Pinero, says if theatre rents and actors' salaries are to be reduced in order to make lower-priced seats possible, surely the present exorbitant fees demanded by our leading dramatists should also be reduced. If Mr Pinero, asks Mr Bourchier, wrote for a representative repertory theatre, would he insist on introducing into the company fresh actors and actresses to suit the parts of his play, as he and many other well-known authors do nowadays? This custom, says the manager of the Garrick, raises actors' terms, and often breaks up companies the members of which have been working harmoniously together for some time.

MR WALTER EVERARD, who recently returned from a sporting trip to Jamaica, has presented Sir Alfred Jones, the pioneer of the present Elder Dempster Line of steamers, with a memento of his visit, in the shape of an umbrella stand, constructed from the skin of a huge alligator, one of the many that fell a victim to Mr Everard's unerring aim. This particular specimen, over 15ft. long, nearly performed on the sportsman the operation of amputation. He was only saved by the opportune arrival of friendly assistance.

MR EDWARD HASTINGS, who made such a touching appeal in our columns last week, was for a long time connected with Mr Tree's management at the Haymarket. He began his stage career as an extra gentleman at Sadler's Wells when Phelps had the house. His first speaking part was at the Queen's Theatre, Tottenham-court-road, then known as "The Dusthole," but later entirely remodelled by the Bancrofts. With them Mr Hastings worked for eight years at the Prince of Wales's, and for five at the Haymarket. At the latter house, as well as at the Adelphi, he was under the management of Ben Webster. Mr Hastings was also prompter and copyist for nearly twenty years. The first plays he produced were done at the Olympic under Horace Wigan, and later Mr Hastings helped Augustus Harris, father of the late Sir Augustus, in stage-management at the Princess's.

MISS SUSAN STRONG, by permission of the Duchess of Westminster, will give a grand concert at Grosvenor House on behalf of the work amongst the poor of Pimlico, on Friday afternoon, Feb. 10, under the auspices of the Rev. Father B. Maturin. Amongst the artists who will take part in the concert will be Madame Albani, Miss Ada Crossley, Miss Susan Strong, Mr Gervase Elwes, Senor Arbos (violin), Senor Rubio ('cello), Mr Percy Grainger (piano), and Mr F. Korbay.

MR TREE'S revival of Much Ado About Nothing at His Majesty's Theatre on Tuesday attracted some particularly early comers and long waiters. One lady arrived at 9 30 a.m. at the gallery entrance, and a second, an hour later, pitched her camp stool at the pit door.

MR AND MRS GEORGE ALEXANDER were present at a benevolent meeting which assembled at Claridge's Hotel, on Sunday, at the invitation of Julia, Marchioness of Tweeddale and Lady Samuel, to further the movement for providing soup kitchens in the borough of Stepney.

THE opening of the dramatic season at the Broadway Theatre, New-cross, will be made on Monday by Mr Martin Harvey and his company, who will appear there for two weeks. That romantic play The Breed of the Treshams will be the attraction for the first week, followed during the second by The Only Way.

MR FRED KARNO, the owner of the successful pantomime of Cinderella, now running at the Alexandra Theatre, Stoke Newington, has kindly consented to set apart the proceeds of the matinée performance on Monday for the benefit of Mr Walter Summers, the author and producer of the "annual." Mr Summers, who for many years past has been associated with some of the biggest productions in the country, has been in indifferent health for some time past, and he is about to take a prolonged tour, which, it is hoped, will be the means of restoring him to good health. Special attractions are announced for his benefit matinée, at which will appear the Fred Karno Troupe of comedians, in Mumming Birds; Miss Simeta Marsden, and Messrs Harry Tate, Bransby Williams, Jack Camp, Albert Christian, Harry Freeman, and Edwin Berwick, in addition to specialities by artists engaged in the pantomime, including Miss Winifred Hare, Miss Godwynne Earle, Miss Lilian Lee, Little Maudie Francis, Mr Neil Kenyon, and also leading performers from almost all the other local pantomimes.

MRS LANGTRY has made arrangements to raise the temperature of the auditorium of Terry's Theatre, which is now "claimed" to be the warmest in London. She was "perfectly appalled" by the coldness of the house at the production of Mrs Dering's Divorce.

MISS GENEVIEVE G. HAINES, an American actress, has issued the following manifesto:—"To the Catholic clergy of New York: Whereas certain critics have condemned my play, Once Upon a Time, as sacrilegious and ridiculing the ceremonies of the Roman Catholic religion, as a communicant, educated in a convent, I respectfully request you to withhold judgment until you have witnessed the play, for which purpose I have arranged that all clergymen shall be admitted free to any performance of my play at the Berkeley Theatre from this date on."

A SERIES of revivals will be given at the Opera House, Tunbridge Wells, in Shakespeare's Birth week, under the direction of Mr F. R. Benson and Mr Smyth-Pigott. The theatre has been redecorated and thoroughly overhauled, and under the new management is very successful. It is worthy of note that the rebuilding of the Haymarket Theatre was undertaken and completed to the day agreed on by the builders of the "Wells" Opera House, Messrs J. Jarvis and Son, and these two playhouses are amongst the handsomest in the country.

MR J. COUDURIER, the London correspondent of the Paris Figaro, will read a paper entitled "Why England has no Dramatist," to the Playgoers' Club at the Hotel Cecil, on Sunday, Jan. 29. Mr B. W. Findon will take the chair.

MR M. J. LANDA will read a paper to the O.P. Club, on Sunday, Feb 5, at the Criterion, on "The Dramatic Frankenstein," Mr H. H. Gordon, L.C.C., will be in the chair.

THE children's essay competition in connection with the pantomime at the Grand Theatre, Islington, has proved a bigger thing than the management anticipated. No fewer than 1,500 youngsters have sent postcards giving the story of The Babes in the Wood, and many of the compositions are extremely amusing. Prizes for the best essays are awarded each week.

THE Vicar of Gorleston's pantomime Babes in the Wood was produced at the church schools at Gorleston on Thursday. This was the third annual pantomime staged by the rev. gentleman. The cast consisted of 100 children from the elementary schools in the parish, and the schoolroom was arranged as a theatre. The orchestra was conducted by the church organist, who also acted as musical director, and the dresses and "strange beasts" were kindly lent by Mr Beerbohm Tree.

MR WALTER STEPHENS, whose offer of £5,000 towards the establishment of a répertoire theatre in London has created a good deal of interest in professional circles, holds strong opinions regarding the production of religious plays. As everybody knows, the stage presentation of Biblical scenes is prohibited by the Lord Chamberlain. Mr Stephens some time ago wrote a play entitled Paradise Lost, adapted from Milton's great epic poem of the same name, and another on a sacred subject adapted from one of Tolstoy's works. The Censor declined to pass these dramas on account of their Scriptural character, and Mr Stephens is at present making arrangements whereby the two pieces will be produced in America and Germany.

MR STEPHENS, whose real name is Walter J. Stevenson, is a cousin of the late Robert Louis Stevenson, the famous novelist and poet. Mr Stephens was trained for the profession of a solicitor, and is still studying for the Bar. He is the author of the farcical comedy entitled Brown at Brighton, and he recently completed two comedies, each in three acts, to which he has given the names of Are You a Smoker? and The Wane of the Honeymoon. Among his various enterprises he is interested in the building of variety theatres at Lewisham, Putney, and Kilburn.

"THE DIPLOMATISTS," a new two-act farcical comedy, by Sydney Grundy, will be produced at the Royalty Theatre on the 11th prox., with a cast including Mr E. W. Garden, Mr George Raiemond, Mr Charles Groves, Mr E. H. Kelly, Mr N. Holthoir, Mr Albert Sims, Miss Marie Illington, Miss Florence St. John, Miss Lily Grundy, and Miss Laura Reynolds. The Diplomatists will be followed by Herman Heyermans' Case of Arson. In this remarkable one-act piece Mr Henri De Vries, the Dutch actor, will sustain, for the first time in English, seven of the nine parts in the cast. The characters are witnesses called upon to give evidence before a court of inquiry, and include a cigar manufacturer, a police-sergeant, an innkeeper, a grocer, and a house painter. The magistrate will be played by Mr Henry Virbrat.

MR GEORGE ALEXANDER was present at the memorial service which was held at the Scotch Church of St. Columba, Pont-street, simultaneously with the funeral of Mr Robert Brough, A.R.S.A., in the burying ground of Old Machar Cathedral, Aberdeen, on Thursday.

MR TREE has so vigorously condensed the production of Much Ado About Nothing at His Majesty's that the performance will commence at 8·15 instead of at 8 0 o'clock, and terminate, of course, at 11 0.

MISS NORA LANCASTER supported Mr Charles Warner in the Screen scene from The School for Scandal last Sunday evening at the Walsingham Club. It was the clever young actress's first appearance in the part of Lady Teazle. The daughter of Miss Wallis (Mrs Walter Reynolds), her short career on the stage has been very fortunate, including an appearance in a Pinero play, Iris, and a long engagement with Sir Henry Irving's company.

AT the Standard Theatre, Bishopsgate, where Her Forbidden Marriage is continuing to attract large houses, Mr Frederick Melville, as already stated, has been offering a 22 carat gold wedding-ring to the happy couple who first enter the theatre on the Monday night. Last Monday evening, at the conclusion of the second act, Mr Melville personally handed the ring to the lucky winners, with best wishes for their happiness and prosperity on their approaching union. The wedding took place on Tuesday morning at the East London Synagogue, Stepney-green. Mr Chappell, Mr Melville's acting manager, was best man, and a large crowd assembled to cheer the happy pair.

MR DALTON ROBERTSON, a travelling actor, suddenly expired on Tuesday, the 17th, whilst staying at a coffee house in Bridge-street, Reading. The deceased, who is the brother of an American Justice of the Peace, had, it was stated, recently been rehearsing at a London theatre. Mr Robertson's widow is a member of a theatrical company, her stage name being Clare Ash. An inquest was held on the 19th inst., and a verdict of "Death from natural causes" was returned.

MR VIVIAN GRANTHAM'S spring tour of Slaves of Passion will start at Aldershot on Feb. 27. Mr Edward Van Biene, son of the celebrated actor-'cellist, will again be the business-manager, and Miss Kate Hallam has been re-engaged for the part of the Princess Sonia. New scenery and costumes will be provided.

MISS BEATRICE WILLEY, who has been so successfully depicting Morgiana, in The Forty Thieves at Fulham, will appear on Monday at the Coronet as principal girl, in the place of Miss Valli Valli, who goes to Mr Arthur's theatre in Newcastle to play in Babes in the Wood.—Miss Florence Nelson has been engaged by Mr F. C. Philpott for the part of Lady Fippington, in his spring tour of The Girl from Japan (No. 1 company).

THE Marlborough pantomime is in the last week but one of its run, and will on Feb. 6 give place to The Duke of Killicrankie, played by Mr Chas. Frohman's company. For the Monday afternoon of the same week Mr Purcell has arranged a flying visit from Sousa and his famous band. Aladdin has been an enormous success, both financially and artistically, and has thoroughly justified the high encomiums which were won by the production at its initial performance.

THE principal artists of the pantomime of Aladdin were presented with floral and other tributes by a crowded audience at the Brixton Theatre on Saturday evening, and Miss Eva Bayhurst an open parasol made of lilies of the valley. Miss Offord and Miss Hamilton each received two bouquets, and Miss Marion Macdonald was handed another. The comedians were also recipients of jocular marks of favour, Mr Brett having a box of cigars, Mr Nat Lewis a large bunch of carrots, and Mr Somers and Mr H. O. Cleary a large cabbage.

MR EDWARD COMPTON had the misfortune to strain his ankle on Sunday night, but, pluckily determining not to disappoint his friends the Chester public, on Monday he duly appeared in his popular impersonation of David Garrick, an apology being made for his investing the character with a limp. At the end of the evening, Mr Compton, who had been enthusiastically received throughout, addressed the following remarks to the audience:—Ladies and gentlemen—Will you permit me to thank you for the kindly warmth of your welcome back to Chester, where I always have so much pleasure in appearing, and for your generous forbearance on my somewhat ungraceful, but I hope not disgraceful, performance to-night? For the first time in my career, I have been obliged to play Mr Garrick with a limp, but I trust it has not been in other respects a "lame" or "halting" representation. I promise you that to-morrow night, when I appear as a Reformed Rake, I will meet you again on the old firm footing.

UNFORTUNATELY this promise was not destined to be fulfilled, as Mr Compton was considerably worse the next morning, and was unable to appear on Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday nights. It was confidently expected, however, that he would be at work again on Friday and Saturday nights in his new play To-morrow. Understudies were necessarily much called upon in the emergency, and excellent work was accomplished by Messrs A. B. Imeson, G. Wallace Johnston, Arnold Lucy, Charles R. Stone, H. G. Mason and Francis Sidney.

AT an examination of the students of the School of Drama and Acting, at the Hampstead Conservatoire, held at the close of last term, Mr F. R. Benson, the principal, announced that two prizes, value £5 5s. and £3 3s. respectively, one to be given by himself and the other by the Conservatoire, would be awarded in July next to the student giving most evidence of general progress in the technique of acting, and the best elocutionist.

MR JAMES SINCLAIR, the courteous acting-manager of the West London Theatre, was the pleased recipient of a comfortable cheque from Mr William Bailey, to mark his appreciation of the untiring energy and ability displayed by him during the run of the successful pantomime The Babes in the Wood. All who know Mr Sinclair will congratulate him on a well-merited acknowledgment. Miss Maude Nelson, the dashing Robin Hood of the story, was also asked to accept a gold bracelet and a turquoise ring, the gifts of several admirers in front, Mr William Bailey, with a few happy phrases, making the presentation on the stage on Saturday last, to which Miss Nelson suitably replied, amidst loud cheering.

MR J. E. VEDRENNE will revive John Bull's Other Island at the Court for nine matinées, commencing on Feb. 7. The cast will include Mr Louis Calvert, Mr Granville Barker, Mr C. M. Hallard, Mr F. Cremlin, Mr Percival Stevens, Mr Wilfred Shine, Mr George Trollope, Mr A. E. George, Miss Ellen O'Malley, and Miss Agnes Thomas. It has been found impossible to produce The Cradle, by Brieux, as the second piece of the series; and Mr Vedrenne is now arranging a triple bill, which will include a new play by Bernard Shaw, entitled How He Lied to Her Husband: a Warning to Playgoers, a skit on the same author's Candida. Arrangements have been made by which Miss Mari Brema, the celebrated opera singer, will play the leading part in The Trojan Women of Euripides.

MR RAYMOND ROZE is one of the cleverest of our composers of "incidental music" for theatrical productions. His "night-to-dawn" intermezzo in Much Ado About Nothing at His Majesty's Theatre, is very imaginative and poetical, and his "leit-motif" on the entries of Dogberry and Verges is a very pretty bit of musical humour. We must protest, however, against the practice of playing music "through" which dialogue is spoken far too loudly. It should always be kept pianissimo, and the same applies to noises "off" and other background embellishments. The text is the principal thing, and everything else should be subordinate to its being clearly heard by the audience.

MISS LILY HAMMERSLEY, who has recently been playing Barbara Wade in A Girl's Cross Roads, was married at Walthamstow on Wednesday last to Mr Horace Hunter, who has been playing, and is about to again play, lead in Mr Fred Melville's Her Forbidden Marriage company. In the piece Mr Hunter nightly drives his bride to church in a motor-car, and he resolved that his own wedding should be "in the picture." So the wedding party were taken to church in an elegant 8 h.p. Wolseley. Mr Hunter's best man was Mr Gilbert Heron, who in the drama plays the clergyman who performs the "forbidden marriage,' and, who, in that capacity, has already married Mr Hunter to his stage bride several hundreds of times. The real ceremony went off, of course, without the villain of the piece disturbing the sacred and peaceful atmosphere of the church.

THERE will be a "celebration" at the Grand Theatre, Islington, on Feb. 25, to mark the termination of Mr George Davey's proprietorship. Mr Davey's reason for parting with the theatre, after nearly eighteen months' successful management, is that he finds he is unable to give his personal attention to two businesses. He controls a very profitable advertising concern, and as he holds the bill-posting rights over many important hoardings, it will be seen that he will not be altogether dissociated with theatrical affairs. There are not a few who will regret his severance from the Grand Theatre, for it would be difficult to find a more amiable and good-hearted gentleman. He is one of the most popular personalities in Islington, and he is regarded quite affectionately by every member of his staff.

WHEN Mr Arthur Bertram produces Hearts Adrift at the Grand Theatre, Birmingham, on Feb. 20, his cast will include Mr Percy Rhodes, Mr J. P. Dryden, Mr Cecil Klein, Master Harry Pleon, Mr Frank Baines, Miss Maude Tremayne, Miss Beatrix Bell, Miss Ada Perry, and Miss Celestine Bertram. The tour will be under the direction of Mr Arthur Estcourt, who will play Captain Teddy.

A HANDSOMELY decorated hall, to be known as Holstein Hall, has during the past week been opened at Weybridge by Mr J. Wiltshire. The building has cost £6,000, and will seat 900 people. There is an excellent stage, and Mr Wiltshire hopes to arrange for a regular series of flying matinées. Mr Roper Spyers is taking a company to the new hall next Thursday to present The Merry Wives of Windsor.

MR PERCY D. STANDING AND MR BERNARD J. LIELL, having acquired from Messrs Ernest E. Norris and Fewlass Llewellyn the rights of A Gentleman of England, which was produced in London last December and achieved marked success, intend touring the piece in the near future. The drama deals with Russian life.

MISS LILLIAN RUSSELL who was expected to join her company in the second act of The School for Scandal at the house of Mrs Stuyvesant Fish, a New York "society lady," has declined to do so, considering that to amuse Mrs Fish's guests as a paid performer would be beneath her dignity as an artiste.

MR CHURTON COLLINS, speaking at the Royal Institution on Thursday evening on "The Philosophy and Significance of The Tempest," said between 1603 and 1609 Shakespeare had been living in the infernal tragedy, but in his three last plays—The Tempest, A Winter's Tale, and Cymbeline—there came an entirely new note, that of forgiveness, charity, and optimism. Shakespeare got away from the infernal tragedy and gave himself up, when, as it transpired, he was to live only another three years, to the philosophy of forgiveness as shown in Christian principles. In the cast of The Tempest every type of character in mankind was exhibited from the highest to the lowest; thus the island was a tiny world so far as it could be made to represent humanity. The whole life of the island symbolised the truly beautiful philosophy of the Founder of Christianity, and this was the striking significance of the play, whether Shakespeare really meant it or not. And we must remember that there was more meant here than meets the ear and eye; for the play was Shakespeare's public farewell to the world.

MISS DAISY HALLING'S friends will be sorry to learn that she is a patient at the Bradwell Isolation Hospital, Chesterton, near Newcastle-under-Lyme Staffs. She is suffering from diphtheria. She will be pleased to hear from friends, but will not be permitted to reply. She is, however, progressing favourably.

IN the Court of Bankruptcy on Wednesday, before Mr Registrar Linklater, an application was made by William Stephen Bexfield, sometime known as William Villion, professor of gymnastics, for an order of discharge. The bankrupt was formerly for many years proprietor of Villion's Acrobatic Troupe, and attributed his insolvency to the loss of £670 in connection with a musical comedy called A Race for a Wife. His liabilities amounted to £227 16s., and his assets had realised 8s. 1d. The assistant receiver said he was informed that the liabilities had been satisfied, and the registrar granted the debtor his immediate discharge, being of opinion that he could not be justly held responsible for his failure.

MR OSWALD BRAND, the well-known playwright, and manager of the Islington Grand Theatre, has entered into negotiations to produce his series of Dickens plays at a West-end theatre before many months are over. It is Mr Brand's intention to present his pieces on the lines of a "ring," and the different parts will be entrusted to first-rate actors and actresses.

MR F. B. WOULF concludes to-day a short and successful tour with his répertoire of the Max Goldberg plays. He resumes on Monday the part of Marcus Superbus, in Mr William Greet's Sign of the Cross company. By arrangement with Mr John F. Preston, Mr Woulfe is touring the successful racing drama Rogues of the Turf. The tour commences Jan. 30 at the Grand Theatre, Nottingham.

"MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING."

Claudio	Mr BASIL GILL
Benedick	Mr TREE
Leonato	Mr HENRY NEVILLE
Antonio	Mr J. FISHER WHITE
Balthasar	Master THOMAS FAMPSON
Conrade	Mr S. A. COOKSON
Borachio	Mr JULIAN L'ESTRANGE
Friar Francis	Mr WILLIAM HAVILAND
Dogberry	Mr LOUIS CALVERT
Verges	Mr LIONEL BROUGH
A Sexton	Mr CECIL YAPP
Seacole	Mr CECIL ROSE
Oatcake	Mr J. B. FRASER
Messenger	Mr S. YATES SOUTHGATE
Hero	Miss MIRIAM CLEMENTS
Margaret	Miss MURIEL ALSTON
Ursula	Miss ALICE CRAWFORD
Beatrice	Miss WINIFRED EMERY

Mr Tree's revival of Much Ado About Nothing is essentially "Renaissance." It is generously, almost lavishly, exuberant. It makes us realise the superb pomp and pride of life of the period. From first to last, we are under the spell of the sixteenth century, that marvellous epoch when humanity burst into eager efflorescence only to come afterwards to lassitude and rottenness. But what a time it must have been while it lasted! What splendid verve and vigour, what careless courage and intense enjoyment of life! What heroic laughter, what magnificent masquerading, and what joy in Art and existence! This is the keynote of the revival of Much Ado About Nothing at His Majesty's. The elaborateness, the richness, and the loveliness of the representation are intoxicating. "Messina in the sixteenth century"—Mr Tree has apprehended all that the phrase includes, and has created an "atmosphere" at the same time enervating and stimulating, overpowering and utterly delightful.

First comes the scene in the Courtyard before Leonato's house. In the background is the sunny bay, and the trees above cast a shade upon a merry party, seated at a richly spread table. Then come Benedick and his friends in most authentic suits of armour. The personages of the drama seem, as far as costumes are concerned, to have walked out of certain pictures in the National Gallery. A quick change of scene, and we are in the Armoury, "another room in Leonato's house," where takes place the preparatory conversation between Don John and Conrade. Don John shoulders out into the darkness, and then there is a change to the garden of Leonato's house. This is an exquisite stage picture indeed. On one side are steps leading to an upper level; in the centre is an immense orange tree, from the branches of which the fruit occasionally falls. Across the stage hurry merry parties of masqueraders in gay and grotesque dresses. A Punchinello sings a ballad, and is beaten out merrily with bladders. At the end of this scene, and at the end of the act, a very pretty bit of "business" is introduced. Claudio and Hero pass across, wrapt in their love-dream; and Beatrice, who has just been smitten by Cupid's dart, looks at them pensively, and walks away kissing Benedick's glove, which she has picked up.

The Dogberry and Verges scene is managed with novelty and picturesqueness. The Constable and the Headborough appear at the windows of their respective dwellings, and thence lecture the watch, Dogberry refering for his law to a thick volume. The Church scene is a marvel of reality. The immense columns have all the appearance of solidity, and a sense of space is cleverly created by the use of back-cloths behind built-up railings. The wedding costumes are superb, and the tout ensemble is magnificent, the stage-management of the supernumeraries being noticeably good. The last set of all is a big ballroom, the pillars of which are decked with pink ribbons and bunches of flowers. Such are a few points in this marvellous production, which teems with effective ideas and imaginative embellishments in the way of stage business.

Mr Tree's extreme liberality made the performance last till midnight, though it commenced punctually at eight; and we fear the very beautiful dawn effect, which can hardly be "hurried up," will have to be sacrificed in order to help to bring the revival within the proper limits of time. We may well leave the necessary elisions to the manager's experience and judgment. The text could hardly be curtailed further without injury to the play.

Miss Winifred Emery's welcome back to the stage was wildly enthusiastic; and, in the dainty dress of Beatrice, she stood for many seconds waiting for the applause which greeted her entrance to subside. Her embodiment was essentially charming, and was adorned with the delicate archness and winning grace which are Miss Emery's chief attributes. In her wit combats with Benedick she gave the impression, not of a shrewish girl anxious to "score" at the expense of her companions, but of a practised swordswoman, playing lightly with her weapon. The real warm-heartedness of Beatrice was cleverly suggested, and, altogether, Miss Emery's performance was winning, refined, and humorous. Mr Tree's Benedick was just the virile, soldierly character suggested by the text. Benedick's fine qualities as a soldier and a gentleman are not always sufficiently emphasised; and Mr Tree was especially effective in his delivery of Benedick's challenge to Claudio—an admirable mixture of dignity, severity, and self-restraint. In the scenes with Beatrice, Mr Tree made all his points with surpassing skill; and as no small factor of his success, his imposing "presence" in very handsome costumes must be noted. It gave one a striking idea of the appearance of a gentleman of the period. Mr Laurence Irving was an ideal Don John. He struck exactly the right note in the Armoury scene; and this Don John's malevolent smile when he fancied his schemes were succeeding spoke volumes. Mr Sydney Brough made a noble and gracious Don Pedro, hitting the juste milieu with much judgment. Mr Basil Gill's Claudio was excellent in every way. His diction was crisp, and his delivery admirably modulated; and he looked just the interesting youth to make a Hero overlook faults of character. Mr Henry Neville was a "grand old" Leonato, the dignity and bonhomie of his performance being very praiseworthy; and Mr J. Fisher White, in the scene in which the two old men scold their juniors, played with much spirit and vivacity. Mr S. A. Cookson and Mr Julian L'Estrange were thoroughly satisfactory as Conrade and Borachio, making the most of their respective rôles; and a striking success with a small part was achieved by Mr William Haviland, whose masterly treatment of the Priest's speeches was generally admired. A Dogberry who thoroughly realised the character was Mr Louis Calvert, who expressed the stolid stupidity of the personage most comically; and Mr Lionel Brough was, of course, easily excellent as Verges. Mr Cecil Yapp did well as the Sexton, and Mr Cecil Rose and Mr J. B. Fraser were commendable exponents of Seacole and Oatcake; Mr S. Yates Southgate speaking his lines well as the Messenger. Miss Miriam Clements not only looked extremely pretty and attractive as Hero, but made an excellent impression by her neat and distinct treatment of the text, and the keenness with which she took advantage of the opportunities of the part; Miss Muriel Alston was bright and lively, if a little less distinct than was desirable, as Margaret; and Miss Alice Crawford enacted Ursula with brisk emphasis and agreeable animation.

No pains had been spared to make the revival excellent in every department. Mr M'Cleery, Mr Telbin, Mr Emden, Mr Hann, and Mr Hemsley had been engaged to paint the splendid scenery alluded to above; Mr Raymond Roze had specially composed some agreeable and appropriate incidental music; Mr Byam Shaw, R.I., had designed the armour and costumes; and Mr Louis Hervey D'Egville had arranged the dances. At the close of the performance the principal artists were "called" enthusiastically, and demands upon Mr Tree for a speech were perseveringly made; but he judiciously refrained from acceding to them. Those who see Much Ado About Nothing in a night or two will have the advantage of witnessing even a better entertainment than that of Tuesday last. The time of performance will have been shortened; and any evidences in the acting of the effect of the nervous strain created by heavy rehearsals will have disappeared. The production will then shine forth as one of the most beautiful, the most correct, and the most artistic that have ever been given to the London public.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Personally I cannot see that a répertoire theatre is at all necessary in London, for in the past two years there have been so many theatres with short runs that they have practically provided répertoire, so that it is a relief to find a play running for three months, which, in my humble opinion, should be the shortest duration of a run in the interest of the art of acting and play-writing.

London is well looked after by its present caterers, and certainly the Adelphi, under Mr Otho Stuart's régime, is the nearest approach to a National theatre that we have yet had, provided he does not close his portals to non-Bensonians.

If the various promoters of the répertoire theory will combine their efforts—they cannot each expect a subsidy of £25,000—and turn their attention to the provinces, they would reap a rich reward financially and artistically. It is in the provinces that reform is most necessary, and the country is the proper nursery for rising young actors and actresses to gain their experience by constant public appearances. The London boards are not the place to learn one's business. Theatres with a good all-round stock company, competent stage director, a business manager, and adequate necessary scenery, would prove more beneficial than a plethora of répertoire theatres.

I have always understood that a national theatre was to be on the plan of the Théâtre Français—viz., a theatre where one would continually see performances by a combination of our leading actors and actresses, as one occasionally sees at a benefit matinée. But I very much doubt now whether such a theatre is needed at all.

In the excellent editorial article of your issue of the 21st inst., you state that "the Comédie Française does not depend upon the inclusion amongst its members of any leading actor or actress." That is true; it depends on its combined personelle, and its purity and uniformity of diction. In France, as in Germany, there is a standard of pronunciation on the stage. There is only one way of pronouncing "Mon Dieu" and "Mein Gott" permissible to characters supposed to be speaking pure French or German. On the London stage, in one playhouse, you would probably hear God pronounced five different ways, and so you would in the Church. The English-speaking nations don't seem to have settled upon any definite system of pronunciation, either on or off the stage. The Americans still stick to the very early English pronunciation which existed before Board Schools and Schools of Elocution and Acting; but at any rate on the American stage you get more uniformity of speech. Shakespeare is a good test for delivery; and the more of that food supplied to our stage nurseries the better, no matter what branch of the drama one intends to make one's definite aim and ambition.

You invited comments, Mr Editor, on Mr Grein's figures, and I claim your indulgence for this slight divergence. Mr Grein's figures seem very accurate. His salary list allows for about twenty-five artistes, ranging from £10 to £3 per week, which for all the year round would be very good remuneration. As regards an orchestra, if £20 is only to be allowed it were best dispensed with, and in its place engagements made with soloists, pianists, or violinists who were just about to make their début upon the concert platform, and are therefore fully equipped. Music incidental to a play should be heard and not seen.

Mr Grein's scheme would work admirably in the provinces, where the public are clamouring for better catering. In London they seem perfectly contented with their present fare, or will be when they have made up their minds whether they will book for the pit or not. With the booking system will disappear one of the finest advertisements for the theatre, for the long, slow-moving live column is worth twenty columns of cold print in the daily papers. To see them swarming in used to give me a thrill of excitement in days gone by, although I knew I should only receive my £2 2s. solid cash at the end of the week, but "it kind of bucked you up" to do your utmost. I shall be sorry to see the unbookable pit a thing of the past; but then I am not a playgoer, only

Yours faithfully, CHARLES LANDER.

60, Haymarket, Jan. 25.

IN Much Ado About Nothing, revived on Tuesday night at His Majesty's Theatre, Miss Winifred Emery makes her first appearance in the play as Beatrice, attired in a sumptuous gown of dark green velvet patterned with gold, worn over a gold satin petticoat, and cut, after the manner of those days, quite low upon the shoulders, though the sleeves are long and are furnished with big puffs slashed with gold on the shoulders.

THE scene in the garden of Leonato's house discovers Miss Miriam Clements as Hero, in a simple white dress appliquéd with velvet and worn with a wreath of flowers round the throat, and Miss Winifred Emery, in a lay version of the old ecclesiastical dalmatic made of embroidered satin and worn over a skirt of copper satin. She also wears the beautiful pear-shaped pearl that hangs from an invisible chain upon her forehead, and her hair is dressed after the manner of those times with the big plaited coronal that singularly enough is once more in vogue now. The dalmatic is a type of tunic that hangs loosely back and front, and is slit up the sides to show a complete under-dress.

MISS EMERY'S most splendid toilette is reserved for Hero's wedding, or what should have been the marriage of that hapless damsel, and the charming but short scene in the bedroom that precedes it. It is a copy of a gown from one of Titian's pictures, and the interior of the church itself must also have been faithfully copied from an ancient painting. All the vestments of the priests and acolytes, and even the gold that ornaments the chapel, is mellowed to look like a painting of old times. Of pure white there is none; even the surplices have purposely been tinted to avoid the crude effect of newly washed linen.

MISS MIRIAM CLEMENTS in these scenes wears, of course, the white robes of a bride, with a great loose tulle veil which falls from her like a cloud in the harrowing moment of her denunciation. A most becoming toilette is an apple-green taffetas dress of an earlier scene worn over a bronze-brown skirt, and with this she dresses her hair in the manner familiar to her, braided in a thick plait which is posed over the crown of her head. Miss Muriel Alston and Miss Alice Crawford as Margaret and Ursula, the gentlewomen who attend on Hero, are garbed very picturesquely in every scene.

MISS CARLOTTA LEVEY'S little son, Woodberry Kelly, jun., made his first appearance on the stage on Saturday at the matinée of Dick Whittington, at the Broadway Theatre, New cross, being carried on in the ship scene by Mr Ernest Rees as Martha Mixitt. The small débutante had a "very nice" reception from the 2,000 poor children who were being entertained by the Playgoers' Club.

DEATH OF MISS ADA NEILSON.

We regret to announce the death of Miss Ada Neilson, the wife of Mr Allen Thomas, which melancholy event took place at 9·0 p.m. on Wednesday last. The deceased lady was a sister of Lady Macfarren, the wife of the late Sir George Macfarren. Miss Neilson will be buried in Sir George Macfarren's vault at Fortune-green, West Hampstead. The funeral will start from the deceased's residence, 74, Marlborough-flats, Wilton-street, Chelsea, on Monday next at 10·0 o'clock. Miss Leonora Thomas, her daughter, sailed on Saturday last to South Africa with Edward Sass's company to play ingenués, and will not have any information about her mother's death till she reaches South Africa. Miss Naomi Thomas, another daughter, travelled from Scotland in order to be present at the bedside of her mother, but, unfortunately, arrived after life had been pronounced extinct. Miss Ada Neilson showed signs of illness during a recent rehearsal with Mr Lewis Waller's company, in which she was to have played Lady Holland. She was fifty-nine years of age.

Miss Neilson, having been successful in obtaining prizes for elocution at school, resolved to go upon the stage, notwithstanding a certain amount of opposition from some of her relatives. She went to a well-known agent, and eventually secured an engagement at the Theatre Royal, Coventry, at a small salary. Here she remained through the stock season. Her first manager was Mr John Douse, who died some ten years ago. After a period of hard work she was engaged by the late H. J. Byron for the Alexandra, Liverpool, to play Florizel, in A Winter's Tale, and Nerissa, in The Merchant of Venice, supporting the late Charles Calvert, who subsequently engaged her for the Veiled Lady, in No Thoroughfare. This was followed by a season at the Prince's Theatre, Manchester, where she had the advantage of acting with such stars as Samuel Phelps, J. L. Toole, Barry Sullivan, Edward Sothern, and Charles Dillon, playing parts ranging from Emilia (Othello) to Tilly Slowboy, in The Cricket on the Hearth. Eventually she was engaged by the late Charles Reade to play Virginie, in Drink, on its first provincial tour. This was followed by a season in America, where she played Sangara, in Michael Strogoff. On her return to England she was secured for the Manchester production of Henry Hamilton's blank verse tragedy, A Shadow Sceptre, playing Princess Elizabeth with success. In the revival of Drink, at the Adelphi, she was the Virginie. When The Armada was produced at Drury-lane Miss Neilson created the part of Queen Elizabeth. She toured with the drama in the spring, and was re-engaged by Sir Augustus Harris for Lady Cholmondely, in The Royal Oak. She afterwards appeared as Lady Janet, in Sunlight and Shadow, both at the Avenue and St. James's, under Mr Alexander's management, and again returned to Drury-lane to play Virginie, in another revival of Drink. A tour in the provinces was followed by a visit to America with the late Wilson Barrett's company.

THE LATE MISS ADA NEILSON.

Here she appeared in a round of plays, including Claudian, Ben-my-Chree, The Lady of Lyons, Pharaoh, and Our Pleasant Sins. On her return her next important engagement was for Joanna Lightfoot, in the production, at the Adelphi, of Shall We Forgive Her? Later, she went on a long tour as Gretchen, in Rip Van Winkle.

MUCH regret has been expressed at the somewhat sudden death of Mr J. W. Austin, who for about thirty years had been associated with the orchestra of the Theatre Royal, Worcester, as musical director, and was the leader of a capital band composed of members of his own family, who were in much request in Worcester and the district around. Mr Austin had been in failing health for about twelve months, but the end came rather unexpectedly on the night of the 21st inst. For many years deceased had carried on a large music business in Mealcheapen-street. He leaves eight children and thirty grandchildren, and it is a somewhat singular fact that his death is the first in these three generations. The funeral took place on Thursday at Astwood Cemetery amidst many demonstrations of sympathy, a large number of friends and acquaintances being present, and many wreaths being sent from these and the theatre lessee and staff.

AT the usual weekly meeting of the council of the Actors' Association, held last Tuesday, the secretary stated that arrangements had been made for holding the fourteenth annual general meeting of the A.A. at the Garrick Theatre on Thursday, Feb. 23, at 3.0 p.m., and that Mr Arthur Bourchier had very kindly placed his theatre at the disposal of the council and members, and would occupy the chair upon that occasion. The account of receipts and payments and the balance-sheet for the year 1904, as prepared by the secretary and audited by Messrs Westcott, Maskal', and Co., the auditors to the Association, were presented to the council by the Finance and General Purposes Committee, and they were congratulated upon the fact that the excess of assets over liabilities amounted to £352 7s. 11d. Norah Bellew, Katharine Parry, J. Graeme Campbell, and Dorothy Clifton were nominated as candidates for election as members of the Association. The hon. solicitors reported that a manager and an artiste had agreed to refer the question in dispute to the arbitration of the joint board. Questions as to the want of sanitation, ventilation, and means of egress in case of fire at three provincial theatres were under discussion, and the secretary received instructions in connection therewith. The secretary reported the receipt of a letter from a member expressing warmest thanks for legal advice received from the hon. solicitors. The annual report of the council was settled. It was agreed that the council should recommend to the annual general meeting that a committee be appointed to report to the council on the various schemes suggested for the establishment of a Repertory Theatre, whether such a theatre were desirable, and if so, what were the best steps to take to achieve this object.

Mr A. W. Pinero, in one of his lectures, has emphasised the importance of "praise" in theatrical criticism. It is, indeed, so much easier, and so much more profitable to the critic personally, to point out faults that the temptation to do so is not always resisted. "What a grand man!" said Voltaire's Candide of Pococurante; "nothing satisfies him!" and the feeling which the remark expressed is pretty common. We confess, however, to being disarmed by Mr Lewis Waller's production of Henry V. at the Imperial. We are driven by its excellence to mere microscopic detractions, such as a doubt if the Boy should speak the lines about the flea on Bardolph's nose with so much gaiety, considering that his master is just dead; a wonder that Fluellen should talk to Pistol about his "proken coxcomb" when the Welshman has been belabouring him on his back only; and a desire that the bells and music should be kept down more during the delivery of dialogue. We are almost ashamed to make these objections, considering how much pleasure this "clean and perfect" performance of the play gave us.

The keynote was struck at the commencement, when the curtain rose on Miss Mary Rorke in the classic robes of the Chorus, standing fair against a black background. Shakespeare's splendid lines came from Miss Rorke's lips sharp as steel and clear as crystal. We could easily understand how Elizabethan audiences were able to dispense with elaborate scenery, if the representative of the Chorus in that day—he would have been a lad, of course—was as winning and as inspiring as Miss Rorke.

From the commencement of the first act until the fall of the curtain on the fourth there was nothing to injure the illusion or weaken the effect of the noble text. The costumes, from Mr Percy Anderson's designs, were admirably accurate and sumptuous; but they did not intrude—they simply satisfied. The scenery—where did Messrs Hemsley and Banks get their "authority" for their swampy scenes near Agincourt?—was excellent in execution, and not overdone; and Mr Raymond Rose's thrilling music mightily stimulated the imagination. It was a Shakespearian production after our own heart.

Mr Lewis Waller is an ideal Henry V. He suggests the necessary astuteness of the character. It is an error to make Henry V. too much of a bluff soldier. He had a great deal of the craft of his father; and one has only to read his extremely acute arguments to himself on his judgment in playing the scapegrace, with a subsequent "surprise," to see what a schemer—in the good sense—he was. Not that Henry was acting all his life. As Mr Bernard Shaw points out, in his preface to Cæsar and Cleopatra, a great man has only to be himself to give the average individual the impression of deep cunning. But Henry was nothing less than a stupid combatant, and admirably does Mr Waller suggest this. His masculine presence, his delivery of the martial speeches, which thrill the audience like a trumpet note; the excellent judgment and modulation of his wooing of Katherine; and, above all, the magnetism of his virile personality make Mr Waller the very man to depict Henry V. in a manner to equal our imagination of the personage.

Mr John Beauchamp, by his share in this revival, shows how immensely valuable are the services of a thoroughly trained actor in a Shakespearian production. As the Archbishop of Canterbury he can do little but be distinct and dignified, though we fancy he tries to suggest the "foxiness" of the supple and wily ecclesiastic; but as Charles VI he gives a most subtle character-sketch of a noble and kingly nature fighting against the inroads of insanity. We see the old monarch's inborn courage and "haughty power of resistance" bursting through the clouds of age and imbecility. It is a striking and touching picture; and Mr Beauchamp deserves warm praise for his clever, alert, and keenly perceptive work.

Mr William Calvert's Bardolph is capital. It is "beery" without being "boozy;" and the drink-sodden condition of the seasoned toper is marked without the cheap expedients of hiccups and mispronunciations. Mr Calvert's Bardolph is a kind of Elizabethan Silenus. It is broad but not farcical, and droll without buffoonery.

Mr William Mollison is the Ancient Pistol. The part is as difficult to play to a modern audience as it must have been easy to present to the Elizabethan public, who recognised in the sordid spouter a familiar contemporary type. The more merit is due to Mr Mollison for making such a success in it. It must be mentioned that his make-up is extremely ingenious, and had a great deal to do with the diverting effect of his most acceptable interpretation.

Mr Thomas Kingston's Nym is another commendable character sketch. In appearance it reminds us of one of Callot's etchings in "The Beggars." The shallowness and the meanness of the wretched little rogue are most cleverly marked by Mr Kingston.

Miss Kate Ruskin is arch and "bonnie" as the Boy, putting all the needed expression into her delivery of the lad's lines, which she speaks with much alertness and humour.

Mr A. E. George as Fluellen is a little inclined, perhaps, to hurry over his prosier speeches; but his characterisation is excellent. He hits off the nationality of Fluellen exactly; and is a thorough Welshman, both in physique, diction, and sentiment.

Mr Cecil M'Guinness is unimpeachably Irish as M'Morris; and Mr H. Tripp Edgar makes the most of the poor part of Captain Jamy.

There are a large number of rôles in Henry V. which must be played irreproachably, though they are more or less equal and moderate in value. The great merit of Mr Waller's revival is that it is good all round. Though the actor may have only a few lines to speak, he speaks them well, and bears himself appropriately. From a long list of thoroughly well-played parts, we may, not invidiously, single out that of Sir Thomas Erpingham, so soundly sustained by Mr Richard Wylie that of the Bishop of Ely, entrusted with excellent results to Mr Eric Scott; that of the Duke of Exeter, ably embodied by Mr Owen Roughwood; and Mr Norman M'Kinnel's Williams, a most telling sketch of an uncompromising Englishman. Mr Frank Dyall's Dauphin only requires a little more distinctness of enunciation to make it completely creditable. The spirit of his performance is highly praiseworthy. Mr Charles Meyer depicts the conventional French coward cleverly; and Mr S. B. Brereton is a grandly defiant Montjoy. Excellent also are Mr Patrick Digan as the Duke of Gloucester; Mr Roy Cushing as the Duke of Bedford; and Mr Shiel Barry as the Duke of Clarence. Miss Mary Lewis is crisp and neat as Queen Isabel, and Miss Sarah Brooke is quite bewitching as Katharine, the part suiting her style exactly. Miss Constance Walton is a dainty Alice; and Miss Minnie Griffin earns our appreciation by not burlesquing the grim irony of the Hostess's loquacity.

The revival was received with excited approbation; and Mr Waller, who was enthusiastically called for, contented himself with saying "Thanks, thanks, and yet again thanks." In response to a demand for the author, he returned, and said: "The author is not in the house. I wish he were. We should be glad of some authors like him." Henry V. at the Imperial won a well-deserved triumph.

THE IRVING FAREWELL TOUR.

Sir Henry Irving and company are at the Theatre Royal, Portsmouth, this week, and the playgoers of the seaside town have had the opportunity of again witnessing the performance of the leading actor of the English stage. With the satisfaction and delight which his acting always produces there is mingled, on this occasion, a feeling of deep regret that Sir Henry is on a farewell tour and is retiring from the profession with which he has been so long and so honourably connected. On Monday night the house presented a brilliant appearance, and Sir Henry, on making his appearance, was greeted in a manner that bore eloquent testimony to his great popularity. The enviable position which he holds has been gained not only by his supreme ability as an actor but also by his admirable personal qualities. The first item in the evening's programme was Conan Doyle's dramatic one act play Waterloo. Of Sir Henry Irving's portrayal of the veteran, Corporal Brewster, it is difficult to say anything new. It has been eulogised by so many pens, and is generally allowed to be one of the great actor's most telling impersonations. The pathos of the scene, too, is relieved by some extremely effective touches of humour, and the audience expressed their appreciation in no grudging fashion. Mr Lionel Belmore continues to present his easy and natural rendering of the part of Sergeant M'Donald, and Mr Vincent Sternroyd has met with marked success as the Colonel of the Guards.

The curtain next rose on The Bells, and Sir Henry repeated his world-famous study of Mathias, the burgomaster, whose murder of the Polish Jew causes him to become the conscience-stricken wretch with the haunted look in the weary eyes. Sir Henry played the part with all his old force and effect, the audience being powerfully impressed from the very first scene with Houseman, where occurs that sudden transition from the calm, self-possessed, mild scholar to the fierce, determined man capable of a cruel murder. There were repeated calls at the conclusion of the performance, and Sir Henry was at length compelled to say a few words in acknowledgment, thanking the audience for their kindness and loyalty. Mr H. B. Stanford scored in the part of Christian. The village worthies, Walter and Hans, were ably embodied by Messrs Chas. Dodsworth and James Hearn. Mr F. Tyars was a dignified and impressive President of the Court. In the part of Annette Miss May Holland did excellently. Miss Grace Hampton was well placed as Catherine, and Miss Mary Foster was good as Sozel. Tennyson's Becket was presented on Tuesday, with Sir Henry in the title-rôle, supported by Mr Gerald Lawrence as Henry II., Miss Maud Fealy as Fair Rosamund, and Mrs Cecil Raleigh as Eleanor. The scenery was much admired, and the incidental music, performed under the direction of Mr Sydney Faulkner, deserves mention.

AT the Majestic Theatre, San Francisco, on the 9th inst., for the first time on any stage, was produced a Biblical play entitled Mizpah; or, the Story of Esther, written by Mrs Ella Wheeler Wilcox, the well-known authoress and poetess, and Mr Luscombe Searelle. The play is in four acts and nine scenes, and opens in Queen Vashti's apartments, where she is waiting the pleasure of the King, who has just returned triumphant from the wars. She believes that she is not loved by her consort; and, Haman appearing on the scene and strengthening her doubts, the pair conspire to murder Ahasuerus and seize the throne. The next scene shows the banquet hall prepared for the festivities in honour of the King. In the midst of the gaiety he calls for his wife, who at first refuses to come, and then on his command appears, but only to denounce him for his infidelity. He orders her to be banished, and she is about to murder him, but is prevented by Mordecai, who, with some other Hebrew captives, is in the hall awaiting the King's pleasure. The second act shows Esther's home in a stable outside the palace walls and Mordecai's return with the news that the King is seeking a new wife. He urges Esther, for the sake of her people, to seek the monarch's favour. The following scene is in one of the palace chambers, where Esther appears before the King and fascinates him, despite Haman's attempt to have her sent from the castle as a beggar. The third act is laid in Haman's chamber, where the ex-Queen and he again plot to murder the King and to slaughter the Jews. In the gardens of the palace there is a love scene between Esther and the King; and in the ante-room of Esther's bedchamber Mordecai slays the assassins who are lying in wait for the King. The last act opens in a part of the palace grounds, where Mordecai tells Esther his reasons for killing the guards, and urges her to see the King, inform him of the truth, and thus save her persecuted race. The final scene is in the throne room. Esther enters unsummoned, but the King greets her with the uplifted sceptre. She unfolds her story and the perfidy of Haman and the ex-Queen. Haman is ordered to the gibbet prepared for Mordecai, and the ex-Queen is killed by the poisonous snake she had intended should bite Esther. The play was finely mounted.

DEATH rang down the curtain on the 8th inst. in San Francisco on the life of Ellen Cummens, "Nellie Cummings," who at one time was the leading lady for Messrs Booth and Barrett and Mr John M'Cullough. She died from asthma, in the presence of friends upon whose charity she had lived in a shabby room in that city, the rent of which she had been almost unable to pay. Yet had she lived her feet would have been set again in the dramatic paths she had trodden for upwards of thirty-six years, for John Moore, manager for Messrs Frederick Warde and Katherine Kidder, now appearing in Salammbo, in San Francisco, had consented to give her a chance to appear again in the plays of Shakespeare, in which she established her first fame. She was born fifty-four years ago in Boston, Mass., and her funeral was held on the 9th inst. under the auspices of the local Theatrical Managers' Association. It was in defence of Miss Cummings that Mr Maurice Barrymore, now an inmate of a sanatorium, was wounded some years ago while in Texas. A railroad man made himself offensive to the actress in a restaurant at Marshall, in that state, and when Barrymore thrashed him he shot the actor in the shoulder.

ON Thursday the Cinderella company, appearing at the Theatre Royal, Gloucester, played against Old Boys of the Gloucester Club in a comic costume football match, in aid of charities. In the evening the joint benefit of Miss Annie Craig and Miss Ada Lindley, principal boy and girl, was announced to take place.

MISS MAY MARTON, who has been playing Cinderella at the Grand Theatre, Edinburgh, so successfully, was accorded a complimentary benefit by the management on Friday last week, when the theatre was completely filled, the performance being under the patronage of officers of several regiments, including the 17th Lancers, and many distinguished citizens. Evidence of Miss Marton's popularity was shown in the beautiful flowers and presents handed over the footlights, the most admired being a recherché chiffon parasol opened and used as a flower basket, with a handsome silver network bag and painted sashes attached, from the management, while a large silver mirror mounted on a four-foot easel of flowers was notable. A basket of blue hyacinths, with a large B and silver casket appended, on which was engraved the chorus of "Bluebell," was a memento of a beautiful rendering, and amongst other trophies of admiration were a valuable sable muff and stole, garlanded with flowers and ribbons. A pretty thought was a bouquet of flowers from admirers in Dundee who had been to see the pantomime.

AT the Royal Hippodrome, Salford, an exceptionally interesting entertainment is this week contributed to by Three Juggling Geraldos, Fred and Maude Vyponds, in their latest successes, The Honeymoon, &c.; Deakin and Rankin, Veno, Stidder, musical eccentric; Mabel La Blanche, comedienne; Wilfred, contortionist; and Wirson, head and hand equilibrist.

MR EDITOR.—Sir,—In your "Music Hall Gossip," last Saturday's issue, you say the Empire, Wrexham, was on the evening of the 20th inst. placed by Mr J. J. Scott at the service of the Mayor of Mexborough and the committee responsible for the management of the distress fund. It should have read "Mayor of Wrexham." Yours faithfully, HERBERT NICHOLLS, Manager, Empire, Wrexham, Jan 24.

THEATRICAL PATENTS.

The following abridged description is specially drawn for The Era by Messrs Hughes and Young, patent agents, 55 and 56, Chancery-lane, London, W.C., who will give advice and assistance free to our readers on all patent matters.

24,486. May Beatrice Amy Bartholomew and Helena Stewart, 120, New Bond-street, London. A folding hat for use in theatres, and when travelling.

20,702. Aerial roundabouts. Patentee, J. Stewart, Polwarth-crescent, Edinburgh. Aerial machines without aerostats; propelling and steering. A beam is suspended on trunnions of the sleeve, which is carried on ball bearings by a pivot at the top of the pole. At one end of the beam is a balance weight, and at the other is an aerial machine propelled by the rider's feet or by other power. The propeller is driven by gearing, and may be raised by winding the string on the revolving handle-bar. By adjusting the aerophanes and the height and speed of the propeller the rider and machine are raised in the air, in addition to having a rotary motion round the pole.

MR A. E. SMITH'S company, with the pantomime Aladdin, is at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Salford, this week. The part of Aladdin is undertaken by Miss Elsie Douglas (Mrs A. E. Smith), whose efforts afford much satisfaction. Mr Fred Ramsdale makes a very good Widow Twankey, and Mr J. H. Maxwell scores heavily as Abanazar. Mr Teddy Lennon as the Grand Vizier and the Bros. Taylor (Chinese Policemen) do a lot of clever comic business. Mr Fred Arnold (the Emperor) gives a clever illusionist speciality, and other acceptable items are given, including those by Miss Elsie Douglas, Bros. Taylor, Miss Maud Bettison (Genie of the Ring), the Four Snowdrops, pretty dancers; Mr Teddy Lennon and Mr J. H. Maxwell.

THE friends of Mrs Stewart M'Donald will be sorry to hear she is an inmate of St. Saviour's Hospital, Osnaburgh-street, Regent's-park. She would be pleased to hear from friends.

THE Grand Theatre, Edinburgh, has jumped into popularity at the first bound. The pantomime, Cinderella, finished its sixth week to over £500 to make room for Miss Florrie Forde in Red Riding Hood, and the "send off" of Cinderella for Newcastle on Sunday last was remarkable for an Edinburgh Sabbath. Motor-cars, carriages, and hired vehicles brought friends from all parts of the city, and the Waverley station was packed to pay a farewell courtesy to the Grand's successful artists, loud cheering manifesting their popularity.

PRESENTATION.—The young singer and dancer known as "Buster Brown," in grateful recognition of Mr Harry Lyons's services in introducing him to the music hall public at Collins's, has presented that gentleman with a solid silver match-box, beautifully engraved, as a souvenir.

PRESENTATION.—Mr Percy Kurutz, musical director at the Royal West London Theatre, was recently the recipient of a handsome silver-mounted walking-stick, presented to him by Miss Maud Nelson, principal boy, in the pantomime, Babes in the Wood.

ADVERTISERS and SUBSCRIBERS who are moving about, and who have their Copy of "THE ERA" sent direct from this Office, 49, Wellington-street, Strand, are requested to forward the Addresses for their Papers not later than the Tuesday in each Week.

SHREWSBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Business Manager, Mr W. C. Dornton.—The American novelty, The Fatal Wedding, is being played here this week by Mr Bert Coote's smart company. Mr Guy Hastings, a thoroughly capable actor, is seen to advantage in the part of Howard Wilson; Mr Albert Wainwright as Robert Curtis makes the best of his opportunities; Mr W. E. Chewd as Toto is droll and successful; Mr T. W. Ford in the amusing character of Peter Schwartz plays with ability; Mr Jack Waring is a capital policeman as O'Reilly; and Mr Richard F. Symons makes a good Rev. Dr. Lanceford. Miss Eva Moss is a powerful Mabel Wilson; Miss Dora Gilham looks well and plays with conspicuous ability as Cora Williams; Miss Maud Lockyer is amusing as Bridget; and Miss Emmie Thomas as Bessie, "the little mother," is remarkably clever for her years.

SMETHWICK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr C. Barnard; Manager, Mr E. Hewitson.—Pantomime is again the fare provided for the audience at this theatre, where Fred J. Little and Fred Darcy's company is appearing in Robinson Crusoe. To Miss Vera Mayne has been allotted the part of principal boy, which she invests with charm. Her songs were well rendered and warmly encored. A delightful and fascinating little artist is Miss Nellie Moore, who, as Polly Hopkins, plays with considerable energy, and her songs are given in pleasing style. Miss Daisy Volbecque presents a dashing Captain Billie Taylor. She acts in an energetic manner, and her songs are given in capital style. Miss Bertha St. Ruth possesses a well-trained voice, which she uses to advantage as Electra; Mr Will Freeda revels in the part of Mrs Crusoe, and contributes a step dance which is appreciated; Mr George Rapley is good as Will Atkins; Messrs Bass and Guinness as Billy and Jimmy Crusoe keep the house in roars of laughter with their jokes and witticisms; Mr T. W. Johnson makes a capital King Kyapakoola, and contributes a neat sand dance; Miss Rosie Volbecque is a refined and pleasing Princess Flumexa; Mr Will Crowson manipulates the bones in a manner which gains encores nightly, and his acting as Friday is also good. The French Brothers, with tricks on the bicycle, and the acrobatic Unicyclists cause quite a sensation by their clever exhibition. The Alhambra Quartet of dancers also appear successfully.

SOUTHAMPTON.

GRAND THEATRE, Resident-Manager, Mr Sydney Paxton.—The production of The Cingalee, by Mr George Dance's excellent company, has been received here with the greatest enthusiasm. The company is a very strong one, including many favourite artists. Miss Ethel Negretti as Nanoya sings and acts delightfully. Mr Francis Ludlow, who possesses a powerful baritone voice, sings his numbers admirably. Mr Fred W. Pattrick, an old favourite, is as pompous and imposing as ever, and scores with his topical ditty "There's nothing much more to say." Mr Lauri De Freece (Chambhuddy) is responsible for most of the fun, and receives a cordial welcome. He is joined by Miss Mabel Sealby, a vivacious Peggy, in a number of smart duets, which bring down the house. Mr F. W. Ford gives a capital character study as Sir Peter, and Mr George Mudie, jun., lends capable assistance as Bobby Warren. Miss Madge Temple is a charm-Lady Patricia, and Miss Trissie March dances divinely, her graceful pas seul bringing down the house.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs J. W. Gordon.—Mr William Bourne's company is appearing here in When Darkness Falls. In the rôle of Helen Montrevor Miss Maud Buchanan proves herself an actress of considerable power and resource. Mr Charles Boult gives a masterly impersonation of Capt. Harold Montrevor, and Mr Frank Liston is equally successful as the Rev. Arthur Graham. Miss Lydia Hart and Miss Minnie Litchfield as Tim and Harry are both admirable, and Mr Edis J. Preston is sufficiently villainous as Capt. Woodruffe, who is well seconded by Miss Amy Venimore (Mrs Woodruffe). The comedy element is in the safe hands of Mr E. Harvey White, who scores a success.

PALACE.—Manager, Mr Charles Marte.—Herr Fritz, with his wonderful cabinet illusions, is the star artist here, and he succeeds in completely mystifying his audience. The M'Connell Trio, very old favourites, cause considerable merriment in A Musical Mistake. Russell and Roper, as duettists, are great, their rendering of "Excelsior" being very fine. The Eugene Family excel as aerial gymnasts, and other excellent turns are contributed by Major Moss and Son, vocal scenic artists; L. B. Athol, vocal comedian; Fred Henderson, comedian; and Eily Adair, comedienne.

SOUTHPORT.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, the Opera House and Winter Gardens Company, Limited; General Manager, Mr Alfred Hemming.—The first pantomime of the season made its appearance here on Monday, when Mr J. F. Elliston's company opened a twelve nights' engagement with Cinderella. Beautiful dresses, excellent ballets, and gorgeous stage settings were prominent characteristics of the production; Miss Don Harridine enacted the title-rôle with charming grace and vivacity; and Miss Mable Englehardt as Prince Rudolph; Miss Hettie Zillwood as Dandini; Miss Edith Harmer as Fairy Delight; and Miss Jessie Leslie as Master of the Horse did well. Mr Ernie Mayne in the part of Buttons, the page, was responsible for the greater part of the merriment; Mr Tatten Hall was well placed as Baron Hardupp; and Mr Fred Spencer, and Mr Tom Owen appeared to advantage as Bertha and Flossie, the two Ugly Sisters. Specialities were supplied by Silbon's miniature circus, including La Petite Carola, the youngest equestrienne in the world; and the Boris Fridkin Imperial troupe of singers, dancers, and acrobats, who gave a unique performance.

SOUTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs G. and F. Coulson.—Revenge, the title of the military drama in which Mr E. Hill-Mitchelson and an excellent company are appearing, abounds in pleasing and somewhat sensational incidents. Mr E. Hill-Mitchelson gives a well-studied assumption of Prince Orloff. The Capt. Vanessa of Mr Wellesley Draper is represented conscientiously. Another histrionic success is Mr Theo. Balfour as the King. Mr Arthur M'Culloch characteristically delineates Count Mussant, and Mr Fred Yarnold as Jim Jennings, A.B., and Mr T. W. Hurst as Capt. David Carr, R.N., are two agreeable exponents of comedy. Miss Lelgarde Atheling is a neat Tusha, and Miss Arace Amlers presents a pathetic embodiment of Lieut. Maurice. Cora Brook is charming as played by Miss Alice Barber, whose vivacity wins admiration. Miss Violet Carlyle is a powerful, striking, and sympathetic Queen.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. F. Thompson.—A clever satirical sketch entitled For Reform, written by Mr Hugh Stanton, and performed by the author and Miss Jessie Burgwitz, is convulsing large audiences here. A welcome return visit from Florrie Gallimore, comedienne, meets with gratifying results. Frazer and Mac submit a good musical comedy act, and the musical speciality by the Carcassi Duo is well received. An old favourite is Jimmy Shields, one-legged comedian and dancer. The American Bioscope is presenting new films, and the remaining items are Daisy Ray, sand dancer; Sisters Slater, banjoists and dancers; F. Landle, comedian; and H. F. Wilson, tenor vocalist.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K. Hall and Mr Jos. Sweeney.—The Three Henriques, the principal turn this week, appear with marked ability in an acrobatic display, interspersed with up-to-date and enjoyable patter. The eccentricities and dancing of the Jetneys are above the average. Two capable burlesque comedians are Grant and Allen, and Sam Richardson, Scotch comedian, scores. Joe Humphries, vocalist; Billy Richardson, Royal stump orator; and Mephisto, contortionist, also contribute.

STAFFORD.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Jas. Elphinstone.—The Little Widow is being played here this week with Miss Grace Warner as Mrs Constance Rattlebrain. Miss Warner gave a vivacious delineation of the part, and received repeated testimonies of appreciation. Sophonisba was a clever character study by Miss Kathleen Cranston. Mrs Wilkins Potter was consistently played by Miss M. Fawcett, and Emily Randall was entrusted to Miss Maud Warburton with distinct success. Mr Geo. Gordon completely justified his reputation as Wilkins Potter, and Dr Arthur Potter was in the capable hands of Mr St. Bernard Wyntour. Mr C. Macdona's No. 1 company in A Chinese Honeymoon is here for the latter part of the week.

STOCKPORT.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Wm. Revill.—Little Bo-Peep has fully maintained the success of last week, the members of Milton Ray's company striving their best to amuse, which they succeed in doing in a very large degree. The principal boy, Miss Daisy Morrell (Ferdinand) continues to please immensely. She has an impressive style and most charming manner of singing her songs. Mr Harry Elliston, Binks; Mr Jack Hylton, Baron; and Mr W. G. Wesley, Dame, lack no efforts to keep the fun going, whilst the Four Sisters Tree, Secret Police, add their full share of pleasing entertainment to the many excellent items in the pantomime.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Weldon Watts; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr R. G. Elder.—Another visit is being paid here by Mr W. W. Kelly's company in A Royal Divorce. Mr Frank Lister as Napoleon is in every way well fitted for the part; Mr Cecil Du Gue is successful as the Marquis De Beaumont; Mr Alfred Grenville scores as General Augereau; and Mr Ernest G. Batley's Marshal Murat is very good. Mr H. Gray Dolby's Talleyrand and Dr. Corvisart are both clever impersonations. Mr Dennis Bryan's Grimaud causes a great deal of fun. Other characters are all in safe hands. Miss Edith Cole's Josephine is a capital creation, her acting being marked by a majestic grace well befitting the part. Miss Ethyle Murray's Marie Louise is cleverly acted, and Miss Helen Richmond's Stephanie is full of sly humour. As the little King of Rome Miss Maggie Cardiff plays with much intelligence.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. Batty; Manager, Mr W. Batty.—Some clever turns are in the programme here, including Austin and Cowan, in their favourite love duets; Master Henre, boy juggler; Sidney Lee, in new and clever conjuring; Cliff and Kean, dancers and patterers; Mayon and Marle, sketch artistes; the Three Romas as Roman gladiators; the Dayton Family, in an uncommonly skilful Risley act; and a laughable film by Payne's Bio. entitled "The Lost Child."

STOURBRIDGE.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Manageress, Miss Maude Lynton.—Mr Arthur Gibbons's pantomime company is here with Beauty and the Beast. Miss Linda Keston as Beauty suited the part admirably, and Miss Marie Beaufort as Prince Charming pleases the audience greatly. Mr Sidney Vereker as Ko-Hop is very successful, and Messrs Will Holland and Tom Banks as the Twins create much merriment. Mr Albert E. Mann plays with conspicuous ability as Maude Hannah. The performance of Dartigan in looping the loop is clever and creates a sensation.

SWANSEA.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons, Limited; Lessees and Managers, Messrs E. Oswald Brooks and J. W. Woodbridge; Resident Partner, Mr E. Oswald Brooks.—The Girl from Kay's has been on her first visit to us during the week with Mr George Dance's principal company. The title-rôle is in the excellent hands of Miss Nancy Hervyn, who makes a big success. Miss Rita Leonhardt as Norah Chalmers is remarkably good and also sings well. Ellen, by Miss Maisie North, and Mrs Chalmers, by Miss Mabel Champion, are very capably represented. Mr H. C. Barry has plenty of scope in the part of Max Hoggenheimer, and takes full advantage of it, keeping the audience in continual merriment. The parts of Harry Gordon, by Mr Garnet Wilson; the Hon. Percy Fitzthistle, by Mr Leslie Roy Cathie; and Joseph, by Mr Fred Rolph, are all very ably filled, and add much to the success.

NEW STAR.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell; Acting-Manager, Mr William Coutts.—The attraction at this house during the week has been the military drama The Two Hussars, played by Messrs Fred J. Webb and Wilson Benge's company.

NEW EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Albert Mitchell.—The capital programme presented here this week includes Bella and Bijou, in excellent sketches; Ike Scott and Son, a pair of popular comedians; Five Delevines, in the musical mélange Flirtation; Clown Zertho's dogs, most cleverly trained; Syd May, an excellent mimic; Lotto, Lilo, and Otto, remarkably clever trick cyclists; Ada Cerito, a sprightly comedienne; Cabby and Shirker, in a clever eccentric bar act; the Three Sisters Klos, a trio of wonderfully clever athletes; and Alexandra Dagmar, in the burlesque scena "The Duchess of Dantzic."

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. W. Grantham.—The artistes engaged here for the week are Mahatma, the wonder worker; Mabelle Fowler, chic comedienne; Franz A. Crisp, actor-vocalist; Rose Newport, juvenile comedy artist; Wisper, juggler; Beattie Bloom, refined comedienne; Ernest D'Albert, comedian; and Hart and Hart, variety artists.

SWINDON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Responsible Manager, Mr Alfred Manners; Musical Director, Mr Fred H. Lucas.—After four weeks of heavy business at the Theatre Royal, Cardiff, Mr Milton Bode's fairy pantomime, Dick Whittington, under the business management of Mr A. Symonds, has been removed in its entirety, and opened a week's visit here on Monday. The company, a strong one, is headed by Miss Madeline Rees, whose captivating performance makes her an ideal Dick. Miss Minnie Duncan is charming as Alice, being full of life and go, and scores vocally, her songs, "Mary had a little lamb" and "The Spirit of the Cake-walk," being cleverly rendered. Miss Florence A. White is extremely bright and pleasing as Tommy Trott, and Miss Janet H. Reynolds, who possesses a sweet voice, is highly successful as May. Miss Nelly Lauraine does well as Fatima. The fun is kept at high pressure, Mr Bob Hutt as Fitzwarren and Mr Arthur E. Godfrey as Idle Jack being responsible for roars of laughter. Mr Fred Dark works hard as Matilda; Mr Alfred Lester helps the fun along as Captain; and Mr C. Morgan as Bill Oakum uses a good bass voice to advantage. Miss Lillian Graham displays remarkable dancing abilities, and Mr Tom Gilmore as the cat is a great success.

TON-Y-PANDY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; General Manager, Mr Sam Duckworth; Acting-Manager, Mr H. Counsell.—Messrs Carlton and Duckworth are presenting here this week Sinbad the Sailor. The title-rôle is well taken by Miss Rita Leslie, and Miss Kate Holloway shines as Princess Zorilda. Messrs A. Andrews and Gilbert Payne as Mrs Sinbad and Tinbad cause great amusement.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; Lessee, Miss A. Alexandra; Managing-Director, Mr David Taylor.—Heading a good programme are Hicks's Clerks, comedians. By their trapeze work Aerian and Ostara gain applause; M'Cann's dogs pay a welcome return visit; Mdlle. Florizel, contortionist, provides a good turn; and La Place introduces some new mirth-making tricks.

WAKEFIELD.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Milton Ray's company is paying a week's visit in the pantomime, Beauty and the Beast which has proved a success. Miss Maidie Scott is capital as Silver Britton, Miss Nellie Merton sings and acts well as Beauty, Miss Maude Jay makes a handsome Prince Greatheart, Mr Rolando Martin works hard as Sammy, and his comicalities keep the house in continual roars of laughter, Mr George Rydon does good work as Sir Macintosh Mizzletoe, and Mr Edwin Garth scores a distinct success as Wilhelmina; Messrs Fyne and Hurley are amusing as the bailiffs, Spindles and Twitters; Mr Sydney Milton is capital as the Bad Fairy; and Miss Florence Overton is charming as Fairy Sunlight. A comical boxing act by Messrs Fyne and Hurley evokes much merriment; the Hayes Brothers are warmly applauded for their sand dance; Wallau, the boy jugg'er, performs some clever feats; and the Four Eldorados, a troupe of lady dancers, dance with much spirit.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wakefield Hippodrome, Limited; Manager, Mr D. G. Mooney.—The Glenroy Troupe of male and female dancers win applause for their excellent dancing. Mr Albert Brasque and Miss Cora Duncan successfully present a smart sketch, entitled A Dressing-Room Romance. Mr J. H. Kavanagh, descriptive vocalist, scores; Mr Sam Shipley is an amusing comedian; Barton and Franklin provide an interesting musical turn. Other attractions are Mr G. W. Foster, eccentric comedian; Miss Beattie Worth, vocalist; and Miss Marion De Verne, ballad vocalist.

WALSALL.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Walsall Theatres Co., Limited; General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—On Monday the theatre opened with the pantomime Aladdin, written and produced by Stanley Rogers. Charming dresses and scenery, capital singing and dancing, and, above all, rollicking fun, are the features of the production. In the title-rôle Miss Emmeline Orford wins great favour, her most popular song being "Blue-bell," which is well received. The Princess has for an exponent Miss Constance Hamilton, who has a taking style and sings well. Mr Edwin Brett as Abanazar is a clever comedian; Mr Ted Young plays the part of Widow Twankey with commendable ability and is most amusing; Messrs Walton and Lester as the policemen, Bo-Bi and Bo-Ko, are exceedingly funny and keep the house in continual mirth; whilst Mr H. O. Clarey as Wishee Washee adds considerably to the fun. Miss Madge Haines is smart and attractive as Pekoe; Miss Florence Bernard as the Good Fairy Electra meets with much success; Mr Nat Lewis is well placed as the Emperor; and Mr Somers Bellamy does well as So Long.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Walsall Theatres Company, Limited; General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—Mr T. Edward Ward's company opened here on Monday with Her Wedding Day. Mr Percy Brown makes an excellent Harold Saxby; the part of Seth Margson is well sustained by Mr T. Edward Ward; and Mr Chas. H. Lester is a capable Weedon Kenyon. Miss Helen Inglelow as Dora acts with considerable skill, and Miss Ward makes a charming bride.

WALTHAMSTOW.

KING'S THEATRE.—A pleasant change from continued melodrama is to be found here in The Maid of the Alps, in which music plays quite as important a part as story. Mr Geo. M. Marriott's company does ample justice to the piece. A great success is made by Mr Marriott himself as Madame Potard, a part which combines all the malignity and repulsiveness of La Frochard with many subtle touches of its own. He gives a picture of melodramatic intensity such as is rarely seen. Miss Edith Finlay is a charming Louise, singing with taste and acting prettily. Lucas (Madame Potard's brigand son), has a picturesque exponent in Mr J. H. Boyde. Mr Otto Minster acts and sings well as Sir Stratton Towers, and Mr Frank Herald manages to extract some fun from the low comedy part.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr G. Adney Payne; Manager, Mr Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr Geo. F. Slatter.—Artists may come and artists may go, but Mr G. H. Chirgwin goes on for ever, prattling his funny little stories, singing his snatches of melody as only he can, and taking his audience into his confidence with a never-failing perception of what they like to hear. He still towers miles above his host of imitators. This week he makes his second bow to Walthamstow audiences, and is received as an old friend should be. He is far and away the champion "line" on a bill by no means lacking in talent, and his nightly success is "pro-digious!" Mr Johnny Gilmore renews his acquaintance with us, and proves as mirth-provoking as ever. A clever little duologue sketch, The Lady and the Lunatic, although built on lines that have been employed times without number, serves pleasantly to introduce Mr Bartlett as Dr. Banks, a specialist in lunacy, and Miss Muir as Lady Brownlower, his supposed patient. The lady, in a "ravishing" costume, looks a picture of beauty, and both artists play with much comedy spirit. The highly-cultivated and singularly sweet voice of Miss C. Stroud Wilson is heard to great advantage in two songs, her rendering of "Comin' through the Rye" being exquisite. The Royal Six are a bevy of lady cyclists, vocalists, and instrumentalists, who contribute a very good turn. The Toro Trio, Mexican equilibrists, are certainly wonderful, and their performance has, apparently, that spice of danger in it that renders it more attractive to at least a portion of the spectators. The Stella Troupe (eight in number) dance vigorously, and do wonders in the way of human pyramids, "splits," and somersaults. Mr Sam Mayo, appearing as deputy for a gentleman absent from the bill, sends his audience into fits with his dry humour. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope shows some admirable pictures.

WEDNESBURY.

WARRINGTON.

ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter.—Mrs Bandmann-Palmer and company had a hearty greeting on Monday in the comedy Nell Gwynne. The favourite actress again scored a big success. Mr F. Skein ably sustained the part of Charles II. East Lynne, Sapho, Mary Queen of Scots, and Jane Shore are also in the répertoire.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter: Director of Amusements, Mr F. Willmot.—George Gilbey, a most versatile comedian, has won a big success here this week. Each night the audience is convulsed with laughter. Percy Handel, the boy instrumentalist, also scores well. Capable comedians are George Nero and J. H. Bowman; a clever mimic is Calvo; and the Ambrey Brothers are experts with the rifle. T. W. Royal, clog-dancer, is well received, and charming pictures are supplied by the Royal Bioscope.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.

GRAND.—General Manager (for Mrs Weldon Watts), Mr Sidney Bacon; Resident Manager, Mr Fred Conneaux.—Robinson Crusoe, which is being presented for two weeks by Mr Frank Macnaghten's company, is being favourably received. As Robinson Miss Louie Herman scores a marked success; Miss Rose Bartlett is an attractive Polly Perkins; Mr Jack Foley endows the rôle of Widow Crusoe with abundance of fun, being well played up to by Harris and Worth as Sammy Sackless and Dick Draymath. In the character of the Rajah Mr Chas. Cork is warmly applauded for his rendering of the songs allotted to the rôle. Will Atkins has a capable representative in Mr Will Lytton; Mr Harry Morgan contributes to the humour as Friday; and Miss Daisy Reed and Miss Flora Leonard deserve praise for what they do as Princess Pearly-pet and Fairy Coral.

PALACE.—Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—Dida, the attraction heading the bill here this week, is a complete mystery; the Gothams are a quartet of talented vocalists, who, in a sketch Miss Greene, have full scope to display their unmistakable abilities; Harry Thurston's imitations of popular favourites are remarkably good; the performance of Charles Serra on the white pedestal is a triumph of equilibrium; some smart and clever conjuring feats are done by Marco, the boy magician; and acceptable interludes are contributed by Ryder Davis, comedian; Pallizer's Bioscope; and Eva Ward, comedienne.

WEST STANLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Mark H. Lindon.—Messrs Armadale and Warner's company is here this week with the sensational drama, The Face at the Window. Mr Augustine Knight as Le Loup displays exceptional ability; as Paul Gouffet Mr T. W. Dunscombe is very good; and Henry de Brisson, by Mr Geo. Pythian, and Lucien Cortier, by Mr Alfred Warne, are excellent representations. Mr C. Alan Hineson as Peter Pottlebury is very funny; as Marie de Brisson Miss Marie Barrett is most successful; as Babette Miss Gwynne Warren is good; and as La Pinau Miss Jeannie Dempster well deserves the applause accorded her.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr T. C. Rawes; Resident-Manager, Mr D. Williams.—Messrs Garside, Knowles, and Ludlow's company is here this week with The London Fireman. Mr Forbes Knowles gives a spirited rendering of Hal Curtis; as Viscount Fleming Mr Arthur Pringle is a capable villain; Miss Mona Grey as Ida Curtis is excellent; and as Polly Bramble Miss Nellie Garside is very funny.

WEXFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr F. P. Ronan.—The Elster-Grime opera company is paying a welcome return visit here this week. Fra Diavolo was presented on Monday with much success. Mr Payne Clarke, though obviously suffering from a cold, made an excellent Fra Diavolo; Mr M. Kemble as Giacomo and Mr H. Murphy as Beppo were well placed; and Mr T. Partridge as Matteo was very good; Mr Gilbert King gave an admirable rendering of Lord Allcash, and Mr A. Kewley as Lorenzo made the most of his opportunities. The rôle of Lady Allcash was played in finished fashion by Miss Gilbert, and Miss Marshall as Zerlina sang sweetly and acted charmingly. The Bohemian Girl, Il Trovatore, Maritana, The Lily of Killarney, and Carmen are in the répertoire of the week.

WIGAN.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr John Worswick.—Mr Tom B. Davis's company, under the direction of Mr Wentworth Croke, has been appearing during the week in Florodora. The piece is admirably staged, and the augmented orchestra and full chorus are under the direction of Mr J. H. Hutchinson. The part of Cyrus W. Gilfain is taken by Mr T. Ellis Buxton, who sings in good style. Mr Cyril Dane as Frank Abercoed, Mr Derick Knowles as Captain Arthur Donegal, and Mr Lionel Williams as Leandro are effective in their respective parts. The characters of Lady Holyrood and Dolores are excellently portrayed respectively by Miss Rene Steadman and Miss May Desmond, who dance and sing in a charming manner. The part of Tweedlepunch has a capital exponent in Mr Albert Brune.

GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr J. Worswick.—A splendid all-round programme is provided this week at the Hippodrome. The Seven Savonas are an exceptional musical turn. Playing upon various instruments, they give that which is seldom heard in ordinary orchestration—a perfect representation of the Storm scene from William Tell. The Six Elliotts are excellent trick cyclists, and Frederica's terriers and performing pony in the cake-walk are capital. Wallace Whitney is a naturally gifted comedian. Larolo is an amusing equilibrist, and Rose Cabini is a refined comedienne and dancer. Beatie Forster, descriptive vocalist; Senorita Eloina, swinging trapezist; Percy Farrimond, the singing collier, who hails from the neighbourhood; and Allis and Cassati, a comedy couple, are all capital additions to an otherwise strong company.

EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Manager, Mr W. Birchall.—There is an all-round good company at the Empire this week, including the clever troupe, the Five Rhynes, in an entertaining comedy act. Launey and Dode, athletic domestics, stay a week longer, and Miss Flo Windsor is a male impersonator much above the ordinary. Miss Kitty Gower, international dancer; George Hastings, baritone vocalist; and The Academy, an extremely amusing comic sketch; and Alma Seymour and Alfred Bilford comedians, are also well received.

WINDSOR.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Licensee, Mr Fred L. Connynghame; General Business-Manager, Mr Worton David; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Nash.—The Manxman, adapted from Mr Hall Caine's great work, which has been played here this week by Mr Alfred B. Cross and company, is finely produced. Mr Cross's Pete is a good study of the noble-minded, tender, and true, yet badly betrayed young Manxman. Miss Minnie Watersford as Kate Cregeen, the heroine, presents a most touching picture of the wronged girl. The character is intensely pathetic, and in this respect is rendered with truthfulness and delicate artistic skill by Miss Watersford. Philip Christian, the false friend of Pete and the lover of Kate, is judiciously and effectively represented by Mr William Burchill; Mr Henry Hiller is excellent as Cæsar Cregeen; Mr Edward M'Lean is good as Ross Christian; and Miss Nancy Mitchell is pleasing and amusing as Nancy.

WIMBLEDON.

WORPLE HALL.—There was a large and enthusiastic attendance at the Worple Hall, Wimbledon, on Wednesday, to witness an excellent performance of Floradora by Mr Ben Greet's company. Mr Bert Danson was most energetic as Tweedlepunch, and kept the audience convulsed by his irresistible drollery. Mr Edward Chester was one of the best Gilfains we have seen, and Mr Edward Crossland played and sang well as Frank Abercoed, being well supported by Mr Dudley Hearder as Captain Arthur Donegal. Miss Daisy Lake was very strong in the part of Dolores, Miss Louie Danby was pleasing as Angela Gilfain, and Miss F. M Newman gave a charming representation of the part of Lady Holyrood, singing and acting with great vivacity. Mr Jos. R. Tate also deserves mention for his striking rendering of Leandro. The company was a very full one, and the chorus merited praise by its singing and dancing. In the last act a parody of the "Miserere" from Il Trovatore was admirably rendered by Mr Bert Danson and Miss Daisy Lake, and won great applause. The piece was well mounted.

WOLVERHAMPTON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr E. H. Bull and Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Percival.—This week Mr Mouillot's company is appearing here in the comedy-drama, A Message from Mars, this being its second visit. The company includes Mr F. Rawson Buckley, who gives an admirable impersonation of Horace Parker; Mr William H. Brougham, who is seen to great advantage as the Messenger from Mars; Mr Bruce Lindley, who makes a capital Tramp; and Mr Frank G. Dunn, who does well as Arthur Dicey. Miss May Saker is an excellent Minnie Templar; and Miss Flora Hastings is good as Miss Parker.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Barnard; General Manager, Mr W. H. Lennon.—In consequence of the success attending Dr. Walford Bodie's visit, he has been retained here for a second week, and he has introduced the Mystic Marie, who is described as "the real Trilby," and does some wonderfully clever things apparently under the influence of the doctor. Among other things she sketches, while blindfold, the portrait of any given celebrity without any word being spoken, and plays on the piano any piece agreed upon, to the wonder and astonishment of the audience. Other items in the bill are the De Roys, conjurors; the Garden Troupe of international dancers; and several other artistes who appeared last week.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Sole Lessees, Mr Fred Benton and Mr Fred J. Little; General Manager, Mr Fred Benton.—This week's company includes the Chevalier Crowther, expert swordsman; Professor Holloway and his trained animals; Baby Lloyd, vocalist; Master Tony, in bar act; J. Swallow and H. Fossett, equestrians; and a juvenile military spectacle illustrating the Russo-Japanese war.

WORCESTER.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Arthur Carlton; Manager, Mr Louis Karpe; Assistant-Manager, Mr Fred Le Waide.—Lovers of musical comedy have been delighted this week with the performances of A Country Girl by Mr Chas. Macdona's company. The "girl" had a graceful and pleasing exponent in Miss Daisy Davis, and Miss Lucie Lever made a favourable impression in the character of the Princess. The more lively parts of Sophie and Nan were very cleverly impersonated by Miss Sadie Neville and Miss Anna Robertson, whose singing and dancing afforded immense satisfaction. Mr Richard Telford (Barry), like Miss Neville, was here on a return visit, and their comical duets created great amusement. Mr Telford, a host in himself, kept the piece going from start to finish with his funniosities and laughter-moving tricks; Mr Bernard Vaughan was a dignified Rajah; Mr H. Standing, jun., a capital Geoffrey Chaloner; and other parts were well taken.

WORKINGTON.

QUEEN'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr S. Rogers.—Miss Daisy Le Roy's pantomime of Sinbad the Sailor had an enthusiastic reception here on Monday. Miss Edna Cragge was an engaging Sinbad. The humorous element was well developed by Mr B. Brookes as Tinbad and Mr K. Wallace as the Smuggler. Mr G. Asaf was favourably received as Mis Sinbad. Mr L. Stuart sang tastefully as Tornado; Miss Marie Weston was pleasant and competent as Fitnah; Miss H. De Grey was good as Romance; and Miss M. Carter, Miss F. Byron, and Miss Edna Cypreen did well in their respective parts. There were some good variety turns, including those supplied by Mr H. Hunter, Professor Wallace, Mr F. Daleno, the Geisha Dancers, F. Bendo, and Miss N. Coote.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Helsby Wright.—On Monday Messrs Collins and Stevenson's Sinbad the Sailor company appeared here. Miss G. Rowan was a sprightly Sinbad; Mr E. Clay was vigorous as Davy Jones; Mr G. Casey was a lively Widow; and as Tinbad Mr T. Cattle was good. The female characters were well essayed by Miss A. Beresford, Miss F. Goldstone, Miss L. Rosllyn, Miss A. G. Brevett, and Miss N. Temple.

WREXHAM.

EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr Herbert Nicholls.—This week Leslie's animated tableaux, with a new series of pictures, has drawn good houses. Others who have added considerably to the amusement of the patrons have included Mr R. C. Note, comedian; Messrs Droll and Bryan, eccentric patter comedians; Miss Daisy Devonport, comedienne and dancer; Mr Geo. Raper, comedian; and Mr Jo-Kerr, comedian.

YORK.

ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr T. H. Barrow.—The Orchid was presented here on Monday by Mr Geo. Dance's company. Chief honours fell to Mr C. R. Walenn, who as Meakin had a part exactly fitted to his style. Miss Ethel Bryant was a winsome Lady Violet Anstruther, and her efforts were heartily appreciated. As Zaccary Mr Arthur P. Helmsley proved himself an excellent all-round comedian, and his dancing was smart. Mr Ernest Darrell, wonderfully made up, looked and acted Aubrey Chesterton cleverly, and Miss Madge Lucas was very amusing as Caroline Vokins. Miss Irene Desmond was a handsome and charming Josephine, and Mr G. Davy Burnaby as Guy Scrymgeour gave a most mirth-provoking portrayal.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr Sidney Brooke.—The Noisets give a clever cycle entertainment with success, and are heartily welcomed here. Harry Gray is a clever comedian. That smart quick-change artiste, Addie Donna, astonishes all, and Walter Curtis sings effectively. Fannie Robina finds much favour with her songs, and Florry Cooper is also applauded. Aga, Duncan, and Morton, and Frank Caffrey complete an excellent company.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

JOHN HOBBS.—(1) "Cut the dialect (dialogue) and come to the 'osses" (2) At Astley's Theatre (3) He is also reported to have said at a rehearsal, "Hold hard gentlemen; here's a deal o' cackle without any good in it. I'll show you how to cut it," &c. This, we think, answers your third question.

VENDIS.—(1) My Lady Molly (originally produced at the Theatre Royal, Brighton, Aug. 11, 1903) was first played in London at Terry's Theatre on March 14, 1903, where it ran for several months. (2) Mr Martin Harvey produced after All, written by Freeman Wills and Frederick Langbridge, on Jan. 15, 1902. On Feb. 10 A Cigarette Maker's Romance (preceded by An Idyll of Seven Dials) was revived, and shortly after Mr Martin Harvey went on tour with it. He has not appeared at the Avenue since then.

VAMPO.—W. Buck was clown in several pantomimes at the Surrey Theatre, including A Prince of Pearls, produced Dec. 26, 1855; Harlequin and the Summer Queen, produced Dec. 26, 1856; and Queen Mab, produced Dec 26 1857.

CLAPTON.—The principal parts in the original cast of Faust Up to Date, produced at the Gaiety on Oct 30, 1888, were played by Miss Florence St John Miss Fanny Robina Miss Jenny M Nulty. Miss Lillian Price, Mr E. J. Lonnen, Mr Harry Parker, and Mr George Stone.

S. J. B.—Miss Nancy Price was the original Calypso in Mr Tree's production of Ulysses.

J. STANLEY.—You do not say at which theatre in Liverpool. We can, however, find no mention of either lady in our notices of the pantomimes produced at Christmas, 1903.

A. WILLIAMS.—*The cast was as follows:—John Harmon and Rogue Riderhood, Mr G. F. Rowe; Nicodemus Boffin, Mr Sam Emery; Eugene Wrayburn, Mr Chas. THE ERA ANNUAL, 1905.
"The Era" Annual, 1905, is with us once again, and is very welcome. The usual stock features which make this Annual so valuable for reference have been compiled with the usual care, and the "incidentals" will favourably bear comparison with those of any former issue. They range from "Dundee Reminiscences," by Sir Henry Irving, to an endeavour to lay the "Foundations of a National Drama," by Mr Henry Arthur Jones.—Referee, Jan. 15, 1905.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, JANUARY 28, 1905.

PLAYS AND PATRIOTISM.

Great is the power of "Pluck;" so great that the mere depiction of it in print, on canvas, or on the boards of a theatre is sufficient to blind us to all other considerations. "He's a damned fine fellow, and I hope he will win!" cried an English nobleman after his first reading of SATAN'S speech to the other "fallen spirits" in "Paradise Lost;" and the public has always a soft place in its heart for the dashing highwayman and the bold burglar. These considerations are suggested in part by Mr LEWIS WALLER'S superb revival of Henry V. at the Imperial Theatre on Saturday last. The play is a grand glorification of Pluck; and the fact that in this educated and enlightened age Henry V. still thrills us like a bugle sounding the charge shows how much human nature there is in man, and how an individual of one's own nation can steal a horse without going to prison, when a wretched foreigner is hanged for merely looking over the hedge.

One of the characters in GEORGE ELIOT'S "Middlemarch" found that facts got in his way at times. It is a troublesome trick which facts have. They intrude upon our most "patriotic" emotions, and impair our comfortable conceit. As a matter of fact, HENRY V., after the death of his father, was in exactly the same position as NAPOLEON III. after his elevation by the coup d'état. He had to involve his countrymen in an entirely unnecessary war in order to drive out of their thoughts the flaws in his title to the Crown. That there might be no mistake about this, SHAKESPEARE puts the following words into the mouth of the old King upon his death-bed:—

God knows, my son,
By what by-paths and indirect crook'd ways
I met this crown.

Therefore, my Harry,
Be it thy course to busy giddy minds
With foreign quarrels.

The way in which this was managed is most clearly stated by SHAKESPEARE in the first act of Henry V. The clergy were shaking in their shoes at the prospect of the passing of a Bill which had been first brought before Parliament in the reign of HENRY IV., providing that the temporal lands bequeathed to the Church should revert to the Crown. It was the policy of Baron Puck, in The Grand Duchess, whenever his mistress showed a desire to get married—"if she lose her heart we shall lose our places," he says to General Boum—to "divert her mind;" and with that aim he declared war against a neighbouring province. Similarly it was the policy of the archbishops to divert the King's mind from the tempting notion of taking the temporal lands from them; and it was HENRY'S policy to divert the minds of his people from his unsatisfactory title. The right or justice of the matter was absolutely unimportant. Any stick will do to beat a dog with, and any quibble about "Salique law" would be sufficient excuse for a quarrel with France. The real crime which had been committed by that unhappy country was being weak. The King was old and subject to fits of insanity, and the nobles preyed so mercilessly on the people that they hardly knew which they hated most—their own countrymen or the invaders. With so little "heart" in their work, and such poor material for recruiting, it was no wonder that they were beaten at Agincourt by the little English army of jolly yeomen.

We all remember the anecdote of the lawyer who was called upon by the farmer with the news that his—the farmer's—bull had gored and killed the lawyer's cow. The owner of the deceased animal was strong in his declaration of his "damages" by this accident, till the farmer found that he had made a mistake—the murderous bull belonged to the lawyer, who then remarked that "the case was completely altered." A similar change takes place when the action of a foreigner is estimated by an Englishman. There are, in history, three notable instances of butchery. The people of Paris, when it was depleted of its troops by the necessity of beating back the invasion of the Austrians and Prussians, had a number of inconvenient enemies in the prisons. The Parisians, on certain September days, put them to death in cold blood and were therefore execrated. When NAPOLEON was at Jaffa, he took a number of inconvenient prisoners. He had them shot down in cold blood; and he also was therefore execrated. At the battle of Agincourt, HENRY V. had a number of inconvenient prisoners. He likewise had them killed in cold blood; but we never saw in print or heard spoken in English any execration of his cruel and sanguinary order.

From the point of view of impartial history, HENRY V.'s war with France was a cynical political expedient, and his prayers to the ALMIGHTY were instances of the amazing power of self-deception in the human mind. One of the greatest embarrassments of the SUPREME BEING must be caused by the confident appeals for assistance which are constantly made to Him by absolutely undeserving individuals. When, after reducing the "lean and bare labourers" of France to "carcasses of miserable creatures, wandering up and down like ghosts drawn out of their graves," the English were finally "prevailed upon to" go from that unhappy country, the DEITY was still called upon, though, perhaps, hardly with the same fervour as by HENRY V. on his invasion. It is satisfactory that there is no proof that the scene in the First Part of Henry VI.—in which the heroic JOAN of ARC is represented, before being burnt to death by the English, as confessing to gross immorality—was written by SHAKESPEARE.

Such is the power of Pluck, that all such unpatriotic considerations are entirely overlooked when we read Henry V. or see it acted. "In the aibstract," as the Scotch young lady said of love, we may sympathise with the wretched Frenchmen; in the concrete we admire the splendid valour of King HARRY, his fellow-feeling for his soldiers, his dauntless bravery, and his magnetic oratory. The power of the spell that is worked by the magic of SHAKESPEARE'S genius, admirably interpreted by the fine talent of Mr LEWIS WALLER and his excellent company at the Imperial Theatre, was never more thoroughly demonstrated than by the enthusiasm which the great fighting drama evoked on Saturday last. It was the tribute of ordinary healthy humanity to the indispensable quality of Pluck.

IN the last act of Henry V. at the Imperial Theatre a number of sumptuous toilettes excite much admiration. Prominent among them is the one worn by Miss Mary Lewis, who as Isabel, Queen of France, looks superb in a splendid gown and gorgeous head-dress. The head-dress, which must be uncomfortably heavy, is made of gold thickly encrusted with jewels, both large and small, of many vivid colours, and is surmounted by the crown of France, also magnificently decorated. Behind it hangs a long white veil. To soften the contour of the face a pleated flounce of white chiffon hemmed with silver is worn beneath the head-dress.

THE dress is a gorgeous one and suits Miss Lewis perfectly. The closely fitting bodice is made of pearl-grey satin bordered with ermine and trimmed about the shoulders with a very handsome jewelled strap, which hangs down the front, and the petticoat is composed of the richest oyster-white damask, embroidered by hand all over in all the colours of the rainbow, so mellowed that they strike not one single garish note. Here again there is a bodering of royal ermine. From the shoulders hangs an excessively voluminous train covered with appliqué pomegranates embroidered by hand upon a background of gold tissue. There is a lining of emerald green satin to this train and a rich bordering of ermine.

MISS SARAH BROOKE, who plays the part of Katherine, and whose scene with Henry V. is one of the gems of the play, looks delightful in her gown of gold tissue, pale blue silk and delicate, mustard-coloured crêpe-de-Chine, which last fabric composes the soft full skirt, and is covered with a vermicelli pattern executed in gold sequins. Her bodice is made of gold tissue, with a broad fichu band of gold velvet brought over the shoulders and caught together at the waist with splendid blue and diamond jewels. The gold tissue sleeves are very long, are slashed at the edges, and are lined with pale blue tissue, while there are also tight undersleeves that match her bodice. Miss Brooke's splendid dark hair is braided in two long plaits, intertwined with pearls, and on her head she wears the crown of France.

MR HERBERT BARRS' Aladdin is at the Theatre Royal, Worthing, this week. Miss Kitty Clayton is vivacious in the title-rôle; Miss Nelly Dyson is a winsome Princess; and Miss Ethel Condor a good Pekoe. Mr Eric Leslie is funny as the Emperor of China; Mr Herbert Grapho as Abanazar deserves much praise; Mr Billy Jackson is an excellent Widow Twankey; Mr George Harvie as Washee is diverting; and Mr Chas. Clayton as Bo Bee and Mr E. H. Cheer as Pe Leer do well. The scenery and costumes are excellent.

A DRAMA, founded on Mr T. P. O'Connor's book, "The Phantom Millions," and dealing with the great Humbert case, has been written by Mr Stephens, who was in Paris at the time of the trial of the Humberts, and collected some very valuable data regarding the whole business. Before leaving France he purchased the notorious safe which figured so prominently in the case. The safe is at the present moment stored in Paris, and Mr Stephens intends making use of it for the purposes of the play. The reason he has not yet produced the piece is that he has been unable to obtain permission to do so from the Lord Chamberlain's office, Mr Redford informing him that the presentation of the drama during the progress of the trial might still further prejudice the minds of the public against the Humberts. Since then Mr Stephens has been faced by another difficulty. After seeking legal advice in Paris on the matter, he found that he might be liable to proceedings taken by representatives of the Humbert family if he produced such a play even in this country. However, the legal obstacles, it appears, have now been removed.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES M. HARDIE.

Liverpool theatrical circles have this week been depleted by the death of Mr James M. Hardie, managing director of the Shakespeare Theatre Co., Limited, and the sad event, coming somewhat suddenly, has been deeply regretted on all hands. Mr Hardie, who was noted for his gentlemanly characteristics, occupied a position of popularity, and his courtesy and urbanity during a long association with Liverpool won for him hosts of friends, who now sincerely regret his removal by death. For years Mr Hardie's health was uncertain, and gave his family some concern. Recently he had suffered from a somewhat serious indisposition, but appeared to be improving when the end came suddenly on Monday last.

Mr Hardie's first appearance in Liverpool was at the Shakespeare Theatre some fifteen years ago, where, with Miss Sara Von Leer, he presented, fresh from the United States, the drama On the Frontier. The work has since been extensively toured, and has proved a success. The proprietorship of the Shakespeare underwent a change some years afterwards, and Mr Hardie and his partner became the lessees. The theatre, which has enjoyed a long run of success, was then undertaken by a limited liability company, and subsequently Mr Hardie became the managing director, a position he held to the last. Among several plays he successfully put on the road were The Two Little Vagabonds and A Path of Thorns, while he was interested in theatrical enterprises in America and England. Mr Hardie adopted the stage when a young man, and proved himself an actor of conspicuous ability, having always identified himself with drama of the serious type. He leaves a widow and family to mourn his loss. The eldest son of the deceased gentleman controls the Victoria Theatre at Broughton, Manchester.

The funeral took place yesterday at Anfield Cemetery, Liverpool, in the presence of a large attendance. The principal mourners were Mr Jas. M. Hardie, Mr Eugene E. Hardie (sons), Mr E. F. Clift, Mr J. Gaffney, Dr. H. Dubourg, Mr S. Rowlands, Mr F. Isaacson, Mr J. West, Mr Simon Jude, and Mr Lewis M'Allister. Among the general mourners were Messrs T. Bush, H. Fineberg (Star Theatre), L. Peake, H. J. Arnold (Lyric), F. Willmot (Haymarket), J. Ansonia, J. T. Malpass (director Regent Theatre, Salford, and Broughton), C. Kelzer, J. M. Smythe, J. Hughes, G. J. Smith, Calder O'Beirne, S. Southern Chiswell, J. A. Min, H. Stringer, C. M. Moss, W. Brookbank, R. H. Baker, H. Heyes, W. Crompton, H. W. Lambert, Councillor F. L. Joseph, J. J. Hewson, J. Potter (Warrington), J. R. Weisker, F. E. Weisker, J. H. Child, S. Vickers, and A. M. Haswell. The theatre staff present were Messrs T. Holmes, D. J. Callow, W. Wilkinson, R. H. Love, H. Rea, B. Lynch, J. Brady, J. Eastwood, G. Gorman, Pearse, R. Eyres, R. Banks, W. Garside, S. Williams, and J. Lolley. Beautiful floral tributes were sent by the widow, Mr and Mrs Eugene Hardie, Mr and Mrs James M. Hardie, Lucy and Lewis, staff at the front of the Shakespeare Theatre, Miss M. Stanley Burt, Ernest P. Clift, Mr and Mrs Robert J. M'Dermott, Mr and Mrs Simon Jude, Mr and Mrs Joseph West, Major Stratton (Empire Theatre), Mr Frank Jacobson, the Directors of the Regent Theatre, Salford, Mr and Mrs Malpass, David Allen and Sons, the Weisker Family, Nellie and Arthur Shirley, Mena and James H. Child, Ethel and Margery Gaffney, J. Gaffney, Mr Tom Bush and family, Mr M'Leod Loader, Mr John Ansonia, Friends London and North-western Hotel, Mr Courtneidge, and Mr Arthur Harp, the Liverpool Police Minstrels, Arnold, Beresford, and Willmott, Robert Crawford (Birmingham), Scene and Property Department Shakespeare Theatre, Mr T. H. Birch, Fred W. Wyndham, Mr and Mrs W. W. Kelly, Mr and Mrs Willmot, Shakespeare Theatre Orchestra, Electric Department Shakespeare Theatre, Victoria Theatre, Broughton; Regent Theatre, Salford; Annie and Shaw, Mr S. A. Rowlands, Dr. and Mrs Dubourg, Mr Mowbray, Mr Taylor, Mr Birtwistle, and Miss Nellie Rea. The funeral arrangements were carried out by R. M'Dougal and Co., Limited, Renshaw-street.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—In the interview you published last week you slightly misquoted me by stating that I had been under the management of Mr Andrew Ennis. It should have read "Mr Andrew Emm," the name by which the late Mr Andrew Melville was known at the time I alluded to.

Yours faithfully,
HARRY H. RIGNOLD.

Manchester, Jan. 23

OUR Cleveland correspondent writes under date of Jan. 14:—At the Euclid-avenue Opera House a musical extravaganza, Babes in Toyland, is being given. The book is written by Glen M'Donough, an American dramatist and librettist of note, and the music is composed by Victor Herbert. A pretty little story is told of the adventures of Allan and Jane, who run away from their home to escape the persecution of a miserly old uncle, and who come to the mythical country of Toyland. Many of the characters made famous in children's story books appear, among them being Jack and Jill, Bo Peep, and Contrary Mary. The music is bright and tuneful, the scenery good, and the book amusing. Mr William Gaston, a young Englishman born in Birmingham, plays the part of Gonzargo.

AT the Victoria Theatre, Broughton, this week the new drama A Woman's Devotion is the attraction. It is played by a good all-round company under the direction of Mrs T. Morton Powell, who represents a true Parisienne (Gilberte La Grande) very cleverly. Mr Frank R. Roberts as Philip Dangerfield and Miss Alwynne Ermon as Cora Eversleigh achieve much success. Miss Maude S. Drewry effectively portrays the persecuted Maisy Loyale. Richard Chesney and Paul Eversleigh are respectively in the capable hands of Mr Geo. Davis and Mr W. B. Sommerville. Roars of laughter are created by the comic business of Mr Edward Mervyn as Bob Savage, Mr W. F. Kisby as Reginald Montmorency, Miss Alice Buckland as Kitty Brown, and Miss Dot Seilby as Mrs Savage.

AT the invitation of Miss Dolly M'Calla and Miss Hanid Alexandra, the young ladies playing the parts of the Babes in Newcastle Theatre Royal pantomime, about thirty of the children appearing with them attended a musical tea party in the Royal Arcade Assembly Rooms, Newcastle, on Tuesday afternoon. A most enjoyable programme of entertainment commenced shortly after two o'clock, and was continued until between five and six. There was a cake-walk competition and also a capital variety show. The cake-walk was led off by Miss M'Calla (who has been re-engaged by Mr Robert Arthur for next year's pantomime). Miss Alexandra, and the Sisters Govell, and then followed the competitors. The Sisters Govell provided valuable prizes, and Mr Fisher acted as judge. The "babes" gave several songs and dances to the delight of all, and Baby M'Calla in an exhibition step-dance proved herself a remarkable little artiste. Lively games were indulged in, and all were led by Mr Sam Dark, who was supported in his efforts to amuse the children by the young hostesses, the Sisters Govell, Mr Charles Kinross, Miss Kathleen Kinross, Miss Ada Russell, Mr George Groves, Mr Harry Fisher, Mrs Alexandra, and others.

TWO notable examples of heredity are at present appearing at the Elephant and Castle Theatre. Mr Jo Monkhouse and Mr Harry Paulton, jun., are appearing as the wicked brothers in the successful pantomime Puss in Boots. They are to have a benefit on Friday, Feb. 3.

'ADREA.'

(FROM OUR NEW YORK CORRESPONDENT.)

Mrs Leslie Carter has won new honours in the title-rôle of this play, and Mr David Belasco has won praise and admiration for another magnificent and wonderful production. Mrs Carter has scored many triumphs during the last few years, but never before has she received such an ovation as was accorded to her at the opening performance of this play at the Belasco Theatre. The New York critics are agreed that Mrs Carter's embodiment of Adrea is her greatest achievement, and that Mr Belasco's play is a masterpiece.

The opening scene represents the exterior of the Palace of the Kings of Adrea, an imaginary island in the Adriatic Sea. The period is A.D. 500, when Odoacer the Barbarian ruled Rome, and the Roman spirit and habits still survived in the surrounding countries. It is the "Hundredth Day," or the last day of the period that elapsed between the death of the old ruler and the crowning of the new. The time is late afternoon. Adrea, daughter of the dead King Menethus, is heir to the throne of Adrea, but cannot rule her land because she is blind. Her sister, Julia Doma, a wanton, is to reign. Julia has won the ambitious barbarian chief, Kaeso, who once loved Adrea. Kaeso comes to the coronation, and Adrea, not knowing that he has sacrificed his love to his ambition, believes that he has come to make her his wife. In a fit of jealousy Julia prompts her fool, a hideous creature called Mimus the Echo, to impersonate Kaeso and marry the sightless Adrea, Kaeso standing by and uttering not a word.

A night passes, and at early dawn Adrea comes reeling down the steps of the palace, crying in bitter anguish, and, groping her way to the foot of the great statue of her father, calls on all the gods to give her sight that she may see the hideous being to whom they have married her. A thunderbolt which strikes the base of the statue renders the jester unconscious and gives Adrea her sight. She looks into the face of the painted clown as he lies prostrate, and, being degraded and infamous in her own eyes, she goes to the Tower of Forgetfulness to give up her body to the sea; but here her father's ghost appears to her, and warns her that she is destined to rule over Adrea. The sound of the trumpets announcing the coronation of her sister Julia maddens her, and, throwing off the death robe and the weights that are to bear her down, she curses Kaeso and resolves to take the throne.

In the next scene Adrea is crowned, and she prepares to take vengeance on Kaeso, who has been made captive and is brought before her. Pretending at first to forgive him, she suddenly bursts into a fury of denunciation, and orders him to be lashed. Then she sentences him to be torn apart by wild horses. The Senate protests against such an infamous death for one who has been a brave soldier, and Adrea asks the senators to listen to her story—to listen to her as a woman and not as a queen. When the story is ended the senators clamour for Kaeso's life. Kaeso pleads with Adrea, not for his life, but for pardon for his sin. At the last moment her love for him is rekindled, and knowing that she cannot save him now she seizes her father's sword and kills him. The senators still strive to give his body to the horses, but she stands over the corpse and repulses them.

In the epilogue, eight years later, Adrea is living in Arcady, the land where she and Kaeso once were lovers. The scene is the Throne Room. Vasha, the little son of Julia and Kaeso, now the heir to her throne, is brought in. The child has been taught to hate her, but she gradually wins his friendship. The room is darkened owing to Adrea's failing sight. The child begs her to let in the light, but she tells him that if she ever looks into the sun she will lose both her eyesight and her throne. The child persists, and she then proposes that they play a game—the game of being a King. She wraps the child in the imperial robe, and places the crown upon his head and seats him on the throne. Telling him playfully not to look, she draws near the window. Still laughing, she throws it wide open and gazes straight into the sun. To the orb that destroyed her sight at birth she cries, "Take back thine own!" and staggering back to the throne turns her sightless eyes towards the child and cries, "Long live the King!"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Mr Moverley Sharp's letter in your last issue reads very much like "sour grapes." He and his client, Mr Armitage, are quite at liberty to do as they like, but they must not deny me the same privilege. I am as well able to fight my own battles as any man in the profession. If resident-managers are not by this time aware of my rights, I am sorry for them.

Yours faithfully, J. PITT HARDACRE.

MISS ADA REAVE and company are at the Theatre Royal, Hanley, this week with Winnie Brooke, Widow. Miss Reeve is admirably suited in the title rôle, and all the artistes engaged are well placed in their respective parts.

AT the Hanley Grand Theatre this week the bill is headed by Ahrensmeyer, the wonderful hypnotist; W. L. Murray, winner of the Sandow statuette, contributes an interesting strong turn; Datas is well received; Harry Wenburn is a smart comedian; the Sisters Wingrove are attractive duettists and dancers; Chas. Ulrick, the barrel king, is clever; Boswell's dogs, ponies, and donkeys are much appreciated; and Ronald Bagnall also does well.

PRESENTATION.—Mr C. W. O'Connor, the energetic Press representative at the Grand Theatre, Islington, was presented last week with a handsome silver cigarette case and matchbox by Miss Kate Brand and Miss Helen Bancroft, the leading ladies of Mr Oswald Brand's stock company. The gifts were intended as a small recognition of Mr O'Connor's services in connection with the stock season. Mr O'Connor is certainly one of the most conscientious and up-to-date press representatives attached to the London theatres.

AT the Hyde Borough Police-court on Saturday a young American named Thomas Price was brought up on a charge of having been concealed on the premises of the Hyde Theatre Royal on the previous evening. The prisoner was found by one of the theatre staff among the "flies." He asked why they had not told him before that he had no right in the theatre, as he had been there since Tuesday. In defence, the prisoner said he belonged to the halls, but had been working for Uncle Tom's Cabin company, which was fulfilling an engagement at the theatre that week. Price was discharged upon promising to go back to Warrington.

MISS RUBY DANZELL undertook the part of Pekoe at the Rotunda Theatre, Liverpool, on Monday, in the absence of Miss Mina Marie, and was warmly complimented.—In consequence of the sudden indisposition of Mr Linden Wyatt the part of the Grand Vizier, in Aladdin, at the Kennington Theatre, was recently undertaken by Mr Harry Field with decided success. Mr Wyatt resumed his rôle on Monday.—Mr Albert Ward will to-night retire from the cast of Her Forbidden Marriage, at the Standard Theatre, having been engaged by Mr John Hart to play the leading part in his new production, The Blanchard Diamonds. Mr Ward rehearses in Hull on Monday, and the new play will be produced at the Grand there on Feb. 13.

NEW MUSIC.

Mr Charles Woolhouse, 174, Wardour-street, has recently published "A Bundle of Ballads," by Alexander S. Beaumont, an esteemed musician, who always writes with expression and taste, and frequently strikes out quite original ideas. He has been fortunate in finding some charming lines to set to music in "December's Snow," by Sir A. Conan Doyle; "All in Vain," by Clifton Bingham; "Silver Sails," by Alex. C. Jackson; "Go, Little Song," by Percy Reeve; and the first song, "Echo," is translated from the French of François Coppée by St. John Hamond. The music of Mr Beaumont possesses the refined and artistic skill we have often credited him with; and in another "Bundle of Ballads" we find equal merit. "My World," by W. M'Connell Wood, who has also written a graceful song, "Ninon," sung by Miss Agnes Nicholls, also deserves special mention. "Although" is a setting of some verses by L. A. by Ernest Young, a composer who has set some pathetic verses by Matthew Arnold called "Requiescat" with infinite skill. With some lines by Heinrich Heine, "Am Ferner Horizont," Mr Young has also done well, the 'cello obbligato adding to the interest of the melody. "Although" and "My Presence" will find favour with those who love a little sentiment in a song. Mr M'Connell-Wood again appeals to us most agreeably in "A Bird Song," in which some chromatic cadences suggest the echo of the bird's woodland melody. An "Impromptu" by R. Mähling for pianoforte may be commended for the use of youthful students of the piano, being pleasing in style and sentiment and not difficult. By the same composer a "Romance Sans Paroles" for violoncello, with piano accompaniment, is worthy of consideration. We have but one fault to find. The solo is written rather too high for amateurs. But, of course, professional 'cellists will find no difficulty, and will appreciate the graceful and expressive melody, which exactly suits the 'cello. "Au Revoir," "A Morceau for Pianoforte," and a "Romance Sans Paroles," for the same instrument, by R. Mähling, have distinct merit, and Mr Beaumont's Scherzo for the piano, with the pretty title of "Psyche and Cupid," is an extremely clever and well-written piece, worthy to be played beside the works of the classic composers.

MESSRS ASCHERBERG AND CO. have published a humorous song called "A Hint," the music by P. E. Braham, words by C. H. Bovil. Miss Maud Venn has written the following verses:—

She was quite a model maid,
She was so demure and staid,
She was absolutely free from any guile;
And this artless little soul
With a youth once took a stroll,
And they wandered through the woods towards a stile.
And she stepped across with care,
For the dear was well aware
That a maid with circumspection ought to act;
And she thought "My ankle's trim,
And it's only fair to him
I should let him have an inkling of the fact."

The above lines suggest the hint that was intended for the young gentleman, who, no doubt, was quick enough to see that his fair partner was charming. "Is it the wind of the dawn?" is a setting by Harte Constante of a song by Tennyson, perhaps a little too elaborate for such an expressive song, but not deficient in merit. Ascherberg's Eighth Dance Album is just the Album for this festive season, containing as it does the kind of pieces exactly suited for the ball-room. "La Soirée," a Mazurka Elégante by Theo. Bonheur. This gifted composer has produced a charming mazurka, and the illustrated title-page representing a soirée in the open air in summer time is worth the entire price of the composition. "Remembrance, a Souvenir," with French and English words, set by Adelaide Schönberg, is a delightful little sentimental song that would be appreciated at a concert. "Erubu" is the curious title of a waltz by Sylvia Blackston, who evidently understands the requirements of the ball-room, and carries them out in a spirited fashion.

MR C. ROBERT PERKINS, the popular lessee of the Jersey Opera House, who has just returned from his honeymoon, gave a dinner at the Hotel de l'Europe, Jersey, last Saturday to his numerous friends and patrons in celebration of his recent marriage. Covers were laid for sixty, and the decorations of the large dining-room were very artistic. The host was supported by Mr Frank Fenton, Judge W. Duret Aubin, Advocate H. E. Le V. Dit Durell, Advocate C. E. Malet De Carteret, Deputy C. B. Renouf, Advocate C. V. Hawks Ford, Dr. Maxwell Le Cronice, Dr. R. Maxwell Moffat, Capt. J. Alexandre (Constable of St. Brelade's), Capt. F. J. Renouf (harbour master), Mr F. E. Le Gallais (vice president, Jersey Commercial Association), Mr W. H. Dickson (manager, Jersey Railways), and Mr A. Biddle (agent, London and South-Western Railway Company), and the list of guests included leading representatives of the merchants and tradesmen of the island. The band of the Opera House played selections during the repast.

TOASTS and an excellent musical programme followed, Mr Warwick Moore, conductor and composer of Mr Fred Mouillot's Sleeping Beauty pantomime, presiding at the piano. Miss Florence Vie made a hit with "The Sweetest Girl in Dixie," and in response to the unanimous appeal of the company sang "Sammy," the chorus being taken up by the entire party. Miss May Davis, daintily gowned in white, had a hearty encore for a song with guitar accompaniment, and Mr Charles Penrose gave a couple of comic ditties. Mr Frank Fenton admirably recited an amusing American story; and other singers were Messrs T. V. Arnold and E. C. Boielle.

ADVOCATE C. V. HAWKSFORD, in proposing the toast of "The Host," said that most people when about to marry notified their friends of the fact; his friend Mr Perkins, however, had acted in quite a contrary manner to the general rule. He suddenly left Jersey for an alleged brief holiday, and returned that week with the announcement "I'm married." In spite of the suddenness of the event, however, his friends were determined not to let a chance slip by of showing their appreciation of him, and among many gifts we may mention an onyx clock with ormulu mountings from the staff of the Opera House, a handsome pair of entrée dishes from his co-proprietors of the theatre, and a large silver cigarette box "from a few friends." Souvenir cards, signed by all present, including the ladies, were presented to each guest; and a most enjoyable evening terminated with vociferous cheers for Mr and Mrs Perkins.

MISS JESSIE RUTTER played Cinderella with much success at a matinée at the Prince's Theatre, Manchester, last week, owing to the indisposition of Miss Ida René.—At the matinée and evening performances on the 19th inst., at the Broadway Theatre, New-cross, Miss Nora Moore played the part of Dick Whittington with success, her songs gaining repeated encores.—Mr Lewis Casson and Mr Ashton Pearse have been engaged by Miss Rosina Filippi to assist in her classes for modern comedy at the Court Theatre.

THE Grand Theatre, Fulham, will be reopened on Monday for the dramatic season by Mr Robert Arthur, with Mr Percy Hutchison's capital company in Saturday to Monday.

MISS JULIA WARDEN, who has played many comedy parts with Mr Edward Terry, Mr Harry Paulton, and Mr George Edwardes, and has been principal boy in pantomime, notably at the Grand Theatre, Islington, has undergone a critical operation, but we are glad to say she is now on the road to recovery.

MUSIC HALL GOSSIP.

THE Royal, Holborn, which has passed through so many vicissitudes since it replaced the smaller hall established by Weston, is to be closed on Feb. 4 for reconstruction. The present building was clumsily designed, and so much room was cut to waste in the auditorium that Mr Walter Gibbons is certain to be able to largely increase the seating capacity. Previous to closing there will be a special gala week, during which all the chief stars at present in London have promised to appear, and the stage will be directed each evening by a different agent. An entirely new and beautiful theatre of varieties is to be built, and it is hoped that the reopening will be possible in October.

THE present hall was opened on Sept. 12, 1887, under the auspices of a company of which the late Mr W. T. Purkiss was managing-director. The late Mr Sam Adams was the manager. The company failed, and in its winding-up the late Mr Newson-Smith, the founder of what has long been popularly known as the Syndicate, was officially concerned, and thus commenced his association with variety entertainment. The opening company included the late Miss Katie Seymour, who had not then commenced her long connection with musical comedy; Miss Lottie Collins, whose dancing was such a delightful feature of her turn; Mr Frank Travis, the popular ventriloquist; Miss Topsy Venn, the favourite burlesque actress of the Strand Theatre in the days of Nemesis and Edward Terry and Marius; the favourite trio, De Voy, Le Clercq, and Lovell, Negro comedians; the great Macdermott, Mr and Mrs Watson, and a ballet entitled Civilisation. Mr W. B. Fair, the singer of "Tommy make room for your uncle" and at one time the proprietor of the old Winchester Music Hall, was in the chair.

MR JOSEPH LYONS, who has always been one of the warmest and staunchest friends of the variety profession, is appealing for cash for the Music Hall Benevolent Fund. The institution is in great need of money, and the calls upon its exchequer are increasing daily. Mr Lyons hopes that the leading members of the profession will unite and put the Fund on a firm and solid basis. The art of the music halls is appreciated by both the King and the Queen, and its more fortunate professors should recognise that many of their poorer brethren and sisters in art are feeling the pinch of poverty. The appeal that has been issued by Mr Lyons is not meeting with the response that it deserves, and we make no excuse, therefore, for again calling attention to it.

MUSIC HALL and dramatic agents will combine against the licensing clause that the London County Council will thrust upon all employment agencies in their self-imposed crusade against "domestic servants' registries." A meeting was held on Monday afternoon at the offices of Messrs Amery, Parkes, and Powell, solicitors to so many members of the profession, and a definite course of action was decided upon and a chairman elected. The new Bill, which, if passed, will come into force on Jan. 1, 1906, provides that applications for a licence must be made in writing to the Council, and must specify the nature of the business which the applicant proposes to carry on, and if the applicant is considered a fit and proper person the Council may grant him a licence. Bye-laws prescribe the books to be kept, and inspection of premises is also to be provided for. Of course the Bill will be vigorously opposed.

WHEN Mr George Alexander was entertained by the Bons Frères at the Café Royal on Tuesday night Mr Bransby Williams amused the company with a very funny and clever "surprise" turn. Assuming the voice and manner of the guest of the evening he delivered a mock-serious speech introducing the names of all the plays produced by the manager of the St. James's. Mr Alexander was delighted with this proof of sincerest flattery. Mr Williams has just signed a contract to star in pantomime next winter, his first engagement in a Christmas annual. On Monday he opens at Brixton in the recitation of dramatic poems written by Mr Charles H. Taylor, accompanied by music composed by Mr Cuthbert Clarke, of the Empire.

THE music hall world will hear with no little anxiety that Miss Marie Lloyd is still very ill. A specialist was called in on Tuesday, as those who are so tenderly nursing her were not satisfied with her condition. The eminent doctor gave it as his opinion that with great care and attention he has every hope of her speedy recovery. Miss Lloyd is most anxious to return to her professional duties, as she does not like disappointing the public. She desires through our columns to thank the numerous friends who have made inquiries and sent telegrams.

ANTEDILUVIAN relics tell us that pre-historic man was fond of his "club," but we are quite in the dark as to his athletic prowess with anything less harmful than the javelin. Mr George Robey's "prehistoric peep" into the past, which some little time since afforded him excellent opportunities for the exercise of his unctuous humour, has not given us any real information on the point, though we believe he has scanned inscriptions, more or less ancient, in order to appal us by the prestige of his deeds as a gladiator. He, however, threw much light on his own merits as a footballer by his play at Clayton on Monday, when he put a strong team against Manchester City, and had the satisfaction not only of seeing his side prove successful by three goals to nil, but of scoring a goal. There were 10,000 spectators present at the match, which was played for the benefit of the unemployed at Manchester.

MR GEORGE SCOTT has just completed the first year of his management of the Alhambra. He succeeded to the position held by the late Mr Douglas Cox in January last year, and his numerous friends sent him many congratulatory letters and telegrams on Friday evening, the 21st, when he was entertained by a party of old chums at a dinner at the Queen's Hotel, Leicester-square. He was presented with an illuminated address and a gold-mounted cane.

ONE hundred and fifty members of the Eccentric Club were present at the Lyceum on Wednesday evening. Four rows of stalls were reserved for their accommodation. They were moved to laughter by the wonderful group of mechanical figures, not forgetting the bulldog, exploited by Mr E. Reynard, the ventriloquist, and the diverting business of the Harmony Four.

AT the Battersea Empire on Wednesday last a packed house was the pleasing result of Mr Lennox Barry's efforts to promote a special matinée in aid of the local unemployed of this populous district. A first-class and lengthy programme was given, and Mr Barry will have the gratification of being able to pay over a considerable sum towards the relief of the necessitous. The profession once more showed its readiness to give a helping hand to all and sundry in distress.

SEVERAL new features were introduced on Thursday evening into the programme of the London Hippodrome. Items of special interest were submitted by the Cottrell-Powell combination, who were seen in a new equestrian act, "The Dude and the Girl;" the Tourbillon Troupe of acrobatic cyclists, in staircase feats; the O'Brien Brothers, whose somersaults over the horizontal bar are a revelation of athletic grace; and the Chamberlins, whose lariat act reminds us of some of the incidents told in the stories of Texas and Mexico by Captain Mayne Reid and Gustave Aimard.

MR SAM GETHING, who has been acting-manager of the Stratford Empire since the opening of this the first of Mr Stoll's variety theatres in outer London, has just relinquished his position, having been appointed by his directors, as a mark of appreciation of his past services, to take up new duties as district manager of Mr Stoll's Empires at Glasgow, Edinburgh, Newcastle, and South Shields. He has been succeeded at Stratford by Mr T. S. Mayne, who will have the help of the present assiduous assistant acting-manager, Mr W. Beceleuch.

MR GETHING has made himself exceedingly popular during his stay in Stratford, and has prominently identified himself with the local charitable institutions, in consequence of which he was elected a member of the committee of the West Ham Hospital as well as being made a life governor of this institution and a life governor of the Seamen's Hospital, Greenwich. To mark the occasion of his leaving the neighbourhood a large number of prominent residents foregathered at the Langthorne Rooms, Stratford, on Saturday last, and a presentation was made to Mr Gething of an illuminated address and a purse of gold by the Mayor of West Ham, who, in the course of a felicitous speech, testified to the good work accomplished by Mr Gething in the cause of charity.

MR GETHING was the recipient of another presentation of a more direct nature on Wednesday night, when the entire staff of the Stratford Empire congregated on the stage after the last performance, and Mr W. Beceleuch, on behalf of the employees and a few of the artists, presented Mr Gething with a suitably inscribed filled gold sovereign purse, together with a handsome present for Mrs Gething, saying a few happy words of congratulation to Mr Gething on his new appointment, and conveying to him the hearty wishes of those present for his future welfare and prosperity. Mr Gething, in returning thanks, spoke with some emotion, and said that his task as manager of the Stratford Empire had always been the easier by reason of the thorough understanding and good feeling which existed among the members of the staff.

MANY of our readers will remember Mr Sawdie, the late manager of the old Pier Pavilion at Eastbourne. For many years he managed the variety entertainments given in the plain wooden building which flourished under the name of the Pavilion. Beneath a somewhat abrupt and authoritative manner, no doubt acquired when he served in the Royal Navy, was hidden a kind and thoughtful heart. His kindly spirit was shown in the daily care he bestowed on the many birds which frequent the pier. The birds knew him as their friend, and every morning he was accompanied along the deck by dozens of his feathered friends, which were always fed with a liberal hand. His death on Wednesday of last week put an end to the faithful services he had rendered to the Eastbourne Pier Company for over thirty years.

THE Birmingham Theatrical and Variety Charity Sports have been wisely fixed for Tuesday, Feb. 28, instead of on Wednesday, as heretofore, thus meeting the convenience of all parties. Mr Lester Collingwood has been elected chairman of the executive committee, this being a most popular selection; and Mr Tom Parker, hon. secretary; Mr A. W. Matcham, assistant hon. secretary; and Mr A. Bushell, hon. treasurer, continue in office. Donations to a very large amount have already been guaranteed.

THE chief feature of the entertainment given at the City Hall, Perth, last Saturday was the wonderful performance of Picitt, a "handcuff king." Mr A. Macaulay, a local jeweller and curio dealer, challenged Picitt to extract himself from an iron collar used to confine the border counties freebooters 300 years ago. Picitt came out of the difficulty victorious, without in the slightest degree damaging the screw-lock of the necklet, the first man, Mr Macaulay avers, who ever came out of such a collar alive.

THE only lady comedian, Nellie Coleman, and her husband, Dome, the original comedy clay man, were seen last week at the Ardwick Empire by Mr Frank Glenister, and he secured both acts for eight weeks a year for three years at the London Pavilion. They sail for Africa on Feb. 4, starting from Waterloo at 11 0 o'clock.

MISS BILLIE BARLOW opened her South African tour on Monday, Jan. 16, at the Empire Theatre, Johannesburg. Her latest song, "Problems," which is written round the Jap-Russo war, was an enormous success.

AS the result of a charity concert given on New Year's Day at the Hippodrome, Stoke, Mr Frank Egerton has had the pleasure of handing a cheque, value £40 13s., to the Little Sisters of the Poor at Cobridge, North Staffordshire.

MISS CLARA NISBETT (Mrs Tom Vine) is mourning the loss of her father, Mr William Walker Nisbett, who died on Monday, much respected and esteemed, at the venerable age of eighty-three. Both Miss Nesbitt and Mr Vine cancelled their engagements for the week.

MR LEO FRITZ, of Burns's agency, will be in London on Wednesday next for a few weeks in search of some good acts for Harry Burns's north tour. All communications should be addressed to him at the Hotel Provence, Leicester-square, W.

THE sketch Forgive Us Our Trespasses, mentioned in our last week's issue, was duly produced at the Bow Palace on Monday. Mr Frederick Scarth was supported by a good company, including Miss Naomi Hope, the authoress.

NO news has yet been received of Miss Florrie Kendall, a cousin of Miss Marie Kendall, who was reported to have disappeared in September last. Mrs Dukien, the missing girl's mother, renewed her application for assistance in finding her at Worship-street police-court on Wednesday. Miss Florrie Kendall is twenty years old, and is described as tall, well-built, dark of hair and complexion, and when last leaving London was wearing a red plaid skirt and blouse, a fashionable hat, and a three-quarter sable cape lined with white broche silk.

MADAME KATTI LANNER has forwarded half a guinea towards the memorial to the late Herbert Campbell. Mr Robert Astley, director of the Granville, has sent 30s. for the same object.

MANY of our older readers will learn with regret of the death of Mr Juleene, of the Juleenes, who some fifteen years ago were popular with their electric orchestra. In his entertainment, which was very similar to that of Herr Schalkenbach, Mr Juleene was assisted by his clever wife, known in the world of music as Miss Dot D'Alcorn, a daughter of the well-known publisher. That lady died on Jan. 6, 1903. Mr Juleene, whose real name was John Parsons, was fortunately able to retire some years ago, and was in comfortable circumstances. For the last two years he had been ailing, and he died at his residence at Clapham, after an operation at the age of fifty-nine. Mr and Mrs Parsons came by their professional name in a curious way. They had obtained an engagement at a popular hall, and their own name was given on the contract. On reading the posters, they could not discover that they had been billed. Their protestation to the management brought the reply, "You are billed. I have given you a French name—The Juleenes."

MR HARRY HERBERT POOLE, we much regret to hear, died on Tuesday, aged twenty-six years, at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr Will Evans, Laurel House, Laurel-road, Barnes. He was interred on Friday afternoon in the family vault at Abney-park Cemetery, the funeral arrangements being ably carried out by Mr Theophilus Dunkley. It was scarcely a fortnight since that the writer was chatting with the deceased gentleman in the Tivoli, and he then appeared to be better than usual, though it was generally known among his friends that he was delicate.

MR HARRY POOLE was the youngest son of the late Mr Poole, who was at one time proprietor of the South London. At the death of her husband Mrs Poole continued in management, and eventually entered into partnership with the late Mr Harry Ulph. The establishment became the property of a limited liability company on Mrs Poole's retirement shortly before her death, and the late Mr G. H. Macdermott at one time held a large interest in it. Young Mr Poole was appointed some years since as acting-manager at the Tivoli under the late Mr Vernon Dowsett, but resigned some time before that gentleman's death. Of late years he has been associated with the management of Rosherville Gardens, and was an excellent pioneer of the interests of his staunch friend Mr Will Evans, who married his sister, and whose sister he married. Another sister of the deceased gentleman, Miss Violet Poole, is married to Mr H. M. Edmunds, of the Albert and Edmunds Troupe.

MR B. PEARCE LUCAS'S special matinée on Thursday next at the Bedford, in aid of the funds of the North-West London Hospital, Kentish-town-road, will be graced by the presence of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Councillors of the Borough of St. Pancras, who will attend in state. Among the artistes announced to appear are Houdini, handcuff king; Madame Clare Palmer, Charles Bertram, the conjuror; Al. Lawrence, America's latest comedian; the Harmony Four (who will appear by permission of Mr Tom Barrasford); Tom Leamore, Sam Mayo, Gilbert Girard, Edith Etherley, society entertainer; and other prominent people in the world of entertainment. The Princess Christian gives her distinguished patronage Mr Lovesey is working hard to make the matinée a success, and is deriving much help from an influential local committee.

PUBLIC attention being turned with suddenness to the Russian capital, the management of the Alhambra Theatre on Tuesday night varied their Bioscopic "turn" by introducing several very clear and distinct animated pictures of the chief scenes of the lamentable massacres which disgraced St. Petersburg on Sunday last. These striking films will be projected upon the screen at the Alhambra every evening until further notice.

MY FANCY, who is giving her delightful entertainment this week at the Coliseum, is delighted at the receptions that have been given her by large audiences, to most of whom her sand dancing has been a revelation. Her act is staged in the complete way that characterises every turn presented at Mr Stoll's magnificent house, and it goes better than ever.

MR PAT DOHERTY, "the Irish M.P.," may be regarded as an admirable representative of Hibernian character and humour. He has become a special favourite at the Islington Grand, where he appears in the pantomime of The Babes in the Wood, at the end of the gorgeous Palace scene. His new song, "The Irish Dude from Galway," has been written and composed by Mr W. T. Gliddon, the musical conductor at the Grand. It is a very catchy melody; and the ditty and dance with which Mr Doherty concludes are nightly received with much applause. Pat's popularity continues to increase, and "the Irish M.P.'s" constituency is a constantly growing one.

"A BRIDE FOR A LIVING" has obtained an extraordinary hold on the variety stage. Mr John Lawson as the inventor, with his mad despair, strikes a true note, and Mrs Lawson as the sluttish wife gives a performance that is remarkable for its strength and realism. Nothing better in the way of histrionic achievement has been seen on the lesser stage.

MR FRANK WEEKS added much to the pleasure of the children of South London by organising a little entertainment in connection with the annual treat given to them by the Mayor of Southwark. The function, which took place in the Newington Public Hall, Manor-place, Walworth, was attended by over 500 youngsters, who heartily enjoyed the ventriloquial, punch and judy, and musical "shows" kindly sent by Mr Weeks.

MR HENRI CAZMAN has removed from Battersea-park to 138, Denmark-hill, S.E., where his agency is now conducted. Friends and clients will also note his new telephone number is "Ten Brixton," a number easily remembered.

MR BRANSBY WILLIAMS has been unable, in consequence of indisposition, to appear at the South London this week, as had been announced. His place, however, has been taken by Mr V. L. Granville, who has been responsible for some interesting impersonations of well-known actors in such characters as Matthias, in The Bells; Svengali, in Trilby; and Wilfrid Denver, in The Silver King.

MR CHARLES BEECHAM'S firm attitude at the Paragon the other evening quelled the tide of clamour in the gallery that threatened at one time to seriously interfere with the comfort of the audience and the efforts of the entertainers. Some of the gods, indulging in a spirit of cheap raillery, began to guy the artistes, and Mr Beecham determined to immediately stamp out the nuisance. Coming to the footlights he told the roughs up aloft that he would raise the prices if the disturbances were continued, and offered a reward of 10s. to anyone giving information concerning the ring-leaders.

THE Oxford will celebrate the twelfth anniversary of its reopening on Friday evening, Feb. 17, when Mr G. Adney Payne and his fellow directors will welcome a large number of their friends. Mr Albert Gilmer, as usual, is preparing a programme of enormous length and attractiveness, and the chief stars will be crowding on to the stage to add lustre to this very pleasant carnival.

WE are to have "Dante" at the halls, for there is shortly to be produced at one of the largest London palaces for the first time in England as a profound novelty, the whole of the principal events of the life of the Florentine poet and patriot, being dealt with in the space of twelve minutes. It is being brought to England by Messrs Louis Blanchart and Claude Roberts, of Hulme, Manchester.

THE Hackney and Shepherd's Bush Empires Company shows a very satisfactory balance-sheet, and the directors recommend a final dividend of 20 per cent. on the ordinary shares for the past half-year, making 15 per cent. for the year. The whole of the preliminary expenses will be written off.

"MISTER WATSON," a new musical comedy scene, will be produced at the Coliseum in February. Both words and music are by Frank Leo, who has been specially commissioned by Mr Oswald Stoll to write numbers for this particular theatre.

THE secretary of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund has received the sum of £11 8s. 7d. from Mr Frank Weeks, the result of his efforts with the pence box at the South London Palace during December and January.

THE monthly committee meeting of the Music Hall Sick Fund will be held on Wednesday next at the York Hotel at 2 p.m. Since the last meeting several new members have been elected.

THE 390th meeting of the Executive Committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon, Mr Joe O'Gorman, chairman of the committee, presiding. Mr G. Edgar Laban, of the Tivoli Theatre and Hotel, Barrow-in-Furness, was elected as agent in that town. The secretary reported that twenty-seven new members had joined during the past week, making a total number enrolled since the commencement of 11,171.

THE price of a lady's ticket for the M.H.A.R.A. dinner and dance has been fixed at 7s. 6d., and early application should be made for all tickets from the secretary. No seats can be reserved unless purchased on or before Thursday next.

COCO, the wonderful anthropoid ape, which is said to be the nearest approach to the human ever exhibited, will commence an engagement at the Palace Theatre on Monday. We referred to this marvellous creature last week. A great attraction in Mr Alfred Butt's present programme is the Bohemian quartet, Les Dumonds. They have not appeared for some years in England. Their entertainment reminds one forcibly of Les Minstrels Parisiens, who have paid several visits to the Palace.

THE report of the London Pavilion for 1904 states that the gross receipts for the year have amounted to £55,093, and the outgoings to £40,362, leaving a net profit of £14,731. The directors recommend a further dividend of £6 per cent. for the half-year ended Dec. 31, less income tax, making £9 per cent. for the year, leaving a balance of £1,871. It is proposed to deal with this balance by writing off £925 from the furniture and fittings account and carrying forward £947. In consideration of the purchase of the lease of 1, Piccadilly, for a term of years running concurrently with the lease of the theatre, the directors recommend that the premises, &c., account be reduced £2,000 by writing off this amount from the general reserve fund. The directors greatly regret the death of their late valued colleague, Mr R. E. Villiers, in April last.

IN future it will be possible for patrons of Collins's to secure in advance the one-and-sixpenny and two shilling seats. Some difficulty is experienced in regard to booking places in the gallery, in consequence of there being none of the ordinary tip-up chairs in that part of the house; but the directors hope to arrive at a solution of the problem in a week or so.

ANOTHER innovation will come into force at the "Hall on the Green" and at the London on Monday. A chorus of about a dozen trained voices will be placed in a specially reserved box in the balcony. It is evident that the Coliseum notions of entertainment and management are spreading rapidly.

A MOST interesting turn at the Coliseum is that of the Andos, a family of Japanese performers, who come straight from Tokio. They are acrobats, contortionists, and equilibrists. They are also artists, and their work has that delightful finish and smartness that seem the heritage of the plucky nation to which they belong. Magnificently attired in native dress they remove their gorgeous capes or paletots directly they have gravely curtseyed and salaamed to the audience. There is a youthful contortionist who bends for the purpose of getting hold of a handkerchief by means of his teeth, but the surprise of the whole performance is the marvellous balancing of the chief lady of this remarkable troupe, who gracefully accomplishes all sorts of seemingly impossible feats on a high pole which has no other support than her partner's shoulders. The Andos have a special curtain, and its beauty and originality reflect credit on the artistic ability of their countrymen.

THE father and mother of Mendel are both very ill, but that unfortunate circumstance has not affected his success in Glasgow this week. The young blind pianist was tested in a rather unique and difficult manner at the Edinburgh Empire on Saturday evening last. Messrs Handel, Garth, and Co., of George-street (the leading music firm), applied to the management for permission to send one of their pianolas to test with, and selected a piece which Mr Mendel had not heard before, although he is conversant with about 2,000 compositions, classical and miscellaneous. It was a grand galop chromatique, by Liszt, the first portion of which was played over. To the astonishment of Mr Garth and the audience it was faithfully repeated by the pianist, who was enthusiastically cheered. The performance would have been wonderful even if Mr Mendel had practised the difficult chromatic scales with which the piece abounds.

SHAWLENE, the original tramp artiste, has signed a contract for America. When he opens at the London Pavilion in February he will give operatic selections of a very attractive character. His date book is satisfactory evidence of his popularity.

SINCLAIR AND WHITEFORD, who have been complimented by Mr Tom Tinsley on their performance of their smart little sketch Getting Even, have several more dates booked with that genial manager.

MR NAT TRAVERS, the coster comedian, sailed yesterday for Australia, where he will amuse the Cornstalks with his Cockney impersonations. He will be returning to London in September.

MISS C. STROUD WILSON has been specially engaged by Mr G. Adney Payne at the Walthamstow Palace, where she is singing "A Summer Night" and "Comin' thro' the rye" with great success. Miss Wilson belongs to a family of singers, and is highly gifted vocally.

MISS VENIE BELFRY has been captivating audiences at the Tivoli this week, as the lady of the duo known as Clark and Hamilton, and her sprightliness and vivacity go to prove that the reports of her indisposition have been quite unfounded.

AFTER a connection of several years with the leading London agents, Mr A. E. Johnson has now opened an agency of his own at 4, Brixton-road, S.W.

THE Burlings have secured a clever comedy duologue, entitled Your Aunt, which is proving a big success at the Star, Bermondsey, this week. It is written by that clever writer, Jack Brownson, the author of The Workman's Dream, Elizabeth and the Baby, and many other successful duologues.

A GRAND American concert will be given at the Cosmopolitan Sporting Club, 241, Marylebone-road, W., on Sunday, Jan. 29. Most of the leading American artistes are members of this popular club, and the concert will be given under their auspices. Mr Bert A. Dorman is the manager.

SUSAN HARWOOD, thirty-nine, a widow, of Aspley-road, Walthamstow, was charged, on remand, on Thursday, with stealing a pair of opera glasses, the property of Charles Woolard. The prosecutor is the refreshment caterer at the Walthamstow Palace, and the prisoner has been employed as a cleaner at the theatre. On Jan. 11 Mr Woolard missed a pair of opera glasses from the bar and gave information to the police. A day or so afterwards Detective-sergeant Knott discovered that the prisoner had pledged the glasses for 3s. and arrested her, when she admitted her guilt. A fine of 20s. and 14s. cost was imposed, or fourteen days' hard labour.

MR OSWALD STOLL will add several novelties shortly to the Coliseum bill. Among these figure The Military Maids, a song scena, music by Walter Slaughter, to be performed by Miss Millie Hylton; Gollywog, in which Mr Will Bishop, the ballet master of the house, supported by Miss Sybil Lonsdale and Miss Bessie Butt, will introduce his famous "Gollywog" dance; and a Scotch musical sketch The Bidan' Fishwife, a character assigned to dainty Decima Moore, who will contribute a whistling solo. Speaking of whistling reminds us that Mr J. C. Piddock, who supports Miss Berthe Palliser, "the river girl," in such delightful fashion, is a sifflеur of remarkable attainments. His notes are flutelike in quality, and his shake is about the best we have heard. Mr Stoll will present the spectacle of Port Arthur next month. The services of Mr Frederick Villiers, the well-known war correspondent, have been requisitioned, so that there should be perfection of stage detail.

WITH the greater possibilities to be found on the Coliseum stage, Dick Turpin, as presented by Mr R. A. Roberts at that palatial pleasure resort, has become a very different thing to the crude little sketch we first saw at a suburban music hall. The upper room at the Spaniards on Hampstead-heath has quite an old-world air with its antique oak furniture and its ancient clock, and the revolving stage enables us to see the escape of Dick from the Bow-street runners on the back of his faithful mare Bonnie Black Bess. Mr Roberts's acting, too, was never better. His Yorkshire man is a capital study; and we are bold enough to say that the daring highwayman has never been played with greater dramatic force. In recognising the histrionic ability displayed we must not forget to compliment Mr Roberts on his remarkable quick changes. He can give points to any of the Italian artistes who have been seen in London in what is termed a Protean entertainment.

MR ALBERT CHEVALIER began his American engagements on the 16th inst. at the Circle Theatre, New York, and received an enthusiastic welcome. Chevalier made his first bow to an American audience at Koster and Bial's Music Hall in West Thirty-fourth-street, on March 23, 1896, and in the audience that greeted him on his return to the Empire City there were many who recalled the overwhelming success he scored on that memorable occasion. In fact, everyone seemed determined to show the famous character artist that he had not been forgotten in the nine years that had passed since his last visit, and the applause was so prolonged that it began to look as though it would be entirely unnecessary for him to do anything but stand there and bow. But at last he was allowed to begin, and his first offering was a musical monologue, entitled "A Fallen Star." This was a life-like representation of an old, forgotten actor, and was warmly applauded. "Wot fur do 'ee luv ol?" was an amusing portrayal of a yokel.

DESPITE the dialect, every word was understood and every humorous point appreciated. Then came Chevalier's French song, which emphasised the singer's versatility and cleverness, and won him a hearty round of applause. But the audience was evidently waiting for something, and when Chevalier made his appearance in "the pearlies" to sing "The Future Mrs 'Awkins" it was the old scene of nine years ago repeated all over again. The audience was wild with delight, and the extraordinary demonstrations that preceded and followed his inimitable depiction of the coy demeanour of the "donah" who became Mrs 'Enery 'Awkins made all the hand-clapping that had gone before seem comparatively tame and ordinary.

CHEVALIER was recalled again and again, and the tumult resolved itself into a veritable Babel, the audience being divided into factions. Some were shouting for "Knocked 'em in the Old Kent-road" and others for "My Old Dutch," but the latter was first favourite and won the decision. Chevalier had previously told an interviewer that if the audience asked for "My Old Dutch" he supposed he would have to give it to them. The supposition was well founded. In New York this song is universally regarded as Chevalier's masterpiece, and the judgment was confirmed before the singer had finished one verse of it. But, instead of satisfying the audience, it only made them greedy for more. The indications were that if Chevalier retired without singing "Knocked 'em in the Old Kent road" they would tear the house down. So, in order to avert a catastrophe, he sang it, and sang it in the old familiar style, so that the song was just as fresh and just as good as it was years ago. The audience enjoyed every word of it, and laughed at every gesture. The house was a unit of broad grins, and when Chevalier finished there was a final expression of approval which showed that he had scored a success of which any artist might well feel proud.

MRS CHARLES SUGDEN confesses to having suffered from severe nervousness last Monday evening at the Oxford on the occasion of her first appearance on the variety stage. Her scena, The Pictures of the Year, opens with a chorus "off" singing "Auld Lang Syne," and deals with the events of the past year, from the war in the Far East to the visit of King Edward to Paris, from the distress in West Ham to the return of Warner's team, with the ashes, from Australia. Mrs Sugden wears a charming dress of white silk net over silver gauze, with a pointed belt, and sparkling butterflies stitched into the delicate lace and chiffon of the bodice, while the elbow sleeves are full and transparent.

THERE is generally a great variety of costume to be seen on the Palace stage, and this week has been no exception to the rule. In a new turn given by the comic juggler, Wieland, he is assisted by a lady in a smart little frock of black velvet, with stiff underskirts of Cambridge blue, and knots of ribbon of the same colour in her hair. The Japanese contortionists, Yamamoto and Koyoshi, appeared in costumes the shade of the morning and evening primrose, elaborately embroidered in gold and green. Miss Victoria Monks, who is now singing one of her favourite old songs, "You must read your answer in the stars," wears a quaintly cut pale blue coat, with strips of lace insertion and a full chiffon collar over a pink dress, the panels of the skirt being a brocaded silk of full blown roses, and the big hat adorned with shaded blue ostrich plumes. The Dumonds, another new turn, give the first part of their sketch in a room in the Latin Quarter, the three men appearing in grotesque suits of varied colours, and the one lady of the party in a Quaker bonnet and plain dress of chocolate coloured cloth. When the scene changes to a Paris drawing-room, she also has made a quick-change into a Princess evening gown of faint maize, with a bold design of huge sparkling flowers and foliage and flounces of chiffon, fading from flame colour to white, the sleeves being different in shape and tint. One of them is merely a twist of white tulle, and the other a small puff, with a flower trailing round it.

MR HARRY PHYDORA, whose latest absurdity, "The Battersea Brigade," is one of the chief hits of the Coronet pantomime, tells many amusing stories of his various tours in the provinces and South Africa. At one theatre in Johannesburg he was so much troubled with rats that he would have given half his salary for the services of a Pied Piper. They were huge and fearless, so he saturated the floor with permanganate of potash and stuck candles in the ground in the hope of frightening the rats. But it was no use. When he left the stage, at the end of the play, and returned to his room the rats were all sitting in happy little groups upon the floor, eating the tallow with great relish. This is true—Harry Phydora says so.

THE LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

THE OXFORD.

The production of a novelty and the revival of a favourite sporting sketch drew an immense house to the Oxford on Monday, and the enthusiasm shown by the audience throughout a long programme proved that Mr Albert Gilmer had once more correctly gauged the tastes of his patrons. The appearances of distinguished actresses on the variety stage is somewhat rare; but we can point to Mrs Tree, who fulfilled an engagement at the Palace, and the lamented Miss Amy Roselle, who recited at the Empire, just previously to what proved her last voyage to Australia. Mrs Charles Sugden, who appeared on Monday, comes with high credentials from the legitimate stage, and it was quite certain that so accomplished an actress would be able to do justice to the light elocutionary task involved in the recitation of some verses from the graceful pen of Mr J. E. Macmanus. He has labelled the poem "Pictures of the Year." A lonely woman, giving rein to her fancy, muses by the dying firelight. Her musings are interrupted by the voices of children singing "Auld Lang Syne" as the new year dawns. She recalls the events of 1904, and touches with much felicity of expression on such widely varying subjects as the Russo-Japanese war, alien immigration, the Beck case, the starving poor of West Ham, and Mr Joseph Chamberlain. The verse concerning the popular member for Birmingham evoked the most applause; but there was also a sympathetic cheer for the deeply wronged Mr Beck. Mrs Sugden, who looked very charming indeed in shimmering white, gave her lines with fine elocutionary power, and she was most heartily received. The reproduction of a sporting sketch so completely realising the humour of the cockney crowd at a hurdle race was a wise move, and the strong cast playing Over the Sticks includes Mr Joe Elvin as Plodder Pilks. Mr Elvin is, of course, the head and front of the fun, and plays the part of Plodder Pilks with the most jealous regard for cockney and sporting slang. Plodder, to oblige his brother—the real jockey—sports the pigskin and wins the Sunbury Hurdle Handicap. Riding Fireworks, by Oxford, out of Record Run, the only Joe looks positively beautiful in scarlet and light blue, and his business with Rebecca, an elderly gushing spinster, is of that irrepressibly whimsical nature that sets the house in a roar. The setting of the scene is as ingenious as it is complete, and to find anything to compare with it on the variety stage would be impossible. The race between the thoroughbreds is most exciting, and the bustle and movement of the crowd argue an immense amount of pains on the part of the stage management. All the personages that one may see on the race course are represented at the Oxford, and the sports in the audience—by no means an inconsiderable section of it—express their approval, and certify by their applause the correctness of the stage picture and the racing details. Other parts in the production are played by Mrs Bennett, who languishes most comically as Rebecca; by Miss Florence Harcourt, an attractive representative of the heroine, Jesse Ricketts; by Mr Harry Gregory, a capital exponent of the character of the trainer, Ricketts; and Mr Harry Low, who acquits himself of his responsibilities as Arthur Pilks with much success. The entertainment at this popular hall is excellent in every particular; and the applause evoked by each item proves how well Mr Gilmer caters for his supporters.

THE TIVOLI.

Mr James Howell (who may be congratulated on his recovery from an attack of influenza) and Mr Arthur Yates on Monday presented Mr Bransby Williams in a new monologue entitled Too Late, by Marshall Masters. The trifle is somewhat crude and unconvincing, its chief merit being that it gives the young actor some opportunity for a strenuous display of his gifts. He impersonates the commander of a regiment on the frontier who has just signed the death-warrant of a gentleman-ranker named Harwood, condemned to be shot for an offence against a native woman. The conscience of the officer condemns him. By what right does he pose as the judge of another man, when he has betrayed that man's sister? A letter from his mother telling him that Dora is dead, by her own hand, pronounces a curse on the villain who has wronged her. The words sear his very soul, and after a scene of bitter self-reproach he falls dead while uttering the words, "The eye of God is upon me," not, however, before he has heard the shots that send Harwood to eternity. Another novelty of the bill is a new song, specially written by J. M'Manus for Mr Leo Stormont, entitled "The Fighting Man." The lines speak in stirring language of our sturdy forefathers, who made England great and won for us the Empire upon which the sun never sets, and the music has a capital swing, being written in march time. Mr Stormont also recited a piece dealing in no uncertain fashion with the curse of pauper alien immigration. Mr M'Manus, who is the author, does not mince matters, and his indictment of the evil is about as uncompromising as it can be. Mr Stormont instils a deal of power and virility into his declamation, and is much applauded. Mr Whit Cunliffe's song, "I would," still grows in length, and nightly he not only adds verses, but increases his already great popularity. George and Gusti Edler present an Alpine "incident" in the most charming way. A merry Swiss boy comes to the cottage of his fräulein, who derives the freshness of her voice and the bloom on her cheek from the mountain air. Quite a coquette is Lizette—not unwilling to woo, though at first a little coy. Max is quite happy, and listens to her jödelling with rapture, a feeling that is assuredly shared by the audience. A charming scene serves as a background to the act, which is very heartily applauded. The Hungarian singers and dancers, the Sisters Mousse, are new comers on the programme since we last noticed the hall, and their singing and dancing—if nothing extraordinary—is pleasant and piquant. They are pretty, and possess excellent figures. Mr Will Evans's descriptive burlesque of the woes of the serio Lucinda Wriggle, the victim of a printer fiend, who misinterpreted her advertisement, is one of the funniest things in the programme. Lucinda's vogue is gone. She no longer tops the bill, and though she still knows her business, audiences are not so kind as they used to be, nor are managers so eager for her services. Mr Evans treats the character in the extravagantly absurd fashion for which he has become famous, and his neat concluding dance adds to his success. Mr Jack Camp revels in parody, and his quaint imperturbable style is seen at its best in a skit on "All coons look alike to me," and in a descriptive absurdity burlesquing the actor-vocalist in most whimsical style. Mr Camp, on the night of our visit, returned to the footlights and treated his audience to an ingenious piece of "spoof," which created loud laughter. Mr Sam Mayo, in the early part of the evening, entertains in his own immovable way and sweet tranquil style, which seem to combine the least exertion with the heartiest fun. "The old tin can" is not a promising subject apparently, but one only has to hear Mayo talk about it—and beat it—to discover that its very hollowness is a source of laughter. Athas and Collins are old favourites at the Tivoli, and are as alert, funny, and as amusing as ever. Miss Collins is a capital burlesque actress, and Mr Athas has eccentric notions that make him very acceptable as a purveyor of fun. Miss Louie Freear is quite herself in songs which show off her amusing low comedy to the best advantage; Miss Vesta Victoria is a fascinating riding girl; and Clark and Hamilton are as bright and humorous as ever. Mr Tom Leamore's ballet girl is quite a peach; Mr George H. Elliott breathes the spirit of romance into his poetic portrait of a coon; and Miss Dolly Harmer's comedy is one of the most enjoyable features of the programme. Other turns include Mr Harry Freeman, Miss Ray Wallace, Mr Ian Colquhoun, and Miss Radie Furman.

THE LYCEUM.

Considerable alteration was made by Mr T. Barrasford in his programme on Monday, the only turns of the opening bill retained being the Harmony Four and the Lyceum Operatic Quartet. The first "four" mentioned include Schultz, a German professor, T. C. Bergeron; Happy Hooligan, a friend of Schultz, Edward Hughes; Mike Murphy, a painter, F. M. Barrett; and Reginald Asterbitt, a man of money, A. W. Ferguson. Though the musical men are thus labelled, the names count for nothing, as one cannot be distinguished from another, there being no dialogue. When the scene opens three of them are playing cards, at which obvious and easily-detected cheating is freely indulged in. A fourth plays the piano, and the lively music of the quick step sets the Happy Hooligan jigging. He takes the stage with a glad insouciance in his dance, and lets himself go in a number of noisy tricks. He quietly robs a singing companion with a sweet tenor voice, and drowns by his obstreperous behaviour and constant row the notes of the fiddler, who is putting his soul into the fine Intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana; but he has the house with him entirely, and his antics keep the stalls, balcony, and gallery in roars of laughter. He wears on his head quite jauntily a small tin can, and expresses his acknowledgments to those who so warmly encourage him by pulling down a blind with the words "Thank you" imprinted thereon. It was the lamented H. J. Byron who created the character of the melancholy clown. In contradistinction, the clowning Hooligan positively bubbles over with merriment; his fun is recklessly exuberant, and in its smartness quite electric. We have spoken of the fiddler—an excellent performer indeed, who delights the lover of music with the fine tone and inspiring expression he puts into his playing. Towards the conclusion of their performance the musical partly become almost serious, and produce sweet cadences in such concerted numbers as "Old Mother Hubbard." The reception of the "four" is exceptionally warm; and their favouritism is well deserved. The new comers include Al Lawrence, described as a "vaudeville mimetic comedian." All good comedians should be in a sense mimetic; and Mr Lawrence, who is obviously of Irish origin, is decidedly clever in his touches of humorous characterisation. He sings a song concerning Murphy; but his wonderful brogue and quick delivery somewhat handicapped him on the opening night. His humorous patter, to which he can add indefinitely, proved to be amusing, however, his description of a trust as "a large amount of money surrounded by swindlers" causing hearty laughter. Mr Lawrence's essays in ventriloquism were effective by way of variety, though there was nothing particularly original about them. Polyphony found its best exponent in Mr Edward F. Reynard, known as America's premier ventriloquist, who has a large number of mechanical figures, most ingeniously devised and worked as cleverly as they can be. The dog in a kennel—not in a manger—is a decidedly whimsical incident in a show that is full of surprises. Laughter was in the ascendant while Mr Reynard gave examples of his art, and he most unmistakably won the favour of the audience. Dog-training seems to have reached its highest point of excellence in the delightful performance of Mr Walton and Miss Ella's canine pets, consisting mostly of black and white poodles and fox terriers. They perform most divertingly on a rotary table on which they jump through hoops, and by an ingenious leaping arrangement the dogs in combination secure a fairly good rendering on bells of "The Last Rose of Summer." An active little terrier runs the loop, and the animals thoroughly enjoy their work, even though it involves the difficult cakewalk. Excitement is provided by Staig's motor sensation, in which a teacup track is raised and lowered while safety and motor cycle races are run. Early in the evening Miss Josephine Casaboni, a favourite prima donna from the Alhambra, made a most successful appearance. She is a performer of many graces and great charm; and her elegant opening divertissement was followed by a castanet dance, which was instinct with Iberian smartness and abandon. Acrobatics loom largely in the current bill. Browning and Wally display extraordinary strength of jaw in their wonderful teeth act; the Cattaneos are up-to-date somersaulters and shoulder tumblers who perform the human arch feat with no little smartness and eccentricity; and Michelo and Sandro, who are termed equilibristic tumblers, are responsible for a remarkable series of head balancing feats with apparatus and without. Music of the highest class is to be a strong card always in Mr Barrasford's scheme of amusement at the Lyceum; and his retention of the fine operatic quartet, which made such a sensation at the opening performance, enables him to continue his plan of giving excerpts from popular operas. On Monday the prison scene from Faust was given with admirable dramatic effect, and the powerful high notes of the representative of Marguerite rang through the house like a clarion. Mr Louis Reeder's excellent orchestra, of course, did much to make the excerpt worthy of any opera house. Other turns in the programme are Mr Tom Finglass, whose music, singing, and dancing are reminiscent of Mr Eugene Stratton. Like the older comedian Mr Finglass chooses for his principal impersonation a coon vagabond given to serenading, and makes him scarcely less picturesque. The programme winds up with a capital show of pictures, the story told by one of the films of a misunderstanding shared by a whole village being exceedingly amusing. Mr Alfred Selwyn, the manager of the house, ably represents his chief, and it is pleasant to meet "in front" the courteous Mr George Bull, who is the press representative.

THE MIDDLESEX.

The wholesale demolition by the London County Council of rows and streets of houses in the near neighbourhood of Drury-lane does not appear to have adversely affected the receipts at the Middlesex. It may be that many old inhabitants of the district who have been compelled to live elsewhere are disinclined to allow distance to interfere with their acquaintanceship with the Drury-lane hall, and so their patronage now is as steady and regular a thing as it was in the past. No one leaves the establishment this week without waiting until the finish to see Fred Karno's company in Early Birds. The lively scenes centred round a coffee-stall in the salubrious neighbourhood of Whitechapel afford fine sport for everyone concerned, and to the audience as onlookers the quarrelling and upsetting of everything and everybody are excruciatingly funny. Not less so is the sequel which takes place in a doss-house, where full opportunities are again given to the wonderful agility and knockabout capabilities of the Karnos. Earlier in the evening Mr J. G. Grahame and Miss Zerlina Harrington appear in a first-rate little dramatic playlet, entitled A Daughter of Pleasure. The episode tells the story of Jack Redfern, junior partner in a bank, who has arrived at Paris on his way to Bruges, where he is to meet and be accepted by his sweetheart. There is a condition, however, attaching to the fulfilment of the engagement. Jack is the bearer of £10,000, which sum is to save the credit of a bank at Bruges, and unless he arrives at that place by nine o'clock the following morning his mission will meet with failure, and he will lose his sweetheart. At the hotel where he stays for the night he meets a woman of loose character, whom he had known in former years. Becoming the worse for drink in her company he is foolish enough to display his bundle of banknotes, and she is not slow to take advantage of him, finally succeeding in drugging him and secreting the notes in her dress. While he lays on the floor in an unconscious condition, and she is about to leave the hotel, her attention is attracted to a letter which has fallen out of his pocket-book. She reads the address on the envelope, and suddenly realises that her wicked intentions, if carried out, would be disastrous to one for whom she has the greatest affection. The whole of her mother's savings are deposited in the bank, and, daughter of pleasure though she be, her love for her mother is too deeply ingrained to allow her to bring ruin upon a home which she has already disgraced. In her desperation she finds a remedy for bringing Jack to his senses, and he rushes off just in time to catch the train. The sketch is extremely well acted, and Miss Harrington and Mr Grahame may be complimented on their performance. Mr Jack Lorimer may well describe himself as a versatile comedian; his sense of the ridiculous is finely developed, and, when dressed up as a woman of uncertain age, he makes one laugh by his pianoforte playing, and sings of "The dear little Shamrock of Ireland." He goes on to dance and play the piano at the same time, and then, in a burlesque voice, he renders a few lines of "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep." He certainly makes the most of his eccentric notions. Comic acrobatics and cycling are indulged in by the Bristons, who seem to be made of wonderful stuff, judging by the number of times they are thrown from their machines. Cycle falls are not regarded as a blessing by the average man on the wheel, and the problem of how to get flung from a bicycle without hurting oneself might be solved by a study of the tactics employed by the Bristons. We doubt not, though, that should less experienced cyclists attempt these feats they would be conferring a benefit on the medical fraternity. The Sisters Casselli are two charming soubrettes and speciality dancers. In the latter department they execute some very graceful and intricate movements, their turn altogether being a very creditable one. For physical strength and neatness in the performance of a series of difficult gymnastic acts we commend the Four Estrellos. The troupe, consisting of three gentleman and one lady, hail from the Continent, where their remarkable muscular feats were greatly admired. Grotesquely attired in a shabby frock suit, Mr Tom E. Hughes explains the joys of "Sleeping in Hyde Park, three seats from the gate," and then goes on to impress upon his hearers that "it is better far to be a poor man with a contented mind than a millionaire like me." Very humorously does he dilate upon his experiences of the life he leads in the neighbourhood of the Park. Miss Minnie D'Aubyn receives high praise for her clever burlesque "business," and her "Drink with me" song has a very catchy chorus, which is sung with gusto by the house. Sibb and Sibb appear in a smart exhibition with the aid of the double trapeze; Roy and Fenton present an excellent musical comedy act; and the Katos' Komical Kidgets, with their automatic theatre; the Knick-Knacks, in their comedy and speciality act; Fred Dunstone, comedian; Ethel Loftus, comedienne and mimic; George Collins, eccentric; and Fred Wright, comedian, are also attractive in their different ways.

NEW-CROSS EMPIRE.

This luxurious variety theatre appears—if possible—to increase in popularity with each succeeding year. Its seating capacity was tested to its utmost limits on the night of our visit, dulness of trade and inclemency of weather notwithstanding. The first artist to appear is Rumbo Austin, whose troupe of boys, styled parody acrobats, cause much amusement by their somewhat clumsy and ineffectual attempts to imitate their tutor in his acrobatic feats. When an abnormally fat policeman arrives to enforce order the boys attack and vanquish him, and so bring their turn to an effective termination. Miss Ida Heath follows, and is very warmly welcomed and loudly applauded for her graceful and clever dancing, representing the widely different styles of various countries She is particularly successful in her Spanish song and dance. Miss Heath looks very charming in her pretty dresses. The next contribution is that of Jas. Bard, and it is of a novel and clever kind, his performance on a slack wire, where he cleverly manipulates hoops and fires a pistol and performs many skilful tricks which must be the result of much patience and endurance compel our admiration. He has a most able assistant in a cleverly trained dog. Next come the Three Laurels, with their speciality ping-pong table; these gentlemen win unbounded admiration for their marvellously easy and smart execution of clever acrobatic feats. Lukos Herford next appears accompanied by his four dogs, who perform many novel tricks with great intelligence and with evident delight in the applause they win so deservedly. Professor Bernar's marionettes are among the very best we have seen. The apparatus is very handsome and imposing, consisting of numerous private boxes (whose occupants vigorously applaud each performer), and a large orchestra, where a musician is busily employed, and a musical director, who conducts in approved style. The entertainment on the stage of the marionette theatre is unusually good and varied, consisting of a lady balancer, a clever horsewoman, a ballet with première danseuse, and a very pretty transformation scene with electrical effects. Miss Sable Fern has good reason to be pleased with her reception nightly; she is a great favourite here, and her songs "Where is the heart?" and "My lily of the valley" were rapturously applauded. Miss Fern has a style that is quite unique, and exactly suits her audience. The next comers are the Bounding Pattersons, whose clever performance on the double and triple horizontal bar is greatly relished. Miss Marie Collins, always popular in this district, causes much amusement and loud laughter by her spirited rendering of the song entitled "The man in the moon," and later on by her quaint and characteristic method of interpreting the song entitled "A Vegetarian Husband," in which she describes the hardships of having to exist solely on a diet of vegetables and fruits. The audience enter heartily into the spirit of the song. The long and excellent programme is brought to a conclusion by the entertainment submitted by Miss Ethel Arden and Mr George Abel, entitled Three of a Kind. This is a farce full of excruciatingly funny situations and complications, and keeps the house in a roar from start to finish. The principals have surrounded themselves with a thoroughly capable band of artists, who work together so well that the little episode is interpreted in almost faultless style, the fun never flagging for an instant. Miss Ethel Arden is a tower of strength in herself, and reminds us of the real good work she has done in the past when her lines lay among poetic drama. Mr George Abel supports in a spirited and altogether admirable manner. This contribution is an excellent investment on the part of the management, for it sends the audience home in the best of good humour.

THE GRANVILLE.

Down Walham-green way the Granville continues to brighten the leisure hours of its patrons, and under the beneficent sway of Mr Jesse Sparrow and his locum tenens acting-manager, Mr Ernest A. Bridgen, all comers can be sure of a good strong programme, full of novelty and amusement. The principal items this week consist of the sketches, which are three in number, viz., Mr and Mrs John Lawson and company, in A Bride for a Living; Making it Up, acted by Mr Charles K. Cooper and Miss Laura Hansen; and The Revolt of Man, enacted by Phillips and Terry. The most important of these is the thrilling Zolaesque episode, A Wife for a Living, in which all the sordid misery of the vicious among the lower classes is vividly depicted in graphically gruesome and realistic ghastliness of wretched detail. The story is that of an unfaithful wife—pretty and charming even in her squalid rags—who flirts with a married man, a purveyor of finery on the "hire system." Kisses are his usual payment from her, and a half-brother, Joe, is aider and abettor in her villainy. David, her husband, is a hard-working, frugal man, but little suited to her ideas or mode of life. At length the unexpected return of David from "the works," which prevents her jaunt to the Derby with her lover, decides her to make away with him. Lucas, her paramour, however, has made David drunk in order to put him off the scent, but in so doing has also become intoxicated. In plying his trade he has exchanged coats with David, and being mistaken for him is hanged with the aid of the mangle in lieu of the miserable husband. The scene ends with the death of the wife owing to shock acting on a weak heart, and so this sordid scene ends. The piece is most powerfully acted, especially by Mrs Jno. Lawson, who as Love, the despicable and dreadful woman who is David's wife, creates quite a tour de force with as clever a bit of character acting as we have seen for some time. Despite her squalid rags and slatternly appearance, we see the brightness and animation which fascinate the victims of this revolting being. Her joie de vivre and wanton love of pleasure peep out from the grimy clothes and unkempt locks of this abandoned wretch, who is ready to hang her husband and the father of her child for a paltry twenty pounds insurance-money. Mr Jno. Lawson is exceedingly good as the husband David, and his passionate grief when he discovers his wife's perfidy is aptly indicated. Making It Up we remember seeing as a curtain-raiser at the Fulham Theatre some time since. It is the story of two lovers who have quarrelled over some trifle, and being left on an island in the lake district by the rest of their party (who are in a launch), with every prospect of having to spend the night there sans food or comforts of any kind, decide to adjust their differences. The party return ere nightfall to find them once more affianced sweethearts. The piece was well and spiritedly acted by Mr Charles K. Cooper and Miss Laura Hansen. The third sketch, The Revolt of Man, is a frankly farcical absurdity, which the title sufficiently explains, though we may remark that the mere man is supposed to have been some hundred years in subjection and quite accustomed to his lot, till some enterprising male informs his species of their supremacy in bygone years, and a "secret society" starts a general uprising of poor down-trodden men. Phillips and Terry are screamingly funny in this piece, especially the down-trodden man. The Ragamuffins, a quintet of pseudo street musicians, produced and controlled by Mr H. G. Pelissier, proprietor of the Follies, also supply an excellent and noteworthy turn. Their rendering of the quaint and amusing and vastly popular ditty, "Oh! what a happy race we are," is exceedingly well received, and the audience cannot have too much of this good thing. Mr Whit Cunliffe proves himself an alert and able comedian in "Girls" and "I would." Miss Winnie Derson's ditty "I don't want to go to a beautiful fancy ball," in which she declares that 'a good old Irish jig is good enough for her," is immensely popular. Mr Syd Godfrey gives some capital imitations of Joe Elvin and Chirgwin. Edwards and Espinosa in their musical and dancing act display marvellous mastery of the banjo, and Espinosa dances delightfully, like all the rest of her clever calisthenically gifted family. Clown Charlton is a capital eccentric, and his electrical orchestra is a decided novelty worked as it is at a distance, and like a harmonium—with the feet. Roy and Fenton in their comedy act, Ara, Zebra, and Vora, Miss Ruby Bijou, Mr Will Toole, Miss Lillian Lowe, the Phantos, Miss Dora Clifford, and the Edisonograph complete this capital programme.

MUSIC HALL HOME MATINEE.

At the Camberwell Palace, on Thursday afternoon, a matinée was given in aid of the funds of the Music Hall Home. For an afternoon performance the gathering was a good one, and the thanks of those responsible for the distribution of the fund were due to the directors of the hall for having kindly granted the use of it on this occasion. Mr J. J. Fruin, the secretary of the committee, worked hard to get up a first-rate programme, and to make the function a financial and artistic success. The members of the committee who were present were Mr Jesse Sparrow, Mr H. Cory Woodrow, Mr Teddy Giles, Mr Charles Manley, Mr Walter Norman, Mr C. Douglas Stuart, Mr Ben Woodger, and Mr Rupert Burnham. The matinée received the active support and patronage of the Terriers' Association, who were well represented. The lady collectors were quite irresistible in their claims upon the charitably disposed, and charm of manner, combined with energetic "begging," resulted in a nice little sum being netted. The fair ones who had charge of this department were Miss Marguerite Broadfoote, Miss Flo Raynor, Miss Ada Norman, Miss Marie Shackleford, Miss Ettie Shackleford, and Mrs Giles. The members of the orchestra, under the able direction of Mr Leon A. Bassett, gave their services free, as also did the stage staff, under the experienced guidance of Mr B. Broadbridge, the stage-director of the Camberwell Palace. The programme contained the names of no less than forty-six turns, but, of course, time did not permit of the full list being presented, and some of the ladies who figured in the bill allowed their talents to be employed in other channels for the benefit of the same object, a few of them taking duty as collectors.

Miss Lily Burnand sang her well-known and popular song "Cheek, cheek, cheek!" and so well was it received that she had to respond to an encore. Miss Ruth Doris, a dainty, girlish little artiste, sang a pretty song about the doings of herself and her little brother. Devere and Kenwick were responsible for a well-rendered duet, "He was a sailor boy and wore a sailor hat.' They also cleverly executed some nautical dances. Mr Woolmer Young, who came upon the stage in smart military attire, sang a song, the subject of which was one Captain Archie, who in town had the reputation of being very "starchy," and a dude of the first water. But Archie was possessed of other qualities which opportunity and circumstance alone bring out, for he proved a hero on the battlefield. Mr Young imparts quite a dramatic touch to the conclusion of the song. Miss Katie Marsh, a talented sister of talented brothers—the Harvey Boys—gave several impersonations of well-known characters from plays. Her acting in the death scene of East Lynne deserved special commendation by reason of the dramatic intensity and the pathetic naturalness of her characterisation. Some clever juggling tricks were introduced by Francis, whose dexterous manipulation of a cannon-ball evoked considerable amusement. Miss Flo Penley and Mr English did some clever burlesque work, not a little of it at the expense of the old-fashioned tragic actor. A laughable sketch has been written round the love entanglements of a mother and her daughter, and the result as presented by the Empire players was a most entertaining little playlet, ably acted throughout. Miss Marguerite Broadfoote voiced an old favourite to the chorus of "He-ho-rum-tum," in which a variety of topics was touched upon. An encore was demanded, but the charming comedienne was unable to respond to it in consequence of the length of the programme. The Clown Charlton, in addition to exercising himself in an acrobatic way, gave a selection on the concertina, which proved his ability as a player of that instrument The Leotard Brothers provided an exhibition of hat-throwing extraordinary, perhaps their most remarkable feat being the tossing of half-a-dozen pierrots' hats from the foot of one of the Leotards to the head of the other while the first was executing a somersault. Other artists who assisted in this charitable enterprise were Fred Eustace and company, in their sketch Our Curate; the Max Trevally-Harley troupe of gymnasts and acrobats, the Sisters Hall, Clark and Gold, Millie Harris, the Sisters Desmond, Forest and King, and Presto.

MISS ETHEL WALKER'S RECITAL.

A lady humourist, whose refined sketches at the piano have amused audiences at the Tivoli, and who has similarly entertained the admirers of Mr Albert Chevalier, gave proof of equal ability, at the Croydon Literary Institute on Thursday, to delight a suburban audience. Miss Walker, who combines with a prepossessing appearance an easy confidence and finished style, makes her points with artistic emphasis. The flexible quality of her voice lends agreeable variety to its intonation, and a profound sense of humour and capacity for conveying it over the footlights make her mirth-moving powers irresistible. Miss Walker's versatility was well tested on Thursday, when Nesbit's poem "The Singing of the Magnificat" figured amidst a large selection of frankly funny items, for seven of which Miss Walker was alone responsible. Among the most amusing was the musical sketch Harmony Hall, in which the varied accomplishments of a music-loving manége were described at the piano with rare humour, the finishing lay, "A handy little thing to have about you," being abundantly prolific of merriment. The witty lines of the songs "No" and "It does go" were brought out with the same merry results; while in the pretty ingenuousness of "The Telegram" and the satire of "The Absent Minded Lady" the fair monologuist was equally at home. In the duologue The Crystal Gazer Miss Walker was joined by her sister, Miss Nellie Walker, and the odd misunderstandings that spring from the mistake of a wily sorceress, who imagines that her fair visitor is seeking information of a lost dog when she is trying to trace a mislaid lover, were made very droll. The audience, as they had good reason to be, were lavish of applause, and encores were frequent throughout the evening. Many were also won by some excellent artists who contributed to the programme, among which variations on the scala by Mr Ernest Bishop and the masterly pianoforte solos of Mr Frederick Moore were appreciated to the full. Miss Carrie Herwin employed a rich contralto in "Daffodils a-blowing" and other songs, all of which were redemanded. Mr Edward W. Groocock played the accompaniments with admirable taste, and the excellence and variety of the evening's entertainment amply repaid the patronage of the crowded audience.

SHOWMEN'S MEETING.

(SPECIALLY REPORTED FOR THE ERA.)

The fifteenth annual meeting in London of the United Kingdom Showmen and Van-dwellers' Protection Association (the Showmen's Guild) was held at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, on Wednesday, under the presidency of Mr Fred Bibby (of Messrs J. Bibby and Co., Manchester). Amongst those present were the Rev. Thomas Horne, hon senior chaplin; Mr T. Watson Wright, Parliamentary solicitor; Mr Thomas Hurst, hon. secretary; the Rev. Mr Devereux, Vicar of St. Mary's, Hoxton, hon. local chaplain; Mr John Whiting, Mr J. H. Geoghegan, Mr Gray, Mr Hartshorn, Mr and Mrs Turnbull, Mr and Mrs Holland, Mr Toft, jun., Mr R. Tidman, Mr S. D. Mellor, Mr Marshall Hill, Mr and Mrs W. Murphy, Mr Campbell, Mr and Mrs G. H. Kemp, Mr John Studt, Mr John Studt, jun., Mr T. Read, Mr J. Wilson, Mr and Mrs B. Howden, Mr and Mrs H. Wallis, Miss Wallis, Mr A. Ball, Mr H. Hughes, Mr Andrew Purchase, jun., Mr W. Whyatt, Mr W. Bedford, Mr Gibson, Mr Thomas Smith, Mr B. T. Burnett, Mr P. Collins, Mr and Mrs E. Farrar, Mr and Mrs W. Pedley, Mr and Mrs J. Cottrell, Mr John Hastings, Mr Thomas Clarke, Mr and Mrs W. Taylor, Mr and Miss James Berry, Mr and Mrs John Barker, Mr Frank Bostock, and others.

At the opening of the proceedings the Rev. T. HORNE said that in the unavoidable absence of Lord George Sanger, who they would be very sorry to hear was lying seriously ill at his residence, Park Farm, East Finchley, he would nominate as chairman of the meeting their tried and very old friend, Mr Fred Bibby, of Manchester.

THE CHAIRMAN, who was received with cheers, said he felt it a great honour to preside over that meeting, but he deeply regretted the absence of their esteemed president, Lord George Sanger. However, he would do the best he could in that gentleman's absence. As they were aware, that was a meeting of showmen and van-dwellers, and by showmen he meant all those who followed the calling of travelling to fairs for the pleasure and enlightenment—if he might use the term—of the toiling masses—those who had to work by the sweat of their brow, closely confined in mills, factories, workshops; it was for these that the showmen endeavoured to provide amusement after a hard day's work. The entertainments were not given in gorgeous palaces made brilliant by the electric light, but the amusement provided was something which had been understood and appreciated by the masses from time immemorial. The show people tried to brighten the lives of these toilers by giving them a pure entertainment under the broad canopy of heaven. Many looked down upon the showmen's calling, and said "They are only showmen." They did not realise that so many people, from the highest to the lowest, were showmen. Why, one of the greatest showmen of the last century was William Ewart Gladstone, and a political showman of the present day was seen in Winston Churchill. And the travellers and van-dwellers were in their own line quite as bright and intelligent as the political showmen he had referred to. Referring to the revival services and the like, he said that at the present time there was a puritanical wave which threatened to overwhelm the showmen, and, indeed, entertainers of every kind, if it were not checked in its course. After a brief reference to the Parliamentary work done by their Executive Committee in opposing Bills containing objectional clauses, the chairman called attention to the report in the Manchester Evening Chronicle of an address delivered by the Rev. W. A. Harrison on the morals of Wigan. That gentleman's remarks did not apply to show people. He said there were six outstanding vices. The first was Sunday trading. He (the chairman) ventured to assert that no travellers present were addicted to Sunday trading; six days' hard work were quite enough for them. Mr Harrison next mentioned pigeon flying and late dancing. It was true that the showmen once or twice a year indulged in late dancing, but he did not know anything about pigeon flying. The reverend gentleman next mentioned gambling. Well, no doubt some of the travellers did sometimes engage in a game of ha'penny nap. According to Mr Harrison, two of Wigan's chief vices were immorality and drunkenness. He (the speaker) would not say that the showmen were all teetotallers; but he might remind them that they had a strong temperance organisation conducted by Miss Millington. In conclusion the chairman strongly condemned the attempt which had been made to suppress the Wigan Fair.

The Rev. THOS. HORNE, the hon. organising chaplain of the Guild, said he had a very melancholy duty to perform. Their esteemed president, the father of his people, the doyen and leader of the showmen, had been stricken by a very serious illness, and he would read them the letter he had received from Lord George Sanger, in reply to his own. It was as follows:—

Park Farm, East Finchley,
London, N.W.

My dear Mr Horne,

I thank you very much for your sympathising letter of yesterday. It is wholly out of the question my attending the meeting to-day. The fact is I cannot move off my back, from a chill which I caught on Christmas Eve. I have kept my bed, with the exception of two days, up to the present time. I have had bronchitis, pneumonia, and chronic sciatica, I think in its very worst form, and although it is not possible for me to attend the meeting, you and my fellow vandwellers, and, in fact, all concerned, have my warmest interest in your business of to-day. I herewith enclose you cheque for £100 for the good of the cause, my usual donation. With kind regards,

Yours truly, L. G. SANGER.

He moved that at the close of the meeting a telegram of condolence be sent to Lord George Sanger expressing the heartiest sympathy and the sincerest good wishes for his speedy recovery and return to vigour.

The CHAIRMAN seconded the resolution, which was put to the meeting and carried.

The Rev. T. HORNE said it was now his duty to give his annual address. From the very commencement of this work of defence he had attended the London meetings except when he had been prevented by illness or the pressure of parish work, as well as the annual meetings held in various parts of the country. It had been very interesting to him to watch as he had done the growth of this great movement, which had had for its object three very important things. First and foremost they, as citizens of the British Empire, formed an association for the protection of their common interests; they were banded together in order to enlighten prejudiced and narrow-minded public opinion, as well as to enlighten the general public as to its own interests in the ancient pleasure fairs of the kingdom. For more than fourteen years they had been associated in this common and very necessary enterprise, and had defended the rights and privileges of the showmen before both Houses of Parliament. He had interviewed archbishops, bishops, and other dignitaries of the Church, organised in the great centres of life, hon. chaplains and committees headed by local clergymen and ministers of religion. They had been able not only to inform the public upon any particular point, but had been able—as at Wigan—within twenty-four hours to concentrate all their fighting forces in defence of their own interests and those of the public. They had safeguarded the interests of a business, trade, and craft—a craft that was not of mushroom growth—and whose vocation was closely indentified with the growth of the British Constitution. There was scarcely a page in the history of the country that had not some reference to the itinerant entertainer of the people. How was the growth of the fairs explained? Nine out of ten of the old fairs had their origin in the holy days which were followed by holidays, and to which the showmen came with their entertainments. At first they consisted of a few tumblers, who, with the assistance of a trained horse, would give an equestrian performance on the village green. This, of course, was long before the circuses, the hippodromes, and the palaces of entertainment came into existence. Indeed, long before the theatre, and ages before the concert hall, the travellers and showmen of the country were the entertainers of the people. Therefore they could boast an ancestry which they could trace back to the very beginning of organised social life in England. They were intertwined with the very basis of the advance of political liberty, religion, and thought in this country. They saw on the wall behind him a large poster calling a meeting in Wigan. He landed in the town at ten o'clock on the previous Thursday, and by two that poster was on the walls and being carried about the town by board men. Before the evening was over they had circularised the whole of the Corporation and a great many of the clergy. Altogether they sent out about 400 circulars protesting against the vile aspersions made against the show people. They would find a full report of the meeting that was held at Wigan in The Era of this week, and they would see how their interests had been safeguarded, and that the Executive Committee were not asleep. The speaker then gave details with regard to the meeting and its successful result, and, proceeding, said he was glad to be able to tell them that the Guild had passed a very awkward corner during the past twelve months. They found that the expenditure exceeded the income, the balance was on the wrong side, and they made an appeal through the columns of The Era and from their public platforms for additional support. He was proud of the fact that as soon as the showmen realised the importance of the work that was being carried on in their interests they put their hands in their pockets very deeply, and liberally provided the sinews of war to carry on the defence work. The British Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union—to their credit, be it said—subscribed very liberally to the Parliamentary Defence Fund work, and he had great pleasure in announcing that another good showmen's organisation, the North of England Stall Holders and Amusement Caterers' Amalgamated Society, passed a resolution at a recent meeting authorising the grant to the Defence Fund of 2s. 6d. from every subscription received by the Society. Thus they had managed to get round the awkward corner. They had been able to pay all their Parliamentary expenses, and yet had a few pounds to the good. The speaker next referred to his recent settlement in London, remarking that the Vicar of St. Mary's, Hoxton, had given him an opportunity of performing his spiritual work as a curate of the church, while at the same time he should be able to carry on, without let or hindrance from anybody, his work among the travelling showmen of the kingdom. Their thanks were also due to the proprietor and manager of The Era newspaper. Originally consisting of one column only, the news under "The Showman World" heading now filled a page. In The Era the showmen were treated not only fairly but, he thought, generously. Their meetings, &c., were properly reported, and The Era had always championed their cause. It was this journal that detected the venomous evil in the legislation sought to be introduced by the late Mr George Smith of Coalville. It gave him, as their hon chaplain, the greatest pleasure to look after their interests; and for the spiritual and educational work he had done he had never received the value of a shoe lace, because it would be doing them a great disservice, as people would say he was a parson who had his own axes to grind. He had, therefore, never received payment from them as their advocate in the Press, or as propagandist on the platform. He was the son of show people; he was born in a caravan and was cradled on the road. Although he eventually went to Oxford University his heart and soul were always with his own people—the people of the road. There was a story told of a Yankee and an Englishman who got into a discussion as to whether the English or American painters were the cleverest. The Englishman remarked, "We have got some beautiful paintings in our Royal Academy." "Yes," replied the Yankee, "they are all very good, but an artist down West where I come from was once commissioned to paint a sign board for a temperance hotel. He painted a table with a lovely damask cloth on it, and then a bottle of ginger beer with the cork in, but before he had time to paint the string the bottle burst and spoiled the picter." What the American painter failed to do he wanted to do—to put the string on. He wished them to bear in mind this important fact, that the executive of the Showmen's Guild were fighting their cause as well as their own. The executive gave much valuable time in organising the defence of the showmen's rights and interests, and if at the end of the year they had to admit that the society was in debt it was a dishonour and a shame to the showpeople as a body. There was not a showman present who could not afford to give 5s. as an annual subscription; and no traveller from fair to fair throughout the land had any right to the protection of the Society unless he supported it with his money. There were men present who were better able to afford "a fiver" than some could afford a "dollar." He hoped that the gentlemen of the press understood these terms. They ought to have £200 in the reserve fund, so that any corporation that was inclined to interfere with the showman would have to meet a well-organised and well-equipped association that would defend to the last penny of their resources the interests of showmen. In conclusion, the hon. gentleman strongly urged that if they wanted protection, they must join the Society, and furnish it with ample means for defence against those who, without just cause, attacked them.

Mr T. WATSON WRIGHT, of Leicester, the hon. solicitor of the Society, gave an account of the Parliamentary work which had been carried on by the Association during the past twelve months. It was started in the year 1890, its object being to oppose certain mischievous legislative proposals with which the late George Smith had a good deal to do. There were a large number of people in the country who were endeavouring to do away with the fairs, wakes, and feasts in their localities, and the Association was formed to defeat these intentions. Many of the borough councils approached the Government departments for the purpose of getting bye-laws passed that would put a stop to the holding of fairs in their respective districts. These bye-laws were carefully scrutinised by the executive of the Society, and wherever it was found that a law was bad and unconstitutional representations were made to the Home Office and to the Local Government Board, with the result that the bye-laws objected to were not adopted. At the present time the Home Office would not confirm any bye-laws unless it was satisfied that they were in accordance with the main principles of the law of the land. Thus a very great point had been gained for the showmen, and now they had very little to fear from new bye-laws. But a greater danger to their interests had arisen during the past five or six years. When a Bill was being promoted in Parliament by a local governing body with the object of obtaining some improvement it was a common practice to insert certain clauses which, if they became law, would inevitably prevent showmen from carrying on their business in certain localities. There were between fifty and one hundred local Acts applied for every year, and in 1900 they found that over a dozen of these local Acts contained clauses objectionable to showmen. The Association petitioned Parliament—either the Lords or the Commons—against the passing of these clauses into law, and were successful in their object in every instance. If these objectionable clauses had become law, the probability was that other local authorities would have followed suit, and throughout the country the business of roundabout proprietors and showmen would have been stopped. Thus a great danger had been averted by the Association. In opposing the objectionable clauses before the Parliamentary Committees they had obtained the services of the best counsel, and the absurd statements made by the witnesses called by the local bodies were completely disproved, while the witnesses called by the Association satisfied the committee that the showmen were carrying on a legitimate and lawful occupation. Mr Evan Charteris, in his opinion one of the best lawyers at the Parliamentary bar, appeared for the Association, and ably conducted the cases he was entrusted with. Last year nine Bills were promoted which contained clauses which would interfere with showmen, but through the action of the Association these objectionable clauses were withdrawn, though in some cases they were withdrawn at the last moment, thus putting the society to considerable expense in preparations for defence. The Association had a good case and good witnesses, and were therefore bound to succeed. In the Acton case the Parliamentary committee allowed the Association their law-costs—a very rare occurrence, but it was held that the proceedings by the promoters of the Bill were of a vexatious character. This Session of Parliament only one Bill containing a section calculated to interfere with showmen had been introduced. This showed that the promoters of Bills had come to the conclusion that it was useless to introduce in them unconstitutional clauses calculated to injure a respectable class of people, who had a capital of one and a half millions of money invested in roundabouts, &c. The Bolton local authority proposed to introduce objectionable clauses in a Bill, but on receiving a letter from the hon. secretary of the Association, Mr Hurst, threatening opposition, these clauses were struck out. In a Bill promoted by the Colne Corporation there was a clause to prevent any fair being held in the market-place or other thoroughfare in the town, and this had also been successfully opposed, the clause in question having been withdrawn. Thus it would be seen that the Association had more than justified its existence. They all regretted the serious illness of Lord George Sanger. He had stood forth as a bright example to every showman, and would be to the last day of his life. Mr Sanger had been a successful man, and he believed that their president had not an enemy in the world. On the contrary, he was respected and liked by all. In conclusion, Mr Wright urged his hearers to continue to stand up for their legal rights and the privileges they now enjoyed.

The CHAIRMAN then proposed "That this meeting heartily thanks the Executive Committee and officials for the good work done in 1904, and approves of the annual report."

Mr SAM MELLOR seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

The CHAIRMAN next moved "That this meeting expresses, in the name of the showmen of the empire, its condemnation of the attempt to abolish Wigan Old Chartered Fair, one of England's historic fairs, and joins with the successful protest of the local showmen voiced at a recent public meeting held under the auspices of the Guild in Wigan."

Mr B. T. BURNETT seconded the resolution, which was carried.

The Rev. T. HORNE then read a list of subscriptions received.

The Rev. N. J. DEVEREUX, hon. local chaplain, next addressed the meeting, pointing out to the showpeople that a great deal depended upon themselves. They would be the observed of all observers, and would be watched by those who wished to do away with their calling. They should, therefore, be always on their guard and endeavour to show that a happy life and a religious life were quite compatible.

The CHAIRMAN announced that the usual supper and ball had fallen through this year, but Mr Read and the Committee were not in any way to blame. The small balance of £5 remaining in Mr Read's hands would be handed over to the Society's funds.

The Rev. T. HORNE said that next year they hoped to revive the supper and ball.

Mr W. TAYLOR proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, the speakers, the Press, and Messrs Read for the use of the room.

Mr T. READ, in response, said he should do in the future as he had done in the past, and explained it was not his fault that there would be no supper and ball that evening.

The CHAIRMAN also replied, and the meeting then separated.

Music Halls A.F.C.—F. B. Nicholls, goal; J. Tyley and F. Arni, backs; T. Neagle (captain), J. Lacey, and W. Hinder, half-backs; P. Reardon, B. Cullen, F. Hansford, H. C. Douglas, and W. Meadows, forwards.

Referee, A. Hamlin (captain, H. Hare's Orchestral Band A.F.C.). Linesmen, H. Hare and A. Cox. Result:—Bristol X.L.C.R. and Harry Hare's Orchestral Band Athletic Clubs, one goal; Music Halls A.F.C., four goals. Messrs H. Clements, J. Lacey (three), and F. Arni scored the goals for their respective sides.

"HAZELL'S ANNUAL" for 1905 has reached its twentieth year of issue, and it retains all those features which render this publication so valuable as a handy work of reference. It is indeed what it claims to be, "a Cyclopædic Record of Men and Topics of the Day," and the red cover bears the appropriate Shakespearian quotation "Avaunt, perplexity." One has only to consult the copious index, alphabetically arranged, which has now become a permanent and indispensable feature, and he will find reference to any subject perfectly easy, whether it be Alien Immigration, the Fiscal Question, Freemasonry, or the Housing of the Working Classes. A large number of new articles appear in the present edition. We may, however, suggest a revision of the list of leading newspapers which omits all mention of The Era. As instances of the special character which is given to the present Annual, the articles on "Canals, British and Foreign," "Esperanto," "The Triple Alliance," "The Textile Industries of the World," and "Vagrancy and Labour Colonies," the accounts of the political parties of every important foreign country, the Monroe Doctrine, and the Anglo-Japanese Agreement, the biographies of Foreign and Colonial statesmen and notabilities, the summary of the most important legal decisions of the year, and the review of the chief industrial engineering schemes throughout the world, may be specified, though the list could be indefinitely extended.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.—All suffering from irritation of the throat and hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of Brown's Bronchial Troches. People troubled with a hacking cough, a slight cold, or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious pulmonary and asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box. Sold by Chemists everywhere, 1s. 1½d. per BOX.—[ADVT.]

PROPOSED ABOLITION OF PLEASURE FAIRS.

(SPECIAL TO THE ERA.)

AT the committee meeting of the Showmen's Guild, held at their headquarters, the Black Lion Hotel, Salford, immediately after the Manchester annual gathering, the question of the society's action with reference to Wigan Fair was taken into consideration. Mr Thos. Hurst reported the action taken by himself and the executive officials. The correspondence was read and discussed, and it was resolved that vigorous measures be taken at once to vindicate the traduced character of the showmen.

THE Rev. T. Horne, Mr T. Watson-Wright, and Mr Hurst were deputed to go to Wigan and arrange for a public meeting at the earliest possible moment. In consideration of the fact that a large number of delegates from all parts of the United Kingdom were then in Manchester an earnest "whip" was issued to the effect that these delegates should hold themselves in readiness to go to Wigan and make a demonstration in force. The work of preliminary organisation was undertaken by the hon. chaplain at the request of the committee.

THE following morning (Thursday) found the rev. gentleman at work. Within a few hours the best public hall in the town was secured, and large posters announcing the showmen's protest meeting blazed upon every wall in "Coalopolis." A carefully-worded protest or petition was sent to each member of the Borough Council and its officials, to every clergyman and minister of religion, and to every local notability. This work occupied two typists, under the supervision of the hon. chaplain, during the greater part of Thursday and Friday. The Rev. T. Horne, on behalf of the showmen, interviewed the Mayor, the chief clerk (in the absence of the town clerk, Alderman Phillips), and other gentlemen, and the result was one of the most successful demonstrations ever held on behalf of the showmen of the Empire.

WE are indebted to the Wigan Examiner for the substance of the following report:—

A largely attended meeting, under the auspices of the Showmen and Van Dwellers' Protection Association (the Showmen's Guild), was held in the Old Court Hall, King-street, Wigan, on the 20th inst., "to protest," as announced, "against the proposed abolition of the Wigan Pleasure Fairs, and to answer the unwarrantable aspersions cast upon the tenants of the corporation show ground in particular, and the showmen of the empire in general." Mr Thomas Hurst, of Manchester, honorary secretary to the Guild, presided, and was supported on the platform by the Rev. T. Horne, hon. chaplain and organiser; curate of St. Mary's, Hoxton, London; hon. chaplain and organiser to the Guild, and Mr T. W. Wright, C.C., of Leicester, hon. solicitor; Mr George Green, Preston; Mr H. J. Wallis, Liverpool; Mr John Whiting; Mr Wm. Holmes; Messrs E. Clegg and T. H. Garside, of Manchester; Messrs Mitchell and Sons, Heywood; Mr J. Geoghan, Oldham; Messrs Toft and Turnbull, Dublin; General Wilmot and Mr Jas. Wilmot, Glasgow; Mr Sidney Brahm, London; Mr Tom Smith, Sheffield; Mr H. R. Hibbert, Stockport; and many others.

MR HURST said that they (the showmen) were in Wigan that night to defend themselves against the unwarrantable attacks made upon them and their calling by certain individuals. What had been said was open and notorious; everybody had seen it, and as the effect had been so widespread, so their answer must sound through the length and breadth of the land. They did not expect a chairman to do more than his allotted duty, viz., to preside over their deliberations; he, therefore, asked a fair hearing for the speakers who had the showmen's case in hand.

THE Rev. T. Horne remarked that it might be thought a curious thing to see a parson of the Church of England identifying himself with the travelling showmen, but he was not alone in this sort of enterprise, for it would be seen from the bills and posters that he was in very good company indeed. It was now more than fourteen years since the showmen found their business in considerable peril from the action of certain people who held somewhat the same ideas as others did in Wigan, and thought that the best thing they could do with the showman was to improve him off the face of the earth, and in order to do so introduced a Bill into Parliament. If that Bill had become law it would have been practically impossible for any showman to have his home upon wheels with him while attending fairs. But the showmen met and formed a trades union, as he would call it—he was a trades unionist to the backbone, and once tried to start a trades union of parsons—and they went to Parliament and knocked the Movable Dwellings Act into smithereens. The Guild represented the interests of 70,000 people carrying on an honest, straightforward, industrial employment. When the Guild was started a violent attack was made upon the showmen by a certain philanthropic gentleman.

THE whole of the Press of England was fed with paragraphs wherein this man sought to show that he had travelled with and had lived with showmen for a period long enough to justify his crusade against them. Letters in the public press by the man referred to roused his (the speaker's) indignation, and he wrote to the London papers. The result was that the showmen discovered him to be a man who would speak up for them, and invited him—he was then in Yorkshire—to come to Manchester and champion their interests at a big meeting there. The showmen were in trouble in Wigan. There were gentlemen on its Town Council who did not hesitate to use the most abusive language at their command about the showmen when they were not present to speak for themselves, snatch a vote in the Council in order to do away with the pleasure fair. These would-be abolitionists of the pleasure fairs of the people never thought of abolishing their own pleasures—oh, no! If they carried out their plans, according to their nice ideas, there would be no fair. He was there to lead a rebellion. They must not allow the men they had sent to govern the town to interfere with business that did not concern them.

LET them stick to gas, water, and sanitation. It was an act of impertinence for the Wigan Town Council to assume that they had the power to interfere with the pleasure fair against the will of the people. He was there as a lover of righteousness to appeal to Wigan for justice, not for mercy or favour. Could it be wondered at that those they saw on the platform were indignant at the cruel remarks made about them in the Wigan Town Council, and were up in arms about it? One of the representatives in the Wigan Council said that the consequence of every fair was disease, disaster, and death. These were sweeping charges; was the bringer of them prepared to prove them? Did the men around him look like dying men, like moral wrecks, or anything of that sort? Disease, disaster, and death! It was an unwarrantable assertion. The showman himself was prepared to go into the witness-box and prove that his moral character, his domestic life, his care for wife and child, and his loyalty to his King would compare favourably with that of any other class. He did not say that showmen were any better than other men, but as a minister of God he could say that they were quite as good as others. Alderman Johnson said in the Town Council that the public mind had been enlightened in regard to the iniquity of the Wigan Pleasure Fair. Did they remember ever being enlightened about it? Did he ever call a public meeting to tell them. Had he ever before told them in public or in private about this iniquity? He had been making an inquiry into this matter during the last few days, and an alderman who did his best to prevent the resolution adopted by the Council being passed told him that he had made inquiries, and had only been able to trace one case on which Alderman Johnson could found his charges. A man occupying an important position in the town should learn to use suitable language, and not get up and talk about fairs bringing "disease, disaster, and death." His story was like that of the three black crows, or of the scores of black cats on the wall, which dwindled down to one. He challenged Alderman Johnson to meet him to debate the question publicly in that hall. No fair could be abolished under the statute law of this country without the vote of the people of the town being taken. If the people of Wigan did not want the fair that was another matter. He contended that it provided cheap and harmless recreation for the multitude. There were scores employing thousands of workmen, kept up by these travelling showmen, and if these fairs were stopped there would be a great accession to the terrible army of unemployed. The showmen objected, as he did, to any interference with their business. He was prepared to vouch for the moral character of those showmen on the platform both in their home and business life. He asked for nothing but fair play for their class; and he called upon the people of Wigan to rise up in their might and tell these would-be reformers to mind their own business.

MR T. W. WRIGHT said he had had fourteen years' experience of local government. He was three years a member of the Leicester Borough Council, and had been for nine years on the Melton Mowbray County Council; therefore he could claim that he knew the methods of local governing bodies. It was a constitutional privilege, a legal right, that any man in this kingdom should, so long as he were free from crime, be able to move about from place to place without interference. If they were to approach the ratepayers on the subject, those concerned would, of course, be in some degree satisfied with their decision; but they had not been consulted on the matter in the present instance. Some years ago the matter was put before the ratepayers of Wigan, and they decided that in the interests of the inhabitants the fair should not be discontinued. In the year 1871 the Fairs Act was passed, which gave the Home Secretary the power to make an order for the abolition of any fair as might be shown by the local authority to be undesirable. He understood that the fairs in Wigan were known as old chartered fairs only. Certain powers were granted to the Corporation by the Wigan Improvement Act of 1874, and certainly wide and improper powers absolutely known to be unconstitutional against the known law, and ultra vires, because Parliament since the year 1889 had absolutely declined both in the Commons and in the Lords to sanction proposals similar to that the Wigan Council had made. There were on the Showmen's Guild over a thousand proprietors of shows, roundabouts, and other amusements, and it had been proved to the House of Commons during the last four sessions that these men had spent capital to the amount of a million and a half, and that it was not likely that they would have been so foolish as to do so if they had not known that they were catering for pleasure and recreation desired by the great masses of the people. The Wigan Council now sought of their own authority to discontinue the Wigan fair, but if the Showmen's Guild were obliged to assert its legal right, the Wigan Council would find that they could not discontinue it. If the Council decided that the fair would be better carried on on Corporation land in another part of the borough, they would then be taking a proper line; but when they claimed that they had full powers under the Act of 1871 to abolish the fair by passing a resolution, then, said the speaker, they could not do it. Since 1900 the Association had fought in Parliament no fewer than thirty corporations and other local governing bodies, including those of Birmingham, Radcliffe, Bournemouth, Blackpool, and others all over the kingdom, and the objectionable clauses on the matter in question were withdrawn. He hoped that all Englishmen would be prepared to stand up for their just and legal rights in this matter against the unwarrantable attacks of persons who might filch from them little by little their liberties. The Guild was not in existence in 1874, or it would have opposed the Bill then obtained, but the Association did not come into existence till 1889. It was usual for Parliament to allow a successful petitioner costs, but in the case of Acton, in Middlesex, Parliament allowed the Guild their costs against the local authority, considering that the Association had been vexatiously called upon to defend their interests. In the Wigan Council Councillor Bott had asked if the horse and cow fair would be abolished, and Alderman Johnson got up in a hurry and said "No." They would be obliged to permit a showman or any other person to come to Wigan and exercise his common-law right of attending that fair—and it had been proved—he could give scores of authorities for it. There was imposed upon Wigan by the Act of Parliament the duty of providing proper fairs and markets. The legal definition of a fair was this:—"It is a great annual gathering held at long periods and intervals, and markets for the purpose of sellers and buyers and exchanges of commodities, meeting together and prosecuting their business, and by enjoying themselves before they proceeded to their homes;" and these fairs were visited by many people from great distances, who spent a great amount of money in the towns they visited. The association had no desire to be defiant or to take up a hostile attitude, and if it appeared that the fair could be better conducted in another part of the town, on Corporation land, the Guild would be willing to acquiesce, provided that a reasonable site was provided, and they were willing to do anything in reason, but there was no necessity to take the drastic and unwarrantable step decided on. The speaker, after defending the showmen against the charge of causing immorality, pointing out that anything immoral in connection with their shows was precluded by the laws of the Guild, concluded by declaring that the Guild, if they were not reasonably met by the Wigan Corporation, would fight the matter to the end, no matter what was the cost.

THE Chairman invited questions, and, none being asked, proposed the resolution:—"That this public meeting of the inhabitants of Wigan objects to the abolition of the pleasure fair, and after hearing the case of the showmen attending it, considers the many statements made in the Council Chamber by those advocating the discontinuance of the pleasure fair were totally unwarranted and false, and insists that the resolution recently passed be rescinded at the earliest possible moment."

THE Rev. T. Horne seconded the proposition. He remarked that if the Council would not meet a deputation from the showmen of Great Britain as to carrying on the fair under absolutely harmless and safe conditions, the showmen would fight the question to a finish, and he told the Mayor that that morning. The Association represented an industrial capital of over seven millions and did they imagine that such an Association would take the decision of the Council lying down? The resolution was carried. The meeting was then brought to a close.

MESSRS TOFT AND TURNBULL (Dublin) have contributed £2 2s. to the Parliamentary defence, and Messrs Thurston and Sons were inadvertently omitted in our list of last week. Wm. Foster and

Co., Limited, Lincoln, and Simpkin Wilkinson and Co, Leeds, have paid hon. member's subscription for 1905. The following is the text of the "protest" of British showmen against the proposed abolition of Wigan pleasure fair:—

TO THE MAYOR, ALDERMEN, AND BURGESSES OF THE BOROUGH OF WIGAN.

We, the Undersigned Tenants of the Corporation Fairground, and others, the Showmen of the Empire, respectfully submit the following statement:—

1. We are engaged in a lawful, honest, and recognised industry, and we form as a body of skilled craftsmen and traders no inconsiderable portion of the industrial commonwealth. It is true that, for the purposes of our business, we are itinerants, that is to say—we follow the fairs in our yearly circuit of trade or employment. We are in every other respect citizens of the Empire and loyal, law-abiding (and we trust God-fearing) men and women, with our family life as pure, and our home affections as real and as good as the more settled denizens in town or country. We claim to be in every essential concern of life ordinary citizens, and obedient, moral, and good living subjects of our King.

2. We therefore, protest against the vile aspersions made against us and our avocation in life by certain individuals.

We most earnestly ask for a fair and equitable opportunity, in order to vindicate our character from the utterly wanton and scurrilous attacks recently made upon us by certain persons co-operating in a movement having for its object the abolition of the ancient pleasure fairs and holidays of the working Classes

No class in the artistic or the skilled industries of the Empire has shown greater progress in the perfecting of its business in its ready adaptability to modern needs, than the industry of the fairground—an avocation in life, be it remembered, touching the well-being of 70,000 people, with an outside trade with other industries linked with it and supplying its necessities of yet more vast-reaching dimensions and consequences.

We, therefore, confidently assume that the people will desire (whose pleasure fairs and holidays are being attacked) to hear the other side, and to give the people who cannot claim civic dignity and safety a fair hearing.

We propose, under the circumstances, holding a meeting in your midst, and to protest against the unjust and cruel attacks made upon us.

The Rev. T. Horne, London, Hon. Chaplain and Organiser; and T. Hurst, Hon. Secretary to the Showmen's Guild; on behalf of the whole body of showmen in Great Britain.

BURGESSES OF WIGAN! You have holidays and pleasures too little already! These abolishers of your fair and holidays take care not to deny themselves their own sort of amusement and recreation. Come in good numbers and enter your protest against this narrow-minded view of life taken by some of your representatives on the Borough Council.

AT a good fellowship meeting of the Brotherhood of British Showmen, held at their headquarters, the Black Lion Hotel, Salford, the following degrees and dignities were conferred honoris causa:—"General" John Wilmot and "President" Geo. H. Kemp.

AT the showmen's meeting at the Agricultural Hall on Wednesday, the Rev. T. Horne, in speaking of the way in which the secretary of the Association conducted the recent public meeting held at Wigan, said, "There is only one Thomas Hurst. He presided over that meeting with the aplomb, the dignity, and the eloquence of the Speaker of the House of Commons." The complimentary reference to Mr Hurst was received with hearty cheers.

MR HENRY STUDT, the well-known South Wales amusement caterer, was a patron of the Carmarthenshire Hunt Steeplechases, and was present at the races this week. Mr Studt is a native of Carmarthen.

FOR the first time for many years past there has been no supper and ball to celebrate the annual gathering "of the clans" of showland at the World's Fair during the last week in January.

MR READ, lessee of the World's Fair, has paid over a balance of £5, being, with other sums given to local charities, the proceeds of last year's ball. Mr Read was reluctantly compelled to give up the idea of continuing this social gathering at the present fair; he found himself unable to arrange suitable terms with the refreshment caterers of the hall. He trusts next year to make arrangements of a satisfactory kind, either in the hall itself or in some suitable outside hotel or assembly rooms.

To Lord George Sanger.
Park Farm, East Finchley.

Van-dwellers and showmen at World's Fair in meeting assembled send sincere wishes for their president's speedy recovery. They also send hearty thanks for cheque of £100.

WE have to add to the list of roundabout proprietors and showmen contributing £2 2s. or more to the Parliamentary Defence Fund the following names:—H. J. Wallis, William Murphy, Charles Farrell, William Clarke (Worcester), and General John Wilmot, of Glasgow.

IN connection with this fund, we have great pleasure in announcing that the North of England Stallholders and Amusement Caterers Amalgamated Society (Secretary, Mr Thomas Hartshorn), has allocated one-fourth, 2s. 6d. per member, of their subscriptions received towards the Parliamentary Defence work.

THE following subscriptions were received or promised after the meeting at the World's Fair on Wednesday last:—Lord George Sanger, £100; Burrell and Sons (Thetford), £5; Robert Fossett, £2; T. Read, £1 1s.; Wm. Taylor, £1 1s.; J. H. Chipperfield, £1 1s.; Wm. Pedley, £1 1s; Wm. Clarke (Worcester), £1 1s.; F. Turner, £1 1s.; Wm. Bedford, £1 1s.; Marenghi et Cie, £1 1s.; Mr Wentworth, £1 1s.; Mr Creber, £1 1s.; Mrs J. Pettigrove, £1 1s; Mr Fitts, M.S.A., £1; Marshall Hill, £1; F. F. Pope, £1; T. Davidson (M.R.), 10s. 6d.; Prof. Lloyd, 10s. 6d.; Alf Bull, 10s. 6d.; W. Wilson, 10s.; A. J. Clowes, 10s.; E. J. Clowes, 10s.; John Clowes, 10s.; and a dozen subscribers of 5s. each.

THE conference of delegates from the northern amalgamation and the Showmen's Guild met at the Royal Agricultural Hall on Tuesday evening last. The Rev. T. Horne presided. A most useful discussion and interchange of views took place, the principal speakers being Mr George Gray and Mr T. Hartshorn, for the Amalgamation, and Mr T. Hurst for the Van Dwellers' Association. A scheme was outlined whereby co-operation between all showmen trade societies might come into force, the basis of their immediate joint action being general public propaganda and Parliamentary defence. Much satisfaction was expressed at the happy and satisfactory termination of the discussion upon this matter recently occurring in The Era.

AT the Guild committee meeting it was resolved that the Colne (Lancs.) Corporation Bill be opposed, unless the restrictive clauses touching the show business be withdrawn. After considerable discussion re the case of Mrs Jane Pettigrove, roundabout proprietress and ground lessee and the trustee of the Lord of the Manor, Edgware, the owners of the fairs of old Edgware, it was resolved that the Rev. T. Horne, T. Watson-Wright, and T. Hurst be empowered to deal with the matter, and to afford Mrs Pettigrove all the assistance the Guild can legitimately render.

AT the Agricultural Hall, Norwich, Messrs Barker and Thurston's winter carnival is in full swing every evening, and the side shows are doing well. A guessing competition is going on this week for handsome prizes, and the proprietors deserve success for their enterprise.

GATTI'S (ROAD).

"Age cannot wither, nor custom stale, Her infinite variety" might, appropriately enough, have been written of Gatti's Palace of Varieties in the Westminster-bridge road. At any rate, that seems to be the motto under which Mr Tom Tinsley has been, and is still, building up the fortunes of Messrs Gatti's famous place of entertainment. This week, for instance, there are fifteen items on the programme, each one receiving an unmistakable demonstration of approval at the hands of the audience. Arthur Prince, the nautical ventriloquist, and his cabin boy, Jim, are already known to fame, and by the manner in which the turn was presented on Tuesday night, Mr Prince evidently intends that his acquaintanceship with fame shall not close just yet. One wonders, indeed, how it is possible for him to keep up an amusing ventriloquial tête-a-tête with a cigar in his mouth all the while! Marvellous acrobats is the correct appellation to apply to the Borghetti Troupe. With surprising agility the four members of the combination execute a series of evolutions in the air, double somersaults, high jumps, and springs. Some of their feats are so daring that they almost cause one a moment's uneasiness, but the movements are so well-timed and the distances so well gauged that no mishap occurs. Perhaps the most remarkable part of their turn is seen when a very agile boy of the troupe springs on to the shoulders of a man standing on a pedestal, and then turns a double somersault in the air, finally alighting on the head of another of the acrobats. Miss Lilian Lowe has a voice of powerful range, which she employs to advantage in her rendering of "Eileen Alannah" and her two subsequent numbers—"I never knew till now how much I loved you" and "The song that reached my heart." Cliff Ryland, who undertook that "Himself" should be the subject of his entertainment, impresses his audience with the idea that "Himself" is a very diverting personage indeed. His quaint patter, his droll mannerisms, and the suggestion of being an unconscious humourist implied by his almost imperturbable countenance are the chief factors which make for his success as a comedian. One of the cleverest balancing tricks we have seen is performed by the Leotard Brothers. Three tables, the tallest of which is about 4ft. high, are placed one over the other. On the topmost table are two chairs, one of which is adjusted in a slanting direction so that the backs of the chairs touch each other. This slender edifice is mounted by one of the Leotards, who, when he has reached the highest point, balances a lighted lamp on his head. The Leotards also indulge in some extraordinary hat-throwing and catching, into the fun of which the audience enters by being invited to show their skill in the art of "bowling" a pierrot's headgear on to the heads of the Leotards. Mr Frank Coyne dilates in an amusing way upon the subject of a "cheese that had been in the family for years" and how it took everybody's appetite away when it was placed upon the dinner table. He also creates much merriment with his ditties "Shift a little bit further up" and "What is the good of a pair of kilts?" Miss Dora Lyric touches the hearts of her audience by her singing of a somewhat pathetic song about a village girl who becomes a much applauded actress but whose soul yearns after the simple life she used to lead and the simple clothing she used to wear. Then the scene is changed, and we are told about a soldier's wife who has been compelled to seek refuge in a workhouse. She, too, is yearning for the life she used to lead. The song was charmingly rendered by the young comedienne, whose other item about a barmaid at the Rose and Crown was not so well received by the audience. Sinclair and Whiteford appear in an amusing dialogue, to which is given the title of Getting Even. It is the story of a tiff between a young married couple, each of whom decides to give the other a lesson. The wife dresses up in male cycling costume, and the husband comes on dressed as a woman. The deception each plays upon the other is responsible for many laughable situations and passages-at-arms. Mr Fred Sinclair is decidedly good as a drunken man in the earlier part of the sketch, and makes no less an interesting character as the sham Arabella Puddleton. Miss Gracie Whiteford is a very lively personage, both as the angry wife and later on as the bogus Mr Fitzdoodle. Mr Sinclair, by-the-way, is the author of the duologue, the music to which has been composed by Mr Edmund Forman. Terry and Bentley also make for a disturbance of the risible faculties by their clever comedy duologue entitled The Hunt, in which there is scarcely a dry line. The lady performer gives a delightful exhibition of sand dancing during the sketch. Miss Clara Sefton is a very dainty comedienne and dancer, both her singing and dancing being awarded high appreciation. Tony Pelhall, the coloured comedian, has also proved a success at Gatti's, his patter being especially relished. Praise is equally due to Miss Violet Mills, a chic comedienne and dancer, and to Primavesi, a juggler, whose tricks are both unique and neatly performed. The animated pictures thrown upon the Mutograph screen have become quite an attractive feature of the programme at Gatti's, especially as the subjects are changed every week.

MISS LILY MARNEY successfully concludes the Stoll tour at the Ardwick Empire to-day, and returns on Monday to the Gaiety, Birmingham, where she is an old favourite—Miss Evelyn Taylor, after her long provincial tour, returns to town on Monday for three weeks only. After her three weeks' stay in town she will then commence another long provincial tour, lasting thirty-eight weeks.—Miss Clorinda Thurtell has been engaged to appear at the London on Monday week, and will afterwards start on the Livermore Tour.

MR SAM THOMSON is the latest Scotch comedian to make a success in England. His sole agent, Mr Geo. Saphrini, is fast booking him at all the principal halls, and he has had a tempting offer for London.—Dunning and Kahn and Kahn, after a successful season, leave town, but return in March for five months, their dates including the London Coliseum.—Mr Fred Curran is making things hum on the Barrasford tour with his up-to-date parodies, and if his present successes continue we shall soon be hearing him in the West-end.—The M'Kays open on Monday at the Middlesex and Walham-green after a most successful twenty-three weeks' tour.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

(SPECIAL TO THE ERA.)

THE meeting of stage employees held on Sunday last in Glasgow was the most successful ever held in that city. Most of the theatres and music halls were represented. It was decided to make arrangements to establish a club and provide a telephone for the convenience of those wanting men. It was also proposed to establish a benevolent fund. About forty new members were enrolled, and further additions are expected at the next meeting. Full particulars may be obtained from Mr J. Campbell, 1, Milton-street, Cowcaddens. The next meeting will be held on Feb. 5 at 11, Maitland-street.

MR A. GODFREY, assistant electrician at the Alhambra Theatre, who has been treasurer of the staff sick fund for many years, was the recipient the other evening of a handsome gold ring, which Mr Charles Wilson, the stage director, presented to Mr Godfrey on behalf of the members.

MR CHARLES BALLANTYNE, who was formerly many years electrician for Mr H. B. Tree, has left the Court Theatre, Liverpool, where he held a similar position, to join the electrical staff at the Coliseum. Mr George Armstrong, who was master carpenter at the Gaiety, Dublin, has been engaged to take charge of the stage in the absence of Mr Ballard, the master carpenter, the onerous duties of this position at the Coliseum having rendered it desirable that Mr Ballard should be relieved during a part of each day.

MR J. FINDLAY, who was for many years flyman with Sir Henry Irving's company, is now flyman at the Lyceum Theatre. He has not seen his way to go touring again, much to the regret of the other members of Sir Henry's staff, with whom Mr Findlay was popular. Mr W. Belcher, lately employed at the Duke of York's Theatre, has been engaged by Mr Darer in place of Mr Findlay.

A REPORT having been circulated that the American Alliance of Stage Employees would, in future, endeavour to prevent British stage employees working in America with English touring companies, Mr. Wm. Johnson, the secretary of the National Union Theatrical Stage Employees, has received a letter from the secretary of the American Alliance informing him that the statement is incorrect as regards members of the British society. They will, as formerly, be cordially welcomed. The statement, however, is correct as applied to non-members of the British society.

THE meeting of the Theatrical Carpenters' Society held last Sunday was well attended. An application for legal assistance to recover wages and payment for scenery supplied was granted. It is reported that the summonses issued to recover wages claimed from the management of Ladyland, lately playing at the Avenue Theatre, were withdrawn and the wages paid.

MR A. E. WOOD will be master carpenter at the Royalty during the forthcoming production at that house.

MR J. HILL, who was in the employ of Mr Telbin, recently met with an accident at His Majesty's Theatre and died in hospital on Sunday last. He was not a subscriber to the Sick or Funeral Fund, although a member of the N.U.T.S.E., but, having regard to the position in which his widow and children were left, the No. 1 Branch, to which he belonged, granted £5 from the Benevolent Fund, and assistance to investigate her claim for compensation.

THE Dublin Stage Employees' Club have been refused an excise licence. It is reported that the objecting inspector mistook a cork-extracting machine for a beer pump; and, as the club did not anticipate any objection, no arrangement had been made to watch their interests.

SEVERAL new members have joined the Heads of Departments Association in London, Liverpool, and Glasgow. Members are again reminded that nominations for office and resolutions for consideration at the annual general meeting should be forwarded to the secretaries.

MR G. H. CHAPMAN, who is widely known and respected as an able master carpenter, had a pleasant surprise last Saturday afternoon at Her Majesty's Theatre, Dundee. At the conclusion of the final matinée of Mr Milton Bode's Babes in the Wood pantomime he was presented by the local staff with a handsome pipe in case and an engraved tobacco pouch. The presentation was introduced by Mr Sandon Perkins, the resident manager, in a few chosen words, and was made by Mr Joseph Freeman, resident master carpenter, in a happy speech.

NOTICES and reports of meetings, &c., are invited from the various societies with which stage employees are connected.

HOCKEY.

MISS ETHEL BOWMAN'S LADIES TEAM v. COTHAM AND REDLAND LADIES ATHLETIC CLUB

Played near Clifton Downs on Jan. 20. The first-name team were without Misses C Fowler, L. Belding, and G. Leonard, owing to illness. The following were the teams:—

Miss Ethel Bowman's Ladies Team.—Miss E. Bowman (captain), goal; Miss I. Bowman and Miss E. Francis, backs; Miss G. Thomas, Miss N. Bailey, and Miss M. Stewart, half-backs; Miss M. Leonard, Miss T. Maynard, Miss L. Stephens, Miss A. Mitchell, and Miss A. Bernard, forwards.

Cotham and Redland Ladies Athletic Team.—Miss M. Fisher, goal; Miss A. Gibbs and Miss M. Hamilton, backs; Miss L. Norris, Miss L. Coles, and Miss E. Lawrence, half-backs; Miss W. Bradley, Miss K. Montgomery, Miss N. Lawrence, Miss F. Hooper, and Miss M. Burgess, forwards.

Referee, Miss E. Watson (of Bath). Result:—Miss E. Bowman's XI., two goals; Cotham and Redland Ladies Athletic Club, two goals. Misses E. Francis, M. Leonard, L. Norris, and W. Bradley scored the goals.

MR W. F. FRAME gave the toast "The Immortal Memory of Burns" at the Theatre Royal, Bolton, on Wednesday, the anniversary of "Robbie's" birth.—Mr Harry Blake (of the Two Bees) has just accepted a smart up-to-date duologue entitled The Cause of Crime, the work of Harry Adams.—Stern and Stern will shortly return to London and introduce an original number, entitled "The Slumberers," for which they are taking encores nightly in Mr John Restall's production of Cinderella.

MISS MINNIE DUNCAN AND MR ARTHUR E. GODFREY will conclude a very successful pantomime engagement with Mr Milton Bode on Feb. 11, and will open with their little coster romance, Me and 'Er, at the Oxford and Metropolitan, on Feb. 13 for one month, with all the Payne syndicate halls to follow.

AT the Regent Theatre of Varieties, Salford, this week, are the Akimotos, Japanese troupe of equilibrists; Brinn, in his extraordinary "Pastimes on a Battleship;" the troupe of dogs, monkeys, donkey, and midget pony, introduced by Alfred Barker, assisted by Miss Rozsika; the Donator, one-legged acrobats; Maud Caswell, specialty dancer and barrel-jumper; R. Judge's eccentric acrobats, the Vaudeville Trio of comedians and dancers, and Frank Hutchins.

BLACKPOOL COLOSSEUM.—
BLACKPOOL COLOSSEUM.
SEASON 1905.
The Building (which is 127ft. in diameter, 41ft. high to the eaves, and 83ft. to the Lantern) is Lighted by Electricity, and as a place for Animal Entertainments is unique, it being the only building in Blackpool that, in consequence of its being free from pillars and other obstructions, afforded the necessary height and space for Diavolo's performance of "Looping the Loop."
The Walls are covered with the World-renowned picture "Niagara" painted by the great artist Phillipoteau.
For the last eight or ten years Blackpool has been extending around and for miles south of the Colosseum in a marvellously rapid manner. Thousands of houses have been built and are occupied, and there has not been any place of Public Entertainment provided for the Masses of the People south of the Tower.
The Authorities estimate that about Four Million Persons visited Blackpool last Season.
The great Popularity of the Colosseum is shown by the fact that, although only partially occupied during a part of a Blackpool Season, upwards of 100,000 paid for Admission during the remaining part of the Season.
Offers for the 1905 Season on Sharing Terms should be made to the Undersigned, who will furnish any further information.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1905.
Once again "The Era" Almanack makes a welcome reappearance early in the Yew Year, and recounts all that has happened in the theatrical world during the past twelve months. The register of plays produced in 1904 at the principal theatres of London, Paris, and Berlin is as valuable a feature in this most conscientiously kept record as ever, and though works of great importance are seldom given for the first time in the provinces, the information supplied concerning these productions is useful to playwrights when considering the vexed question of title. To the 1905 annual Sir Henry Irving contributes an amusing reminiscence of the days in which Shakespearian productions were certainly not overloaded with superfluous detail, and Sydney Grundy gives a graphic account of the time when he was a critic. It is further embellished by a number of photographs of popular players, together with their autographs, and a specimen of their literary attainments, which are often considerable. A melancholy interest attaches to the portraits of the dramatic artists who have passed from the scene during 1904; a goodly company, headed by that large-hearted actor-manager, Wilson Barrett. On beholding a work somewhat similar to "The Era" Almanack the late Mr Gladstone remarked that he was surprised to find that so many people were professionally engaged in the theatre, and if one of our leading actors were to discover how many people are professionally engaged in politics he would, no doubt, be equally astonished.—Court Journal, Jan. 21, 1905.

WANTED, Pantomime, Feb. 27, March 6, 13. A Certainty or Guarantee will be given a Good Production.

"Cinderella" completed its allotted Six Weeks' Run on Saturday last.
Gross for Sixth Week, £517 14s. 9d.
The Farewells were intensely Enthusiastic.
Little Zola's Benefit on Wednesday and
Miss May Marton's on Friday
proved the Popularity of the Pantomime.

The Friday Evening was a Fashionable Function. Miss May Marton's Benefit was under Distinguished Patronage, and the 416 Orchestra Stalls were booked up by the Elite of Edinburgh.

Indebted acknowledgment is expressed to Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Ltd., for courteously allowing Mr Malcolm Scott and Mr J. T. Macmillan to kindly appear from the Royal Pantomime.

The departure of "Cinderella" for Newcastle, company of sixty, Ponies, and Six Trucks of Scenery and Baggage at the Waverley Station, on Sunday last, drew, say the railway officials, the largest concourse of people remembered at any theatrical company's departure.

The Grand Theatre, Edinburgh, may now be considered the established popular-priced playhouse of Edinburgh

Liverpool Daily Post, Jan 24, says:—Star Theatre, this week, is happy in the engagement of Miss Emma Litchfield and company. The piece is entitled "A London Actress," the authoress being Miss Litchfield. The play is in a mould which not only suits the patrons of the Star, but has qualities of a superior nature. The scenery and effects are very striking. . . . There is briskness movement, fun, and pathos all through, with very enjoyable results. The comic fight between two old women, in act four, goes with a roar of laughter and applause from start to finish.

IN Case of the Non-Delivery of "THE ERA" by the First Post, the Publisher will be greatly obliged if Advertisers will forward their Postal Wrappers, with the time of delivery marked upon them

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1905.

"The Era" Annual, 1905, is with us once again, and is very welcome. The usual stock features which make this Annual so valuable for reference have been compiled with the usual care, and the "incidentals" will favourably bear comparison with those of any former issue. They range from "Dundee Reminiscences," by Sir Henry Irving, to an endeavour to lay the "Foundations of a National Drama," by Mr Henry Arthur Jones.—Referee, Jan. 15, 1905.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1905.

Once again "The Era" Almanack makes a welcome reappearance early in the New Year, and recounts all that has happened in the theatrical world during the past twelve months. The register of plays produced in 1904 at the principal theatres of London, Paris, and Berlin is as valuable a feature in this most conscientiously kept record as ever, and though works of great importance are seldom given for the first time in the provinces, the information supplied concerning these productions is useful to playwrights when considering the vexed question of title To the 1905 annual Sir Henry Irving contributes an amusing reminiscence of the days in which Shakespearian productions were certainly not overloaded with superfluous detail, and Sydney Grundy gives a graphic account of the time when he was a critic. It is further embellished by a number of photographs of popular players together with their autographs, and a specimen of their literary attainments, which are often considerable. A melancholy interest attaches to the portraits of the dramatic artists who have passed from the scene during 1904; a goodly company, headed by that large-hearted actor-manager, Wilson Barrett. On beholding a work somewhat similar to "The Era" Almanack the late Mr Gladstone remarked that he was surprised to find that so many people were professionally engaged in the theatre, and if one of our leading actors were to discover how many people are professionally engaged in politics he would, no doubt, be equally astonished.—Court Journal Jan. 21, 1905.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1905

That vade mecum of "the profession," "The Era" Annual, has just made its 1905 appearance. In addition to the dramatic and musical calendar, the alphabetical list of new pieces, and other permanent features, there are some twenty-five stories by leading authors, actors, and actresses, including Sir Henry Irving, Mr George Alexander, Mr Sydney Grundy, Mr H. A. Jones, and Mr Walter Pasmore, all illustrated by photographs and autographs.—Sunday Times, Jan. 15, 1905.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1905.

"The Era" Almanack and Annual for 1905, conducted by Mr Edward Ledger, is the vade mecum of the dramatic and music-hall profession, containing as it does all an artiste desires to know in connection with the stage. A feature of the publication are the stories of adventure told by well-known artistes like Sir Henry Irving, George Alexander, Harry Pleon, John Le Hay, Constance Moxon, Walter Passmore, Fanny Wentworth, and John Lawson. Mr Henry Arthur Jones discourses wisely on the "Foundations of a National Drama." The Annual is one that will interest and amuse not only the "professional," but the general public.—Reynolds's Newspaper, Jan. 15, 1905

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDARE.

NEW THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Z. Andrews.—Mr Henry Bedford's company is here this week, delighting large audiences with Gipsy Jack. Mr Henry Bedford in the title-rôle plays capitally, and looks the part every inch. Mr John Worth is good as Mr Skinner, and he is ably seconded by Mr Alec Alexander as Gerald Skinner. Mr A. Deane Mead is an ideal representative of the Rev. Francis Harvey; Mr Sid Bedford is the cause of much amusement as Joe Banks; Miss Ada Antley acts in a praiseworthy manner as Hagar; Miss Jennie Risley does well as Jenny Huggins; Miss Bessie Bedford is all that can be desired as May Harvey; and Miss Gertrude Gilbert is charming as Dorothy Dexter. The scenery is worthy of special mention.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr Will Gregory.—The above place of amusement was opened for the first time on Monday to a crowded house. The whole arrangements for the comfort of the audience reflect great credit on proprietors and manager, and the theatre will undoubtedly prove a great boon to the public of Aberdare and neighbourhood. The star turns are Mark Anthony, who keeps the house in roars of laughter; Rangi Singa, whose mystifying tricks are loudly applauded; Hick's Clerks (six in number), great favourites; and Hanco, a handcuff expert, in some excellent feats. Pearce and Ward contribute largely to the evening's entertainment, and the same may be said of the Three Novells, with some remarkable acrobatic feats. Learto, a clever musician, and his dog Babs have a great ovation; Wisper is a comic juggler; Miss Beattie Bloom sings several songs in good style; and Miss Edie Endon, a coon vocalist, does very well indeed. Miss Olive Armdale, a descriptive vocalist, also entertains. The orchestra is under the able direction of Mr J. Carpenter.

ABERDEEN.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr H. C. Cavanah.—Mr Cyril Maude's company in Beauty and the Barge is drawing large audiences this week. Mr Blake Adams plays almost inimitably as Captain James Barley, and the heroine is charmingly represented by Miss May Fairclough. Mr Horace Lane acts briskly as Lieutenant Boyne; Mr Percival Wright and Mr Walter Pemberton have capital characters in Herbert Manners and Major Smedley; and Mr Fred Knight gives a decidedly humorous portrayal of Dibbs, the gardner; Lucy Dallas, Mrs Porter, and Mrs Baldwin are all admirably presented by Miss Mary Deverell, Mrs J. W. Braithwaite, and Mary Miss Griffiths. The comedy, which is finely staged, is preceded by the amusing one-act piece, That Brute Simmons.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—General-Manager, Mr Ernest Sheldon.—Tom Davis and Company appear with great success in a daring and sensational turn "Whirling the Whirl," and the Australian comedians Doody and Wright appear to be even more popular than last week. Miss Florence Lambert, ballad vocalist, is most cordially received, and the Robertsons make a decidedly favourable impression in a humorous sketch Scots Folk's Wooin'. The blend of acrobatism and comedy introduced by Haig and Novel proved highly popular; the Zampas are clever duettists and dancers, and Angeline shows herself to be a wonderfully dexterous equilibrist. Mr Charles Gardiner eccentric comedian, is warmly welcomed; and an exceedingly interesting turn is provided by a Canadian Indian artist. The programme concludes with an excellent display of pictures by the Palace Bioscope.

ABERTILLERY.

THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; General and Resident Manager, Mr Geo. W. Ventom.—Mr Henry Furnival's company is here in the play called The Harvest of Sin. Mr Balfour Dennistoun has scored a success in the dual-rôle of Harold and Arnold Mainwaring, Mr W. J. Butler, is very good as George Mainwaring; Mr E. Valentine is seen to great advantage as Paul De Brisionere; Mr W. Garret does well as St. John Haughley; Mr Fulton Millar is capital as Silas Logan; Miss Maggie English's rendering of Harold leaves nothing to be desired; Mr Furnival is successful as Tooties; the rôle of May Mainwaring is in the capable hands of Miss Louisa Peach. Miss Pattie Hastings is well received as Betty Spinks; Miss Alice Oliver's portrayal of Grace deserves praise. On Thursday and Friday the same company appeared in the successful play Lost in Paris.

ACCKINGTON.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. B. Ormerod; Manager, Mr J. E. Barnes.—Messrs Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company opened here on Monday with The Village Blacksmith. Mr Sam Livesey gives an excellent representation of John Strong; Captain Leo is smartly embodied by Mr J. Carter; Lucas Marler is well played by Mr Fred Wells; Mr George V. Campbell is humorous as Billy Twig; Miss Laura Walker gives a capital reading of Kate Strong; and Ruth Perkins is in the capable hands of Miss Maggie Edwards. Miss T. C. Livesey is good as Sal Perkins, and Little Christobel gives a meritorious performance as Harry Strong.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Brill; Assistant-Manager, Mr T. W. Moyes.—The strong bill provided here this week includes Mr Kavanagh, comedian; Onda and Artell, trapeze performers; the Bondina Trio; "Also," patterer and hoop roller; James Brady, comedian; Tom Franks, ventriloquist; Abel and Welch, Continental grotesques; and the Bioscope Pictures.

ALDERSHOT.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Clarence Saunes; Resident-Manager, Mr George E. Williams.—The pantomime of Aladdin even improves on acquaintance, and praise is reflected on Mr Arthur Carlton's company for their efforts. Madame Valentine's serpentine dance, mention of which was omitted last week, is gracefully executed, and that lady also trains the ballet.

ALTRINCHAM.

NEW PAVILION OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs Budd, Howe, and Taylor; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Gilman.—The third week sees no diminution of popularity in the pantomime Aladdin, encores being as frequent as during the opening week. Miss Pattie Fairley gives a very pretty song, "Jeannie," and rouses the patriotic feelings of the audience with "Britons born." One of the items that brings down the house is the song "The Sunday-school Teacher," which inevitably secures for Miss Clare Ingham a recall. The words and music are by Mr Frank Noble, the conductor of the orchestra. All the humorous incidents of the pantomime are materially changed, and the new jokes evoke roars of laughter.

AYR.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry W. Day.—Mr Arthur Hart's company opened here on Monday with the comedy opera, My Lady Molly. Miss Reynold Dallas as Lady Molly acted well, and she was well supported by Miss Annie West as Hester. Miss Enid Alexander as Alice Coverdale was appropriately vivacious and frolicsome; while her governess, Mdlle. Mirabeau, had a clever exponent in Miss Belle Gray. Mr Reginald Cooper in the part of Captain Romney was manly, and he sang well; Mr Herbert Ranson made an admirable Lionel Bland; Sir Miles Coverdale as played by Mr Gordon Begg left nothing to be desired; and full honours must be given to Mr Harry Walsh for his clever and humorous interpretation of Micky O'Dowd. A chorus of ladies and gentlemen helped to make the piece go smoothly and pleasureably, while nothing could have excelled the staging and dressing.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Fairbairn.—The stage here has been occupied this week by the Ashton Amateur Operatic and Dramatic Society, who are giving three nights to the production of Pinero's farcical comedy, The Magistrate, and three nights to Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, The Gondoliers. The object is for the benefit of the funds of the local charities.

ASHTON HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr C. Revill; Director of Entertainments, Mr F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr L. Campkin.—The leading artist here for the week is Mr George Gilbey, the popular comedian; Mr Russell Hatton gives some really clever character sketches from the works of the late Chas. Dickens; the electric wonders of the Great Marconis must be seen to be appreciated. The other artists are Cordite, rope spinner and lariat manipulator; George White's Arabs in their amusing comedy scene; Les Manipulos, Parisienne dumb musicians, in their act of mystery; and the popular Waldrons, comedy duo.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr W. Leech.—The variety company engaged here for the week includes the three knockabouts, Hill, Barry, and Lang, in their comic act "A Hot Reception." Another attractive item is the juggling act of the Three Geraldos. The Three Delarus introduce a novel act, "The Demon Grotto." Mr James De Voye introduces his educated pony; Deakin and Rankin are successful with their "Hodge-Podge of Nonsense;" Post Mason is a clever baritone singer; the Two Falcons are clever hand-to-hand balancers; Mabel La Blanche, the original singer of the popular song "Blue Bell," is well received; Veno and Pictures are also pleasing features of this week's bill.

ATTERCLIFFE.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten: Resident-Manager, Mr Claude Seaton.—Mr James Kiddie's pantomime, Little Cinderella, is paying a welcome visit here this week. In the title-rôle, Miss Florence Watson is pleasing and successful; Mdlle. De Rose is well placed as Prince Perfect; as Dandini Miss Susie Bevan has a part which just suits her, and her songs are well received; Fairy Sunbeam has a capital exponent in Miss Rose Pareezer, who has a graceful style and whose songs are given with care and finish; Miss Pollie Kiddie is a dashing Viscount Nappe; Mr W. Saunders creates much mirth as Baron Shiphtalotte, his style is quaint and his dancing excellent; Mr Charley Harvey is amusing as Pimples, his ready wit being enjoyable; the two sisters, Maud and Ethel, are in the capable hands of Mr Fred Denman and Mr H. O. Lovell, both of whom contribute largely to the general success; Mr J. H. Hawtrey makes the part of Malicio a prominent one, and renders his songs most effectively; the numerous minor parts are in good hands. Specialities are introduced in the Ballroom Scene by Houpla and Heela, acrobats; and the Stewart Quartet of dancers. The whole is under the personal management of Mr George Burton.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwards; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Lacy Lyne.—The company engaged here this week includes Steb, comedy clay-modeller; Houston Bros comedians and dancers; Beatie Worth, vocalist; the Delamere Trio, comedy equilibrists; Rosetti, transparent painter; the Sivras, Essmann, juggler; and Sam Shipley, eccentric comedian.

BACUP.

NEW COURT THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr Richard Nightingale.—The attraction here is Mr George Testo Sante's Life of a Showman. One of the foremost attractions is the special scene in the circus, in which, amongst other turns, are the Brothers Testo, acrobatic musicians. One of them, Mr J. G. Sante, gives a delightful rendering of the Intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana. In this scene also Mr George Testo Sante introduces his remarkable muscular speciality, in which he successfully holds in check two powerful cart horses pulling in different directions. As the adventuress Miss Amy M'Neill is excellent, and as Marais Mr Sam Arthur is a good exponent of villainy. The comedy parts are well sustained by Miss Alice Granville, Mr Allen Charles, and Mr Johnny Clegg as Angelina Mutton, Tommy Allthere, and Ben Tintack respectively. Two smart performances are given by Miss Warden and Master Harry Warden as Lynette Leader and Dickie.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr George Stone.—Mr Louis Calvert's company, in Sunday, is here. The title-rôle is played with rare skill by Miss Jean Sterling Mackinlay; Mr J. Edward Pearce acts admirably as Colonel Brinthorpe; and Arthur Brinthorpe is well portrayed by Mr Charles B. Vaughan. Mr Ernest A. Douglas makes a breezy and philosophical Tom Oxley; and Messrs Frederick Powell, John H. Manley, T. Norman Walter, and Whitford Kane play with successful results as Towzer, Davy, Lively, and Jacky respectively. Miss Elizabeth Watson is a vivacious Mrs Naseby, and Miss Helen Macgregor is a capable Nun.

TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi.—Aryama, the Japanese wonder, gives a marvellous performance on the slack wire; a versatile show is given by Oakley and James; and Harry Thurston proves himself a capable mimic. The Brighton Boys are a clever pair of acrobats; Will M'Ivor is heard to advantage; Beattie Lyndon, a clever comedienne; and Vernon's Bioscope complete the evening's entertainment.

BATLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr and Mrs J. Edward Whitty; Resident Manager, Mr G. M. Hurst.—The Marvellous Pardoes are paying their third return visit here this week with their comic and spectacular fairy pantomime Cinderella. The title-rôle is charmingly enacted by Miss Cissy Kedward; Miss Lottie Holland carries off honours as Prince Charming by her singing and dancing; Princess Rosella and Dandini have excellent representatives in Miss Nellie Rose and Miss Katie More; and the ugly sisters are quaintly represented by Miss Violet Rivers and Miss Ivey Leafe. Mr George Hyam causes much fun as Scoot; Miss May Burkett sings well as Fairy Rose Leaf; Mr Tom Griffitt renders some capital songs as Father Time; and specialities are introduced by the Marvellous Pardoes; Capita, living marionette; the Dome Trio of dancers, the Sultan Brothers, the Sisters Tyrell, and Zenith, animal impersonator.

BEDFORD.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter R. Wilson.—Mr C. Watson Mill's company is this week occupying the boards in the picturesque melodrama, A Wrecker of Men. Mr C. Watson Mill, who is the author of the piece, and under whose personal direction the play is produced, undertakes the difficult rôle of Jim Murley in a very capable manner. Mr J. W. Ryder submits a good impersonation of Ezekiel Isaacs. Guise Strange finds a clever and capable exponent in Mr Percy Horton. Mr Chas. Yorke is well suited to the part of Pharosaphus. Raildon is another clever character study on the part of Mr George Harvey. Mr Frank Oliver makes an excellent Hon. Reggie Verincourt. Eric Melville is pathetically portrayed by Mr Gibson Brooke. Miss Victoria May gives a sweet and womanly representation of Doris Melville. Miss Rosalind Tate impersonates with vigour the rôle of Risca Mallison. On Thursday and Friday Mr Lewis Waller's company produced Monsieur Beaucaire.

BATH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr Lewis A. Long.—Mr George Dance's company is here in the delightful comic opera The Duchess of Dantzic, the reception of which has been enthusiastic to a degree. A veritable triumph is achieved by Miss Rita Presano in the title-rôle, her excellent vocalism and powerful acting stamping her an actress of exceptional ability. Miss Alice Coverick makes a winsome Renee; duly haughty and dignified are Miss Edith Carlyle and Miss May Harris as the sisters of Napoleon; Miss Amy Burton does well as the maid, Lisette; a fine sketch of Napoleon is given by Mr Frederick Moyes, who grasps the part with a firmness and insight of the great Emperor's temperament that appeals with no uncertain effect upon the audience; Mr Mackesay Cullin plays the favoured François with an appropriate soldierly bearing, and sings his music in capital style. A former local favourite is Mr Thomas C. Maxwell, who as Adhemar has a further chance of gaining additional admirers, his fine baritone voice proving of great service in the numbers that fall to his share. The lighter vein of comedy is in the safe keeping of Mr Colin Mackay, who as Papillon adds another success to the many fine portrayals he has already given. The large chorus do their share in spirited fashion, while the local orchestra have never shone to greater proficiency than under the bâton of Mr B. J. Paterson, the musical director of the company.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr W. Trussell.—Starring here are Capt. Bevan's Gordon Highlanders, whose lightning drill act is watched with keen interest. Zarmo, the droll juggling comedian, creates endless amusement by his funny and smart tricks; Zaro and Arno retain their position as first-class performers upon the bars; Ruby Bijon, the dainty dancer, easily trips her way into the good graces of the audience; Olemart returns to entertain with his clever ventriloquial interlude; Mdlle. O'Gy proves herself a graceful and daring trapeze and ring artist; Russell and Roper in their vocal scena, The Opera Singer and the Sandwichman, gain well-deserved appreciation; and Cribb and Cribb, cross-talk comedians and dancers, complete a programme that teems with good turns.

BELFAST.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr James M'Cann; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr Wilfred Stanford.—Mr F. R. Benson and company commenced on Monday the last week of their engagement, which has been so eminently successful. As You Like It was presented, and the performance delighted a large audience. Mrs Benson captivated all with her admirable impersonation of Rosalind. Mr F. R. Benson as Orlando was very successful, and the reception accorded him throughout was of the most gratifying nature. Mr Cyril Keightley portrayed the part of the Duke with delightful finish. As Duke Frederick Mr Philip Saunders sustained the part with much credit to himself, and Touchstone was humourously played by that sterling actor Mr George R. Weir. Miss Gertrude Scott furnished a charming depiction of Celia, and one could not desire a better impersonation of Phœbe than that submitted by Miss Mabel Moore. Mr B. S. Pittar's impersonation of Adam reflected much credit on that excellent actor, and other rôles were capitally sustained by Miss Leah Hanman, Miss Cissie Saumarez, and Messrs Clarence Derwent, Saville Percy, Arthur Whitty, G. F. Hannam-Clark, J. P. Wilson, P. D. Owen, &c. On Tuesday evening (Students' annual night) The Rivals was presented before a packed house, and during the remainder of the week The Tempest has been played with every element of success.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr John P. Beardmore.—The chief feature of the bill here is supplied by the original Max Trevally-Harley Troupe of Trampolin acrobats, whose act has been received with much enthusiasm. Miss Addie Dorina, a clever actress, is appearing in an original duologue entitled How She Did It, in which she impersonates no fewer than seven distinct characters. Miss Dorina is assisted by Mr Gilbert Fernie, who fills the rôle of Peter Piper. Miss Nellie Howard and Mr Willie Collinson appear to great advantage in their absurdity, entitled The Porter and the Parcel; Payne's Little Vagabonds provide an attractive entertainment, their vocalism being first-class. Also appearing are Frank Cass, comedian; the Scandia Troupe, marvellous gymnasts; and Mr George Scott, comedian.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Brock.—The chief feature of the bill here this week is the pantomimical burlesque Early Birds, played by Fred Karno's troupe. Mendel is aptly described as the marvellous blind pianist, his selections, so cleverly rendered, being deservedly encored. The card and coin performance of Mersana is quite amazing. A clever act is furnished by Rastus and Banks, a capital duo, and others appearing are Mr Harry Martell, comedian; Mr Will Candlish, comedian; Miss Lily Currie, a charming balladist with a sweet voice; and Mr Harry M. Hemsley, in his clever imitations of children.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Henry T. Downs.—Williams and Brown head the bill, and these clever comedians have been most successful. The impersonations of Bock Pylades are very realistic, and the cultured vocalism of Mr H. K. Bradshaw is deservedly applauded. The Three Sterrys, in their original comedy acrobatism, have been enthusiastically received, and the new pictures exhibited by Welsker Brothers' Bioscope are a great attraction. The Gordons did not appear on Monday through indisposition, but Mr C. E. Stelling deputised and introduced his wonderful performing dog. A decided feature of the performance is the hat manipulation and astounding juggling feats of Friscarl. Mr Reddick Anderson, an exceedingly smart comedian, and Miss Dolly Dorsee, comedienne, complete the programme.

BILSTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—Mr Arthur Rose's company is here in The Follies of Youth. Mr Rose himself is excellent as Ralph Murdock, and is well supported by Miss Violet Macaree as Gwendoline. Both hero and heroine are in capable hands, Mr Walter Bentley consistently playing Captain Druce and Miss Laurie F. Pardy thoughtfully and carefully acting Dorothy Dornton. Mr Carter Lingford as the Colonel of the Guards is in the right place, and a sweetly pretty exposition of Little Ruth comes from Miss Bertha Hanbury. Comedy work has a fine trio of performers in Mr Fred Haming as Bob Roberts, in Mr David Beattie as Nat Thistle, and Miss Ena Russell as Kitty Hawthorne.

BOURNEMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Mr Lewis Waller's company in Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner fills the bill this week. Mr Norman Partridge plays Captain Harry Peyton in dashing style; Mr Elliott Ball portrays the cowardly Colden very cleverly; the Miss Elizabeth of Miss Essex Dane is a finished study of the high-spirited girl; some excellent light comedy is afforded by Miss Leonora Braham as Mistress Sarah Williams and Mr Harold J. Carson as Mr Valentine; and as Molly Miss Marguerite Cellier is good. The play is preceded each evening by a comedietta, entitled The Borrowed Uncle, which is excellently rendered by Mr Arthur Somers, Mr F. Cellier, jun., Mr H. J. Carson, and Miss Marguerite Cellier.

BIRKENHEAD.

THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Mr Charles Frohman's company, in Sherlock Holmes, is attracting large audiences. Mr H. A. Saintabury repeats his very successful performance of the title-rôle. Mr J. W. Stirling's interpretation of Professor Moriarty is most meritorious; Mr Laurence Leyton is well suited as Dr. Watson; and James Larabee is well played by Mr Leslie Carter. Miss Vera Longdon is an admirable Alice Faulkner; and Maud Linden is an efficient Madge Larabee. The play is carefully staged.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Mr John Tully's combination in Uncle Tom's Cabin is doing good business. As Uncle Tom Mr William Taylor scores heavily; Mr Fred G. Kay makes the most of the thankless rôle of Simon Legree; and Phineas Fletcher is popular in the capable hands of Mr H. Cecil Pierpoint. Miss Ruby Wood is a capital Topsy.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr D. J. Clarke.—The British Quartet of vocalists and glee singers present an acceptable turn; Orpheus, in his musical entertainment, is again achieving distinction; Mr George Newburn is an exceptionally clever mimic; Miss Lilian Lowe is a charming and accomplished balladist; and Mr Charles Mildare a clever siffleur. Miss Belle Braham, in her illustrated songs; Roy and Fentor, in an entertaining musical act; Mr Harry Haytor, character comedian; and the Bioscope complete the programme. Mr Ernest Denney is musical director.

BIRMINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr Philip Rodway.—The Babes in the Wood is now in its seventh week, and increases in favour. Mr Philip Rodway continues to "score" in front of the house, pleasing everybody, press and public alike.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr Henry Johnston.—The Forty Thieves has provided the "open sesame" for another great success, and the "Wales's" patrons unite in Mr Graham's praises. Mr Henry Johnston, in his well-played rôle of acting-manager, has the satisfaction born of a full house nightly, and the bookings indicate a continuance of the same.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr Victor Turner.—Dick Whittington is presented here with much success this week by Mr J. F. Elliston's company, and it is to remain for a further period of two weeks. Miss Ethel Newman acts in a sprightly manner as Dick, and sings her songs with the utmost charm. Miss Clara Reid is well endowed for the rôle of Alice, her singing, dancing, and acting being of a high order. Miss Nelly Dade as Merely Mary Ann gives a droll study of the "maid-of-all-work," and the Misses Minnie Percy, Elsie Maynard, May Russell, and Nellie Shannon shine among the principals. Mr Tom Foy contributes an extremely humorous study of Idle Jack; Mr Bert Byrne plays an unctuous rôle as the Cook; and Messrs Jack Foy, Will Musgrave, Chas. Goff, Ted Foy, and Geo. Foy also score in the pantomime. The Matweef Hugoston Troupe create a furore, and the scenery, dresses, and processions evoke much admiration.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Lester Collingwood.—Dick Whittington continues to hold its own vigorously here, there being not the slightest falling off, but rather an increase, in the attendances at Mr Collingwood's home of pantomime.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Walter Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Hindle Taylor.—Two Little Sailor Boys serves once more to introduce Mr W. H. Hallatt and his capable company to their Birmingham admirers, and the pleasure has been mutual. Mr Hallatt is accorded a brilliant reception as Captain Tom Yorke; Mr W. H. Sams is applauded for his fine impersonation of Noel Tregarthen; Mr Leonard Booker displays the ignoble qualities of Lieutenant Redstone in a clever manner; Miss Blanche Steele once more rivets attention as Lola Grey; Miss Mabel Scudamore is sympathetic as Mildred Grey; and the "two little sailor boys," Cyril Grey and Tom Yorke, are well played by the Misses May Day and Ethel Francess. The comic element is in the capable hands of Messrs O. Power, T. E. Sinclair, and Miss Lizzie Chambers, Mr Ambrose Horton shining as Jim Royston.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr Ben Sydney.—The Sorrows of Satan has formed the title of this week's fare, which is tendered by Mr C. W. Somerset and company. As Prince Lucio Mr Somerset has created a deep impression; Mr Talbot Homewood has been much admired as Paul Carruthers; Mr Richard Morton has acted in good style as Crafton Lyle; Miss Leah Marlborough as Lady Delia has shown the most artistic perception; Miss Agnes Russell as Margaret Foster has acted up to the true intent of the character; and Miss Geraldine Somerset as the Hon. Ethel and Mr Keith Frazer as Fanny play in the lighter vein with much success.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr Charles Barnard; Manager, Mr Dan Barnard.—Robinson Crusoe is the subject of the present pantomime, played by Messrs F. J. Little and Fred Darcy's company. Miss Vera Mayne as the hero has been singled out for special favour; Miss Nellie Moore has reigned in the affections of the audience as Polly; Miss Rosie Volbecque is successful as the Princess; and Miss Bertha St. Ruth appears as the good fairy, Electra. Miss Daisy Volbecque acts in a clever and vivacious way as the Captain; Mr Will Freedo enriches the production with his humorous acting as Mrs Crusoe; Mr Geo. Snow adds to the spice with his smart witticisms as Richard Hopkins; and Messrs Bass and Guinness score as Billy and Jimmy Crusoe. Some clever specialities are also included.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr A. W. Matcham.—The Coloured Meisters are proving a great attraction here, their glees being rendered with much effect. The Five Olracs, in the humorous acrobatic act, are well applauded; a clever musical turn is done by Virto and his daughter Irene; and Vesper is a capital mimic. The Trapnell Family, acrobats; Peppo's monkeys, Mdlle. Emmy's pets, Sybil St. Elmo, Walter Munroe, and Robertus and Wilfredo are also in the company.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Albert Bushell.—Lily Marney is here, and is as merry and lively as ever. A daring acrobatic act is done by the Patty Frank Troupe; Nita Clementa remains for another week; the Herald Comedy Quartet, Collins and Rice, Maud Wilton, Jack Charman, and Marie Wilton appear with success.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Mr Arthur Roberts is drawing crowded houses here this week. His sketch Where's the Count? has met with an enthusiastic reception. La Belle Wilma gives a clever and interesting sand and smoke entertainment. Other attractive turns are done by Mattie Boorum's American Quintet, T. N. Downs, Ida Ross, Starr and Jerome, Paxton Trio, A. Aldridge and Jack Haggerty in a wrestling exhibition.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Foster.—The Rossow Midgets provide an interesting boxing display here. Winona Winter and W. H. Banks are loudly applauded for their comedy sketch; as also are James' strolling players, Nellie Farrell, Ada Whitton, and the Five Bogannys.

CURZON HALL.—The Harry H. Hamilton's Excursions are drawing large houses here, amongst the variety artistes being Foo Choo, the Chinese Mystifier, who presents a clever entertainment. Mdlle. Kessanly's dogs give an interesting display of tricks, and Helen Andrews' fine contralto voice is heard to advantage. Walter Thompson adds greatly to the mirth of the audiences.

BLACKBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Harry Yorke; Business-Manager, Mr Reginald Yorke.—A Country Girl is paying a visit this week. As Nan Miss May Glen acts and sings well; Marjory Joy is played in a pleasing fashion by Miss Maud Harvey; Mr Cyril Thompson makes a manly Geoffrey Chaloner; and Mr J. Osborne causes great amusement in the part of Barry, being well supported by Miss Addie Lennard as Madame Sophie. Mr H. C. Morton appears as Sir Joseph Verity, Mr St. John Hamund as the Rajah of Bhong, and Mr Arthur Hayter as Granfer Mummery.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr E. H. Page.—Mr Gus Levaine's pantomime Babes in the Wood is here this week. Robin Hood is well played by Miss Lily Ennis; Miss Beatrice Wilson appears successfully as Maid Marion; and as Dame Durden Mr Harry Levaine is very funny. Several good specialities are introduced in the Palace scene, amongst them being Comical Cris, an old Blackburn favourite, in his ventriloquial entertainment.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr F. Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Will Murray; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Drury.—The bill this week includes Clara Victor, descriptive vocalist; Leslie Murray, magician; Dinah Morris and her troupe; the Bandurrias; Alice Loretto and her dog; Gallagher and Hild, comedy artists; George D'Albert, versatile comedian; and Martin Conway, eccentric comedian.

BLACKPOOL

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr J. R. Huddlestone.—Home, Sweet Home as interpreted by Mr Frank Lindo and company is much appreciated here this week. Mr Lindo gives an admirable depiction of Stephen Armitage; David Armitage has an able representative in Mr George Jervis; Captain Gerald Gambier presents a faithful portrait of the Duke of Ancaster; Mr Wilson Coleman is good as Lucas Lyle; and Mr Sydney Bryant is well placed as the Hon. Percy. Miss Marion Wakeford is responsible for a sweet and sympathetic embodiment of Joan, and Miss Gertrude Bingham is successful as Sybil Fay. The staging is very effective.

PALACE.—General Manager, Mr G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Waller.—Nellie Wallace tops the bill here this week, and her songs and patter are keenly enjoyed; Margaret Ashton, "the American girl," is a "good class" artist, whose tuneful singing brings forth rapturous applause; the Bros. Kroney appear in a sketch; Martinetti and Grossi are clever musicians; Charles Woodward sings well; Allis and Cassati are good comedians; and Maude Clifton is a pleasing vocalist.

BRADFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Pemberton.—The charming pantomime Cinders continues its highly successful run here, full houses being the rule.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr N. Hepworth.—With the present week Robinson Crusoe's run here will be brought to a close. On last Tuesday evening Miss Lily Black, the Pretty Polly Perkins of the pantomime, had a successful benefit.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr J. J. Kelly.—A genuine sensation is provided here this week by Seeth's lions, and the magnificent animals are put through a thrilling performance by Herr Georg Thielbar. Cline and Clark make a welcome reappearance in their smart soon dancing and comedy; Horace White, the clever ventriloquist, is repeating his unique entertainment; the Japanese box artist Kyoto is vastly clever and entertaining; a new dramatic episode, V.C., is well presented; a clever performance is given by the Cole De Losse comedians, Sinclair and Parr are capital actor-vocalists; and the Loro Quartet of musical comedians are well appreciated. Excellent turns by May Geraldine, comedienne; and by the Sisters Neilson, duettists, contribute successfully to a fine evening's entertainment.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr J. W. Berry.—There is no lack of novelty in the fine programme provided here this week. A-Ba-Be's picture post-card album is unique, and the lady who fills it does some pretty posing. Wyndham and company provide a powerful Shakespearian sketch in Prince Arthur; Stanert and Yondi provide an acceptable musical comedy turn; the Loma Trio do some Herculean feats as novelty gymnasts; Vandinoff is a clever lightning artist; Gilroy and Gross are expert dancers; the speciality turn submitted by the Two Jagos is smart; Almon does some astonishing hand-balancing and jumping; and Flo Deighton, soprano, contributes good songs.

BRIDLINGTON.

PEOPLE'S PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Morgan.—Miss Ada Wallis's company occupied the boards here the first part of the week with that amusing musical absurdity The Major. Mr A. Godfrey as Stoney proves himself a most amusing comedian, and he works hard towards the success of the piece. Mr Frank Hartley as George Goodman scores by his singing, and Mr T. C. M'Guire is a good representative of Major O'Neale. Mr Stanley Douglas is very amusing in the part of Twickham, Miss Wallis as Angelina is quite at home in the part, and her make-up as the Irish slavey and aspirant of the stage is the cause of much laughter, her singing and dancing being excellently done. Miss Alice Williams gives point to the sentimental Mrs Gampney, and as Grace Gampney Miss Ethel Poole sings and acts charmingly, as does Miss Minnie M'Quire as Hilda Marston. The National Troupe of lady dancers give some especially neat dances.

BROUGHTON.

VICTORIA, LTD.—Managing-Director and Licensee, Mr James W. Haworth; Manager and Secretary, Mr James M. Hardie, jun.—Mr J. F. Preston's company, under the direction of Mr F. B. Woulfe, occupies the boards this week with the historical play Lady Godiva. Miss Grace Lester made a good impression in the title-rôle, and Miss Georgie Walton ably assisted as Lady Aldyth. Mr Alfred D. Adams as Tom o' Coventry was seen to advantage. The evil spirits, Algar and Unwolf, were satisfactorily played by Mr Howard Barlow and Mr Clifford Marle. Mr James Duncan carefully sustained the character of Leofric, and Edgar had a fitting exponent in Mr Reginald Brown. The quaint humour displayed by Miss Madge Boulton as Elfrida and Mr Dan F. Roe as Robin Shakelbolt was very enjoyable.

BUXTON.

OPERA HOUSE.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Arthur Willoughby.—For this week we have Mr Herbert Barr's pantomime Cinderella. Mr Carl Fredericks was particularly happy as Baron Stonio, introducing a smart ventriloquial entertainment; Mr Oscar Mills and Mr Walter Langford caused some amusement as the Ugly Sisters; and Mr Paul Pry was an energetic Buttons. Miss Tessie Vandean was successful as Prince Charming, being well supported by Miss Maggie Stewart as Dandini. Miss Minnie Willett was a pleasing Cinderella, and attractive specialities were contributed by the Ya Pyn Keto Family and Madame Cordella.

BRIGHTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harcourt M. Beryl.—Miss Ada Reeve and company opened here on Monday with Winnie Brooke, Widow, and achieved complete success. Miss Reeve as Winnie Brooke displayed winsome acting, charming vocalisation, and graceful dancing. Miss Drusilla Wills gave a clever portrayal of the laundry girl, Eustacia Eglantine Honoria Brown. Mr Donald Price Evans was highly amusing as Hercules Grant; Mr Charles Weir was well suited as Dudley Mayne; Mr Frederick Tyrell as the Rev. Elihu Garside and Miss Alice Lawrence as Mrs Garside were very entertaining; and Mr Leon Ashton-Jarry as Julian Croft, Mr Edgar Stevens as Reginald Frampton, Miss Ruth Hazlewood as Nora Caswell, and Miss Cecile Beresford as Gracie Frampton added materially to the fun of the piece.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Bernhardt; Resident-Manager, Mr H. De Groot.—Mr Arthur St. George is successful in the Anglo-French song, "Hola," and in his scena, "Beck, the English Dreyfus;" Little Decima Brooke submits a pleasing plantation scene, entitled "Navaho Way;" Miss Addie Croker appears in an interesting dramatic sketch, entitled Kismet; Phil Inglis, the boy comedian and dancer, is very effective; and the entertainment is admirably supplemented by a series of excellent Bioscope pictures. In accordance with a decision of the Brighton Town Council, the theatre closes this evening.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr W. F. Crowe.—The bright and merry pantomime Little Red Riding Hood continues its successful career. The new songs, dances, and comic business recently introduced are warmly appreciated; all the artistes enter con amore into the portrayal of their respective characters, and a more amusing and refined pantomime has seldom, if ever, been produced in Brighton. At Monday's matinée 2,000 of the poorest children of Brighton witnessed the performance at the kind invitation of Mr Ernest Carpenter, who gave each of the little ones a meat pie, a bun, and an orange.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr J. L. Graydon; General Manager, Mr Ernest Lepard.—Barnard's lifelike marionettes furnish an interesting and amusing turn; Miss Fanny Wentworth, society entertainer, is highly successful in her musical sketches; Otto Schuman, an accomplished horseman, in conjunction with Miss Mona Mona, gives an excellent act with horses, ponies, and boarhounds; the Eugene Family are clever aerial gymnasts; Ena Beryl is an artistic vocalist and mandolinist; Major Moss and Son are good vocal scenic artistes; Lord, Murray, and Lord supply a good comedy athletic act, The Intruder; Mdlle. Saveray is a pleasing chanteuse; and L. B. Athol, a capital vocal comedian. The Alhambra pictures are very interesting.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford. — Leonard and Francis, eccentric acrobats, introduce a diverting burlesque bullfight; Toch and Tard, burlesque artists, afford much fun; the Irwins, tumblers, are effective in their comic act, "A Terrible Night;" Simms and Simms appear in a musical mélange with distinct success; Harry Ford, comedian—a great favourite here—is enthusiastically applauded for his comic songs; Mr and Mrs Edward H. Lucas merit unstinted praise for their enactment of scenes from the works of Charles Dickens; Barrington Foote and company submit An Incident, which includes a clever exhibition of sword-play; Miss Du Barry is a charming soprano vocalist; and Miss Vivian Dell is a clever danseuse. Animated pictures add to the enjoyment of the audience.

WEST PIER.—Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr A. D Norman.—A new series of Animatographs by Mr Alfred J. West depicting life in "Our Navy and Army" proves a great attraction here this week. The pictures are entertaining and instructive. Mr H. Covenay undertakes the part of narrator with great success, and the introduction of expressive music adds to the realism of the admirable entertainment.

BRISTOL.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Macready Chute.—On Monday and Tuesday Mr E. St. Alban's company appeared here in matinées of Alice in Wonderland. There was a large attendance at each performance. The musical dream-play was mounted with taste and liberality, and it was very nicely acted. Pleasing ballets were well presented, and the chorus of children from Philip Nolan's Training School did capital work. Alice was prettily played by Miss Ida Thompson, the young actress speaking her lines with distinctness and expression, and both singing and dancing well. The Mad Hatter was cleverly performed by Mr St. Alban, and he successfully introduced appropriate specialities. The cast included Miss Marie Clavering, Miss M. Maud, Miss Edith Alcoe, Mr S. Benson, Mr J. W. Hooper, Miss S. Sharp, Mr George Handel, Miss Madge Western, Mr J. E. Cowell, Mr L. Sandown, Miss J. Rogers, Miss M. Clements, Miss G. Clements, Mr T. Furgus, Mr F. Thompson, Miss O. Leary, and Miss L. Burgon, all making the utmost use of their respective opportunities. The Sleeping Beauty, if possible, continues to increase in popularity, as evinced by the house being full in all parts at each performance, and the morning performances on Thursdays and Saturdays are also well attended.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter. — Robinson Crusoe continues to attract first-rate houses—in fact, week by week the pantomime appears to get more popular. The company is good all round, the songs, choruses, and dances are pleasing, and the various specialities and comic business are quite up to the usual standard.

PALACE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace Livermore; Secretary, Mr F. J. V. Welchman.—Madame Ada Colley heads the programme with a very enjoyable turn; she has a remarkably clear and flexible soprano with an extended register, and sings in an expressive and artistic style. Other turns are provided by Chinko, the smart boy juggler; Miss Florrie St. Clair, a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Harry Sheldon, a tenor vocalist of ability; Jimson's well-trained dogs; Gus Barra, in a good musical act; Brothers Hersleb, eccentric acrobatic tumblers, &c., of ability; Amandus, facial mimic; Rosina, an expert and versatile instrumentalist; T. O. Callaghan, an amusing comedian; and a new series of Vernon's animated pictures. There were special attractions on Thursday evening, this being the anniversary of the opening of the Palace.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—The Six Brothers Luck are successfully appearing here in their melodramatic pantomime The Hermit; the Four Cliftons interest with their clever acrobatic work and feats of strength; Fred Hutchins is an amusing comedian; Slippere, the blind pianiste, presents a good turn, both singing and playing well; Emma and Victor are acrobatic dancers of considerable ability; Clarus Brothers are exceptionally expert as equilibrists and rolling-globe performers; Dan Llewellyn sings tenor songs in good style; and Frances Letty is a pleasing comédienne and dancer. The performance concludes with a good display of animated pictures.

COLSTON HALL.—This is the last week of Mr C. W. Poole's popular Myriorama. The attendance has been good all along, and several benefits, with special attractions, have been arranged.

VICTORIA ROOMS.—Sousa's Band gave two performances here on Monday, the attendance both morning and evening being quite up to the average.

BURNLEY.

GAIETY.—Proprietress, Mrs T. Culcen; Manager, Mr Jas. E. Culcen.—Mr Leslie Vyner's company is paying a return visit here this week with The Lightning's Flash, with renewed success. Mr Leonard Robson gives a forcible interpretation of Stephen and Colonel Merrick; Gordon Garville has an excellent representative in Mr Sydney Hearns; and Miss F. Russell-Spiers is responsible for a fine piece of character acting as Kate Merrick. Miss Eva Read worthily sustains her reputation as Lulu; Mr Harry M. Vernon fairly revels in the character of Toby Gander; and Miss Blanche Vernon makes a welcome reappearance as Selina Slack.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr W. C. Hamer.—Excellent fare is provided here this week, and crowded houses are the general rule. Barton and Ashley are evoking uproarious laughter in their comic sketches; the Bros. Bellong give a decidedly smart equilibristic performance; Bantam Hercules, a local athlete, provides an excellent turn of weight-lifting; Dainty Maggie Rimmer, coon singer and dancer, is greatly appreciated; the Donatos give an exceedingly good exhibition of one-legged dancing; the Vance Bros. meet with a cordial reception; and Charles Cranston, comedian, contributes good songs. The Empire Biograph prolongs its stay.

BURY (LANCS).

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling. — Mr E. Vivian Edmonds's company is playing The Cotton Spinner here this week. Miss Mary Austin acts excellently as Mary Prescott. Mr John S. Haydon plays well in the title-rôle. Others in the cast are Messrs E. Vivian Edmonds, E. F. Fisher, E. C. Edwards, F. Eaglesfield, Miss May Grimshaw, and Miss Bella Power, who give good impersonations.

OLYMPIA CIRCUS OF VARIETIES. — General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—The Dayton Family give a clever acrobatic performance. Stelling and Revell create much amusement with their gymnastic feats. Others in the bill include J. W. Hall, comedian; Ronald Bagnall, society entertainer; Alec Aubrey, a clever performer on silver chains; May Young, a sentimental singer; and the circus-o-graph pictures.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr W. Broadhead.—A heavy programme is presented here, including the Eight Lancashire Lads, singers and dancers; J. Wilson, bone soloist; Maud De Vena, a clever juggler; Brothers Hampson, dancers; Annie Cohen, comedienne; Stanley and Vandyke, comedians; and E. Haveley, baritone vocalist.

CAMBRIDGE

NEW THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Mr Frank Curzon's company gave on Monday the first performance here of Sergeant Brue. Mr Victor Widdicombe in the title-rôle was very successful. Mr George Barrett as Crookie Scrubbs gave one of the most amusing personations seen here for a long time. Mr E Percy Rogers cleverly played Michael Brue. Miss Violet Dene is to be highly complimented on her rendering of Lady Beckenhall, and Miss Constance Lait made a winsome Aurora Brue. Mr Cecil Burt was excellent as Mr Crank, as were Mr Arthur Stroud as Gerald Treherne and Miss Eliza Earle as Daisy.

CARDIFF.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Robert Redford.—After a year's absence The Girl from Kay's is making a reappearance in Cardiff, being capitally presented by Mr George Dance's company. Mr H. C. Barry is, fortunately, still with the company, and as Hoggenheimer proves to be the life and soul of the piece. His ludicrous impersonation of the rich financier sends the audience into boisterous laughter. Winnie Harborough is this time portrayed by Miss Nancy Hervyn, and a more graceful and charming exponent could not possibly imagined. Miss Rita Leonhardt does well as Norah Chalmers, and a pert and pretty Ellen is found in Miss Mabel Thornton. One of the funniest delineations of the piece is that of the hall porter by Mr Fred Ralph, while Mr Leslie Roy Cathie as the Hon. Percy is also responsible for much merry-making. Mr Garnet Wilson (Harry Gordon), Mr Samuel Lysons (Theodore Quench), and Mr Cameron Carr (Mr Chalmers) are all capitally suited in their respective parts. The chorus adds much to the attractiveness of the play.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Bateman; Business Manager, Mr Robert Sawin.—The boards of the King's are occupied this week by the pantomime Cinderella, given by an excellent company under the direction of Mr John Restall. Miss Annie Craig works hard and does well as Prince Charming, and is rendered able assistance by Miss Ada Lindlay as Cinderella. Dandini is pleasingly portrayed by Miss Mona Macdonald, and Phyllis is equally well acted by Miss Muriel Lochner. Mr Charles Clark (Billy Burton), Mr Harry Rose (Baron Loweralotte), and Messrs Clem Myers and Dan Idle (the two Ugly Sisters) are all comedians of merit, and are mainly responsible for the success of the pantomime. Several excellent specialities are introduced. Messrs Stern and Stern, in their amusing "Ten Minutes with the Marble Statues;" Master Rochester, the wonderful boy pianist; and the Sinclair Troupe of dancers, being exceedingly good performances.

COLCHESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr F. Graham Macdona.—A fairly full house welcomed Mr Alfred B. Cross and company in The Manxman on Monday. Mr Cross himself took the part of Pete in a realistic manner, and with Miss Minnie Watersford, who played the part of Kate Cregan with marked success, was several times called before the curtain. The difficult rôle of Cæsar Cregan was admirably portrayed by Mr Henry Heller; Mr William Burchill as Philip Christian was most acceptable. Miss Nancy Mitchell undertook the part of Nancy in a most praiseworthy manner.

CORN EXCHANGE.—On Wednesday Mr Charles Clark held one of his popular evening concerts before a very large and fashionable gathering. Miss Mabel Love, in conjunction with Mr Warren-Foster, performed a charming playlet entitled The Ordeal of the Honeymoon in her well-known style and Mr Charles Pond was deservedly encored for his humorous stories. Cazabon, the violinist, received quite an ovation, and great success attended the efforts of the boy soprano, Master J. M. Smith. A feature of the evening was the dancing by men, and selections by pipers, of the King's Own Scottish Borderers, recently arrived in garrison. Dr. Francis Gerard was responsible for some very interesting demonstrations with "The Demon Kettle."

CARLISLE.

ALGIE'S HIPPODROME.—Proprietress, Mrs P. E. Veitch; Manager, Mr C. Algie.—An excellent programme is provided for the patrons of this popular place of amusement this week. Celest, the American wire-walker and bâton manipulator, tops the bill and gives a wonderful exhibition of daring and skill, his act is received with enthusiastic applause. An original turn is provided by the Jalvans, Oriental jugglers. Smart, bright, and attractive throughout their performance, the audience would willingly see more of them. The Hannaway Brothers create roars of laughter by their comical cross-talk and their dancing brings down the house. The ever-popular Miss Fanny Robina delights her numerous admirers with several well-rendered songs; and Miss Florrie Cooper, a juvenile vocalist with a remarkably powerful and sympathetic voice, is already a big favourite. Mr Billie Bint, comedian; Armstrong, pyramid drummer and clown; and the Hippodrome pictures complete a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment.

CARMARTHEN.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Public Rooms Co.; Secretary, Mr Edward Baldwin.—On Monday and Tuesday evenings Messrs Dalton and Denver's company appeared in The Two Shoeblacks. The chief character, P.C. Smart, is taken with power and effect by the author, Mr Haldane Dalton. Miss Madge Roselle and Little Gustave perform the parts of the two shoeblacks with much pathos; Mr Douglas Campbell as Phil Ferrett, a London thief, is clever, his songs being well given and received; Mr Walter F. Glover does well as Joe Maitland; Miss Frances J. Foley is satisfactory as Joe Maitland's wife; Mr C. Dudley Saunders is amusing as Abe Skinner; and Miss Emma Sidney as Mother Stone, the lodging-house keeper, is realistic and amusing.

CASTLEFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Hy. Masterman.—Defending His Honour is being presented here by Messrs Carson and Granville's company. Mr John Davidson as Douglas Bryce is natural and self-contained; a well-acted character is the Stephen Grald of Mr Clifton Boyne, who brings out the villainy of the man with much realism; Mr Thompson Carruthers plays David Peller, and although the part is not great makes much of it; Mr J. Gilpin as George Duncan is decidedly good; the Irish part of Jack Damish is well cared for in the hands of Mr J. P. Marsden; and Mr Terry Davis and Mr Kenneth Black, jun., are responsible for the greater part of the humour as Richard Verison and his son, Dick Verison, both creating much laughter. As the heroine, Ethel Bryce, Miss F. Melrose-Millett makes a distinctly favourable impression; Miss Jessie Glenn shows a full appreciation of what is required of her as Miss Trixie Lucien; the part of Nurse Sugden finds a winsome exponent in Miss Gwendolin Talbot; and Mrs Edmond Lyons gives an excellent delineation of Mrs Theresa Verison.

CHATHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr Geo. G. Ridley.—The Cingalee company is one of Mr George Dance's, under the general management of Mr Harry B. Earle. Mr Francis Ludlow is a capital Harry Vereker; Mr Fred W. Pattrick, an old favourite here, represents Boobhamba very cleverly; Mr F. W. Ford makes a jolly old Sir Peter Loftus; and Mr George Mudie, jun., is a popular Bobby Warren. As Peggy Sabine Miss Mabel Sealby is a big success in her singing and dancing; Miss Madge Temple's Lady Patricia is a well-balanced interpretation; and Miss Ethel Negretti is a pleasing Nanoya. Mr Lauri De Frece scores all along the line as Chambhuddy Ram.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr L. B. Barnard.—Houdini, the handcuff king, is the attraction at this hall, and is not only astonishing the natives, but drawing apparently record audiences. Mr Leonard Mortimer's Combination, in The Schemers, and a variety company give good support.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr Frank J. Donne.—The Oallaw Trio are applauded for their wire act; Tom Brantford's songs and imitations amuse; the Four Jumels give a musical scena; and others in the bill are Ena Richards, the Crown Trio, Herbert Betts, the Five Ashleys, and the Edisonograph.

CHELTENHAM.

OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr H. Oswald Redford.—Mr Arthur Carlton's pantomime Sinbad the Sailor commenced a week's run on Monday. The large chorus sing with spirit. The company includes a troupe of Continental dancers, and one of the attractions is a scale-armour ballet. Miss Rita Leslie as Sinbad has a striking presence and sings many taking songs, chief of which is the tuneful "Anons." Miss Kate Holloway as Zorilda is a clever artiste, her coon dances being exceptionally good. Miss Madge Yates as Badoura made a hit with "Oh, yes, you do!" Mr L. Kerno as Bill Badeye displays a good voice in "The comic opera girl" and "Angeline;" Mr Gilbert Payne is amusing as Tinbad; Miss M. Rivington as Ferzion introduces a clever speciality dance; and the little Sisters Stewart are excellent exponents of the Terpsichorean art.

CHESTERFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr Holbery Hardy.—Messrs Arthur Carlton and H. Armitage's company hold these boards with In the Ranks, a piece which has lost none of its drawing powers. Mr Edward Lloyd well sustains the part of the hero, Ned Drayton; Miss Edith Blair-Staples gives a pathetic rendering of Ruth Herrick; Mr Herbert Cecil makes a bold villain of Gideon Blake; Miss Daisy Norman is a charming Barbara Herrick; Mr Eric Dane is good as Mr Timmins; Mr Lionel Sullivan is a typical Farmer Herrick; Messrs Arthur Palling and A. W. Chappell score as Colonel Wynter and Captain Holcroft respectively; and the comic element is in good hands.

CHORLEY (LANCS.).

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr G. T. Sante; Secretary, Mr J. Clay.—Messrs Griffin and Drake are here this week presenting their pantomime, Dick Whittington, and are to be congratulated upon the excellence of the production. Scenery and dresses are particularly striking and tasteful, and the large company is well selected. Miss Lily Jackson undertakes Dick in excellent style, Alice being charmingly rendered by Miss Emmie Hands. Alderman Fitzwarren is capitally depicted by Mr Ben Ford. Messrs Will Dennis and Mark Lane as Idle Jack and Martha Muggins are successful fun providers; Mr Jack Simpson is good as the Cat, and Mr E. Jazon capital as the Emperor. The specialities include Mdlle. Luba De Sarema in an exceptionally smart and sensational display with a bull, ponies and dogs, &c. Jazon and White are clever in their specialities; the Sisters Grosvenor are a charming trio; the Sisters Brenton are popular dancers, and the Yorkshire Mill Lasses are well received. There is a ballet of thirty children, and Mr Walter Griffin personally superintends and manages the production, Miss Beatie Drake efficiently taking charge of the augmented orchestra.

CONSETT.

NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr Lloyd Clarance.—Mr A. E. Smith's pantomime Babes in the Wood is here this week. Mr J. H. Matthews is an exceptionally good Demon King; as the Fairy Queen Miss Lily Coleman sings well; Miss Edith Wallis is an excellent Robin Hood; and as Maid Marion Miss Beattie Howard is attractive. Mr Arthur Slater as the Baron and Mr Charles Gladwell as the Dame are very funny, and as Weary Willie and Tired Tim Mr Bob Padley and Mr F. Wheatcroft are highly amusing.

CLYDEBANK.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Wilson.—These boards are occupied this week by Messrs E. H. Knight and George Denham's company with the powerful drama, The Grip of Iron. Mr Fred Powell as Simmonet, the strangler, displays abilities of a high standard. Mr Thornton Heath as the Spanish adventurer is highly successful, and so is Mr Blundell Leyton as the honest lawyer. A part worthy of special mention is Paul Blanchard, admirably portrayed by Mr George Denham; Miss Georgie De Lara makes a charming Cora, Miss Helena Walbran gives a good account of herself as Sophie, and Miss Hilda Baynon as Marie Guerin is excellent. A couple of detective parts are effectively presented by Mr Harry Agar-Lyons and Mr John Brittain. The comedy of the drama is well looked after by Mr W. Griffin, who, as the Smiler, causes much laughter.

COATBRIDGE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Mary Watson; Manager, Mr C. B. Fountaine.—The Babes in the Wood is being presented here this week by Mr Milton Bode's pantomime company, and on Monday evening the house was crowded in all parts. Miss Ernestine Desborough artistically portrays the leading boy, Prince Rupert; Miss Veronica Brady displays talent as Rose, the village beauty; Miss Elsie Morgan appears to full advantage as Tommy, as also does Miss Annie Morgan as Daisy. Mr Ernest Sefton powerfully acts Baron Blarer, Mr Frank Couch cleverly renders William Buttons, Messrs Woodhouse and Wells prove excellent comedians as Gentle George and Cheerful Charles respectively; Mr Harry Douglas is a capable Bumble, and Mrs Maria Slapp has an able representative in Mr W. P. Sheen. Specialities, which are satisfactorily rendered, are given by Miss Brady, the Sisters Morgan, and Messrs Woodhouse and Wells.

COLNE (LANCS)

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Gerald Harding.—Miss Lena Stanton's pantomime company is here this week presenting Dick Whittington. Miss Stanton is graceful as the principal boy; Miss Marie Gerrard is admirable as Alice; Mr Bruce Green as Margarina and Mr Alf Brooks as Idle Jack are very successful; and specialities are given by Little Kerno, the boy comedian; the Cecil Troupe of lady dancers; Joe Pauletti, trick cyclist; and Rynfield, in his feats of strength.

CORK.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr John Horgan.—The Moody-Manners company opened a second week here on Monday with Tannhäuser. Madame De Vere as Elizabeth gave an admirable interpretation of the part. Mr Wilson Pembroke as Tannhäuser was most successful; his rendering of "Thou Goddess of Love" was particularly good. Mr Chas. Magrath as Hermann supplied a fine performance. The Wolfram of Mr William Dever was impressive, and he sang with fine effect. Miss Toni Seiter as Venus was successful. The music of the Shepherd Boy was creditably sung by Miss D. Eshelby. Mr T. C. Fairbairn as Heinrich der Schreiber, Mr J. Alexander as Reinmar, Mr F. H. Erle as Biterolf, and Mr N. Davidson as Walther were all satisfactory. La Traviata, The Jewess, The Puritan's Daughter, and Maritana were billed for the remainder of the week. Madame Fanny Moody was not able to perform last week and part of this through having caught a severe cold in Dublin.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Henry Kemble.—The turns here include the Four Anlys, who are clever acrobats and tumblers. Harland and Rollison are pleasing musical grotesques. Lilian Neville is a vocalist whose songs are most acceptable. Denby and Dent give a comedy act in which smart dialogue and vocalism form an entertaining blend. Richard Bellong is a remarkable contortionist. Alf Levine, speciality artiste, gives a clever performance on a wire rope. Harley and Hardon are a smart pair of burlesque comedians. Mdlle. Santoi introduces her Oriental scena, The Merry Japs. Mezetti and Mora give a clever exhibition on the triple horizontal bars.

COVENTRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Wm. Bennett.—This week sees a capital pantomime, Dick Whittington, by J. Danby, produced by an excellent company under the direction of Mr Howard Hinton. Mr Harry Rennior gives a capable and finished impersonation of Idle Jack; Mr Tom Seymour is decidedly funny as Captain Bunting; Miss Kitty Phelps is charming as Dick; Miss Daisy Clements is successful as Alice Fitzwarren, her songs being much admired; Miss Maud Leonard is quite capable as Sir Roland; Miss Gracie Clements is a pretty Fairy Goodwill; and specialities are introduced with much success by Stephens and Rennior, the Sisters Clements, the Empress Quartet of dancers, and the Bowery Boys in a boxing act. Mr Harry Cardoe makes up very well as the cat.

CROYDON.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr Newman Maurice.—It's Never Too Late to Mend is the attraction at the Royal. Mr Charles East submits a fine, robust rendering of Tom Robinson; Mr Bernard Copping is good as George Fielding; Mr C. W. Standing is sincere as the Rev. Francis Eden, Mr Chas. Langley is commendable as Isaac Levi, Mr John Smithson is a forcible Mr Hawes, Mr Ernest Ruston gives a powerful portrayal of Mr Meadows, Mr Byron Douglas deserves compliments for his acting as Jackey, and Mr Herbert Williams is creditable as Peter Crawley. Miss Isa Bellington just touches the right note as Josepha; Miss Rose Ralph wins sympathy as Susan Merton, and the remaining characters are in excellent hands.

CREWE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry Taylor.—Mr Bulmer's company is paying a visit here this week with the melodrama entitled Sentenced for Life. Mr H. Lloyd as Roy Stillwell plays the hero of the piece in a manly and at times pathetic manner. Mr Richard A. Green as the Rev. Martin Orris gives a dignified and consistent rendering. As Percy M'Gentle Mr F. Zara imbues the part with much humour. Miss Florence Trevoir has found her undoubted talents greatly appreciated. The rôle of Adele Gray is well sustained by Miss M. Douglas, and Miss M. Dalby has made a suitable Lady Stillwell. Bill Sharkey is ably represented by Mr T. C. Grenville, and Henry Seekwith is ably portrayed by Mr R. De Bulmer.

DERBY.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr J. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr Charles Denley.—The Carl Rosa Opera Company is paying a welcome return visit here. On Monday Tannhäuser was the attraction. Herr Julius Walther impersonated the erring minstrel, and was as impressive as ever. The rôle of the sorely tried Elizabeth was entrusted to Fräulein Ina Tavary, a singer of repute in Berlin. She was making her first appearance in England, and, under somewhat trying circumstances, acted well her part, and proved herself the possessor of well-trained vocal powers. Other interesting features of the performance were the appearance of Mr Lewys James as Wolfram, and of Madame Augusta Renard as Venus, two altogether satisfactory assumptions. Madame Renard sang the difficult Venusberg music admirably, and equally successful was Mr James both in the Hall of Song and the peerless "O Star of Eve" in the last act. Mr Arthur Winckworth was the Landgrave, in which part his rich bass voice was heard to advantage. Under the bâton of Mr Eugene Goossens, the orchestra gave an excellent rendering of the beautiful overture, and so well did the members of the chorus acquit themselves in the march in The Hall of Song that the audience would fain have encored the number. On Tuesday, in Carmen, Madame Augusta Renard appeared in the title-rôle, and sang throughout with pronounced success, at the same time proving herself an accomplished actress. Mr E. C. Hedmondt as Jose sang with much feeling and spirit; Mr Chas. Victor gave a fine portrayal of Escamillo; Miss Lizzie Burgess as Micaela was most acceptable and has perhaps never been heard to better advantage; Mr Frank Arthur as Zuniga was in every way successful; Mr Arthur Hayes was praiseworthy as Remendado. On Wednesday Lohengrin was staged, and Faust, Rigoletto, Don Giovanni, and The Bohemian Girl were also to be given during the rest of the week.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Allan Edwardes.—Miss Marie Kendall, burlesque artiste, is making her first visit here this week, and her songs, which are rendered in good style, secure her a hearty reception. The Four Musical Palmers are again to the fore with their variety entertainment; Osai Souplessi, described as "the aerial serpent on the silver rings," is well worthy of mention; Lake Henderson scores with his character songs; Lily Martell is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Pulo, is a meritorious boy juggler; Steve M'Carthy proves himself a clever comedian; while the Bioscope with several interesting pictures terminates the programme.

DUNDEE.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Will Parker; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr Alf Ross. — The Karno Trio are at the head of affairs this week, and create great hilarity with their sketch, The Travellers' Rest. The Brothers Edgar submit a clever "patter" show, some of their gags being very original; Will Godwin, who remains from last week, repeats his success; Jean Saul mystifies everyone with his clever Indian cabinet illusion; Fred Collins is a quaint Scotch comedian; and some fine cornet playing by D. W. Watson is much appreciated. Tom Hall's nippers are a clever set of juvenile acrobats, and a marvellous exhibition of gymnastic feats is performed by the Great Vincent.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Perceval.—A thrilling domestic drama is produced here this week, entitled A Victim of Villainy. As Frank Manton Mr Walter Howe gives a vigorous impersonation; Mr Leonard Howe is clever in the rôle of Walter Leanox; Miss Rose Lehmann makes a sympathetic Mary Manton; and Miss Muriel Dean is a capital Alice Cavanagh. The comedy scenes are skilfully touched in by Mr J. F. Cox and Miss Adele Harvey.

DARLINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manageress, Mrs T. W. S. Jennings.—Messrs Fred J. Little and Fred Darcy's company is here this week with Sinbad the Sailor. Miss Lily Beverley in the title-rôle is very successful; Mr Happy Atwood as Captain Cook scores well; Mr A. G. Hart is an amusing Tinbad; Mr Fred Dobito a good Emperor; Mr Willie Black does well as Mrs Sinbad; Miss Kitty Brewster deserves mention for her representation of Zorlida; Miss Cissie Conyers as the Good Fairy sings sweetly; and Miss Flora Buxton as the Princess is seen to advantage. The Warlocks are a couple of funny comedians, and Messrs Victor Wallace, T. Warley, and Little Tim do justice to their respective parts. Specialities are introduced by the Brewster Troupe, sword experts and dancers, and the Wallys, exceedingly clever jugglers.

DONCASTER.

NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. W. Chapman.—Mr Bert Coote's company is received here with great cordiality in The Fatal Wedding. Mr Ernest Ovttrim's assumption of Howard Wilson is voted excellent; Mr Cecil A. Collins invests the part of Robert Curtis with interest; Toto is quite safe in the hands of Mr J. Carl Lyle; Miss Theresa Osborne as Mabel Wilson is extremely fascinating; Miss Beatrice Whitney plays Cora Williams in effective style; Bridget is well presented by Miss Carrie Fenton; and Miss Gladys Rose Jones, the little mother, does justice to the part.

DOUGLAS.

NEW EMPIRE THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Alfred Sugden.—This pretty little theatre, cleaned and redecorated, reopened its doors on Monday last, under entirely new management. The present lessee is Mr Alfred Sugden, of the Prince of Wales's and Imperial Theatres, London, and his policy is strong melodrama, adequately staged and conscientiously acted by a stock company. The play chosen for the première was a well-written sensational and emotional play, For England's Honour. It was received with much applause. Miss Lena Lewis as Mabel Grey displayed pathos as the wrongly accused wife, and as the Boy Sailor was most effective. Miss Marie Lisle was earnest as Stella West, and Miss Gertrude Lovell amusing as Peggy Scrubbs. Mr Robert Lena, who possesses a powerful voice and real elocutionary charm, made Lieutenant Travers a most convincing personage; Mr Ernest Percival was dignified as Captain Beresford; Mr Richard Walsh looked well and acted with vim as Gerald Tracy; Mr Frank Fox gave a clever study as Jabez West; and Mr Will Priestly was really funny as Sammy. The songs which occur in the third act were much appreciated by a large and entirely satisfied audience. There is in the winter no place of amusement open usually in Douglas, and this venture of Mr Alfred Sugden and Mr Robert Lena's should be a financial success for them, and a boon for the twenty thousand people who dwell therein.

DOVER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Limited; Managing Director, Mr F. C. Dew.—Poole's myriorama is drawing crowded houses here this week. The pictures are excellent, and a good variety programme adds interest to the evening. Miss May Fince, although suffering from a severe cold, sings well, "Good-bye little girl" proving a popular number. The Veronas, duettists and dancers, are dainty and captivating, and Mr Felix Somers, the facial king, scores in his clever impersonations. Mdlle. Orbasany's cockatoos are responsible for a clever performance; and Mr Nat Abatt as the guide and raconteur wins popularity.

DUBLIN.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Limited; General Manager, Mr Charles Hyland.—The pantomime The Sleeping Beauty, which has had such a successful season, entered on its last week here on Monday, on which occasion there was a crowded house, the performance being set apart for the benefit of Miss Dorothy L. Clark (Bellamour). Several special attractions were introduced by the members of the company.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Mouillot.—The pantomime Puss in Boots, which has entered on its second week here, is proving as attractive as on its opening night, large and appreciative audiences being present at each representation.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. W. Whitbread; General Manager, Mr Kennedy Miller.—Messrs J. K. Murray and J. M. Dawson's company is here this week with the sensational drama Driven From Home. Mr Aylmer J. Williams acts the part of Anthony Raybrook in an able manner, and Miss Kitty O'Hara is most effective as Margaret Bailie. Mr J. M. Dawson presents a well-studied Walter Hatherleigh, and Miss Ida Murray cleverly acts the rôle of the Nipper. Mr Cyril Harrison achieves success as Geoffrey Waring, and Miss Ella Sennett is seen to advantage as Laura Raybrook. Mr C. Stanhope capably sustains the part of Adam Marley, and as Barbara Ashdown Miss Gladys Murray is excellent. Mr Claremont Gaskell is capital as Jabez Thomas, and Mr Syd Grant as the outcast, Willie, Mr Clifford Spencer as John Anderson, Mr Julian Hall as David Wilson, Mr George Thompson as Parrat, Mr Waddington as Tom Mortlake, Mr Edward Turner as Dick Sanders, and Mr Wilson as Peter Pettifer are all satisfactory in their respective parts.

EMPIRE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. S. Figgis.—The Brothers Leslie, in their eccentric act, "Music Mad," hold premier position here this week, and are well received; and the vocal items of the Slaters Hayden meet with appreciation. The Korries, in their "Pot-Pourri" act, are highly successful, as are also Mueller and Coyle, variety entertainers. J. H. Milburn, comedian, is as popular as ever, and Edie Veno sings her songs in a pleasing manner. Charles Adams is a vocal comedian of no mean order, and the Burnleys, stilt performers, supply an amusing turn. Driscoll and Beattie, who remain from last week, are still scoring, and the Empire pictures are entertaining.

TIVOLI.—General Manager, Mr Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr H. A. Murphy.—Imro Fox, the comic conjuror, tops the bill here, and scores a success. The Arthur Lloyd Trio, in their amusing sketch Little Charlie; or, The Twin Sisters, are warmly applauded, and Gladys Mavius, the Canadian coon, has a host of admirers. The Sisters Lytton, operatic vocalists, meet with approval, and Ray and Leigh are a smart pair of gymnasts. G. H. Keith is a capital actor-vocalist; and A. C. Revel, electrical juggler; the Brothers Lavelle, comedy acrobats; Gracie Logan, soubrette and dancer; and Kisbey, the call boy, are also appearing with success.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr C. A. James.—The bill here this week includes Pettigrove and Sons' marionette pantomime Robinson Crusoe, illustrated songs, and living pictures.

DUMFRIES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr W. E. Potts.—The attraction for the first three nights of this week was Messrs Clift and Forster's company in Two Little Vagabonds. Mr Wolston Foster as George Thornton was a complete success. Mr Cyril Mackay was well placed as Captain Darville. Miss Elena Lonsdale as Marion Thornton gave evidence of being an actress of great ability, playing her part in a most effective manner. Miss Daisy Royal deserves credit for a clever impersonation of Barbara Scarth. Miss Francis Ferina as Dick and Miss Eva Lumley as Wally played their parts in a most realistic manner. Miss Lottie Coleman as Sister Randall, the hospital nurse, was very natural.

DARWEN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr E. L. Ormsby.—Messrs Alfred Northway and W. V. Garrod's company opened here on Monday in The Sledge-Hammer. Mr Alfred Northway and Mr W. V. Garrod as Jacob and Everard Derrick give a powerful rendering of their respective parts, and receive admirable support from Mr Charles Herberte, who capably impersonates Mathew Derrick; Mr Charles Halling, who is effective as Simon Derrick; and Mr Maxwell Davidson as Cornelius. The part of Rose Maywell is in the capable hands of Miss Bertha Kingston, who contributes some sound acting. Miss Fanny Thorne cleverly acts Martha Derrick, and Miss Ivy Ellaline Thorne as Catherine Hennis, along with Mr Frank Dallas as Sammy Shaws, No. 141, supply the fun. The fight with sledge-hammers in the last act is quite a feature of the piece.

EASTBOURNE.

DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr A. Standen Triggs.—Mr Charles Hamilton's admirable company is appearing here in Peggy Machree. To speak of Miss Marie Dainton as Peggy is to speak of a charming actress whose pretty voice and bewitching ways command the applause of a delighted audience; Miss Annie Brophie is a capital Moira; Miss Dorothy Garden a refined and subdued Emily Prior; and Miss Jenny Dawson a very pleasing Madame de la Cour. Miss Paula Von Arold as Molly uses a fine voice with excellent effect; Mr Denis O'Sullivan is a picturesque and hearty Barry Trevor, and his fine voice and artistic style make his contributions a great success; Mr Erskine Lang has a "dude" part which suits him admirably; and Mr J. Græme Campbell gives a characteristic performance as M'Dougall. Mr Marc M'Dermott is a polished Captain de la Cour; Mr Edward Fitzgerald gives a capital character sketch of the Irishman Michael; and Mr Alex. Johnstone as Sergeant Brampton sings his songs in capital style.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel Lloyd.—Plenty of variety is included in the bill offered here this week. Mr George W. Leslie and company, a clever quartette, briskly and brightly play Chums. Mr Fred and Miss Lila Lorrison as comedy artistes keep the house in roars of laughter; Miss Fifi's excellent voice and graceful figure make her a favourite as a singer and dancer; Mr Frank Seeley in his contributions proves himself an able comedian; Mr Billy Tucker punches the ball to the interest of the audience; Miss Helena Cecile earns much applause; Grove and Chalmer appear successfully in a sketch; Mr Richard Lomas gives his life-like performance as a monkey; Miss Madge Alwood is a pleasing vocalist; and the Three Bees, and the new Hippodrome pictures complete the bill.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr George Hayes.—A good variety programme is being given here this week. The great Cee-Mee Family of aerial gymnasts are heartily welcomed; M. Francis confines dexterity and cleverness in his feats with the cannon-ball, being well supported by his funny partner, Alfred; Mr Henry Moore's successful efforts at mimicry are received with hearty applause; the turn of the Moxon Family is clever and varied; Kweery's illusion and mystery quite puzzle the audience; Miss Inez Clough is a ballad vocalist of exceptional ability; Miss Flo D'Orville is a comedienne and dancer of merit; the Sisters Dixon are capable singers and dancers; Miss Nora Noble sings and dances cleverly; and Leo Lester's dogs complete the bill.

EBBW VALE.

KING'S.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; Manager, Mr Arthur Knight.—During the week Mr and Mrs William Maclaren's répertoire company appeared in Proof, David Garrick, Lady of Lyons, and East Lynne. In Proof Mr William Maclaren did well as Pierre Lorance, and Miss Lily U. Bandmann was extremely successful in the parts of Madeline and Valentine.

EDINBURGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Hollister.—Jack and the Beanstalk, like the beanstalk itself, still continues to grow—in popularity—and on Monday night a renewed hearing of the pantomime showed that it was running as smoothly and merrily as ever. Everything in the production and everyone in the cast add something vital to the general ensemble, and an admirable feature is the outstanding merit to be found in the performance of even the humblest members of the company. The ballets so well led by the talented Tiller Troupe give pleasure to a large circle, and the singing and dancing of these sprightly ladies could not be improved upon. A great favourite with the public is Master Lupino-Lane as the Young Squire, while later on in the evening his poodle dog is the very embodiment of canine sagacity and creates plenty of diversion among the little folks brigade. Another indespensable animal is Wilhelmina, the cow, so cleverly acted by Mr Harry Lupino, who is responsible for much laugter in the earlier scenes, while other parts played with plenty of spiritare Snap and Snorum, by Arthur Ricketts and Arthur Dandoe, and Smiler and Smirk, the Giant's cooks, by Griffin and Marks, who are capital acrobats. Mr George Lake Grange also fills the rôle of Blunderbore with great ability. The energetic manager, Mr John J. Lloyd, keeps things up to the mark on the stage; Mr George Burnley, master of the music, fulfils his agreeable duties as conductor with notable skill; and it is always a pleasure to see Mr Walter Hollister, the popular acting-manager—kind, courteous, and indefatigable—at his accustomed post in front.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll.—Miss Florrie Gallimore is a universal favourite, and when she tripped lightly and daintily on to the stage here on Monday the applause was loud and prolonged. With a bright budget of songs Miss Gallimore sang up to her reputation, her impersonation of a Geisha-girl being charmingly Japanese. Miss Tilly Bébé and her troupe of twelve performing lions gave a spice of excitement to the programme, and this fearless young lady's daring doings with her shaggy-maned friends evoked wonder and admiration. The Baldwin Brothers, in their unique American acrobatic act, gave a display which was as neat as it was novel, and Barrey Vox in his well-known ventriloquial entertainment, "Ally Sloper at Home," kept the audience thoroughly amused. Two tried and trusty mirth-makers were welcomed in Frazer and Mac, whose skit on a drama was funny, and whose patter was delightfully absurd. The Sisters Slater combined graceful dancing with singing and banjo playing; Geoffreys and Benson appeared in a smart and diverting duologue entitled Spoofed; Arthur Melrose whistled himself into favour; and Daisy Ray and the American Bioscope completed the company.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Eade Montefiore.—King pantomime continues his reign here, and with so splendid a Prince as fair and fascinating Miss Florrie Forde to represent him in Little Red Riding Hood it is not surprising that Mr Montefiore's enterprise should be rewarded with success. Miss Forde with her fine presence, dashing style, and well-sung catchy songs would make the fortune of any pantomime, and the manager is to be congratulated on securing so handsome and popular a principal boy. Miss Forde, who caught on so quickly on the first night, has been applauded to the echo at every performance since, and her personal triumph as actress and vocalist has been very great. Her principal songs have made a hit, and are liberally encored, the joyous and refreshing "Bull and Bush" fairly bringing down the house on each occasion. Mr Frank Dunlop is really excellent as Granny; his style is inimitable, and never fails to gain hearty approval. Mr Fowler Thatcher's Lawyer Slyfox is a perfect gem, and other parts are capitally filled by Messrs Fred Hallam, J. W. Brighten, J. E. O'Connor, and C. Brady. As the heroine Miss Gertie Gitana is very popular.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Tom Ellis.—Mr Henry Eglington's company commenced a short engagement here on Monday evening in When the Lights are Low, a four-act drama of absorbing interest by E. Hill Mitchelson. The performance was well sustained, and gave full satisfaction to a large audience. Mr Edward Heanley's representation of Guy Goldsworthy was at once careful and powerful, and Mr Tom Ronald, who played the villain, proved a first-rate Roland Goldsworthy. Miss G. Baring created a favourable impression in the rôle of Nan Christie, and Miss Cicely Desmond also made a satisfactory appearance.

COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS.—Proprietor, Mr John Henry Cooke.—Mr Cooke has a roving eye for talent, and can always be counted on to secure the best in the market, consequently there was much to interest and amuse in the programme submitted at his unrivalled circus on Monday. Taking a prominent place was a cleverly acted extravaganza, entitled A Prince for an Hour; while Miss Ernestine Rosa's representations of classical statuary remain a highly attractive item. Clever performances were also given by Onda and Leon on the horizontal bar, and the Martinettes were seen to advantage in a capital knockabout turn. "Aqua wreck" still remains the grand attraction, and this wonderfully realistic water display certainly puts the crown on Mr Cooke's record as a producer of sensations on a large and lavish scale.

EXETER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Fred Pollard; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy M. Dunsford.—A crowded house greeted the first performance in the city of the Japanese play, The Darling of the Gods, presented by Mr J. Bannister Howard's company. Mr Alfred Goddard is thoroughly at home in the part of Kara, his portrayal lacking nothing in power and finish. Miss Inez Bensusan depicts Yo-San in a manner which leaves nothing to be desired. The rôle of the crafty Zakkuri is ably filled by Mr Edward A. Warburton, to his efforts the success of the production being in no small measure due. Rosy Sky is successfully played by Miss Edith Anton Laing; Messrs Leonard Grey and Alexander Haviland both making the most of their opportunities as Saigon and Tanda Tanji respectively.

FALKIRK.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace W. Ebbutt.—Mr Charles Harrington's No. 1 American combination has held the boards and the interest of large audiences with Uncle Tom's Cabin during the week. Mr J. Carr as Uncle Tom brings appropriate dignity and repose to bear on a rather exacting part. As Phineas Fletcher Mr Charles Harrington gives an ideally life-like representation of the cool, business-like Yankee turned Quaker. Mr Guy P. Ellis as George Harris acts with freedom and ease. Miss Zerlina Zerbina (Mrs Harrington) brings the necessary dramatic power into the interpretation of the part of Cassy, and Little Minnie as Eva deserves a special word of praise for her natural acting. Miss Hettie Johnson as Eliza Harris, Miss Hero Hathaway as Mrs St. Clair, Miss Ida Fane as Aunt Ophelia, Mr Alfred Richards as Mr St. Clair, Mrs Carr as Aunt Chloe, Mr John Gibson as Mr Wilson, and Mr Fred Charles as Marks all perform their parts well. The part of Topsy finds a capital exponent in Miss Sylvia Stella, her quips and cranks and oddities keeping the audience in the best of humour. The piece is excellently staged, and in the great plantation scene the company gives ample demonstration of the wealth and variety of its talent, including as it does a number of real Negroes and freed slaves.

FARNWORTH.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell.—This week we have a visit from Messrs Polini and Melford's company in The Silver King. The title-rôle is played with excellent results by Mr H. Ford, who gives a scholarly representation. An excellent and convincing performance of the part of Jaikes is forthcoming from Mr E. George; and the Nellie Denver of Miss Lillian Bethell invokes sympathy. The play is beautifully mounted.

FOLKESTONE.

PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr Mark Blow's company in the American play At Cripple Creek is here this week. Mr Mark Blow's impersonation of Joe Mayfield is excellent; Mr Walter Thornton acquits himself well as Martin Mason; Mr Charles D. Pitt is very good as Manuel Alvarez; Mr Reginald Harley-West is realistic as Wahketah; Mr Albert Rogers as Ben White does full justice to the part; Mr Will Hook gives a capital rendering of the rôle of Reggie Harwood; Miss Daisy Carlton looks and acts well as Maggie Mason; Miss Hope Mayne as Belle Gordon is charming; Little May Douglas takes the part of Tatto in a pleasing manner; Miss Leslie Wynne gives satisfaction as Sarah Lively; and Miss Emelie Polini is all that can be desired as Ann Marbury.

GAINSBOROUGH.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton.—Mr T. Arthur Jones and company presented Life's Sweetest Sin on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Mr Jones appeared with ability as Captain Harold Marston; Doreen Rivers was well played by Miss Madge Morley; Mr Oswald Douglas supplied the villainous element as Dr. Colbrooke; and the comedy parts of Bob Tanner and Bess Grayson were amusingly played by Mr Fred Russell and Miss Dudley. Mr Cecil Clayton's Cinderella company occupied the boards for the remainder of the week.

GATESHEAD.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Bolam and Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon.—Diverting from the variety business, the management here are this week staging on the two-houses-nightly system a pantomime entitled Aladdin. It is produced by Mr Frank Macnaghten. Miss Meg Hamilton plays the title-rôle, and Princess Badroulbadour is embodied by Miss Polly Prim.

GLASGOW.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Humphrys.—The Forty Thieves continues to draw large audiences at every performance, and the striking beauty of the scenery and dresses excite general admiration. The unfortunate indisposition of Miss Annie Purcell prevented this talented lady from appearing all last week, and on Monday she was still out of the cast. The part of Ganem is now filled by Miss Pearl Lyndon, whose original part of Morgiana is taken by Miss Eva Weigh. Mr Tom E. Murray is always an amusing comedian, and as Ali Baba he is suited to a nicety, finding a valuable companion in Mr Fred Griffiths, whose Donkey is one of the hits of the pantomime. Mr George Lashwood appears with conspicuous success as Abdallah, and as Hassacre Mr Henry Claff sings and acts with his usual intensity. Cassim and his wife are a humorous couple as played by Mr Percy Clifton and Mr William Benson respectively, and in the part of Fairy Sesame Miss Annie Braddan proves herself a singer of considerable ability.

ROYALTY, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr Wm. M. Downie.—Jack and Jill continues to meet with undiminished popularity. The principals have introduced new songs, and tokens of appreciation are frequent. Miss Frances Earle as Prince Fearless repeats her old success and is a great favourite. Miss May Merry as Jack and Miss Mabel Higson as Jill are as happy as ever in song and dance. The Princess Bountiful of Miss Florence Burdett is a charming performance. Miss Jessie Templeton as Trim and Miss May Sharples as Fantine do credit to their parts. The comedians all work hard, and keep the house in capital humour, Mr Freddy French as Ginger, Mr Leslie Stiles as Baron Deadbroke, and especially Mr Harry Conlin as Dame Durden making their parts irresistibly funny. Other favourites are Miss Millie Warde, Mr Barney Dixon, Mr Walter Watson, Mr Harry Nelson, and Mr Frank Woodville.

KING'S, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr H. Macfarlane.—This is the second week of Mr George Edwardes's company in The Cingalee, and audiences both large and fashionable are crowding the theatre nightly.

ROYAL PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr Hugh Murdoch.—Goosy Gander continues its successful career, and has well earned the title of "the laughing success." The comedians, who could say like the little girl in the poem "we are seven," are eleven individually, and work together with a will to keep the audience thoroughly amused from the rise till the fall of the curtain. First comes Mr John E. Coyle, who as the Baron's silly son, Goosy Gander, is as funny a pantomime comedian as one could wish to see, while his little snatches of mock melodrama bring down the house. The amusing scene entitled "Quiet Lodgings" itself contains as many laughs as might have served for the entire evening. Messrs Regan and Ryan are a clever couple, and all their business, knockabout or otherwise, is smart and genuinely amusing. Mr Arthur Poole as the Baron keeps the incongruous elements of the character well in view, and another good impersonation is the Jenny Awthings of Mr Dawson Dewick, cleverly played on modern lines, without any semblance of exaggeration. Messrs John and George Preston ably add their quota of fun, and the first especially as the canny Scotchman forms an excellent foil to the more volatile humours of Mr John E. Coyle. All the comedians are smart dancers, a fact which the popular parts of the house are especially quick to appreciate. In the matter of a principal boy and girl the Princess's is again this year lucky in securing such a clever pair as Miss Lily Morris and Miss Daisy Dormer. Both have already made hits at this house, and as singers and dancers would be hard to beat. Miss Morris's dashing style makes her an ideal Fred Fearless, and she carries the audience easily with her, more particularly in her songs, in the choruses of which they join in with enthusiasm. Miss Daisy Dormer is a charming Rosey, and her dancing abilities are much above the average. She contributes several clever coon songs with appropriate dances, and never gets off without giving an encore. Her burlesque scena with Mr John Preston is extremely well done, and is one of the hits of the pantomime. The Sisters Cora make a lively second boy and girl, and also score in their various songs and dances. A special word is due to Miss Daisy Pavor for her clever dance in the Palace scene, and to two young ladies who assist Messrs Regan and Ryan in a cake walk.

METROPOLE, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr John Dunbar.—The New Barmaid, under the direction of Mr Alexander Loftus, is appearing here this week. A winsome impersonator of the title-rôle is found in Miss Nance O'Neil, who acts in a manner both bright and unaffected. Miss Violet Osmund submits a refreshing study of the lady journalist, her pert, go-ahead manner and her graceful dancing making her peculiarly fitted for her part. The character of Bertie White, giving great scope for individuality, is still in the hands of Mr Joseph B. Montague, who plays it with a drollery entirely his own, and in his humorous patter gets in some very clever hits. The agile and harassed-looking Frenchman is made sufficiently laughable by Mr Frank Melroyd, and Mr Alexander Loftus makes the rôle of William a highly amusing one. Mr Leslie Austin, possessing an excellent voice, sustains the part of Captain Lovebury in good style. His various songs are well received, "Will you marry me?" being specially singled out by the audience. A very diverting Colonel is played by Mr Arthur Rodney. Miss Hilda Blanche as Brenda and Miss Jean Gilmour as Lady Moulton appear with marked success. Mr Norman Bowyer is very good as Braddy, while all the lesser characters give valuable support throughout the piece.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. H. Oakden.—The Belle of New York is the attraction here this week. In the parts of Violet Grey, Fifi Fricot, and Cora the Misses Nora Hersee, Ada Elliston, and Louie Codman vie with each other in charming with song and clever dancing, and in their vocal efforts each achieves very deserved success. Miss Florence Hersee as Kissie and Mamie displays genuine ability of a varied order in two intricate, yet very similar parts. Mr Harry A. Meymott as the elder Bronson is admirable, and in Mr H. Wardroper, who sings in fine style, he has a worthy coadjutor in carrying on the "business" which falls to him and Harry Bronson. Mr Walter Emro's Polite Lunatic is well studied, as is the Blinky Bill of Mr Maurice Holmes, a sufficient of merit, who is encored for his clever whistling. Mr Walter Uridge as Kenneth Mugg is inimitable. Mr C. M. Johnston as Doc Snifkins is portly, genial, and subduedly amusing. Messrs Yeoman and Cody are excellently cast as the Portuguese Twins, and the lesser rôles are finely represented. The chorus sings with great spirit and tunefulness, aided by an augmented band under Mr Ernest Hartmann.

TIVOLI AND QUEEN'S, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr S. King Alexander; Acting-Managers, Messrs Fred C. Ewing and T. J. Colquhoun.—The programme provided at the above halls this week includes Savarvaroff, Russian wrestler, who met and defeated several local champions on the opening night; the Finneys, the well-known aquatic performers; the Abadaroffs, acrobats; Bandoni, instrumentalist; J. P. Carroll, military tambourine player; Alf Walker, Negro comedian; Lilian Rigby, instrumentalist and dancer; Marion Edwardes, vocalist; Appo, table expert; Joe Mac, comedian; Preston and Balmain, in illustrated song; Frank Boyce, character vocalist; the Two Graces, comediennes; and Bendon's Bioscope.

PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs Rich Waldon and Thos. Barraford; Assistant Manager, Mr H. M'Kelvie.—Leo Dryden is here, and his song-scenas, old and new, are highly popular, "The Miner's Dream of Home," "Garrick," and "Freedom and Japan" being included in his list. Nelson's Newsboys give a clever varied turn of song and dance. Pichel Troupe are wonderfully smart and neat acrobats. Carina Sisters contribute an enjoyable musical turn. Chas. Baron's burlesque menagerie proves as amusing as ever. Beattie Kent is a smart serio and dancer. Melaine is a neat lady wire-walker. The Bennesetti Troupe give an acrobatic and balancing display. Mollie Doon, a taking young singer; Tom Collins, comedian; and the animated pictures complete a varied programme.

BRITANNIA.—Lessee, Mr James Anderson; Manager, Mr Harry Henfrey.—The Cadona Trio top the bill here this week, appearing in their screaming absurdity, The Corsican Brothers. Cambo, the musical monkey, is also a clever turn, while the sketch entitled A Night in Ireland, interspersed with song and story (given by the popular lessee), is highly appreciated. John Lorimer, tenor, is heard to much advantage in numerous songs. Miss M. Blair, soprano, captivates the audience with her charming voice. Frank Sauterons, champion jumper, gives a capital exposition of trick jumping. The other members of the company include J. Mackie, Scotch comic; Duncan and Morton, comedians; the Britannia Bioscope; and an amateur wrestling tournament.

GLOUCESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Owners, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr W. H. Weller.—Following the pantomime we have Mr E. Oswald Brooke's company in the musical comedy The Girl from Bond-street. Miss Marie Vere as Lucy Harvey gives a neat representation, and Lottie Harvey, a variety artiste, is briskly enacted by Miss Viola Keith. Miss Maud Beard as Mrs Harvey is seen to advantage; Mr Campbell Goldsmid proves an excellent Earl of Seacombe; Mr George Watts does well as Sir George Fielding; Mr F. R. Heaton enhances his reputation as the Hon. Archie Green by his clever acting; and Miss Ivy Alberto as Edna Vanderbilk, an American heiress, with a very decided accent is successful; Mr Edward De Vere as Micky Mulvarney makes the most of his many opportunities; Miss Ethel Russell is quietly effective as Lady Fielding. The New York Quartet dance in capital style, and Mr Louis La Rondelle, who is responsible for the lyrics and music, conducts the orchestra and the chorus efficiently.

GOOLE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John E. Tomlinson.—On Monday Miss Grace Warner, supported by Mr George Gordon and company, opened here in the musical farcical comedy The Little Widow. The rôle of Mr Wilkins Potter is cleverly embodied by Mr George Gordon; Mr St. Bernard Wynton as the medical student impersonates the character with the necessary dash and go, singing his numbers in capital style; as Auguste Bonsier Mr Dan Clifford is a great success; and Mr Vynor Rayner makes a good Morton. Miss Grace Warner is charming in the title-rôle, her singing and acting proving exceptionally good; Miss Marion Fawcett is an excellent Mrs Wilkins Potter; Miss Maud Warburton sings and acts capitally as Emily Randal; and Miss Kathleen Cranston causes roars of laughter as Sophonisba. My Artful Valet was billed for Wednesday, with Mr John E. Tomlinson (lessee) in the cast.

GREENOCK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, the Executors of the late Mr Alex Wright; Managers, Messrs A. B. Wright and J. J. Wright.—Mr J. Rice Cassidy is here this week with a powerful company in The God of War and Dan, the Rake. The former piece was played on Monday. Mr J. Rice Cassidy as Dandy Donovan created much fun; Mr Frederick Biron gave a vivid portrayal of Count Cortes; Mr Stephen Crossley was an excellent Carlos Armado; Mr Frank Orchard ably filled the rôle of Rega Alvado; and Mr Joe Cuthbertson did well as Señor Armado. Mr Frank Copeland played Lord Beamer in a way that left nothing to be desired; Mr Charles Crosby was good as Marcio; and Mr Storman Wallet made the most of his opportunities as Dr. Roderigo. Miss Lillian Clare was a bright and attractive Dolly Daly; Miss Ada Roscoe was all that could be desired as Señora Alvado; and the same may be said of Miss Florence Halton as Madeline Alvado.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. L. Skivington.—This week's company here includes the Zaros (ladies and gentleman), acrobats, a clever turn; Read and Write, a first-class pair of duettists and dancers; Mdlle. Melita, a charming transformation dancer; the Hearts, expert and amusing dancers and comedians; Tell and Tell, eccentric comedians and equilibrists; Kate Gourlay, a pleasing coon singer and dancer; Mitzi, an able Japanese juggler; and Mdlle. Koët, the artist's model.

GRIMSBY.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr S. Tolfree.—The annual pantomime opened here on Monday, Messrs Dottridge and Longden's Forty Thieves being presented. It has proved an extremely entertaining show, with plenty of amusing comedy and good songs. Miss Dolly Elsworthy as Ganem made a dashing principal boy, her dancing being especially admired. Miss Lily Lonsdale was most pleasing as Morgiana, and her singing of Arditi's "Il Bacio" was one of the hits of the pantomime. The drolleries of Mr Ernie Myers as Harsarac were greatly diverting; Mr Cliff Dover was amusing as the dame, Cogia; and Mr James Danvers made a jovial Ali Baba. Miss Cissie Kingsley was an imposing figure as Abdallah. The antics of the donkey, Moketta, represented by Mr James Dubois, created roars of laughter. Mr Dubois also introduced his inimitable impersonation of a monkey. The performance of the Achmed Ibrahim Troupe of Bedouin acrobats was possibly the most popular item of the pantomime. Their skill in human pyramid building and somersault throwing is astounding. The Reed Oetzman Troupe also contributed a laughable pantomimic sketch.

NEW PALACE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Steuart Cecil.—To say that Dida has astounded the Palace audiences this week is to mildly describe the sensation caused. Lockhart's elephants are another popular turn, and Raffin's educated monkeys are also the cause of much interest. A clever display of foot juggling and equilibristic work is given by the Wartenburg Brothers; the Wynford Brothers have proved themselves smart barrel jumpers; and other turns are given by Lilieth Leyton, in a sketch, The Order of the Bath; Lauri Wylie's mimicking mannikins; Florence Gwynne, in a musical scena, "The Stage-Struck Servant;" and the Sisters Wyngrove, duettists and dancers.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwardes.—Performances by trained animals have become a feature at the Hippodrome. This week De Gracia's baby elephants have delighted audiences with their quaint performance. The trio of infantile leviathans are exceptionally well trained, and there is a distinct spice of novelty about the feats they perform. A pantomimic sketch, embracing a lot of surprise, trick, and knockabout comedy work, is given by the Revell Troupe; Kavados has given a clever display of juggling and cannon ball manipulation; and others who have contributed to the programme are Flo Melville, burlesque artiste; Chas. Beanland, comedian; the Haldyne Duo, in a comedy speciality; Fred Horsfall, mimic; and C. Hurst, ventriloquist.

GUERNSEY.

ST. JULIAN'S HALL.—Sole Lessee, Mr C. Robt. Perkins.—Mr Frank Fenton's company opened here on Monday with the domestic drama Still Waters Run Deep. Mr Fenton was consistently good as Mr Mildway; Miss Louise Vansittart deepened the impression previously made by her clever and finished embodiment of Mrs Sternhold; and Miss May Cull capably played Mrs Mildway. Mr Bellendon Clarke impersonated Captain Hawkeswood with earnestness, and the Peter of Mr F. Elton deserves special mention. At the conclusion of the performance Mr Fenton addressed the audience, proffering his thanks on behalf of the members of his company and himself for the kindly way in which they had been received.

HALIFAX.

GRAND THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—Mr Edward Marris's pantomime, Dick Whittington, which is here this week, will take rank amongst the best of touring pantomimes. It is a very entertaining show, replete with variety, and goes throughout with a merry swing. Miss Joey Preston has the name-part, and is thoroughly successful in it. Miss Mena Eckermann is a dainty and charming Alice; her songs are particularly well given, and her dainty dancing and general deportment are eminently suited to the part. Plenty of fun accrues from the work of Messrs Fred Acton, Harry Russell, W. and P. Frean, Rezene and Robini, who all deserve praise. The cat is smartly undertaken by Will Kashma. The specialities are numerous, and add to the success of the pantomime.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—A cleverly worked pantomimic and acrobatic sketch is admirably performed by the Pickard Troupe here this week; Miss Ella Shield and her quartet of dancers do a particularly smart turn of vocalism and dancing; Joe Almasio has a clever and amusing turn; Hall and Earl are very funny in their work, which of itself is very clever; Percy Hannan has a rich voice, and sings patriotic songs with power and expression; and the Sisters Desmond can always rely on a good reception in Halifax.

HANLEY.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Elphinstone.—Mr Frederick Mouillot's company is here with My Lady Molly. Mr George M'Closkie as Mickey O'Dowd shows exceptional ability. Lady Molly has a worthy exponent in Miss Beatrice Edwards. Miss Zoe Gilfillan as Alice Coverdale acts admirably. Miss Mabel Carr does well as Madeline Mirabeau. The part of Captain Harry Romney is safe in the hands of Mr Albert Chapman, and that of Lionel Bland is cleverly sustained by Mr Ernest Mozart. The rôle of Sir Miles Coverdale is in the capable hands of Mr H. Godwin Hunt. All the other characters are well portrayed.

GRAND, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr C. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr James Wynes.—Rousby's "In Paris" heads the bill this week. The show is a triumph of scenery and lighting. Arthur Reece is a refined and accomplished artist. The Hartley Wonders contribute a wonderful jumping exhibition; the Garganis, comedy acrobats, are amusing and clever; Messrs Morton and Elliott do some excellent paper tearing, and their singing and dancing are excellent; Miss Maggie Walsh sings admirably; and the Olympian Quartet vocalise well. Miss Amy Sullivan is a smart comedienne. Griff does a wonderful juggling act, and is as funny as ever. A capital sketch, My Landlord, presented by the Lavers and Lake comedy company, is much appreciated.

HARROGATE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr Cyril Fielding-Smith.—Messrs Forge and Dalton's clever company, in the pantomime of Cinderella, commenced a week's engagement here on Monday. Miss Chummie La Mara as the Prince and Miss Lizzie Primmer in the title-rôle and Miss Julie Alexander as the Page were each a great success, and received hearty applause. Mr C. T. Challoner as the Baron's Page is good; whilst Mr F. C. Brooke and Little Tony as the ugly sisters are the cause of much fun. Mr Johnny Chippendale is an excellent Baron. The speciality turns are remarkably good.

HARTLEPOOL.

EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Messrs Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; General Manager, Mr Harry Burns.—Auto Atlas is causing quite a sensation with his exhibition of feats of strength, in which he lifts by his teeth a fully equipped motor-car carrying two persons. Tom Lloyd, an old favourite, has to do four turns before his audience are content; the Brothers Ralston are successful in their song, "Blind leading the blind;" Sydney Lee gives a smart conjuring entertainment; his card manipulations are very neat; Hector and Paulus are well received in their equilibristic feats; Bertha Norwood is a dainty singer and expert dancer; and Sam Thompson's Scotch comedy is highly amusing.

HASTINGS.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Geo. H. Gaze.—On Monday Mr Samuel James's company with the pantomime Sinbad the Sailor opened a fortnight's visit here. The scenery is pretty, the dresses are tasteful, and the chorus is pleasingly notable. Miss Daisy Silcott played charmingly in the title-rôle, and her songs were well rendered. Miss Ida Katerina won much approval in song and dance. Miss Ethel Dove delighted the audience as Zoradee. Messrs Dale and O'Malley created much merriment as the Twins; the comic element was further contributed to by Mr Alfred Donohoe as Coglia Ali, Mr Dan O'Connor as Tinbad, and Mr Sid Morton as Shirsze Ali. All were quaint, whimsical, and alert. Mr Dick M'Kay's Old Man of the Sea was notable, and the harlequinade by the Sando Troupe was amusing.

HASTINGS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Master, Mr R. Turner; Entertainment Manager, Mr J. D. Hunter.—Mr Edward Neville's company are drawing fairly good houses to witness the play entitled The Sorrows of Satan. The piece is well staged. Mr Edward Neville takes the character of the uncanny Prince Lucio in a masterly manner. Geoffrey Tempest could hardly have been in better hands than those of Mr O'Connor. Lady Sybil Elton is well represented by Miss Annie Brunette. Miss Rosie Neville is smart as her sister Phyllis. Miss Violet Hammersley is natural as Mavis Clare, and Miss Lole Esmond is an acceptable exponent of Diana Chesney.

ST. LEONARD'S PIER PAVILION.—Pier-Master and Entertainment Manager, Mr Elvey Thomas.—The Kursaal orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr Val Marriott, is nearing the end of their season. They still delight the lovers of high-class music, and the concerts here continue to be well patronised.

HIPPODROME.—General Manager, Mr Harold Penny.—The artistes engaged here this week include Mr George Victor, comedian, and the comedy gymnasts the Brothers Venola, who cause great amusement by their clever performance. Miss Eily Adair is an attractive comedienne and dancer. A musical absurdity is introduced by Miss Zeta Gray, who possesses a remarkably good soprano. Mr Wal Grace and Master Hillier are associated with her in the sketch. Herr Fritz proves himself a highly gifted and quite original illusionist. The Sisters Selwin are charming duettists and dancers. The American mimic Mr Harold Hughman is well applauded. An original operetta by the M'Connell Trio is a great success.

HORWICH.

NEW PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Sandiford.—Hamilton's Excursions, after an interval of seven years, are paying a return visit, and vividly bring to mind the changes during the past few years. No longer the time honoured canvas panorama, but animated pictures (excellently presented by the Bioscope, operated by Mr Charles Ralph), provide a most enjoyable evening's entertainment. The musical numbers under the direction of Mr Felix Hamilton and the description given by Mr C. Bowen are thoroughly up to the mark. Variety is supplied by Santo in a very amusing and smart ventriloquial sketch, and Zidney in a remarkable performance of equilibrism.

HOYLAND.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Owner, Mr Arthur Carlton; Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr G. S. King.—Mr Horace Stanley's company is here in the sensational drama, The 10 30 Down Express. The author of the popular play lent valuable aid by the brisk and breezy style in which he personated Sam Wagstaffe; Lieutenant O'Malley was played with fine spirit by Mr H. T. Wood; Mr Scott Leighton gave evidence of good acting power in his depiction of James Inderwick; Mr Harry L. Day was an astute Huntley Mason; and Miss Effie Bartlett imparted grace and effectiveness to her portraiture of Bessie Leigh.

HUDDERSFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy G. Arthur.—Hilarity clean and continuous is the keynote of Mr Milton Bode's pantomime of Puss in Boots, which is here for the week. The comedians are capable and untiring. Mr Harry Bickley is crisp and effective as Dame Shortly; Mr Tommy Nelldon, a merry Miggles, is a good dancer; Mr Billy Harman's incisive style is displayed as Baron Rumphiz; and Mr Joe English imparts a diverting mock dignity to his impersonation of King Grabbus. Miss Flo Challis, an attractive principal boy, in her part of Colin introduces such popular successes as "Blue Bell" and "The Old Bull and Bush" with flattering results; Miss Orpha Paris sings with taste and dances well as Phyllis; Miss Hetty Lee is smart as Prince Rudolph; and Miss Odeyne Spark makes a very charming Princess Ivy. A distinctly clever animal impersonation is contributed by Mr Tom E. Cliffe as Slyboots, his dancing being original and well executed. Miss Essie Cregeen uses a fine, well-cultured voice as the fairy queen, Felina. Specialities are provided by the Dandinis, comedy jugglers, and the Edene Troupe of skilled acrobatic dancers. The dresses are harmonious in colouring and effective in design. The scenery, all of which is carried for the production is very pretty.

HYDE.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Joseph W. Maloney.—Mr John Walters's company is here this week in the pantomime, Cinderella. Miss Constance St. Bride makes a smart and dashing Prince Charming, and sings with artistic effect; Miss Florence Drew as Cinderella looks pretty and sings most creditably; Dandini and Flighty Flirt have two graceful impersonators in the Misses Billy and Dolly Linn, whose duets and dances are loudly applauded; plenty of boisterous fun is provided by Messrs George Reeves and T. H. Solly as the two Ugly Sisters; Mr Ally M. Benson as Buttons and Messrs Clarence and Bell, who appear in a number of rôles. Miss Vera Vizard warbles tunefully as the Fairy Dewdrop. The principal specialities are Omega, the queen of the wire, and the Onatis Troupe of Algerian jugglers, both turns being exceedingly clever. The pantomime is excellently mounted.

ILKESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr L. F. A. Rogers.—The boards are occupied this week by Mr William Greet's company in The Sign of the Cross. Mr F. B. Woulfe presents an excellent study of Marcus Superbus, and Miss Evelyn D'Alroy is a charming Mercia, both artists receiving well-earned applause. Miss Ivy Millais is deserving of the highest praise for her capital rendering of Stephanus. Miss Alma Bolton (Berenice) and Miss Cissie Carlton (Dacis) are artistes of no mean ability. Mr A. Bernhardt Turner poses well as Nero, and Miss Nellie Bonser suitably takes the part of Poppæa. Mr Frank Wood is very effective as Glabrio. Mr Charles Aldred as Tigellinus is a clever exponent, and Mr J. Wetherall scores as Lucinius.

INVERNESS.

IPSWICH.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. G. Fisk.—Mr Milton Bode' pantomime of Cinderella has been played here this week to good houses. Mr Leo Stirling makes a droll Baron Balmy; the step-daughters are grotesquely represented by Messrs J. Nolan and P. Dawson; the Prince and Cinderella are both portrayed by clever Miss Hebe Bliss and Miss Florence Beach, whose singing is loudly applauded; and Mr George Antill as the page Capers is humorous.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr Fred Barrett.—The programme arranged here for the week includes the following attractive turns:—Miss Marie York, a vivacious singer and dancer; Dan Noble and Burn, comedians; Ada Vernon, burlesque vocalist; Hooper's Poses Plastiques; Stanley Greenop, banjoist; and Berg, whose marvellous feats as a "strong man" evoke much applause.

KEIGHLEY.

QUEEN'S THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Barnes.—Messrs Mitchelson and Fineberg's company in The Traitor opened on Monday to a good house. Mr John C. Carlyle essayed the dual-rôle of Prince Rudolph and Colonel Nervi, and was quite successful. The Chief of Police (the Traitor) was played in a masterly manner by Mr Stephen Scanlan; Captain Ross was in the capable hands of Mr T. W. Hurst; Mr Frank Sutherland created much amusement as Jack Boult; Miss Isabel Hunt acted with touching pathos; Miss Ruth Shepherd scored as Zula; Miss Frances White was an excellent Countess Zicka; and Miss Hettie Senior distinguished herself as Elise Duprez.

KETTERING.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Payne.—This week we have a welcome return visit from Mr H. Swinerd's Dare-Devil Dorothy company, under the able direction of Mr J. W. Cordiner. In the title-rôle Miss Marjorie Cecil is seen to advantage, and Miss Kathleen Garnon is capable as Ruth Montrose; while Miss Nellie Harcourt is most entertaining as Judith. Mr Cecil W. Parke plays Captain Fielding in excellent style, and scores a distinct success by the able manner in which he renders the vocal numbers allotted to him. Mr Henry C. Ward as the unscrupulous Captain Dudley presents a powerful impersonation; Mr Wilfrid Carr is successful as Featherstone; and Mr W. G. Hearson as Smith and Mr Alf Stretton as Hawkins are deserving of praise. The comedy character of Silas Crump is in the able hands of Mr Arthur Verne, who proves himself a comedian of no mean ability. The clever dancing of the Sisters Blake is deservedly appreciated.

KIDDERMINSTER.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr R. C. Gudgeon, jun.—Playgoers here this week have a rare treat in a visit from Mr Edmund Tearle, supported by Miss Kate Clinton. In The Three Musketeers Mr Tearle gives a wonderfully strong rendering of the part of D'Artagnan, and Miss Kate Clinton makes a realistic Miladi. The company is strong all round, and the plays, which include Ingomar, Macbeth, and Under the Red Robe, are excellently mounted.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors, Messrs Lister Reekie and Howard Stephens.—The company here includes Van Gelder, a really marvellous conjuror, whose tricks are new; Le Warren, a ventriloquist in the front rank; and Sadie Dana, Elton Moyes, Lillie Hustler, Alice Williams, and "The Prima Donna and Tramp."

KIRKCALDY.

KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Rex Sugden.—Messrs Little and Darcy's company has been appearing here this week in The Forty Thieves. Miss Minnie Silcott is a dashing Captain of the Forty, Miss Violet Silcott a bright and smart Ganem, and Miss Marie Silcott a charming Morgiana. Hassarac and Hasadric are played by Messrs Malone and Conley in a quaint and amusing manner; Mr Will Dalby and Mr Ted Wotton are successful as Ali and Cassim Baba; Mr James Ferguson as Cogia Baba is excellent, and the Woodbee Wonders do a very smart acrobatic burlesque act. The famous Daunton Shaw Troupe of trick cyclists are exceedingly clever in their smart and interesting turn.

LANCASTER.

ATHENÆUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Hy. Wilkinson.—On Monday a well-filled house assembled to welcome Mr A. E. Smith's pantomime, Aladdin. Mr J. H. Maxwell gives prominence to the rôle of Abanazar; Mr Fred Ramsdale makes the most of the part of Widow Twankey; the Grand Vizier has a humorous representative in Mr Teddy Lennon; and as Catcho and Nabbo the Bros. Taylor work hard. The title-rôle is undertaken in a highly satisfactory manner by Miss Elsie Douglas, and Miss Kate O'Neill as the Princess is charming, her singing being a special feature. Specialities are introduced by Miss Elsie Douglas, Bros. Taylor, Miss Maud Bettison, Arnold, illusionist; Four Snowdrops, dancers; J. H. Maxwell, and Madam Helen Godfrey, the musical directress, also plays various instruments.

PALACE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs W. J. Fergusson and John Porter.—Heading the bill here this week is David Poole, ventriloquist, in a clever sketch. Percy Maye, lady impersonator, is highly appreciated, as also are the Bros. Llodge, gymnasts. Walter Payne's animated pictures, Miss Ray Ford, comedienne; Billy Richardson, stump orator; and Julian Mack, comedian, complete the bill.

LEAMINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr Harry Esden.—Mr Milton Bode's Dick Whittington pantomime holds sway here this week, and is attracting large and enthusiastic houses. It goes with an irresistible swing all through, and indeed it could hardly do otherwise with three such jovial and hard-working comedians as Mr Bob Hutt, who takes the rôle of Fitzwarren, Mr Arthur E. Godfrey, who appears as Idle Jack, and the old favourite, Mr Fred Dark, whose part is that of the "plain but interesting" cook, Matilda. Miss Madoline Rees is an altogether charming figure in the title-part, while Miss Minnie Duncan is a vivacious Alice. Little Miss Lillian Graham quite brings the house down in her dainty dances and songs as the Fairy Claribel, and Miss Florence A. White's smart embodiment of Tommy Trott appeals greatly to the audience. Mention must not be forgotten of Mr Alfred Lester (Captain Scupper), Mr Clifford Morgan (Bill Oakham), who fine voice is heard to advantage in several songs, Miss Nelly Lauraine (the Empress Fatima), Miss Janet H. Reynolds (May), and Mr Tom Gilmore, who makes a clever cat. The chorus is a strong one, and with the augmented orchestra does some efficient work; while the staging is worthy of the highest praise, the scene in the Grand Hall of the Emperor's Palace being one of the finest things of its kind seen on the local stage. The whole pantomime is produced under the able management of Mr E. H. Beaumont.

LEEDS.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr J. Richardson.—Excellent business continues to be done by The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe, new songs and new dances having been introduced with unqualified success by all the leaders.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr R. Ernest Liston.—Cinderella continues a most successful career, and a general improvement is to be noted all round. Mr Deane Tribune, Mr Harry Weldon, and Mr T. B. Fayme are the moving spirits in the way of comic business, and their efforts keep the audience in a state of continual hilarity. The ladies, ably led by Miss Olive Marston and Miss Lola Patey, are ever pleasing and attractive.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Dottridge and Longden; General Manager, Mr C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Bush.—The management here are reaping a rich reward for their commendable enterprise in getting the transference of the pantomime and company of Dick Whittington from the Borough, Stratford, for the house contains a crowded and enthusiastic audience at every performance. The piece opened for a four weeks' run on Monday, and has been voted an immediate success. Miss Carlotta Levey is at once a prime favourite as Dick, her singing and acting reaching a high plane of excellence; Miss Maude Noel is a captivating Alice; and Miss Nora Guy plays the Princess in taking style. Of the fun makers, Foreman and Fannan are much in evidence, their parts of Captain Taffrail and Ben Bobstay giving scope for many mirth-provoking encounters. Mr Ernest Rees is an amusing Dame, revelling in his many opportunities; Mr Harry Kilburn and Mr Harry Rogerson in the parts of Fitzwarren and Idle Jack are excessively humourous; Mr Johnny Fuller is a very successful Cat; Messrs Kelly and Gillette do their wonderful billiard table acrobatic business amidst general applause; and the clever Tiller Troupe of dancers are a feature.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr T. G. Mooney.—The leading attraction here for this week is Staley's Novelty Transformation Act, a remarkable quick-change musical scena. A popular entertaining turn is that of the Dandies, in vocal and instrumental tit-bits, and a most cordial reception is accorded Charles Diamond and Miss Beatrice for their fine musical act. Glee-singing by the Four Royal Welshmen is distinctly popular; that clever and artistic comedienne Miss Ella Retford again finds great favour; Frank Harwood is an actor-vocalist of ability; and another strong favourite in the vocal line, George Adams, is again appearing. The Aurora Troupe do marvellous feats in acrobatics on cycles; Leona Dare repeats her expert gymnastic feats of last week; and the bill is completed by Martin and Quigg, a clever pair of eccentrics.

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Manager, Messrs Chas. Weldon and Edgar O. Waller.—That very popular favourite Miss Lottie Lennox opened here on Monday to a full house, and received a warm and demonstrative welcome. The Landor Trio of strong men and gymnasts are an interesting feature, and the Evalos are very entertaining with comic jugglery and gymnastics. R. Judge's performing dogs are a decidedly clever lot, and Mountford and Walsh shine in comedy and speciality business. Other good turns are subscribed by Lillian, expert trick cyclist; Bob Hamilton, Scottish comedian and instrumentalist; and Flora Lumiere, the well-known serpentine and fire danseuse.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr F. W. Wood; General Manager, Mr J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr S. Jones.—Wal Pink and company lead here with a mirth-provoking farcical sketch. An accomplished vocal entertainment by Les Ruebens, duettists, is thoroughly appreciated; the Bosanquets win great favour with their smart and humorous comedy turn; Dan Conroy and J. C. Morris each score a success as eccentric comedians; the Raymond Trio of specialists also make a good impression; and further comic contributions from Fred Land complete the bill.

LOWESTOFT.

MARINA.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Ernest A. Smith.—The attraction this week is Mr Walter Melville's company in A Girl's Cross Roads, which is carefully mounted and dressed. The leading parts are powerfully sustained by Miss Hilda Beverley (Barbara Wade) and Mr Charles Franmore as John Meadows. The remaining parts are well treated.

HIPPODROME.—Miss Mabel Love, together with a number of variety artists, paid a flying visit here on Monday evening.

LEICESTER.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; Acting-Manager, Mr C. D. Leigh.—Mr C. P. Levilly's company is here in the popular comic opera, Amorelle. Included in the cast are two big Leicester favourites, in the persons of Miss Stella Gastelle, in the name-part, and Mr Eric Thorne, as Dr. Napoleon Bonaparte Crow. Both are conspicuous portrayals which evoke the highest admiration. Mr John Doran deserves great praise for his clever work as Jules; Mr Fred Seymour scores a success as Dotard; and both Mr Newton Ide as Francois and Mr Robert Fairbank as the Count are very good. Miss Kitty Cavendish plays and sings delightfully as Lesbia; and Miss Madge Avery makes a capital Marina. An attractive chorus and augmented orchestra are under the direction of Mr Harry Rushworth, and Mr Herbert Ralland is general manager for the company.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General Manager, Mr C. D. Leigh.—Mr James Willard is presenting Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company here this week in the domestic drama, The Midnight Mail. The company is a good one, and the scenic effects are a feature. Miss Mildred Carr as Nancy Brewer and Mr Fred G. Evison as Billy Brewer shine in their parts. Mr George Harvard is in every way excellent as Harry Steyne, the same remark applying to Miss Ada Oakley as Mary Steyne. Mr Alec Alves does well as Leonard Royle; Mr Arthur Gilroy as Hassan Padisha is well placed; Mr C. P. Wentworth makes a good impression as Jasper Thornleigh; and Mr Charles M'Cann is good as Donald Craig. Miss Dolly Gilroy is popular as Patty; Miss Daisy Clifford is well suited as Lady Phyllis; and Miss Jennie Weston is capital as Mrs Mildmay.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr Leonard Vidal.—A good show here includes Fred Sinclair and Gracie Whiteford, in a smart musical duologue, entitled Getting Even, in which these clever artists are scoring a success, the laughter being loud and incessant. Burke, Moller, and Teller, in the farce-comedy sketch The Professor and his Pupils, is another very popular and clever turn. The Alaskas, in their juggling and comic tumbling, prove most entertaining; Burke, Andrus, and Frisco convulse the house with their sketch, In Trafalgar-square. The Szarvasi-Ferencz Troupe of Hungarian singers, dancers, and acrobats, are well received; the Picquays score with their unique acrobatic display; John Alexander and company are responsible for much hearty laughter with their sketch entitled Troubles of a Tourist; Clown Ferreros, assisted by his dog musician and leader, gives a good turn; and the American Bioscope is again included.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Lapworth.—Jordan and Harvey, the Transatlantic Hebrew comedians, the star turn this week, give a very good turn; the Ross-Clyde comedy company have a laughable sketch, I Must Have It; Hannah and James are clever foot equilibrists; Walter Driscoll is a capital comedian; the Sisters Charnley are popular duettists and dancers; and other artists contributing entertaining turns are Ryder Davis, actor vocalist; Arthur Elvy, comedian; Rosie Cass, comedienne; and Eva Ward, burlesque artist.

LEIGH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Dewhurst.—Mr Ernest R. Abbott and company are appearing here this week with the drama, A Wife's Triumph. Mr Geo. C. Doughty does justice to the character of Frank Wilton. Mr W. H. Garbois is a powerful Ellis Jordon. Mr Edward Ouston scores as Julius Hartman. Mr Ernest R. Abbott's effective rendering of Robert Dewhurst is very successful. Mr W. H. Davis-Brown as Stubbs and Miss Constance Medwyn as Margery Crib are amusing. The part of Bessie Dewhurst is sympathetically rendered by Miss Ada Abbott. Miss Jessie Mason as Alice Wilton is also commendable. Miss Elsie Jones as Little Frank speaks her lines well.

LIMERICK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Robert Fogerty.—The Kennedy Miller dramatic company, from the Queen's Theatre, Dublin, and under the management of Mr Dane Clarke, opened a week's engagement on Monday with Mr J. W. Whitbread's new drama, Sarsfield; or, a Story of the Siege of Limerick. The title-rôle was finely enacted by Mr Robert Faulkner; as General De Gentele Mr Dane Clarke was histrionically clever; the Duke of Wurtemberg had a capital exponent in Mr Albert Sinclair; and as Terry Hogan we had the best impersonator of the true Irish character in Mr James O'Brien. The part of Lord Sinclair was cleverly acted by Mr Thomas Rooney, and as Hans Osterdam Mr Harry Richardson was very effective. Messrs Davey and Fielden successfully essayed the parts of Parrah Roach and Oing Rafferty; and as Molly Blake the acting of Miss Arnott was exceedingly clever. Miss Monica Kelly was a delightful Elly Blake; Miss Helen Forrest was a charming Lady Rose; and Lady Honor De Burgh was pathetically presented by Miss Annie Hylton.

LIVERPOOL

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager Mr M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr M Montgomery, jun.—After the close of a successful season's pantomime the popular north-end house has resumed its customary dramatic fare. Good public support has during the week been accorded to The Way of the World, played by Montague Beaudyn and Sidney Crowe's company. The work deals principally with circus life, and contains a good deal of excellent writing, several of the scenes being very striking. Miss Sidney Crowe filled the part of a lion-tamer with credit, and received cordial applause; a capital villain was portrayed by Mr Herbert Skardon; and Mr M. Beaudyn, an actor of ability, presented the part of a circus rider with satisfaction. Other artistes who afforded support were Miss Vivienne, the strong woman; Miss Irene Munroe, an equestrienne; and Miss A. Clunn, an heiress.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Coles.—Packed houses are nightly to be seen at this theatre witnessing the Original Six Brothers Luck in their pantomime, Babes in the Wood. Of course, the chief laughter-provoking parts are taken by the Brothers. Mr Fred and Mr Ernest are screamingly funny as the Two Robbers; Miss Mabel's Robin Hood is decidedly well played; Maid Marian has a pretty representative in Miss Hylda Dugdale; and Miss Mabel Danby and Miss Ray Hartley suit the parts of the Babes admirably. The chorus has been well trained, and the pantomime is well staged. Other very good turns billed are Caban, who gives a fine exhibition of animal training; Dot Stanley, a pretty dancer; Gillen, whose ventriloquial abilities are loudly applauded; and J. W. Bray, character vocalist.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Harris Fineberg; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Simmons.—After a long absence from Liverpool, the ever acceptable Lights o' London has this week been played to crowded houses at the popular Star. The company responsible is a comparatively new one, under the guidance of Mr Herbert Hollister, and despite the fact that this is only the opening of a tour, the play was given with much satisfaction. Then again the scenic effects were good. The audiences of the week received the old-time favourite with keen attention, and to artists accorded hearty greetings, those being specially honoured being Mr Hollister as Seth Preene, Mr Henry Lonsdale as Harold Armytage, Miss Jeannie Burgoyne as Bess, Mr Percy Compton as Jarvis, Miss Emilie Dawson as Mrs Jarvis, and Mr Ernest Mayne as the lodge-keeper.

QUEEN'S.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Manager, Mr Fred Granville; Business-Manager, Mr Fred L. Arthur.—A capital all-round company has this week played to large audiences the smartly written musical comedy, The New Mephisto, and the change from the customary melodrama appears to have been highly appreciated. The company engaged was Mr W. H. Kirby's No. 1 London, embracing several artistes of a high class. The chorus was numerous and powerful, and the scenery extensive and appropriate. Altogether the work was admirably presented. Mr Albert Weston, an accomplished comedian, had the rôle of Mephistopheles, and the several characters attaching thereto were given with a completeness and humour that always brought down the house. Mr Willie H. Vernon was a humorous host of the inn; the Captain Meredith of Mr Clarence Lindon was clever; Miss Nellie Burdette proved a bright and vivacious Dolly Pilgrim; and Miss Marion Armitage created great laughter with her Becky. Credit is also due to Messrs Herbert St. John and Arthur Randall as the humorous Lord Hummingtop and Major Bantam. The orchestra was largely supplemented, and the efforts of the Thalian Glee Singers proved acceptable.

EMPIRE, LIMITED.—Managing Superintendent, Mr T. A. Cook; Acting-Manager, Mr George Stratton.—The present is the last week of the Karno company of comedians, who since Boxing Day have occupied the principal position on the bill with their Saturday to Monday. Mr Nelson Jackson acquitted himself with credit as a society humourist, and told several funny tales; Mr Tom Edwards is a ventriloquist possessing rare abilities, and put in a second week, to the delight of all his auditors; Rose Archer gave a fine exhibition of mimicry; the juggling of Prince Kokin was followed with interest; and others in the programme were the Rales, Three Victorias, George Bohee, Katie Butler, and Charles Vincent.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—The charming edifice in West Derby-road, which has proved so extremely popular to the vast residential district of the eastern part of the city, has throughout the week been patronised by large audiences to witness, as usual, a capital programme. Foremost there appears the Hebburn Brass Band, winners of the £1,000 trophy, contested for at the Crystal Palace. The Yiulians remain another week with their marvellous acrobatic work; and the Arleys as trick cyclists and acrobats are very acceptable. A great deal of amusement was provided by the Phillipi Bros., with their item, "Shunting;" Charles Steuart and company present a screamingly funny farcical trifle, The Water Cure; and Gardner, Griffin, and Gardner give a neat musical sketch, entitled The Rat Catcher. Others in the bill are Lily Seville, comedienne and dancer; Maud Caswell, dancer and barrel jumper; Alfred Barker, assisted by Miss Rozsika, with their smart performing animals; and Amiel, contortionist.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr F. O'Toole.—Here this week Muldoon's Picnic, played by Mr James M'Grath's company, has been the principal item, and has created great laughter. Mr T. E. Gilbey, with his rocking ladder, has proved a smart turn; Mr Si Silvio is an accomplished skate dancer; Mr Alec Thomas, a humorous blackface comedy artiste; and others in the bill are Miss Eunice Titiens, vocalist; Mr Bill Bailey, comedian and dancer; and Mr Louis Murray, actor-vocalist.

NEW PARTHENON.—Proprietor, Mr Edwin W. Smith.—An acceptable programme has been given here during the week. At the top is Fred Lloyd and company, with a laughable trifle, The Blind Spinster, which has proved very acceptable; Baroni and Kemp are a couple of excellent quick-change artistes, their work provoking wonderment; and others are Alf Davis, comedian and actor-vocalist; Nancy Lee, comedienne; and Lydia Dudley, comedienne. The Royal Bioscope has a number of capital slides.

PADDINGTON PALACE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr J. Kiernan.—Heading the bill here this week is Mr Charles Carte with his sketch company in A Noble Brother. The work has been well received, being full of humour. Hyam Long proves himself an expert musical comedian; Doris Brookes receives warm applause for her singing; and others in the programme are Nora Bedford, impersonator; J. A. Wilson, baritone; Mamie Collins, dancer; J. Bryce Methven, elocutionist; Gertrude Holmes, contralto; and Payne Reynolds, comedian.

WESTMINSTER.—Proprietor, Mr M. Montgomery.—Verno and Voyce's sketch company in Jack Sheppard heads the bill here this week, and are well received. A clever little comedy, entitled A Bit of String, is given by the Harris L. Bell and Lilly Pearl company; Mr Gus Balsiger shows himself to be an expert trick instrumentalist and smart comedian; Agnese and Arthur Lynch, song illustrators, remain another week; and others in the bill are Barney Stuart, impersonator; Maudie Ford, comedienne and dancer; and the Two Clarkes, with their rolling globe.

HAYMARKET.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Fred Willmot.—Included in the programme presented here this week are Goggin and Davis, with their comedy acrobatic act; Darwin, who performs several tricks on the trapeze; Burton and Groves, comedians; Mr and Mrs Paul Knox, entertainers; Deller and Oxford, with a comedy turn; and J. H. Bowman, comedian.

LONDONDERRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr W. Payne Seddon.—Mr F. R. Benson's North Shakespearian company is here this week, and opened on Monday with The Taming of the Shrew. In this Mr Henry Herbert as Petruchio achieved a distinct success, and gave a fine rendering of the part. Mr T. A. Shannon as Lucentio was very successful. Mr Arthur Phillips as Grumio was decidedly good, and Mr Elphinstone made a typical Biondello. Miss Katherine Boyce played Katherine very well indeed, and Miss Christie Laws was good as Bianca. Miss Maud Garth in the small part of the Widow received a deserved encore for her singing of "Should he upbraid," in the last act. Other plays staged during the week were Hamlet, Merchant of Venice, Twelfth Night, School for Scandal, and Merry Wives.

LONG EATON.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Thomas Meakin.—Following the pantomime, Mr Geoffrey Fulton's company is here this week in The Poor Must Live. This modern drama deals with an industrial dispute, and Miss Olive Fulton figures prominently as Olga, a leader of the people. Mr Pan E. Draco carefully represents the Earl of Marswood, whose son, known as Drummond Tredegar, is well embodied by Mr Charles Francis. Miss Mary Mallalieu effectively plays the part of Dorothy Murdoch, the earl's niece; and Mr C. Brereton Borer appears with success as Clifton Manville. There is plenty of variety, including some taking vocal numbers.

LONGTON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. S. Howard.—Dr. Walford Bodie is this week favouring the district with another visit—his third—and the business is bigger than at any previous time. In his introduction of Mystic Marie for the first time here, the Doctor gives an item of absorbing interest. Before that part of his exhibition styled the "cure" several of the cases treated at his first visit—three years ago—came forward voluntarily, and expressed their great appreciation to the Doctor of the lasting effects of the benefits received at his hands. In the programme are excellent variety turns by La Petite Bella, Little Dolly Robson, Miss Helen Henri, the Sisters Lyle, Norman Mills, the De Roys, conjurors; and highly pleasing dances by the Gordon Troupe.

MACCLESFIELD.

ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr W. K. Gatley.—Miss Olga Audre's company is here this week with The Mockery of Marriage. The piece is well-staged and capitally played. Mr Winpenny enacts with success the rôle of Dick Kenyon; Mr Charles Boult depicts in manly style the part of Jack Stanley; Miss Florence Zillwood gives a sympathetic rendition of the rôle of Rose Vernham; Miss Olga Audre maintains her reputation as an actress of ability, and gives an excellent interpretation of Alva Kenyon; Mr Frank Dalton makes a good Seth Pearce; the part of Joseph Vernham is successfully performed by Mr Harold Graham; and Mr Will Skelton is admirable as Toby Wright. Mrs Sydney Halling renders valuable services as Mary Ann. Included in the play is a sensational act, in which the Four Aces are seen to advantage.

HIPPODROME. — Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Bendon.—Martino, contortionist, in his original speciality "A Nest of Vipers," astounds the audience by his marvellous feats; George Wyres is a quaint comedian in every sense of the term; Lily Turner, serio and dancer, is as pleasing as ever; and Harry Osmond, musical comedian, is making a good impression. Flo Atkins, lady concertinist, is a good turn; the Sisters Ely, duettists and dancers, come in for a good ovation; Mexican Mac, sharpshooter, is a novel turn; and also in the bill is Lillie Le Breton, lady gymnast.

MAIDENHEAD.

NEW PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr Geo. Gude.—Walter Lavalle, coster comedian, has made a great hit this week, his choruses being heartily taken up by the audience. Miss Nellie Lucrece is received with favour, and Ward and Wylie contribute an amusing eccentric comedy act.

MAIDSTONE.

CORN EXCHANGE.—Manager, Mr J. W. Beeslee.—The attraction here this week is Professor Hobart in a clever electrical show. He also effects some marvellous cures of rheumatism, paralysis, &c. Other appearing are Professor Golding, ventriloquist; Queenie Palmer, ballad vocalist; Weary Willy and Tired Tim, comedians; Chas. Dalmaine, vocalist; Louis Bans, comedian; and the American Bioscope

MANCHESTER.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr W. H. Broadhead; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead. — The quality of Mr Walter Melville's dramas invariably ensures a good attendance of the public, and on Monday at this theatre the attraction of a fresh piece, The Girl Who Lost Her Character, filled the house. Like all its predecessors, the play is well knit, sensational, and full of varied characters, all strongly defined, while the company, under the direction of Mr Douglas Bruce, have every qualification necessary to a forcible and adequate rendering. Mr Edwin J. Collins and Miss Ada Marius are excellent in the heroic rôles, and Mr Frank Adair as the villainous Caversham, supported by Miss Marie M'Auley as a London adventuress, supplies sinister interest in capital style. Other good parts are well played by Miss Ethel Bracewell, Mr Wingold Lawrence, Mr Fraser Brunner, and Miss Nellie Brunton, the humorous relief being capably provided by Mr G. Hammond Asquin and Miss Daisy Maynard.

METROPOLE THEATRE. — Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead. — Mr Arnold Bell and company, in Ben-my-Chree, are always an attraction to local playgoers, and their performance of the well-known drama rises to a really high level of excellence. Mr Arnold Bell's delineation of Dan Myirea is the central point of interest, though the strength of his performance is matched in its way by the sympathetic acting of Miss Frances Campbell as Mona. Mr Cuthbert Imree as the Governor and Mr Joe Bardsley as Hommy-Beg are notable among the remaining members of the cast.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—When a Man Hates, a drama new to local theatre-goers, is presented here by a clever company under the control of Miss Olga Audre, Mr Travis Green, and Mr Arthur Hinton. The story justifies its description as a remarkable play. It is, at any rate, highly sensational in setting and in development. Mr Arthur Hinton is seen in the part of Pietro Danelli, and is supported by Miss Leila Zillwood as Olga Gwynne. They are responsible for some very fine acting at various junctures, especially toward the close. Appreciable support is given by the remainder of the cast, notable among whom are Mr Frank Brunelle, Mr Ploens Gains, Mr Gerald Byrne, Mr Tom Taylor, Miss Marie E. Robertson, and Miss Marion Forrester. The staging is excellent.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Potasch.—A very entertaining pantomime, Jack and the Beanstalk, is presented here this week by a company under the direction of Messrs Haddon and Loader. The old story is, of course, subjected to the usual irresponsible variations, during the progress of which a number of entertaining specialities are introduced. Miss Bessie Shelley is full of "go" as Jack, and Miss Pattie Bella makes a dainty Dora, niece of the squire. Mr Jay Laurier gets some excellent fun out of his part of Silly Billy, and the same should be said of Mr Reg. Bolton as the Squire, Messrs Kydd and Kydd as the squire's flunkeys, and Mr Harry Harrop as Dame Trotter. These enliven the proceedings also with a selection of popular songs and duets. A fine transformation dance by Miss Cissie Trent, and the vocal efforts of the Cameron Glee Singers are well worthy of praise. The scenery and dresses are brilliant, and quite up to the elaborate requirements of pantomime.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Manager Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead. Leo Tell, who as a sound mimic is second to none, tops the bill here this week, and provides a most entertaining turn. Very pleasing also are the Brontes, who cause much merriment with their Saucy Maud sketch. The Vyponds render their songs in good style, and prove very popular. Sandy and Carl dance exceedingly well, and have some amusing patter. Other items are provided by Oswald, in a meritorious hand-balancing act; Duncan, a very clever club manipulator; Mdlle. Yetta, in graceful and novel wire act; Ralston and Francis, in a musical nautical scena; Wilfred, contortionist, who sets the laws of anatomy at defiance; and Charles Summers, comedian. Animated pictures complete QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—A capital sketch, Fun in a Drawing-room, contributed by Curtis Leo and his Black Piccaninnies, is one of the attractions this week. Sylvesto, lady contortionist, is the possessor of a most supple body; Stidder gives an eccentric performance, introducing imitations on musical instruments; and Hall, the mimic, faithfully reproduces farmyard sounds. Wirson is an equilibrist of merit; Alfred Seigel, who claims to be the champion middle-weight wrestler of the world, shows much talent; and Emmie White sings and dances well. Other items of interest are the Three Romas, gladiatorial acrobats; Little Dando, eccentric comedian, and Leon Rolfe, ventriloquist.

TIVOLI. — Managing Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr Arthur B. Wilkes.—G. W. Hunter, the well-known comedian, provides a much-appreciated turn here this week, has some funny stories to tell, and makes a hit with his song, "We're getting more enlightened every day.' The Stavordale Quintet, as usual, create a good impression with their delightful musical performance on the banjos and harp. La Belle Unita and Paul appear in an effective gymnastic act; the Three Sisters Collins are first-rate comediennes and dancers; and highly amusing are Tee and Tee, musical eccentrics. The Brothers Esdale are smart comedians; Blake, Cohen, and Elsie Page are most entertaining; Poppy Williams is a dashing comedienne who sings two songs; Mabel Clifford, comedienne, is very pleasing; and the Three Sisters Kay are refined comediennes.

EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Will Collins. — Considerable laughter follows the efforts of Mark Melford and company, in a bright sketch Black and White; and of Frank Gerald and company in a farcical sketch A Breach of Promise. An exceptionally good turn is that of the Max Welson Four, whose performance on the hanging ropes is clever, highly finished, and artistic. The Llewelyns, Australian operatic vocalists, are deservedly applauded; Keno, Welch, and Montrose are clever comedy acrobats; and the Resaas Trio, acrobats and equilibrists, have some decidedly novel and original business. An enjoyable turn is Llo Lill, who sings "Navahoe," with an effective dance added, and "Bedella," with burlesque pictures. The Brothers Pueblo meet with a hearty reception, their dancing being particularly good; Milner Verren, vocalist, pleases with his song "The Playground in the Sky;" and capital films are shown by the American Bioscope.

GRAND.—Lessees, Messrs Thomas Barrasford and Will Siey; Manager, Mr H. C. Arnold, jun.—Chapender, the great illusionist, heads the bill this week, and successfully mystifies the audience with a series of excellent tricks. Delightfully entertaining are King and Delane in their comedy act, with good patter and songs; De Marse presents a novel and effective shooting act; the Three Henriques are clever and amusing acrobats; and Wallace Whitney, eccentric comedian, sings two songs, and is well received. Other enjoyable items are Jennie Reeve, comedian; Beatie Foster, serio; Bessie Lind, comedienne and dancer; Reklaw, rolling globe performer; Comical Walker, with acrobatic nippers; and a series of animated pictures. A complimentary benefit to the genial manager, Mr H. C. Arnold, jun., was given last (Friday) night, when a special programme was gone through.

PALACE — Manager and Secretary, Mr P. Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr J. H. Stringer.—The Boissets are again to the front, and are this week presenting, with decided success, their amusing and realistic sketch Wild West. Apollo, an ideal athlete, gives his artistic strength performance, and offers £10 to the local man who can carry off the stage a sack of flour weighing over 280lbs. Ethel May is a pleasing comedienne with a good voice, and is also a graceful dancer. Professor Thornbury, the lightning cartoonist, is well received; Tambo and Tambo are clever tambourine manipulators; the Brothers Ashley appear in a funny sketch Next, Please; and Harry Clifford, comedian, and Lulu Gould, comedienne, contribute a song each. A popular selection by the orchestra—second to none in Manchester—and an excellent series of animated pictures complete.

MANCHESTER HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr E. P. Morgan.—The novel naval spectacle, The Bombardment of Port Arthur, remains in the bill here, and is likely to prove a big attraction. Besides this there are several excellent items in the current programme. The Klein Family are exceptionally good trick cyclists, their performance including some sensational and original feats. Considerable humour is added by a really funny coloured juvenile, who, besides being full of the quaintest antics, is wonderfully clever. Eugen Marrder, with special diabolical music, introduces his highly trained horse in an apparent sheet of flames. Subsequently the horse executes several dances in a surprising fashion. Grais's baboon prodigies, including Diavolio, the loop cycling baboon, is another instance of animal training, and is a well-received turn. Remarkably clever are the Two Butterflies, juvenile gymnasts, in a neat performance. Datas proves himself a man of marvellous memory; Alburtus and Bartram know all there is to know in the club juggling line; Fox and Melville are popular; and "Daddy" (illustrated song) is pleasingly rendered by the choristers. The Bioscope shows some realistic pictures.

MARGATE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr F. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr C. F. Bawtree.—For three nights, commencing on Monday, Mr Charles Macdona's company appeared with great success in the musical play Three Little Maids. The singing has been excellent, and the dancing particularly good. Miss Vera Vallis, Miss Nellie Groves, and Miss Mabel Lavelle were charming as Ada, Hilda, and Edna Branscombe, their vivacity being infectious. Madame Ilma Norina made a pleasing Lady St. Mallory, and Miss Laura Wright was a very capable Gretchen, her singing and dancing winning for her repeated applause. Miss Mabel Sarl was excellent as Miss Price, and the Misses N. Cunningham, Gertrude Luiche, and Evelyn Hardy were well placed as the protégées of Lady St. Mallory. Mr Arthur Longley gave prominence to the part of Lord Cheyne, acquitting himself well and Mr Edgar K. Favelle made the most of Brian Molyneux, his singing being effective. Mr Gus Oxley was vivacious as Cupid, the caddie, his really clever dancing evoking much applause. Mr W. Piercy Morgan was good as the Rev. Mr Branscombe, and Mr Jules Charmettes was capital as M. De L'Orme, his well-executed 'cello solo being much appreciated.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr E. Macknight; Business-Manager, Mr Chas. E. Hardy.—During the week Mr Horace Moseley's company has been appearing in the comedy-drama Parson Thorn. Mr Ormonde G. Smethurst has played to distinct advantage in the title-rôle of the Rev. John Thorn, M.A., and Miss Clara Knowles has been excellent in Miss Dorothy Thoroughgood. Miss Jessie Chandler has played Lady Maud Dashwood with the necessary spice of wickedness; and Mr Jack Haughton has put in some good work as Sir Geoffrey Dashwood. Mr Herbert Wilson as Paddy O'Quirk and Miss Mollie George as Dotsy Doddles have made the representation bright withcomedy, songs, and dances.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Will Smithson; Assistant-Manager, Mr Albert J. Lewis.—This week the attraction is The Golden Ladder, played by Miss Mary Austin and Mr E Vivian Edmunds' company. Mr Harry Cullenford appears to advantage as the Rev. Frank Thornhill. Miss Conyers Radcliffe is equally successful as Lillian Grant. Able support is given by Mr Frank Hill as Samuel Peckaby and Mr J. Milne Taylor as Michael Severn. Mr Graham Winford does well as Peranza. Mr Dan Mining is effective as Jim Dixon. Mr Edward Bikker is satisfactory as John Grant. Mr Raymond Chester as Noah Learoyd and Miss Nellie Graham as Mrs Peckaby are capable.

MEXBOROUGH.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. H. Melton.—Miss Emma Litchfield's company is playing here this week in A London Actress. Mr S. Cleveland gives a fine interpretation of the hero Clive Crawford; Mr F. Radcliffe is capital as the breezy Captain Mannering; Mr L. Lingard is well placed as Lieutenant Kingston; and Mr George Wallace imparts humour to the character of the Jew, Moses Mendoza. Miss Emma Litchfield displays rare dramatic skill in her treatment of the rôle of Hilda Mannering; Miss V. Lawson is a graceful and pleasing Phyllis Crawford. For the last three nights of the week the drama The Guiding Star is billed.

MIDDLESBROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr J. C. Imeson.—Mr J. F. Elliston's company in the pantomime The Sleeping Beauty, transplanted from Leicester, opened a fortnight's run at the Royal. The principal boy, Miss Esme Gordon, scores a warm welcome for her dashing and vivacious rendering of the rôle of Prince Faithful, and Miss Daisy Stratton as Beauty Allfair charms with her delightful dances and songs. Miss Ada Tilley pleases as the Grand Chief, and Miss Mabel Kempton makes the most of her opportunities as the Silver Star. Little Maude Vera is successful and the Sisters Cunningham do exceedingly well. The comedians are a fine lot. Mr W. J. Churchill is irresistibly funny and Mr Alf Bishop is amusing, and, with Mr James Chippendale, scores a big hit as King and Queen Half-a-Crown. Mr Lonnen Meadows, in his original creation, "The Yellow Dwarf," does well, and the singing of the Morton Trio is most enjoyable. Miss Lottie Stone's Troupe contribute some pleasing specialities. The beautiful electric novelty presented by Alma and Abdallah is a source of great wonderment, the stage being at one period one mass of varied coloured lights. Another enjoyable item is provided by La Superbe. The dresses and scenery add much to the success of the pantomime, and every credit is due to Mr Lonnen Medows for its setting, especially the finale, when some exquisite Anglesey jewellery, supplied by Mr Smurthwaite, of Hull, are presented.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Grand Opera House Company, Ltd.; Licensee and Manager, Mr T. Hopcutt.—Mr J. H. Clyndes' company is here in the romantic play, A Royal Revenge. Mr Clyndes himself appears as Estevan Alvarez, and gives a portrayal which leaves nothing to be desired, and he is well supported by Miss Bessie Alma as Manuel Mondega. Mr Charles Gordon is seen to a distinct advantage, and Mr James Willoughby ably sustains the rôle of the miser. Mr Jack Bigwood appears as Michael Sancha, and Mr John Cecil and Mr W. J. Gould do exceedingly well in their respective rôles. Mr Geoffrey Broughton makes the most of the part of King of Spain. Miss Evelyn Shannon is successful as Cora Casilda. The other rôles are ably sustained, and the costumes were in keeping with the general excellence of the work.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Brill; Manager, Mr J. W. Thornborrow.—A capital programme is presented here. Charles Coborn heads the bill, and his turn interests the audiences immensely. Boyd and Gilfain, who are no strangers to the Middlesbrough audience, meet with an enthusiastic reception. In a sketch entitled Mixed Drinks they keep the audiences in a merry mood. M. Gintaro, the Japanese society juggler, provides an interesting turn, whilst J. C. Manley, character vocalist, is a favourite, and Sam Redfern contributes some amusing patter. Walter Emerson proves an enjoyable turn; the Two W.'s win favour; Frank Bernard and company in a sketch, Hello, are well received; and the films on the Bioscope complete the bill of fare.

OXFORD.—Lessee, Mr Wm. Peacock; Manager, Mr William Ainsworth.—Les Francois Family in a pot-pourri act, are the chief attraction here. Frank Cafferty, comedian, is a favourite with audiences, and the Sisters Maginel and Mullinl provide a pleasing musical speciality turn. They are supported by Campkin, cyclist; Mark Milton, eccentric comedian; the Werners; Oakdene, ventriloquist; and the Three De Veres in a pot-pourri act.

MORECAMBE.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee, Lieut. Julian Malvern; General Manager, Mr C. M. Julian.—Miss Daisy De Roy's pantomime, Sinbad the Sailor, has been presented during the week by an admirable company. Miss Edna Cragge makes a handsome hero, and scores in her songs, "Bluebell" and "The Old Bull and Bush." Miss Marie Weston is a capital principal girl, Miss Hilda De Gray sings with much charm, and plenty of comedy is provided by Messrs W. Wallace, Geo. Asap, Geo. Welch, Frank Daleno, and Harry Hunter. Mr Fred Brudo, the well-known contortionist, is excellent as the old man of the sea; Miss Rosa Walmsley's Troupe, of which Miss Nellie Cook is the principal, provide some charming measures.

MOTHERWELL.

NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr W. Gillespy.—The pièce de résistance this week is the sensational drama Sherlock Holmes. Mr Kenneth Rivington gives a realistic portrayal of the famous detective; the Doctor Watson of Mr Fred Inwood is well conceived; Mr Arthur B. Murray is responsible for a good performance of Professor Moriarty; Miss Florence Radcliffe gains appreciation by her pathetic acting as Alice Faulkner; Miss Carrie Lacey wins applause as Madge Larrabee; Mr Ernest Grey acts well as James Larrabee; Mr F. Clive Ross is smart as John Forman; and Messrs Howard E. Laing and William Wilson are suitable exponents of Edward Leighton and Count Von Stahlberg. Mr Harry Mann is an able Alfred Bastic.

NEWPORT.

LYCEUM. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Sidney Cooper.—The pantomime Aladdin is being played here this week by Mr J. D. Hunter's company. Mr J. D. Hunter as the Widow Twankey is exceedingly droll, and Miss M. Sadie makes a charming Aladdin, full of life and sparkling with merriment. The singing is good, the dresses are pretty, and the scene of the Feast of Lanterns at the close is very picturesque. Specialities are introduced, the most striking of which is the performance of Mdlle. Bartenelli, the novel contortionist, on the golden column.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr O. Stoll.—A strong bill is presented here this week. Alexandra Dagmar is appearing as "The Duchess of Dantzic," and displays some capital acting and singing. Bella and Bijou, old favourites, are accorded a warm reception; Clown Zertho's dogs provide a turn that is both novel and attractive; and the Three Sisters Klos exhibit wonderful skill and strength in their unique athletic tricks. Syd May's wrestling skit with a dummy is extremely funny; Lotto, Lilo, and Otto, trick cyclists, have to be credited with a daring performance; and Ada Cerito gives entire satisfaction with her sprightly songs. Cabby and Shirker, in an eccentric bar act, are clever; Ike Scott and Son are amusing comedians; and the musical mélange Flirtation, by the Five Delevines, has proved attractive.

NORTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Jefferson; General Manager, Mr Horace Lee; Secretary, Mr Gordon Jefferson.—Mr W. W. Kelly's company with A Royal Divorce has proved very attractive here this week. As Josephine Miss Edith Cole gives an artistic portrayal; Mr Frank Lister is equally successful as Napoleon; Mr Cecil Du Gue as the Marquis De Beaumont displays ability; and Mr H. Gray Dolby wins favour as Talleyrand. Mr Alfred Grenville is distinctly good as General Augereau; Mr Ernest G. Batley plays with success the part of Marshal Murat; and Mr Dennis Bryant makes quite a hit as Grimaud. As Stepphanie Miss Helen Richmond is seen to advantage, Miss Ethyle Murray shines as Marie Louise, and Miss Maggie Cardiff gives a satisfactory representation of the King of Rome.

NEW CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Wm. Mould.—The Leopold Leglere acrobats, in their clever act, are meeting with a hearty reception here. Messrs Smith and Johnson, comedians, in "The Real Nahavo," score a decided success; the Jetneys, coloured comedians, are popular; Mdlle. Vanda performs some smart juggling feats on the rolling globe; and Mdlle. Nanoni, soprano; La Belle Tosca on the silver wire; and the Bio-Photoscope make up a good bill-of-fare.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr Fred C. Sutcliffe.—Novocastrians have set the seal of their unqualified approval on Cinderella, which is now in the height of its great success. Ever conspicuous among the comedians is Mr Mark Sheridan, whose amusing performance constitutes a leading feature of the pantomime. Mr Josh Dixon and Mr Gus Le Clerq are also prominent and successful throughout. The acting and singing of Miss Bessie Featherstone as Prince Caramel are excellent indeed; the Cinderella of Miss Alice Russon is a singularly winsome performance; Miss Lena Verdi's efforts as Dandini continue to meet with well-deserved approval; and the lively and amusing business contributed by the Egbert Bros. never fails to please.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Teale Lingham.—Capital entertainment is provided by The Babes in the Wood, which continues to enlist popular support. New songs and jokes have been introduced, and these tend to freshen up the performance. Miss Elise Cooke, the charming representative of Maid Marion, has unfortunately had to relinquish the part owing to a domestic bereavement, and her place is now taken by Miss Valli Valli, who makes a most excellent substitute. A palpable hit has been scored by both Miss Dolly M'Calla and Miss Hanid Alexander as the Babes. Miss M'Calla acts and sings in a particularly bright and unaffected manner, and her dancing is remarkably neat and clever. The pianoforte solo by Miss Alexander is always encored.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr T. W. Rowe.—The New Frivolity, an up-to-date version of the farcial musical absurdity in which the Leopolds have for so many years distinguished themselves, is again being presented here by that well-known combination, and, needless to say, their united efforts have resulted in a particularly bright and lively performance.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Thornton and Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Nelson Barry.—This huge auditorium is packed at each performance of the pantomime, Cinderella, which has achieved a phenomenal success here, but the all too short engagement terminates to-night (Saturday).

GRAND THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Business Manager, Mr Ernest W. Bacon.—Dick Whittington pursues its career of extreme prosperity. Miss Gracie Grahame makes a spirited representative of Dick, and scores particularly in her various songs. A charming Alice is Miss Fanny Harris, who is seen to the best advantage in her songs and dances. Among the comedians Mr Bob Selvidge as Idle Jack and Mr Dan Thomas as the Cook are prime conspirators in the scheme of fun-making.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Director, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr E. Leslie Conroy.—The Five M.I.'s are now appearing at this hall, where they are presenting with much acceptance their picturesque and pleasing vocal entertainment entitled Five Minutes before Lights Out. The Japanese Guards are a troupe of ladies who give a smart exhibition of lightning cavalry drill. A capital display of head balancing is submitted by the Three Nevarros, and very entertaining is the musical performance of the Borellis. Carl and Mary Ohm exploit a troupe of trained animals, and Lyane and Geks are clever contortionists. A satirical sketch, For Reform, as performed by Hugh Stanton and company, causes much laughter. Amusing comedians in the Two Bostons are well to the fore, and H. F. Wilson affords pleasure by his tenor singing. Jimmy Shields, the one-legged comedian, meets with well-deserved approbation.

PAVILION.—Managing-Director, Thomas Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Will H. Boardman.—We are having a visit from Colonel G. Bordeverry, the rifle and pistol shot expert, who is ably assisted by a lady who displays much cleverness with a rifle. Marquis Iton, in an acrobatic sketch of a somewhat novel nature, performs tricks with cannon, shot, and shell; Mdlle. Haydee's mannikin theatre is a leading feature in the programme; the Permane Brothers score a success with their parody, "The Nightingale's Courtship"; and The Athlones, Herculean athletes, two clever performers, give an enjoyable exhibition of feats of strength. Henri Abdy's canine hippodrome is a somewhat novel show; and Mdlle. Marvelle's performing cockatoos and macaws are well received. Lily Flexmore shows much ability as a legmania danseuse; and Burton Joyce, described as a singing raconteur, is also included in the programme. Up-to-date animated pictures are shown at each performance.

NORTHAMPTON.

OPERA HOUSE —Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr W. J. Andrews.—Mr Mouillot's principal A Message from Mars company is here this week on a return visit.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr Robert Barton.—The programme is headed this week by Percy Honri, the well-known concertinist, who, in solos, songs, and stories, keeps his audiences well amused. Rappo is a clever equilibrist and acrobat, and has a charming assistant in Mdlle. Ella. Jubal and Joyce afford some excellent amusement as eccentric comedians. Harry Bent is a good mimic. Carlotta Lunn, American comedienne; Rosa Gilbert, serio and dancer; and Henry Carlton, comedian, furnish the remainder of the entertainment.

NORTHWICH.

NORWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr Fred Morgan.—Mr and Mrs Calvert Routledge's company is here this week with The Cricket on the Hearth. Mr Routledge is excellent as John Peerybingle; Mr Sydney Sarl deserves every praise as Mr Tackleton; Mr David Curtis wins golden opinions for his representation of Caleb Plummer; and Mr Alexander Willis is good as Edward Plummer. Miss Sybil Ruskin excites much sympathy as Bertha; Mrs Jas. Thurlow as Mrs Fielding and Miss Lilian Burleigh as May Fielding are admirable in their respective parts; Miss Dora Lewis as Tilly Slowboy creates much amusement; and Mrs Calvert Routledge deserves every commendation for her excellent rendering of the part of Dot. Mrs Marion Ryder does well as Fairy Queen.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr F. W. Fitt; Musical Director, Capt. Selby.—Heading the bill here is Mdlle. Rosina Casselli and her Chihuahua dogs from Mexico, who give an admirable performance and receive hearty approbation; Vanola, the Venezuelan antipodeste, exhibits some remarkable tricks; Craig, Rose, and Craig are clever gymnasts; the Rosaire Bolereo Troupe are excellent in their comedy bar act; Ray and Milesare expert jugglers; the Sarnthaler Troupe (six ladies and two gentlemen) give a pleasing musical and dancing turn; Zanfretta and Naplo are grotesque and musical knife grinders; Fred Durnstone scores as a character comedian; and Dan Filmer proves himself an eccentric dancer. The Bioscope exhibits some amusing pictures; and Capt. Selby and his band add to the evening's amusement.

NOTTINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Howard Finney.—The last week of Robinson Crusoe has now been reached, and the bright entertainment will see its close to-night. The week's audiences have been excellent, and all the artists have had special attention and approbation from enthusiastic admirers. The attractive appearance and dainty singing of Miss Madeline du Val and the winsome manner of Miss Mabel Osborne have made them firm favourites, and Miss Nellie Christie's humorous delineation of Topsy has formed a feature of the production. Amongst the comedians Mr Bob Baxter's refined and amusing Widow, Mr Wally Scott as Friday, the eccentric dancing of Mr Fred Solo, and the comic juggling of the Two Austins stand out as exceedingly meritorious performances, and Miss Madge Melbourne has proved an engaging little artist.

GRAND THEATRE. — Manager, Mr Charles P. Cooke.—The new realistic drama Rogues of the Turf is being played here this week by a very capable company. Miss Helen Stewart as Marion is very good both in style and appearance, and her vigorous methods are well contrasted by the gentle manner of Miss Hilda Shirley as Nellie Flaxman and the boisterous fun of Miss Mabelle Barlow as Phyllis. Mr John F. Preston is specially engaged for the rôle of Joe Flaxman, and it could scarcely be in more capable hands. Mr A. Wilmott makes a thoroughly aristocratic-looking baronet, and Mr Ernest R. Allen as Arthur Somerton has no little to do with the success of the production. Broad humour is supplied by Mr Harry Benson as Sam Flaxman, and as the principal villain, Dudley Clifton, Mr Walter S. Clifford is eminently successful. The portrayal of the character of Moses Solomons, the Jewish sharper, is entrusted to Mr H. H. Rignold, who extracts the very utmost from his opportunities. Mr C. Jackson and Mr Alfred Wade as Peter Dawson and Steve Burton are excellent, and the other parts are well played.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, A. W. Bull.—The Life that Kills is exciting to the uttermost degree, and every point is made to tell by Messrs Fred Moule and E. D. Nicholls's company. Mr Moule essays the rôle of Kendal Croat, a villain of the worst type, and Miss Cathleen Cavanagh ably supports him as Brenda Croat. Mr Ernest G. Fare makes an earnest and conscientious hero as Hector Rodney, and Mr Morris Maud capitally portrays the ne'er-do-well, Valentine Telford. Captain Montague finds an excellent exponent in Mr A. G. Smith-Neil, and Mr Geo. Clarke is satisfactory as Doctor Brackley. Miss Lucy Murray is highly successful in the dual-rôle of Tom and Johanna Dicks, and Miss Marie Menzies plays with sympathetic tenderness as Laurie Linden. The humorous relief is supplied by Messrs A. Hall Menzies and Wilton Drury.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr C. H. Bowmaker.—The Wille Brothers occupy premier position on the bill this week, and their feats of head-balancing are really very wonderful. Newhouse and Ward present an admirable turn of clever and farcical cycle trick riding, and well deserve the generous rounds of applause their performance evokes. Miss Lily Lena is a comedienne of no mean abilities, and La Belle Creole Morcashant is seen to great advantage. The lovely dresses of these latter two artists deserve a special word of comment. The Three Sisters Ronay are justly described as a trio of charming girls in a novel musical act, and Maud Ross is an expert dancer. Another speciality musical act appears on the programme, being provided by the M'Gregors, who are very clever. Will Mitcham is a funny fellow in the musical comedian line. The Human Spiders give an electrical gymnastic performance which is highly appreciated, and the programme is completed by Duncan's highly trained collies.

NUNEATON.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietors, the Theatre and Entertainments Company, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr and Mrs F. G. Kimberley's company is here this week with Bound to Win. Mr Kimberley does full justice to the part of Harry Lyndon, Mrs Kimberley adapting herself well to the rôle of Marion Forbes. Good work is done by Miss K. Eckart as Gladys Orme, Miss Edie Macklin as Minnie Oakley, Miss Nancy Davies as Winnie Winsome, and Mr Edgar Morgan as Horatio Buffet. The remaining parts are successfully embodied by Mr Sydney Rennef, Squire Forbes; Mr F. Strickland, Philip Ayre; Mr James Hont, Ned Oakley; Mr Horace Custins, Willie Wilkins; Mr Fred Tenaur, Joe Blake; Mr Harry Lyndon, Detective Shirley; Mr L. Hont, George Moore; Master Willie Atom, Mr Sam Warren, Mr Harry Hont, and Mrs James Hont, and others.

OLDHAM.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr George Knowles.—This week Senor Pepi is well received in his sketch Love Always Victorious; the Marvellous Autos receive due appreciation for their musical act; a bright vocal entertainment is provided by Austin and Cowan; Frank Coyle, comedian, is heartily received for his patriotic and topical songs; Auto and Mobil create roars of laughter by their motor acrobatic act; Charles Pastor, the laughing comedian, is irresistible; Conway and Leland, "the merry monopedes," receive unbounded applause; and Harry Morris, mimic, and Miss Violet Wilton, soubrette, are duly appreciated.

EMPIRE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr Hulme.—Mr Charles Macdona's production, The School Girl, is here, with Miss Nellie Hodson in the title-rôle—a charming presentation. Miss Kate Forster as the Mother Superior sings "When I was a little girl" with charm of voice and manner; Miss Jenny Bonney as Cicely Marchmont is very successful; Miss Madeleine Maude as the artist's model is most effective; and Miss Florrie West and Miss Alice Sands are clever as dancers. Mr Charles Adeson as the Colonel is provokingly funny; Mr Max Copland as Sir Ormsby St. Ledger is a humourist; the part of Edgar Verney, the artist, is in the capable hands of Mr Alec Chentrens; and Mr Alfred Leslie as Tubby Bedford is most effective.

GAIETY, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr E. J. Dexter.—A capital programme is presented here this week, including Harry Lynn and company, in their side-splitting sketch Blind to the World; Shang Hai, eastern magician, give a remarkable performance; the Seltina Troupe of acrobats are greatly appreciated; Mayon and Marie are successful in their comedy duologue; Chester and Lee's marionettes prove a great attraction; the Sisters Zara are well received in their smart dances; the Bros. Levett introduce clever work into their vaulting act; Mark Tapley is duly appreciated for his comic songs; and the Bioscope has some new pictures.

OXFORD

NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr C. C. Dorrill.—Mr William Greet's company is this week presenting for the first time here that charming musical play, The Earl and the Girl. Mr Reginald Switz fairly revels in the amusing part of Jim Cheese, and scores heavily right through the play; Mr Alec Fraser sings pleasantly and acts brightly as Dick Wargrave; Mr Haddon Cave is excellent as Hon. Crewe Boodle; Mr H. B. Brandeth is sufficiently terrifying as the fire-eating Uncle of the heiress; Mr F. W. Cane is very smart indeed as Downham, the solicitor; and Messrs W. T. Hybert and G. Hayes do well as Mr Talk and the landlord. Miss May Fraser wins all hearts by her delightfully fresh and fascinating performance as Elphin Haye; Miss Cynthia Carey is admirably suited as Liza Shoddam; Miss Maud Adams is indeed "great" as Mrs Black, the strong lady; Miss Maud Aston is a pleasant and taking Daisy Fallowfield; and Miss Mary Morison is an admirable Virginia Bliss.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr H. G. P. Wells.—This week witnesses the third return visit of Mr John H. Morton's company here with The Rajah of Ranjapore. As Horatio Chicks Mr Alvin Sawyer is full of vivacity, and is well disguised as the Rajah, while Mr W. Harrison is capital as Thistles. Mr Philip Percival does well as Ernest Travers, Mr Harry Cornwall makes an effective Captain Hertage, and Mr Arthur Reid is at home as Mr Stubb. Mr George Trevor does his work well as Ted Perkins; Miss Minnie Blackmore is successful as Edith; Miss Marion Walker makes the most of Eliza; and Miss Nell Ascott is well placed as Primrose. Some effective dances are contributed by other members of the company.

PAISLEY.

PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile.—Mr Chas. H. Phelps and company, with One Woman's Wickedness, is here this week. Miss Amy Dalby does remarkably well as the long-suffering Lillian Craggs, and Miss Florence Lloyd submits a powerful impersonation of the unscrupulous Janet Raymond. Mr Chas. H. Phelps plays with effect and force as Jem Craggs, and Mr Lawrence Brien is capital as Philip Beaufort. Continuous merriment is occasioned by the humorous assumptions submitted by Miss Ethel Asbury as Jenny Jiggles, Mr George Bryne as Lord Algernon Fitznoodle, and Mr Arthur Ferris as Limpy Harry. Miss Florence M. Daly admirably enacts Aunt Crasy, and the Marienne Beaufort of Miss Frances Jessop is cleverly interpreted. Mr Hubert Humphreys is good as Paul Roque, as is also Mr Carlton Harget as John Fossett.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr J. H. Savile; Manager, Mr Delno Fritz.—Excellent turns are being submitted here this week by the following:—The Albana Troupe, in their refined musical speciality act; Arthur Bright, comedian and Milanese piper; Bonnetti and May Corrie, in a refined eccentric juggling act; Sheila Barrett, serio and dancer; Bob Nicol, mimic; and Brindall and Cooper, comedians, patterers, and sand dancers. The Empire Cinématograph is showing a series of new pictures.

PENTRE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Owners, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; Manager, Mr Sam Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr Eugene Hardie. — Mr Sanderson Moffatt's company is accorded a hearty welcome here this week in A Woman Adrift. Sir John Inglesby, a difficult rôle, is in the capable hands of Mr Joseph Mallane; Cora Leigh is admirably interpreted by Miss Phyllis Hamilton; Miss Phyllis Graham deserves praise as Rupert; and the national characteristics of Jibbs, Rhoderick, and Dennis are cleverly portrayed by Messrs Charles Wilson, Robert Harvey, and Watson Hume. Miss Maude Merrick as Molly is exceedingly good; and Mr Sanderson Moffatt sustains the rôles of Ferdinand and Don Leo Castro with admirable effect.

PERTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Aldridge.—Mr Savile has assuredly surpassed all his previous successes here in the production of Aladdin, his fifth Perth pantomime, which is on the boards for a fortnight and is drawing crowded houses nightly. To Miss Florence Wilton is entrusted the title-rôle, and most faithfully does she act the onerous part, her vocal talent, especially the rendering of "Bluebell," being highly appreciated; Miss Gertrude Branscombe as the pretty, winsome Princess Badroulbadour at once becomes a prime favourite; Miss Gladys Warren is well placed in Bohee, and gives a delightful rendering of the popular "Navaho," having to respond to vociferous applause; Miss Florrie Somers is all that can be desired in the part of Petti Sing; Mr Willie Garvie (an old favourite) is in his element, and thoroughly amuses the house throughout as Widow Twankey. To this end he is ably assisted by Mr James Grant as M'Kasrac, and to Mr Will Sherlock in the rôle of Abanazar also falls a creditable share of success. Mr Karl Mora acts the part of Ting-a-Ling with becoming majesty; Mr T. W. Kelly scores as the Vizier, So-Sli; the Boston Twins, Frank and Ross, as Hi-Spy and Li-Ying-Tung, prove themselves vocalists of no mean talent; Miss Kitty Jones is a charming exponent of Flamma, and Miss Isa Stirling does well as Circe. Misses Lucie and Minnie Victoria are seen to great advantage as Souchong and Congou respectively; Miss Lottie Stone's troupe of lady dancers ably sustain their reputation.

PETERBOROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr A. Darville Vernon.—The attraction here this week is Mr Edward Marris's company in As Midnight Chimes. Mr Melville Bickford cleverly acts the rôle of Luke Dezzard; Mr Frank E. Petley as Dave Stannard submits a fine study of the hero; and Miss Gertrude Price sustains admirably the part of Mary Stannard. Mr Walter Wilby as Ezra Gamble and Mr Dan Parker as Limpy Mudge play their parts with success; Miss Iris M. Ward does well as Zamora; and a special word of praise is due to Miss Minnie Ethel as Little Davy. The fun-making is entrusted to Miss Nita Imeson as Suzette and Mr James Salter as Tat Spavin, and both are highly successful in their task.

PLYMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Langdon Lee.—This is the closing week of the pantomime, Dick Whittington having proved a great attraction, besides enhancing the reputations of several who have been prominently associated with the production.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Williams.—Veronique terminates a fortnight's engagement here this week. It is being played to full houses by Mr George Dance's company, which is an exceptionally clever one.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton.—The pantomime of Robinson Crusoe concludes here this week. Thanks to good acting and sumptuous staging it has achieved a great success, Mr Mouillot's company working hard to ensure it.

PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Brothers; Manager, Mr J. Field. — The well-known coster comedian, Alec Hurley, tops the bill here this week and contributes some taking songs, besides appearing in an amusing sketch. Boswell's circus is another popular turn, and Lozelle, the gymnast, is also a favourite. Miss Alexandra Edwin sings well, and E. T. Sheldon's whistling solos are very fine. Miss Marion Hood is a clever comedienne, and Nelson and Thomas provide a diverting sketch. Animated pictures are also included in the programme.

PONTYPOOL.

ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Resident-Manager, Mr J. H. Stephens.—Mr and Mrs Fred Benton's specially selected company is presenting A Marriage of Vengeance here. A feature of the play is the excellent interpretation of Stella Burgon by Miss A. Harrison Tate; Mr Charles Coventry as Clynne Earnscliffe enacts his part with telling effect; and Mr George A. De Cray has exactly the commanding presence necessary in the part of Max Rheinhardt. Mr E. Charles shows power in his impersonation of Monsieur Cadot, and Mr Alfred George Fry as Paul Earnscliffe also deserves special mention. Miss Etta Turner plays the part of Amelia with great effect, and the Elsie Dean of Miss Maud Stuart is creditably presented. The play is beautifully dressed.

PORTH.

POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr W. Bynorth.—Charles W. Poole, of myriorama fame, is here this week, opening on Monday to an excellent house. The pictures are quite new, and are much appreciated. A capital series of animated photos are also shown. The variety company includes the Avondale Quartet, in refined comedy and favourite songs; the Four Burgatiles, musical pantomimists, are an excellent turn; Mons. Henri, Herculean equilibrist, deserves mention for his clever performance; the Almo Trio, horizontal barrists meet with great approval; Prof. Fanning's Merry Fantoches are amusing; Mr Cecil F. Couper, deputy guide and vocalist, scores in his impersonation of the "Railway Porter." On Thursday a matinée was held, the entire proceeds of which, by the generosity of Mr Poole, were handed over to the Porth Cottage Hospital.

NEW HIPPODROME AND UP TO-DATE CIRCUS.—Proprietress, Miss Ada Alexandra; Managing-Director, Mr D. Taylor; General Manager, Mr E. Pryce.—A capital programme here includes Prof. Macean's troupe of Irish terriers and leaping dogs, who give a very creditable performance; Harry Leaton, comedian, is well received; the comedy duo, Pearce and Ward, burlesque boxers, dancers, are exceedingly good; Kuro and his comical donkey afford much amusement; the Radium Girls are successful; the Kozokerins, comedy gymnasts, are very humorous; Cyrus and Maude, the merry monarchs of music; and the Alskarno Troupe of Risley performers, meet with approval. Tuesday evening was set apart for the benefit of the clown, Hairpin.

PORTSMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Bell. — The D'Oyly Carte principal répertory opera company opened here on Monday with The Gondoliers. The Duke of Plaza Toro was ably played by Mr C. H. Workman; Mr Fred Billington gave a capital interpretation of Don Alhambra Del Bolero; and the Brothers Marco and Giuseppe Palmieri were undertaken by Messrs Pacie Ripple and Albert Kavanagh, who gave a very meritorious performance. Gianetta, Miss Norah Maguire, and Tessa, Miss Jessie Rose, made two charming Contadines. Miss Theresa Rassam as the Duchess of Plaza Toro was admirable. The week's programme includes H.M.S. Pinafore, Trial by Jury, Yeoman of the Guard, Pirates of Penzance, Princess Ida, and Iolanthe.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr T. E. Agate.—Mr F. Jarman's company with the Anglo-Russian drama, In Dark Siberia, is in possession here for the week. Mr W. T. Riley impersonates in a manly fashion the hero, Captain Victor Gordon; Major Waroff, the arch scoundrel of the piece, is forcibly depicted by Mr Wilson Howard; the persecuted Princess Natalie Oloff, Gordon's wife, is admirably portrayed by Miss Carlotta Anson; Mr Louis Weston as Sergeant Petrovitch and Miss Linda Riley as Ivanova are responsible for the comedy side of the drama.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr W. Pratt.—An excellent bill is provided for the week here. Carl Mysto, with his mysterious box trick and his manacles, wins hearty approval. The Calcotts, musical speciality artists, are very diversified; J. W. Rickaby, burlesque character comedian, is an old favourite; Bessie Travis, lady ventriloquist and pianist, is clever and amusing; the Escaladors, double-ladder performers, are distinctly good; Hamilton Hill, Australian baritone, gives some excellent songs with great expression. The programme includes Ivy Adelaide, chic comedienne; Hughes and Elliott, vocalists and dancers; Sisters Oswald, novelty dancers; and Will Farrell, lightning express comedian.

PRESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Stephen Pritt.—The Bookmaker, presented by Mr Stephen Pritt's company, is a strong attraction here. The Earl of Harborough has an excellent representative in Mr Fred Mitcalf; Gerald is capably depicted by Mr R. Austin Smith; Mr Owen M'Gweney's convincing presentment of the Marquis of Budleigh is highly praiseworthy; Mr J. B. Elliott acquits himself creditably as Captain Carew; Mr W. Montgomery is well suited as Mr Mortmain; and Mr Wilfred Mangan commendably fills the part of James. Mr Stephen Pritt gives a humorous and sympathetic impersonation of the title-part, and Mr Geoffrey West is quite at ease and genuinely amusing as Bubbles. Miss Louie Peebles is charming and natural in her portrayal of Lady Jessie; Miss Alberta Clegg makes a winsome Sybil; and Mrs F. Mitcalf is seen to advantage as Polly.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Sawyer and Woodruffe.—Messrs Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company in Why Men Love Women is appearing here. Mr Paumier makes a powerful Gerald Fielding. Mr Bensley Evans cleverly depicts Serge Staniloff. Tommy Fitzherbert is well played by Mr W. S. Hardy. Mr Edwin Lever successfully impersonates the Maharajah of Balore. Mr R. Calvert Haws in the rôle of the Rev. Edward Grey is appreciated. Mr A. Radford fills the part of Ghundra Singh in praiseworthy style. Miss Annie Saker displays great ability as Violet Livingstone. Miss Olive Lanty enacts Muriel Zoluski in convincing style. Mr H. Roberts as Orlando Figgins, Miss Queenie Nigel as Birdie Summertop, Miss Violet Godfrey as Baby Winterbottom, and Miss Marie Glynne as Matilda Figgins ably provide the humorous element.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead.—Woolford's Circus provides an enjoyable entertainment here. Akimoto's Troupe of plucky Japs are brilliant equilibrists, jugglers, and balancers. Kid Johnson and Maisie Pelham, American novel speciality artists, contribute a pleasing turn. Culpitt does some clever conjuring, and displays versatility in his quick-change impersonations. The Flying Zedoras perform difficult gymnastic feats very gracefully; Geo. Foyle's songs are appreciated; Gerald Mount is a successful vocalist and mimic; Robins and Collier's sketch, The Photographer and the Lady, evokes roars of laughter; and Alba and Amba gain rounds of applause by their mirth-provoking comedy juggling act. Mr Clement Freeman, the courteous resident acting-manager of this well-appointed hippodrome, carefully attends to the comfort of its patrons.

RADCLIFFE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr Jas. Boothman.—There is a great attraction this week in the welcome return visit of Messrs Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company in the American drama The Still Alarm. The natural and easy style of Mr Matthew H. Glenville as Jack Manley wins repeated applause; Mr Paul Lovett displays ability as John Bird; Mr Tom Beasley is good as Willie Manley; the make-up and acting of Mr F. Osmond as Doc Wilber deserve special praise; and Mr Lewis Gordon is a capital Franklyn Fordham. Mr Frank Wilson as the Messenger Boy is also good. The part of Elinore Fordham is skilfully handed by Miss May Lovett; and Miss Mabel Veritan is a typical Mrs Manley. Miss Connie Meadows is most satisfactory as Carrie Wilber.

RAMSGATE.

AMPHITHEATRE. — Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General Manager, Mr Henry Bowman.—Judy; or, The Fatal Hand, has been staged with considerable success by Mr George Kirk and Miss Mary Neil's talented company this week. Miss Florrie Groves as Judy plays in a manner which calls for distinct praise, and audiences have not been slow to recognise the fact. Mr George Kirk is thoroughly at home in the powerful rôle of the detective Grip; as the unworthy Duburg Mr R. Ferris performs in eminently satisfactory fashion; Miss Violet Langley is similarly effective as Madame Blake; Mr W. Vane is a capital hero as Sterling, the banker; and the dual part of Alice and Polly is sustained with marked skill and versatility by Miss Mary Neil. Mr W. Casy is really humorous as Jim, the coster.

RAWTENSTALL.

GRAND THEATRE.—Co-Proprietors and Lessees, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr J. Ellis Miller.—Mrs Bandmann-Palmer is paying a welcome return visit this week with her fine répertoire company, and on Monday opened with Sapho, which met with a gratifying reception. As Sapho Mrs Bandmann-Palmer proved herself as clever as ever, giving a powerful and artistic impersonation. Her efforts were ably supported by Mr F. Skein, who as Jean Gaussin was thoroughly efficient and natural. Mr George Munroe as Cæsar Gaussin was distinctly humorous, and his scenes with Miss K. Herbert (Divonne Gaussin) were always enjoyable. Mr Fenton as Dechelette, Mr E. Grogan as Caouda', and Mr W. Trant as Lacoeur were excellent in their respective parts, as indeed were all the other members of the cast. The week's programme includes Nell Gwynn, Mary Queen of Scots, Leah the Forsaken, and Jane Shore.

READING.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr Reginald Taylor. — Mr Mouillot's chief company is playing here this week, the popular Japanese opera, The Geisha, being the attraction, with the exception of Friday night, when A Greek Slave was produced. The first-named opera was also performed at a well-attended matinée on Wednesday. Miss Violet Moors acted and sang with great ability as O Mimosa San; Miss Florrie Saunders was a great success in the part of Molly Seamore; Mr Edward Carlton was exceedingly amusing as Wun-Hi; and Miss Violet Kenyon did well as O Juliette Diamant. Mr Arthur Carlton was satisfactory as Reginald Fairfax, and Mr Lionel Braham as the Marquis Imari sustained his part well.

ROCHDALE.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED. — Managing-Director, Mr W. Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr Charles Clucas.—Milton-Rays' company, with the pantomime Bo-Peep, is the attraction here this week. It is replete with boisterous merriment, and some capital dancing is submitted. The scenery is exceptionally pretty. The title-rôle is sweetly acted by Miss Ada Wright; Miss Daisy Morell makes a dashing Ferdinand; and Little Boy Blue has a lively and vivacious exponent in Miss Lily Wright. The Four Sisters Tree are prominent with some excellent dancing and singing as the Secret Police, &c. Miss Ethel Patrick as Kitty Clover and Miss Maude St. John as Molly Dump are both successful in their respective parts. Mr Harry Elliston is funny and amusing as Binks, and the traditions of the bad Baron are in the safe hands of Mr Jack Hylton. Mr W. G. Wesley makes up well as Dame Trott, and creates roars of laughter; the Two Eitons as Simple Simon and Johnny Stout introduce a clever horizontal bar performance; and the Marblesque Trio are both clever and amusing. Mr H. V. Morgan as the Gipsy King also deserves a word of praise for his capital impersonation.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES — Proprietors, Messrs Smith and Lee; Business-Manager, Mr S. L. Lee.—An excellent all-round bill-of-fare is provided here this week. The Dillons, in a novel gymnastic display, are both clever and amusing; Massona is a smart juggler, and manipulates hats, balls, and billiard cues with wonderful dexterity; Will Souls, in his laughing comicalities, is a popular turn; and the Ettenas, as globe speciality artistes, evoke hearty applause. Nellie Gannon, vocalist and dancer; Peggy Fame, comedienne and dancer; Harry Wright, character comedian and extempore vocalist; and Rice, Rose, Davis, and the Half, with a most amusing sketch, are also in the list.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Hargreaves.—The programme submitted this week includes Atlas and Vulcana, who display extraordinary strength and agility in weight lifting, Vulcana in classic poses also displays a wonderful set of muscles. Gold and Stirling submit a pleasing musical sketch, The Street Singers; Percy Farrimond is accorded a storm of applause for his fine vocalism; J. H. M'Cann, comedian and roller-skate dancer, is most successful; Satsuma performs some marvellous conjuring tricks; Davis and Davis, refined comedians, give a novel comedy act with a startling termination; and the Empire Bioscope and an extra turn by Mike Cray, who keeps the audience roaring with laughter at his comic conjuring tricks, complete the list.

ROTHERHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr W. Manning.—Miss Renee Glendower and company are providing the attraction this week with The Ladder of Life, under the personal direction of Mr C. Finch-Hatton. Mr Tyrone Power is seen to advantage as General Gordon, and Mr Roy F. Gascoigne scores as Colonel Macgregor. Mr C. H. Matthews gives a careful rendering of the part of Fergus Gordon, and Mr Roy Milton is a manly Lieutenant David Gordon. Miss Winnie De Lacey as Little Gordon speaks her lines with intelligence, and Miss Hilda Young is a sprightly Mary Jane Jolliboy. Miss Renee Glendower gives a life-like portrayal of Mother Flint, an old hag, and Miss Flora Leslie is pleasing as Meg Merrilees. Miss Stephanie Barry as Olga Sobinsky submits a careful and effective rendition of the part, and the Feros are responsible for a capital acrobatic turn.

DRILL HALL.—Messrs H. and F. Poole are again here for their annual visit with the famous Myriorama, which is, as usual, quite up to date. The specialities are of a very high class, including the Maysumas, Japanese acrobats; "Houston," the marvellous Chinese magician; the George French Troupe of acrobatic cyclists; the Snow Family; and Mr Frank Lyndon, novelty instrumentalist, who also acts as guide.

RUGBY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr E. Parker-Royston.—The first three nights of this week Mr Charles Macdona's company presented A Chinese Honeymoon. As the Emperor Mr Stene Louch plays with marked ability, and Mr Louis Ashmeade is excellent as Chipple Chop. Mr Maxwell Stewart is droll as Admiral Hi Lung, and Mr Arthur Foote gives an acceptable and artistic rendering of Tom Atherton. Mr Sidney Burt is most successful in his clever and humorous rendering of the part of Mr Pineapple. Miss Ettie Cinders as Fi Fi displays great talent and vivacity, working hard and scoring a success. Miss Alice Newton as Mrs Pineapple proves herself to be a charming and clever actress, and Miss Daisie Dale and Miss Marie Ford are very acceptable as the Bridesmaids. Miss Florence Hallam as the Princess Soo Soo is seen to great advantage. Her acting is most artistic, and she sings with excellent taste. The remaining characters are all adequately represented.

FOSSETT'S HIPPODROME.—A very strong programme is presented this week. Miss Marie, in her scene act on horseback, displays great daring and ability. Mr Fossett, in addition to his usual very clever equestrian performance, introduces his wonderful performing mare Maud. La Belle Rosa gives an able performance on the violin, zither, and mandoline. Mr Charles Beckett, in addition to his usual acceptable turn, gives a very clever exhibition on the flying rings. Miss Nellie Fossett makes her first appearance before the public, and displays great natural ability and daring, and bids fair to become an accomplished equestrienne. Collin and Irene give a clever entertainment as second-sight experts and illusionists. The Brothers Smarte are very good, and Mr Fossett, in a scene from the late Boer War, called "The Despatch Rider," is successful.

RUNCORN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr H. W. Caddick.—A dramatic treat is provided this week in the shape of Miss Marie Dagmar's company with A Life's Revenge. Mr Fred C. Somerfield gives a powerful rendering of Prince Strogoroff; Mr John F. Traynor submits an admirable study of the down-trodden serf, Paul Starovitch; Mr Walter Roberts as the venerable Michael Orloff is excellent; Mr T. G. Kane presents an impressive picture of the straightforward Englishman, Maurice Trevor; Mr Sidney Ernest as Nicholas, Mr Chas. E. Warne as Colonel Tumbleoff, Mr Geo. C. Hall as Clarence Chesterfield; Miss Maudie Grayson as Daphne Dashaway, and Miss Amy Hughes as Acoulina are responsible for much light comedy of an entertaining character; Miss Amy Ellam is a forceful Marcia Vittoria; and Miss Marie Dagmar displays tact and ability as the Princess Vanda Ivyala.

SALFORD.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr Harold Goulden.—The Irish musical costume play The Wearin' o' the Green has evidently not lost in popularity, from the fact that on Monday a full house was drawn to witness it. As Barney O'Hea Mr Chalmers Mackey is very droll, Miss Lalla Stanhope as Biddy M'Gian ably assisting him, and their singing and dancing are well received. Norah M'Grath is pleasingly presented by Mrs Chalmers Mackey. Villainy is well depicted by Mr J. S. Chamberlain as Michael Kenny. Mr Charles Homer is a manly Shamus M'Dermott, and sings with spirit. Mr John Neville gives an amusing study as Sergeant Yorke. Mr A. Macaulay as Connor Martin, Mr H. Sainsbury as Sir John Courtenay, Mr Henry Danson as Gerald Courtenay, and Miss Adele Liddon as Mrs M'Dermott also render able support.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Licensee, Mr G. Wilberforce Turner; Manager and Secretary, Mr Frederick Yates.—It will be noticed that this week there is a change in the management of this theatre by the death of Mr James M. Hardie and the withdrawal of Mr Thomas Barrasford. This does not, however, alter the class of entertainment, and a thoroughly enjoyable one is given this week. A very amusing turn is that of the peculiar comedian, Fred Curran; W. F. Frame is also funny with his "Scotchman in China;" an exceedingly smart cycle riding act on a table is given by Alexander; De Henau dexterously uses his feet in painting or otherwise; and other acceptable turns are given by the O'Learys, burlesque acrobats; Aladina with her troupe of performing cockatoos; the Densmores, in their pantomime sketch Early Morning in the Kitchen; and Ted Cowan, quaint comedian. Some good animated pictures complete the programme.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr J. B. Taylor.—Good value is given twice nightly to large houses. A considerable portion of the programme is taken up by Mr H. Hesslegrave as Soft Tommy Shuttleworth, with the assistance of Mr G. Francis, Mr Basil Hillier, Miss K. Perowne, Mr D. Harcourt, Mr Jackson Rogerson, and Miss Maud Marsden, in a sketch entitled Soft Tommy. Acceptable turns are also provided by the Sisters Marion, two young high-class vocalists; the Stoll Brothers, comedy wrestlers; J. P. Dane, eccentric comedian and dancer; Harleno, a smart paper manipulator, &c.; Countees, clever humorous duettists; Gregson Comedy Three, in their mirth-provoking novel sketch; Fred Casburn, comedian; and Ben Hur, strong man and athlete, together with the animated pictures.

L. AND N. W. PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietress, Mrs S. A. Higham; Manager, Mr Sam Higham.—This week's company includes Mr George Love, comedian; Miss Alice Rodney, serio; Mr Jack Fernley, comedian and expert dancer; and Mr Sam Higham, vocal comedian.

BRIDGE HOTEL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Tom Bradbury.—Mr Arthur Lee, versatile comedian; Miss Florrie Blanche, ballad vocalist; and Mr Ted Sykes, banjo soloist, &c., are among those providing a pleasant entertainment this week.

SALISBURY.

COUNTY HALL.—Proprietor, Mr Arthur Whitehead; Business-Manager, Mr T. Brinsmead.—Miss Kitty Irving's pantomime company is appearing here this week under the direction of Mr S. J. Liddicoat. The book is written round the popular story of Dick Whittington, and Miss Marie Liston appears as the principal boy, with Miss Gracie Perry as Alice Fitzwarren. The Sisters Cousins introduce some clever dancing, and Mr Fred Ellis is responsible for most of the fun.

SCARBOROUGH.

PEOPLE'S PALACE AND AQUARIUM.—Managing Director, Mr Wm. Morgan; Secretary and Manager, Mr Walter Kitchingman.—Messrs May and Hunter's pantomime is fulfilling a six nights' engagement here with Robinson Crusoe. Miss Florence Kendal acts and dances well as Polly; Miss Beattie Wilson's fine voice is heard to advantage as Sally; Miss Lulu Burgovne plays Robinson Crusoe effectively; Mr Fred May is a capital Madame De Crusoe; and Mr Horace Barri does well as Will Atkins. Mr Frederick Golding puts in good work as a lightning cartoonist, and Mr Tom Warne plays some pretty airs on the xylophone. Little Doris Myddleton, the child comedienne, is deservedly encored for one or two well-rendered songs.

SEACOMBE.

IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Jas. Kiernan.—Messrs. Geo. Edwardes's and Charles Frohman's company is attracting good audiences here this week with Are You a Mason? Mr Anthony Fawcett is a natural and gentlemanly George Fisher; Mr Harry Ashford a capital Amos Bloodgood; Mr Arthur Claremont leaves little to be desired as Frank Perry; and Eva (Mrs Perry) is equally well played by Miss Violet Graham. John Halton is well sustained by Mr Tom Mowbray, Mrs Halton being cleverly depicted by Miss Mabel Younge. Mr Frank Ridley is decidedly comic as Hamilton Travers; and Miss Edith Ife makes a clever character of Lottie. Mr Valentine O'Connor is decidedly successful as Ernest Morrison; and Annie and Lulu are charmingly portrayed by Miss Lily Beagle and Miss Isa Glynn respectively. The smart little comedietta entitled Hushed Up is the curtain-raiser.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr A. C. Harrison.—A Country Girl is drawing crowded houses here this week, the delightful comedy being presented in capital style by Mr Charles Macdona's company. It is also attractively mounted and dressed. Mr Guy Williams is a most capable Geoffrey Challoner; Mr Walter Champney as Barry proves himself a first-rate comedian; the Rajah of Bhong is submitted in pleasing style by Mr Jack Parson; Sir Joseph Verity is well presented by Mr Wallace Bosco; and Mr W. Besley Beltran as Douglas Verity and Mr George Stone as Granfer Mummery do good work. Marjorie is artistically played by Miss Beatrice Rowe, whose vocal efforts are much enjoyed; as Nan Miss Kathleen Comber displays vivacity and charm; Sophie is prettily embodied by Miss Amy Dewhurst; and as the Princess Miss Gertrude De Lacy is very good.

SHEERNESS.

COLISEUM.—Sole Proprietor, Mr T. C. Dorling; Manager, Mr Chas. Melvin. — Mr Harry Firth's company is here for this week with the pantomime Cinderella. In the title-role Miss Madge Osmond is a distinct success; as Prince Perfect Miss Dora Denmark makes a capital boy; Mr J. Binns and Mr H. Haines as the Ugly Sisters are responsible for a lot of fun; and the Baron Pebbly Beach, as delineated by Mr E. Wilson, is well received; Messrs Marsh and Morris as the Prince's footmen are decidedly amusing. The specialities include Edouard Earle, card manipulator; Sisters Godfrey, speciality dancers; Lieut. Chas. Valvo, ventriloquist; and others.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr P. Reymond.—The Walcot Combination is here again for this week in the successful production of the dramatic sketch A Human Spider. Other equally meritorious items include Miss Lillie Gainsley, comedienne; Mr Fred Carroll, comedian; and Hawley and Crescent, comedy sketch artistes.

SHEFFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr F. W. Purcell; Acting-Manager, Mr T. S. Carter.—Messrs Dottridge and Longden's Little Goody Two Shoes finishes its Sheffield run this week, and on Monday the company and entire mise-en-scène of the pantomime Cinderella from the Alexandra Theatre, London, will be transferred direct.

LYCEUM THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager and Treasurer, Mr J. E. B. Beaumont.—On Monday Mr Compton, the charming Miss Haidée Gunn, Mr Charles Stone, and other clever artists appeared to a good house in The School for Scandal, and other comedies billed were A Reformed Rake, The Rivals, David Garrick, To-morrow, and She Stoops to Conquer.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr C. W. Ramsay.—Aladdin will finish its career at this theatre to-night. On Wednesday those drolls, Messrs August and September, took a well-deserved benefit, and last night was fixed for the special night of the pretty Pekoe, Miss Maude Esmond, whose coon songs have been a pleasing feature.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. W. Young.—Engaged here this week are the Union Gatling Guards in a realistic sketch illustrative of actual warfare; Belle Davis and her little African piccanninies in a smart act; Mabel Hind, comedienne; Sisters Jonghmanns, duettists; Les Vencentinas, skaters; the Wotpert Trio, Continental acrobats; Madame Alice Simmons, operatic vocalist; Albert Whelan, Australian entertainer; M'Phee and Bill in a good horizontal bar act; and the Fitzroys, a smart pair of gymnasts, in a society aerial act.

SHREWSBURY.

SMETHWICK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr C. Barnard; Manager, Mr E. Hewitson.—Frank M. Thorne's company, under the direction of Messrs Carson and Granville, is here this week with Napoleon the Great. Mr Hugh Montgomery gives a thoughtful and vigorous portrayal of the title-rôle; Mr Henry Earlesmere is a clever Colonel Lavarennes; Mr Phil Harper is seen to advantage as Colonel Jules Meuron; Mr J. G. Maine as Paul Laczinska is distinctly effective; as Pierre Pomponnet Mr Frank M. Thorne infuses plenty of humour into the part; Mr C. W. Spencer makes a decided hit as Sergeant Choupin; and Mr Louis Edmonde is deserving of mention as Monsieur Fouche. Miss Chrissie Dunbar is both fascinating and accomplished in her portrayal of Marie Waleswka; Miss Maud Russell is all that can be desired as Mdlle. Leonie Marboeuf; Miss Marie Harcourt is a vivacious Marcella Choupin; Miss Florence Thorne plays well as Mere Dumont; and Miss Adelaide Cromer is a sprightly Lisette.

SOUTHAMPTON.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs J. W. Gordon.—Notwithstanding the strong counter attraction large audiences have been witnessing Frederick Melville's successful drama The Ugliest Woman on Earth. The cast is a capital one, special mention being made of Miss Beatrice Homer, who, in the title-rôle, has proved herself an emotional actress of undoubted ability. The mounting and staging are excellent, and the play, which bristles with exciting incidents, is followed throughout with intense interest.

PALACE.—Manager, Mr Charles Marte.—Franco Piper, an expert banjoist, wins loud applause for his artistic and clever musical turn, Lind? Les Voces, operatic duettists; Dot Hardy, comedienne; Knick Knacks, dancers; Lizzie B. Raymond, comedienne; Will Harvey, comedian; and Rhoda Brothers, in their equilibristic act, all appear with conspicuous success; and the Bioscope is as popular as ever.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr W. Marlow, sen.; Manager, Mr W. Marlow, jun.—This week's attraction is provided by Mr Geo. Lyttleton and established dramatic company, who are presenting the powerful domestic comedy melodrama, in four acts, entitled At War With the World. The play meets with well-merited success, and the scenery is pretty. Squire Redfern finds an able exponent in Mr Geo. Lyttleton, jun.; Mr Geo. Lyttleton, sen., well portrays Tom Redfern; Mr Leslie K. Manton takes the character of Hugh Redfern, known as Farmer Maddox, creditably; Thornton Westmeare, the adventurer, has a clever exponent in Mr A. E. Johnstone; Mr F. J. Lewis as Gregory Blotts makes a humorous character; Jack Arkwright is well presented by Mr Lyon Farwell; Miss Lilian Beaumont gives a winsome portrayal of Edna Maddox; Miss Nora Kingsley does well as Mrs Leslie; and Miss Helen Farnell is pleasing as Mabel Leslie.

SPENNYMOOR.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

ST. JAMES'S.

On Friday, Jan. 27, the Play, in One Act, by Alfred Sutro, entitled
"A MAKER OF MEN."

Cuthbert Farringdon .... Mr W. Graham Browne
Edith Farringdon ..... Miss Edith Olive
A Maid ..... Miss Barbara Hannay

Mr Alfred Sutro is the playwright who has been quite powerful in preaching a strong sermon against the morals of a certain section of society and at the same time in embodying his discourse in a successful play, well constructed, dramatic, and full of clever character-drawing. On Friday, the 27th ult., he followed his own example—The Walls of Jericho—at the St. James's in what is practically a duologue, containing a strong and admirably written treatise on the duty of the married woman of the middle classes, as a mother, wife, and companion, and we may say at once that his essay made an irresistible appeal to a large audience. Cuthbert and Edith Farrington, both representatives of educated gentility, have a refined home, but the sum of three hundred pounds per annum hardly represents luxury, and the husband, a bank clerk, at the rising of the curtain is anxiously awaiting a letter that he hopes will make a change in his fortunes. He has applied for the post of branch manager, and if successful his income will be doubled. There will be less drudgery for Edith, who superintends the ménage and the training of the three boys with the help of one small servant. They will be able to keep another domestic; they will occasionally afford a stall at a theatre, a dinner at a restaurant, or other little extravagances that are at present outside the scope of Cuthbert's present salary. The letter arrives, and is a sore disappointment. It is his last chance, and he has lost it. The good fortune is not to be his, and Cuthbert bitterly reproaches himself. He had been a "rotten" failure in life; opportunity had knocked at the door, and he had not opened it. It was not mere influence that had kept him unpromoted while younger men stepped over him; it was want of ability. Edith opposes his unreason by sweet reasonableness. With the unerring tact and sympathy of a woman of high culture she battles his pessimism. She talks of her children—the three boys who have been given to them. What better nurse could they have than their own mother? What greater privilege could a woman have than the training of her own children? It was a blessed responsibility, and she would fulfil it by being a maker of men! Slavery, drudgery—it was never that! It could not be so in a home ruled by love, since love is the only thing that counts in this foolish world. The husband becomes reconciled to disappointment by the delightful optimism of an ideal wife, and the curtain falls. The thesis is beautifully written, and though A Maker of Men is not dramatic, it sounds a deeply sympathetic note, and its reception was of the most cordial character. Miss Edyth Olive, who has of late been doing excellent work in classical rôles, pictures the loving wife and mother in a way that goes straight to the heart. Such tenderness, sincerity, and charm are rare. High hopes and lofty ideals could not find more eloquent utterance. Mr W. Graham Browne, whose early speeches were somewhat hurried, made the irritable self-reproaches of Cuthbert Farringdon sound quite natural, and gave excellent support generally. Miss Barbara Hannay had nothing to do as the maid, so that the little play resolves itself into a duologue. Visitors to the St. James's should on no account miss it.

Life is not taken seriously in Lady Windermere's Fan, and the brilliant persiflage of that comedy may be heartily enjoyed not once, but many times. There are two important alterations in the cast since we last noticed it. The place of Mr Sydney Brough, who is now at His Majesty's, is taken by Mr Eric Lewis. His Lord Augustus Lorton is an imperturbably good-tempered noodle, but unmistakably a gentleman; and Mr Lewis, though always putting such exquisite polish on his work, never forgets his humorous chances, but makes the very most of them. Another new comer to the cast is Mr Robert Horton, who does duty for Mr Vane Tempest in the rôle of Dumby. The part is not a great one, but it has an important place in the author's comedy plan, and Mr Horton is absolutely correct in his treatment of it. Miss Marion Terry is better than ever as Mrs Erlynne, and the scene between the mother and daughter in Lord Darlington's rooms, which is the most dramatic in the piece, is admirably treated by both Miss Terry and Miss Braithwaite. Miss Fanny Coleman as the Duchess of Berwick is a most amusing society grande dame—in this instance a compound of shrewdness and common sense. Mr Ben Webster makes the most of his chances in the last two acts of the play, and Mr C. Aubrey Smith presents the brilliant talker and lady-killer Lord Darlington as a reasonable and even a sympathetic personage. Mr Leslie Faber gives excellent emphasis to the many good things uttered by Mr Cecil Graham; and the characters of Lady Plumdale, Lady Cowper-Cowper, Lady Jedburgh, and Lady Agatha Carlisle are handled with refinement and delicacy by Miss Pauline French, Miss Eileen Lewis, Miss Elinor Aickin, and Miss Coresandio Hamilton. The comedy goes exceedingly well, and is punctuated with laughter throughout.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, Jan. 30, the Play, in Three Acts, by Eugen Tschirikoff, entitled
"THE CHOSEN PEOPLE."

A particularly interesting and appropriate engagement this week is the visit direct from the Avenue Theatre of the St. Petersburg dramatic company, under the direction of Mr P. N. Orleneff, in Eugen Tschirikoff's play, The Chosen People. As this was fully noticed in our columns of last week we need only say that the success obtained by the sincerity of the performance at the West-end was fully assured on Monday evening by the close and earnest attention with which the audience followed every incident in this somewhat lengthily drawn-out tragedy. Madame A. Nasimoff gave a powerful rendering of Lia, and Mr N. Orloff was natural as the old watchmaker, Leiser Frenkel, while Mr P. N. Orleneff as Nachmann, the Zionist leader, presented a vigorous interpretation of the part. A well-studied reading of Boruch was given by Mr D. Michailoff, and Mr A. Karataeff was capital as Isersson. Mr J. Wronski was well placed as Beresin, and capable impersonations of Furman and Srul were given by Mr A. Sorokin and Mr D. Letkowsky. The remaining characters were in good hands, and the one scene, Frankel's Shop and House, was a well-built set. Mr Charles Aves, the musical conductor, is to be congratulated on the exceptionally fine playing of the Pavilion orchestra, the overture, "Rosamunde" (Schubert), "Hungarian dances" (Brahms), "Berceuse" of Godard, and "Songs without Words" (Mendelssohn), being brilliantly executed and greatly appreciated.

THE BRITANNIA.

On Monday, Jan. 30, the Drama, by James Willard, entitled
"A WOMAN'S PLUCK."

The successful pantomime season at this theatre terminated on Saturday night, and drama again has occupation of a stage which was for so many years specially associated with this form of entertainment when the famous Hoxton house was under the management of the late Mrs Sara Lane. Mr James Willard's play was originally produced at the Crown Theatre, Peckham, on June 1, 1903, under the title of The Crimson Horseshoe. The heroine of the story is a young girl known as Jessie Pope, who is supposed to be the child of poor parents, but is really the heiress to the property of Sir Noel Fordyce. She was kidnapped, it appears, when a child, and having been taken charge of by some wandering gipsies, was adopted by Matthew Pope, a blind basket maker. The villain of the play is a certain Dick Darrell, who claims to be the heir presumptive to Sir Noel Fordyce, but he does not have all his own way, for he finds a match in Grace Daremont, his mistress, who has learnt the noble art of self-defence. This comes in very useful when she discovers that Grace has been subjected to the unmanly persecution of Darrell. She puts on the gloves and gives him "the soundest thrashing he has ever had in his life." In spite of this severe lesson, however, he attempts to murder Jessie by throwing her into the river, but she is rescued by her sweetheart, Winston Dale, and the lovers are eventually made happy. Miss East Robertson has been specially engaged for her original rôle of Grace Daremont, and she again played the part with a spirit and vigour that made her performance one of supreme excellence. She was specially successful in the scene with Darrell already mentioned, and which gives the play its new title. Mr Arthur Burne acted well as the hero, Winston Dale; and Mr Frank Harding gave a clever rendering of Dick Darrell. Mr J. C. Aubrey was successful in his delineation of Jim Daremont, known as "the Tiger." Mr Tom Wallace displayed considerable humour as Roger Pippin, a Punch and Judy showman, and was capitally supported by Miss Marie Wright as Mrs Pippin; Mr Harry Pleon, jun., scored as the precocious youth, Bertie Daredevil; and Mr Brian Daly was good as Mathew Pope. Miss Jessie Yatman in the part of Jessie Pope won general favour. Miss Julia Summers did well as Mrs Pope, and other female characters were creditably played by the Misses Emily Dowton, Gladys Anderson, Marie St. George, and Daisy Price. Mr T. Teversham appeared as Sir Noel Fordyce, known as "the Mad Squire;" and other parts were entrusted to Messrs Paul Peters, Chas. Groves, John Willet, J. P. Ellis, and others. The varieties this week include an original series of illustrated pictures and Mr Arthur Gilbert, character comedian.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, Jan. 30, the Drama, in Four Acts, by C. R. Clarke and H. R. Sylva, entitled "HONOUR THY FATHER."

The Marylebone devotees of drama turned up in full force to welcome the return visit of Mr T. Morton Powell's company in this successful play from the Imperial Theatre. The rôle of Gabriel Garth was sustained in forcible fashion by Mr J. W. Evelyn, his work throughout the evening denoting earnest interest in his part. The villainous Duncan Bly found an excellent exponent in Mr Juan De Alberti, who lent conspicuous distinction to a trying character. Mr Walter Dale as Mike Copplestone acted in a rollicking style, quickly becoming a warm favourite, and Mr W. H. Melrose as Ned Pennycomequick must be commended for a good rendering of a part not overburdened with possibilities. As Jack Halyard Mr Douglas B. Watson played in a cheery, breezy manner, whilst Mr Claude Merton had his hands full, for in addition to stage-managing the production he acted the dual-rôle of Job Merry and George Bloggs in capital style. Miss Mabel Coleman portrayed Lilian Garth in a natural and easy way; Miss Kitty Russell threw plenty of energy and spirit into the part of Mercy Merry; Miss Lizzie Moorley was a pert and vivacious Poppy Cornleigh; Miss Maud Grey was well placed as Violet Wilfred; and Miss Kate Newton scored as Gertrude Garth. The mounting of the play left nothing to be desired, and in front Mr Morton Powell's interests were looked after in a capable way by Mr Frank Eden.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, Jan. 30, the Comedy, by Frederick Fenn and Richard Pryce, entitled
"SATURDAY TO MONDAY."

Last Saturday the run of the pantomime at the Grand, Fulham, came to an end, and on Monday the ordinary season began. The opening piece was that "irresponsible comedy," Saturday to Monday, by Frederick Fenn and Richard Pryce, played by a capital company organised by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison. The company appeared to treat it more as a farce than a comedy, and there is much to be said in favour of this line of action. In most parts it is more farce than comedy, and the frank acceptance as farce of all that part which deals with the disillusionment of the too-confiding ladies serves to minimise the jarring effect which the rather heartless joke of Lord Culver might otherwise produce on the finer feelings of the sensitive playgoer. But, in addition to the farce, there is a pleasant vein of real sentiment running through the play. Mr Stuart Champion was excellent as Lord Culvert both in his reckless and his tender moods. Miss Moyra Creegan, who adds much charm of manner to a singularly fine presence, won all sympathies as Mrs Wendover. Mr Dallas Welford made a clever character study of the part of the utterly absurd Pidding, and Miss Adeline Lester was equally amusing as Lady Diana. Mr Edwin Ling as a typical stage curate and Miss Madge Burton as his parochially minded sister were another laughable couple. Miss Kitty Doyle made a charming ingénue, and Miss Charlotte Mead as Miss Skeat, Miss Leyton as the maid, Thompson, with Mr Jack Hampton as Lord Culvert's secretary, Probyn, gave satisfactory renderings of their respective parts. Mrs Wendover's dinner gown was a dream of beauty, and the scenery should also have a word of praise, especially the set for act two, the Garden at Mrs Wendover's, with the river in the background. Altogether the company was most satisfactory, and although most of the play was farce—or very near it—there was not a trace of vulgarity or horseplay in words or "business." The curtain-raiser was Judged by Appearances, a little piece of more than average merit, in which Mr Dallas Welford as the despised husband who could not persuade the burglar to shoot him showed what he could do in a more serious rôle than that of Stanley Pidding. He was well supported by Miss Doyle and Messrs Ling and Hampton.

SHAKESPEARE, CLAPHAM-JUNCTION.

On Monday, Jan. 30, the Great Drury-lane Drama entitled
"THE WORLD."

After a successful run of pantomime, this theatre has reverted to drama, with an excellent example in The World, which was the first melodramatic hit made by Sir Augustus Harris at "The Lane." The company is good and thoroughly up to its work. Miss Beatrice Fay as Mary, the persecuted heroine, plays a difficult part with power and effect. The chief villian is most capably represented by Mr Francis Hawley; Mr Stuart Lomath as Sir Clement Huntingford plays in manly fashion; the Mose Jewell of Mr Johnny M'Elroy is very funny; Mr Jackson Hayes as Martin Bashford gives a vigorous and acceptable rendering of the part; Mr Payn Warburton plays Langley, the villainous lawyer, to the life; the Doctor Hawkins of Mr Valentine J. Cooke is an excellent study; and Mr Edward Beecham as the dying castaway wins the sympathies of the house. Miss Maud Scott acquits herself well as Ned, and Mabel Huntingford, the ill-treated wife, is sympathetically presented by Miss Octavia Noel. Miss Ida Irving as the fiancee of Dr. Wyndham dances well in tableau nine, and gives a capable rendering of the part.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Jan. 30, the Play, by Hall Caine, entitled
"THE ETERNAL CITY."

Mr Bannister Howard's company, which is this week presenting Hall Caine's play The Eternal City to Dalston audiences, is meeting with a large amount of appreciation. The chief character in the play, that of the Baron Bonelli, is taken by Mr D. Leslie Mannering, who acts with courtly dignity and seems to thoroughly enter into the true spirit of the part. Mr Frederick Victor represents David Rossi, member of the Chamber of Deputies, and he makes an earnest and energetic champion of the cause of the people. Pope Pius XI. finds an excellent exponent in Mr F. Vernon Travers, who is evidently fully aware of the necessity of maintaining a calm and impressive demeanour in the representation of such a character. Mr P. L. Julian as Bruno Rocco (Rossi's friend), Mr E. Stanton Sharp as chief of the Roman police, and Mr Edward Clowes as Father Pifferi, a Capuchin friar, sustain their parts with due regard to effect. Miss Helen Haye in representing Donna Roma Volonna (Bonelli's ward) essays a task to which her talents supply the necessary element of success. The audience come to the conclusion as the representation proceeds that she is more sinned against than sinning, and Miss Haye is the recipient of much applause. Others representing female characters are Miss Edith King, Madame Rubardt, Miss Renee De L'Estrade, and Miss Mara Maltby; the cast also including Messrs T. Russell, W. Roberts, Cronin Wilson, C. Stafford, A. G. Brown, Russell Thorndike, R. Court, R. R. Moore, Percy Barlow, and D. Yarrow. The scenery throughout the five acts is particularly effective.

BROADWAY THEATRE, S.E.

On Monday, Jan. 30, the Play entitled
"THE BREED OF THE TRESHAMS."

The enormously successful pantomime Dick Whittington came to an end on Saturday night, and was succeeded on Monday by a widely different form of entertainment viz., the engagement of Mr Martin Harvey in the play entitled The Breed of the Treshams. In Lieutenant Rearsby Mr Martin Harvey has a part that fits him exactly. He is admirable in all the varying phases of the character. A more enjoyable performance it is impossible to conceive. The broad effects are beyond praise, and the close study of every minor detail of the part is admirable. Mr Harvey is excellently supported by the veteran actor, Mr Fred Wright, whose Colonel Bagshaw is a capable piece of work; and by Mr Charles Glenney, who sufficiently emphasises the villainy of Colonel Clement Rutherford, and adds much to the success of the play by his powerful rendering of the parts. Mr George Cookes acts remarkably well as Sir Henry Curwen, and makes the character one of the most interesting in the cast. Mr Reeve Denbigh exactly realises the cowardly braggart Captain Stanhope; Mr Leonard Craske is good as Captain Rashleigh, Mr Eugene Wellesley is a clever Lieutenant Willoughby; Mr Percy Anstey is quietly effective and convincing as Cornet the Hon. Francis Tresham. The remaining male parts are in the competent hands of Messrs Arthur Maude, A. Manefield, P. Hewland, P. Alexander, and R. Havers. Miss Coleridge is an interesting Margaret Hungerford; Mrs Bagshaw is admirably acted by Miss Edith Coleman; Miss Bessie Elder is good as Helena Pierrepont; and last, but by no means least, clever Miss N. De Silva shows by her artistic representation of Batty what good work she can do when she has the chance. There were numerous "calls" at the end of the acts.

GREENWICH THEATRE.

On Monday, Jan. 30, the Play, entitled
"IT'S NEVER TOO LATE TO MEND."

Mr John Wainwright's company is doing full justice to Charles Reade's famous play, which seems to increase in popularity as the years go by. Mr Wainwright as Tom Robinson is a host in himself—he brings out every point with the skill of the legitimate artist. He is ably supported by Mr Wilfred Graham, whose George Fielding is excellent in every way. Mr Charles F. Johnson is very good as the tender-hearted Mr Eden, whose earnest work as prison chaplain appeals so strongly to the audience. An exactly opposite character is that of Mr Hawes, the governor of the model prison, which is graphically rendered by Mr W. R. Wilson. Mr Henry Lee's Peter Crawley is an excellent character-study. Mr Edwin Davis is a picturesque and powerful Isaac Levi, Mr Harold Webb is a sufficiently hard-hearted and unscrupulous Meadows, Mr Fred Owen causes unbounded merriment by the antics of Jackey, Mr W. R. Weldon acts well as Mr Merton, and the same remark applies to Mr Charles Carlton as William Fielding. Miss Kate Randolph is a pleasing and capable Susan Merton, while Miss Minnie Wilton's sympathetic rendering of the part of the ill-fated lad Josephs wins all hearts. The remaining characters are in good hands.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Jan. 30, the Musical, Pantomimical Comedy,
"THE SWISS EXPRESS."

The Brothers Renad are here this week with their amusing burlesque, The Swiss Express. Messrs Charles and Frederick Renad are, of course, the life and soul of the piece, and well do they acquit themselves, for it is difficult to imagine anything funnier than their impersonation of the two footmen. The clever way in which they work together and play into each other's hands is itself worth seeing, and adds largely to the success of their performance. That their efforts are fully appreciated is plainly evident from the attitude of the audience, with whom it is indeed a case of "laughter holding both its sides." Valuable assistance in the direction of mirth-providing is rendered by Mr Wilford Bailey, whose richly humorous impersonation of Dr. Gull calls forth shouts of laughter. Miss May Heart makes a winsome Virginia. She acts with ease and grace, her singing and dancing also being much appreciated; Miss Nellie Fern hits off the part of Mrs Squeeze to a nicety; Mr George Martin is responsible for a droll rendering of Rob Rollingstone; Mr Alec Wylie plays Dudley Green with a good deal of dry humour; and Mr George Power as the hotel-keeper and Mr H. Alexander as Squeeze contribute considerably towards keeping everyone in a good humour. The smaller parts are carefully and capably rendered, and the play is mounted and staged excellently. A notable and acceptable feature of the entertainment is the clever dancing and bright singing of the Brighton Girls.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, Jan. 30, the Play, in Three Acts, by Louis N. Parker, entitled
"THE CARDINAL."

Following upon a most successful pantomime season Mr Peter Davey, the managing-director of the Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, presented his patrons on Monday with that pathetically interesting play, The Cardinal, which was brought entire from the St. James's Theatre, and was produced under the personal direction of the author. Mrs Russ Whytal's company was a very strong one all round, and gave a rendering that was eminently creditable to all concerned. The central figure in the production, Cardinal Giovanni di Medici was played by Mr Philip Cuningham, who succeeded in enlisting the sympathies of the audience from the rising of the curtain till the end by an eminently clever portrayal of the cleric torn by conflicting emotions. Mrs Russ Whytal as Filiberta also achieved a great success, her acting being most impressive. A very clever impression of the swaggering outlaw, Andrea Strozzi, was given by Mr Douglas Gordon, and Miss Katherine Maude was most lovable and pathetic as the Cardinal's mother, Clarice De Medici. Other parts most ably filled were those of Giuliano De Medici by Mr Gerald Kay-Souper, Francisco by Mr Harold Sims Standing, Honoria by Miss Freda Bramleigh, Guido Baglioni by Mr George Ingleton, and Bartolommeo Chigi by Mr Oscar Ayde. The play was beautifully mounted in the matter of scenery, and the costumes were magnificent.

A SAD bereavement has befallen Mr Thomas, the Emperor, in Mr Arthur Carlton's Aladdin company, he having lost his wife. The deceased lady was buried on Tuesday.

THE recently discovered and presumably unique copy of the First Quarto edition of Shakespeare's Titus Andronicus, 1594, has been purchased by Messrs Sotheran and Co., of the Strand, at a price approaching £2,000.

"GREAT FRIENDS."

A Comedy, in Three Acts, by G. S. Street, Produced by the Stage Society at the Court Theatre, on Sunday, Jan. 29.

Dick Trenderby ..... Mr Vernon Steel
Charles Pontemarx ..... Mr G. M. Graham
Watkins ..... Mr Fewlass Llewellyn
Lady Caroline Pontemarx ..... Miss Helen Rous
Sydney Baldwin, M.P. .. Mr Dawson Milward
Lady Raffin ..... Miss Gertrude Kingston
Grace Pontemarx ..... Miss Dorothy Grimston
The Duke of Surrey .... Mr Percy D. Standing
Sir William Raffin ..... Mr George Trollope
Footman ..... Mr Philip Williams
The Rev. the Hon. Herbert Pontemarx ..... Mr Herbert Grimwood

This new comedy was produced at the Court Theatre on Sunday night, and matinée performances were given on Monday and Tuesday. Since it was founded six years ago, the Stage Society has been responsible for the production of a number of plays—good, bad, and indifferent; and the members can be congratulated on having, at least, given an opportunity to the aspiring unknown dramatist. The Society has also done commendable work in staging foreign pieces, translated into English; and their performances attract a certain class who are ever ready to welcome the unconventional play, whether it be comedy or drama. In a piece from the pen of so clever a writer as Mr G. S. Street, one may be certain of finding good work, and though Great Friends is disappointing in certain important respects, it contains much more than an average share of witty dialogue and there are some excellent sketches of character. The plot, however, is not strong, and there is too much talk, good as it is. The story turns upon the love affairs of Sydney Baldwin, a rising young politician, who may be a very astute member of Parliament, but is somewhat wanting in tact and discretion in the management of his own affairs. While paying a visit to some friends in the country he meets and falls in love with a young girl named Grace Pontemarx; but he continues his friendship with Lady Raffin, the wife of Sir William Raffin. Now this lady does not bear a very good reputation, and as Mr Baldwin is constantly seen in her society he is severely taken to task by various people. First of all, Lady Caroline Pontemarx, a very plain spoken dame, has something to say on behalf of her daughter, Grace. She warns him against the designing Lady Raffin, but he assures her that they are only friends, and nothing more. A similar warning comes from Baldwin's uncle, the Duke of Surrey, and even his secretary and former schoolfellow Dick Trenderby rather nervously tenders the same advice. In spite of all this, however, Baldwin consents to accompany Lady Raffin and her husband to the opera. It should be said that the latter is suffering from the effects of early dissipation, and is a poor feeble creature, a mere puppet in the hands of his wife, a bright, witty woman of the world. The events of the second act take place in the drawing-room in Sir William Raffin's house. Baldwin has broken his leg through falling over the cat on the doorstep of the house, and is under the care of Lady Raffin, who has assumed the office of nurse. Even Sir William thinks it time that his guest took his departure, and the invalid, who has to be wheeled into the room, has another bad quarter of an hour with Lady Caroline, who speaks her mind very strongly concerning his conduct. Baldwin resents being lectured by his future mother-in-law, as he sees no just cause for it, and, in a spirit of defiance, he accepts an invitation to spend the Whitsun holidays with the Raffins at their country house in Hampshire. The result is that Lady Caroline writes breaking off the engagement with her daughter; and Sir William, who finds Baldwin very much in the way, talks petulantly of going to see his solicitor with a view to a separation. Matters are in this condition when Grace herself, accompanied by Dick Trenderby, makes her unexpected appearance at the Raffins' country mansion, and the enemy is defeated. Baldwin, who has hitherto shown considerable indifference towards the young girl who admires and loves him so devotedly, has a feeling of jealousy aroused by the knowledge that Trenderby is about to ask Grace to become his wife, and the result is that the engagement is resumed, Grace taking her rescued lover back to town with her.

Mr Dawson Milward played the difficult part of Sydney Baldwin in an easy, natural manner that did him much credit. Mr Vernon Steel was capital as young Dick Trenderly, and Mr G. M. Graham submitted a clever sketch of the caddish Charlie Pontemarx who has embarked in business as an agent for a boot manufacturer, and is a hopeless failure. Mr Percy D. Standing, with a slight touch of the Wyndham manner, was good as the Duke of Surrey; and Mr George Trollope very ably depicted the peculiarities of Sir William Raffin, even to the nervous movements of the lips of the man who has become a physical wreck. Miss Gertrude Kingston presented an admirable study of Lady Raffin, the attractive woman of the world who finds in Baldwin a sympathetic companion. Miss Helen Rous played well as Lady Caroline Pontemarx, whose husband, a very preachy cleric who is henpecked, had a good exponent in Mr Herbert Grimwood. Miss Dorothy Grimston was girlish and pleasing as Grace Pontemarx, and two men servants given to betting on the sly were ably represented by Mr Fewlass Llewellyn and Mr Philip Williams.

EALING THEATRE.

On Monday, Jan. 30, the Opera,
"IL TROVATORE."

Mr J. W. Turner's English opera company presented on Monday Il Trovatore on a first visit to this house, and the results achieved were most successful. Mr F. J. Hargrave as Manrico is a fine, vigorous actor and singer, displaying great emotional power, and Mr T. Griffiths gives a good embodiment of the Count Di Luna, and sings with great effect. The Leonora of Miss Alice Booden exhibits capacity of a very high order, her singing being one of the successes of the evening. Miss Lizza Stock as Inez gives evidence of a finely trained and mellow voice, and Miss Mabel Dennis as Azucena also deserves praise. Mr G. H. Ridding as Ferando and Mr A. Wooton as Ruiz are well placed. The largely augmented orchestra, which was under the able direction of Mr T. Lawton, left nothing to be desired. The following operas are in the week's programme:—The Bohemian Girl, Faust, The Lily of Killarney, The Daughter of the Regiment, and Maritana.

THE 250th performance of Sergeant Brue, at the Strand Theatre, took place on Saturday evening. The play is running merrily.

AFTER the performance of the Christmas pantomime Puss in Boots, at the Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, on the 26th ult., the two pantomime companies sent out by Mr Peter Davey, the enterprising manager, in Goody Two Shoes, and who finished a tour of four week on the previous Saturday, joined the Kingston company, and, with a number of invited guests, had a very pleasant evening with dancing and games. In the course of the evening the health of Mr and Mrs Peter Davey was drank with musical honours, and similar compliments were paid to Mr Victor Stevens and Mr T. Taylor. The successful five weeks' run of Puss in Boots closes at the Royal County Theatre to-night.

PRESENTATION.—After the closing performance of Dick Whittington at the Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham-junction, on Saturday evening a handsome cheque was presented on behalf of the company by Miss L. Shaw to Mr J. W. Hemming, who so successfully produced and stage-managed this pantomime. Mr Hemming is very popular with Shakespeare audiences, and this presentation was made amid unmistakable signs of approval from all present.

"A GIRL'S FALSE STEP."

Ned Dornton ..... Mr Ronald Adair
Lemuel Lee ..... Mr Lionel D'Aragon
Timothy Tunks ..... Mr Fred Richards
Jim Peters ..... Mr Victor Rowland
Inspector Stone ..... Mr Roy Cochrane
Constable Clark ..... Mr Wm. Mankell
Warder ..... Mr Major Mason
Joe Bloggs ..... Mr W. White
Criss Lee ..... Miss Doris Whyte
Milly Markly ..... Miss Louise Hampton
Dora Markly ..... Miss Eugenie Magnus
Patty Tunks ..... Miss Winnie Whyte
Sall Scowler ..... Miss Fanny Wallace
Matron ..... Miss Summerfield
Daisy Dornton ..... Miss Florrie M'Kay

Dramatic enthusiasts exist in large numbers at Hoxton, where Mr Leonard Mortimer has provided for the poorer classes a Temple of Thespis at which plays are given on the twice-nightly system at prices consistent with their resources. On Monday he "offered" a new drama from the pen of Mr Harold Whyte, a playwright who in True to the Queen, Fettered Lives, and other productions has given evidence of his ability to provide melodrama for the masses. He is well aware of the popular appetite for sensation, and it must be said that in his latest effusion he feeds it to repletion. There are flashes of originality in the story, which, however, are obscured by the necessities for excitement, but of sound pathos and thrilling episodes there are plenty, and the piece is constructed with so much ingenuity that the audience on Monday entered thoroughly into the story and were kept engrossed throughout. One of the "worst women in London" is the central figure of the play. Prior to the opening she had contracted a marriage with a gipsy named Lemuel Lee, but having tired of him had had him sent to prison on a false charge of theft, and deserted him and their boy. After many years she has found in Ned Dornton, a young gamekeeper, the object of her maturer affections, and, believing the gipsy to be dead, wishes to marry Ned, and tells him so. Ned, however, is more impressed by Dora's sister Milly Markly, though he has never told her of his love. In order to turn his affections from her, Dora tells Ned that it was Milly who had had an intrigue with Gipsy Lee, and Milly, obedient to an undertaking which she had given to her dying mother to protect her sister, when confronted by Ned with the impeachment, does not repudiate it, even though Lee himself turns up to claim his wife. Ned, in the excess of his grief at losing Milly, admits his love for her, which so enrages Dora that in a fit of jealousy she stabs him in the back, throwing the crime upon the shoulders of her sister. The deed is witnessed by a lad named Criss, the son of Lem Lee and Dora, who, knowing nothing of his relationship to his mother, is instinctively attached to her, and so devoted that he will not clear Milly, who is found guilty, and sent to penal servitude, together with the gipsy. She spends seven years in prison, and meanwhile Ned, who has recovered from the blow and believed Dora's story, has married her; but their life is unhappy, for Dora has taken to drink and holds her husband in contempt, believing, not without reason, that he still feels a tenderness for Milly. An escape from the prison is effected by Lemuel Lee, who undermines the walls with gunpowder. Lee makes his way to Dora's house, and is about to wreak vengeance upon her, when Ned's knock is heard at the door, and Lee takes refuge in the adjoining room, where Ned and Dora's child is asleep. When he is discovered, Lee protects himself by holding the youngster between him and Ned's gun, and makes off with the wounded child. He is met by Milly, who also escaped from gaol, and she induces him to part with the girl, whom she takes to her lodgings, the rent of which is overdue. She is about to be turned out by the heartless landlady, when Dora, who has taken the room over her head, arrives, and in a moment of repentance pays the sum in arrears. Finding her own child ill on the bed, she hastens out to raise money upon her sister's ring, but the pawnshops are closed, and she steals from the first passer-by, who happens to be Ned Dornton. The police trace the unhappy woman to Milly's lodgings, where Milly again becomes the victim, but Ned refuses to prosecute. Milly applies for situation as housekeeper to Ned, not knowing who the advertiser is, and is instrumental in preventing a burglary by Lemuel Lee, who is induced by Ned to confess that Dora is his wife and that it was her hand that struck the cowardly blow. There is consequently no bar to the union of Ned and Milly, her sister, Dora, escaping her gipsy husband's vengeance by taking her own life.

The stock company at the King's Theatre were well adapted to the various parts. Mr Ronald Adair possesses all the attributes requisite in the hero of the play, and acted with sincerity, declaiming vigorously the thrilling lines which fall to the rôle of Ned. A moving impersonation of Milly Markly was given by Miss Louise Hampton, who graces every phase of the character, whether as the sweet and gentle nurse or as the deeply wronged and innocent girl. A vivid picture of female depravity was drawn of Dora Markly by Miss Eugenie Magnus, who in accent and manner cleverly suggested the passionate and vindictive woman who has forfeited human respect by her inebriety and callousness. Mr Lionel D'Aragon gave a highly-coloured portraiture of the gipsy Lemuel Lee, investing the part with deep intensity and portraying his vicious propensities with undoubted skill. Mr Fred Richards as Timothy Tunks, a relieving officer, supplied the comedy of the piece, and did it very ably, and Miss Winnie Whyte as his wife Patty made every use of the comic possibilities of the part. A realistic impersonation of a cripple boy was given by Miss Doris Whyte, who acted with striking poignancy the part of the ill-used lad; Miss Florrie M'Kay made an agreeable child of Daisy Dornton; Miss Fanny Wallace improved her chances of making mirth as a female gaolbird, and a warder and an inspector were well enacted by Mr Victor Rowland and Mr Roy Cochrane, the latter gentleman also discharging the duties of producer.

COVENT-GARDEN BALL.

The fancy dress ball at Covent-garden held on the 27th ult. again attracted a large number of dancers as well as spectators. The charming variety of beautiful costumes was as striking as ever. A dress entitled "Forget-me-not" attracted much attention and was greatly admired. On a pale blue satin ground there were hand-painted portraits of such distinguished people of the past as Lord Salisbury, Wellington, Sir Augustus Harris, Fred Leslie, Nellie Farren, Dan Leno, and Sir Arthur Sullivan. The hat was of forget-me-nots, and that symbolic little flower was put to effective use in other parts of the dress. There was also a "Russia and Japan" costume, a half-and-half dress, the "Kimono" being beautifully painted. A "Morning Star" dress was also much admired; it was of pale blue satin, smothered in chiffon, and silvered over with stars and electric light. A little belated was "A New Year's Greeting," yet pretty, and of the ordinary run of dresses there were many. Mr W. Clarkson was successful in gaining first prize (ladies) for the dress already mentioned entitled "Forget-me-not;" the first gentlemen's prize for a dress called "Baltic Seas," and others for "Westeria," "The Rajah of Bhong," &c. The procession took place at two o'clock, when the many valuable prizes presented by Messrs Rendle and Forsyth were awarded, and thereafter dancing proceeded merrily until the early hours of the morning.

THE 100th performance of that scathing satire on smart society The Walls of Jericho will take place at the Garrick Theatre to-night.

ALLEGED DEARTH OF DRAMATISTS.

M. J. Coudurier's lecture explaining "Why this Country has no Dramatist" was delivered to the members of the Playgoers' Club, at the Hotel Cecil, on Sunday evening. M. Coudurier is the London correspondent of the Figaro, and, in introducing him, Mr B. W. FINDON, the chairman, assured his auditory that the lecturer came to them with no desire whatever to traduce those writers whom the people of this country admired or revered as dramatic authors. What M. Coudurier wished to show, explained Mr Findon, was that the dramatic art of Paris was superior to the dramatic art of London—in which task, perhaps, he would not experience very great difficulty. Mr Findon added, amidst applause, a tribute to M. Coudurier for the good work he was doing by making known to the people of Paris what was going on here.

M. COUDURIER, promising that his address would be so brief as to render the description "little speech" more fitting for it, said he had naught to do with the choice of the title for what had been announced as his lecture. What he had intended was to come amongst them and say something about the French drama. In his own opinion, M. Paul Hervieu was the leading dramatist of France, and he trusted that his hearers would be able to decide, after meditation upon the writings of Hervieu and other Frenchmen, whether in England a real dramatist did exist. The man who dared to write plays which made people think was, to his own mind, a dramatist, as distinguished from a playwright; and, that being his opinion, he evidently could not speak of the greater number of English plays. What was interesting in life was the fight of the passions, and the nature of the consequences which might follow when once the passions were aroused. Paul Hervieu had studied the perturbations of married life. Les Tenailles, for instance, dealt first with the inability of a woman to escape from an obnoxious marriage-tie if the husband did not consent, and then with the inability of the husband to escape from it when he discovered that his wife had subsequently become unfaithful, but had no tangible proof to produce so long as she chose to deny it. A child had been born which was not his; the father of the child had died; and the ostensible parent had always loved the child, believing it to be his own. Hervieu merely posed interrogations in his plays; he did not supply answers. Le Dédale and La Course du Flambeau illustrated other aspects of the same dramatist's mode of contemplating conjugal problems. M. Coudurier also cited Daudet, and "even Capus," but did not quote from their works. In conclusion, he requested a debate as a means of eliciting an expression of belief in the existence of an English dramatist somewhere.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

All things must have an ending, and it is a matter of general regret in Hammersmith that Mr J. B. Mulholland's third annual must terminate to-night in consequence of arrangements long since entered into. It is understood that Red Riding Hood has been the most successful of the pantomimes produced here, and Mr Mulholland may be heartily congratulated on the fact that it appeals to and has been received with the utmost enjoyment by old and young alike. The unnamed author who neatly interwove the story of Red Riding Hood with that of Robin Hood, and incidentally introduced such characters as Boy Blue and King Richard Cœur de Lion, did his work cleverly. But no pantomime could be considered satisfactory without an adequate combination of artistes to interpret it, and we can confidently say that the cast provided by Mr Mulholland could not have been bettered. In the title-rôle Miss Empsie Bowman has created numbers of friends by her dainty acting and singing. Miss Isa Bowman, another member of a talented family, has thoroughly justified her second year's engagement by giving a rendering of Boy Blue which it has been a pleasure to witness. A very handsome and picturesque Robin Hood is Miss Gwladys Elvey, who scores tremendously, and Miss Hilda Antony, a pretty and winsome Maid Marian, has captivated all observers. Little John and Will Scarlett have been admirably undertaken by Miss Maude Duval and Miss Ina Alston. Mr Russell Wallett has made an immense hit as Dame Durden, and is a welcome accession to the ranks of pantomime comedians who can be funny without being coarse. Friar Tuck found a jovial representative in Mr Joseph Rowland. Mr Arthur Laceby has distinguished himself as the bold bad Baron, and his original style has quite caught on. Two very droll comedians are Messrs Bennett and Martell, who as Johnny Stout and Johnny Green have caused genuine and uproarious laughter. Mr Lloyd Morgan as King Richard acted and sang pleasantly, and Mr Arthur Boyne as Billy Bailey proved himself humorous. The Witch of the Wood was powerfully acted by Mr Tom Warren, and Mr Fred Leoville made a capital Wolf. Much praise is due to Mr Lloyd Townrow for his excellent stage-management, and the original and selected music of Mr Fritz B. Hart, the musical director, is deserving of commendation. The dances arranged by Miss Ina Alston have been admired, and Miss Enid Erroll's dancing has won vigorous applause. The lavish display in dresses and scenery has brought forth the highest praise. In the front of the house Mr Frank Carlyon has displayed great tact and ability in his arduous duties of acting-manager, which are manifold in the case of a highly successful pantomime.

This new play was first presented at the Queen's Theatre, Longton, on the 23rd ult., by Mr Charles Fulton's company. The action opens at Marswood Hall, where Captain Harding recognises in the Countess Marswood an old sweetheart, she having by marriage attained an affluent position such as the Captain was unable to give her. He again makes love to her and endeavours to persuade her to elope with him. Her husband, the Earl, after a violent scene with his wife, obtains a confession; and then follows what appears to be a very strange arrangement — the Earl and Captain Harding agreeing to decide who should possess the lady by the cutting of cards. Captain Harding is not fortunate, and thereupon commits suicide. As a punishment to his wife the Earl gives into the keeping of an old servant her son, telling her that she shall never see him again. The servant, however, dupes his master. Clifton Manville, described as a society blackguard, subsequently appears on the scene, and, learning that the Earl desires to leave to his ward, Dorothy, his fortune, endeavours to secure her in marriage. Dorothy, however, has a liking for Drummond Tredegar, the child brought up by the coachman, and who occupies the position of farm bailiff on the estate. Drummond is made the victim of a conspiracy. The plotters are led by Olga D'Eyncourt, known as "The Vengeance," who, having failed to secure the hand of the Earl (his wife being dead), endeavours by her machinations to marry Drummond. The plot develops and introduces Olga agitating a revolt—"the poor against the rich"—and culminates in an attack on Marshwood Hall. Olga offers to tell Drummond the secret of his parentage provided he joins the agitation. He declines, and hence becomes an object of Olga's hate. After the plotters' schemes have been foiled, Clifton Manville offers to bring back to the Earl his son, on being paid £10,000. This the Earl agrees to, and the play ends with the betrothal of Dorothy and Drummond.

Dorothy Murdock is charmingly represented by Miss Mary Mallalieu. Although suffering from a cold Miss Olive Fulton gave a powerful portrayal of Olga. Mr P. E. Draco was distinctly good as the Earl. As Drummond Mr Charles Francis did well. The part of Clifton Manville was satisfactorily presented by Mr O. B. Borer. Miss Jenny Bostock as Sal was realistic, and was successfully supported by Mr A. Traill as Sam Sully. The comedy was in good hands, Mr Dick Thomas creating merriment throughout. Mr Herbert Clifton worked hard, and introduced some taking impersonations. Miss Pattie Elliott as Moya Darling was also a favourite. Special scenery has been painted for the play by Mr J. Barry Parker.

THE LATE MR. CHARLES KEAN CHUTE.

Mr Charles Kean Chute, who died on the 26th ult., was a brother of Mr James Macready Chute, proprietor and manager of the Prince's Theatre, Bristol. He had suffered for some time from a rather unusual form of complaint, an enlarged spleen, and on Jan. 9 he went to Brighton for a fortnight. He derived much benefit from the change, and Mr Milton Bode offered him an engagement in one of his companies. Unfortunately the improvement in health was only temporary. He returned to town on Monday, the 23rd ult. On the following Thursday he was seized with an apoplectic fit, from which he never recovered. The deceased was born at Bath in 1858, and was the fifth son of the late Mr J. H. Chute, well known in the West of England as an actor and manager. He was named after Charles Kean, who was his godfather, and was educated at Hayman's School, Hampstead, and the Grammar School, Warminster. After completing his education he was articled to Messrs Smith and Heathcote, architects, Manchester; but his inclinations were towards a theatrical career, and he made his appearance as Gregory, in Romeo and Juliet, at Sadler's Wells. In 1883 he played Geoffrey Ware, in The Silver King, and the following year Theorus, in Claudian. He appeared as Victor De Riel, in Impulse, the part created by the late Mr Arthur Dacre. In 1886, with Miss Bateman (Mrs Crowe), he appeared as Nathan, in Leah. He was Bob Levitt, in Mary Warner, and the Rev. Michael Cristy, in His Wife, produced at Sadler's Wells Theatre. In the spring of 1887 he embodied Frank Morland, in The Harbour Lights, and in the autumn of the same year was George Benson, in The Shadows of a Great City, a part that he was still playing in the following spring. After appearing as Jack Lovell, in Pleasure, Mr Chute was engaged for the part of John Silkstone, in The Bells of Haslemere, a character that he resumed in the spring of 1889. His next appearances were as Nicholas Morland, in Harbour Lights, Dick Redmayne, in The Silver Falls, and Dick Redcliffe, in Alone in London. In 1890 he embodied the Spider, in The Silver King, Levison, in East Lynne, and Captain Macdonald, in The English Rose. In 1892 he represented Clifford Armytage, in The Lights o' London. In 1897 Mr Chute went on a tour to South Africa. He appeared in Quo Vadis? at the Adelphi, also in The Man in the Iron Mask and as Louis Percival, in Jim the Penman. He toured a Lady Slavey company, and was business-manager of The Messenger Boy tour. In 1903 he fulfilled an engagement with Mr Walter Melville as acting-manager at the Adelphi. In 1888 and two following years he appeared in the Christmas pantomime at the Prince's Theatre, Bristol.

MR CECIL CLAYTON'S company is at the Theatre Royal, Windsor, this week with the pantomime Dick Whittington, written by and produced under the direction of Mr Clayton himself. Miss Millie Beckett is a smart and handsome Dick Whittington, and Miss Gertie Lovedale is lively and pert as Alice, both singing, dancing, and acting with finished skill. Miss Gertrude Gray is graceful and charming, and, richly attired in the part of the Good Fairy, her admirable singing enhancing her success. Alderman Fitzwarren finds an excellent representative in Mr Albert Evremond; Mr James Glover is a most laughable Idle Jack; Mr Tom Kenealy's Angelina (Alderman's cook) is intensely humorous; Mr Edward Frere is remarkably diverting in the character of Captain Mainbrace, of the good ship Prince Hector; and Mr Clyto's Tom, the faithful cat, is exceedingly clever. All the other parts are adequately filled. Clyto, a marvellous gymnast and contortionist; Hercules, a strong man; and the Gaiety Girls contribute smart and clever turns, and a lovely transformation scene concludes the "show."

THE matinée and evening performances of King Henry the Fifth, at the Imperial Theatre, now begin at 2·15 and 8·15 respectively.

THE "CHECKOGRAM."

"A moral machine" is the shortest description which Mr Albert Marsh gives to the Checkogram, his clever invention for delivering, receiving, and registering tickets or checks for theatres, halls, and other places of public entertainment, and his appliances for registering at a distance all admissions by turnstiles to exhibitions, athletic and race grounds, railways, factories, works, &c.

A representative of The Era was present on Thursday afternoon at a demonstration of the Checkogram given to the theatrical managers at the Tavistock Hotel by Mr Marsh, who went to considerable trouble to explain the working of the instruments. Mr Marsh claims that his machines will prevent that "shrinkage" in the receipts at box-offices, &c., which is such an old theatrical trouble, and he also claims that the knowledge that what is happening in a box-office can be electrically communicated to a manager in his private room will act as an incentive to smarter attention on the part of employees whose duty it is to handle money. "Under the present system," says Mr Marsh, "most theatres have a set of tickets printed for each day in the week, and, allowing that the box-office is booking boxes, stalls, and circle, there would be three sets of tickets for each day. If the theatre is booking one month ahead, allowing twenty-four playing days to the month, the box-office under the present system would have seventy-two distinctive sets of tickets in operation. To check these tickets each day evidently on the face of it entails a great amount of labour. With the Checkogram appliances all this is obviated, as the manager can at any moment during the day, without stirring out of his own office upstairs, or wherever it may be, see exactly the number of tickets sold. With my system it is impossible to issue a ticket without the knowledge of the management. A notice is posted in a prominent position stating that all tickets must be perforated, and the act of perforation causes registration in the manager's private room. Even if the box-office keeper inadvertently issued a ticket without perforating it, his cash would be in excess of the value of that ticket, and if he gave no account of the sale the ticket on being presented at the theatre would be immediately handed over to the management, who would naturally ask the box-office keeper in the first place to give a reason why the ticket was not perforated; and, in the second place, why the money for the same was withheld."

In regard to the unreserved parts of the house, all metal and tape tickets would be discontinued by Mr Marsh's method. A metal ticket has its disadvantages from a sanitary point of view; and, so far as the roll tickets are concerned, there always has been, and always will be, some difficulty in checking them. Under the Checkogram system the ticket used is of a patent fibre substance, which is unbreakable, washable, durable, and is one-fifth the weight of metal. These tickets, which can be had in different colours to denote the different parts of the house, are not handled by the money-taker at all. They are given to him enclosed in strong teak-wood columns, each column capable of holding from 150 to 200 tickets. The "columns" are secured in such a way as to preclude the possibility of opening without breaking the mechanism, and when once a ticket is removed from the column it is absolutely impossible to put it back. The Checkogram ejectors are placed advantageously right or left of the window of the box-office, and the money-taker inserts the columns of tickets into the slots provided for that purpose and proceeds to business. By turning a handle conveniently fixed at the top of the ejector, the tickets drop out one by one and as rapidly as are required. As the tickets are removed, their number is not only registered on the ejector itself, but in the manager's room. In due course the tickets pass into the hands of the check-taker, who places them in the receiving box. As each one is thrown down the aperture of this box its number is registered on a dial outside the box as well as on the indicator-board in the manager's office.

The utility and the labour-saving qualities of these appliances cannot be too strongly recommended to proprietors and managers of theatres and music-halls, who, we doubt not, will not be long in availing themselves of a patent which is the outcome of fourteen years' study on the part of Mr Marsh. As Mr Marsh points out, his system does away with the objectionable practice of posting people in various parts of the house for the purpose of checking the different employees. Mr Marsh's machines check the business as a whole, and even save the expense of the regular accountant, for all the manager has to do is to unlock his check-box and instruct a subordinate to recharge the teak-wood columns with tickets. The matter of the electricity used is a very simple one. In point of fact, all that Mr Marsh employs in the working exhibition of the models of his interesting appliances is a four-volt dry battery.

Three of the Checkogram registering presses have been in use at Drury-lane Theatre during the run of the pantomime of The White Cat, and have, we understand, proved eminently satisfactory. The circular platen of this perforating checker is divided into two parts, one of which is for "reserved seats current" and the other for "reserved seats advance." Each half has a certain space apportioned to the different denominations of reserved seats, and all the operator has to do is to turn the platen round until the name "Boxes," "Stalls," or "Circle" is facing a certain point, when he presses down the perforating handle. In this way no ticket can be sent outside or wrongfully used without the knowledge of the management, no ticket can be resold, and no ticket can be returned to the management as not having been sold.

In regard to the Checkogram turnstiles, here also one is guaranteed a speedy account of admissions and correctness of the takings. The manager can tell to a unit, any moment during the time that the turnstiles are operating, how many people have passed through, as all admissions are instantaneously registered in the manager's room, no matter how many turnstiles may be used, or what the distance may be. This turnstile is admirably adapted for big exhibition grounds, racecourses, &c.

It is worthy of mention that every part of the Checkogram apparatus is exceedingly neat, well made, and convenient in size, both for box-office and manager's room. The machines can be seen at 150, Oxford-street, next door to the Princess's Theatre.

MR SINCLAIR NEILL (formerly of Mr Forbes Robertson's and Mr F. R. Benson's companies) has been adding to his laurels at Belfast. The other evening he appeared, assisted by a capable company of clever amateurs, in two one-act pieces, Dream Faces and The New Sub, and considerably enhanced his reputation by the remarkable excellence of his acting, which was undoubtedly convincing. The performance, which was under distinguished patronage, took place in the Ulster Minor Hall, and was thoroughly successful.

AT the Shakespeare Theatre, on Monday, a copyright performance was given of Her First False Step, a drama, in prologue and four acts, by Myles Wallerton and Francis Gilbert.

THE game of hockey played by the teams of the R.N. Barracks and Veronique company at Keyham recently, had the following result:—Veronique, 7 goals; R N. Barracks, 6 goals. In the Veronique team were Miss Leslie, Mr E. Holland, Mr Robertson, Miss Barton, Mr B. Kennefick, Miss Anderson, Mr L. Holland, Miss Sinclaire, Mr T. Shelford, Miss Brand, and Mr E. Cresfan.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, FEB. 2.—Herr Von Hofmannsthal is always an interesting, conscientious, and, usually, powerful writer. He is an Austrian, living at Vienna; he is very young and dedicated entirely to the new dramatic school. At the same time, he not infrequently draws his subject from the Ancients, as in the case of Elektra, which enjoyed such success here and elsewhere. Das Gerettete Venedig is adapted from the English dramatist, Thomas Otway's, tragedy entitled, I believe, Venice Preserved. The adaptor has, of course, inspired the play with his own strong individuality, and the effect is eminently pleasing. It will not be necessary to expound the plot at length; a good deal is historical, a good deal imaginary. The action passes in the seventeenth century, at the time when Venice was a republic. The first act details somewhat laboriously the condition of things in general, introducing Captain Pierre (dismissed from the republic) and Jaffier, with his wife, Belvidera. Walter Scott has told us all this in a far more interesting manner, and the act fell rather flat. Later on, however, when Hofmannsthal shakes off all other influences and becomes himself, he rises to considerable heights, both in language and conception. He depicts the friendship of Pierre and Jaffier, and the weakness, the cowardliness of the latter in a masterly manner. The third act, where Belvidera implores her husband to save himself by betraying his friends, the conspirators, to the Senate, and where he finally yields against his better instincts, is remarkably powerful, and perhaps the best in the play. The last act, too, is full of great beauty of language and convincing force. It shows us the death of Pierre, for whose delivery the courtesan Aquilina has vainly implored. Some of the characters are superfluous, but the principal figures are drawn by an artist's hand, and cannot fail to impress the audience. The cast was admirable, and author and artistes were rapturously applauded after each act.

YET another new operetta, the three-act Juxheirat, by Franz Lehars, has made its appearance at the Central. Outwardly, it was an enormous success, encores being the order of the evening. The music is pretty and at times above the mediocre, even laying claim to some originality, while the effective mounting had a good deal to do with the cordiality of the reception. Were some energetic cuts undertaken the piece would have more chance of holding the boards for any length of time than it has in its present condition. Julius Bauer is the author of the libretto, which is not much in itself, although the main idea is to some extent amusing. The scene is laid in and near Newport, America. The young widowed daughter of the millionaire Brockwiller, though fair, is avowedly set against a second marriage, her experience of the matrimonial tie having been disappointing. She has even founded a league with many equally-minded friends, whose motto is "Los vom Manne." Papa Brockwiller desires to see his daughter a Countess, and has selected as a son-in-law, Count Harold Von Reckenburg, who—like Barkis—"is willing." To overcome the proud beauty's animosity a ruse is planned. She is informed as a great secret that the Count's twin sister—who resembled her brother so closely that as children their mother could not tell them apart—is coming to her disguised in man's attire to woo on her brother's behalf. The young widow is so indignant that she determines to marry the stranger, and so make fools of everyone and expose the shameful trick. This she does, but as soon as the marriage ceremony is concluded she finds she has been duped and that she is in reality the Countess Von Reckenburg. In a rage she demands a separation, but that being refused she goes away, as she declares, for ever. It is but a woman's eternity, however, and in three months time, in a romantic hunting lodge among the mountains, the married pair come to an understanding, the Countess deciding that her husband is not such a bad fellow after all. The cast was fairly adequate; the composer conducted and was very heartily applauded.

THE National Theatre, as was prophesied last week, has not wasted much time on Die Zauberglocke, but has produced another novelty, and this time with success. Gute Nacht, Herr Pantalon, a one-act comic opera, by Albert Grisar, is so old that it is forgotten by everybody and comes in the light of a new work—better, too, than many a modern opera of the same type. The book is merry enough without laying claim to much originality. Isabella and Lelio—the lovers—have been betrothed to each other in infancy by their parents. They object to the arrangement on growing up, but discover that they have loved each other all the time. Much in the style of The Merry Wives is one of the scenes, where Lelio is carried to his sweetheart's house in the linen basket; the whole work is, in fact, somewhat similar to Nicolai's music, and contains some very melodious passages. The interpretation was a good one, and Kapellmeister Saenger conducted in his customary efficient manner. There were three one-act works in the programme, the second being Henri Berénz's mimodrama Die Hand. The rôle of the dancer Vivette was admirably given by Fräulein Fernande Robertine. Die Schöne Galathée, by Suppé, concluded the evening, and met with a very cordial reception; on the whole, the National had one of its "good" nights, which have been few and far between lately.

THE cast of Die Neugierigen Frauen, Wolf Ferrari's charming opera, running at Theatre des Westens, underwent a change last week as regards the impersonation of Rosaura. Fräulein Magda Burchardt, a very talented young operatic singer already mentioned in your columns, gave the rôle, which is one of the most important in the opera. She sang and acted delightfully, gaining golden opinions from audience and critics alike. Fräulein Burchardt created the title-rôle in Herr Von Chelius' new fairy-opera Die Vernarrte Prinzessin recently with great success. The work was produced at the Court Theatre at Schwerin in the presence of the Grand Duke and Duchess and other distinguished persons.

"BANNERMANN," the latest play of Herr Otto Ernst, made its first appearance on any stage at Hamburg, at the Stadt Theatre, on Wednesday. It met with an exceedingly cordial reception, the author being called before the curtain repeatedly and enthusiastically applauded. We are to have the play here very shortly.

"RUBEZAHL," three-act opera, by Hans Sommer, is the next novelty at the Royal Opera. Herr Knüpfer sings the name-part, Fräulein Destinn and Herr Kraus have both important rôles. Dr. Richard Strauss will conduct.

AMATEURS AT WOOLWICH.

In connection with the Charlton-park Cricket Club an amateur dramatic performance was given on Monday last at the Freemasons' Hall, Woolwich, which was much enjoyed by the members of the club and a large circle of friends. The play chosen for presentation was that favourite stand-by of amateurs A Pair of Spectacles, and it may safely be said that, outside the profession, it would have been difficult to find a cast more fully up to its work. Miss Mabel Raynes was well suited to the part of Mrs Goldfinch, which she played with a commendable absence of nervousness. Mrs J. R. Johnson acted in a natural and unaffected manner as Lucy Lorimer. In the small rôle of Charlotte, the parlourmaid, Miss Hilda Sales did creditably. In the rôle of Benjamin Goldfinch Mr H. P. Gibberd showed much insight, his impersonation showing much careful study. As Uncle Gregory Mr J. R. Johnston was commendable, and Mr C. T. Turpin as Percy proved himself capable. Mr D. J. Falkner was satisfactory as Dick, and a fairly forceful impersonation of Lorimer was given by Mr T. H. Klasen. Mr S. K. Mills was amusing as a shoemaker, and Messrs W. F. Whitehorn and W. Bumpus made something of small parts. The scenery was kindly lent by Mr Clarence Sounes, and the hearty thanks of all concerned were due to the management of the Grand Theatre for the mounting of the piece.

"THE BABES IN THE WOOD" (Mr Henry Eglington's company) is at the Opera House, Tunbridge Wells, this week. Miss Cissie Williams and Miss E. Leoville give a clever study of the Babes, while Miss Tilly Stewart makes a dashing Robin Hood, and is well supported by Miss Florence Brandon as Maid Marion. Miss Ella Rose as the Fairy Queen is a capable vocalist. Mr Harry Harcourt as the wicked Baron and Mr H. Eglington as the Dame keep the fun going. The Three Geronds are responsible for some clever acrobatic dancing, and Mr Reuben Kitchen's animal impersonation is also a feature of the production.

MISS ADRIA HILL AND ROBERT AYRTON'S répertoire company is appearing at the Theatre Royal, Wallsend, this week in Under Two Flags and The Shadow of the Cross. The first-mentioned was staged on Monday night. Mr Robert Ayrton gives a capital rendering of the Hon. Bertie Cecil, and Mr Annesley Hely plays with considerable power as Colonel Chateauray. Mr Harry Rutland and Mr Hylton Warde score as Lord Brockingham and Ezra Baron respectively. Miss Adria Hill gives a powerful portrayal of the part of Cigarette.

"NO ACHES AND PAINS SINCE USING VI-COCOA."

Mr. W. POLLEY, 10, Clarence Gate, Regent's Park, writes:—
"I am very pleased to be able to recommend Vi-Cocoa so highly, having tried it with such satisfactory results. People seem to notice a great difference in my figure since taking it. You know I am a footman. People generally think, to see us riding about, we have a real good time of it; but we have long hours, and sometimes I am so tired that I can hardly sleep. Of course I did not have much faith in Vi-Cocoa till I tried it. It seems to invigorate one. My limbs do not ache now of a night, and I feel twice the man I used to be. It seems to me in this day of so many worthless imitations that people do not seem to know when they have a good thing. I have great faith in recommending it to my brother footmen. I speak with confidence as to its merits; it has been a boon to me. I feel as though I ought to write and tell you how satisfied I am with it. You are quite at liberty to use this."

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

A meeting of a special committee convened by the Mayor of Bath was held at the local Guildhall on Saturday last to make arrangements for the reception of Sir Henry Irving on the occasion of his unveiling the tablet to Quin, in Pierrepont-street, on Feb 17. It was decided to give a complimentary luncheon to the celebrated actor in the Banqueting Room of the Guildhall, following the unveiling ceremony, which is fixed for noon. The price of the luncheon ticket will be 10s 6d., which will include contribution to the piece of plate or some such gift which will be presented to Sir Henry as a memento of the occasion. The luncheon will be attended by many members of the dramatic profession, including Mr Lewis Waller.

Lady Bancroft will address the Duchess of Newcastle's drawing-room meeting, at 36, Grosvenor-place, on Thursday afternoon, in aid of the Victoria Home for Invalid Children, which was established by the Princess of Wales. Royalty, in some form, is expected to be present.

Miss Marie Tempest, we are sorry to hear, has been out of the bill of The Freedom of Suzanne at the Criterion Theatre since Wednesday from indisposition. Miss Tempest is one of our few comédiennes, and we can ill spare her, even for a few days, from the boards. However, her part has been admirably filled by her sister, Miss Florence Tempest, and Miss Marie Tempest will be back at work again on Monday.

Mr Henry Arthur Jones, in a speech made on Monday night, suggested that the City Fathers should put the site of the Royal Exchange up for sale by auction, and should hand over the proceeds to a committee for the endowment of a national English drama. Mr Jones also stated that for twenty-five years he had vainly spoken to the English play-going public on the drama; and had vainly tried to enforce one or two of the plainest, simplest truths, without, so far as he could judge, the least result.

Mr Jones's latter statements remind us of the o.ptive in the old Alhambra version of La Périchole. In the last act there is a scene in a prison, into which the hero and heroine are cast. They hear someone at work on the wall of the dungeon; and presently a stone gives way and a long-bearded fellow prisoner enters by an aperture He explains that for thirty years he has been cutting his way through the wall with a small implement, expecting to find himself eventually in the open air; instead of which, by an error in direction, he is but in a different cell. He is, however, still sanguine. "It is only another thirty years," he says cheerfully, and "I have still my little pen-knife!"

Lady Barnes, sister of Miss Violet Vanbrugh and Miss Irene Vanbrugh, will soon return with her husband, Sir Hugh Barnes, K.C.V.O., from Burmah. The Misses Vanbrugh are the daughters of the late Venerable Herbert Barnes, prebendary of Exeter. Sir Hugh Barnes had a distinguished official career, being Lieutenant-Governor of Burmah and President of the Central Committee for the Delhi Bazaar in 1903. The third daughter of the late Prebendary, who, as Miss Angela Barnes, was one of our most promising violinists, will come back with Lady Barnes from Burmah. She is the widow of the late Captain Mallaby.

Mrs Kendal, on the 25th ult., opened the second day of the parish church bazaar at Sneinton, near Nottingham, which was held in the local Institute. Amongst those present were Bishop and Mrs Baynes and Canon Godber. The Vicar, the Rev. the Hon. R. M. Dalrymple, in introducing Mrs Kendal, briefly explained the objects of the bazaar, remarking that Mrs Kendal was no stranger in Nottingham, at one time having attended Sneinton Parish Church. She had always been open-handed and warm-hearted, and ready to give her services to any cause deserving help.

Mrs Kendal then declared the bazaar open, remarking humorously that she wished to see all the stalls cleared, and then the next day they could sit down and write cheques. She was very open-handed, as the vicar had said—in receiving cheques. Mrs Kendal expressed her delight at being able to renew some friendships which had never entirely left her. The vicar had referred to her readiness to help, but she did not want to have to come to Nottingham again for the £600 they now required. She advised those present to buy everything, and not to make bargains. A vote of thanks was accorded Mrs Kendal on the motion of Bishop Baynes, seconded by Mr C. F. Hole, and a lady presented her with a beautiful bouquet. During the afternoon entertainments were given, and Mrs Kendal contributed two dramatic recitals. The proceeds of the bazaar on Tuesday amounted to £45.

Sir Charles Wyndham and Miss Mary Moore, after a very successful season in New York, left that city on Monday for a tour including the principal American and Canadian towns. At the conclusion of the performance on Saturday Sir Charles in a speech of thanks recalled the circumstance that his beginning of professional life was made in America, and said that after eighteen years' absence he found his friends still loyal.

Mr W. V. Gareod, in some amusing "Experiences of Actors," which Mr Pope Pax has been writing for the Newcastle Weekly Chronicle, tells an anecdote of his early days, when he was engaged for the heavy lead in The Dangers of London. In the second act a scene represents a cutting on the Great Eastern Railway. Bound and gagged, the hero is placed across the rails, and an express train is "due" to come through the tunnel. The villains leave the hero to his fate, but a friend of his chances to be in the neighbourhood, and pulls him off the rails just as the train dashes across the stage.

The company was at the Prince's Theatre, Llandudno, and one night, by an oversight, the train was started before the "friend" had performed his timely office. The mistake was not discovered until the train was in full view of the audience. To continue its journey meant a terrible (stage) death for the hero and plenty of (real) bruises for the actor. So that obliging train, to "work up" whose "entrance" the entire company had gathered in the "wings," and exerted themselves to the utmost in the way of banging drums, shaking perforated cigar-boxes filled with dried peas, thumping tea-trays with bunches of umbrella ribs, and rubbing together chunks of wood covered with sandpaper, calmly backed into the tunnel again until the line was cleared. When it did complete the journey the audience applauded heartily, as if it were all part of the play. Some contended that the engine-driver detected a signal against the train, and, though ignorant of the cause, of course obeyed it. Others thought that the driver was "the right sort of man," who had an inherent interest in the defeat of vice and the triumph of virtue.

Mr E. A. Abbey, R.A., who was the principal guest at the Authors' Club dinner on Monday, has always been fond of subjects drawn from the drama. Among his pictures of this class are "Richard III. and the Lady Anne," exhibited in 1896; "Hamlet," shown in 1897; and "King Lear's Daughters," which appeared at the Academy in 1898.

Captain Marshall's new play The Lady of Leeds, a farcical romance in three acts, will be produced at Wyndham's Theatre on Tuesday, with a cast including Mr Weedon Grossmith, Mr C. M. Lowne, Mr A. Vane Tempest, Mr E. F. Meads, Miss Nancy Price, Mrs Theodore Wright, and Miss Maude Wynter. The scene is laid in Venice. The story is a modern one, and the idea, like those of so many of the author's works, is somewhat fantastic Mr Weedon Grossmith will play an eccentric Englishman, Miss Nancy Price will enact the daughter of a very wealthy English tradesman, and her chaperone, a grand dame who has undertaken to pilot the heiress through society, will be depicted by Mrs Theodore Wright. Mr Vane Tempest will appear as a young Irish lord, and Mr Lowne as a retired colonel.

Mrs Langtry did not "turn up" when the time approached for the rising of the curtain on Mrs Dering's Divorce at Terry's Theatre on Monday evening, and much anxiety was felt on her account. She dashed in, however, just in time, having been delayed by an accident. She went down to Newmarket on Sunday; and was driving in her brougham to the station on Monday afternoon to catch the 3·30 train, when she was run into by a motor-car. Mrs Langtry jumped out when the crash came, and was severely shaken but uninjured, though the brougham was a wreck. She appeared in Mrs Dering's Divorce with unabated nerve and coolness.

Sir Charles Wyndham, Miss Evie Greene, Miss Mary Moore, Mr Edward Terry, and his London company, and Mr Courtice Pounds appeared on Wednesday afternoon at an entertainment in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, in aid of the local Free Hospital.

Mr Edward Terry has reconsidered his decision to return to England at the conclusion of his engagement in New York, and will visit several large cities in the States, subsequently undertaking a short tour in Canada.

Sir Henry Irving continues his triumphal career along the South Coast. The receipts at the Grand Theatre, Southampton, on Monday, on the occasion of his appearances in The Bells and Waterloo created a record for the house. The "previous highest" was on the occasion of Sir Charles Wyndham's flying matinée of Davy Garrick in November, 1902. Monday night's record was beaten on Tuesday, and again on Wednesday evening. So far as the public is concerned Sir Henry might keep in harness for many years to come.

The matinée concert, arranged by Mr Aubrey Fitzgerald, given before a large and distinguished audience on Thursday, at Maidenhead Town Hall, was in every way a success. A "choice selection" of glees was splendidly rendered by the Apollo Glee Party, including Messrs Ben Millett, Fred Hayes, F. Blackburn, and J. B. Dudley. Miss Marie Studholme delighted everyone with "The Interfering Parrot" and "The Gay Tomtit;" and Miss Kitty Gordon charmingly sang "Ma Chérie." Mr Aubrey Fitzgerald's humorous songs, delivered in his peculiarly "dry" manner, were immensely enjoyed; Mr Charles Brown proved himself a favourite with "The only one the poor girl had" and "The Paradise they call Park-lane;" and Mr Maurice Farkoa would have sung till midnight if he had yielded to the repeated insistent encores which he received. The accompaniments were ably played by Messrs Frank Tours and Mr Arthur Wood. The artistes, of course, appeared by kind permission of their respective managers.

Mrs T. P. O'Connor, the wife of the author of "Lord Beaconsfield, a Biography," and "Gladstone's House of Commons," made an excellent start as a playwright; and it is surprising that she has never followed it up. Of her version of Cellx qu'on Respecte, which was produced at the Great Queen-street Theatre in 1901, we wrote at the time, "Much of her dialogue and the drawing of the chief character are amusing, and there are delightful moments in the play. The clever and popular lady may be urged to try again." Perhaps Mrs O'Connor's fashionable functions are so exacting that she has no time for mere scribbling, and has "given up to 'society' what was meant for" the stage.

The Checkogram, Limited, gave an exhibition of its checking appliances at the Tavistock Hotel on Thursday last. The inventor of the machine, Mr Albert Marsh, well-known in English and Colonial theatrical circles, and the managing director of the company, gave a graphic demonstration of the various machines to an audience including Mr Beerbohm Tree, Mr Isaac Cohen, Mr J. F. Elliston, Mr F. Fredericks, Mr Dudley Bennett, Mr Milton Bode, Mr W. W. Kelly, Mr E. H. Bull, Mr Edward Marris, and Mr T. Sergenson

One has only to invent an incident and use it for purposes of fiction for it to be eventually "plagiarised" in real life. Some time ago a story written by Frank Desprez, the author of "Lasca," the "cow-boy" poem which is so often and so admirably recited by Miss Esme Beringer, appeared in London Society. The "notion" was that of an actress who was travelling with a Shakespearian company in the United States. She has a jealous (female) rival in the company; and this rival, when they are touring in the Wild West, procures a rattlesnake, and substitutes it for the property asp used in a performance of Antony and Cleopatra, in which her enemy enacts the Egyptian Queen. This week an actress named Fräulein Reubke, appearing at the Munich Theatre, found when she retired to her dressing-room a bonbonnière on her toilet table with a note in which the actress was asked to open the box. When she lifted the lid she discovered a viper. The lady fainted, and the snake spared her life.

Some time since we announced that Miss Lottie Venne was soon to appear in Veronique at the Apollo Theatre as the Countess De Champ Azur, the rôle originally sustained on the production of the opera in English last May by Miss Rosina Brandram. Miss Venne was, until recently, prevented by indisposition from undertaking the part, but she is now playing it with all the demure drollery which has made her such a favourite in characters of the aristocratically comic kind.

Quite a gloom has been cast over the members of the pantomime company at the Theatre Royal, Newcastle, by the death last Saturday of one of their number—Mr Charles Kinross—at the early age of twenty-one. He became unwell on the 26th ult., and succumbed to an operation for appendicitis. The deceased, who occupied a position in the chorus, was very popular with his colleagues; and only a few days before his death he was a willing worker at the children's party given by Misses Dolly M'Calla and Miss Hanid Alexander. The funeral took place at St. Andrew's Cemetery last Tuesday, and was attended by Mr and Mrs Storr (parents), Miss Kathleen Kinross (sister), and nearly all the members of the pantomime company. Wreaths were sent by the London chorus ladies, the troupe of dancers, Mr Gordon Hutton, Mr H. M'Calla, Miss Ada Russell, Miss Dolly M'Calla, Miss Madge M'Calla, Miss Gladys Greening, Miss Maud Anderson, Mrs Kiernander, Nurse Bruce, the chorus gentlemen, his parents and sisters, and a handsome floral tribute from the principals of the company.

Mr Charles Frohman has secured the rights of the new comic opera, La Petite Bohème, by Paul Ferrier and Henri Hirschman, now being played at the Théâtre des Variétés, Paris. Mr Frohman will produce a version of the play in London and New York in the autumn.

Mr G. A. Cooke (of Maskelyne and Cooke's) passed away at his residence at Twickenham on Thursday morning at four o'clock. The deceased gentleman, who had been suffering for some time from paralysis, had not taken any active part in the entertainment at the Egyptian Hall for a year or more. It was generally understood both by press and public that he was a partner in the amusement enterprise that first drew the public to Piccadilly some thirty-one years ago, but such was not the case. Mr Maskelyne was the founder, inventor, and sole proprietor; Mr Cooke, always a staunch comrade and devoted friend, was the confidential assistant.

The two became associated at Cheltenham, where Mr Maskelyne, before he was drawn so irresistibly yet so opportunely, to the footlights, was in business as a watchmaker and jeweller. They each played the cornet in a Volunteer band, and when Mr Maskelyne discovered, quite by accident, the secret of the rope-tying tricks and cabinet séance of the Davenport Brothers he found a volunteer assistant in Mr Cooke, who acted as confederate in his friend's exposé of the pretensions of the celebrated brothers.

At first a performance was given before friends, but the reputation of Mr Maskelyne soon spread, and he was invited by the Duke of Beaufort to Badminton, and by Lord Fitzhardinge to Berkeley Castle, to give his experiments at private parties. About this time the new conjuror and illusionist became acquainted with a Mr Coleman, a leading spiritualist, and accepted an invitation to perform at the Crystal Palace, where a séance was given in a room specially fitted up, and hung with red baize. It was a brilliant summer day, and the sun, streaming through a hole in the baize, illumined Mr Maskelyne's face with a sort of halo, and this little incident was regarded by the audience—most of whom were spiritualists—as a sign that the séancist was one of the elect, and refused to believe that the exposition was merely trickery, in which Mr Cooke assisted, insisting that the chief performer was endowed with mystic gifts.

Mr Maskelyne's first professional performance in London was at the Great St. James's Hall, and such was his success that he ventured on renting the Egyptian Hall for three months. He stayed for thirty-one years, Mr Cooke always assisting him as a faithful confidant—a rôle he played most admirably. He was quite without mechanical aptitude, and used to say:—"You tell me what to do, and how to do it, and it shall be done." And it always was, without any mistake. In the early years of his career Mr Maskelyne used to work alone, and often stayed in his workshop till four in the morning. He did not allow even friends to enter this sanctum, his only companion being a favourite parrot, a bird with an extensive vocabulary, and much given to terse observations. "But he did not hinder me," says Mr Maskelyne, "as he never expected a reply." "Psycho" and "Zoe" were among the first children of his brain.

Mr Cooke of late years occasionally appeared in the magical farces that became a feature of the entertainments at the Piccadilly home of mystery; but the part that suited him best was that of a confederate. In this he was unequalled. Mr Maskelyne speaks with great affection of his old friend and life companion, whose loss he keenly regrets. That regret will be shared by a wide circle of friends.

Mr W. S. Penley, Past Grand Treasurer of Grand Lodge of England and Grand Treasurer Nominate of English Mark Masons, will be installed as Worshipful Master of the Savage Club Lodge, 2,190, at Freemasons' Hall on Tuesday.

Mrs Brown Potter, who is busily rehearsing Madame Du Barry at the Savoy Theatre, has secured as an item in the Louis XV. mounting of the play a genuine seventeenth-century harpsichord. Mrs Potter has lived at Versailles, and resided for a number of years in France, so she is well acquainted with the mise-en-scène of the Du Barry's career.

Sir Henry Irving, with his usual widely embracing sympathy, has telegraphed his congratulations to the gentlemen responsible for the production of The Luck of the Brians, the village play which was performed on Monday by working men of Hildenborough, in Kent. Sir Henry's "wire" ran:—"My heartiest congratulations; all success to play, and warmest greeting to players. The movement is a splendid one, and will, I trust, be widely followed. It would make for much pleasure and happiness, widen the world for many minds with the seeds of wholesome fancy, and yield abundant harvest."

Mr George Edwardes has arranged to tour The Duchess of Dantzic in the United States next season with the company now playing in the piece in New York, and has also entered into an agreemens to produce Veronique in the "Empire city," with the London company at the termination of the run of the delightful opera at the Apollo.

Mr James Welch, who had to resign his part in The White Cat at Drury-lane the other day from illness, and is in the South of France, has received by post his part in Mr R. C. Carton's new play Mr Hopkinson, shortly to be seen at the Avenue Theatre, and will soon return to London to appear in the comedy, which will be produced by Mr Frank Curzon. All Mr Welch's admirers will be ready to congratulate him on his reversion to his real sphere of talent.

Mr Arthur Bourchier writes in defence of the actor-manager system against an attack in a contemporary:—"Permit me to point out that Messrs Clayton and Cecil gave Mr Weedon Grossmith some of his finest opportunities in the old Court days and that only a few years ago Sir Charles Wyndham and I engaged him for the best part in The Noble Lord. Mr Lowne was brought to the front by Mr J. L. Toole, and Miss Nancy Price by Mr Tree."

Senor Manuel Garcia, who invented the laryngoscope, will complete his hundredth year on March 17, when a demonstration will be made in his honour by laryngologists of every nationality. In order not to overtax the strength of Senor Garcia, the addresses will for the most part be only formally presented, and the whole duration of the proceedings will not exceed one hour. Senor Garcia is still strong in health, and his mental powers are unimpaired. In addition to Spanish, his native tongue, he speaks English, French, and Italian fluently.

Just before the fall of the curtain on the pantomime of Puss in Boots, at the County Theatre, Kingston, on Saturday night, the entire company assembled on the stage, and Mr and Mrs Peter Davey, the enterprising manager and his esteemed wife, were presented, by Mr R. Entwistle, the stage-manager, on behalf of the company, with a handsome pair of silver-cased claret jugs as a token of the respect and goodwill of the company. The gifts were accompanied by an address, and a handsome spray bouquet of lilies and violets was also given to Mrs Davey.

In acknowledging the gifts Mr Davey spoke of the cordial relations that had existed between himself and all the members of the company. During the evening Mr Entwistle was presented by Mr and Mrs Davey with a silver cigar-case, and Mr J. H. Russell, the popular chef d'orchestre, received a silver spirit tea kettle from the same generous givers.

Mrs Kendal made one of her most amusing speeches at the banquet of the New Vagabond Club, at the Criterion Restaurant, on Thursday, amongst the 350 guests being the Lord Bishop of Ripon, and Mr and Mrs George Alexander. Mrs Kendal, in returning thanks for her health being drunk, said she laid claim to having been a vagabond from her birth. Her forbears before her for generations were also vagabonds. There was also another title to which her ancestors might have laid claim—rogue. Let them picture to themselves all these jolly rogues and vagabonds with light hearts and purses, going from town to town and learning their work in that great dramatic school, nature. For nature was art, and art was simplicity, and those were the only two things that made good actors. Art and acting both began with the same letter, but somehow they afterwards drifted apart.

They all remembered the story of the old woman who was dressing her child to go to a party, and said to her, "Sarah, leave off fidgeting about your sash. If you keep worriting it like that, don't you know your skirt and bodice will part company?" So it was with art and acting. They could always learn what they liked about the art of the past, because they could all read, and they could all see the art of the present; but, as for the art of the future—well, they could hope for the worst. And they should hope for the worst, and they might hope for the worst, because in the near future the Kendals were coming to town.

Mr Frank Curzon will revive Our Flat at the Comedy Theatre early in February with Miss Pollie Emery and Mr Willie Edouin in the cast. Mr Edouin as Nathaniel Glover is irresistible, and all his admirers will be glad to see him again in the part which he created at the Prince of Wales's Theatre in 1889.

Miss Kate Flinn has the gift of attracting interesting people—doubtless because she is so interesting herself—and a complete list of the successful singers on the stage and platform who have studied with her is a long one. Miss Annie Hughes is one of her most recent pupils; Miss Hilda Trevelyan has been benefitting from Miss Flinn's teaching for a much longer time; and Miss Mabel Hackney (Mrs Laurence Irving) is another well-known actress on the list, which includes Miss Constance Dreyer, who made such a hit in A Princess of Kensington; Miss Gaynor Rowlands, who sang so prettily in My Lady Molly, and is now at the Gaiety; Miss Nance O'Neill, whose fine voice is serving her in good stead in the title-part in The New Barmaid on tour; Miss Vera Beringer, the heroine of A Coming Race; Miss Mabel Garden, the clever daughter of Mr E. W. Garden; Mrs Arthur Collins, one of the many talented amateurs in whom Miss Flinn is interested; and Miss Sarah Brooke, who sings chansonnettes in such dainty style.

Mr Walter Beaumont, who is to play in the revival of Our Flat, at the Comedy Theatre, is not likely to forget a certain occasion during his first London engagement, years ago, when he was playing in The Star of India. He had to bind the hero to the trunk of a tree. The change from the previous scene was made in the dark, and on this eventful night both the actors saw on entering that the necessary tree was absent from its usual place. They mutually decided to speak the lines, however, struggle, and do the binding "off." Unfortunately, the carpenters below the stage, not knowing that the lights were on and the scene commenced, pushed up the tree through the ground just after Mr Beaumont had threatened the hero. The audience, delighted at this surprising proof of the villain's power, greeted its appearance with uproarious applause.

Messrs Harrison and Maude will produce at the Haymarket Theatre, when the run of the successful Beauty and the Barge comes to an end, an English version of M. Pierre Wolff's three-act comedy Le Secret de Polichinelle. The adaptation will be made by Messrs Robert Marshall and Louis N. Parker, and the cast will include Mr Edmund Maurice, Mr Charles Bryant, Miss Carlotta Addison, Miss Helen Ferrers, and Miss Jessie Bateman.

Mr George Edwardes, who left New York on Wednesday for this country, has decided to establish an American branch of his business. Mr Edwardes will in future endeavour to visit the States at least once a year.

Mr F. Lumsden Hare is going to take up the part of Sir Francis Chesney, in Charley's Aunt, which has hitherto been played by Mr Brandon Thomas, at the Comedy Theatre, next week. Having returned two months from a most successful three years' engagement in Australia, Mr Hare has lost no time in getting to work once again in the old country. He has been engaged by Mr Walter Reynolds to play the lead in his (Mr Reynolds's) new play, to be produced in Nottingham at the end of this month, followed by a special week at the Camden Theatre. Mrs Lumsden Hare (Miss Frances Ruttledge) accompanied her husband to the Antipodes, but played under Mr Bland Holt's management, while her husband was with Mr Williamson. They were both delighted with the generous audiences "down under."

Mr Charles Frohman's touring company in Merely Mary Ann will begin a season of twenty weeks at Bath on Monday. The title-part will be played by Miss Grace Armytage Noble; and Mr Alexander Calvert appears in Mr Henry Ainley's rôle, and Mr Reginald Dance in that originally sustained by Mr Gerald Du Maurier.

Mr Norman V. Norman gave a performance of David Garrick at the Theatre Royal, Lincoln, last week before a large and fashionable audience, which included the Dean, and Mrs Wickham, of Lincoln. Mr Norman was afterwards the recipient of a letter from the Dean thanking him for the pleasure which that dignitary had derived from witnessing the performance.

The fourth of Ally Sloper's diamond rings for the popular pantomime actresses has been received by Miss Kitty Tims, one of the charming "boys" in the Puss in Boots pantomime at the Elephant and Castle Theatre. Mr Sloper himself made the presentation at Thursday's representation of the annual, when a crowded house exhibited tremendous enthusiasm.

Mr Percy Hutchison, with whom a representative of this paper had a chat a few days ago, has some suggestions to offer with a view to coaxing into the theatre those people of the unco' guid order who never visit a playhouse. "I do," said Mr Hutchison, "believe in healthy plays and I think we should try to improve our audiences and not to allow deterioration to set in."

"With regard to the provinces, with which I, as a manager, am mainly concerned, I would invite a clergyman of every denomination to witness the representation of our plays free of charge. After he had seen the piece, I would request him to give me his views—in short, a candid criticism—and to say frankly what portion, if any, of the play he would not like his own congregation to witness. In this way, I believe we should gradually get the better-class people into the theatres, and I feel certain that if regular church and chapel-goers were to patronise the drama it would undoubtedly be to the good of the drama and the dramatic profession. Of course, I don't mean to preach sermons, because the theatre, after all, is only a place for amusement and recreation for the mind. And at the same time, I consider that every play should contain a moral, and a good one at that."

Mr Arthur Bourchier, in continuance of his friendly controversy with Mr A. W. Pinero, respecting actors' salaries and authors' fees, says:—"That brilliant dramatist Mr Pinero strangely misunderstands my contention, and although I am fully aware that a trade question of this kind is of little or no importance to the public, would you very kindly allow me to point out that Mr Pinero completely avoids my contention, which is that, if the leading actors are to lower their salaries in order that the manager may lower his prices of admission, then the leading authors should lower their rate of 'percentage of the receipts of the house.' It would be impossible to reduce one's chance of profit unless one were able proportionately to cut down one's heavy risk in the working of a theatre. Further, outside any question of fees, the conditions imported by our leading authors into their proposed contracts with managers are running them (the authors) into the danger of making the acceptance of their plays impossible through their desire for supremacy."

Miss Ellen Terry will be the guest of the Gallery First Nighters' Club at a dinner to be held in her honour on Sunday, March 12, at Frascati's. The president of the club, Mr T. Brandon, will be in the chair.

Mr George Alexander announces the final performance of Lady Windermere's Fan at the St. James's Theatre, and the last three matinées will be given to-day and next Wednesday and Saturday. Mr Alexander is busily rehearsing Mr Alfred Sutro's play entitled Mollentrave on Women.

Miss Marianne Caldwell laid the foundation of her skilful and delightful work as a comedienne in Miss Sarah Thorne's memorable stock company. Miss Caldwell has agreeable remembrances of old days at the Court Theatre, when the late John Clayton "presented" Mrs John Wood in never-to-be-forgotten farcical comedies, and Miss Caldwell made such a hit, in Mamma, in the part of a maid speaking broken French. She was the original Sergeant Shooter, in The Amazons, and, more recently, sustained a pair of good parts in two London successes at the same time, starting her evening's work in The Schoolgirl, at the Prince of Wales's, rushing away to appear in The Light that Failed, at the Lyric, and ending where she commenced, having just time to get back for the last act of the musical comedy.

Sir Henry Irving has accepted the invitation of Mr F. R. Benson and the Memorial Committee that he and his company should play The Merchant of Venice at the Stratford-on-Avon Festival, on April 24. It is quite in accordance with the "fitness of things" that Sir Henry should grace the occasion by the performance of a Shakespearian masterpiece.

Although Miss Tita Brand acted her first part only three years ago, she is already well known, and her experiences include several London engagements, tours, about seventeen appearances in Shakespeare, and no less than thirty-four parts all told. She is cast as Gloria in the revival of Mr Bernard Shaw's play, You Never Can Tell, at the Court Theatre, next May. Beginning her work in Mr Ben Greet's pastoral company, Miss Brand actually played Juliet on one occasion, and the Nurse on another, before the first anniversary of her début came round. One of her most trying experiences occurred in her first year, when she appeared as Lady Milford, in Schiller's Kabale und Liib, while suffering from a severe attack of influenza.

Mr George Grossmith has cancelled all his engagements, including his spring tour, in consequence of the serious illness of Mrs Grossmith, who has for her constant attendant Dr Warren Davis, Sir William Broadbent having been called in for a first consultation of the case.

Mr William Gillette will be seen here in May in a new play called Clarissa. Mr Charles Frohman has changed his plans so as to enable Miss Maude Adams to extend the run of The Little Minister at the Empire Theatre, New York, to the middle of March, when Mr Gillette will appear for four weeks in Sherlock Holmes. After this he will present Clarissa outside New York, subsequently bringing it to London.

Mr Martin Harvey, on his recent visit to the Leamington Theatre Royal, wrote a very complimentary letter to a local journalist. In it Mr Harvey said:—"I should like to tell you how much I enjoyed appearing before your responsive audiences once more, a pleasure I have not experienced since my 'prentice days some few years back. We have played The Only Way some seven hundred times now in various parts of the globe, and never before has the wit of the dialogue been so keenly appreciated and relished. Humour, in our own country at least, meets with a ready recognition at once, but wit is different, appealing to a much rarer intelligence and a much more alert mind, and there were points of pure wit in the dialogue which have never met with response before. This seems like a base flattery of your fellow townsmen, but it is the truth, and not altogether remarkable when one remembers one is in the countryside which produced a Shakespeare. It also gives me much pleasure to testify to the admirable management of the theatre, and to the ready and willing help we met with from the staff—who can do so much to carry a production to success."

Mr George R. Foss, who is instructor and stage-manager of the Neville Dramatic Studio, tells many amusing stories of the would-be actors and actresses who visit that popular establishment. Some time ago he was approached by a somewhat elderly lady, who made anxious inquiries as to the pecuniary prospects of a successful beginner. Mr Foss asked whether she had any idea of the difficulties and hard work involved. "Not much," she answered cheerfully, "but I've quite made up my mind. I've been a teacher of swimming for a great many years, but as I'm getting a little old for that, I thought I had better go on the stage."

In marked contrast to the young girl who wishes to study Juliet at her first lesson was a lady whom Mr Foss could not induce to speak at all. He thought, at the preliminary interview, that she was extremely shy, but when she came for a lesson he was quite unable to make her say more than a word at a time of the simple little speech she had been asked to learn, and she insisted on taking a course of six lessons. Mr Foss, who is a brother of Mr Charles Fulton, started his theatrical career in 1881. He was one of the founders of the now extinct Society of Dramatic Students, stage-managing most of the productions of that clever little group of young players. He has also done good work for the Browning Society, and was associated with Mr Ben Greet's Academy of Acting before he joined Mr Neville.

Apropos of aspirants for the stage, Mr George Grossmith, who is good nature itself, once consented to give his candid advice to a lady who was a complete stranger to him, and very anxious to enter the profession. She called at his house, and he found her—to put it mildly—as unprepossessing as it is possible for a lady to be. At the end of her song she looked severely at "Gee Gee," and waited for his verdict. "I don't wish to discourage you," he began, kindly, "but I am afraid your voice is hardly adapted—perhaps in a character part you might——" "Character part!" exclaimed the lady, indignantly; "what do you mean by that? Can't you see I'm an 'ongénue'?"

MR. H. A. JONES ON ART.

Mr HENRY ARTHUR JONES took the chair at the House Dinner of the Authors' Club on Monday night, when Mr E. A. Abbey, R.A., was the principal guest.

In proposing the health of Mr Abbey, Mr JONES said:—Gentlemen, I haven't the least notion why I am thus honoured on this occasion. I cannot lay claim to any practical knowledge of his art. Such poor drawing powers as I possess have been employed in quite another direction, and in another sense. For twenty-five years I have vainly spoken to the English playgoing public on the drama; I have vainly tried to enforce one or two of the plainest, simplest truths, without, so far as I can judge, the least result. Having been entirely unsuccessful in speaking upon an art that I do know something about, I trust that, by the simple operation of the law of human cussedness and irrationality, I may meet with unbounded success in speaking upon an art about which I know nothing.

I will yield to none of you in my admiration of the distinguished painter whom we have assembled to honour to-night. Mr Abbey has many older friends than I, many who are better qualified to speak of his personal gifts and charm; but I am sure they would all bear witness, as I do, to his being a companionable man, a staunch comrade, a jolly good fellow. I am sure this warm humanity, this active comradeship, this good-fellowship, is an almost necessary basis of character for a great artist. I like to think of all the great Italian painters popping into their pictures all the other great artists around them, their personal friends, without the least notion that such a thing as jealousy could ever creep into this best of all possible worlds. I often wish some such solidarity existed amongst us in the dramatic world. It does, to some extent. I have lately seen sketches of myself in the daily papers done by two leading actor-managers—sketches in words, I mean—I will say nothing of them, except that I rejoice to find that the art of caricature is not extinct among us. Well, our guest of to-night lives in a serener world than ours of the theatre, and I am sure every one of his brother artists would claim for him that he is a good clubbable fellow, and they would all join with us in drinking his health on that count alone.

Now I pass on to speak about his art. Perhaps the only excuse I have for standing here to-night is contained in that fine old saying, "There is but one art!" An artist can make no greater mistake than to try to force one art to do the work of another; for instance, a novelist to attempt to express in a description of landscape what only a painter can rightly express, or a dramatist to try to give that minute and realistic portraiture of everyday life which only a novelist can render successfully. But there is a sense in which the various arts are but streamlets and currents of the self-same creative energy, which, according to its outlet, frosts our window panes with fairy forests these winter mornings, or blazes in Turner's sunsets, or leaps into the strangely beautiful discordant harmonies of the chorus in Samson Agonistes. "There is but one art."

I may, perhaps, then try to cover my ignorance of the painter's art by some illustrations fetched from a sister art. And, first of all, I cannot go wrong if I apply to our guest of to-night an epithet which I am sure you will say is richly deserved. It is an epithet which critics sometimes apply when they wish to be disdainful, or mildly insulting. I have borne that epithet myself for some years past, and to-night I find a convenient chance of ridding myself of it. I am going to pass it on to you, my dear Mr Abbey. I am going to call you—I hope you won't mind it, I hope you won't attempt to deny it—I am going to call you "prolific." There is an obstetrical twang about it. It conjures up a punctual British matron, with her attendant monthly nurse. But it has other associations. There is scarcely a great name in painting or literature that may not be labelled 'prolific." And I may surely fix it upon our guest to-night. I suppose most of us remember his delightful work in black and white, contributed to the American magazines. That alone was a very considerable artistic achievement. He next impressed us with his bold painting of Shakespearian scenes, notably the Richard the Third. We are all familiar with illustrations to Shakespeare, both in canvas and on the boards—improvements, the artists sometimes call them. In nothing is Shakespeare's hardy greatness shown more than in the fact that he has managed to survive his illustrators. Sometimes he survives his exponents on the boards. If anyone wishes to estimate Mr Abbey's greatness as an illustrator of Shakespeare, let him go to the British Museum and see the collection of illustrations to Boydell's Shakespeare. That was at the end of the eighteenth century. Great sins are constantly committed in Shakespeare's name, but, even in the long gallery of crime done for Shakespeare's sake, it would be hard to beat Boydell's collection of indiarubber monstrosities. Enormous sums were expended on getting the best artists to illustrate our national bard. Let those illustrations be brought out and compared with Mr Abbey's Shakespearian pictures, and it will be recognised that, in our guest of to-night, we have a truthful, searching, and, I may say, an inspired illustrator of Shakespeare.

The same qualities of careful and painstaking archæology, and the higher qualities of splendid colouring, and of great, complete, and satisfying design, are also shown in Mr Abbey's picture of the City Companies, which is carefully hidden under a bushel, in a dark corner of the Royal Exchange. It is noticeable that when we do get a fine picture, or fine work of art, we are apt to make it an object-lesson for showing our immeasurable British contempt of all art whatever. But even muffled in the foggy seclusion of the Royal Exchange, the picture throws out its bright influence on the surrounding gloom, and tends to cheer the half-dozen or so dispirited loiterers who wander aimlessly and listlessly round the building. I do not know what purpose the Royal Exchange serves. It makes the worst picture gallery I have ever entered. I inquired what it was, and why it was. I was told that it was built to be a meeting-place of merchants. Gentlemen, if those depressed loafers who wander round the Royal Exchange are present-day British merchants, no measure of fiscal reform will save this country from financial ruin. With very great respect I venture to suggest to our City fathers that they should put the Royal Exchange to some useful purpose, that they should see it no longer made a loafing place for depressed British merchants and a grave for British art. I very humbly propose that they should put the valuable site up to auction, and hand over the proceeds to a committee for the endowment of a national English drama.

I hope our City fathers will take note of my modest suggestion, and that it will be acceptable to them. Meantime, if any one of you chance to have business Citywards, spare a few minutes to go into the Royal Exchange and look at Mr Abbey's picture of the two City companies making up their feuds. It shows a great colourist, a great designer, a great composer. And these qualities are even still more apparent in Mr Abbey's most recent picture of the Coronation. I suppose it would be impossible to put a painter to a more embarrassing and difficult task than the stupendous one which Mr Abbey has just finished. It was a task that demanded in its executant many accomplishments besides those of a painter—tact, patience, resource, social charm, and adroitness. During the reign of our late Queen it was said with some brutality, and also, it must be owned, with some truth, that Charles I. was the only English sovereign who ever knew or cared anything about art. I think something recently has been done to correct that opinion and to remove that reproach.

If anyone wishes to discover how finely Mr Abbey has executed a most difficult commission, I will again ask that a comparison be made. Let his gorgeous and glowing canvas of the King's Coronation be placed alongside the paintings of state ceremonies executed during the reign of our late gracious Queen. Perhaps you can recall the series of paintings that serves at once to commemorate and to render grotesque the state events of the great Victorian era. On recalling these series you will, I am sure, agree with me that Mr Abbey has emerged triumphantly from one of the severest ordeals that a modern painter could submit himself to. You will see how strenuously and how successfully he has grappled with a giant labour. You will applaud the taste that selected so fine a painter to portray so memorable an event, and you will own that we have made some advance towards that ideal future, when the greatest artists of England will be employed in perpetuating the memory of the greatest national events, and when the most powerful patronage in the realm will be naturally bestowed upon our greatest artists, to the honour alike of the giver and the receiver.

Gentlemen, a friend of mine congratulated me yesterday on being called upon to speak about painting, because, as he ingeniously and ingenuously put it, at any rate, it would stop me for the time from speaking about the drama. He was a bad judge of character. I have already shown some tendency to drag in Charles the First, and I now perceive a chance of putting that deceased gentleman to some further use. A recent critic of the drama has, with a zeal almost equal to my own, called upon those in high places to rescue the English drama from its present degradation. It can no longer be truthfully urged that Charles the First was the only English monarch who has understood and patronised English painting. Perhaps, before long, it may also be claimed that a great and growing force of taste and authority is gathering round the efforts of some of us to place our national drama upon a footing of security as an art amongst its sister arts, to obtain some recognition for it as a thing apart from mere empty amusement.

Gentlemen, I have spoken of such of Mr Abbey's works, and of such aspects of them, as came most readily to my mind.

You scarcely expected me to use the jargon of art schools in toasting our guest to-night. I don't understand that jargon, and I have none of it at the tip of my tongue. I have spoken as an outsider, and a member of the public, and I am conscious how sadly I have failed to do justice to my theme. There is so much of Mr Abbey's work that I ought to have remembered and praised. You will supply my deficiences from your own memory. You will all call to mind his many fine pictures shown at Burlington House during the last twenty years. One picture I would like you to dwell upon as you drink this toast—the picture of the Crusaders. I will call it a great and memorable picture. The face of the youngest of the Crusaders was lighted with a sacred fire, a deathless hope. "There is but one art." Let the young Crusader's face stand to-night for a symbol of reaching after that never-to-be-attained ideal, a symbol of the sacred fire, the deathless hope, that burn unquenchably in every true artist.

Gentlemen, I ask you to drink to our guest of to-night, fine draughtsman, splendid colourist, superb designer, prolific artist, and withal jolly good fellow.

FUNERAL OF MISS ADA NEILSON.

The funeral of Miss Ada Neilson, the wife of Mr Allen Thomas, took place on Monday morning. The deceased lady, who was a sister of Lady Macfarren, was buried in Sir George Macfarren's vault at Fortune-green, West Hampstead. We gave in our last issue a detailed account of the deceased's successful career as an actress. The principal mourners were Mr Allen Thomas (the husband), Miss Naomi Neilson (eldest daughter), Miss Davis (representing Lady Macfarren), Miss Emmie Price, Madame Paul Cinquevalli, Mr George Laing, Mr Brandon Thomas, Mr Charles Price, and Mr and Mrs Brandon. Floral tokens of regard and affection were received from the following:—Lady Macfarren; Madame Cinquevalli, wreath; Mr and Mrs Don Stewart, wreath; management and principals of Aladdin company, Ealing Theatre, cross; Mr Cecil Rose, wreath; Miss Dorothy Thomas, wreath; Miss Phyllis Thomas, wreath; Mr and Mrs Charles Lander, anchor; Miss Emily Levettez, wreath; Mr Thomas and family, Middlesbrough, wreath; Charles Price and family, Birmingham, wreath; Mr George and Miss Sophie Laing, Edinburgh, wreath; Mrs and Miss Devonport, flowers; and Mr Brandon Thomas, wreath.
